ALREADY 12,000 poor Homeless and Starving Men have been gathered from the streets in the dead of night, Sheltered, Fed, and otherwise assisted, with most gratifying results.

This season has commenced with more than usual severity. Hundreds of poor men have been gathered in, and their need supplied, while scores have been turned away, for want of room, in the most destitute condition.

The continuance of this much-needed work must depend upon the liberality of those having the means to support it. Contributions will be gratefully received by the SECRETARY; or Treasurer, F. A. BEVAN, Esq., 54, Lombard-street, E.C.; or by the EDITORS OF "THE CHRISTIAN."

JAMES ATKINSON, Secretary.
28, Enfield Road, Kingsland, N.

DOCK LABOURERS' MISSION.

32, CHAMBER STREET, LONDON DOCKS, E.

DURING the past two weeks at our Free Teas the crowds of unemployed men have been so great and so hungry, we have been compelled to re-fill our Mission Hall three times in one evening. Help is much needed. C. H. COLEMAN.

FOGS!

AND DAMP AIR PRODUCE

Catarrh, Coughs, Hoarseness.

The FINEST REMEDY for

COLDS, COUGHS, ETC.,

IS

CONGREVE'S

BALSAMIC ELIXIR

In Bottles, 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d.

Prepared by G. T. CONGREVE, Coombe Lodge, Peckham.

SOLD BY ALL MEDICINE HOUSES.

"MR. G. T. CONGREVE on CONSUMPTION

AND ITS SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT.
Showing that direful disease to be curable in all its stages; with observations on

ASTHMA, CHRONIC BRONCHITIS, ETC."

SIXPENCE (Post Free), or Large Edition (cloth), 1s. 3d., from the Author, Coombe Lodge, Peckham, S.E., and Elliot Stock, 62, Paternoster-row, E.C.

ALSO JUST OUT, and will be sent free to any address on receipt of one stamp for postage,

APPENDIX

TO

MR. GEORGE THOMAS CONGREVE'S WORK on CONSUMPTION,

CONTAINING

226 MOST INTERESTING AND AUTHENTIC CASES

That have appeared in the Weekly Journals and Monthly Magazines from 1881 to the present time, with

NOTES APPENDED TO MANY SHOWING THE
PERMANENCE of CURE.

 The TWO BOOKS ("ON CONSUMPTION" and the "APPENDIX"), handsomely bound in one, may be had direct from Mr. Congreve, post free, for 1s.

The Twenty-Fourth Series of Weekly Cases is now publishing.

NOTICE TO THE READERS OF "THE CHRISTIAN"
WHO MAY BE PERSONALLY OR RELATIVELY
INTERESTED in THIS MATTER.

Mr. Congreve will give ONE RECENT CASE, NOT PUBLISHED in this journal BEFORE, EVERY WEEK.

CASE FOR THIS WEEK.

BRONCHITIS of LONG STANDING and LEFT LUNG DISEASED.—Mr. DAVIES, of MENAI BRIDGE.

It is nearly two years since Mr. John Davies, of Rose Hill, Menai Bridge, Anglesea, applied to me for advice and medicine. He was recommended by Mrs. Morris, mother of the young lady whose case appears (No. 29) in the Appendix of my book recently published, and who was restored to health under my treatment about three years before.

The patient had got wet about a year and a half before writing me. Cough and expectoration after some time ended in bronchitis. Loss of flesh all over the body, gradually followed with much weakness. The medical report at this time was, "Bronchitis, liver affected, and left lung diseased."

Correspondence continued to the end of the year. After a month he says: "I am thankful to the Almighty for your valuable treatment. I am gaining flesh and strength." Letters in July, August, September, and in November, 1887, testify to continued improvement.

Writing me in October, 1887, on behalf of a poor man, he says: "I want him to take your Balsam, &c., it did me so much good; in fact, I am a new man."

NOTE. — Days of Consultation. — TUESDAY, THURSDAY, and SATURDAY Mornings ONLY, at Coombe Lodge, Peckham. Patients from any long distance should choose either of the two former days. Everyone is expected to have seen the book first.

Temperance Wines

MASON'S WINE ESSENCES

WILL PRODUCE IN A FEW MINUTES A DELICIOUS WINE OR CORDIAL. GINGER, ORANGE, RASPBERRY, BLACK CURRANT, CHERRY, &C.

WHOLESOME. ECONOMICAL.

Send 9 Stamps for Sample.
NEWBALL & MASON, Nottingham. Agents wanted.

Fry's Cocoa

·Pure· ·Concentrated· ·Cocoa·

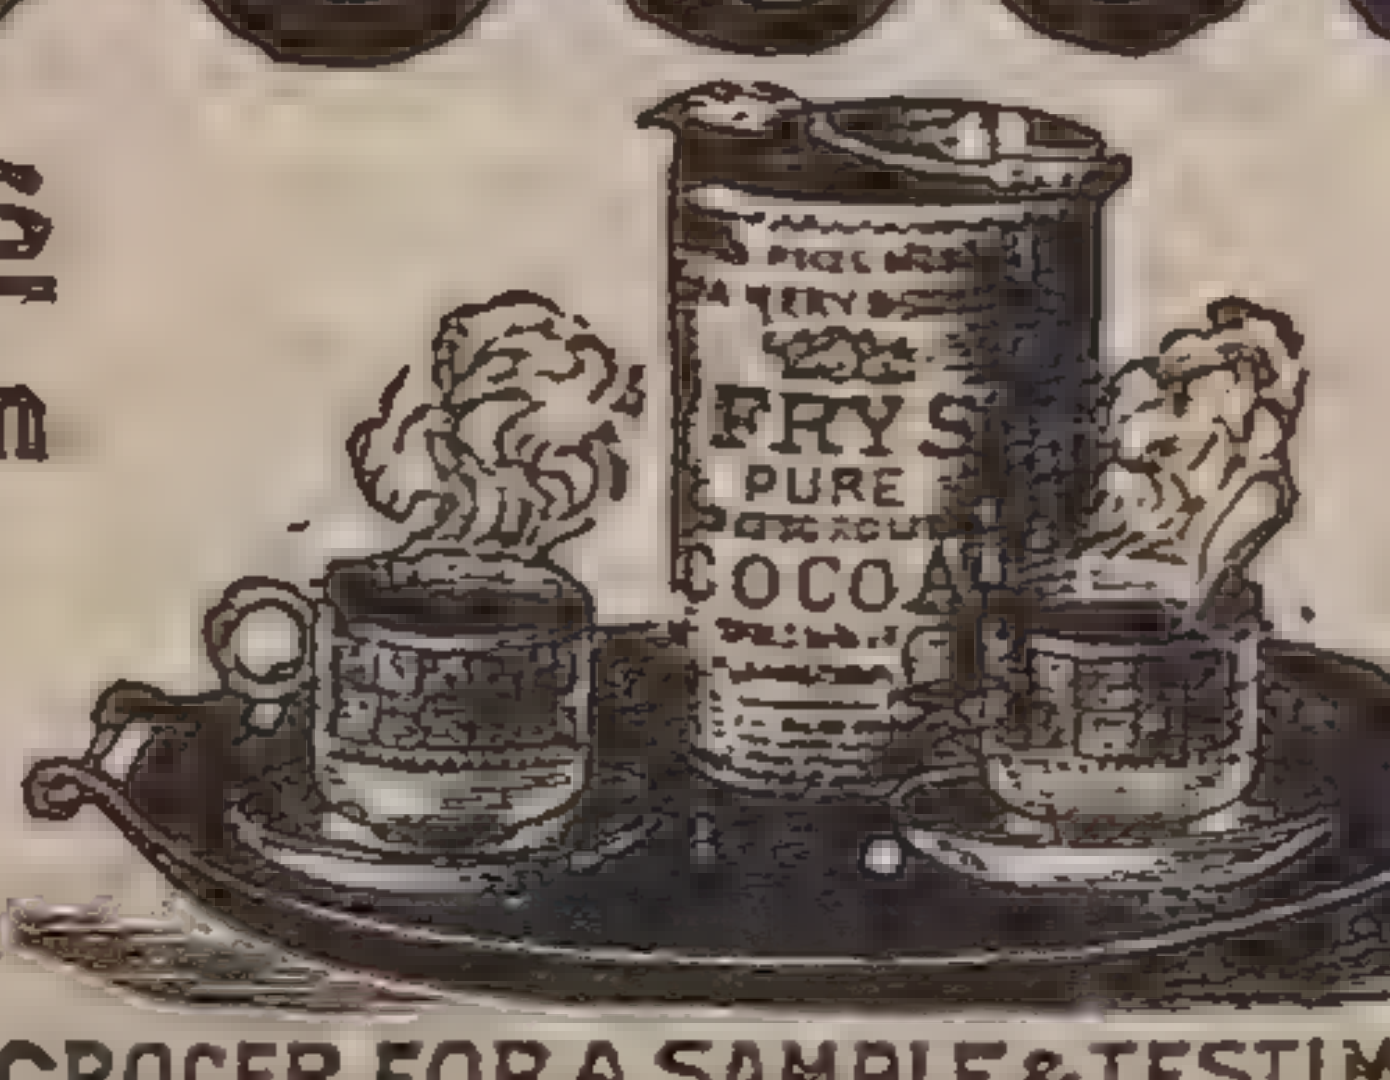
33 PRIZE MEDALS
awarded to the Firm



ASK YOUR GROCER FOR A SAMPLE & TESTIMONIALS

J. S. FRY & SONS, BRISTOL, LONDON, and SYDNEY, N.S.W.,
Makers to the Queen and Prince of Wales.

(Continued from page 11.)

To Let, Apartments, &c.

PERCY'S HOTEL, LONDON.

40, Bedford-place, Bloomsbury-sq., W.C.

First-class Private, highly recommended by the Bishop of Algoma; Rev. M. E. Thorold, M.A., Leicester; Dr. Georgens, Ouchy, Lausanne; J. Bevan and Mrs. Braithwaite, 312, Camden-road, and many others. Terms very moderate. Tariff on application.—Mrs. LLOYD HARRIS, Proprietress.

LONDON.

WEST CENTRAL HOTEL.

(First-class Temperance), 97, 99, 101, 103, Southampton-row, Russell-square.—Highly commended by Rev. Charles Williams; Rev. John Cairns, D.D.; Rev. A. B. Grosart, D.D.; Rev. H. S. Paterson, M.D.; Rev. and Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness, F.R.G.S.; T. W. Russell, Esq., M.P.; Dr. Norman Kerr; Frederick Sherlock, Esq.; Dr. Ziemann. Plain Breakfast or Tea 1s. 3d. Beds, 1s. 6d. to 2s. 6d. A very comfortable winter residence. Printed Tariff on application to FREDERIC SMITH, Proprietor.

HENDERSON'S HOTEL, LONDON,

20, Bedford-place, Russell-sq., W.C.

This first-class Private Hotel is highly recommended by readers of THE CHRISTIAN from all parts of the world. Weekly boarders from £2 2s. Beds from 1s. 6d. Tariff on application.—Mrs. GRACE PERCY HENDERSON, Proprietress. Late of 40, Bedford-place.

ST. LEONARD'S-ON-SEA.—Boarding Establishment, Meliora House, 20 and 21, Carisbrooke-road. Conducted by the Widow of the late Rev. F. WAGSTAFFE, and Mrs. LOCKE. Good table. Home comforts. Terms moderate. Near sea, gardens, and rail.

WESTON HALL,

(En Pension), BOURNEMOUTH.

Conducted by Mr. and Mrs. RATCLIFFE.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Furnished House, containing two reception-rooms, five bedrooms, box-room, kitchen, &c., £2 5s. per week. Or two furnished rooms, without attendance, 10s. per week; with attendance, £1 per week.
Maxwell Villa, Westbourne, Bournemouth.

HEALTH RESORT FOR CHRISTIANS. Comfortable winter Home, near Stroud. Dry and sheltered. South aspect. Baths if required. Terms very moderate.—S. PYALL DIPROSE, Pitchcombe View, Stroud, Gloucester.

BRIGHTON.—Sussex House Boarding Establishment, pleasantly situated in the Old Steine, having a sea view, and the beautiful Steine Gardens in front. Near to Pavilion, Aquarium, and piers. Special terms for winter months.
Mr. & Mrs. BOX, 58, Old Steine.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Furnished Apartments. Central, sheltered position. South aspect. Near pier and gardens. Hot and cold water baths. Terms moderate.
Mrs. MOON, Ootacamund, St. Peter's-road.

ABODE OF FAITH, established 1876, to receive erring ones of gentle birth who cannot remain at home.—Letters confidential.
Mrs. DALBY, 21, Norfolk-road, St. John's Wood.
Luke xix. 10.

HIGHBURY.—Board and Residence for Christian City Gentleman. Terms moderate.—Mrs. LIEBSTEIN, 40, Highbury-hill.

ST. LEONARDS.—88, Warrior-square.—Winter Residence. Superior boarding establishment. South-west aspect. Good cuisine. Bath-room, and every home comfort. Tennis. Terms moderate and inclusive.

INTEMPERANCE.—Private Home for six Ladies. Terms from 1½ to 3 guineas weekly. Highest professional references given, for which, with other particulars, apply to Miss PUDNEY, Buxton House, Earls Colne, Essex.

A LADY having a small but well-furnished house, a mile from Ashbourne, and near to Dove-dale, wishes to meet with a companionable Christian Lady to Board with her. References to the Rev. C. Warren, Ashbourne.
E. C. T., The Cottage, Mayfield-road, Ashbourne.

HASTINGS.—BOARD AND RESIDENCE in a Christian family. Liberal table. Home comforts. Use of piano and drawing-room. Three minutes from sea and rail.
Mrs. COMPTON, 22, Cambridge-gardens, Hastings.

HASTINGS.—Boarding Establishment, Sunnyside, Cornwallis-gardens.—Pleasantly situated. Central position. Thoroughly comfortable, and well recommended as winter residence. Hall and staircases heated. Smoking-room. Liberal table.—Proprietress, Mrs. BUTTERWORTH.

BRIGHTON.—Board and Residence in a quiet, comfortable Home, where a few are received. Terms moderate and inclusive. Established 12 years.
A. G., Shaftesbury Lodge, 10, Powis-square.

BRIGHTON.—A few Boarders received in a Lady's private house, close to West Pier. Liberal table. Terms 25s. to £2 2s. References to clergymen and others.
13, Montpelier-road.

A VERY COMFORTABLE HOME is offered to a Lady, in a Christian family, and abstainers. (No children.) Board and lodging £1 1s. per week. No extras. Separate rooms if greatly preferred. An earnest Evangelical clergyman, with plenty of opportunities to help in parish work. References exchanged.—Apply by letter to X. Y. Z., care of Mr. Kay, Stationer, Harrow, Middlesex.

BOURNEMOUTH.—First-class Boarding House, beautifully and conveniently situated. Close to, and facing the sea; every room commanding charming sea views. Full south. Good table.—Ben Wyvis, West Cliff.

HACKNEY DOWNS.—Home, with every comfort and kindness, offered to one or two Youths engaged in City life. Three minutes' from Hackney Downs Station.
B., 46, Bodney-road, Hackney Downs, London.

STREATHAM HILL.—Bed-room and sitting-room furnished. Lady or Gentleman engaged in City during the day preferred. Bath, hot and cold. Easy access of train, tram, and 'bus.
Z., Rosslyn, Tierney-road, Streatham-hill, S.W.

WORTHING HOME OF REST for Christians. Close to, but not facing sea. Every comfort. Terms 25s. to 2 guineas.—LADY SUPERINTENDENT, Rutherford Lodge, Worthing.

SOUTHSEA.—Comfortable Boarding House, conducted upon Christian principles. Reduced terms to end of July. References to clergymen.—Creskeld, Nightingale-road.

LAUSANNE.—The President, Continental division Y.W.C.A., desires to recommend most highly the Pension de Famille, 7, rue Beau Séjour, of Madame HENRIQUET, widow of a devoted French Pastor. It commands fine view of Lake and Alps. Five to seven francs a day. Mlle. HENRIQUET gives lessons in French and singing when desired. Baths (hot and cold).

COMFORTABLE HOME FOR LADY BOARDERS and young Ladies pursuing their studies at High School. Best references.
L., 32, Lansdowne-street, Brighton.

MILDMAY.—APARTMENTS.—Comfort studied. Terms moderate. Train to City, 15 minutes. West-end 'buses pass door.
Mrs. EMERSON, 122, Newington Green-road, N.

COUNTRY CHRISTIAN HOME, with every comfort, as one of the family, for Lady or Gentleman, at a superior farm residence, in healthy neighbourhood in North Hants. Phaeton, shooting, fishing.
M. G., 20, Trafalgar-road, Old Kent-road, London.

FRIENDLY HOME, with board, offered to a Lady or two Sisters. County town; few miles from sea. Terms extremely moderate. References exchanged.
ETA, Mr. W. Harris, College House, North Dulwich.

COMFORTABLE, QUIET HOME offered, two or three Ladies (or Lady and Gentleman), by two others, in pleasant, private house; situated in healthiest part of Tunbridge Wells, near churches, common, &c. Bath room. References exchanged.—Z., Advertiser Office, Tunbridge Wells.

CHRISTIAN TRAINING HOME FOR GOVERNESSES, to spread Evangelical Scriptural Truth, with sound improved secular knowledge. Terms nominal. Aged 15 to 25. Situations provided. Kind, healthy home.—DIRECTRESS, 74, Marquess-road, Canonbury, London, N.

LARGE, PLEASANT FRONT BED-SITTING-ROOM, semi-basement, private House of Lady, Addison-road, with attendance, 10s. to 12s. weekly; with partial board, 15s.
L., 141, Clarendon-road, Notting-hill, W.

COMFORTABLE AND REFINED HOME for Ladies of moderate means in neighbourhood of Fulham.—Miss D., care of Mrs. Ormiston Chant, 13, Canfield-gardens, South Hampstead, N.W.

A LADY has accommodation in her quiet house for a Youth leaving home, as Boarder, or partial, as required. Moderate terms. Highly recommended.
M. E. H., 25, Reedworth-st., Kennington-rd., S.E.

A LADY in reduced circumstances wishes to find a Home in a quiet family, in or near London. Terms moderate and inclusive.
B. A., 53, Queen's-road, Watford, Herts.

TO LET, very low rent, till end of April, pretty Cottage; garden. Two servants. Pony carriage. Fine air, pretty country. Near Sandhurst and Wellington.
Mrs. BECHER, Yateley, Farnboro', Hants.

COMFORTABLE HOME for two or three Ladies. Instruction if desired. Not far from Kensington. Country walks.
M., care of Mr. B. Seeley, Essex-street, Strand.

COMFORTABLE CHRISTIAN HOME offered to two or three Ladies, for permanence, or a shorter period. Charmingly situated at Eastbourne. Terms moderate.
M. P., St. John's Rehoboth, Selwyn-road, Upperton.

SEMI-DETACHED VILLA to Let, furnished, for the summer months. £2 2s. per week.—M., Muriel Villa, St. Mary's-crescent, Leamington Spa.

SUPERIOR APARTMENTS.—Newly furnished Drawing-room, with one or two Bedrooms, may be had at 123, Kennington-road, London, S.E.

Miscellaneous.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS.—A Christian will gladly correspond with any earnest seeker after Divine truth.—EVANGELIST, Clapham, S.W.
Heb. vii. 25.

QUALIFIED ACCOUNTANT AND AUDITOR.—Miss M. HARRIS SMITH, many years' experience, undertakes preparation of financial statements, balance-sheets, audits, &c., of societies, companies, and institutions.
33, Furnival-street, W.C.

100 PACKETS OF FLOWER SEEDS FOR 1s.!—Probably the most extraordinary value ever offered. Each packet different, named, and newly saved, from choice outdoor kinds. Post free 1s. 3d., 6 parcels (600 packets), 6s., free, without prepayment if good references are sent. Satisfaction guaranteed.
AMATEUR FLORIST, Liverpool-road, St. Albans.

MANITOBA.—The advertiser's Son, having 320 acres of first-rate land, close to railway-station, would receive a steady young man as Pupil, with a view to his purchasing part, if desired, and mutual help afterwards.
W. D. H., Bowden Derra, Launceston, Cornwall.

IRON MISSION ROOMS, &c., erected on the most reasonable terms, by R. SAUNDERS, 127, Hungerford-road, London, N. Estimates and designs free. 25 years' practical experience. Also Churches and Schools, &c. Best workmanship.

UMBRELLAS RE-COVERED FROM 2S. EACH.

IF YOUR UMBRELLA WANTS RE-COVERING send it by Parcels Post (with Postal Order enclosed) to STRONG BROS., Umbrella Makers, Redhill, Surrey, who will re-cover it and return it as good as new by next post, carriage paid. Good strong twill, ladies', 2s., gents', 2s. 6d.; good alpaca, ladies', 3s., gents', 3s. 6d.; strong durable silk, ladies', 4s. 6d., gents', 5s. Patterns post free. Reference kindly permitted to the Rev. W. J. Fowell, Redhill.
☞ A sample New Umbrella at wholesale price. List free.

ASTHMA.—Persons suffering from Asthma, Difficulty of Breathing, &c., are invited to try (free of charge) a remedy for affording immediate relief.—C., Mr. G. A. KEYWORTH, Hastings.

COLONIES.—Immediate Openings for Pupils on good stock and grain farms, and larger estates in Canada, the United States, and Tasmania. Premium from £50. Pamphlet free.—FORD, RATHBONE & CO., 21, Finsbury-pavement, London.

BYWATER, TANQUERAY & CO., 79, Queen Victoria-street, London (late BYWATER, PERRY & CO.), are Agents for Residents abroad, Missionaries, Chaplains, &c., in every part of the world. Goods and Outfits supplied at Wholesale prices. Shipping and passages arranged. Banking in all its branches. Full descriptive Catalogue post free. Specially appointed Agents to seven of the leading English and American Missionary Societies. 2000 References.

ELEGANT COUNTERPANE, Turkey Twill and White Calico. Coloured Illustration, model, and instructions, 9 stamps. Charming Cretonne Summer Counterpane, model and instructions, 9 stamps.—CLIFFORD, Newport, Mon.

AMERICAN ORGAN. Neat walnut case. Seven stops. Three sets of reeds. Two couplers. Humana, knee swells, &c. Price only £12.—G. E. IRONS, Matthias-road, Stoke Newington Green, N.

IF YOU WISH to help a poor tradesman, give him one of our Registered Mitre Machines, for making Picture Frames. Price 13s., carriage paid to any address in the Kingdom.
Makers, BOOTH BROTHERS, Dublin.

One Shilling, post free.

CANCER and Simple Tumours dispersed by Electricity. By G. EDGELOW, M.D.
H. RENSHAW, 356, Strand, W.C.

The 'CLERGYMAN'S'

10/6 BOX OF PURE 10/6

GARDEN SEEDS.

Containing 50 Packets of the best Seeds for a supply of Vegetables all the year round. The cheapest ever offered. Sent carriage free on receipt of P.O.O.

OAKSHOTT & MILLARD, READING

Seedsmen to the Queen.

READY EARLY IN APRIL.

THE COMPREHENSIVE TEACHERS' BIBLE.

With Entirely New Aids and New Concordance on an Improved Plan.

"It would be difficult to suggest a more comprehensive and compact mass of information. . . . Nothing short of an exhaustive apparatus criticus is placed in the hand of the instructor."—Bookseller.

This Book will contain, in addition to the NEW HELPS and CONCORDANCE, the COMPLETE BAGSTER BIBLE, and an INDEXED ATLAS.

SAMUEL BAGSTER & SONS, LIMITED, 15, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

DAINTREE & CO.,

DYERS, LONDON.

The LARGEST WORKS IN LONDON for Dyeing and Cleaning in every Branch.
98, Mount-street, Grosvenor-square, W.; 365, Southwark-park-road, S.E.; 44, Leicester-square, W.C.

Carts Collect and Deliver to all parts.—PRICE LISTS BY POST.

A CLERGYMAN would be glad to meet with a spiritually minded Clerical, or Lay Helper, who would give him some help, especially on Sunday evening. Hospitality offered.
VICAR, Chilworth, Romsey.

ENGINEERING PARTNERSHIP.—Wanted, a Gentleman with from £2,000 to £5,000 capital, to join others in taking over and working an established business, as above, in the Midland Counties.—R., 632, Engineer Office, 163, Strand, W.C.

FOR SALE, Hand-painted Slides, by Newton, on Tabernacle in the Wilderness. Photographic Slides on Sinai and Red Sea. Readings. Adjusting stand for Lanterns.
Rev. T. BRAUND, Thuboro', Holsworthy, Devon.

A SMALL BAPTIST CHURCH, in growing suburb, ten miles from London, whose members can only raise £70 per year, £45 of which is required for expenses and interest, is anxious to meet with a Pastor who could take oversight of the work.—W., care of Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street, E.C.

A NURSE CHILD can be taken from the birth if required, by a Christian mother. References exchanged.
Mrs. RUGGLES, 41, Burdett-road, Bow.

LADIES INTERESTED IN FANCY WORK, especially those wishing to make money thereby, should send for Dorinda's book, "Needlework for Ladies, for Pleasure and Profit." New Edition, 194 pages, price 1s. 2d., post free. Contains an enormous amount of information, ample instructions for every variety of work, innumerable receipts and directions, novel ideas, and practical suggestions.—Ringrose, Malvern Link.

MASSAGE.—Treatment by an experienced Physician, recommended by eminent London doctors.—A Lady, who has greatly benefited by the above Treatment, and desires to continue it, wishes to meet with two or three other Ladies, who will share with her the expenses and benefits of a thoroughly cheerful Home in a most healthy part of Brighton, where they will receive the kindest attention, and the requisite rest, "without isolation."—For full particulars, apply to Miss F. RAVENSCROFT, 33, Eaton-place, Kemp Town, Brighton.

NEAVE'S

FOR INFANTS,
INVALIDS,
AND THE AGED.

FOOD.

Publications.

THE NEAR RETURN of the Lord Jesus Christ. By CHEYNE BRADY. 17th thousand. Price One Penny.
S. W. PARTRIDGE & Co., 9, Paternoster-row, E.C.

FIFTY ANSWERS TO INFIDEL OBJECTIONS.—By W. R. BRADLAUGH. Price Sixpence. Post free, 7½d. London: JOHN SNOW & Co., 2, Ivy-lane, Paternoster-row, E.C.

60, All Different, 1d. and ½d. Leaflets; 25, 4d.

THE "MOUNTAINS OF BREAD" series of little Books and Leaflets, by the late Georgina Thompson, are copyright. Profits for poor and suffering Christians are still supplied by addressing, Miss A. THOMPSON, care of Dr. Cranage, Old Hall, Wellington, Salop.

ELECTRO-HOMŒOPATHY.—"Diseases, whether Simple or Chronic, and How to Treat Them." Containing Treatment for Cancer. By D. APPERLY. Post free, 7s. 6d.
D. APPERLY & Co., Cheltenham, Gloucestershire.

New Booklets in Colours & Tint.

Price One Shilling.

UNTOLD MERCIES. By CECILIA HAVERGAL and others.
CROWNING BLESSINGS. Poems by ELEANOR GRANT.
GLORY-CROWNED. Texts and Hymns on the Resurrection.

Price Sixpence each.

GRACE AND GLORY. Texts and Hymns.
REFUGE AND STRENGTH. Texts and Hymns.
THE SHIELD OF SALVATION. Texts and Hymns.

"The prettiest, and at the same time, cheapest booklets ever brought out."—Stationery Review.

J. E. HAWKINS, 36, Baker-street, W., and 17, Paternoster-row, E.C.

Terms for Advertisements

"The Christian"

(PREPAID)

Miscellaneous Advertisements in small type are charged at the following rates:—

Not exceeding 30 Words	....	3	0
" 39 "	....	3	9
" 48 "	....	4	6

And 9d. for every additional line of nine words or under, the address being in all cases charged for.

Scale for larger advertisements sent on application.

ILLUSTRATED GOSPEL BOOKS.

SIXPENCE PER DOZEN.

"CAN YOU UNDO?" By Rev. A. A. Ramsey.

"STAND FOR SOMETHING." By Rev. A. A. Ramsey.

"SURE WE ALL KNOW THAT." By Rev. A. A. Ramsey.

"I DON'T DESERVE SUCH LOVE AS THAT."

"TAKE CARE OF THE BLOOM." By Rev. E. Herber Evans, D.D.

"SOMETHING'S GOT HOLD OF ME." By C. R. Parsons.

"HERRINGS FOR NOTHING."

THE HOLY BIBLE: What it is, and How to Read it. By Rev. J. E. Sampson.

THE GOOD FIGHT. By H. K. Wood ("A Glasgow Merchant").

"HATH," or "SHALL HAVE?" By Cheyne Brady.

BLIND ELSIE'S QUESTION."

Drummond's Tract Depot, Stirling.
London: S. W. Partridge & Co.

Now ready, Second Edition, Fcap. 8vo., cloth, 1s.

HOSPITAL PRAYER-BOOK, containing Prayers for Daily and Occasional Use; also a Short Form of Public Service for Lay-readers in Hospitals, with Remarks on conducting the same. Arranged by E. J. Waring, C.I.E., M.D., F.R.C.P. —London: J. & A. Churchill, 11, New Burlington-street.

Price 2s. 6d. per 100; post free.

Printed on Tinted Paper, suitable for enclosing in the modern square envelope.

THE DOWN GRADE ENGINE.

Reprinted from "The Christian."

This Booklet should be widely distributed at the present time.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-bldgs.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

JUST READY.

By the REV. J. A. WYLIE, LL.D.,

Author of "The History of Protestantism;" "The Papacy: its History, Dogmas, Genius, and Prospects," &c., &c.

Which Sovereign: QUEEN VICTORIA, or THE POPE?

Abridged Edition of 100,000 Copies. Price Threepence, or 2s. 8d. per Dozen.

Special Terms for Large Quantities, for Distribution, on Application.

This telling Treatise by the veteran Protestant writer, Dr. Wylie, could not have appeared more opportunely than in the present year (1888)—when we are about to commemorate the TER-CENTENARY, or the three-hundredth Anniversary, of the defeat of the attempted Invasion of our country by the Spanish Armada; and the BI-CENTENARY, or two-hundredth Anniversary, of the Accession in 1688 of the Protestant dynasty to the throne of the United Kingdom.

ALSO BY REV. J. A. WYLIE, LL.D.

THE SPANISH ARMADA: 1588.

Being an Account of the Events preceding, and a concise narrative of the Defeat of the Spanish Armada.

Reprinted from the Author's "History of Protestantism," by permission of Messrs. Cassell & Co.

32 pages, Demy 8vo. Price One Penny.

This will be found a most interesting, striking, and accurate narrative of the attempted invasion of England in 1588.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

ADDITIONAL

SACRED SONGS & SOLOS.

COMPILED AND SUNG BY

IRA D. SANKEY.

Consisting of a Choice Assortment of New Pieces, with an approved Selection of Standard Hymns.

309 HYMNS AND TUNES; IN ONE VOLUME.

This volume of "Additional Songs and Solos" will be published Separately in several editions both of Words and Music; particulars of which will be shortly announced.

The Cheapest Edition of the Words will sell at 1d.

(Nearly Ready.)

The Music will be issued both in Old Notation and in Tonic Sol-fa.

☞ The Demy 8vo. Edition in Old Notation may now be obtained at the following prices:—

TINTED COVERS	2s.
CLOTH LIMP	2s. 6d.
CLOTH BOARDS	3s.
CLOTH, BEVD. BOARDS, GILT EDGES	3s. 6d.

This Book is not intended to interfere in any way with the publication of "SACRED SONGS and SOLOS" (441 Hymns); which will be on Sale as heretofore.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

THE CHRISTIAN CHOIR.

An Attractive Quarto Volume of Music and Words.

By IRA D. SANKEY and JAMES McGRANAHAN.

May be had either in OLD NOTATION or in TONIC SOL-FA.

"It is as fine a collection of Sacred Airs as can anywhere be found. All the Hymns and the Tunes are beautiful, impressive, gracious; and the rendering of them, and the hearing them sung in private or public alike, have led many to change their whole course of life."—Oldham Chronicle.

"Of this Sacred Song Book it is scarcely needful for us to say a word. Thousands have listened and thousands have sung them, and will retain their good impressions when all the mists have rolled away."—Baptist Messenger.

Words Only—LARGE TYPE.

Price Sixpence, in Tinted Covers.
Price Ninepence, in Limp Cloth.
Price One Shilling, in Cloth Bds., gilt edges.

WORDS ONLY.

Price One Penny, Tinted Covers.
Price Twopence, in Cloth.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE LATE MR. GEORGE BREALEY.

ARROWS SHOT AT A VENTURE.

A SERIES OF NARRATIVE TRACTS.

By GEORGE BREALEY,

Author of "The Blackdown Tracts."

Price 6d. per Packet of 12 Tracts, assorted.

Each Tract consists of Sixteen Pages, tastefully printed on tinted paper. The narratives are interesting, the application concise, and there are earnest and pointed appeals to unawakened souls.

CONTENTS.

1. The Bridge of Love.
2. A Life-belt for Sinking Souls.
3. Nanny and her Burden.
4. "Mighty to Save."
5. The Shipwreck.
6. Law and Mercy.
7. Taken at his Word.
8. The Christmas Dinner.
9. "The Door is open, Donald."
10. Old Maggie's Three Texts.
11. Received or Rejected?
12. Giving and Taking.

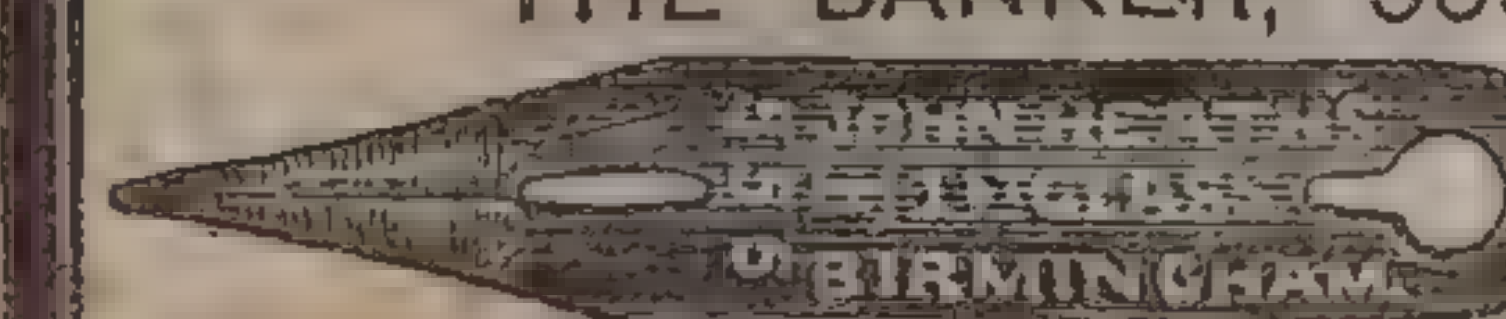
"A sixpenny packet, containing a dozen narrative Tracts of eight sorts, in which the Gospel is very clearly presented and illustrated by true incidents of a striking character. For general circulation they are capital, and are sure to be read."—Word and Work.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

John Heath's PENS

SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES.

THE BANKER, 555.



F. or M. 3/- per Gross.

A beautiful Plain-pointed Pen. In 6d. and 1/- Boxes. All Stationers. Sample Box (24 kinds with list) 7 stamps.

GRAY'S YARD RAGGED CHURCH & SCHOOLS,

JAMES STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

President—F. A. BEVAN, ESQ., 54, Lombard Street, E.C.

Funds are Urgently Needed to meet the current Expenses of this Institution. From 500 to 700 Casuals and Tramps are here supplied with Bread and Coffee every Sunday, after Gospel Services. Nearly £3 per week required for Food alone.

Contributions will be thankfully received and acknowledged by George Hanbury, Esq., Treasurer, 21, Portman-square, W.; Philip Gough, Esq., Hon. Sub-Treasurer, 33, Cambridge-street, Hyde-park, W.; or by Messrs. Morgan & Scott.

WINTER STORMS AT SEA.

Thousands of Fishermen are engaged all the year round in providing OUR TABLES with fish. These men, who FOR US hazard their lives and toil through furious blasts and sleety storm, may rightly claim some small share in the privileges we so richly enjoy. THIS THEY CAN ONLY HAVE THROUGH THE PRESENCE OF THE MISSION VESSELS, carrying to the Fishermen the message of Divine mercy and love, affording relief in sickness, and cheering dull lives by their presence.

MISSION TO DEEP-SEA FISHERMEN.

PATRON: HER MAJESTY QUEEN VICTORIA.

Treasurer and Chairman of General Council: THOMAS B. MILLER, Esq.
Chairman of Finance Committee: THOMAS GRAY, Esq., C.B.
Bankers: Messrs. LLOYDS, BARNETTS, & BOSANQUETS (Limited), Lombard Street, E.C.
Offices: BRIDGE HOUSE, BLACKFRIARS BRIDGE, LONDON, E.C.
Founder and Director: E. J. MATHER, Esq.

EIGHT MISSION SMACKS cruise in the North Sea, serving as CHURCH, DISPENSARY, TEMPERANCE HALL, and CLUB. A Fund is being raised to Build and Equip a NEW HOSPITAL MISSION VESSEL, to be called the "Queen Victoria." Her Majesty has kindly contributed £50. Who will help to conclude a work so well begun? During the year 1887, the cases of Sickness and Accident successfully treated in the Dispensary on the Mission Vessels numbered 3,902.

SHOPPING BY POST!

By making your Purchases Direct from the DARLINGTON MILLS, you are sure of getting NEW GOODS at first hand, fresh from the Looms, and effect a Saving of Intermediate Profits.

LADIES ARE INVITED TO WRITE FOR THE LARGE BOX OF SPRING PATTERNS SENT FREE

BY POST on approval, to any Address in TOWN or COUNTRY.

Darlington Dress Fabrics

NOTED DARLINGTON ZEPHYR CLOTHS.

- "The DOROTHY."
- "The IRENE."
- "The QUEEN MAB."
- "The SAN REMO."
- "The MADGE."

NOTED DARLINGTON TWEED COSTUME CLOTHS.

- "The GRAMPIAN."
- "The CALEDONIAN."
- "The VIRGINIAN."
- "EMPRESS COSTUME CLOTH."
- "SILVER WEDDING."
- "NEW SKIRTINGS."

The New SPRING WEAVINGS comprise Upwards of 1,000 VARIETIES

☞ all in the LATEST FASHION, ☜

GIVING AN UNLIMITED CHOICE!

TOGETHER WITH THE CELEBRATED

DARLINGTON CROSS-WARP SERGES

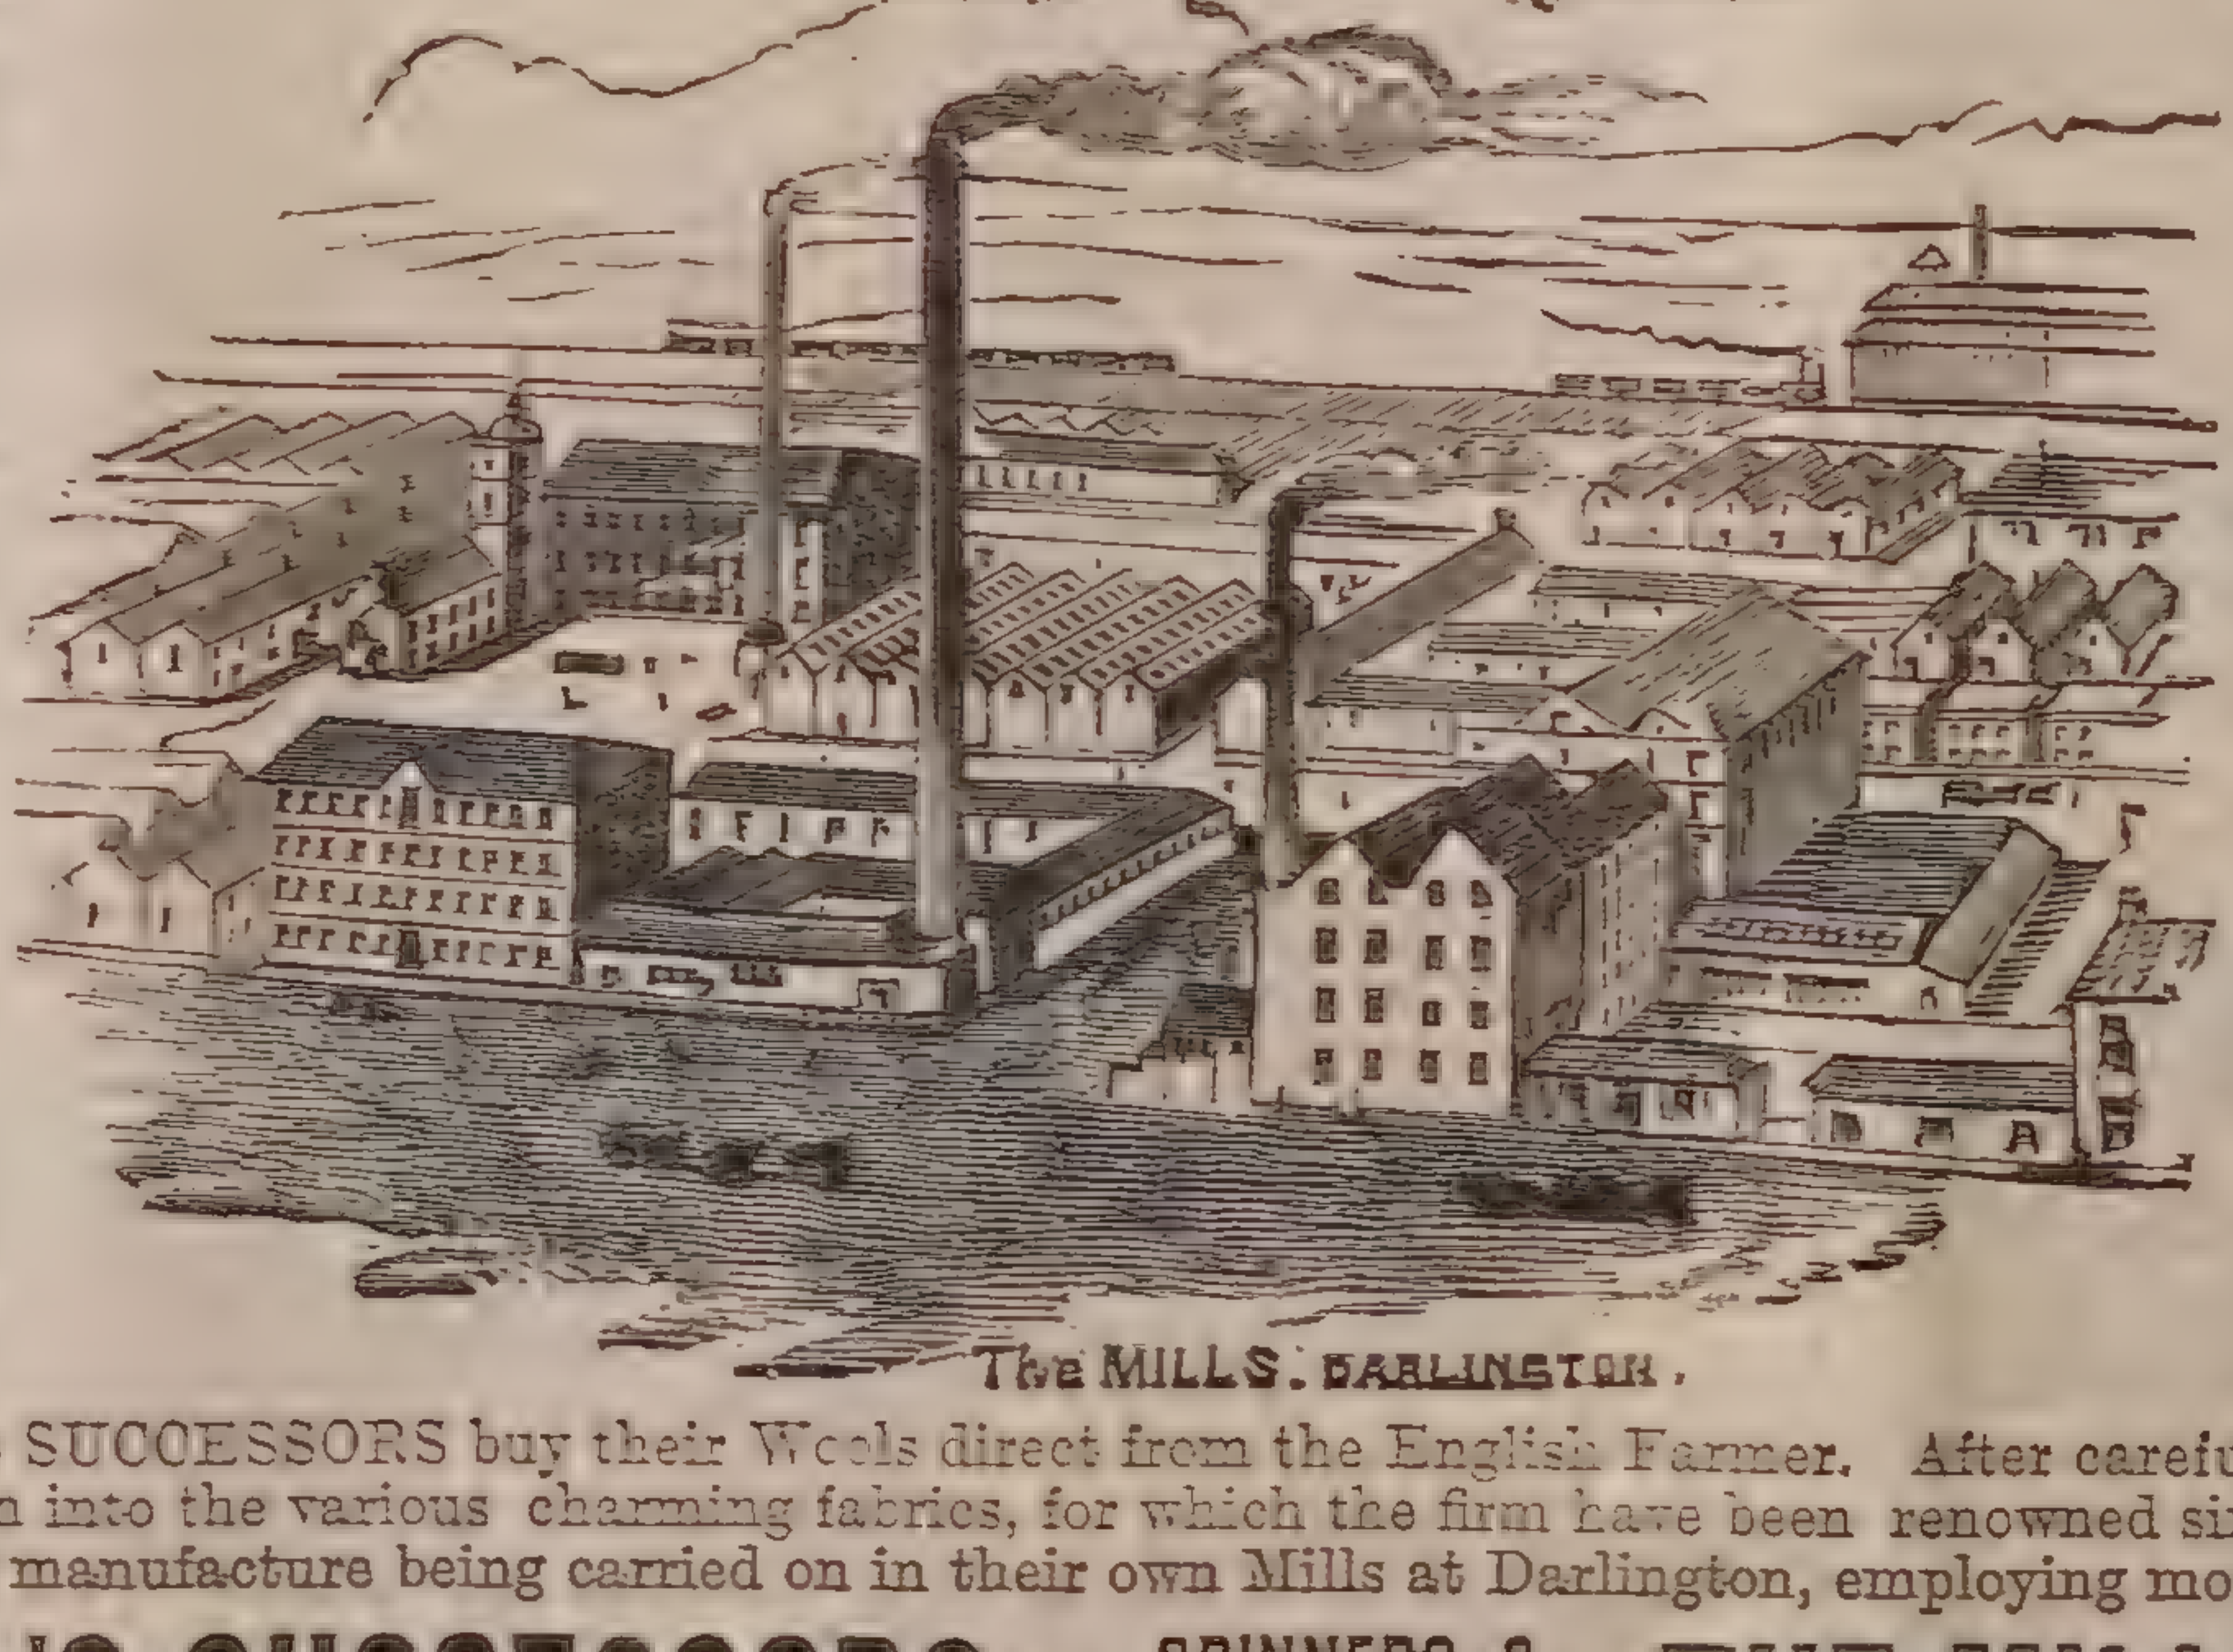
AND GOLD MEDAL MERINOES AND CASHMERES,

All Renowned for their Beautiful Appearance, Thorough Money Value, and Hard-Wearing Qualities.

These Splendid goods are SOLD DIRECT TO THE PUBLIC, Giving them the benefit of Intermediate profits.

Illustrated Catalogues of 60 Pages, post free.

All Goods are Warranted to be EQUAL to SAMPLE.



The MILLS. DARLINGTON.

ANY LENGTH CUT NO MATTER HOW SHORT!

Any Article not approved will be Changed within Seven Days.

All Parcels Delivered CARRIAGE PAID To any Railway Station in GREAT BRITAIN or IRELAND.

Messrs. HENRY PEASE & CO.'s SUCCESSORS buy their Wools direct from the English Farmer. After careful sorting and cleansing the wool is spun into yarn, and the yarn woven into the various charming fabrics, for which the firm have been renowned since their establishment in 1752—the entire process of manufacture being carried on in their own Mills at Darlington, employing more than 1,000 hands.

HY. PEASE & CO.'S SUCCESSORS, SPINNERS & MANUFACTURERS, THE MILLS, DARLINGTON.

ESTABLISHED 1752.

WHOLE-SOULED RELIGION.

Dr. Alexander Whyte's Bunyan lecture on Tuesday, March 6, was based on the following:—Matt. xii. 36, "Idle words;" 1 Cor. xiv. 19, "Five words with my understanding;" Bunyan's "Grace Abounding," par. 109, "My whole soul was then in every word." Dr. Whyte remarked that Chinese grammarians make the science of words much more simple than we do in the West. They are wont to speak of words as being living and dead, full and empty; of words that stand and work, and of words that fly away. He thought it would be well to make a Chinese grammar of moral and religious words, and to look at our spiritual vocabularies in this childlike way.

Our Lord made a suggestion in this direction by describing words by their moral qualities, and speaking of some of them as being "idle." Those idle words are the children of our minds, which they sadly impoverish by their indolence. There are other kinds of words. Paul speaks of some as being without significance, and Luther speaks of Paul's words as having "hands and feet"; while Archbishop Trench describes some words, which were once bursting with life, as fossils. How many religious words there are without brain or heart, and how many religious vocabularies there are which are now effete and extinct. In the Epistle to the Romans the minister can observe this process of fossilising going on in the mind of Paul. Words that were once dead to the apostle have become alive with meaning, and words that were once alive have become fossilised.

By the way in which Bunyan changes his use of words, it can be seen that he is now becoming a scholar as well as a saint. Bunyan is learning to put his soul into his words now, and we shall do well to notice a few of those words, and how he speaks them. Observe how he uses that greatest of all words, the word "God." He says that at times he had "heart-affecting apprehensions of God." It was not always he had this experience, not always that he was enraptured with God, but at times he had heart-affecting apprehensions of Him. It is impossible to explain that experience; each man must get it for himself. But it is the want of it that makes prayer so cold, and leads men to look about for artificial means to help them sing God's praise. One of the greatest saints of the present day has said that God once so revealed Himself to him as to blot out everything else, and that though he has often doubted the existence of his fellow men, he has never doubted the existence of God. Bunyan has not reached that high experience yet, but he has taken the first step on the road. When once a man has tasted of those heart-affecting apprehensions of God he will never be satisfied with anything else. Let us labour to put our whole soul into the word "God," and let us be jealous how we speak it. It is one of the trials of a minister that he must speak of God even when he has no heart-affecting apprehensions of Him. Like the Trappist monks, it would be well for some of us to make a vow of silence until we have got some soul to put into the words of our religion.

Another word into which Bunyan puts his whole soul was the name of Jesus Christ. Some of us have names into which we put our whole souls, when we write or speak them. How precious the name of Christ is to a believer! It makes his heart dance within him when he hears it. In his own sweet way Bunyan tells us how the name of Christ took his soul captive and how God was pleased to reveal his Son in him as He did in Paul. He says he seems to have had a view of the life of the Lord Jesus from his cradle to his cross, and that he seemed to see Him leaping out of the grave's mouth for joy, because He had accomplished his salvation. If, like Bunyan, we feel that Christ lived, and died, and rose again, for our justification, we should not complain of a lack of feeling.

Bunyan put his whole soul into the word "sin." Many seem to think that Bunyan had morbid thoughts about sin, but he only had God's thought about it. God loves everything but sin, He hates nothing but that; and Bunyan so caught the thought of God that he put his whole soul into the word when he began to write about sin. Then there is that phrase "the blood of Jesus." How lightly we speak it, how it seems to trip off our tongue. Let Bunyan teach us how to put our soul into it. He says that one day as he was travelling into the country, and musing on the wickedness of his heart, that Scripture suddenly came into his mind, "He hath made peace by the blood of his cross." And then he tells us that another day, as he was walking under a hedge and bemoaning his wretched state, this sentence suddenly rushed in upon him, "The blood of Christ remits all guilt." It was no wonder that a man who had such experiences should be such a preacher as Bunyan was. And it was no wonder that when he went up to London men were willing to leave their business to hear a man who put his whole soul into his sermon.

The experience which made Bunyan a great saint, also made him a great author, and brought him to the front of our literature. He wrote his "Pilgrim's Progress" by putting his whole soul into the book. No one poured such rich experience into the word "pilgrim" as Bunyan did. It was by the same whole-souled method that he wrote the "Holy War." Many saints before Bunyan had used warfare as a type of the Christian's life, but no one put a whole soul into it as he did. Like Homer, he wrote with his eye upon his subject. And in the same way he wrote "Grace Abounding."

STEDFAST CHRISTIANS.

This was the topic of Dr. Whyte's Bunyan lecture last week. A "temporary" Christian, he said, is a man who walks with religion when she is on the sunny side of the street, and has on her silver slippers. All things have a spiritual and a carnal side. Bunyan had seen sin, and his own heart, and God, and Christ, and death, and the judgment, in their spiritual nature, and that made it impossible he could be a temporary Christian. Then Bunyan thought he heard the tempter say, "Continual rocking will lull a crying child asleep." There are some children who only cry the more for rocking, but Bunyan was one of God's children who will never be rocked to sleep. The more Satan rocked, the more he cried; all the devils in hell could never rock him to sleep again.

It seemed to Bunyan as if Satan said, "Many have been as hot as you for a spurt." Pliable was one of those, and we have all seen many like him, especially at revival times. Revival times are times of great blessing, but it is one of their drawbacks that they breed a race of temporary Christians. Pliable was away from the City of Destruction long before Christian, but we know who got to glory. That is Christ's religion which has in it the understanding, and will, and purpose; and that is the religion that will endure to the end.

There are many things that try the perseverance and loyalty of a believer's heart. Prosperity is one of Satan's best coolers of a gracious heart; by it he cools the promise of men's youth, and of their religion. John Owen charged the Puritans with being cooled by prosperity. Dante mourned the day when his mother-church ceased to be persecuted, and when the sword was allied with the crook. Dr. Whyte said he had recently been reading the unpublished life of a man who, when he was young and poor, was a Sabbath observer, and an evangelical man, but whose temperature in religion fell as he rose in life. The first day that man had a carriage and pair he wasn't seen in church, but was off driving about, and he gave a great dinner party in the evening. He died the other day, an open-mouthed infidel.

If our hearts have been warmed by genuine affections towards Christ, how are we to keep them warm? Some would answer by prayer, and faith, and love. All those means are to be used, but there is one, a means that will include them all. Good books will keep a Christian's heart warm. Satan has pulled this generation away from good books, from books that deal with deep and Divine things, to religious trash. When Christian left the house of the Interpreter he said he had seen many things which put him in fear and hope. Let us strive to carry home something of that spirit of fear and hope, ever remembering that the Lord stands by the trodden-down fire of grace in our hearts saying, "My grace is sufficient for thee; for my strength is made perfect in weakness."

◆

AMERICAN NOTES.

[From our Special Correspondent.]

Modern medical missions have supplied a long-felt need in all the great centres of population. Where they are wisely conducted and the original aim of spiritual elevation is fixedly kept in view, grand indeed are the results. Not, as yet, have such missions become general in the United States. Philadelphia was the first city of their adoption, then Chicago, and soon after New York. Dr. Dowkontt has pushed the work vigorously in the latter city, and his medical college, a noble institution, has already nearly fifty students under his care and instruction. Most of these, men and women, after graduation, will probably give their lives and services to foreign mission fields.

* * * *

We know of no more faithful worker as a medical missionary than our dear friend, Dr. M. B. Kirkpatrick, of Philadelphia. Soon after the establishment of the Mission he took charge of it, nine years ago. Maintaining his family by outside practice, he has faithfully applied all voluntary donations to mission purposes. Thousands of patients have been personally exhorted to behold the Lamb of God for pardon and peace. His work is peculiarly a foreign work. Commencing with freedmen and poor whites, who formed a teeming population around the mission-house at first, on account of constant migration and emigration, the community has many times changed from one nationality to another.

* * * *

After the coloured people flitted elsewhere, Jews and Italians were in the ascendency. Very soon they found their way to the free dispensary, and there also heard the word of eternal life. Now the patients are chiefly Armenians, Arabs, and mongrel Orientals. A Christian Armenian from the Berber country has enlisted his services as preacher and interpreter. The class formed out of this material, mixed Asiatics, receive careful instruction in the things of God, as also faithful attention to bodily complaints. Foreigners come to our shores in multitudes. Our responsibility is great; our opportunities are many. I rejoice to add that everywhere good men and brave women are labouring for the Chinese and other strangers who cry for spiritual bread at our very doors. Dr. Kirkpatrick has now several branches of his medical mission in various parts of the city.

MISS PRYDE'S WORK IN PARIS.—In a little book by Sara Copeland an appreciative account is given of the labours of Miss Pryde among governesses in Paris. The book has a twofold object: (1) To inform young ladies who desire to spend a few weeks or months in Paris that they may find safe, economical, and agreeable shelter at 23, Avenue du Bois de Bologne; and (2) To influence subscriptions and donations in aid of Miss Pryde's excellent Home.

The Book World.

* Publishers will greatly oblige by always marking prices in books which they send us for review.*

Two Important Essays.

Mr. Josiah W. Leeds, of Philadelphia, has written two important essays on "The Non-Accordance of Stage Plays with the Christian Profession" and "Printed Poison," which deal with these subjects in a very trenchant and masterly manner. The evidence which he adduces in the former treatise, culled from authorities on and off the stage from the times of the early Christians onward, should suffice to settle any unprejudiced mind which now wavers. They may be had post free, in cloth, 3d., in paper covers, 2d., from Mr. James Clark, Street, Somerset.

The New Emperor and Empress.

Recent events have conspired to cast a halo of strong and popular interest around the lives of the new German Emperor and Empress, better known as the Crown Prince and Princess. Mr. Fisher Unwin has wisely seized the favouring opportunity to bring out a new and cheap edition of Miss Roberts's excellent account of the lives of these exalted personages. We repeat the words of hearty welcome with which we greeted the first appearance of a well-written and genuinely interesting volume, and trust such a pleasant story of high position nobly filled will be universally read. (2s. 6d.)

The C.M.S. Japan Mission.

Japan and the Japan Mission. Revised and Enlarged Edition. By Eugene Stock and Rev. C. F. Warren. With Map and Illustrations. 2s. 6d. and 3s. 6d. post free. C.M.S., Salisbury-square. Though the first edition is not older than 1879 it is significant to be told that "half the present edition is new matter." Thankful as Christians should be for the toleration and even welcome lately given to Christian teachers in Japan, there are qualifying facts that call for persevering prayer. It appears that many of the Japanese statesmen simply desire Christianity to be established for political reasons. The chapters on Jesuit missions and the Ainos are specially interesting.

Two Weighty Little Books.

Thoughts on the Spiritual Life. By H. C. G. Moule. 1s. Seeley & Co. All who have read "Union with Christ" will look for something rich and spirtual in this little volume. Nor will they be disappointed. God's "thoughts" are here unfolded and explained on twelve topics, including Christian moderation, the will of God, work and faith, the total abstinence of the Gospel, &c.—The New Birth, by the same author (2d.), is a paper read before a London Clerical Society in October last. Mr. Moule's writings bring us face to face with the Word of truth, showing the absolute necessity of a new spiritual creation, by reason of the Fall; and its unmistakable evidence in the manifest fruits of the Spirit. The pamphlet is most valuable at the present time.

The Prophet Isaiah.

Isaiah: His Life and Times, and the Writings which bear his Name. By S. R. Driver, D.D. The Regius Professor of Hebrew at Oxford has managed to compress a large amount of information into this neat little volume of 220 pages. The book is divided into two parts, the first of which is on "Isaiah and His Own Age," and the second on "Prophecies Unrelated to Isaiah's Age." The simple mention of this division is a sufficient indication of Dr. Driver's attitude in the literary criticism of what we all know as "The Book of the Prophet Isaiah." Readers will do well to bear in mind that there are strong arguments against many of the conclusions arrived at by Professor Driver. In our opinion this book does scant justice to the highest function of the prophet—that of speaking for God, communicating his will and declaring his purpose. Dr. Driver attributes much to the prophet's "imagination," and certainly gives excessive consideration to temporal, as distinguished from spiritual functions. Passages which are by New Testament authority and sanction regarded as Messianic receive at Dr. Driver's hands interpretations peculiar to themselves ("private") rather than such as the common source and origin of prophecy ("holy men of old spake as they were moved by the Holy Spirit"), and the organic unity of Holy Scripture combine to plainly indicate and enforce. (2s. 6d. Nisbet & Co.)

The late Rev. George M. Murphy.

The Biography of Mr. George Murphy, published by Mr. Elliot Stock, will be welcomed by a large circle of friends and co-workers, by whom the deceased minister was revered and loved. His life-story will be read with deep interest, and cannot fail to produce an earnest stimulus to like-minded zeal. Mr. Murphy was a prodigious worker, and might be truly said to have been what is known as "a self-made man." We have here ample details of his labours as a preacher and pastor in South London. Perhaps the most lasting memorial of Mr. Murphy will be recognised in the temperance and philanthropic work at the Lambeth Baths, which was largely maintained through the generosity of the late Mr. Samuel Morley. The authoress, who speaks from fulness of knowledge, has done her work well, and we trust her narrative will have many readers. An excellent portrait of Mr. Murphy is given. (5s.)

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Clergy Directory and Parish Guide. Great attention has been bestowed upon the preparation of the eighteenth annual issue of this useful work. Quite recent appointments and preferments are noted. (T. G. Johnson, 121, Fleet-street. 4s. 6d.)

How the Home was Won Back: a Story for Mothers. By Mrs. G. S. Reaney. 1s. 6d. Nisbet & Co. A very simple narrative told with skill and feeling. From pages so sound, wholesome, and truly Christian, mothers, and let us add, sons and daughters, may learn many precious life lessons.

Lectures to Young Men. Macniven & Wallace. Here we have a budget suiting all phases of mind and character. Dr. G. Matheson contrasts pre-Christian morality with Christian holiness. Dr. Fraser gives a most interesting paper on "Thomas à Kempis;" while practical papers on "Godliness in Daily Life," "The White Cross Movement," and "Gospel Temperance," are contributed by Messrs. Boyd, Cameron, Lees, Milligan, and Wilberforce. A good book for every Y.M.C.A. library.

The Story of the Cross. A Poem. By Charles Nash. Elliot Stock. Like all thoughtful Christians, the writer feels that unbelief is gathering its forces for a fearful, though fruitless, attack on the foundations of Christian faith. His aim is to narrate in verse the leading events of our Lord's life, death, and resurrection, interspersed with devout or illustrative comments. The lines, as a rule, run smoothly, and here and there the poetry is of a high order. The young, for whom he specially writes, will find more of the Gospel here than in more ambitious poems.

Go Forward; or, From Egypt to Canaan. Progressive teaching on the Christian life. Rev. James Stephens. 1s. Shaw & Co. One more book, but not one too many, on personal holiness. On the same Scriptural framework as "Out of Egypt," by Dr. Pentecost, but in quite a different style, Mr. Stephens propounds divers encouragements and warnings. We note with special pleasure the sound and vigorous chapters on "A full surrender," "Deliverance from besetting sin," and "Wilderness conflicts." A most useful book to give away after missions and special services.

Strongbow's Conquest of Ireland, 1166—1188. This is one of Mr. David Nutt's useful series of publications, appearing under the general title of "English History from Contemporary writers." No method of historical study can dispense with contemporary statements and estimates of political events, however passionate or extravagant those statements may be. "Strongbow's Conquest" has been compiled from many sources by Mr. F. P. Barnard, M.A.; it is full of reading having a special pertinence to present-day agitations.—Simon de Montfort and his Cause (1251—1266), in which the selections have been made and arranged by Rev. W. H. Hutton, M.A., is another excellent work belonging to the same series.

The Mental Characteristics of the Lord Jesus Christ. By Rev. Henry Norris Bernard, M.A., LL.B. Nisbet & Co. Few subjects can be more interesting to the Christian than the study of Christ's character, and Mr. Bernard has here given us a very thoughtful volume upon it though somewhat spoiled by a sermonic style. We rather miss, indeed, the originality of Martensen, whose "Christian Ethics" deals largely with the same subject; but the Danish Bishop is not likely to have more than a comparatively small number of readers, and his conclusions are not always such as we should care to see adopted by English Christians. Mr. Bernard appeals to a wider circle, and may fairly expect a satisfactory response. We hope that Mr. Bernard will see his way to publishing another volume of equally good matter.

The Songs of the Apocalypse. By M. S., author of "Chosen, Chastened, and Crowned." Preface by Rev. G. W. Dalton, D.D., Incumbent of S. Paul's, Glenagarry. 2s. J. Nisbet & Co. This little book is full of high and holy thoughts, expressed in vigorous and noble language. It is more devotional than critical, more suggestive than exegetic; but there is every sign of sanctified research, and the principles of interpretation are sound and Scriptural.

In Work for the Blind in China, Miss C. F. Gordon-Cumming shows in an interesting way how blind native beggars may be transformed into useful Scripture readers. The book gives an account of the devoted labours of Rev. W. H. Murray in training blind people to read and write by means of his ingenious system of symbols. For the past eight years Mr. Murray has been perfecting his system, which even extends to the representation of music. While the Chinese despise beggars, they hold in great respect persons who are able to read, and it is therefore evident that avenues of much usefulness will be open to instructed blind people. The National Bible Society of Scotland is assisting Mr. Murray in his important work. (1s. 6d. Nisbet & Co.)

The Missionary Review of the World. Funk & Wagnalls. The contents of the March issue are amazingly varied, and each of its seven departments is full of matter adapted to inform, inspire, and give hope and zeal to all the friends of missions. It seems almost a marvel that eighty large pages can be crowded with facts, figures, arguments, essays, biographies, appeals, correspondence, the latest news from all parts of the world, and religious and missionary statistics of deepest and almost equal interest to the missionary circle, the pastor, the Christian worker in every field, and the intelligent man in every profession and walk in life. It gives a phase of the times and of the ongoings of the world that is intensely stimulating and hopeful. No idea can be formed of the vastness and richness of the matter here clearly and methodically arranged and presented, unless by a personal examination. The public has already shown its appreciation of the work by necessitating a second edition of the January and February numbers.

One Too Many. By E. M. Edwards. The incident of this tale will please the young; the moral may profit readers of riper years. (1s. T. Woolmer).

Everybody's Pocket Cyclopædia (6d. Saxon & Co. 23, Bouverie-street, E.C.) is a remarkably compact collection of useful information on a large variety of subjects.

"Behold the Man!" The six-fold trial of Christ is here presented in verse. Some shorter poems and hymns are added. The thought is sound, and the expression generally in harmony with the theme. (1s. Nisbet & Co.)

BOOKS RECEIVED.

Messrs. J. Nisbet & Co.:—Thoughts for Church Seasons, by Rev. Daniel Moore, M.A. 5s.

Mr. Elliot Stock:—Spiritual Decline in the Church of God. An Address by Rev. Alfred Hill.

Mr. F. H. Revell, 148, Madison-street, Chicago, U.S.A.—The Lord's Return, and Kindred Truth, by Dr. L. W. Munhall.

Messrs. Macniven & Wallace, 138, Princes-street, Edinburgh:—Bright Sabbaths: A Word to Mothers, by One of Themselves. 1s.

Messrs. Hodder & Stoughton:— Christmas Evans, by Rev. E. Paxton Hood. New Edition. 3s. 6d.—The Antichrist, Babylon, and the Coming of the Kingdom, by Mr. G. H. Pember, M.A. Second Edition. 3s. 6d.

BRIXTON ORPHANAGE.—The Marquis of Carmarthen, M.P., occupied the chair at the twelfth anniversary meeting a few evenings ago. During last year 42 orphans were admitted, 21 returned to their relatives, and 20 were placed in situations of domestic service, leaving 300 in residence. The inmates, clean and happy looking, occupied seats in the hall in which the meeting was held. A debt of £1250 still remains on the buildings lately erected.

ROYALTY AT THE EAST-END.—The Princess of Wales, the Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Denmark, attended by Duchess D'Otrante and Colonel Clarke, visited the Scandinavian Sailors' Temperance Home on Tuesday afternoon. The Royal personages were shown over the large building, from the kitchen to the bedrooms in the upper floors, and seemed very interested. The Princess of Wales, as patroness of the Home, evinced special pleasure, and asked Miss Hedenstrom much about her important Gospel work.

Notes on Daily Readings.

SUNDAY, MARCH 25.—JONAH III.

3.—An exceeding great city of three days' journey.—"This is usually supposed to refer to the circumference of the city. According to Diodorus (ii. 3), the length of the city was one hundred and fifty stadia, which Herodotus (v. 53) states to be a day's journey."—Keil. Hence its circumference would be three days' journey. Niebühr reckons the boundaries of Nineveh, in the broadest sense, as "nearly ninety English miles, and this would be just three days' travelling for a good walker on a long journey."

4.—Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown.—The fulfilment of this threat being averted by repentance is a striking illustration of the principle of God's dealings with nations spoken of in Jer. xviii. 7.

5.—So the people of Nineveh believed God.—Not merely believed what Jonah said. There is every reason to believe from our Lord's words (Luke xi. 30), "As Jonah was a sign to the Ninevites," explained, as it is in Matt. xii. 40—41, as referring to his miraculous deliverance by the "great fish," that the report of this miracle had preceded Jonah, and had prepared the people to receive him as a messenger of God. Nineveh repenting at the preaching of Jonah is intended to shame Israel, which refuses to repent at the voice of God's prophets, and finally of God's Son, though raised from the dead, as Jonah had been typically.

9.—Who can tell if God will turn and repent?—Nineveh repented without any promise to encourage them so to do; Israel, notwithstanding all the promises contained in God's Word, repented not.

MONDAY, MARCH 26.—JONAH IV.

1.—But it displeased Jonah exceedingly.—"He might reflect that in the eyes of men he had been made a fool of, also that he had been (spite of himself) the means of saving a city which Jehovah had been on the point of destroying, and which the instincts of a narrow patriotism prompted him to wish destroyed."—S.C.

5.—Now Jonah went out of the city.—"Now Jonah had gone out of the city."—S.C.

6.—The Lord God prepared a gourd.—The word for "gourd" occurs only here. "Whole sheets have been filled with the discussion as to what this gourd was. The dispute is an old one, for when St. Jerome translated it 'ivy,' St. Augustine was so offended with the translation that he denounced it as heresy. The most popular rendering has been that which identifies it with the castor-oil tree."—Tristram, who, however, prefers the rendering of A.V., and gives good reasons for its being "the gourd."

7.—It withered.—"The gourd withers as rapidly as it shoots."—Tristram.

11.—More than sixscore thousand persons that cannot discern, &c.—"That infants are meant is shown by the comparison of Deut. i. 39 and Isa. vii. 15, 16. It is calculated that children under seven average one-fifth of the whole population, which would give Nineveh a population of 600,000. A glimpse is here afforded us into the heart of God, whose tender mercies are over all his works, which marks this passage as one of remarkable beauty, and fits it to be through all ages a standing reproof of every form of bigotry."—S.C.

TUESDAY, MARCH 27.—MICAH I.

"Micah's ministry was coeval with that of Isaiah, but it did not begin so early, nor continue so late."—S.C. "The Morasthite" means a native of the place called Moresheth-gath (ver. 14), a town in the plain of Judah. See an interesting allusion to the effect of his prophesying on King Hezekiah (Jer. xxvi. 18, 19). "He agrees thoroughly with Isaiah in his description of the prevailing moral corruption, as well as in his Messianic prophecies. The contents of the book consist of three prophetic addresses, clearly distinguished from one another by similarity of introduction; all begin with 'hear' (i. 2, iii. 1, vi. 1), and all pass through the various stages of reproof, threat, and promise."—Keil.

5.—What is the transgression of Jacob? is it not Samaria?—"The sin of each kingdom is here identified with the capital city as the place in which it assumed its most aggravated and concentrated form. Jerusalem is regarded as a great idol temple."—S.C.

10.—Go not to Gath to declare it.—2 Sam. i. 20.

13.—She is the beginning of the sin to the daughter of Zion.—"Lachish seems to have been the first place in the kingdom of Judah to adopt the idolatry of the Northern Kingdom."—S.C. "To 'bind the chariot to the swift beast' means to flee away as rapidly as possible before the advancing foe."—Keil.

15.—Adullam the glory of Israel.—An obvious allusion to the use of the cave by David.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 28.—MICAH II.

8.—My people is risen up as an enemy.—"According to the context it can be only against Jehovah."—Keil. "Making war against God's peaceful people, they, as it were, made war against God."—Pusey.

10.—Arise ye, and depart, for this is not your rest.—Addressed to the Israel of God in the midst of abounding evil. Long had the testimony gone forth that Canaan was not the rest of God's people (see Ps. xcv. 11, as explained Heb. iv. 7—9); but now, as Canaan was about to be given over to the Gentiles, clearer testimony is given as to the true "rest which remaineth for the people of God." They are now called to depart from the earthly and to enter in and claim the heavenly. See Isa. lii. 11, 12; 2 Cor. vi. 17; Col. iii. 1—4. God's people cannot find rest in a world of pollution so destructive of spiritual life.

11.—If a man walking in the spirit and falsehood.—The margin of R.V. seems best to explain this "in a spirit of falsehood," i.e., a "false profession of speaking by the Spirit." "The meaning is that the false prophets urge the promises of the good things of this life, and so encourage their hearers in carnal indifference and security."—S.C.

12.—I will surely assemble, O Jacob, all of thee.—The Greek word used by the LXX. for "assemble" is used of our Lord's death (John xi. 52), "That He might gather together in one the children of God that were scattered abroad." See also Eph. i. 10.

13.—The breaker is come up before them.—"A Jewish tradition identifies 'the breaker' as a title of the Messiah."—S.C. See 1 Cor. xv. 20, and Col. iii. 1—4. The resurrection of Christ and of His people in Him is here distinctly foretold. The Lord on the head of them.—Or (as R.V.) "at the head of them." The Lord Jesus is (Eph. i. 22) in resurrection, "Head over all things to the Church."

THURSDAY, MARCH 29.—MICAH III.

The structure of this chapter is symmetrical. The first four verses are spoken against the princes (1—4), the next four against the prophets (5—8), and the last four (9—12) against the priests (11) as well as the princes and prophets, all of whom are warned of the approaching desolation of Jerusalem.

5.—That bite with their teeth, and cry, Peace.—"Meaning 'who predict prosperity for bread and payment.' This explanation, expressed by the Chaldee, is required by the antithesis which follows."—Keil.

6.—Therefore night shall be unto you.—"The false prophets had promised peace, light, brightness, prosperity; the night of trouble, anguish, darkness, fear shall come upon them."—Pusey. Comp. the solemn judgment pronounced upon New Testament false prophets (2 Pet. ii. 17), "To whom the mist of darkness is reserved for ever."

8.—But truly I am full of power by the Spirit of the Lord.—The prophet declares his authority arising from the real presence and power of the Spirit; not, however, to speak peace, as the false prophets, but "to declare unto Jacob his transgression, and to Israel his sin."

11.—Is not the Lord among us? none evil can come upon us.—This is the Old Testament form of that false confidence which the Church of Rome inculcates by appealing to "Lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world," forgetting that what goes before "Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you" (Matt. xxviii. 20) declares who they are to whom the Lord's presence is promised.

FRIDAY, MARCH 30.—MICAH IV.

1.—But in the last days it shall come to pass, that the mountain, &c.—These first three verses are the same as Isa. ii. 2—4. Delitzsch and Keil think that this is the original passage, and that Isaiah only quotes it.

3.—They shall beat their swords into ploughshares, &c.—The converse of Joel iii. 10, and obviously referring to a later period. Joel refers to the period before Christ's coming, Micah and Isaiah to that after it.

8.—And thou, O tower of the flock, the stronghold of the daughter of Zion.—"The substance of the promise is, of course, the restoration of David's kingdom in the reign of the Messiah."—S.C. Pusey well remarks, "Christ is, indeed, a tower protecting and defending the sheep of his pasture, founded on earth in his human nature, reaching to heaven in his divine (Prov. xviii. 10)." Mark the distinction between the Jewish remnant, "her that halted, her that was cast off" (7), exalted into "a strong nation," and reigned over, and Him to whom "the first dominion" comes—i.e., Christ, but who shares it with the daughter of Jerusalem, here apparently "the Bride, the Lamb's wife."

10.—Be in pain and labour to bring forth, O daughter of Zion.—The best commentary on this is Rev. xii. 2, where the woman flies into the wilderness ("goes forth out of the city"). The remnant of the woman's seed, after her firstborn is caught up to God's throne (Rev. xii. 5—17), is now in Babylon, where the promise shall be fulfilled, "there shalt thou be delivered." See Rev. xviii. 4.

13.—Arise and thresh, O daughter of Zion.—The "sheaves" are the "many nations" gathered to make war against Him that sat on the horse and against his army" (Rev. xix. 19; see also Zech. xiv. 2).

SATURDAY, MARCH 31.—MICAH V.

1.—Now gather thyself in troops, O daughter of troops.—This expression is generally applied by commentators to Jerusalem, and by many to the siege of Jerusalem by the Romans; but the context (in Hebrew it is the last verse of chap. iv.), whilst, perhaps, including this, points more to the siege of Jerusalem at Christ's second coming (Zech. xiv.), and this would better account for the reference to the insult shown to Christ before the High Priest (John xviii. 22). Compare our Lord's reference to the judgments at the second coming (Luke xxiii. 28—30).

2.—But thou, Beth-lehem Ephratah.—Here begins the chapter in Hebrew. It is a resumption of the subject of the travail of the daughter of Zion (iv. 10), recounting the birth of Him of whom Rev. xii. 5 speaks. Whose goings forth have been from of old, from everlasting.—"The Messiah's eternal goings forth are put into contrast with his coming forth from Bethlehem, his humble birthplace."—S.C.

3.—Therefore will He give them up, until the time that she which travaileth hath brought forth.—A sketch of this whole dispensation. Comp. Luke xxi. 24, Rom. xi. 25. "She which travaileth" is the Jerusalem that is above, "which is mother of us" (Gal. iv. 26) the woman of Isa. liv., and of Rev. xii. 1, the, remnant of whose seed are still being born, until the last elect soul of this dispensation is gathered in. Return unto the children of Israel.—The Hebrew for "unto" is "upon," or "over." See also LXX. "The remnant of his brethren" are his people (Luke xxii. 30), returning with Christ to reign over the children of Israel.

4.—And He shall stand and rule (margin).—From this to the end of the chapter is a glorious description of Christ's (and his saints') Millennial reign, and with this the present prophecy comes to an end.

Y.M.C.A. Bible Lessons.

OUTLINES PREPARED BY HENRY THORNE.

Sunday Afternoon, April 1.

The Resurrection.—Ps. ii.; Acts xiii. 30—38.

The Messianic character of the second Psalm is established by the consent of Jewish expositors, by the belief of the Universal Church, and, above all, by the testimony of the New Testament (Acts iv. 25, xiii. 33). The expression in the 7th verse, says Dr. Perowne, "'This day have I begotten Thee,' can only mean, This day have I declared and manifested Thee to be my Son, by investing Thee with the kingly dignity, and placing Thee on thy throne" (Rom. i. 4; cf. Acts xiii. 33). Psalm xvi. might be included in this lesson, as there is a most important and instructive reference to it in the New Testament portion of the lesson (Acts xiii. 35).

In this Psalm David spoke as a prophet, and he appears to have been conscious that he was speaking of the Messiah and of his resurrection (Acts ii. 25—31). Taking the New Testament portion of the lesson in its relation to the resurrection of our Lord, we see—

Power Manifested (ver. 30).—See here the power of God. (a) Baffling human wisdom.—"But." The worst man could do was done, but in vain. "Man proposes, but God disposes." (b) Revealing the hand of God.—God raised Him. This was the work of the Father (1 Peter i. 3), of the Son (John ii. 19), and of the Spirit (1 Peter iii. 18). Compare "his right hand" (Acts v. 31). See also "my right hand," and "thy right hand" (Ps. xvi. 8, 11). He who sees the hand of God will see no reason to doubt the possibility of a resurrection (Matt. xxii. 29). The power of God in resurrection is a revelation of his glory (Rom. vi. 4). (c) Ratifying the claim of Jesus.—"Raised Him" (Acts xvii. 31). Jesus was declared to be the Son of God at his baptism (Matt. iii. 17), and at his resurrection (Rom. i. 4). In the baptism there is a foreshadowing of the resurrection. Note Ps. ii. 7. (d) Removing all obstacles.—Soldiers, stone, &c. See this same power in relation to things that hinder work for God (Luke x. 19). Death is powerless when God deals with it (Acts ii. 24; 1 Cor. xv. 55). (e) A reason for trusting God (2 Cor. i. 9). It was after Abraham worshipped God, as the Almighty God (Gen. xxi. 33), that he was called to offer up Isaac. No wonder he believed God was able to raise up Isaac (Heb. xi. 19). (f) Reviving hope and courage in the disciples.—The glad tidings of this lesson were inspired by the resurrection of Jesus. The power that delivered Jesus from the grave delivered his disciples from doubt (1 Peter i. 3; Acts iv. 33). This power of God was a great theme in apostolic preaching (1 Cor. xv. 15; 2 Tim. ii. 8).

Proofs Produced.—"Witnesses" (ver. 31). Note that these witnesses were (a) Numerous (1 Cor. xv. 5—8); (b) Competent.—"Seen for many days." Not hearsay evidence (1 John i. 3). They saw Jesus again and again, and were with Him (Acts i. 2, 3). (c) Chosen (Acts x. 41). All believers are chosen to be his witnesses (1 Pet. ii. 9). If Christ lives in us we shall be witnesses of his resurrection.

Prophecy Fulfilled (vv. 32—37).—Note the blending of promises with prophecies (ver. 32); the reference to the lapse of time before the fulfilment of the prophecies we are considering (ver. 33); the faithfulness of God, and the direct application of Old Testament predictions to our Lord (vv. 33—37).

Pardon Proclaimed (ver. 38).—Forgiveness of sins is proclaimed as a consequence of the resurrection of Christ (Acts v. 34), and is associated with turning away or being turned away from sin (Acts iii. 26) and separated unto God (Acts xxvi. 18; 1 Thess. i. 10). Paul made known the fact ("Be it known") and enjoyed the experience (Eph. i. 7).

THE AGED PILGRIMS' FRIEND SOCIETY had its claims well presented on Thursday week in a sermon by Rev. J. Battersby, of Sheffield, before a large congregation, in the church of St. Mary Aldermary. He said that there are at this time 131 aged Christians in the receipt of annual pensions of ten guineas, 396 of seven guineas, 645 of five guineas, and 12 approved candidates receiving 5s. per month, who will be advanced to the five-guinea pension in rotation as soon as the funds permit. He added that during the eighty years of its existence the Society had granted pensions amounting to a total of more than £193,000 to nearly 5000 aged pilgrims residing in various parts of the country.

International S. S. Lesson.

Sunday Afternoon, April 1.

THE MARRIAGE FEAST.

Matt. xxii. 1—14. Golden Text: Rev. xix. 9.

Ver. 2.—Made a marriage (i.e., marriage feast).—By this feast is meant Gospel privileges which are enjoyed by those who obey the Gospel, in foretaste here, and will be enjoyed in fulness and glory hereafter. The Gospel is like a feast, abundant, satisfying, rich, varied, joyous, and gloriously social. For his Son.—Jesus, "who loved the Church, and gave Himself for her." Those who love Him, taken as a whole, constitute the Bride; while the individuals who make up that whole are the guests.

Ver. 3.—To call them that were bidden to the wedding.—"It is still customary in the East, not only to give an invitation some time beforehand, but to send round servants at the proper time to inform the invited guests that all things are ready."—Kitto. They would not come.—What! not to such a feast! It is, indeed, the madness of folly to refuse God's free Gospel grace. It is very important to dwell on this "would not." All the real difficulty of salvation lies here. "Ye will not come to Me," &c. Children, even, sometimes hide this unwillingness to themselves, by imagining difficulties on God's side.

Ver. 4.—He sent forth other servants.—Note the longsuffering and patience of God in repeating the invitation again and again. He makes every possible effort to win unworthy and ungrateful men.

Ver. 6.—Entreated them spitefully, and slew them.—Violent objectors to Christ's messengers do not now persecute and slay. They dislike and hate, malign and slander. The spirit is the same, and the act the same in God's sight.

Ver. 7.—Destroyed those murderers, and burned up their city.—This was literally fulfilled forty years later, when the Roman armies under Titus destroyed Jerusalem, and slew the people by hundreds of thousands. "There has been no Jewish nation since." Just as truly will God punish all impenitent people; but his punishments come only when all other means fail, and their justice will be manifest to all.

Ver. 9.—Go...into the highways, and as many as ye shall find, bid to the marriage.—Point out to children the eagerness of the king—also the warrant which the words, "as many as," give to each of us to go at once to God for his free grace.

LESSONS.

We refuse the Gospel when we simply decline to accept it.—The men who "make light of it" are destroyed with the same judgment that overthrows the persecutors. Neglecters are classed with opposers. The man asleep in a boat floating towards Niagara Falls goes as surely to death, though not as swiftly, as the other who wildly rows with the current. Arnot speaks of three classes: the small circle of acceptors on the right, the great circle of neglecters in the middle, and another small circle of opposers on the left. Most of those in the middle think they are on the right; but God classes neglecters with opposers.

We can only be saved as we submit to God's will and plan. Some, like the guest without the wedding garment, wish for the privilege of the feast, but neglect their duty to the King. To seek salvation in a way other than that appointed by God, viz., repentance, and faith in Christ Jesus, is to act the part of this proud and insolent guest.

No one can slip into heaven unprepared. He was only one in a great multitude, yet how soon did the King's eye discover him! O to make sure work by taking God's way of salvation!

The lost are without excuse. "He was speechless." Whatever the garment was, the poorest could have it; and whatever God requires of us, we, by the Spirit, freely offered to all, may have. Even the lost must own their condemnation to be just.

ILLUSTRATIONS.

(1) "Olearius, with the ambassador in whose train he went, was invited to the table of the Persian King, 'It was told us,' he goes on to say, 'that we must hang the splendid vests that were sent us from the King over our dresses, and so appear in his presence. The ambassadors at first refused; but the Mehmander urged it so earnestly, alleging that the omission would greatly displease the King, that at last they consented, and hanged, as did we also, the splendid vests over their shoulders, and so the cavalcade proceeded.'"—Trench.

(2) Accepting an Invitation.—"During a religious awakening in a factory village in New England, a foreman was awakened, but could not find peace. His superior sent him a letter, asking him to call at six p.m. He came promptly. 'I see you believe me,' said the master. The foreman assented. 'Well, see: here is another letter sending for you by one equally in earnest,' said the master, holding up a slip of paper with some texts of Scripture written on it. The man took the paper, and read slowly, 'Come unto Me, all ye that labour,' &c. His lips quivered, and his eyes filled with tears. For a few moment's he stood hesitating. Presently he asked, 'Am I to believe this in the same way that I believed your letter?' 'Just in the same way,' said the master. This was enough; he took God at his word, and entered into peace."

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

HOME.

Mrs. Reaney is doing good service in the temperance cause in her new sphere.

Nearly all the Quarter Sessions, Scotland, have pronounced in favour of 10 o'clock as the closing hour for public-houses.

The United Kingdom Railway Temperance Union has now nearly 12,000 members, and branches on nearly all the great English railways.

The attention of Government has been called to the impropriety of allowing sub-post-offices on premises on which intoxicating drinks are sold.

At the three cabmen's rests in Glasgow last year 110,000 meals were served. The treasurer, Mr. Fisher, said this meant 100,000 fewer visits to public-houses.

In answer to questions in the House of Lords last week Lord Knutsford stated that the Government had asked for information on the drink traffic in the colonies.

The Manchester Coffee-tavern Company has declared a dividend of five per cent. The sales of the year showed a considerable increase over those of the previous year.

The Manchester Christian Women's Temperance Union had a demonstration recently at the Central Hall of that city. The prison-gate work of the Union has been of great value.

The Manchester Woman's Christian Temperance Association have elected Mrs. M. B. Ramsay as organising secretary, with a view especially to temperance work amongst educated women.

Mr. Raikes, a few days since, said in the House of Commons that the Welsh Sunday Closing Act had not been a success. How comes it, then, that the leading municipalities say the contrary?

In the House of Commons a few days since, Mr. Caine and Mr. Slagg charged the Indian Government with encouraging the sale of intoxicants for fiscal purposes. Mr. Bryce alleged that the same course was being pursued in Upper Burmah.

Rev. Peter Macdonald, of St. Columba's Free Church, Glasgow, in defending the crofters of Lewis from a charge of drunkenness, questioned whether any other place could be found in the British Isles where there were 27,000 people, and only five public-houses.

The Act of Parliament passed for making the time of closing public-houses in Scotland earlier than 11, but not earlier than 10, was not made to apply to towns containing 50,000 inhabitants and upwards. Dr. Cameron, M.P., has introduced a Bill for bringing these towns under the Act. The places affected are Edinburgh, Glasgow, Greenock, Leith, Aberdeen, Dundee, and Paisley.

FOREIGN.

Barbados produces annually about 770,000 gallons of rum.

Miss Charlotte Gray, of the W.C.T.U., is working vigorously for temperance in Switzerland.

The pastor of a church in Mendon, Mass., is said to have been dismissed because he indulged in the use of tobacco.

Hon Neal Dow is the prohibition candidate for mayor of Portland, Me. He has twice held the office, having been elected in 1851 and 1855.

Weekly meetings are held at Rue Berthe, Montmartre, Paris, by Mr. W. J. Lockie, to promote the cause of total abstinence amongst French children.

A deputation of the National Temperance Society U.S.A., has presented to the Senate a memorial urging the adoption of measures for the suppression of the drink traffic with Africa.

Major Arundel, Royal Irish Fusiliers, writes from Montreux, Switzerland, that though the temperance movement in the country can show fine results, it is not as yet popular. It is, however, growing.

A liquor organ states that high license in America is not as successful as its promoters hoped. It tends to concentrate the trade in the hands of the brewers and distillers, who, in the majority of cases, are the sureties for the licensee.

James Albert, the winner of a six days' walking match in New York city, made a speech in which he expressed the belief that total abstinence from intoxicating drinks was the prime factor in his success. The New York Sun says, "His bit of oratory made a good temperance appeal."

Mr. D. L. Moody recently said at Louisville, "We have got to make this business disreputable." The "high licence" advocates take diametrically opposite grounds. It depends on whether liquor selling is good or bad. Every possible vice has been treated as reputable in some communities, and high licence would make almost any abomination reputable.

Among the Churches.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

The Church Missionary Society has recently received an anonymous gift of £3000, and other considerable benefactions.

It is said of the late Canon Hulbert, vicar of Almondsbury, Yorks, that he often returned his tithes to people in poor circumstances.

Rev. J. C. Hoare, of the C.M.S., of Ningpo, China, has ascertained that during the last seven years 439 children have passed through the elementary day schools of the Mission. In some cases boys have been the means of bringing their parents to Christ.

The Bishop of Oxford, who is suffering from heart-disease, has gone, by the advice of his medical attendant, to Bournemouth. He is personally strongly inclined to resign his office, but his friends have for the present dissuaded him from taking the step.

In his annual address and report of the work in connection with Christ Church, North Brixton, the vicar, Canon McConnel Hussey, D.D., alludes with satisfaction to the large attendance at the Wednesday evening services, and also at the fortnightly prayer-meetings.

The "Mpwapwas" is the name of a Missionary Society of young men in connection with St. James's, Holloway, of which Rev. E. A. Stuart is the president. It is an offshoot of the C.M.S. Lay Workers' Union; the members are pledged to obtain information regarding the C.M. Society's missions, and to impart it as opportunities arise.

The Bishop of Liverpool, presiding at the annual meeting of the Liverpool branch of the Colonial and Continental Church Society, said that the Society deserved the hearty support of Evangelicals, because they did not want to send out either Ritualists or Agnostics, but men who were really faithful to the principles of the Reformation.

SOCIETY OF FRIENDS.

Great blessing has attended a series of meetings held in Horndean, Sussex, and conducted by Sarah S. Bell.

Last Sunday a very helpful visit to Cardiff meeting was paid by Ernest Grubb, of Carrick-on-Suir, Ireland, on his way to Cornwall.

At Sherbourne-street Mission-hall, Gloucester, Joseph Farrar and Arthur Dixon have conducted a two weeks' mission, which has been owned by the blessing and ingathering of souls. Since then Joseph Farrar has been engaged at Weston-super-Mare.

Charles and Rhoda Coffin, U.S.A., who are spending a while in England, have held a meeting to great edification among young Friends of Stoke Newington meeting; while Elwood Scott, before attending Dublin yearly meeting, is to conduct two series of meetings, one in Leeds and one in Liverpool.

SALVATION ARMY.

A slight improvement is reported in the health of Mrs. Booth.

A Parsee has given the Indian branch of the Army 1200 rupees towards their temperance work.

Colonel Booth-Clibborn and the Maréchale are holding a series of meetings in London and the provinces on behalf of the work in France.

Commissioner Smith, after returning from a tour in Holland, Denmark, and Sweden, reports very hopefully of the work in those countries.

Last week's War Cry contains an illustrated article by Commissioner Railton, on the subject of the recent prosecutions at Torquay. The story, as related by Mr. Railton, is full of interest.

After "trying for years to gain an entrance" into the town, work has been commenced in Bedford. The opening meetings were crowded. Work has also been started at Cleckheaton, Yorkshire.

Mr. G. B. Studd has recently visited Ceylon, for the purpose of seeing something of the work of the Army in that island. According to the Ceylon Auxiliary Gazette, he is more than delighted with the results.

Findochty and Portessie, in the north of Scotland, are in the midst of a revival, "Souls are being saved night and day," says Major Deakin, "and time would fail to tell of the wonderful workings of God upon the souls of the people along this coast."

BAPTIST.

There are now 7700 children in the Sabbath-schools connected with the Metropolitan Tabernacle.

At the annual meeting of the London Strict Baptist Association the reports showed a membership of 3779. During the year there had been 171 baptisms.

The church at Bloomsbury have resolved to use only unfermented wine at the communion. There were two dissentients—one connected with the wine trade, the other a brewer's son.

The church at Devonshire-square, Stoke Newington-road, N., are about to celebrate their fifth jubilee, and desire as a thankoffering to extinguish the debt of £1950 on the branch mission at Wellington-road.

At the annual meeting of the church at Wynne-road, Brixton, a most cheering report was read. During the year 62 members were added to the church. A Young People's Guild has been formed and good work has been done in all departments.

Rev. G. W. Sawday, founder of the Tumkur Wesleyan Orphanage, Mysore, India, preached sermons in aid of the funds of the Baptist Missionary Society, at Vernon-square Chapel, King's-cross, on Sunday week, and gave an interesting missionary address to the scholars in the afternoon.

Rev. W. R. Skerry reports a net increase of 34 in the membership of Woodbury Down Chapel, Seven Sisters-road, during the past year. He remarks: "The efforts of those who have gone out to scatter invitations have been perceptibly felt, and the year of shorter, more special Sunday services has drawn many to constant attendance on the worship of God."

METHODIST.

News has come to hand from the Methodist New Connexion missionaries of several favourable openings for work in China, if additional funds can be obtained.

Rev. Duncan M'Gregor, of Dunoon, has conducted a very successful mission at Partick, Glasgow. Saints have been quickened and sinners turned to righteousness.

In Joyful News, Rev. Thomas Champness advocates the establishment of a new order of foreign missionaries—young lay evangelists who will be willing to work among the heathen without any guaranteed salary.

A Military and Naval Convention was recently held in the City-road Chapel, E.C. The body of the chapel was nearly filled with soldiers, with here and there a few sailors, contingents having come from Hounslow, Woolwich, Chatham, Portsmouth, and other stations. Thrilling and lively accounts were eagerly given by soldiers and sailors of their personal experience of religion and of its progress in the army and navy.

PRESBYTERIAN.

Over one hundred members have been added to the communion roll of St. James's Established Church, Clydebank, during the past year.

The Church of Scotland's mission in the Darjeeling district, India, is very prosperous. Rev. W. Macfarlane has baptized over sixty persons at Kalimpong since January.

The Free Church in Rose-street, Glasgow, reports a net increase during the past year of 141 members, making the total of the roll 772. All the agencies of the church are in a flourishing condition.

The London Presbytery, on the motion of Dr. Donald Fraser, has unanimously resolved to nominate Dr. Oswald Dykes for the Barbour Chair and the principalship of the College in London. The appointment will rest with the Synod.

Rev. Thomas Young, of Ellon, during a recent tour in Palestine, visited the Free Church schools for the education of Mohammedan children at Shweir, on Mount Lebanon, and speaks very highly of the work being done by Dr. William Carslaw and Miss Dobie.

In a stirring address at a public missionary meeting at Liverpool last week, Rev. W. S. Swanson said the English Presbyterian Church had got hold of the southern parts of China, and the Chinese are now supporting their own churches, and sending missionaries to their own countrymen.

After a lengthy disscusion in Edinburgh U.P. Presbytery on the question of withdrawing the Church's missions from Spain and Japan, it was resolved to recommend the Synod to continue the work in Spain and to deal with the Japan mission in the way most helpful to the missionary interests of the Church.

If necessary, the Free Church of Scotland Foreign Mission Committee will unite with other missionary societies in calling attention to the condition of affairs in East-Central Africa. It is proposed to remind the Government of the pledges given to Dr. Livingstone that something should be done to suppress the slave-trade.

CONGREGATIONAL.

Dr. William Adamson, of Edinburgh, has received a cordial invitation to become the ministerial colleague of Dr. Joseph Parker at the City Temple.

The will of the late Mr. James Spicer includes a bequest of £500 to the London Missionary Society, and £300 to the Colonial Missionary Society.

Rev. W. Courtnall, of Sudbury, has closed a successful eight days' mission at Alderton, Suffolk. The congregations were large; the word was with power, and much good was effected.

At the annual meeting of the Warwickshire Congregational Union the secretary reported that there are no vacant pastorates in the county, and the churches are prosperous and peaceful.

Dr. Parker intends to take a new departure in his Thursday morning services at the City Temple. During the next three months he will deliver a course of lectures on such subjects as "London," "The Moral Aspects of Journalism," "Mr. Spurgeon and the Baptists," "American Preaching and Preachers," &c.

At the fifth anniversary of Rev. J. Ossian Davies's pastorate at New Court Chapel, Tollington-park, N., it was reported that the membership numbers 940; and the Sunday-schools over 1200 children, with 90 teachers. A new mission work has recently been started in Green-lanes, under very promising auspices; and the New Court friends have helped to establish an institute for working lads in Clifton-road.

Rev. C. New, of Hastings, was last week in Ipswich, conducting a mission. At his request, the members of his congregation spent the hour of noon in prayer for a blessing on his labours there. Every day of the week the room was full, and pleading intercessions were made on his behalf. All the town and village missions of this church in Hastings are receiving much blessing in the way of decided conversions. During the winter, evangelistic services are held after the Sunday evening services in Robertson-street Chapel. A devoted band of young men go into the streets and lead in the people, who throng the chapel area. This revival has been going on since the Hastings memorable Conference.

NOTES FROM IRELAND.

Last Saturday, being St. Patrick's Day, meetings for united prayer, on behalf of Ireland, were held, under the auspices of the Evangelical Alliance, in Dublin, Belfast, and other towns.

The Association for Employment of Industrious Blind is doing a good work in Belfast. It has kept in constant employment during the year 67 blind persons, of whom 43 were men, and 24 women.

Mr. George Clarke has revisited Cork, and held five Gospel meetings, which were largely attended. Mr. Clarke has accepted the invitation of the Evangelical Alliance to labour for six months in Ireland in 1889.

Rev. J. Gelson Gregson, of India, has been delivering in Belfast during the past week, under the auspices of the Irish Temperance League, a series of powerful lectures on "The Demoralisation of the Native Races of India and Africa."

Much blessing has attended a series of Gospel meetings held during the past fortnight, by Messrs. Burrows and Rainey, of the Irish Evangelisation Society, in the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, at Boyle, Ballyfarron, and Ballymote.

"FALLEN ON SLEEP."

Rev. Elias Tardy, J.P., for 38 years the respected rector of Aughnamullen, Ballybay, co. Monaghan, in the 74th year of his age.—Mr. J. M'Clenahan, J.P., of Rathfuland, co. Down, an active member of the Presbyterian Church.—Rev. Matt. T. Moriarty, at Killaghter Rectory, Donegal, aged 67 years.—At Londonderry, aged 88 years, Rev. J. C. McCausland, formerly rector of Clonmore.—Mr. Peter Roe, of Maryborough, a leading Episcopalian.—Rev. Benjamin Hellier, Principal of the Headingly Theological Institution.—Mr. Robert Steel, late farmer Kilbucho Mains, Peeblesshire, and for many years engaged in earnest evangelistic work in the North of England and in Scotland.—Rev. Arthur Hanbury, for sixty-three years vicar of Bures, Suffolk.—Rev. Richard Steel, pastor of the Baptist Church, Kelso.—Rev. D. Mackenzie, parish minister of Lairg, N.B.—Rev. H. W. Kemp, canon of York, for thirty-three years vicar of St. John's, Hull.

◆

DELITZSCH ON THE PSALMS.*

THE second volume of this edition of Dr. Delitzsch's famous commentary opens with Ps. xxxvi., and concludes with Ps. lxxxix. Another volume, containing the remaining Psalms, will complete the work.

Delitzsch needs no introduction to English Bible-students; his high reputation as a scholar is equalled by his true devotion to Scripture study. While addressing himself with much vigour to a consideration of the very jots and tittles of textual criticism, Delitzsch never loses sight of the plain contextual drift; he is a sincere disciple of Christ, and in his interpretations of the Word he ever prefers the evident spiritual intent to mere critical conjecture.

It will interest many to know Delitzsch's view of Ps. lxviii. This Psalm is described as "A Hymn of War and Victory, in the Style of Deborah," and the treatment is certainly masterly. The commentator maintains that the theme is the victory of the God of Israel over the world, and he explains verses 12—15 as portraying the blessed condition in which God puts his Church by giving it the hostile world-powers as a spoil.

12. The Lord will make the summons resound;
    Of the heraldesses of victory there is a great host.
13. Kings of hosts shall flee, shall flee,
    And she that tarrieth at home shall divide the spoil.

In his exhaustive comment, Delitzch says: "This effective intervention on the part of God conjures at once a totally new situation of affairs into existence; the heraldesses—a great host. Victory and triumph follow upon God's ômer ('summons'), as upon his y'hî ('let...be!'). Singing women celebrated the deliverance of Israel from Pharaoh's host, their emancipation from Jabin's power by the overthrow of Sisera, the victory of Jephthah over the Ammonites, and the victorious duel of David with Goliath. On this occasion, also, God's decisive word will go forth, and of the women that tell the good tidings, like Miriam and Deborah, there will be a great host. Verse 13 describes the theme of triumphant exultation."

Psalm lxix. is entitled by Delitzsch "Supplication of One Who is in Deep Affliction as a Confessor." In the commentary, the many quotations from this Psalm in the New Testament are considered in detail, and it is well remarked: "The whole Psalm is typico-prophetic, so far as it is the account of a life and suffering, whether it be the history of a king or a prophet, fashioned by God into a prophecy in fact of Jesus the Christ, and so far as the spirit of prophecy has ever fashioned the account itself into a word of prophecy concerning the Coming One."

In common with all Dr. Delitzsch's works, this one does not stop short of substantial elucidation of the Scriptures. Psalm lxxii. is described as "thoroughly Messianic." The translation into English of this difficult book is certainly in good hands.

---

* BIBLICAL COMMENTARY ON THE PSALMS. By Frana Delitzsch, D.D. From the latest German edition, specially revised by the author. Vol. ii. Translated by Rev. David Eaton, M.A. 7s. 6d. Hodder & Stoughton. FOREIGN BIBLICAL LIBRARY SERIES.

DR. MEREDITH'S Tuesday evening Bible-class in Brooklyn is attended by at least 1500 persons.

Forthcoming Meetings.

The Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, and Wales on due notice. Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, W.C.

The Irish Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

The Church Army will send evangelists (working-men) to any clergymen on due notice, for short or long missions. Hon. Sec., 128 & 130, Edgware-road, W.

The Metropolitan Tabernacle Evangelists' Association will send lay preachers and evangelists to any chapel or hall of any evangelical denomination in London. Hon. Sec., 121, Camberwell New-road, S.E.

The Country Towns Mission supplies qualified missionaries for work in the country. Apply to Secretary, 18, New Bridge-street, Ludgate-circus, E.C.

Y.M.C.A., New Metal Exchange, Whittington-avenue, E.C.—Lecture on "The Tabernacle," by Mr. John McCall, March 27, 6.30 p.m. Special services by the Mission Band, Y.M.C.A., Gordon Hall, Margate, March 29 to April 2.

Conference Hall and Y.M.C.A., Stratford, E.—Sunday, March 25, 3 and 7 p.m., Mr. J. Williams. Bible-readings, Sunday, 3 p.m; Tuesday, 8.15 p.m.; Wednesday, 8.15 p.m. Evangelistic services, Saturdays, 7.30 p.m.

Y.M.C.A., Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road, W.—Good Friday, March 30, breakfast, 8 a.m.; chairman, Professor Gladstone; addresses by Revs. J. Olphert, N. Sherbrooke, F. B. Meyer, R. P. Cook, Frank White, and Mr. C. R. Hurditch. Missionary lecture, by Rev. W. S. Swanson, on "China," 8 p.m.

Y.M.C.A., Willoughby-road, Hampstead. — Annual meeting, Tuesday, March 27, 8 p.m., addressed by Mr. Hugh M. Matheson, Rev. F. B. Meyer, and Rev. H. Sharpe.

Y.M.C.A., The Priory, 198, Upper-street, N.—Thursday, March 22, social meeting, North London Bible-class Union, in connection with Business Houses; 7 p.m., refreshments; 8 p.m., meeting. Sunday, March 25, Bilble-class, 3.15 p.m., on "Consecration." Mr. Stephen Pewtress; open-air meeting, 8 p.m.; evangelistic meeting, 8.30 p.m. Wednesdays, 6.30 p.m., anxious inquirers and strangers.

Y.M.C.A., Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.—Sunday next, 7 p.m., address, by Rev. John McNeill, of Edinburgh. Monday, March 26, lecture (free), by Dr. S. Wainwright, "History Repeats Itself."

Y.M.C.A., 186, Aldersgate-street, E.C. — This day (Friday), Rev. R. W. McAll, of Paris, will address the noon meeting; 8 p.m., special address to young men, by Mr. J. H. Putterill; subject—"The Ethiopian." Monday next, 8 p.m lecture by Rev. Adam Chambers, U.S.A., on "The Pilgrim's Progress," with pictorial illustrations.

Burlington Hall, 23, Savile-row, entrance by Mill-street, Conduit-street. — Mrs. Yapp will give addresses on "The Brides of Scripture, as Unfolding some of the Glories of the Church of God," on Thursdays, April 5, 12, 19, to women only.

Wesleyan West Central Mission.—St. James's Hall: Fridays, at 12 noon, Rev. Mark Guy Pearse; 7.30 p.m., Rev. Hugh Price Hughes. Sundays, 11 a.m., Rev. Mark Guy Pearse; 3.30 and 7 p.m., Rev. Hugh Price Hughes. Wardour Hall: Mondays, 8 p.m., Rev. Mark Guy Pearse; daily prayer-meeting from 1.30 to 2 p.m. All seats always free.

Conference Hall, Mildmay-park, N.—Sunday, March 25, 3 30 p.m., Mr. P. S. Badenoch; 7 p.m., Mr. John G. McVicker. Wednesday, March 28, 8.45 p.m., annual meeting of Men's Night School.

Great Assembly Hall, Mile End-road, E.—Sunday, March 25, at 11 a.m., 6.30 p.m., and week-nights at 8, Mr. W. R. Lane.

Regent's Park Chapel, Park-square, W. (near Portland-road Station)—Sundays, Rev. F. B. Meyer, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Visitors welcome. Gallery free.

Clapton Hall, Alkham-road, Cazenove-road, Upper Clapton.—Mr. C. Russell Hurditch, Sunday, 6.30 p.m., and Friday, 7.30 p.m.

East London Training Institute.—Workers' prayer-meeting, every Friday, at Harley College, Bow, at 3.30.

House of Rest, 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn, N.W.—Friday, March 23, 7 p.m., holiness meeting; tea, 6 p.m.

Sailors' Welcome Home, 173, St. George's-street, Ratcliff-highway, E.—"Christian Lifeboat Crew," monthly meeting, Tuesday, April 3, 7 p.m; address by Mr. R. Scott Moncrieff.

Bethnal Green Free Library, London-street, near Bethnal Green Junction, E.—Annual meeting, March 26, 8 p.m., Lord Brassey in the chair.

West Kensington Hall, Hammersmith-road.—Sunday, March 25, 7 p.m., Lord Radstock.

Christian Convention, Norwich, April 11 and 12.

Glasgow Meetings of Christians, Queen's Rooms, Clifton-street, and Christian Institute, 70, Bothwell-street, Monday and Tuesday, April 2 and 3.

Dublin Believers' Meetings, May 29, 30, 31, and June 1.

Rev. J. Neil is giving his course of lectures, on "The Land and the Book," at the Y.W.C.A., Morley Halls, 316, Regent-street, W., on Monday evenings, at 8.30.

St. George's Hall, Langham-place, W.—Mr. G. Hucklesby, during March. Sunday 11 and 7. Wednesday, 8 p.m., Burlington Hall, Savile-row.

Christian Workers' Re-union for Bible study and prayer, 186, Aldersgate-street, every Thursday, at 3.30.

Merchants' Lecture, Finsbury Chapel, Moorfields, E.C.—Tuesday, 12 noon, Rev. Dr. John Kennedy.

Women's Mission House at Jerusalem.—Prayer-meeting for the above, No. 2 Room, Eccleston Hall, every Saturday, 4.15 p.m.

City Temple.—The following is a list of lectures which Dr. Parker intends to deliver at the Thursday morning service in the City Temple:—March 22, "London: East and West"; March 29, "Moral Aspects of Journalism"; April 5, "Urgent Church Reforms"; April 12, "A Converted Pulpit"; April 19, "Church and Chapel"; April 26, "Mr. Spurgeon and the Baptists"; May 2, "The Classes and the Masses"; May 9, "American and English Preachers and Preaching."

Bank Holiday, April 2.—The conference of Christian workers, in connection with the Evangelistic Mission, announced last week, will be held at the Conference Hall, Eccleston-street, near Victoria Station, S.W., instead of Kilburn Hall, owing to the unsafe condition of that building; 4 and 6.30 p.m.

Edinburgh Castle, Limehouse, E.—Sunday next, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Mr. Richard Weaver; 3 p.m., Rev. Henry Bright. Dr. Barnardo's Young Emigrants.—Farewell meetings to 200 trained lads leaving for Canada, noonday prayer-meeting, Y.M.C.A., Aldersgate-street, Monday, March 26, at 12 noon, and Edinburgh Castle same evening, at 8.

St. Matthew's Church, Bayswater, W.—Sunday, March 25, address to men only, 4.15 p.m., by Rev. Henry Dening.

Portman Rooms, Baker-street, W.—Gospel services, by Evangelistic Mission, April 8, and following Sunday evenings in April. Preacher, Mr. Abraham Wallis. The co-operation of local Christian workers earnestly invited.

Metropolitan Music Hall, Edgware-road.—Sunday, 7 p.m., special address, solos by Miss Burford. Good Friday, an evening of sacred song.

Hyde Park Hall, Stourcliffe-street, Edgware road.—Sunday, 3 p.m., address to believers; also Tuesday, 8 p.m.

Notices.

T.L.B.—Apply to British and Foreign Bible Society.

Communications Received with Thanks.—J.E.H A.M. G.C. J.E. M.C.V. B.M. J.L. L.K.S. E.P.H. A.S. M.M.L. J.B.F. W.J.L. H.J.S. F.C.Y. T.W.V. L.P. T.V. E.L.L. D.R. G.P. J.K. A.F.M.S. A W. G.B. J.F.P. H.T. A.C.R. F.M.Y. M.E.S. D.H. M.C. W.H.M. A.M. R.C. C.H.S.W. H.M.W. C.S.W. A.J.M. S.L. F.B.M. W.D.C. E.L. W.C.B. H.S.R. C.D. W.H L. W.H. P.A.D. A.H. E.F.B. F.C.R. J.D. J.G.C. J.M.P. H.P.T. G.F.H. J.K. M.K.K. F.G.W. A.W.P. G.F. T.W. A.C.T. C.B. F.T.L. J.T.W. D.B. W.F.G. W.G.M. C.C. E.M.W. A.S. L.C. J.McG. F.W.H. J.B. C.E.B. J.P.H. V.J.A. J.S. W.B. J.M.D. E.S. W.W. B.C. C G. F.W.H. A.B. N.O.B. J.H. J.E.H. C.M. G.E.P. M.E.H. A.J.G. J.C.C. R.B. H.D. W.A.G. T.R. W.E.H. W.R. H.F.R. M.C. A.A.C. T.K. C.R.A. G.B. E.P.T. J.T.D.D. J.T. E.S.M. F.B. J.G.H. S.J.

Applicants for Tracts. — C. Good, Cross-street, Crowle, Doncaster; Miss E. C. Badger, The Custard House, Yardley-road, Birmingham; Rev. J. W. Atkinson, 303, Old Ford-road, London, E.; M. Williams, 44, High-street, Cyr Mawr, Ruabon; E. Potter, 6, Suffolk-road, St. Ann's road, Stamford Hill, N.; Mrs. Pargiter, Church Missionary Society, St. John's College, Agra, N.W.P., India (bright and illustrated, for distribution amongst soldiers and in hospitals); F. P. Keen-White, 62, Palmerston-road, Holloway, N.; Sister Emma, The Children's Home, Bonner-road, Victoria Park, London, E.; W. Lippett, 1, Walker's-buildings, Lich-street, Worcester; G. Brereton, Portarlington, Ireland (for the army); Rev. H. B. Bisshopp, 2, Archer-terrace, Springfield-road, St. Leonards-on-Sea; F. C. Young, 151, Cable-street, St. George's, E.; D. Abba, 47, Courtney-street, Holderness-road, Hull; Rev. M. Pryor, Church-square, Oldbury, Birmingham; B. Middleton, 138, High-street, Ramsgate; J. L. Best, Parliament-street, Coventry-road Birminghrm; J. Smith, 26, Bath-road, Margate, Kent; F. G. Wheeler, 7, Grayshott-road, S.W.; Mrs. Powis, Whitecross-road, Weston-super-Mare; Miss Padley, Clovelly, Whitecross-street, Weston-super-Mare; Miss E. Edney, 67, Dynevor-road, Stoke Newington, London, N.

[As it is found that infidels and others send tracts to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most desirable that all books and papers received should be carefully read before being given away.]

PASTOR THEODORE MONOD, of Paris, and Pastor Wheatcroft, of Orleans, have been elected to represent the French Evangelical Reformed Church at the Presbyterian Congress to be held in London in July next.

PROTESTANTISM IN MEXICO. — The General Assembly of Mexican Evangelical Missionaries recently held was attended by representatives of eleven different churches. A significant item in the statistical return is —"number of martyrs, sixty-two."

CHINA, according to The North China Herald, has a population of 392,000,000. This is independent of the population of Tibet, Kashgar, Ili, and Corea. The total number of souls ruled by the Emperor of China, therefore, exceeds 400,000,000, and still displays a tendency to increase. China has two or three times the population of Africa, one-and-a-half times the population of India, and ten times the population of Japan. It holds one-third of the entire heathen world, and about one-quarter of the whole world.

Subscriptions received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott to Monday, March 19, 1888.

 Will donors oblige us by giving explicitly and fully the titles of the missions to which they wish their donations to be applied? Mistakes which sometimes arise will thus be obviated. Will they also bear in mind that our Donation List is made up for the Printer on Monday morning? Any amounts received afterwards will be acknowledged in the subsequent week's number.

 We would respectfully urge all our friends, when remitting to us, to make Cheques, Money Orders, or Postal Orders payable to Morgan & Scott, and to cross them "City Bank;" this will effectually prevent loss of same.

 Donations should be sent by Cheque or P.O. Orders, not by stamps.

	£	s.	d.
Working Men's Mission, New Cut—M.S.	2	2	0
St. Giles' Christian Mission—B.B. 4s 6d; A.A.T. £1; M.H. 5s; C.C.F.A. 10s; S.A.T. 5s	2	4	6
Dock Labourers' Mission (Mr. Coleman)—Miss B., 5s; L.B. 10s	0	15	0
China Inland Msn.—S.R.S. £1; South Weald, 2s	1	2	0
Kabyle & Berber Mission—S.R.S.	1	0	0
Mr. Rabinowitz's Work—S.R.S.	1	0	0
Children's Special Service Mission—S.R.S. 10s; Foreign Branch—Mrs. C. £2; G.A.M. 5s; T.R.F. 10s...	3	5	0
Spezia Protestant Hospital—S.R.S.	1	0	0
Kolar Mission (Miss Anstey)—S.R.S.	0	10	0
Mr. A.G. Brown's Work—O.W.E. 7s 6d; C.C.F.A. 10s; V. £1; Leam, £1...	2	17	6
Unemployed, Millwall Docks (Mr. Chorley)—C.E.Y. 10s; O.W.E. 7s 6d; S.A.T. 5s; T.R.F. 10s; Miriam, £1	2	12	6
Children's Free Dinners—M.H.	0	5	0
Salvation Army—L.J.W. 3s 2d; T.C.E. 3s ...	0	6	2
Professor De Launay's Mission—Anon...	0	19	0
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—Boys, Old Hall School	0	6	7
Latimer Church, Bow (Food, &c., for Poor)—S.A.T....	0	5	0
London Samaritan Society, &c.—T.C.E. 2s; Miriam, £2	2	2	0
British & Foreign Bible Society—W.	0	5	0
Irish Church Missions—W.	0	5	0
Scripture Readers' Society, Ireland—W.	0	5	0
Bible & Colportage Society, Ireland—W.	0	5	0
Children's Home (Dr. Stephenson)—R.C.	10	0	0
Scutari Medical Mission—Mrs. P....	2	2	0
George-yard Ragged Schools—Ida...	0	3	0
Mr. Orsman's Work (Sick Members Fund)—V. £2; Donkey Show—V. £1; Convalescent Cottage—V. £2; Irish Stew Dinners—V. £3; Maternity Fund—V. £1; Summer Excursions—V. £1 ...	10	0	0
Mildmay Mission—V.	4	0	0
Y. M. Foreign Missionary Society—M.S.	2	2	0
Five & Seven Dials Mission (Mr. Harrison)—J.C.	0	5	0
Lambeth Ragged Schools—J.C.	0	3	9
Dock Labourers—J.C.	0	3	0
Mrs. Ginever's Orphans' Home—J.C.	1	6	0
Free Circulation of Mr. Dyer's Letter on India—Trusting	2	0	0
Tower Hamlets Mission—J.L.H.	3	3	0
Widow of late Rev. A. Lamb—G.S.	0	10	0
Distress in S.E. London—J.T.	5	0	0
Suppression of Opium Traffic with China (Lecturing & Travelling Agent)—Rev. E.S. 10s; W.B. Junr. 1s; M.W. 10s	1	1	0
Cow-cross Mission (Ventnor Home)—E.A., Richmond	0	5	0
Mr. Fegan's Boys' Home—Miriam...	2	0	0
	£67	16	0

[Advertisements.]

Home for the Fatherless (Mr. Toye)—Irish Sympathy, £1.

Dr. Barnardo's Homes—London, E.C., Eight Coupons of 30 dollars each; A Friend at T., 5s.

Barbican Mission to Jews (Mr. Warschawski)—E.V. 10s.

London Samaritan Society (Free Meals)—Z.Y.X. £1; Mr. S.P. £1; S.A.W., 5s; A. 2s 6d.

Latymer-road Mission—Thankoffering, Clifton, £1.

St. Giles' Christian Mission—J.H.B. £1.

Cow-cross Misison—Thankoffering, Clifton, £1.

Latimer Church, Bow (Food, Fuel, &c., for Poor)—J.T. £5; Mrs. Iles, 10s; Lent Savings, 5s; Poor Children's Free Meals, £1.

Dinners for Dock Labourers (Mr. Chorley)— A.R. £3 Brompton, £1; A Trifle, 2s 6d; Mrs. G.P. 5s; Bath, 5s Destitute Children—Mabel, 10s.

Mission Appeals.

East-end Children—Rev. Cæsar Caine, 38, Grove-road, Bow, E., appeals for help in relief work among the 750 children who attend the Lycett Memorial Wesleyan Schools. Children's clothing, and especially boots and shoes, will be gratefully acknowledged.

Poplar.—£150 is required to continue the many branches of work in the East-end, including Factory Girls' Institute. We have been compelled to stop much useful work for want of help. Any left-off clothing or articles in kind will also be thankfully received by G. Fuller, Welcome Hall, Culloden-street, Poplar, E.

Dock Labourers' Mission (32, Chamber-street, London Docks, E.).—We are anxious to continue the supplies of food and lodgings given daily to the unemployed labourers at all the Docks in London until the weather is milder. There are many thousands of poor men out of employment at present, and they are in a state of semi-starvation.—C. H. Coleman.

"SWARMING OFF!"

200 Trained Lads (the First Party this year) will (D.V.) "swarm off" from our various "Homes" for Canada on March 29. Of this number about 50 will be bound for our New Industrial Farm, Manitoba, the remainder for Ontario.

If only the needful Funds are forthcoming, at least 600 carefully trained youngsters will (D.V.) be placed out in the Dominion this year.

But the question of want of Funds is more serious this year than formerly, for we are very much poorer now, and dare not arrange for the departure of one boy or girl unless the whole sum needed is received or promised beforehand.

£8 10s. will defray the entire cost of Emigrating one Boy to Ontario.

£51 will do the same for Six Boys; £102 for Twelve boys; £170 for Twenty Boys.

To send Youths (of 16 to 21 years of age) to Manitoba is more expensive, a railway journey of 2,000 miles further West having to be paid for; but the greater advantages of placing the big fellows from our Labour House there, rather than in Ontario, are well worth paying the higher rate to secure.

£11 will defray the entire cost of Emigrating one Youth to Manitoba.

£66 will do the same for six Lads; £132 for twelve Lads; or £220 for twenty Lads.

God grant that it may lie in the power of many who will read this page to assis in diverting the current of these young lives into healthful channels, and at the same time to relieve our overcrowded English Cities, by sending gifts in aid of our Emigration Fund.

Readers of The Christian do not now need to be assured that this is really God's work, or that the whole is being carried on, on strictly Christian lines; but I am sure they will rejoice to know that many of the dear fellows now on our list of Candidates for Emigration have been brought to a knowledge of the Truth, while under my care, and appear to be sincere followers of Christ. They will doubtless spread the Gospel in the New Country of their adoption, as very many of their predecessors have done.

Who then, by promising one or other of the above amounts, will strengthen my hands yet more to do God's work, and at the same time help to give a real start in life to some of these young fellows who have been rescued from utter destitution and evil surroundings, and carefully tested and trained for years or months past in our "Homes?" Our need is pressingly urgent, for the time is short.

Contributions to our Emigration Fund will be gratefully received and acknowledged by

Your faithful Fellow-labourer among the Waifs and Strays of the Streets, 18 to 26, Stepney Causeway, London, E. THOS. J. BARNARDO.

BY SPECIAL ROYAL AND IMPERIAL WARRANT!

Under the direct Patronage of HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN and the Royal Families of Europe.

FASHIONABLE DRESS MATERIALS

For Ladies, Children, and Gentlemen.

Unsurpassed for Beauty, Novelty, and Sterling Value.

Prices for Ladies—from 10½d. to 5s. 6d. per yd.

PATTERNS POST FREE.

REGISTERED.

Egerton Burnett's Royal Serges

REGISTERED.

NEW PATTERNS FOR SPRING, 1888.

Any Length of Material Sold.

Carriage Paid on Orders of £1 in value to any Railway Station in the United Kingdom.

Goods Packed for Exportation.

CAUTION—NO AGENTS. NO REPRESENTATIVES. NO BRANCHES.

Address—EGERTON BURNETT, Serge Warehouse, WELLINGTON, SOMERSET.

INDIAN MUSLIN.

Pure Cream-coloured Muslin (25 inches wide). Washes well. Useful for

DRESSES,
CURTAINS,
BLINDS,
DRAPERIES,
SHADING, &c.

45 Yards for 6s. 6d. Free per post on receipt of Postal Order.

90 Yards for 12s. 6d. Free per post on receipt of Postal Order.

And in Colours. Much used for Decoration, Bazaars, Entertainments, &c. Beautiful Effects at a Small Cost. Novelties also in Useful and Fancy Fabrics for Dresses and Draperies.

Patterns and Prices Post Free.

JOHN KAY AND SONS, BURNLEY WOOD MILLS, BURNLEY.

Possessing all the Properties of the Finest Arrowroot,

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR

IS A HOUSEHOLD REQUISITE OF CONSTANT UTILITY

For the NURSERY, the FAMILY TABLE, and the SICK ROOM

Note.—First produced and designated CORN FLOUR by BROWN AND POLSON in 1856; not till some time afterwards was any other Corn Flour anywhere heard of, and none has now an equal claim to the public confidence.

CAN YOU READ THIS?

"COCOON" KNITTING WOOL.

Numerous complaints having been made that inferior wool balled in the same style is sold as Genuine COCOON Wool, please note that none is genuine unless bearing the word COCOON, which is our registered Trade Mark, on the band.

Directions for knitting a number of useful articles free of charge, on receipt of Stamped and Addressed Envelope, mentioning name of this paper.

The fastest possible dyes are used for Cocoon Wool.

WOOD & BURTT,
SPINNERS,
HOLMFIRTH.

BALDWIN & WALKER'S KNITTING AND FANCY WOOLS

TRADE-MARK
REGISTERED

HIGHLAND WOOLS
FINGERING WOOLS
MERINO WOOLS
SHETLAND WOOLS
In Great Variety

Special makes for Machine Knitters

Prices and Patterns of which on Application.

SOLD BY ALL LEADING DRAPERS & HOSIERS.

If any difficulty is found, in obtaining, apply to Manufacturers, who will gladly send address of nearest Retailer.

ESTABLISHED 1836 WEST CROFT MILLS, HALIFAX, YORKSHIRE.

GOLD MEDAL LIVERPOOL, 1886.

A MARVELLOUS REMEDY.

ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS.

The approved Remedy of the age, superseding Liniments, Rubefacients, &c., &c. Of great efficacy in INDIGESTION by being worn over right side of the pit of the stomach.

ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS

RELIEVE AND CURE

ASTHMA,
LUMBAGO,
AGUE IN THE BREAST,
SCIATICA, COUGHS,

COLDS,
KINKS,
PAINS IN THE BACK,
BRONCHITIS, RHEUMATISM,

DYSPEPSIA,
QUINSY,
HEADACHES—Worn back of the Neck.
RUPTURES,
SPASMS.

They are very valuable in Consumption, Pleurisy, Whooping Cough, useful in Hysteria, by wearing the Plaster over the navel. Chronic Costiveness is greatly relieved by wearing one over the bowels.

Wherever a pain is felt apply an Allcock's Porous Plaster, and benefit will be found almost at once. In Sprains they are most excellent. In Ruptures they take the place of the uncomfortable Truss.

Mrs. HENRY WARD BEECHER, widow of the celebrated Preacher, says:—"I have used Allcock's Porous Plasters some years for myself and family, and as far as able for the many sufferers who come to us for assistance, and have found them a genuine relief for most of the aches and pains which flesh is heir to. I have used Allcock's Porous Plaster for all kinds of lameness and acute pain, and by frequent experiments find that they can control many cases not noticed in your circulars."

Sold in various sizes from 1/1½ to 22/6. A great saving is effected in Purchasing the larger sizes.

The 1/9, 4/6 & 22/6 are put up in Tin Cases, and are very handy for Families and Travellers

Insist on having the Genuine, the Guarantee is the Words

THOS. ALLCOCK & CO., POROUS PLASTER,

ON THE STAMP.

Agency: 22, HAMILTON SQUARE, BIRKENHEAD.

EXTRA NUMBER, Price Three Halfpence. The INLAND POSTAGE of this Issue is ONE PENNY.

The Christian:

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

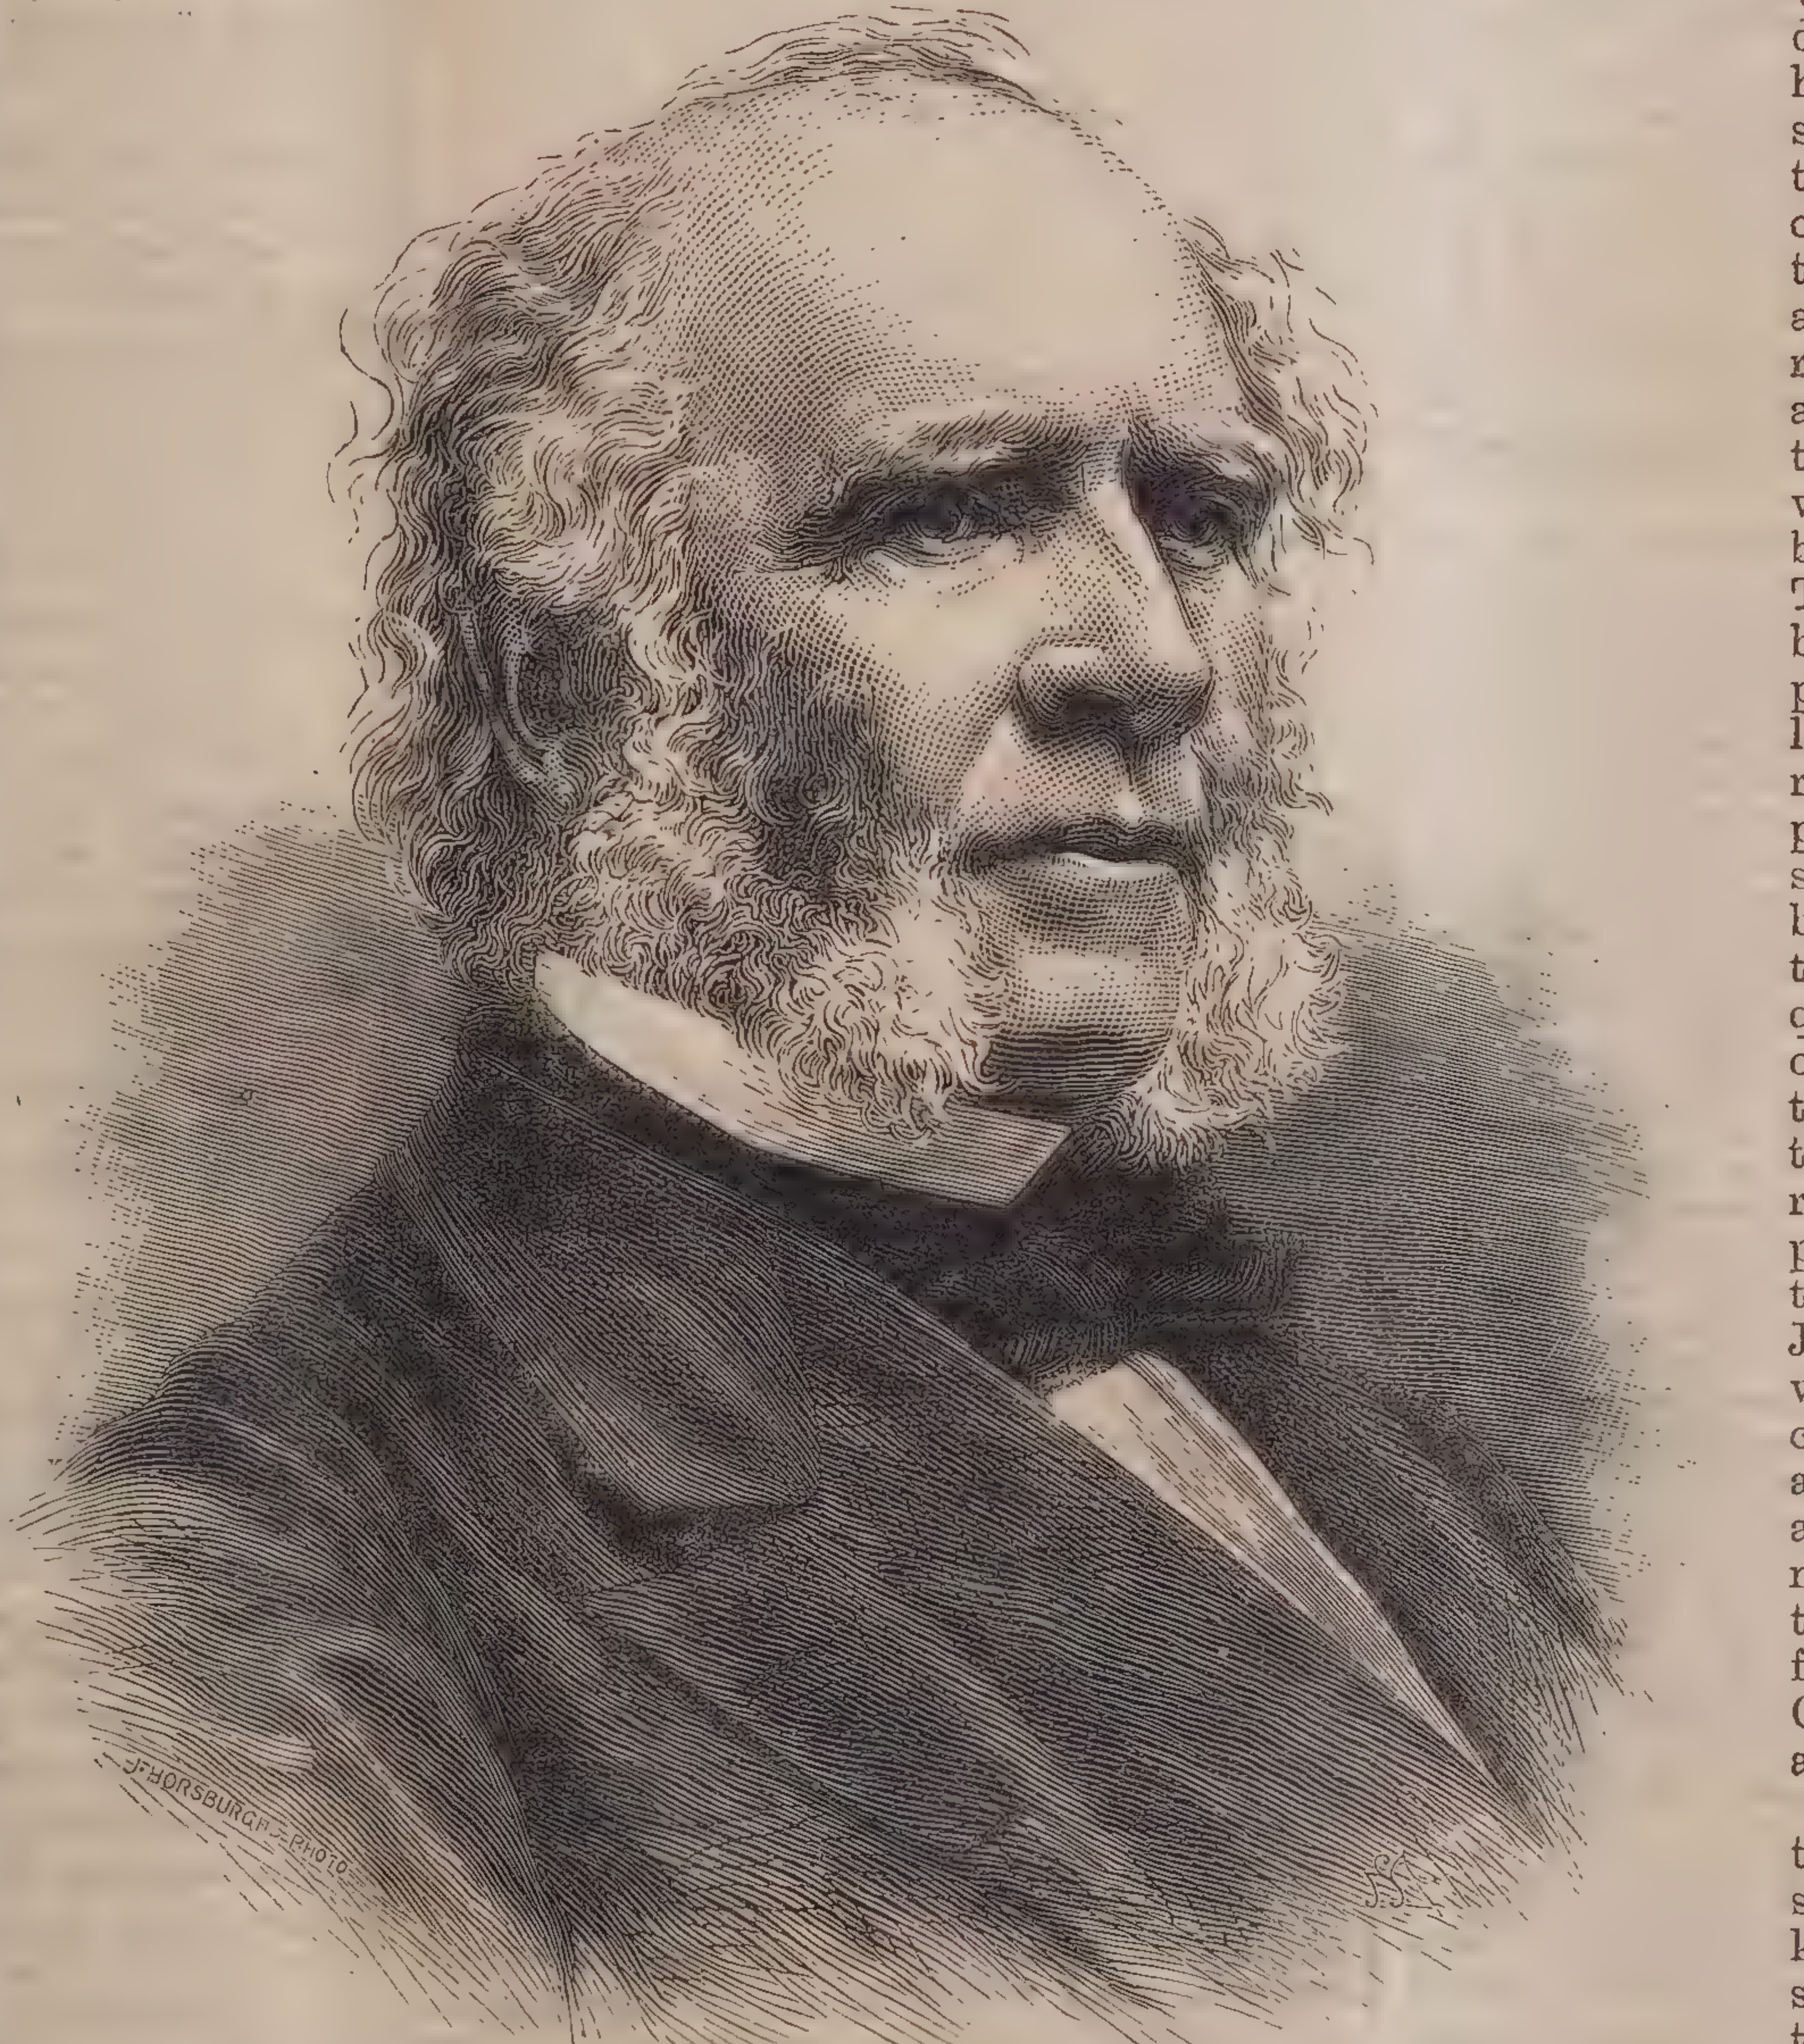
A Weekly Record of Christian Life, Christian Testimony, Christian Work and Missionary Enterprise.

No. 948.] LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS, E.C. FRIDAY, MARCH 30, 1888. REGISTERED AT THE G.P.O. AS A NEWSPAPER. [THREE HALFPENCE POST FREE, 2½d.

THE LATE ROBERT REID KALLEY, M.D.

IN his personal character, in his attainments and skill, Dr. Kalley was a model of what the medical missionary ought to be, while the remarkable success which attended his "work of faith and labour of love" is a most striking illustration of what a Christian physician may do as an evangelist, ever boldly maintaining the honour of his Divine Master, and ready, if need be, to suffer for it.

ROBERT REID KALLEY was born in September, 1809. He studied medicine, and received his diploma in Glasgow in 1830. After two voyages to India, he commenced practice as a doctor in Kilmarnock in the year 1832. He soon entered into all the pleasures and gaieties of a worldly life, and was known in the town as "the young dancing doctor." Alluding to that period of his life, he says of himself, "I was an enemy of God." But, in the midst of his gay, thoughtless career, the Lord met him in the way. Referring to his conversion, he wrote:—"About 1835 I was found of the Lord, chiefly through the testimony of a very poor old Christian woman, whom I was attending. When I began to think of such things, I spoke with another young man in a similar state of mind, named William Hall. We met to read the Bible together. Then an elder, John Lander, joined us, to help and direct; then others, till there were seventeen meeting for the study of God's Word and prayer, weekly, in my house."



(From a Photograph by Mr. J. Horsburgh, Edinburgh.)

Having found peace in believing, he at once began meetings for Bible teaching among the poor people of the district in Kilmarnock which he visited, and whom he attended gratuitously when sick. For so doing, however, he was called up and reproved by several, among whom there were one minister and more than one elder. He was told that "a doctor might speak on religion to a dying person or one seriously ill, but that it belonged to ministers to instruct those in health." On being remonstrated with, however, they admitted that he might perhaps assemble the people to explain a question of the Shorter Catechism, but he should on no account attempt to expound God's Word! Dr. Kalley showed from the first his intense appreciation of the Bible, and, doubtless, from his close, prayerful study of the Scriptures, he learned so valiantly to wield the Sword of the Spirit.

For some years he successfully practised his profession in Kilmarnock; but, ere long, a strong desire to labour among the Chinese stirred his heart. During the year 1837 he was in communication with the London Missionary Society, and ultimately offered himself and was accepted by that Society as a medical missionary to China. On account of health, however, he was compelled to give up this appointment, and was recommended to go to Madeira.

On January 1, 1838, he left Kilmarnock, and, having in the October of the same year taken his degree of M.D. at Glasgow, he went out to that island, determined to work for his Master there. He soon mastered the Portuguese language, and opened a dispensary for the sick poor. To the assembled patients he read the Word of God, and distributed copies of the Bible in Portuguese, while many were eager to buy copies for themselves. The Lord so greatly blessed this work that the preaching of the great love of God for sinners as revealed in Jesus Christ produced a deep impression on the minds of the bigoted Romanists. As the result, many began to question the infallibility of Rome, and were ready to believe the simple truths of the Gospel. This roused the enmity of the priesthood, and persecution quickly followed. In July, 1843, the Doctor was cast into prison on a charge of "blasphemy and abetting heresy and apostacy," and it was not till January, 1844, that, through the interference of the British Government, he was set at liberty.

At this early period of the modern medical missionary enterprise, in acknowledging a letter of sympathy from the Directors of the Edinburgh Medical Missionary Society, sent to him during his imprisonment, Dr. Kalley pleaded most earnestly for the employment of this agency, and testified of its value in the foreign field.

During 1844 the relentless persecution continued; but at this anxious time God sent Rev. W. Hewitson to the island. For fully a year Dr. Kalley and he laboured together as "true yoke-fellows." In May, 1846, after Mr. Hewitson left, the sufferings of the converts greatly increased, until, on August 9, an attack was made by the mob on Dr. Kalley's house. He himself was wonderfully preserved from the violence of his enemies, and, by the good hand of God upon him, escaped from the island. The good seed of the Word, so faithfully sown by his devoted servant, had, however, in spite of persecution, taken root, and, watered by the Holy Spirit, had quietly sprung up and borne fruit to the glory of God, so that during the next few months of this eventful year (1846) upwards of eight hundred men and women, with their families, who had thrown off the yoke of Rome, were compelled to flee from Madeira, in order to escape the fanatical violence of their deluded fellow-countrymen. These refugees found new homes, some in Trinidad, others in the valley of the Mississippi, where they could worship God in peace, according to the dictates of consciences enlightened by the Holy Spirit.

Still requiring for health a mild climate, and as it would have been a tempting of God to return to Madeira, in the autumn of 1847 Dr. Kalley went with his family to Malta. In 1850 he removed to Beyrout, in Syria. Of this period Dr. Kalley wrote:—"In both these places I experienced the very great advantage of the medical profession as a means of opening the way for the Gospel amid Papal or Moslem prejudice."

The following extract from a letter addressed to the Secretary of the Edinburgh Medical Missionary Society, illustrates Dr. Kalley's abundant labours at this time, and is also interesting as a fulfilment of the Divine promise, "Cast thy bread upon the waters: for thou shalt find it after many days":—

> I passed a summer on the Lebanon (1852), and while there devoted four or five hours daily to seeing the sick, and supplying them with medicine; many came from great distances. I seldom went to the houses of my patients; I, however, made an exception in the case of a young man, employed in a silk factory. This youth's mother suffered from dropsy, for which, along with other remedies, I repeatedly tapped her. Her son was present on these occasions...I left Syria soon after, and did not see my patient again, neither did I hear of her son, till a few weeks ago, when I received a letter from him, written in broken English by one of his children. It is dated Dec. 1, 1883, fully thirty-one years after our last interview. In it he reminds me of the operation on his mother, &c., then he adds, "Your speaking to me was always from the Gospel. I listened to your words, not because I believed, but that you should attend my mother." He tells me of his marriage, of being appointed Greek priest, of acting as such "with pleasure for eight years." From the ninth to the seventeenth year of his priesthood, he says, "Your sermons began to grow in my heart." Then conscience obliged him to give up the priesthood; he began meetings for Scriptural worship, in his own house; he was much persecuted; but the Lord was with him. He has now been a Protestant teacher for ten years. Forty meet in his house for worship, and twelve are communicants. He writes: "Your words, which you put in my heart, were buried so many years, then they grew, and became, by God's grace, a large tree which flourishes, and will continue to bring forth fruit, by the power of God."

In 1853, Dr. Kalley took charge of another large company of Madeira people, fully 300, on their way from New York to Illinois, most of whom had been forced to emigrate owing to continued Romish intolerance. These converts had been attracted to the United States by hearing that their former beloved teacher and friend was there on a visit to his old friends. The greater part of 1853-54, the Doctor "spent among the refugees, endeavouring to enlarge their knowledge, faith, and love, and to train them for the home on high."

About this time Dr. Kalley was much impressed by the deplorable spiritual destitution of Brazil, an Empire twenty times the size of Great Britain and Ireland. From having a knowledge of both the Portuguese people and their language, Brazil seemed to him a hopeful sphere for evangelistic effort; accordingly, in May, 1855, he and Mrs. Kalley landed at Rio. They resolved to proceed very quietly, as far as possible, incognito; but they had been there only a few days, when the Doctor was accosted by name, in the street, by an old patient, on whose eyes he had operated in Madeira, about ten years before. He found in Rio so many from that island, as to render useless all attempts to remain unknown.

Three families of Christian Madeirenses, from Illinois, joined Dr. Kalley in Rio, and earnestly worked with him in the Gospel in this new field. They soon met with persecution from the old quarter, the Papal Nuncio appealing to the Brazilian Government. The Emperor, however, visited the Doctor at his own home, and assured him that his wish was for everyone in the Empire to have liberty to worship God according to his own conscience.

A little band of earnest worshippers soon gathered round Dr. Kalley, but persecution was not yet at an end. One Sabbath evening, in August, 1861, before the inquirers had assembled for instruction, a mob surrounded the house in Rio. Armed with clubs and stones, the rioters came shouting, "Biblia! Biblia!" in tones of scornful hatred. In spite of all this, the meetings continued, and were well attended, but this only increased the hatred of Rome. One evening fire-works were exploded in a room where the worshippers had assembled. Dr. and Mrs. Kalley went out, accompanied by a small number of earnest Christian men. The police formed round them, but they were followed by a cursing, raging crowd, throwing stones and dirt, and shouting, "Death to the Protestants!" This was not the only occasion on which they were exposed to such a mob in the public streets. Notwithstanding all these things, this servant of the Lord could say with Paul, "The things which happened unto me have fallen out rather unto the furtherance of the Gospel...Christ is preached, and I therein do rejoice, yea, and will rejoice."

Dr. Kalley was privileged to found the Igreja Evangelica Fluminense in Rio de Janeiro, in 1857, and the Igreja Evangelica Pernambucana, at Pernambuco, in 1873. Although obliged by failing health to leave Brazil in 1877, he was, till the day of his death, lovingly honoured as the pastor of the little church in Rio, which he had tenderly gathered, and so lovingly watched over.

Fully ten years ago, after faithful service abroad, Dr. and Mrs. Kalley came to reside in Merchiston, a suburb of Edinburgh, and ever since their bright home has been a centre of true Christian hospitality. As a director of the Edinburgh Medical Missionary Society, the Scottish Reformation Society, and of the Bible Society, Dr. Kalley still helped on the spread of that Gospel which was ever so dear to him. The deep, fatherly interest which he manifested in students attracted many to him; his bright cheerful home was ever open to them. Many now in Edinburgh, and many more scattered all over the world, while mourning the loss of their beloved friend, will gratefully remember his kind hospitality, and loving counsels, and the happy, profitable evenings spent at Campo Verde.

Dr. Kalley had for some time suffered from an affection of the heart, and knew that the messenger of death might come any day, and suddenly usher him into the presence of the King. On Monday, January 16, he was seized with an attack of asthma of the heart, and after sixteen hours of intense suffering, this devoted servant of God entered on the joys of the higher service in the heavenly home. Thus, in his death, as in his life, he entered into the fellowship of his Lord's sufferings.

On Tuesday, January 24, his much esteemed friend, Rev. J. Hudson Taylor, conducted the funeral service, after which, followed by a large and representative company, including a goodly band of students, the remains were carried to their resting-place in the Dean Cemetery, Edinburgh, where, by loving hands, they were laid to rest, till the resurrection morning.

Dr. Kalley's memory will be long and lovingly cherished by many, as one of the earliest pioneers of modern medical missions, and as a valiant and faithful standard-bearer in the Church's warfare against the enemies of the King. Many more love to remember him as a brother beloved in the Lord, with whom they were privileged to take sweet counsel by the way. Of him it might appropriately have been said, "His delight is in the law of the Lord, and in his law doth he meditate day and night"; "Thy testimonies also are my delight, and my counsellors"; "Chosen in Him...holy... and without blame before Him in love."

◆

MR. SANKEY IN DAKOTA.

Leaving Mr. Moody at Sioux Falls, Iowa, the singing evangelist paid a brief visit to Huron, in Dakota, the blizzard State. Three meetings were held, and, as it was Mr. Sankey's first trip to that region, a wide-spread interest was excited. On the Saturday evening, there was an immense gathering in the Opera-house, and an exceedingly happy and profitable hour was spent. A children's meeting on the Sunday afternoon was also full of interest. Mr. Kimball, the resident agent of the American Sunday-school Union, told the story of his journeyings over the Western prairies, planting Sunday-schools, and distributing Scriptures. Mr. Sankey sang and spoke to the children, and all were delighted. Says The Daily Huronite, "No grander or more impressive meeting of its kind was ever held in Huron."

A great throng filled the Opera-house again on Sunday evening, when, the local scribe says, the interest was centred in Mr. Sankey's singing of "The Ninety and Nine," and his narrative of the circumstances connected with its composition. He also gave "a familiar, tender Gospel talk of half an hour that touched all hearts, and to which a score of persons responded by rising for prayer." As a result of Mr. Sankey's visit, the city pastors have continued the special evangelistic effort.

The SUFFERINGS and the GLORIES OF CHRIST.

THE ignominious death and the glorious resurrection of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ are the Jachin and Boaz of the temple of God; the foundation and the corner-stone of his people's hope; the Alpha and Omega of Christian testimony. The death of the cross looks back to the Eternal Past; the Resurrection points onward to the Eternal Future.

The story of his death implies and embraces all the previous history—the agony in Gethsemane the olive press; the "Crucify Him" of the multitude; the judgments at the palace of the High Priest and at Pilate's bar; the hatred of the Pharisees and Scribes; the healing of the sick and of all who were oppressed by the devil; the vision of his Kingdom and glory on the holy mount; the temptation and baptism; the thirty years of privacy and preparation; the circumcision and the incarnation; the ages of prophetic promise; the types and shadows of the legal and patriarchal periods; the fall of man anticipated, and his redemption provided for, in the covenant between the Father and the Son, by which Jesus became the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world; even He who was in the beginning with God, who was God; the First-born of every creature, by whom God made the worlds. All this is involved when we speak of the precious blood of Christ—

THE SUFFERINGS OF CHRIST.

On the other hand, the word Resurrection carries in its bosom the broken seal and the stone removed from the door of the sepulchre; the touching interview in the garden with faithful Mary Magdalen; the walk of Cleopas and his companion to Emmaus, and the opening of their understanding to understand the Scriptures; the appearance of Jesus in the room where the doors were shut, and Thomas's grand confession, My Lord and my God! The varied meetings with his disciples in Galilee, and in Judea, and the many infallible proofs of his resurrection during those mysterious forty days, in which He showed Himself, yet so unlike his former self; until that wondrous day, when, while He blessed them, a cloud received Him out of their sight, and He sat down on the right hand of Majesty on high. The fulfilment of promise in the outpoured Spirit; the great salvation revealed at Pentecost; the wonders and signs of the Apostolic age. The present High-priesthood of Jesus the Son of God, and the coming reign when the kingdoms of this world shall have become the Kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ. The resurrection of the saints, and their manifestation before his judgment-seat; the judgment of the nations and the destruction of Antichrist; the conversion of the Jewish people and their mission as priests and ministers of God during the thousand years to the peoples who have not heard his fame nor seen his glory; the loosing of Satan and his final overthrow in the lake of fire; the delivering up of the recovered kingdom (lost by the first Adam, recovered by the Second, the Lord from heaven) to God, even the Father, that God may be all in all. All this is involved in

THE GLORIES WHICH SHOULD FOLLOW.

The judgment of the first creation, which fell through Adam's sin, descended exhaustively upon the God-man on Calvary, and the new Creation starts from a new and spiritual Eden on resurrection ground. Those who wilfully reject or neglect the eternal redemption which Jesus obtained for us by his death, and who remain rebels against God and disbelievers in his Christ, die in their sins and seal their separation from the God of life and light; and for them that fearful doom, the second death, the blackness of darkness, is reserved for ever. Those who are united to Jesus Christ, by faith baptized into his death, are united also with Him in eternal life, for He is our Life. We are buried therefore with Him through baptism into his death: that like as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the Father, so we also shall walk in newness of life. For in Him we died and our life is hid with Christ in God.

The inherent glory of this revelation proves it to be from God; and therefore proves the Divine Inspiration of the series of writings by men of all sorts and conditions who, through succeeding ages, spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost. These infinitely far-reaching truths were never even imagined by other men. For eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of man to conceive the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit. Where? In the Scriptures of truth, which they bind together with the black and golden threads of prophecy, the black thread relating to his death, and the golden thread concerning his resurrection.

The sufferings of Christ and the glories which should follow are the core and essence of the good tidings announced at the beginning through them who preached the Gospel unto us with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven; which things the angels desire to look into. There is no more valid and effective test than this; nothing that will so certainly distinguish between the precious and the vile, between the Gospel of Christ and another gospel which is not another.

There is no fear of Down-Grade teaching while the Apostolic Gospel of the sufferings of Christ and the glories which should follow is still preached with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven, to which unfallen angels, as well as fallen sinners, listen eagerly. Then God's Israel is led into the promised land which flows with milk and honey. But when men leave these cardinal and central truths, and wander in the wilderness of their own reasonings, lusting exceedingly in that wilderness and tempting God in that dry desert, He may grant their request for flesh instead of manna, but withal sends leanness into their souls. They may receive glory one of another, until it becomes loathsome to them, instead of the glory that cometh from the only God, but angels are not interested, and sinners are not saved.

But the preaching which is with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven is that of the Apostles, who with great power gave witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus. Jesus and the resurrection! Jesus is the Christ! Opening and alleging from the Scriptures of the Old Covenant that the Christ of prophecy must needs have suffered and have risen again from the dead, and that this Jesus whom we preach unto you is the Christ.

This Gospel is the great power of God, of which no true preacher ever was ashamed, for he has proved it to be the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth, And with its greatest preacher well may he write to his children in the faith:—

> Wherefore I also, after I heard of your faith in the Lord Jesus, and love unto all the saints, cease not to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers; that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give unto you the spirit of wisdom and revelation in the knowledge of Him: the eyes of your heart being enlightened; that ye may know what is the hope of his calling, and what the riches of the glory of his inheritance in the saints, and what is the exceeding greatness of his power to us-ward who believe, according to the working of his mighty power, which He wrought in Christ, when He raised Him from the dead, and set Him at his own right hand in the heavenly places, far above all principality, and power, and might, and dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this world, but also in that which is to come: and hath put all things under his feet, and gave Him to be the Head over all things to the church, which is his body, the fulness of Him that filleth all in all (Eph. i. 15—23).

Our Eastertide may not accurately represent the date of the Lord's death and resurrection, but these will be days of heaven upon earth to us if we are led by the great truths which they commemorate into fellowship with the Father and his Son concerning the sufferings of Christ and the glories which have already begun, and which shall multiply for evermore.

Here it is I find my heaven,
  While upon the Lamb I gaze;
See my trespasses forgiven,
  And my song of triumph raise.

MISSION AT WHITEHAVEN.

A MOST successful mission, conducted by Rev. W. Hay M. H. Aitken and Rev. Jas. Stephens, has been brought to a close, in the parish of St. Nicholas, Whitehaven. The meetings extended from March 10 to 25. Mr. Aitken's morning addresses on the spiritual life have been very powerful and instructive, and his week-night mission services have resulted in many conversions to God. A new life has come to the parish and town, and on every side there is evidence of much blessing.

A quiet but real work has been done amongst the children who attended Mr. Stephens' services in the afternoons. His affectionate and winning manner giving him a strong hold on the attention of the little ones.

Mrs. Crouch addressed a meeting for women only, each Sunday afternoon at 3.30, being the same hour as the meeting for men only, addressed by Mr. Aitken, and they have been much appreciated.

THEATRICAL TEA MEETING.—Mr. William Forbes held another of the meetings for women engaged in the theatres, on Wednesday, 21st inst. After tea, a short service was held, when total abstinence was recommended, and the Gospel was preached. Mr. Forbes has had quite an unusual number of cases of distress to deal with this season.

SAVE THE CHILDREN.—Neglected, ignorant, vicious children are the eating ulcer of our English life, and God punishes us for them. To save but one dear child for Him and his service is to bring a throb of grateful love into his heart and to hide a multitude of sins. Reader, what can you do for children, and the children's Lord? Consider! He will show you!—The Bishop of Rochester, in "Good Words" for April.

FOX-COURT RAGGED SCHOOL.—The annual parents' tea in connection with Fox-court Ragged School and Mission took place last week in the Hall of Gray's Inn. Some 400 of the parents were provided with a substantial meat tea, after which a meeting was held, presided over by Rev. C. J. Ridgeway, vicar of Christ Church, Lancaster-gate, W. The hon. secretary (Mr. Thomas Fagg) gave an account of the various agencies at work. Mothers' meetings, Dorcas society, Sunday-school and girls' schools, Bible-classes, bands of hope, temperance meetings, and various other efforts are put forth for the moral, temporal, and spiritual welfare of the people. The chairman, Rev. E. Richards Adams, Mr. M. Beachcroft, and Rev. J. H. Moran also addressed the meeting.

Notes and Comments.

IN our next issue we hope to give portrait and sketch of the Bishop of Liverpool.

We are glad that The British Weekly courageously grasps the nettle in its articles on Impurity. Nothing can be more suicidal than silence concerning evils which are honeycombing the health and character of our young men.

Kilburn Hall, where Mr. Russell Hurditch has so long laboured, and which is the principal station of the Evangelistic Mission, has been condemned by the surveyor as in a dangerous condition. Indeed, the condemnation has been more than justified by the falling in of a portion of the roof, so that the meetings on Easter Monday are to be held in Eccleston Hall, kindly lent by Lord Radstock for the purpose. It is quite time that a new and commodious building should be provided for this important work, and we are glad to see that a definite scheme is on foot for the erection of suitable premises, at a cost of £5000. We trust that not only will this critical need be met, but that it will become the occasion of a new departure of increased and multiplying usefulness. The present is not a time in which so faithful a band of witnesses for Christ should be in any wise hindered for want of a habitation. On the contrary, all who are vitally interested in the Gospel of God will surely not fail to give this truly evangelistic Mission at this time cordial countenance and liberal support.

In a recent interesting letter to The English Churchman, written from Cairo, Rev. Canon Bell, of Cheltenham, draws attention to a fact which, though it may not be new, is worth noting as bearing powerful witness to the truth of the Bible narrative of the creation. The hieroglyphics, pictures, and sculptures, on the walls of the temples and tombs of Egypt—the oldest historic nation of the world—show unmistakably that animals, plants, trees, and fruits were the same five thousand years ago as they are now, a conclusion which is further established by the embalmed and preserved forms of the men, animals, and birds themselves. This complete similarity was also emphasised by the eminent naturalist, Cuvier, in his "Theory of the Earth." In the face of such a fact as this, what becomes of the evolutionist theory of the transmutation of species by slow changes? Truly, "the wisdom of their wise men shall perish."

That portion of the Local Government Bill which deals with the licensing question is distinctly disappointing. It is, of course, premature to forecast the form which the measure will finally take, but unless some of the provisions are materially altered, it will, if passed, result in the brewing and publican interests being placed in a stronger position than they are at present. True, power is proposed to be given to the county councils to impose Sunday closing; but that the granting of this power should, as Mr. Ritchie indicated, be made to depend upon the acceptance of the totally unnecessary and uncalled-for compensation clauses is a great injustice. Let all friends of temperance in the House of Commons, regardless of mere party ties, keep jealous and critical watch and ward over the progress of this Bill. England sober is of far more vital importance than England Conservative or England Liberal.

The Budget which Mr. Goschen introduced on Monday night has some features which will interest temperance reformers. In the course of his speech the Chancellor of the Exchequer said that, generally speaking, the revenue from drink shows a decline, although last year, owing to the Jubilee rejoicings, there was an increase of income. He suggested that Chancellors of the Exchequer would do well to look in other directions for sources of revenue; and this fact is one that should be cheering to workers in the cause of temperance.

Londoners who wish to see a splendidly realistic representation of the famous Falls of Niagara should not fail to visit the cyclorama in York-street, Westminster (close to St. James's Park Station, on the District Railway). Such is the fidelity with which the artist, Mr. Philipotteaux, has painted the grandeurs of the place, that it is difficult for the spectator who has seen the actual Falls not to believe that he is there; even the absence of the thunderous roar of the cataract does not dispel the illusion. We sincerely trust that the proprietors of this great sight will not lessen its genuine attractiveness by the acquisition of any drink licence.

One of the most hurtful tendencies of modern criticism is to meet the objections of unbelievers by softening down the language of Scripture, and thus making void the Word of God. References are sometimes made to the "hardening of the heart" of Pharaoh which set aside the meaning of the inspired narrative. By a careful reading of the Hebrew and of the R.V. it will be seen that Pharaoh hardened his own heart seven times ere the Lord is described as doing so judicially. When a sinner makes stubborn his heart against the voice of God, there comes a judicial retribution. The Lord makes manifest in this life the result of the obstinate rejection of his offers and authority. The explaining away of Scripture teaching on this point is one of the most dangerous fruits of negation.

Another danger to congregations assails the modern pulpit, viz., making excuse for "Agnosticism"—a cant term, which means that there is no real knowledge of God available to man in the present life. This is to deny the obligation of what Christ designates (Matt. xxii. 38) "the great and first commandment." And let it be observed that, in Rom. i. 21—31, the unwillingness to recognise God is placed as the fountain-head of all the flagrant and odious sins of idolatrous Gentiles.

The exhortation to "contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered to the saints" is much more frequently quoted than that of Paul:—

> But foolish and ignorant questionings refuse, knowing that they gender strifes. And the Lord's servant must not strive; but be gentle toward all, apt to teach, forbearing, in meekness correcting them that oppose themselves; if peradventure God may give them repentance unto the knowledge of the truth; and that they may recover themselves out of the snare of the devil, having been taken captive by the Lord's servant unto the will of God (2 Tim. ii. 23—26, R.V.)

This is the spirit in which the contention for the faith must be carried on. It is love that captivates. It is possible to tell the truth in such a way as to fill the hearer's heart with prejudice against it, and to make him dislike the preacher and the truth he speaks: or, on the other hand, he may commend the truth, and win the soul by the gracious words which proceed out of his mouth. This was the Master's way. Men will seldom be won to believe and love the truth, unless they believe and love the preacher. "Faith worketh by love."

Many of our readers will be greatly interested in the approaching marriage of Miss Emma Booth to Commissioner Tucker, the energetic superintendent of the Salvation Army work in India. The event derives a touching interest from the fact that it has been hastened at the special request of Mrs. Booth, who is in a very critical state of health, and who naturally desires that the marriage should take place soon, in order to ensure her participation, as far as possible, in her daughter's happiness. There is an earnest and loving hope, in which we heartily unite, that in this case the prayer of faith may save the sick, and that, if it be the will of God, this valuable life may long be spared.

The wedding will take place at the Congress Hall, Clapton, at 11 a.m. on Tuesday, April 10. We are requested to state that for friends who want comfortable seats, and are afraid of a possible crush at the doors, and who object to coming an hour beforehand, a thousand seats will be provided at 5s. each, which will be kept until 10.45, with admission by private entrance. Other seats are provided at 1s. each. None of the money so raised will be for the personal use of the wedded pair, but will go towards the £5000 to be raised for carrying on the work in the heathen world, and especially in India.

The authority of Mr. Darwin was very seriously impugned by a discussion on "Coral Formations," at the Victoria Institute last week. The theory which the great naturalist advanced was called in question by Dr. Guppy, R.N., who has, in the Pacific, devoted a long time to investigations into the nature of these formations. Mr. John Murray, of the Challenger expedition, Hydrographer to the Admiralty, and others, took the same line, which was generally supported by a communication from Professor Geikie. It is somewhat astonishing that a reputation for infallibility should have been accorded to the renowned "scientist," and should have been acquiesced in, without adequate evidence.

A Paris newspaper has published some startling figures, showing that even in the present time of peace the cost of the armies and navies of Europe is at the rate of £280,000,000 per annum, the Russian and the British (for Great Britain, and Ireland, and India) being by far the largest items. This huge expenditure would in itself be an argument in favour of arbitration, even if the existence of such vast military and naval establishments could be considered as anything but a temptation and an incitement to war.

We would commend to the attention of our readers an excellent little paper in The Hospital for March 10, under the heading of "Nursing in East London." The account which is given of the operations of the East London Nursing Society in the midst of the poor, "whose illnesses are often brought on, and oftener still aggravated, by hunger," is deeply interesting, and is very much more valuable than that "fine writing" about the East-end, of which, perhaps, we are having a little too much just now. Limited only by want of means, each nurse costing about £54 per annum for eight hours' actual service daily, the Society is doing a noble work, and it is to be hoped that the "necessity to supplement the skill of doctor and nurse," in many cases by food, will be provided for.

A correspondent writes:—

> It is to be hoped that the beautiful translation of the Swedish Marriage Hymn, given in your issue of the 23rd inst., may be added to our rather scanty collection of such, for it infinitely transcends them all in its true Gospel spirit.

A writer in a French weekly paper comments upon the fact that, whereas, a cowkeeper received two months' imprisonment for starving some cows, there are thousands of women working in London factories from seven o'clock in the morning until eight o'clock p.m., and that it is not unusual for laundry-girls to work until 2 a.m. He asks "cannot legal means be devised to regulate the pay and the conditions under which women work?" It does not say much for our nineteenth century Christianity that such an observer of the social condition of a large section of our labouring poor should find ground upon which to base a sarcastic remark as to the sacred principles which we "proclaim only to avoid fulfilling them." Wages of five-and-sixpence a week for prolonged toil can only mean one thing, and it may be that we spend nearly as much upon our Reformation Societies as it would cost to secure proper and fitting wages to the poor creatures who are now forced upon the midnight streets, by our false and sinful economic conditions.

The Home Secretary's reply in the House of Commons to Mr. Handel Cossham as to the disabilities of the Wesleyans at Harewood and Dunkeswick, Yorkshire, vividly calls to mind the condition of things when the Five Mile, another Conventicle Act, disgraced the English Statute Book. It is more surprising, however, that any body of people should have agreed to the conditions upon which, it appears, the Earl of Harewood permitted them to erect a chapel, those terms being:—

> (1) That no service is held during church hours; (2) that no Sunday-school is conducted at all, and no Bible-class held during church hours; (3) that the Sacraments of Baptism and the Lord's Supper are not administered at all.

It is just as wrong to accept such conditions as these as it is to impose them, for, after all, a few cottages or barns would hold the worshippers, who need have no fear of the penalties which followed their Puritan forefathers, and the promise of Christ, "Wheresoever two or three are gathered together in my name, there will I be in the midst of them, and that to bless them," will amply cover such gatherings.

It is announced that an active persecution is being directed against the Lutherans in the Baltic provinces of Russia, for opposing the efforts made to bring them under the power of the corrupt and superstitious Russo-Greek Church. After the end of the present year no Lutheran minister in Riga or Revel, and other towns, where the population is mainly German, will be allowed to conduct services in that language, and the Baltic Germans are to be prohibited from reading the Bible except in Russian. Considering how few of the Protestant pastors and congregations in these provinces understand Russ, such an arbitrary and intolerant proceeding cannot but provoke great indignation, and may possibly prove another disturbing element in European politics. Does it not also form an apt comment upon the announcement that a new convention has been made between Russia and the Pope, and that preparations are in progress for establishing diplomatic relations between that country and the Vatican—the avowed enemy of a free and open Bible.

The recent remark of Dr. Wainwright that the London press is honeycombed with Jesuitism seems to be only too true. The evil sometimes assumes a very subtle form. A recent critical notice of a picture, representing a group of nuns in a sacristy, speaks of them as "holy women, altogether lovely in their sweet feminine sanctity, and kept unspotted from the world." Such is the ideal, seductive conception of the blighting conventual life which has deceived so many hapless ones. Judging from what is known of the past annals of these institutions, and from the revelations now occasionally made, there is too much reason to believe that their walls hide untold misery and superstition, impurity and deceit, violence and crime.

CHURCH MISSION for the FALLEN.

THE annual meeting of this Mission was held on Monday week, at the Chapter-house, St. Paul's. Rev. Canon Gregory presided, the Bishop of Marlborough also being present.

In the report which was presented, the Committee alluded with satisfaction to the words of sympathy concerning the work of the Mission which the Bishop of London had expressed last year in his address to the members of the London Conference, when, in recommending the work to the sympathy of the Churchmen in his diocese, his lordship remarked that he "had satisfied himself that the work was well done." By the kind help received from the trustees of the East-end Mission Fund, a branch had been organised in the parish of All Hallowes, East India Docks. The Mission workers had, during the past year, taken in hand no less than 351 poor women, more than 200 of whom had been restored to their parents, or otherwise reclaimed from their life of sin.

Rev. Canon Gregory, after alluding at some length to the good work the Committee had been enabled to do, made an earnest appeal for funds to enable the work to be carried on and extended all over the Metropolis. Resolutions were subsequently carried affirming the great want supplied by the Mission.

WOMEN IN THE PULPIT.—The international council of women at Washington began its session on Sunday last with religious services in several churches, in which prominent women preached sermons.

BETHNAL GREEN FREE LIBRARY.—The twelfth annual meeting was held on Monday evening, at that institution, in London-street, E. Lord Brassey presided. Rev. Dr. Tyler (hon. sec.) read the report, which stated that the past year had been one in steady progress in all departments of the library. The evening classes showed steady progress. The number of persons attending the library, lectures, and classes was estimated at 42,000, making the total about 242,000. The attention of the committee had been drawn to a very eligible site upon which to erect a proposed new building, towards which Sir James Tyler had generously promised £1000. Lord Brassey said he viewed with the greatest satisfaction the evidences which were being shown on all sides of a growing fellow-feeling between the West-end and East-end, between class and class, and man and man. This institution was a very valuable and practical effort for the public good. His lordship alluded to the various kinds of educational work carried on, and earnestly hoped that the aims of the committee would be realised. The Hon. Mabelle Brassey distributed several prizes, which she had kindly given for the successful student in the various classes. Several friends spoke in support of the work.

JAFFNA COLLEGE.

AT a drawing-room meeting given by Lady Ashburton, on Monday afternoon, March 26, the Misses Leitch, missionaries from Ceylon, spoke of the work of the Jaffna College, securing as a result of the meeting nearly £500 in cash and promises toward this object.

The Misses Leitch are seeking to procure funds for a medical professor and a medical department in the Jaffna College. Fully to equip this department they hope to secure £6000 in England. A fully qualified physician, practising in the Mildmay Mission, has offered to go to Jaffna in the autumn. Contributions for this object may be remitted to our care. Misses Leitch will gladly give fuller information in regard to the work of this college or address drawing-room meetings, Sabbath-schools, Bible-classes, &c. Address care of Spicer Bros., 19, New Bridge-street, E.C.

MORMONS AND THE LAW.—A vigorous prosecution of Mormon polygamists has been commenced at Provo, in Utah, and sixteen Mormons have been sentenced each to six months' imprisonment and $500 fine for living with more than one wife, contrary to the Edmunds Law recently passed.

SOLDIERS' INSTITUTE, GIBRALTAR.—Mr. Geo. Holmes is carrying on a good work at this garrison town. The prescribed limits of the Rock render the soldier's life there one of peculiar monotony, and this makes him the more susceptible to the temptations which surround him. Hence the importance of an Institute to which he can repair at any time, to improve his mind and enjoy social intercourse free from the snares of drink and sin.

"BRIGHT EYES" AND HER HUSBAND.—Mr. Tibbles delivered a missionary address at Stoke Newington Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening, 25th inst., Rev. A. C. Alexander having conducted the usual service and presided. A large and attentive congregation listened to the powerful address of Mr. Tibbles, and the simple but touching appeal of "Bright Eyes," and the interest in the Christian work in which this worthy couple are engaged among the native Indian tribes of Western America was shown by a liberal addition to their funds.

SAILORS IN RATCLIFF HIGHWAY.—A sailors' tea meeting was held on Tuesday, last week, at the Seamen's Christian Friend Society's reading-rooms, in Ratcliff-highway. At the evangelistic service the chapel was crowded with seamen, many of whom gave splendid testimonies. At the close a number signed the pledge, and it is believed that it was also the hour of decision for some. This Society's chief object is the conversion of our seamen, and its work in London, and at its various Bethels, and Sailors' Rests on the coasts of Britain, has been greatly blessed during the past year.

Y.W.C.A., SOUTHPORT.—In connection with this branch of the Y.W.C.A. a very successful mission was recently conducted by Mr. Thomas Lydiatt, of the Liverpool Evangelisation Society. The meetings throughout, both those for preaching the Gospel and also the Bible-readings for Christians held every afternoon, were characterised by much solemnity and power. Many souls, says a correspondent, were awakened to see their lost condition without Christ, and some, we believe, were led into rest and peace. One day during the week a very practical and helpful conference on Christian work was held, when some valuable hints were given by Mr. Lydiatt. Such informal little conferences are very stimulating and encouraging to workers.

PROTESTANT LECTURES.—The last of Dr. S. Wainwright's course of four lectures at Exeter Hall, on the Protestant Commemorations of this year, was given on Monday evening to a large and enthusiastic audience. Dr. Campbell, M.P., of Glasgow, presided. The subject was "The Siege of Derry," and the graphic recital of the lecturer's narrative, extending over two hours and a half, was rapturously applauded. In the course of his remarks, Dr. Wainwright urged the people of these realms to insist on the conservation of Protestant truth, at whatever cost to political parties who truckle to the Roman Catholic vote. At the close, Mr. Thompson, secretary of the Protestant Educational Institute, invited young men to join the ranks of a league to be formed for upholding the truths of the Protestant faith.

ABRAHAM: GOD'S FRIEND.

By Rev. F. B. MEYER, B.A., Regent's Park Chapel.

IV.—The First of the Pilgrim Fathers.

Gen. xii. and Heb. xi.

All through the history of mankind there has been a little band of men, in a sacred and unbroken succession, who have confessed that they were pilgrims and strangers upon earth. Not more certainly does the scallop-shell on the monument of the cathedral aisle indicate that he whose dust lies beneath once went on pilgrimage beyond the seas, than do certain indications, not difficult to note, betray the pilgrims of the unseen and eternal. Sometimes they are found afar from the haunts of men, wandering in deserts and in mountains, dwelling in the dens and caves of the earth, to which they have been driven by those who had no sympathy with their other-worldliness, and hated to have so strong a light thrown on their own absorption in the concerns of earth, and time, and sense. But very often they are to be found in the market-places and homes of men, distinguished only by their simpler dress, their girded loins, their restrained and abstemious appetite, their loose hold on gold, their independence of the maxims and opinions and applause of the world around, and the far-away look which now and again gleams in their eyes, the certain evidence of affections centred, not on the transitory things of time and earth, but on those eternal realities which, lying beneath the veil of the visible, are only revealed to faith.

These are the pilgrims. For them the annoyances and trials of life are not so crushing or so difficult to bear, because such things as these cannot touch their true treasure, or affect their real interests. For them the royalties and glories, the honours and rewards, the delights and indulgences of men have no attraction. They are children of a sublimer realm, members of a greater commonwealth, burgesses of a nobler city than any upon which the sun has ever looked. Foreigners may mulct an Englishman of all his spending money; but he can well afford to lose it, if all his capital is safely invested at home, in the Bank of England. How can a dukedom in some petty principality present attractions to the scion of an empire, who is passing hastily through its borders, as fast as steam and wealth can carry him, to assume supreme authority? The pilgrim has no other desire than to pass quickly over the appointed route to his home—a track well trodden through all the ages—fulfilling the duties, meeting the claims, and discharging faithfully the responsibilities devolving upon him, but ever remembering that here he has no continuing city, and seeks one which is to come.

The immortal dreamer, who has told the story of the pilgrims in words which the world will never let die, gives three marks of their appearance:—

First: "They were clothed with such kind of raiment as was diverse from the raiment of any that traded in that fair. The people, therefore, of the fair made a great gazing upon them; some said they were fools, some they were Bedlams, and some they were outlandish men."

Secondly: "Few could understand what they said, they naturally spoke the language of Canaan; but they that kept the fair were the men of this world; so that from one end of the fair to the other they seemed barbarians to each other."

Thirdly: "But that which did not a little amuse the merchandizers was, that these pilgrims set very light by all their wares; they cared not so much as to look upon them, and if they called on them to buy, they would put their fingers in their ears, and cry, Turn away mine eyes from beholding vanity, and look upwards, signifying that their trade and traffic was in heaven."

Evidently this type of man was well known when that great dreamer dreamt, and long before. For the Apostle Peter wrote to scattered strangers (1 Pet. i. 1), and reminded them, as strangers and pilgrims, to abstain from fleshly lusts. And long before that day, in the sunniest period of Jewish prosperity, David, speaking in the name of his people, confessed that they were strangers and sojourners, as were all their fathers; and that their days on earth were as a shadow on the hills, now covering long leagues of landscape, and then hasting away, chased by glints of brilliant sun.

And, as we thus follow the genealogy of the pilgrims back, we can detect it in the earliest exodus of Israel, when Jehovah told them that even on their settlement in the Promised Land they were always to consider themselves as strangers, and sojourners with Himself (Lev. xxv. 23). Nor is this all; the source of the stream is higher yet. Away back still in the history of our race we may track it, until we come to that glorious life which we are now considering, and hail Abraham as the first of the Pilgrim Fathers; when he went from country to country, and "God gave him none inheritance; no, not so much as to set his foot on," and he dwelt in a tent with Isaac and Jacob, confessing, as he did to the sons of Heth (Gen. xxiii. 4), that he was a stranger and a sojourner in the earth, not having so much ground as would hold his dead.

We left the patriarch moving leisurely southwards, and thus he continued to journey forward through the land of promise, making no permanent halt, till he reached the place of Sichem, or Shechem, in the very heart of the land, where our Lord in after years sat weary by the well. There was no city or settlement there then. The country was sparsely populated. The only thing that marked the site was a venerable oak, whose aged arms in later ages were to shadow the excesses of a shameful idolatry. Beneath this oak on the plain of Sichem, the camp was pitched; and there, at last, the long silence was broken, which had lasted since the first summons was spoken in Chaldea, "And the Lord appeared unto Abram, and said, Unto thy seed will I give this land: and there builded he an altar unto the Lord, who appeared unto him."

He did not, however, stay there permanently, but moved a little to the South, to a place between Bethel and Ai, where, according to Dr. Robinson, there is now a high and beautiful plain, presenting one of the finest tracts of pasturage in the whole country.

Three things then engage our thought: the Tent, the Altar, and the Promise.

(1) The Tent.—When Abraham left Haran he was seventy-five. When he died, he was 175. And he spent that intervening century removing to and fro, dwelling in a frail and flimsy tent, probably of dark camel's hair, like that of the Bedouin of the present day. And that tent was only a befitting symbol of the spirit of his life.

He held himself aloof from the people of the land. He was amongst them, but not of them. He did not attend their tribal gatherings. He carefully guarded against intermarriage with their children, sending to his own country to obtain a bride for his son. He would not take from them a thread or a sandal-thong. He insisted on paying full market value for all he received. He did not stay in any permanent location, but was ever on the move. The tent which had no foundations; which could be erected and struck in half-an-hour; this was the apt symbol of his life.

Frequently may the temptation have been presented to his mind of returning to Haran, where he could settle in the town, identified with his family. Nor were opportunities to return wanting (Heb. xi. 15). But he deliberately preferred the wandering life of Canaan to the settled home of Charran, and to the end he still dwelt in a tent. It was from a tent that he was carried to lie beside Sarah in Machpelah's rocky cave.

And why? The question is fully answered in that majestic chapter which recounts the triumphs of faith. "Abraham dwelt in tabernacles, because he looked for the City which hath the foundations" (Heb. xi. 9). Precisely so, and the tent-life is the natural one for those who feel that their fatherland lies beyond the stars.

It is of the utmost importance that the children of God should live this detached life as a testimony to the world. How will people believe us, when we talk about our hope, if it does not wean us from excessive devotion to the things around us. If we are quite as eager, or careworn; quite as covetous or grasping; quite as dependent on the pleasures and fascinations of this passing world, as themselves, may they not begin to question whether our profession be true on the one hand, or whether after all there be a real city yonder on the other.

We must not go on as we are. Professing Christians are too much taken up in business cares, in pleasure-seeking, in luxury, and self-indulgence. There is a very slight difference between the children of the kingdom and the children of this generation. The shrewdest observer could hardly detect any in their homes, in the education of their children, in their dress, or in their methods of doing business. "They eat, they drink; they buy, they sell; they plant, they build; they marry, they give in marriage"; though the flood is already breaking through the crumbling barriers to sweep them all away.

Yet how is it to be altered? Shall we denounce the present practice? Shall we inveigh against the reckless worldliness of the times? This will not effect a permanent cure. Let us rather paint with glowing colours that city which John saw. Let us unfold the glories of that world to which we are bound. Let us teach that even here, the self-denying, resolute, and believing spirit may tread daily the golden pavement, and hear even the symphonies of angel hearts, and surely there will come into many a life a separateness of heart and walk which shall impress men with the reality of the unseen, as no sermons could do, however learned or eloquent.

(2) The Altar.—Wherever Abraham pitched his tent, he built an altar. Thus the Pilgrim

Fathers, on the shores of the New World, set up their altars of worship even before they reared their homes. And long after the tent was shifted, the altar stood to show where the man of God had been.

Ah! it would be a blessed token of our religious fervour if we could set up altars in every house where we pass the night, and in every locality where it might be our hap to live, setting the example of private and family prayer, which would live long after we had passed away. If we would only dare to do it, the very Canaanites would come to revere the spot where we had knelt, and would hand on the sacred tradition, stirring coming generations to kneel there also, and call upon the name of the Lord.

Let us also remember that the altar means sacrifice, whole burnt-offering, self-denial and self-surrender. In this sense the altar and the tent must ever go together. We cannot live the detached tent life without some amount of pain and suffering, such as the altar bespeaks. But it is out of such a life that there springs the most intense devotion, the deepest fellowship, the happiest communion.

If your private prayer has been lately hindered, it may be that you have not been living enough in the tent. The tent life of separation is sure to produce the altar of self-denial and of heavenly fellowship. Confess that you are a stranger and a pilgrim on the earth, and you will find it pleasant and natural to call on the name of the Lord. We do not read of Abraham building an altar, so long as he dwelt in Charran; he could not have fellowship with God whilst living in open disobedience to Him, or as long as he was ensconced comfortably in a settled life. But out of the heart of the real pilgrim life there sprang longings, desires, and aspirations, which could only be satisfied by the altars which marked his progress from place to place.

But Abraham's altar was not for himself alone. At certain periods the whole clan gathered there for common worship. A motley group that, when slaves bought in Egypt or Ur mingled with those born in the camp; when children and parents, young and old, stood in silent awe around the altar, where the patriarch stood to offer their common sacrifice and worship. "I know Abraham," said God, "that he will command his children and his household after him." He, in whom all families of the earth were to be blessed, practised family religion; and in this he sets a striking example to many Christians whose homes are altarless. Would that Christians might be stirred by the example of the Patriarch to erect the family altar, and to gather around it the daily circle of their children and dependants, for the sweetening and ennobling of their family life! Many an evil thing, like the gargoyles on the cathedral towers, would be driven forth before the hallowing influence of praise and prayer.

(3) The Promise.—"Unto thy seed will I give this land." As soon as Abraham had fully obeyed, this new promise broke upon his ear. And it is ever thus. Disobey, and you tread a path unlit by a single star. Obey, live up to the claims of God, and successive promises beam out from heaven to light your steps, each one richer and fuller than the one before. Hitherto God had pledged Himself only to show the land; now He bound Himself to give it. The separated pilgrim life always obtains promises.

There was no natural probability of that promise being fulfilled. "The Canaanite was then in the land." Powerful chieftans like Mamre and Eshcol; flourishing towns like Sodom, Salem, and Hebron; the elements of civilisation—all were there. The Canaanites were not wandering tribes. They had settled and taken root. They built towns and tilled the land. They knew the use of money and writing; and administered justice in the gate. Every day built up their power, and made it more unlikely that they could ever be dispossessed by the descendants of a childless shepherd.

But God had said it; and so it came to pass. "The word of the Lord standeth for ever; the thoughts of his heart to all generations." I know not what promise may be overarching your life, my reader, with its bow of hope; but this is certain, that if you fulfil its conditions, and live up to its demands, it will be literally and gloriously fulfilled. Look not at the difficulties and improbabilities that block the path, but at the might and faithfulness of the Promiser. "Heaven and earth may pass away, but his words shall not pass away." Not one jot or tittle shall fail. And promise after promise shall light your life, like the lighthouses at night along a rocky coast.

SERMON-LANE MISSION.

The annual meeting of the friends of this Institution was held at Myddleton Hall, Islington, on the 19th inst. The chair was taken by Sir Albert Rollitt, M.P., supported by Revs. Gordon Calthrop, Bridgeman, and Clegg (Wesleyan Minister), Mr. Kirk (of the Ragged-school Union), Messrs. Lamont, Matthew, and W. Haig-Miller, and others.

The report read by Mr. Cooksey, recorded, as usual, a vast amount of work carried on at this "Manufactory of Happiness," as Sermon-lane Mission has been well called. We remember reading that Rowland Hill said that when Thomas Cranfield, the humble philanthropist of Southwark, used to call upon him and detail the various works of Christian love in which he was engaged, he felt confounded at his own unprofitableness. In like manner, a man with time and talent unemployed, might well have blushed as he listened to the apparently interminable catalogue of useful labour in operation at Sermon-lane. The report spoke of the Gospel services commanding even on a week night an attendance sometimes of 200; of careful visitation of the sick; of overflowing Sunday-schools, of Bible-classes, sewing classes, savings banks, institutes for young men and young women, Gospel temperance meetings, maternity clubs; of dinners to poor boardmen; of midnight meetings for the fallen, and of excursions of happy children, and mothers, and teachers to rural glades, presenting country sights, and sounds, and odours, very different from those in Sermon-lane.

Much gratitude was expressed at the almost miraculous restoration to health of Mr. George Fuller, the superintendent of the Mission, from an illness brought on by his labours among the poor, and in which his life had been for a time despaired of. It was considered a marked answer to the prayer that had been poured out for him.

The state of the Mission was the subject of many congratulatory remarks from the various speakers, Sir Albert Rollitt in particular emphasising his approval of its various schemes.

We should not omit to add that Mr. Lewis, the honorary treasurer, showed a balance of £3 in hand; which, although a satisfactory feature, as showing the Mission to be clear of debt, yet indicated that its funds now required replenishing at the hands of its friends.

NOTES FROM THE NORTH.

DR. SOMERVILLE'S RETURN.

After being absent from Glasgow for over six months, on an extensive evangelistic tour in Austria and Hungary, Dr. Somerville returned in safety on Monday week. He made his first appearance last Thursday evening when he presided at the induction meeting of Rev. Thomas Adamson to Anderston Free Church. Although feeling rather fatigued by his long tour, the venerable evangelist looked remarkably well, and addressed the meeting with all his accustomed fire and vigour.

EDUCATION OF JEWISH WOMEN.

Dr. Elder Cumming stated at the annual meeting of the Glasgow auxiliary of the Ladies' Association for the Christian Education of Jewish Females that there are five stations in the East connected with the Society, at each of which a lady missionary is working specially among Jewish women and girls. The schools in Smyrna and Salonika have 100 and 166 scholars respectively; at Alexandria there are two schools with 275 scholars; and at Constantinople there are 163 girls under education. It is remarkable that most of the Jewish children are girls.

MISS JANES IN GLASGOW.

A largely-attended meeting of ladies was held in the Christian Institute last week, to hear an address from Miss Janes, secretary to Miss Ellice Hopkins, on prevention and rescue work. She said there was a close connection between the temperance and social purity movements, as the vices they combat go almost hand in hand. After emphasising the importance of rescue-work, Miss Janes spoke of the still greater importance, as well as hopefulness, of preventive work. She warmly advocated the founding of working girls' clubs and similar agencies in Glasgow, whereby young girls might be shielded by having their leisure hours profitably employed. It was with deep regret that the meeting learned of the completely prostrate state Miss Hopkins is in at present.

REV. J. M'NEILL AS AN EVANGELIST.

In view of the remarkable success attending the labours of Rev. John M'Neill, of Edinburgh, a proposal has been made that the Free Church Home Mission Committee should petition the General Assembly to loose him from his present charge and appoint him for a term of years as Church evangelist for Scotland. The proposal is favourably entertained, and it has been remitted to a smaller committee to consider the matter and present a report to the next monthly meeting. Considering that steps are being taken to provide Mr. M'Neill with a tabernacle large enough to hold the crowds which attend his ministry at Edinburgh, it is probable this proposal will encounter opposition in some quarters, but there is no doubt that Mr. M'Neill is admirably suited for the work to which it is contemplated that he should devote himself.

A CHRISTIAN POLAR MISSION.

During the winter several meetings were held in Dundee to discuss a proposal to found a British Christian Polar Mission, but as public interest in the scheme waned before many subscriptions had been obtained it was abandoned. A number of Dundee gentlemen, however, have purchased a barque which they propose shall make a combined commercial and missionary expedition to the Arctic region. The vessel is to sail from Dundee in July, and, after taking in a crew of Eskimos in Cumberland Gulf, will proceed northward to Pond's Bay. Mr. J. F. Davidson, of Dundee, who has made frequent voyages to the Arctic regions, is to accompany the expedition for the purpose of making the natives acquainted with the teachings of Christianity. It will depend on the report brought home by the voyagers whether the proposed Polar Mission shall be carried out.

OUR OPIUM TRADE WITH CHINA.—On Wednesday last week Rev. Goodeve Mabbs gave an address on the opium question, in the lecture hall of Highbury Chapel, Bristol. Rev. Arnold Thomas presided, and there was a large attendance. Much interest was evinced in the address, and several questions were asked at the close. On Friday Mr. Mabbs gave an address in the lecture hall of Redland-park Chapel, Bristol. Rev. Urijah Thomas was prevented by indisposition from presiding. Questions were asked at the close of the meeting. Rev. J. S. Fordham lectured at Beverley on Thursday to an appreciative audience.

For the Young.

A WALK IN DELHI.

BY AUNT HELEN.

A Letter to Katie her Niece in England.

(Concluded.)

The whole street presents a gay and brilliant appearance in the bright sunshine. The natives of India delight in bright colours. There is a group of lads returning from college, with pink turbans and yellow coats. Others with pale green turbans and blue coats. Bright colours are everywhere.

The shops on this side are those of tinsel merchants and dealers in gold and silver lace and braids. Here is a dealer in filoselle embroidering silk. When you buy a skein of filoselle you notice that it separates easily into twelve distinct threads. That boy has twelve spools on his frame, each closely wound with a single filmy thread of silk. He takes the end of each thread in one hand, and winds the whole twelve on to the frame which he holds in the other hand, cutting the silk carefully into lengths, and deftly knotting them into skeins as he goes on.

The most costly goods, such as shawls, jewellery, &c., are not exposed for sale in these shops, but are kept in inner rooms. Motee Ram, Chotee Lal, Kishun Chund, and other merchants are continually running out to ask us to come in and look at their goods. They have splendid specimens of Oriental embroideries, filagree work, lace, and jewels, as well as exquisite paintings on ivory. But we shall find it more instructive to continue our walk, and observe the common things around us, all wonderfully new and strange.

Did you notice those gratings at intervals along the causeway? They are coverings to the water supply. There is a water-carrier drawing up water with a leather bucket, and pouring it into the goatskin which he wears slung over his shoulder. It is a real goatskin, with just the head and legs cut off, and sewn up all round. There is no water laid on to the houses here. The beesty, as he is called, goes into the houses, and fills the waterpots and the baths from his skin. He waters the plants in pots, and the roads, swinging himself round and squirting the water from the neck of his goatskin as he goes along. He is a Mohammedan; a Hindu would consider himself defiled by touching the skin of a dead animal. The Hindus use the large stone waterpots, with sometimes a tin or wooden bucket to lower into the well. In the evening lots of women may be seen coming to the wells with their waterpots on their heads like Rebekah of old and the woman of Samaria.

How few women we see! Very few in comparison with the numbers of men, and these of the lowest class. The ladies pass their lives in purdah, literally, "behind a curtain." They never show themselves openly in the streets. If they have occasion to go out they ride in one of these bamboo palkees, looking like a box made of straw matting, and carried on a pole between two men. We have passed several, but it would never strike you that there would be a woman inside. Now and then we meet a purdah woman on foot, gliding along like a ghost, enveloped entirely in one long white garment, with eye holes barred over with lace work. You think you would rather be a poor woman in India than a rich one! A woman of any class is a slave to her husband. It is only the Gospel of Christ that gives true liberty to woman, and makes her the helpmeet instead of the slave of man. See what laborious work the poor women do. Here comes one with a huge log of wood on her head. They carry immense weights on their heads. Here are some women mixing mortar and others carrying bricks. Men do all the washing and sewing. This is a dhuzies' shop. He is making one of those handsome silk tunics worn by native gentlemen. He would make you a frock to any pattern as nicely as a dressmaker at home. Many of these shops are workshops.

There are lots of shoe shops in the Chandui Chowk. The natives all wear slippers this cool weather. They seem a sensible shape, if rather fantastic. The back of the heel slants upwards to the shape of the foot, and the toe ends in a point. Green and red toes and red with green toes seem the favourite colours. Here is a pair that would fit you, will you have them? Here is a pretty pair like the little girls in the zenanas wear, with gilt embroidered toe-pieces. We will buy those for Lucy. We will get some of those little round caps for the boys. Here is a lad sitting on the ground with caps of all sorts around him, fine white muslin neatly worked in sprigs and sprays, pretty colours in sateen and coloured muslins embroidered with tinsel.

Here is a shop placarded with familiar signs—the master speaks a little English, and supplies English goods, jams and pickles, Cadbury's cocoa, Huntley & Palmer's biscuits packed in nice little airtight boxes, from which they turn out as crisp and sweet as if they were just made, candles and matches, ink and paper, thimbles, string, and teapots, all English.

A great many English tourists come to the Chandui Chowk for presents to take home with them. Many of the shops have English signboards to attract them. I think this sign of Bhagwardas' is the most interesting:—

FROM THE SHOP OF BHAGWARDAS OFTEN EUROPEAN GENTLEMEN PURCHASE ARTICLES AS CURIOSITY OF INDIA FOR ENGLAND.
SPEAKS TRUTH.

Here is a professional writer with his paper and ink spread on the ground under the tree. The man by his side is explaining the sort of letter he wants him to write.

Now we are at the end of Chandui Chowk; just cross the road and behold this busy scene. This is the corn market. See how the street is crowded with people, while the pavement on each side is occupied by the heaps of corn and grain of every kind. Numbers of men, women, and children are occupied in grinding, sifting, and sorting. The sifters use a sort of wicker dustpan, and shake it high above their heads. All are busy, yet they look quite pleased to see us interested in their work. We have quite a job to thread our way among the crowds of people and animals that throng the roadway, but there seems none of that heedless rush that one meets in English towns. Everybody makes way for us as we thread our way among the buffaloes, bullock carts, ekkas, with here and there a goat or a camel that, with the people, go to make up the living throng.

We will return by way of the Queen's Gardens, which are prettily laid out, and run behind Chandui Chowk nearly as far as the fort. Here are the monkeys and squirrels again in abundance. Is not the shade refreshing? You thought all the trees in India were palm trees, did you! In North India the palm is the least common of trees. There are a few here, but the habit and growth of most of these trees resemble more that of our English oaks, elms, and beeches. It is the plantain, with its broad pale-green leaves, that gives an Oriental aspect to the foliage.

Come this way and see the animals. Here are fierce tigers—we would rather meet them here than in the jungle—leopards, hyenas, large black bears, waterfowl, and what not. You may go as close as you like to that large elephant, he is not alive. He is a huge stone monster of uncertain age brought from a distant city by Shah Jehan, a celebrated king of Delhi, who lived two hundred years ago. He placed the monster in front of his palace, where it was afterward shattered to pieces by the army of an invading enemy. It lay in ruins for many years, till the British Government had the pieces collected, built up again, and placed here. This large red building is the Institute, and stands near the principal entrance gates. It contains a museum. We will just peep in and see Shah Jehan's cash-box and chairs. The cash-box is very curious, overlaid with silvered glass, and ornamented with tiny paintings. Here are some beautifully carved ivory goods. The miniature of the bullock carriage is very good. These ugly figures are images of heathen gods. Is it not strange that a people who can make such beautiful things should carve such frightfully ugly images to represent their gods. They look more like the embodiment of hate and terror than objects of adoration and love. Although the Gospel has been preached in Delhi since 1810, the great mass of the people are still in the darkness of heathenism. At the hour of sunset you may still see the Mohammedan practising his genuflections towards the west. And as we go about we meet the Hindus with their caste marks painted on their foreheads, and their little boys with their heads shaved, in token of a vow; while everywhere are these dirty little Hindu temples, with their ugly images covered with offerings of flowers. India needs thousands of missionaries yet, men and women who are ready to take a new departure, and live self-denying lives among the people, showing them by example as well as precept what Christianity really is.

Now I hope you have enjoyed your walk, and will remember all you have seen.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.

A most blessed fortnight of work amongst the young at Haverstock-hill, London, was concluded on Monday week by an affecting farewell meeting, addressed by several leading friends of the Mission. The services were opened on Sunday morning, March 4, by Rev. Duncan Sillars, who preached a special discourse to parents on the conversion of the young, based on Matt. xxi. 16. At the first children's service the Presbyterian Church was crowded, and at the subsequent seventeen meetings the attendance was large. At every meeting there were decisions for Christ. On the second Sabbath of the work the Wesleyan Chapel had to be secured, and over eleven hundred children attended one service.

Mr. Josiah Spiers was the principal speaker at all the meetings. The range of the Society's work is a very wide one, as was indicated by an incident related by Mr. Spiers as to the attendance of the present Crown Prince of Germany at the Sea-side Services held on the Promenade at Ilfracombe in 1878. The families of Haverstock-hill will not soon forget this Mission, for many of their dear children are now "safe in the arms of Jesus."

Mr. Martin J. Hall, Stockwell Orphanage, March 26—29, at 6.45; Camberwell, April 9—13; Mr. H. Hutchinson, Mission Hall, Phythian-street, Liverpool, April 9—13; Altrincham, Cheshire, April 14. Mr. E. Arrowsmith, Lausanne, March 23—27; and on Continent for two months. Messrs. Lidstone and Hutchinson, Ipswich, April 17—19. Mr. T. Lewes Sayer, Union Church, Tooting, March 30 to April 4; Sutton, April 8—13; Kilburn, April 16—20; Stockwell Orphanage, April 23—26; Romford, April 29 to May 4. Mr. Josiah Spiers, Wakefield, April 24 to May 4; Park Chapel, Camden Town, May 6—20. Mr. George Banaster, Dorking, April 21—30.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—The following are the portions for the ensuing week:—Sunday, April 1, John xx. 1—18; Monday, April 2, John xx. 19—31; Tuesday, April 3, John xxi. 1—14; Wednesday, April 4, John xxi. 15—25; Thursday, April 5, Isaiah xl. 1—11; Friday, April 6, Isaiah xl. 12—20; Saturday, April 7, Isaiah xl. 21—31.

WHAT TO PREACH.—At the monthly conference of the South London Auxiliary of the Open-air Mission, held last week, and presided over by Colonel Macgregor, A.D.C., Mr. Algernon C. P. Coote gave on address on "What we preach," containing some admirable Scripture teaching, thus summarised: (1) Christ crucified, (2) Christ risen, (3) the Word, (4) the kingdom of God, (5) repentance, (6) forgiveness of sins, and (7) peace by Jesus Christ.

The Christian.

MARCH 30, 1888.

CONTENTS.

The Late Robert Reid Kalley, M.D. 1
The Sufferings and the Glories of Christ 3
Notes and Comments 4
Abraham: God's Friend 6
Sermon-Lane Mission 7
Notes from the North 7
A Walk in Delhi 8
Dr. Barnardo's New Colony 13
Working Girls in London 14
Young Men in Exeter Hall 15
Distress in South-East London ..16
Evangelical Alliance Conferences. Addresses by—
REV. C. H. SPURGEON 17
REV. W. PARK 21
REV. C. B. SYMES 22
REV. T. MCCULLAGH 23
REV. CHARLES A. FOX 24
REV. CHARLES NEW 25
REV. C. H. WALLER 25
REV. P. COLBORNE 27
REV. A. G. BROWN 27
REV. F. A. WHITE 27
REV. H. C. BROOKE 27
REV. TALBOT GREAVES....28, 29
REV. DR. BRUCE 29
REV. G. STRINGER ROWE 30
The Messages of St. Paul 31
African Missions 31
Tripoli and the Soudan..........32
Village Libraries 32
The Hebrew Old Testament 33
Young Women in Restaurants....33
Poetry—The Cross...............34
Mr. G. Clarke in Ireland 35
The Church Missionary Society ..35
Among the Churches.............36
Notes on Daily Readings 41
Evangelistic Notes..............42

Homes of Hope,

4, 5, & 6, REGENT SQUARE, GRAY'S-INN ROAD,
LONDON, W.C.

Special efforts are made on behalf of mothers with their first infants, who are really the most hopeful class of the fallen, and are generally greatly to be pitied.

A Home has been opened for the reception of such young women, before they become mothers, as are unfitted from their previous good character and position to mix with others.

The Committee are obliged to make an urgent appeal for contributions:—

1. For the General Fund: the expenses of which amount to about £5 a day.
2. For the Child's Fund: a guinea or two to pay the nurses would in many cases rescue a mother and child. Five Shillings would pay for a child for a week.
3. For Law Expenses: in every case where it is possible the men are compelled to pay the sum allowed by law for the child's support.

The applications are so distressing and urgent, that every shilling has been spent.

Bankers—LONDON AND WESTMINSTER BANK (Bloomsbury Branch), 218, High Holborn.

HENRY THOMPSON, ESQ., Treasurer,
38, Mincing-lane, E.C.
WM. HORNIBROOK, Secretary,
17, Bloomsbury-st., Oxford-st., W.C.

Children's Special Service Mission.

THE NINTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE
CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION
WILL BE HELD (D.V.) IN Exeter Hall, Strand,
(LOWER HALL,)
On THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1888.

In the AFTERNOON at THREE o'clock,
Rev. EDWARD A. STUART, M.A.
WILL PRESIDE.

In the EVENING at HALF-PAST SIX o'clock,
Rev. F. B. MEYER, B.A.
WILL PRESIDE.

MRS. EVERED POOLE
Will give an Address to Scripture Union Workers, and other Addresses will be given by different Friends.

Office—13, Warwick Lane, Paternoster Row, E.C.

SCRIPTURE READERS' SOCIETY FOR IRELAND.
ESTABLISHED 1822.

President.
HIS GRACE LORD PLUNKET, ARCHBISHOP OF DUBLIN.

Offices:—27, Lower Pembroke-street, Dublin;
And 9, Paternoster-row, London.

Full particulars, Reports, &c., can be obtained post free on application to the Secretary,
CAPTAIN JAMES KEARNEY WHITE.

Notice.—The friends of this Society are requested to send in all Subscriptions, Donations, and Collections, as the year's accounts will be closed as soon as possible. Address to Captain J. KEARNEY WHITE, Secretary. Offices: 7, Lower Pembroke-street, Dublin; and 9, Paternoster-row, London; or Office of "THE CHRISTIAN."

GIBRALTAR.

THE SOLDIERS' INSTITUTE, GIBRALTAR.

Founded 1876.

The New Institute at Gibraltar for Soldiers and Sailors was opened in September last. The attendance has greatly increased since then. During the past eleven years of its operations in another building, God has owned and blessed the work to the real conversion of several. It is, moreover, the only resort out of Barracks in this large garrison town (containing 5,000 British troops) where the men can obtain refreshments without the temptation of intoxicating drinks.

The entire cost of the Building, including the site, amounted to £3808. Of this sum £150 is still needed to clear the Building Fund of Debt.

Any Offerings towards this deficit, or Annual Subscriptions towards maintaining the present Institute, will be gratefully received and acknowledged in "THE CHRISTIAN;" or by the Hon. Secretary and Treasurer, COL. H. S. CLARKE, 6, Berkeley-terrace, Wimbledon.

"Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

◆ ◆ ◆

FIFTY-THREE years have elapsed since the establishment of the SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING FEMALE EDUCATION IN THE EAST. It was formed for the purpose of giving instruction to women in the Zenanas of India, and in their own homes in China. Thus it is the oldest Zenana Society in existence. It was found impossible then to carry the object of the Society into effect, for the doors of those prison-homes were locked and double-barred. The Committee, therefore, while biding their time, turned to School-work, finding it more practicable to collect and to teach children, especially of the lower classes, than to reach those of more mature age and of higher social position. Beginning with Schools in India and China, the work of the Society was subsequently extended to other countries also, and now includes Japan, the Straits, Africa, the Levant, and Persia.

The object of the Society has been strictly evangelistic—that of carrying the Gospel to the homes of the East. To this end, education was felt to be of great importance, in order that those who should be reached by these missionaries might each be carefully instructed in the truths of the Christian religion, enabled to read the Word of God for herself in her own tongue, and qualified to impart her knowledge to others. Thus the object of the Committee included evangelisation, education, and training in teaching.

The work of the Society may be thus briefly summed up:—Zenana Missions; Medical Missions; Village Missions; work among the crowds assembling at native festivals; house and hut visiting; boarding, day, infant, and Sunday Schools; Bible and sewing classes; training native Zenana missionaries, district visitors, school-mistresses, and Bible-women; mothers' meetings; also branches of the Bible and Prayer Union, and of the Young Women's Christian Association.

The souls that have been given to the Society's missionaries for their hire, out of many nations and kindreds and people and tongues, are not to be counted by human arithmetic. There are thousands now gladdening the hearts of those who led them to the Saviour, adorning His doctrine and working in His service.

"This is the Lord's doing, and it is wonderful in our eyes."

The Committee very earnestly appeal for funds to enable them to carry on, and to extend, their various operations.

◆ ◆ ◆

SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING FEMALE EDUCATION IN THE EAST.

President—THE MARCHIONESS OF AILSA.
Hon. Secretaries—Miss ELLEN RUTT, Lower Clapton, N.E.
Miss L. HOPE, 7, Ovington-gardens, S.W.
Secretary—Miss WEBB, 267, Vauxhall Bridge-road, S.W.
Cash Secretary—Miss TAIT, 68, Wilberforce-road, N.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS, &c., Whitechapel, E.

Received with many thanks from M. S., 2s. 6d.; Cambridge, 5s.; Hastings, Clothing for needy one. Rations of Food to Hungry Children. Infant Day Nursery. Free Ragged Day Schools. Boys' Industrial Classes. Meetings, Classes, and Tea Room for Young Women and Elder Girls. Mothers' Meetings. Mission to Inebriate Women. Bible Classes for Men, for Women, for Young People. Temperance Meetings. Lodging House Services. Room to Room Visitation. Evangelistic Services, and other Missionary Agencies in operation.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 65, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to GEORGE HOLLAND, The Ragged Schools, George Yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E.

ANXIETY OF SOUL. — Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear, are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

THE BENEVOLENT OR STRANGERS' FRIEND SOCIETY.

Treasurer, Ald. Sir R. N. Fowler, Bart., M.P.
J. H. Anderson, Esq., Chairman.
Clarence Smith, Esq., J.P., Hon. Secretary.

For 102 years this Institution has visited and relieved the destitute sick, by an entirely unpaid agency, consisting of over 240 Christian men and women.

Funds are urgently needed.

The Committee will be thankful for the Society being remembered in the testamentary arrangements of the benevolent.—Office of the Society, 52, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

CONVALESCENT HOMES, at Bournemouth and Sandgate.—For particulars apply to Mr. JOHN JAMES JONES, Director of the London Samaritan Society, 98, High-street, Homerton, London, E.

DEACONESSES' INSTITUTION AND HOSPITAL, TOTTENHAM.—Private rooms and cubicle wards to accommodate Ladies and Gentlemen requiring medical and surgical treatment, have been recently added to this Hospital, and are furnished with every modern convenience and comfort. Terms, including attendance of resident medical officer of Institution, from £2 2s. to £5 5s. per week. Patients are at liberty to consult any doctor in addition, at their own cost, whether a member of the medical staff or otherwise.—For further particulars apply to DIRECTOR or LADY SUPERINTENDENT of above Institution.

MAIDSTONE CHURCH DEACONESSES' HOME.—The Committee of the Church Deaconesses' Home have vacancies for resident Ladies, either as workers, or for training, on payment. Further particulars on application to the HEAD DEACONESS, Boxley-road, Maidstone.

WOMEN'S MEDICAL MISSION, Midwifery Branch, 143, Clapham-road. Monthly Nurse, disengaged April 15 next. Appointments in town at a day's notice.

SECRETARY, M. M. Branch, as above.

HASTINGS.—Easter Holidays.—A Sale, with Show of Dolls in costumes of many nations, dressed by an Indian Missionary, an invalid member of the D.P.U., and others, will (D.V.) be open on April 4 and 5, from 12 o'clock, for the benefit of the Young Servants' Training Home, Mount Hermon, Ashburnham-road, at the Central Hall, 7, Bank-buildings. £100 needed. Girls will illustrate Miss Headdon's Toy Teaching of Housewifery with songs.

THE CANCER HOSPITAL, Free (founded 1851), Fulham-road, Brompton.—Subscriptions will be most thankfully received for this Hospital, which is free. Bankers, Messrs. Coutts & Co., Strand, W.C.—W. H. HUGHES, Secretary.

RESCUE WORK IN POPLAR.

A Three Days' Sale of Needlework

Will take place (D.V.) in the Town Hall, Poplar, on the 25th, 26th, 27th April, for the benefit of the above work, carried on at Manor Cottage, Kerbey-street, Poplar.

COMMITTEE:

Mrs. F. A. BEVAN, 59, Princes-gate, S.W.
Mrs. CORNER, Manor House, East India Dock-road.
Mrs. HENRY GREEN, Cherry Orchard, Old Charlton.
Mrs. MARSH, 71, East India Dock-road.
Mrs. C. NEIL, St. Matthias' Parsonage, Poplar.
Miss BRAY, The Rectory, Shadwell.
Mrs. WILKES, Manor Cottage, Kerbey-st., Poplar.

Contributions of Needlework, Plain and Ornamental, Clothing, and articles of all kinds suitable for sale, are earnestly solicited, and will be thankfully received at Manor Cottage, as above.

A Working Party commences at Manor Cottage on Wednesday, 9th February, 1888, and will meet each succeeding Wednesday till the Sale. Any Lady wishing to join it will be cordially welcomed. Hours, from 3 to 5.30.

A LAUNDRY is being started by an experienced worker, with the object of teaching young destitute girls, to fit them for usefulness, and thoroughly train them for service. Price list on application to the LADY SUPERINTENDENT, Somerset Laundry, 4, Glaucus-street, Devons-road, Bow, E. Contributions towards covering initiatory expenses will be gratefully received. Reference kindly permitted to Mrs. Henry Varley, Miss Ellice Hopkins, and others. Vacancy for four girls.

DIVINE HEALING and Power for Service.—Meetings conducted by the Rev. JOHN ALLEN or his workers. Bishopsgate (32, Spital-square), Tuesdays, 7.30 p.m. Camberwell Gate (The Hall, Horsley-street). Tuesdays, 7 p.m. Hackney (Trinity Church, Triangle, Mare-street), Sundays, 3 p.m.; Mondays, 7 p.m.; on Fridays, Baptism of the Spirit, 7 p.m.

Postal address, Balclutha Lodge, Southgate, N.

NEED & REASONS FOR ASKING.

NEED.—A House with lower rooms large enough to hold meetings in—Gospel Meetings, British Women's Gospel Temperance Meetings, &c.; Class and Committee Rooms. Upstairs: Rooms for occasional Visitors, Tired Workers, &c.; and perhaps as a permanence for some whom the Lord has laid aside from active work.

REASONS FOR ASKING.—1st. Because the present Rooms to let in Bristol for these purposes are very expensive, and quite beyond most societies' funds; mostly too large or too small; very noisy, from being near to the trams. 2nd. Because two Houses are now being offered for Sale, in capital positions, with good rooms. 3rd. Because the words of the Lord Jesus to His disciples were, "Hitherto ye have asked nothing in My Name; ask, and ye shall receive" (John xvi. 24); and again, "WHATSOEVER ye shall ask the Father in My Name He will give it you" (John xvi. 23).

The Lord has indeed blessed the Work here, which makes the workers bold to claim His promise, and ask those of His servants who have been given abundance of this world's riches to help in the good work.

It is calculated the amount needed will be about £4,500; which will secure the House, with some Furniture, and enable the start to be made free of debt. Any Donations will be most gratefully received and acknowledged, as well as further particulars given, by MARGARET M. LURY, Bellevue, Upper Redland, Bristol; or may be sent to MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, London, E.C.

THE BETHSHAN, LEEDS.—Meetings for Holiness and Divine Healing, Sundays and Tuesdays, 2.30, Thursdays, 7.30 p.m. Friends desirous of benefiting by the teaching, can be received into the house.—Miss GIBBS, 10, St. John's-terrace, Belle Vue-road, Leeds.

THE COMMITTEE of the Ladies' Samaritan Society, National Hospital for the Paralysed and Epileptic, Queen-square, Bloomsbury, earnestly plead for help in aid of the poorer patients and their families.—Contributions in money or clothing will be gratefully acknowledged by the Committee. A few old dresses are much needed.

HOME HOSPITAL, 9 and 32, Lupus-street, St. George's-square, S.W., for Ladies and Children (medical, surgical, and confinement cases). Private wards. Ladies taken as dispensing and midwifery students. The Trustees ask help for free bed.—Address LADY SUPERINTENDENT.

RESCUE WORK IN PIMLICO.—A Lady interested in the Salvation Army, is anxious that the Home in above neighbourhood should be more widely known as an addition to Mrs. BRAMWELL BOOTH'S other Rescue Homes, particulars of which will be found in Saturday, March 3, edition of Pall Mall Gazette. Funds are much needed to carry on this good work, both at the principal Receiving Home, 259, Mare-street, Hackney, E., and also Pimlico. Any article of Clothing would be most gratefully received at either of above Homes, for the use of Girls.—Pimlico address, Mrs. FROST, 33, Cumberland-street; or the Hon. Mrs. BURROUGHES, 5, Sloane-terrace, S.W., would gladly receive the above.

Educational.

MORAVIAN EDUCATION.—Fairfield Boys' School, near Manchester. Established 1790.—For terms and all particulars apply to the Rev. W. J. BIRTILL.

BELLE VUE, AMBLESIDE.—Good School for Girls. Principal, Mrs. FLEMING. Healthy and beautiful situation; large rooms, garden, tennis. Careful Christian training, and thorough teaching. Cambridge Examinations. Resident foreign and English governesses. Masters. 50 to 60 guineas. Reduced terms for children under 12.

EDUCATION.—High-class School for Young Ladies.—Principal, Mrs. HALE, A.C.P. and F.S.Sc. London, 1, Carlton-mansions, Clapham-rise, London.—Visiting masters, certificated governesses, and careful personal supervision with home comforts. Pupils prepared for any examination. Instruction made pleasant, and no overworking countenanced. French, German, Latin, drawing, class-singing, and drilling are included in the school fees, which are moderate. Highly recommended by parents of pupils, and Rev. C. H. Spurgeon. Prospectus and testimonials on application to Principal.

"Balham, May 29, 1880.

"I am very reluctant to recommend schools, because I am not always able to judge of the interior arrangements; but in this case I have the utmost pleasure in standing as reference. I can highly commend Mrs. Hale, and have the greatest confidence in her capacity, management, and character, having known her for several years."

C. H. SPURGEON.

MOIRA HOUSE LADIES' SCHOOL, THE MEADS EASTBOURNE. Principals: Miss CONNAH, Mr. and Miss INGHAM, late of Moira College, Bournemouth. References to well-known gentlemen and to parents of pupils. Prospectuses on application.

FINISHING SCHOOL for Gentlemen's Daughters. Refined, Christian home-life. Careful moral training. High-class instruction. French and German habitually spoken. — Miss ESSER, Rockfield, Lansdowne-road, East Croydon, Surrey.

OCKBROOK MORAVIAN LADIES' SCHOOL, established eighty years. Pupils successfully prepared for the public examinations. Particularly healthy situation. First term commenced January 18.—Apply for particulars to

Miss OSBORNE, Ockbrook, Derby.

EDUCATION IN FRANCE.—Pension Protestante, highly recommended by English and French clergymen. Excellent Christian education. Good accent. Terms moderate.—For references and particulars apply, Mademoiselle MOLLARD, St. Quentin, Aisne, France.

BOURNEMOUTH EDUCATIONAL HOME FOR BOYS.—First-class masters and governesses, resident and visiting. Children from India receive special care and home comforts. A few little Girls received to educate with the Principal's own daughter. Terms and references on application to Mrs. HOLLIS, Moorlands School, Westbourne, Bournemouth.

EXETER.—Rougemont School, 5, Bradninch-place, Principal, Miss WREFORD.—Pupils prepared for Oxford, Cambridge, and Trinity College Examinations. Careful Christian training. Home comforts. Terms moderate.

CHRISTIAN HOME. — First-class teaching. Boys between 7 and 14. Great success. Highest references. £48 per annum.—SEXTUS, M.A., care of Alfred Denny, 304, Strand, W.C.

MORAVIAN LADIES' SCHOOL, Bedford.—Accommodation for thirty boarders and eighteen day scholars. Pupils prepared for Cambridge Local and R.A.M. examinations.—For terms and all particulars, apply to Miss SEIFFERTH, Principal.

OXFORD.—Two vacancies in first-class School, upon greatly reduced fees, to Daughters of Gentlemen. Special advantages in science, language, and art. University masters. Teaching Evangelical. Reference kindly permitted to Rev. Canon CHRISTOPHER.

PRINCIPAL, Ascham School.

HOME SCHOOL, Derbyshire.—A Lady of experience receives twelve pupils. Religious teaching the first object. Refined habits and careful training. Advanced music. Foreign governess. House healthful; surrounded by charming scenery. Reference kindly permitted to Rev. C. Guest, Burton-on-Trent, and others.

B., The Ferns, Duffield, Derby.

A LADY (Widow of an Officer), highly recommends an excellent School for the Daughters of Gentlemen, where her two daughters are completing their education. She can speak confidently and gratefully of the benefits they have received in mental culture, physical health, and sound Christian training, and will be gratified to reply to any parents seeking such information.—Mrs. H. C. C., care of Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street, E.C.

MALVERN, FONTHILL HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL FOR GIRLS. Careful training and home comforts. Resident English and foreign governesses. Visiting professors. Vacancy for a student on half terms.—Principals, the Misses GEATER.

HOME SCHOOL for Girls. Limited number of Boarders. Good education, based on Bible teaching, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness." Pupils prepared for the various Exams. Kindergarten for Juniors. Terms inclusive. Recommended by R. C. Morgan and parents of pupils.—Mrs. SILVESTER, Clarence House, Pellatt-grove, Wood Green.

SWITZERLAND.—A Lady wishes to recommend a happy Christian home in Lausanne, where a few young Ladies are received on moderate terms, and arrangements made that they should have every educational advantage.

Mrs. DE CARTERET, Les Magnolias, Lausanne.

HIGH-CLASS CHRISTIAN SCHOOL for the Daughters of Gentlemen.—Miss PENN receives a limited number of pupils. Efficient resident governesses and visiting masters. Individual Christian influence. Home comforts. Large house and garden. Entire charge taken of pupils from abroad. Languages and music specialities. Young Ladies are also received to pursue certain studies only, or to take lessons in dressmaking, cooking, &c.

St. John's de Ocklynge, Eastbourne.

ASHLEY HOUSE, Cobourg-place, Hastings.—Mrs. MATTHEWS, Principal. At this school, open for young children, a thorough Christian training is given. Children also received during the holidays. Pupils enjoy every home comfort. Terms on application. References permitted to Rev. E. A. Stuart, and other clergymen.

HAPPY HOME for ten Girls. Thorough teaching; special music. Two vacancies. Governess-Pupil required. 1½ hours by rail from London.—Macaulay House, Cambridge.

HAPPY GERMAN HOME and family life, with best educational advantages, for two children or young Ladies. References kindly permitted to Mrs. Bedford, Keyworth, Derby.

Miss WALKER, 58, Dingwall-road, Croydon.

AN OFFICER, whose daughter has been eight years in a first-class Christian School at seaside, is anxious to recommend the same to parents seeking a happy home, upon moderate terms. Inspector-General MacEwan, Hon. Physician to the Queen, Westville, Chaucer-road, Bedford.—Prospectus from PRINCIPAL, 5, Sussex-place, Southsea.

HANWORTH HOUSE, Weston-super-Mare.—Educational Home for the Daughters of Gentlemen.—Mrs. CHARLES NASH receives a limited number of Pupils, and endeavours to combine the highest educational advantages with maternal care and Christian training. Efficient resident governesses and visiting professors. References kindly permitted to the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Exeter, the Rev. Prebendary Hunt, M.A., Weston-super-Mare, &c. Prospectus on application.

A LADY WISHES to recommend an old-established School for the daughters of Gentlemen, situated in one of the healthiest suburbs in the south-west of London. Large modern house, with good garden and tennis court. The Principals, who belong to the Evangelical Church of England, take great interest in the religious and moral training of their pupils, giving them also a sound education, combined with home comforts. Resident foreign governess, visiting masters.—For prospectus, apply to

Mrs. SPENCER, 14, Beauchamp-place, Brompton.

LUCTON SCHOOL, HENFIELD, (near Brighton). Home School for Girls. Every educational advantage of High Class schools, based on Christian principles. Boys also received, with entirely separate supervision, under the care of Mr. E. J. H. Churcher, M.R.C.P., and F.S.Sc. London. Great experience with foreign pupils. From five guineas per term. References.—Address,

LADY PRINCIPAL.

BRIGHTON.—A few vacancies in a High-class School for Girls. Healthy and pleasant situation. Home comforts. Every educational advantage. Professors in attendance. Terms moderate.

Misses NORTON, Farndon House, Stanford-road

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL for Girls.—Comfortable home, careful Christian training, and thorough teaching. Successful preparation for public examinations. Vacancy for Kindergarten student.

Miss BASTIN, Glebe place, Stoke Newington, N.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL.

COMBE LODGE, COMBE DOWN, BATH.
To be opened (D.V.) after Easter
By CHARLES HOWARD, M.A.
Of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge.
(Eight years a Form Master at Monkton Combe School). Terms £60.

Boys prepared for entrance examinations at Monkton Combe or other Schools.

Referees:—Rev. R. G. BRYAN, M.A., Principal of Monkton Combe School; Rev. CARR GLYN ACWORTH, M.A., The Vicarage, Combe Down; Rev. G. F. HEAD, M.A., Christchurch Vicarage, Hampstead; A. C. P. COOTE, Esq., M.A., Lancaster-road, South Norwood.

Combe Down is situated 1½ miles distant from the G.W.R. Station, Bath, and one mile from Monkton Combe; it is much recommended for its bracing air, being 500ft. above sea-level.

MANY CHRISTIAN PARENTS, who at the present time are seeking a School at which to place their Sons, are invited to write to the undermentioned, who is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMAN'S BOARDING SCHOOL, where the constant aim of the Principal is to train those committed to his care in the fear of the Lord; and by the power of Gospel teaching maintain a Christian tone among the boys, combining this with a thorough and first-class Education.

The Premises are advantageously situated upon HIGH GROUND, NEAR and WITH VIEWS OF THE SEA, on the South Coast, a short run from London, and afford especial facilities for outdoor recreation.

Prospectus and Papers of Examinations passed and honours gained will be forwarded on application, together with a BOOK OF some of the TESTIMONIALS presented by parents of present and past scholars.

Dr. THORN, Paddington, London.

NEW COLLEGE,

Cliftonville, Margate.

Head Master: REV. G. HUGH JONES, F.A.S.

Latin, Greek, French, German, and thorough English. Preparation for Exams., public schools, and commerce. Resident foreign master. Decided Christian training. Splendid premises, close to sea. Moderate fees.

INWORTH HALL SCHOOL, Kelvedon, Essex. (Boys.) Thorough commercial education, 24 guineas, including French, laundress, and books. Unlimited diet, happy home, lovely grounds. No quarter's notice. No corporal punishment.

Address, PRINCIPAL.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL for Little Boys, conducted by a Lady of great experience, and with high recommendations. Very comfortable home for the children of parents going abroad.

PRINCIPAL, Heath, Ilkley, Yorkshire.

THE OLD HALL SCHOOL,

WELLINGTON, SHROPSHIRE.

A High-class School for the Sons of Gentlemen. Established 1845. Principal: DR. CRANAGE, M.A.; Vice-Principal: ROBERT WESTON, Esq., B.A., T.C.D.

MOUNT RADFORD SCHOOL, Exeter.—Boys are prepared for business or professional life. Many matriculate at the various universities. During the last twelve years pupils have obtained more than two hundred certificates (many passing in honours) in the Oxford, Cambridge, College of Preceptors', and London University Examinations. Special attention paid to juniors, who are taught by a lady. The Word of God is made the sole basis of a careful moral and spiritual training, and none but Christian teachers are employed. Cricket, athletics, &c.

Head Master, E. H. VINE, M.C.P.

BOTTENS, Switzerland. — Mons. MEYLAN, 3½ years' master at Monkton Combe School (Bath), intends to open a School for Boys at Bottens (Vaud, Switzerland). His knowledge of the English methods will greatly help him to carry out the education of English boys. For particulars apply to M. MEYLAN, 23, Howe-street, Edinburgh.

BRIGHTON.— EDUCATION.— Mr. ALFRED CLARK, B.A. (Lond.), receives about twenty Sons of Gentlemen, from seven to fourteen years of age. Terms from 45 guineas. Pupils are thoroughly grounded in English subjects, Latin, Greek, French, German, and mathematics, and have been successful at Cambridge Local and other Examinations. Personal care, Christian influence, and a healthy, happy home.—35, Buckingham-road, Brighton.—Referees: Mrs. W. Poole Balfern, Brighton; Rev. F. Cruse, Christ Church Vicarage, Worthing; Rev. J. B. Figgis, Brighton; Mr. and Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness, Harley House, Bow-road, London; Rev. W. Haslam, 66, Marina, St. Leonard's. Term commences May 4.

EDUCATION.—Germany.—Count and Countess Korff highly recommend Fräulein HERMANNI'S School in Wiesbaden (formerly Hermanni and Brügelmann). Fräulein HERMANNI receives a limited number of pupils. There is a resident French governess, and best professors attend. Excellent Christian influence. Great advantages for languages, music, singing, and painting.—Fräulein HERMANNI, Dotzheimer Strasse 10.

SWITZERLAND.—A Swiss Pastor in the Canton of Berne, in a nicely situated manse, wishes to receive in his house a few English boys. Good opportunity for learning German and all other school branches, especially music, and for enjoying all the advantages of a Christian family life and a good education. Terms all included, £5 a month. Write to Pastor WYSS, Wasen, Canton Berne.

STANLEY HOUSE, Cliftonville, Margate.—The Principal (A. E. COZENS, M.C.P.), assisted by a graduate of London University, seeks by careful, individual attention, to secure the well-being of each Pupil. Drilling, dumb-bells, class-singing, Conv. French, German, &c., are included in the school course. Preparation for Exams. Terms moderate and inclusive.

YOUR BOYS will have a Christian home and sound education with Mr. and Mrs. DIXON, Middle Class School, Kingston-on-Thames. Abundant diet. Beautiful neighbourhood. 20 to 30 guineas yearly. Prospectus. Jesus only.

CLIFTON, BRISTOL.—Pupils received in residence. Home comforts. Careful personal Christian training and instruction. Locality noted for its great natural attractions and exceptional healthfulness. Open Brethren.
Mr. HOWELL, Aberdeen-road.

LONDON UNIVERSITY EXAMINATIONS.—Experienced Tutor prepares by Correspondence. Reading prescribed, questions set, answers carefully corrected, and hints given each week.—W. H. ALEXANDER, B.A., 5, Bishopsgate Without, London, E.C.

A NORTH-GERMAN LADY desires a three weeks' Holiday Engagement, from April 14. Musical.—FRAULEIN, Mrs. Surman, Tavistock House, Weston-super-Mare.

YOUNG LADY seeks re-engagement as Morning or Daily Governess to children under twelve. Thorough English, arithmetic, French, drawing, music, and needlework.
Z., 34, Loftus-road, Shepherd's-bush.

WANTED TO PLACE (on reciprocal terms) in a high-class school, the religious teaching of which is conducted on staunch Protestant principles, a young Lady, aged 18, who has passed the Senior Cambridge examination, and has been engaged in teaching.
A. B., 4, Tressillian-road, Brockley, S.E.

CHRISTIAN TRAINING HOME for Governesses, to spread Evangelical Scriptural Truths, with sound, improved Secular Knowledge, and situations provided. Terms nominal. Age 15 to 25. Kind, healthy home.—DIRECTRESS, 74, Marquess-road, Canonbury, London, N.

A LADY SEEKS a situation as Governess to young children. Disengaged in April. Good references.—M. G., care of Col. STEWART, R.A., Ardvorlich, Lochearnhead, Scotland.

A CHRISTIAN LADY desires a re-engagement as Governess or Companion. Thorough English, Continental French, music, and elementary Latin. Seven years' experience. Salary £40 to £50.
B., Glenwood, Westcombe-park, Blackheath.

YOUNG LADY, JUNIOR CERTIFICATE, is anxious to secure, at once, in the neighbourhood of Montagu-square, Daily Teaching. Pupils under twelve preferred.
Miss H. M. WILSON, 49, York-street, W.

GOVERNESS-STUDENT required in select finishing school near London. English, music, French, German, and drawing under first-class professors. Premium 18 guineas. Light duties. Home comforts.—PRINCIPAL, Clarendon College, 16, Dalmeny-rd., Tufnell-park, London, N.

A LADY LIVING in healthy country town, would be glad to receive two or three little Girls to Board and Educate. A happy home, motherly care, and kind Christian influence guaranteed. References.
E. P., Prospect House, Trowbridge.

GENTLEWOMAN, highly recommended, seeks re-engagement as Governess, Housekeeper, Companion, Chaperone, or Head English Teacher. Thorough English, fluent French, advanced music, drawing. Two years last engagement, three years previous.—P., Mrs. Hooper, Governess' Institute and Home, Compton-terrace, London, N. Free of all charge to employers. Many certificated, Finishing and Nursery Governesses disengaged. English and Continental Schools and Homes recommended.

GOVERNESS. — A young Lady, daughter of a Minister, desires a re-engagement in a family. English, French, music, drawing, rudimentary Latin. Good testimonials.
A. E., Wesley House, St. Neots.

GOVERNESS OR COMPANION.—A Lady highly recommends her clever, conscientious, and most useful Governess. Children under 12 preferred. Well suited for boys' preparatory school. —F. B., care of Mr. Kean, High-street, Ilfracombe, N. Devon.

RESIDENT GOVERNESS requires situation after Easter. Can be most highly recommended by a Lady who has known her from childhood. Two or three pupils. Teaches English, French, Latin, music, and the rudiments of German and drawing. College of Preceptors certificate. Evangelical Church of England.
Miss M. GREEN, Sibton Abbey, Yoxford, Suffolk.

A CLERGYMAN can highly recommend a young Man to teach little Boys. Morning, afternoon, or daily engagement in London or suburb.
A. C., 163, Ebury-street, London, S.W.

TUTORSHIP REQUIRED in England or on the Continent, by an Oxford Graduate (married). Some years' experience in tuition.
C. W., 2, Highview-road, Upper Norwood, S.E.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Wanted.

TO MANUFACTURERS. — The General Manager of an important Manufacturing Company seeks a similar appointment with a Firm desirous of extending their operations. Twenty years' Commercial and Financial experience. References to leading bankers and traders at home and abroad. Can bring a very valuable connection.—BURMANTOFT, care of J. W. Vickers, 5, Nicholas-lane, E.C.

MANAGER OF COFFEE HOUSE, or as a Missionary. Situation required by a Christian man, aged 37, married, with one child. Been engaged in both capacities. Excellent references.
F. W., care of Mr. Radcliffe, Newport, Salop.

COFFEE TAVERN. — Advertiser, who is a Christian and an abstainer, would take care of the above. Recommended by a clergyman, and a county magistrate.
H. B., Stamp-office, Abergavenny.

MANAGERS OF COFFEE PALACE or Tavern. Situation wanted by Man and Wife. Total abstainers. Wife good cook.—F. S., care of Mr. Lowther, Rose and Crown, Knightsbridge, London, S.W.

SECRETARY. — RE-ENGAGEMENT REQUIRED, by a Gentlewoman, to individual or society. Accustomed to medical and private work. Possesses administrative ability. Excellent credentials.—C. A., 44, Highbury-park, Highbury, N.

GARDENER.—Christian, abstainer, had fourteen years' experience, both inside and out. Age 30, married, no family, and disengaged. Country or country town preferred.
W. 48, Vicarage-road, West Ham, Stratford, E.

ALBERT AND FRANK RAVILIOUS having conducted Gospel Services at Tonbridge for three years, are now open for engagements, Town or country. References given.
Christian Mission, Old Town Hall, Tonbridge.

A CHRISTIAN LADY who has travelled abroad and on the Continent, desires a situation as Companion to an elderly or invalid Lady. Salary no object.—MARY, care of Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street, E.C.

CHRISTIAN LADY (26), Clergyman's daughter, desires re-engagement as Companion. Well educated, musical, cheerful. Or would teach one or two little girls. Highest references.
Miss B., Post-office, Wadhurst, Sussex.

HOME OR BOARDING SCHOOL.— A Worker of experience in both of the above, seeks employment as Matron-Housekeeper or Superintendent. Accustomed to large numbers.
A. B., 32, Gilbert-road, Kennington, London, S.E.

A WIDOW LADY, giving up her home in May, desires engagement as Housekeeper, Companion, or position of trust in Christian household. Excellent references. Abstainer.
H., 9, Cambridge-gardens, Notting-hill, London.

THE COMMITTEE of a small Preventive Home at Woodford wish to recommend their late Matron, either as Housekeeper to gentleman where young servant is kept, as Matron in a girls' home, or any position of trust.—Apply by letter first to Mrs. RIDER COOK, Woodford, Essex.

A LADY (40) seeks a position of trust, either as Housekeeper, or Companion to elderly or young Lady. Very domesticated. Cheerful, good reader, and total abstainer.
FIDO, Richards, Stationer, Maidenhead, Berks.

A LADY DESIRES a re-engagement as Matron, Housekeeper, or any situation of trust. 5½ years with Miss Sharman. Good needlewoman. Fond of children.
M. B., 2, North-road, Clapham-park.

A CHRISTIAN YOUNG LADY (20) seeks re-engagment as Companion or Governess to children under 12. English, French, music, drawing, and needlework. Experienced. Good references.
E., Tandlemuir, Leyland-road, Lee, Kent.

CLERGYMAN'S DAUGHTER (23), who has had experience with children, would like to enter a family (clergyman's preferred) to help mother with children. Would take entire charge of one or two little ones, or teach children under ten.—DORIS, care of Miss Haslock, 20, Chepstow-villas, Bayswater, W.

AS USEFUL COMPANION to Lady. No dressmaking. No children. Domesticated. Musical.—A. B. C., 8, St. Peter's-road, St. Leonards.

A LADY WISHES to recommend most trustworthy, conscientious person as Housekeeper, Attendant on invalid lady, or any position where absolute confidence is required.
Mrs. N. JONES, Acton Hall, Berkeley, Glos.

SITUATION WANTED, TO NURSE Invalid Lady. Now living with paralysed Lady. Good references. Ten years' previous character. Christian and abstainer. Age 30.—Address by letter Miss BENNETT, Tylney House, Snaresbrook, Essex.

A LADY WISHES to recommend an excellent Servant, 40 years of age, who can cook well or do housework thoroughly, or laundry work, and to whom it is essential to be in a total abstaining family.
E. K., 200, Cromwell-road, London, S.W.

LADY RECOMMENDS AS PAGE, under butler, nice-looking Lad, aged 15. Well brought up. Parents respectable, Christian abstainers. Many years in service.—Miss SPICER-JAY, Willowdene, King's-road, Clapham-park.

MRS. CLAYTON WISHES TO RECOMMEND a young Person, who has lived with her six years, as superior Nurse, Mother's Help, or any position of trust. Age 29.
Osmaston-road, Derby.

GENTLEWOMAN, accustomed to take small meetings, sick visitor, Bible-woman, much blessed in winning souls, having suddenly lost all her income, compulsory, seeks employment. Clerical references.
FAITH, 15, Cornwallis-road, Hornsey.

A LADY RECOMMENDS a young person, age 24, as Maid and Nursery Governess to young children. Good needleworker, and thorough English education. Good references.
Mrs. WALLINGTON, Keevil, Trowbridge.

AS LADY'S-MAID. Excellent dressmaker. Quiet place. Needlework. Hairdressing and attendance only. Age 20. First-rate recommendations.
Mrs. ELLIS, Eastnor Castle, Ledbury.

AS HELP. Domesticated. No servant, no objection. Treated one of family. Sea-side preferred.
G., Tupper's Library, Herne Bay.

A YOUNG PERSON seeks engagement as Nurse or young Lady's-Maid in a Christian home (Dissenter). Domesticated. Good needlewoman. Highly recommended.
EVA CUTWELL, Tetbury, Glos.

AS USEFUL MAID, or Attendant on invalid.—A Widow (with no children), aged 24.
Miss HOARE, The Vicarage, Tunbridge Wells.

A LADY WISHES to place a young Girl (about 17) with a Christian motherly person. Her eyesight is not good enough for needlework, but could help in light housework.
A. B., care of Mr. Powell, Stationer, Bournemouth.

MRS. PRICE HUGHES will be glad to hear of a situation as Under Servant, in a Christian family, for a respectable, strong Girl of good character. Age 16 years.
8, Taviton-street, Gordon-square.

AS YOUNG HOUSEMAID or Under Housemaid. A Lady seeks situations for two respectable Girls of 19½ and 17, in or near London.
Miss MALAN, 42, Stanhope-gardens, London.

WILL ANY LADY, for the Master's sake, take a young servant Girl who has fallen, but wishes to redeem her character. Full particulars given.
Miss FOWLER, Wollaston House, Dorchester.

AS HOUSEMAID.—A Lady will have great pleasure in recommending a healthy Girl. Abstainer. Aged 18. Of exceptional character.
A. ALLEN, Post-office, Merstham, Surrey.

AS UNDER-HOUSEMAID, in a Church of England family, by a Girl, age 18. Abstainer.—A. F., 4, Highbury New-park, London, N.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Vacant.

HEATHEN AT HOME AND ABROAD. —Working-men and women wanted to be trained free as Evangelists and Mission Nurses. Is this a call for you?—Apply for details, CHURCH ARMY, 130, Edgware-road, London, W.

EVANGELIST wanted, to assist Gentleman in general Temperance Home Mission work in Midland county. Open-air and Hall preaching, house to house visitation, and if able to direct or take part in drum and fife band, it would be a consideration.
W. L., 4, Kingswood-road, Brixton, S.W.

REFORMED EPISCOPAL CHURCH. —Bishop RICHARDSON has an immediate vacancy for an earnest and eloquent young Clergyman, with some means, to assist him in London Suburban work. If successful, a sole charge will be the result.
Unionist Club, Pall Mall, S.W.

GLAZIER.—Wanted, a young Man accustomed to out-door Glazing. Apply by letter only, stating age, wages required, to GLASSCUTTER, 167, Beckenham-road, Penge.

FOOTMAN. Country. Abstainer, Butler and second footman kept. State age, height, and wages.—Arbuthnot, East Grinstead.

VACANCY occurs for a Youth in the Counting House of a Wholesale Warehouse. Living out.—Apply by letter, addressed C. H., care of Apperly & Co., Cripplegate-buildings, Wood-street, E.C.

GROOM AND COACHMAN wanted, for quiet and comfortable place near Dublin. Light weight, single, about 30. Abstainer preferred.—State full particulars to JOHN LA TOUCHE, Esq., Harristown, Brannoxtown, Ireland.

WANTED FOR THE ENGLISH ORPHANAGE, Paris, a Lady of decided Christian character as Honorary Superintendent. Must have experience in managing large household with economy.—Miss LEIGH, 77, Avenue Wagram, Paris.

A MOTHER seeks a young Christian Lady to help her in her house, and with four little children. Comfortable home. Small salary.—Mrs. ASHFORD, Zouche Farm, Tedworth near Marlborough.

A LADY LIVING IN SOUTH OF GERMANY wishes to hear of a good Christian Nurse. Must have good references, and be competent to take charge of an infant, and of a boy of three years. Wages £30. A sectarian preferred.—Mrs. H., care of Madame de Schonlepnikow, Villa Nassau, Wiesbaden.

AN EXPERIENCED LAUNDRY MATRON wanted for a small Home, near Liverpool. Must be a total abstainer.
Miss GILPIN, 31, South Hill-road, Liverpool.

LAUNDRESS in a Reformatory Home for Young Women. Must be a Christian and abstainer. Also a good laundress.—Address application, T., 195, Hampstead-road, N.W.

THOROUGHLY COMPETENT LAUNDRESS wanted, for Ladies' School. Christian preferred. Abstainer, and early riser. Must understand Harper Twelvetrees' Machine.
Miss PENN, St. John's Ocklynge, Eastbourne.

TRUSTWORTHY WOMAN wanted, to take cooking and help in house with another servant. Three in family. No beer. Wages about £16. Age 26 to 38.
2, Woodlands-road, Barnes-common, S.W.

A HOUSE PARLOURMAID wanted. Must be thorough in her duties, and with good personal character. Wages £18, and all found. No one under 28 need apply.—Apply by letter, to C. E., care of Messrs. Bull & Son, Victoria-road, Surbiton.

CAN ANY LADY recommend a good plain Cook, not under 26. Quiet, dependable. Earnest Christian much preferred. Churchwoman. Wages £20, all found. No beer.
Mrs. HANDLEY MOULE, Ridley Hall, Cambridge.

COOK WANTED in small family. Comfortable home, good wages. Must be trustworthy, much responsibility resting upon her. Abstainer. Excellent cooking and bread-making required.—Mrs. PRYOR, West-street, Dorking.

GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted. Abstainer, Church of England. Good character. Only one in family. House-Parlourmaid also kept. Wages £17 first year.
24, Broadhurst-gardens, South Hampstead, N.W.

A GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted. Abstainer, and an early riser. One other servant kept. Quiet, comfortable situation.—Mrs. BARLOW, Wyvenhoe, Tennyson-road, Worthing.

GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, for a Clergyman's family, of only two in number. One other servant kept. Comfortable home.—Write, stating particulars, to Mrs. BARNES LAWRENCE, 108, Bedford-street, Liverpool.

PLAIN COOK wanted, above 20. Wages £18 to £20. Two other servants kept. Four in family.—Apply personally or by letter, Mrs. D., 1, Allison-gardens, Dulwich-common.

GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, for a small, quiet family, a few miles from London. Comfortable home for a steady, respectable servant. An abstainer preferred.—Apply by letter, to
G. C., 304, High Holborn, London, W.C.

GOOD COOK wanted, in a small town. Eight in family. Early dinner. Thoroughly clean. No kitchenmaid. Good wages. Age from 25 to 35. Good references indispensable.
A., Highcliffe Hotel, Bournemouth.

CAN ANY LADY recommend to a delicate Mother a thorough, conscientious young person about 18, for the care of young children in nursery. Comfortable home.—Apply first by letter, Mrs. M., Aubrey Villa, Croydon-road, Anerley.

A NURSE wanted, not under 23, for a girl of 2½. Must be able to take baby from the month. Good needlewoman, and well recommended.—Mrs. ONSLOW, Alresford, Hants.

NURSE required, for elderly Gentleman. Strong, healthy, intelligent, middle-aged person, with some experience. Christian and total abstainer.—Mrs. J. E., 35, Upper St. James's-street, Newport, Isle of Wight.

A YOUNG PERSON wanted, in tradesman's family, to take charge of three children and assist in housework.—Apply, stating age and salary, VETO, 90, Ifield-road, South Kensington.

GENERAL SERVANT wanted, must be willing and clean. Also NURSEMAID, must be fond of children and good-tempered (Christians). Age about 19.
58, Thornfield-road, Shepherd's-bush, W.

CAN ANY LADY recommend a nicely brought up young Girl to assist a Lady in the nursery. Must be clever with needle. Good-tempered, healthy, clean, and nice manners.—Mrs. DEACON, 12, Pownall-gardens, Hounslow, Middlesex.

NURSE-HOUSEMAID wanted, at once, able to do plain needlework.—Apply, with full particulars, 17, Dealtry-road, Putney.

(Continued on page 38.)

NOW READY. PRICE SIXPENCE.

THE QUIVER

FOR APRIL, containing—

Pain and Gain. By the Author of "Beauty and the Beast."
Preparation for Marriage. By the Author of "How to be Happy, though Married."
"Lift Up Your Hearts." By Rev. W. M. STATHAM.
The Salt of the Earth. By EDWARD GARRETT.
"The Least of These My Brethren." True Story.
The Resurrection of the Body.
The Message of Jeremiah the Prophet.
The Lord Waiting to be Gracious. By the Rev. DANIEL MOORE, M.A.
A Day with the Zenanas.
The Five Hundred Thousand Blind of China.
Reclaimed. By LOUISA EMILY DOBREE.
The Land of Far Distances. By the Rev. HUGH MACMILLAN, D.D., LL.D., F.R.S.E.
An Interview with the Rev. A. M. Fairbairn.

SERIAL STORIES.

Not All in Vain. By LAMBERT SHEILDS.
"Wanted, a Governess."

CASSELL & COMPANY, Limited, Ludgate-hill, London.

Oxford University Press.

THE

OXFORD BIBLE FOR TEACHERS

IS NOW ISSUED in Twelve Sizes, with the text arranged in each so as to correspond page for page with all the others.

Seven Sizes are printed on best Rag-made Printing Paper, and vary in price from 3s. to 45s.

Five Sizes are printed on thin opaque INDIA PAPER, and are extremely light and thin. They vary in weight from 12½ ounces to 22 ounces, and in price from 7s. to 46s., not exceeding an inch in thickness.

It contains supplementary HELPS TO THE STUDY OF THE BIBLE, including Notes Analytical, Chronological, Historical, and Geographical; a Biblical Index; Concordance; Dictionary of Scripture Proper Names; Maps; a Compendium of Scripture Natural History, &c., which have been carefully Revised and Enlarged from time to time by Dr. STUBBS, Bishop of Chester; Dr. EDWIN PALMER, Archdeacon of Oxford; Dr. ANGUS, and other eminent scholars. The scientific information was prepared under the supervision of Professors ROLLESTON, WESTWOOD, LAWSON, and EARLE—names of the highest authority in their several departments.

THE DEAN OF GLOUCESTER:—"They are to my mind simply perfect, whether I look at them from the standpoint of a Biblical Scholar or of a Sunday School Teacher."

THE REV. C. H. SPURGEON:—"The very best. I have carefully examined the volume, and can unreservedly recommend it."

THE REV. HUGH PRICE HUGHES:—"I have used this book for years, and can only join in the universal chorus of all students of Scripture in describing its high merits, and commending it to all."

THE SALE OF THE

OXFORD BIBLE FOR TEACHERS

ALREADY EXCEEDS

NINE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES.

At all Booksellers.

London: HENRY FROWDE, Oxford University
Press Warehouse, Amen Corner, E.C.

Elliot Stock's New List.

Now ready, in Crown 8vo., cloth, price 5s., post free.

LIFE of the late Rev. G. M. MURPHY.

His work at the Lambeth Baths, Surrey Chapel, Borough-road Chapel, and among the working classes of South London. By his Sister, Mrs. HENRY TAYLOR. With Photographic Portrait.

"There is much to be learnt from a 'Life' like this." English Churchman.

"Mrs. Taylor's praiseworthy and carefully compiled memoir is essentially a volume for the people, every page of it teeming with anecdotes."—City Press.

In Crown 8vo., cloth, price 5s., post free.

CHRIST the KEY of the PSALTER.

With especial reference to the Titles. By an OXFORD GRADUATE.

"There is food for much meditation in this useful book, which we regret we cannot refer to at greater length."—Quiver.

"The work was needed, and directs attention to a much-neglected but interesting subject."—Leeds Mercury.

"A more delightful book we have not met with for a long time."—Christian Age.

In Fcap. 8vo., price 1s. 6d., post free.

SPIRITUAL DECLINE IN THE CHURCH OF GOD.

By ALFRED HILL.

In Crown 8vo., price 6d., post free 7d.

PEACE versus WAR: The Principle and Precedent of Combination.

An Appeal to England.

Now ready, tastefully printed in Crown 8vo., and bound in cloth, gilt lettered, price 3s. 6d., post free.

NELLA; or, Not My Own. A Story for Girls.

By J. GOLDSMITH COOPER.

NEW VOLUMES OF VERSE.

In Crown 8vo., cloth, price 4s., post free.

THE STORY of the CROSS.

A Poem. By CHARLES NASH.

"The author's intention is most praiseworthy." Morning Post.

"Deserving of all praise for the excellence which characterises it throughout."—City Press.

"The task is faithfully and creditably performed." Church Bells.

In Crown 8vo., cloth, price 2s. 6d., post free.

VOICES OF THE STREET.

Poems. By CYRUS THORNTON.

"There is a ring of true poetry in many of these pieces."—Christian Commonwealth.

LONDON: ELLIOT STOCK, 62, PATERNOSTER ROW, E.C.

THE "D. L. MOODY" LIBRARY.

Containing Ten of Mr. Moody's most popular works, well-bound up in Five Vols., in a nicely made box. Similar to the "Anna Shipton" Library.

CONTENTS.

1. Sovereign Grace. The Way to God.
2. Power from on High. To the Work.
3. Bible Characters. Prevailing Prayer.
4. Addresses. Faithful Saying.
5. The Old Gospel. Heaven.

10/6 NETT.

"Fresh, direct, pictorial, and powerful." General Baptist Magazine.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Single Numbers, 8d. 6s. 6d. per Annum, Post Paid.

No. 41 READY MARCH 31.

BABYHOOD.

THE MAGAZINE FOR MOTHERS.

DEVOTED EXCLUSIVELY to the CARE of INFANTS and YOUNG CHILDREN

92 & 93, FLEET STREET, LONDON, E.C.

THE LATE REV. GEORGE BOWEN, OF BOMBAY.

New Edition, Small 4to. Cloth, 5s.

DAILY MEDITATIONS.

By the Rev. G. BOWEN, of Bombay. With Introductory Notice by Rev. W. HANNA, D.D., Author of "The Last Day of our Lord's Passion."

"Among such books we shall scarcely find another which exhibits the same freshness and vividness of idea, the same fervour of faith, the same intensity of devotion. . . . I count it a privilege to introduce in this country a book so fitted to attract and to benefit." Extract from Preface.

"These meditations are the production of a missionary whose mental history is very remarkable. . . . His conversion to a religious life is undoubtedly one of the most remarkable on record. They are all distinguished by a tone of true piety, and are wholly free from a sectarian or controversial bias."—Morning Post.

In 1 Vol., Small 4to, cloth, 5s.

"VERILY, VERILY."

THE AMENS OF CHRIST.

By the Rev. GEORGE BOWEN, of Bombay.

"For private and devotional reading this book will be found very helpful and stimulative."—Literary World.

"Mr. Bowen is already favourably known as the author of one of the very best books issued under the oft-repeated title of 'Daily Meditations.' . . . Fresh thoughts, pious aspirations, sage reflections, and pithy practical suggestions are to be found in almost every page.—Daily Review.

In 1 Vol., Small 4to, price 5s.

LOVE REVEALED.

Meditations on the Parting Words of Jesus with His Disciples, in John xiii. to xvii.

By GEORGE BOWEN, Missionary at Bombay.

"No true Christian could put the book down without finding in himself more traces of the blessed unction which drops from every page."—Record.

"Here is a feast of fat things, of fat things full of marrow." Sword and Trowel.

"A more stimulating work of its class has not appeared for many a long day."—Scotsman.

". . . . So simple and graceful in style, so strong in their mental grasp, so fresh and unconventional in their thought, so devout and evangelical in spirit."—Freeman.

"The present work is eminently qualified to help the devotional life."—Literary World.

"To put a copy of this beautifully printed and valuable book into the hands of a young preacher or an aged Christian would be a fit Christmas work for a wealthy Christian."—Aberdeen Free Press.

"He writes plainly and earnestly, and with a true appreciation of the tender beauties of what are really among the finest passages in the New Testament."—Glasgow Herald.

EDINBURGH: DAVID DOUGLAS.
LONDON: HAMILTON, ADAMS & CO.

The Religious Tract Society's List.

THE SUNDAY AT HOME

For APRIL contains:—

Marcus Stratford's Charge; or, Roy's Temptation. By EVELYN E. GREEN, Author of "Barbara's Brothers," &c.
The Bishop of Derry and Mrs. Alexander. By the Rev. THOMAS B. WILLSON, M.A.
The Holden Eyes. By the Rev. ALFRED NORRIS.
Emmaus. By H. HOFMANN.
The Problem of the Poor. THE EDINBURGH INDUSTRIAL BRIGADE. By W. J. GORDON.
Peace. By the Rev. FREDERICK LANGBRIDGE.
A Sail through the Inland Sea of Japan. II. By Mrs. MURRAY MITCHELL.
Convalescent. By P. TARRANT.
Marguerite Leroy. A Leaf from the Journal of a French Pastor.
The Lesson of the Spring Flowers.
On Leaving Behind. By ISABELLA FYVIE MAYO.
A Calm Sunday in the North Sea.
Kirk-Braddon and its Vicar. By J. EWING RITCHIE.
Paris at the Time of the Reformation. By RICHARD HEATH.
The Recent Explosion at Amoy. By C. F. GORDON CUMMING.
Hymns on the New Jerusalem.
Bible Notes and Queries.
Things New and Old. The Painter's Model.
The Flying Fay. By SYDNEY GREY.
The Parables of our Lord. By HESBA STRETTON.
Scripture Exercises. Monthly Religious Record.

Frontispiece—Meditation.
After ROBERT BEYSCHLAG.

SIXPENCE MONTHLY. ONE PENNY WEEKLY.

NATURAL LAWS and GOSPEL TEACHINGS. By HERBERT MORRIS, D.D. Crown 8vo. 1s., Cloth boards.

A clear and convincing sketch of the correspondence between Science and the Word of God on such great questions, Natural Laws and Miracles, Natural Laws and Answers to Prayer, the Resurrection of the Dead, &c.

WHAT TO READ AT ENTERTAINMENTS. Part I.—VERSE. Part II.—PROSE. Edited and Arranged by Rev. FREDERICK LANGBRIDGE, M.A., Author of "Sent Back by the Angels," "Poor Folks' Lives," &c. Each Vol. 1s. 6d. Cloth.

GOSPEL ETHNOLOGY. By S. R. PATTISON, F.G.S., Author of "The Religious Topography of England," &c. With Illustrations. 5s., Cloth.

CHEAP REPRINT.

A HUNDRED HYMNS. Selected by the Readers of Sunday at Home as the best in the Language. With some account of their Writers, and ten Portraits. Imp. 8vo. 2d. in cover.

NEW TRACTS.

JOHN NEWTON OF OLNEY. With Portrait. By Dr. MACAULAY, author of "Gordon Anecdotes," &c. New Biographical Series. No. 54. 1d., or 8s. per 100.

WHAT GREAT ENGLISHMEN HAVE SAID CONCERNING THE PAPACY. By the Author of "Luther Anecdotes," &c. First Series. No. 195. Illustrated. 7s. per 100.

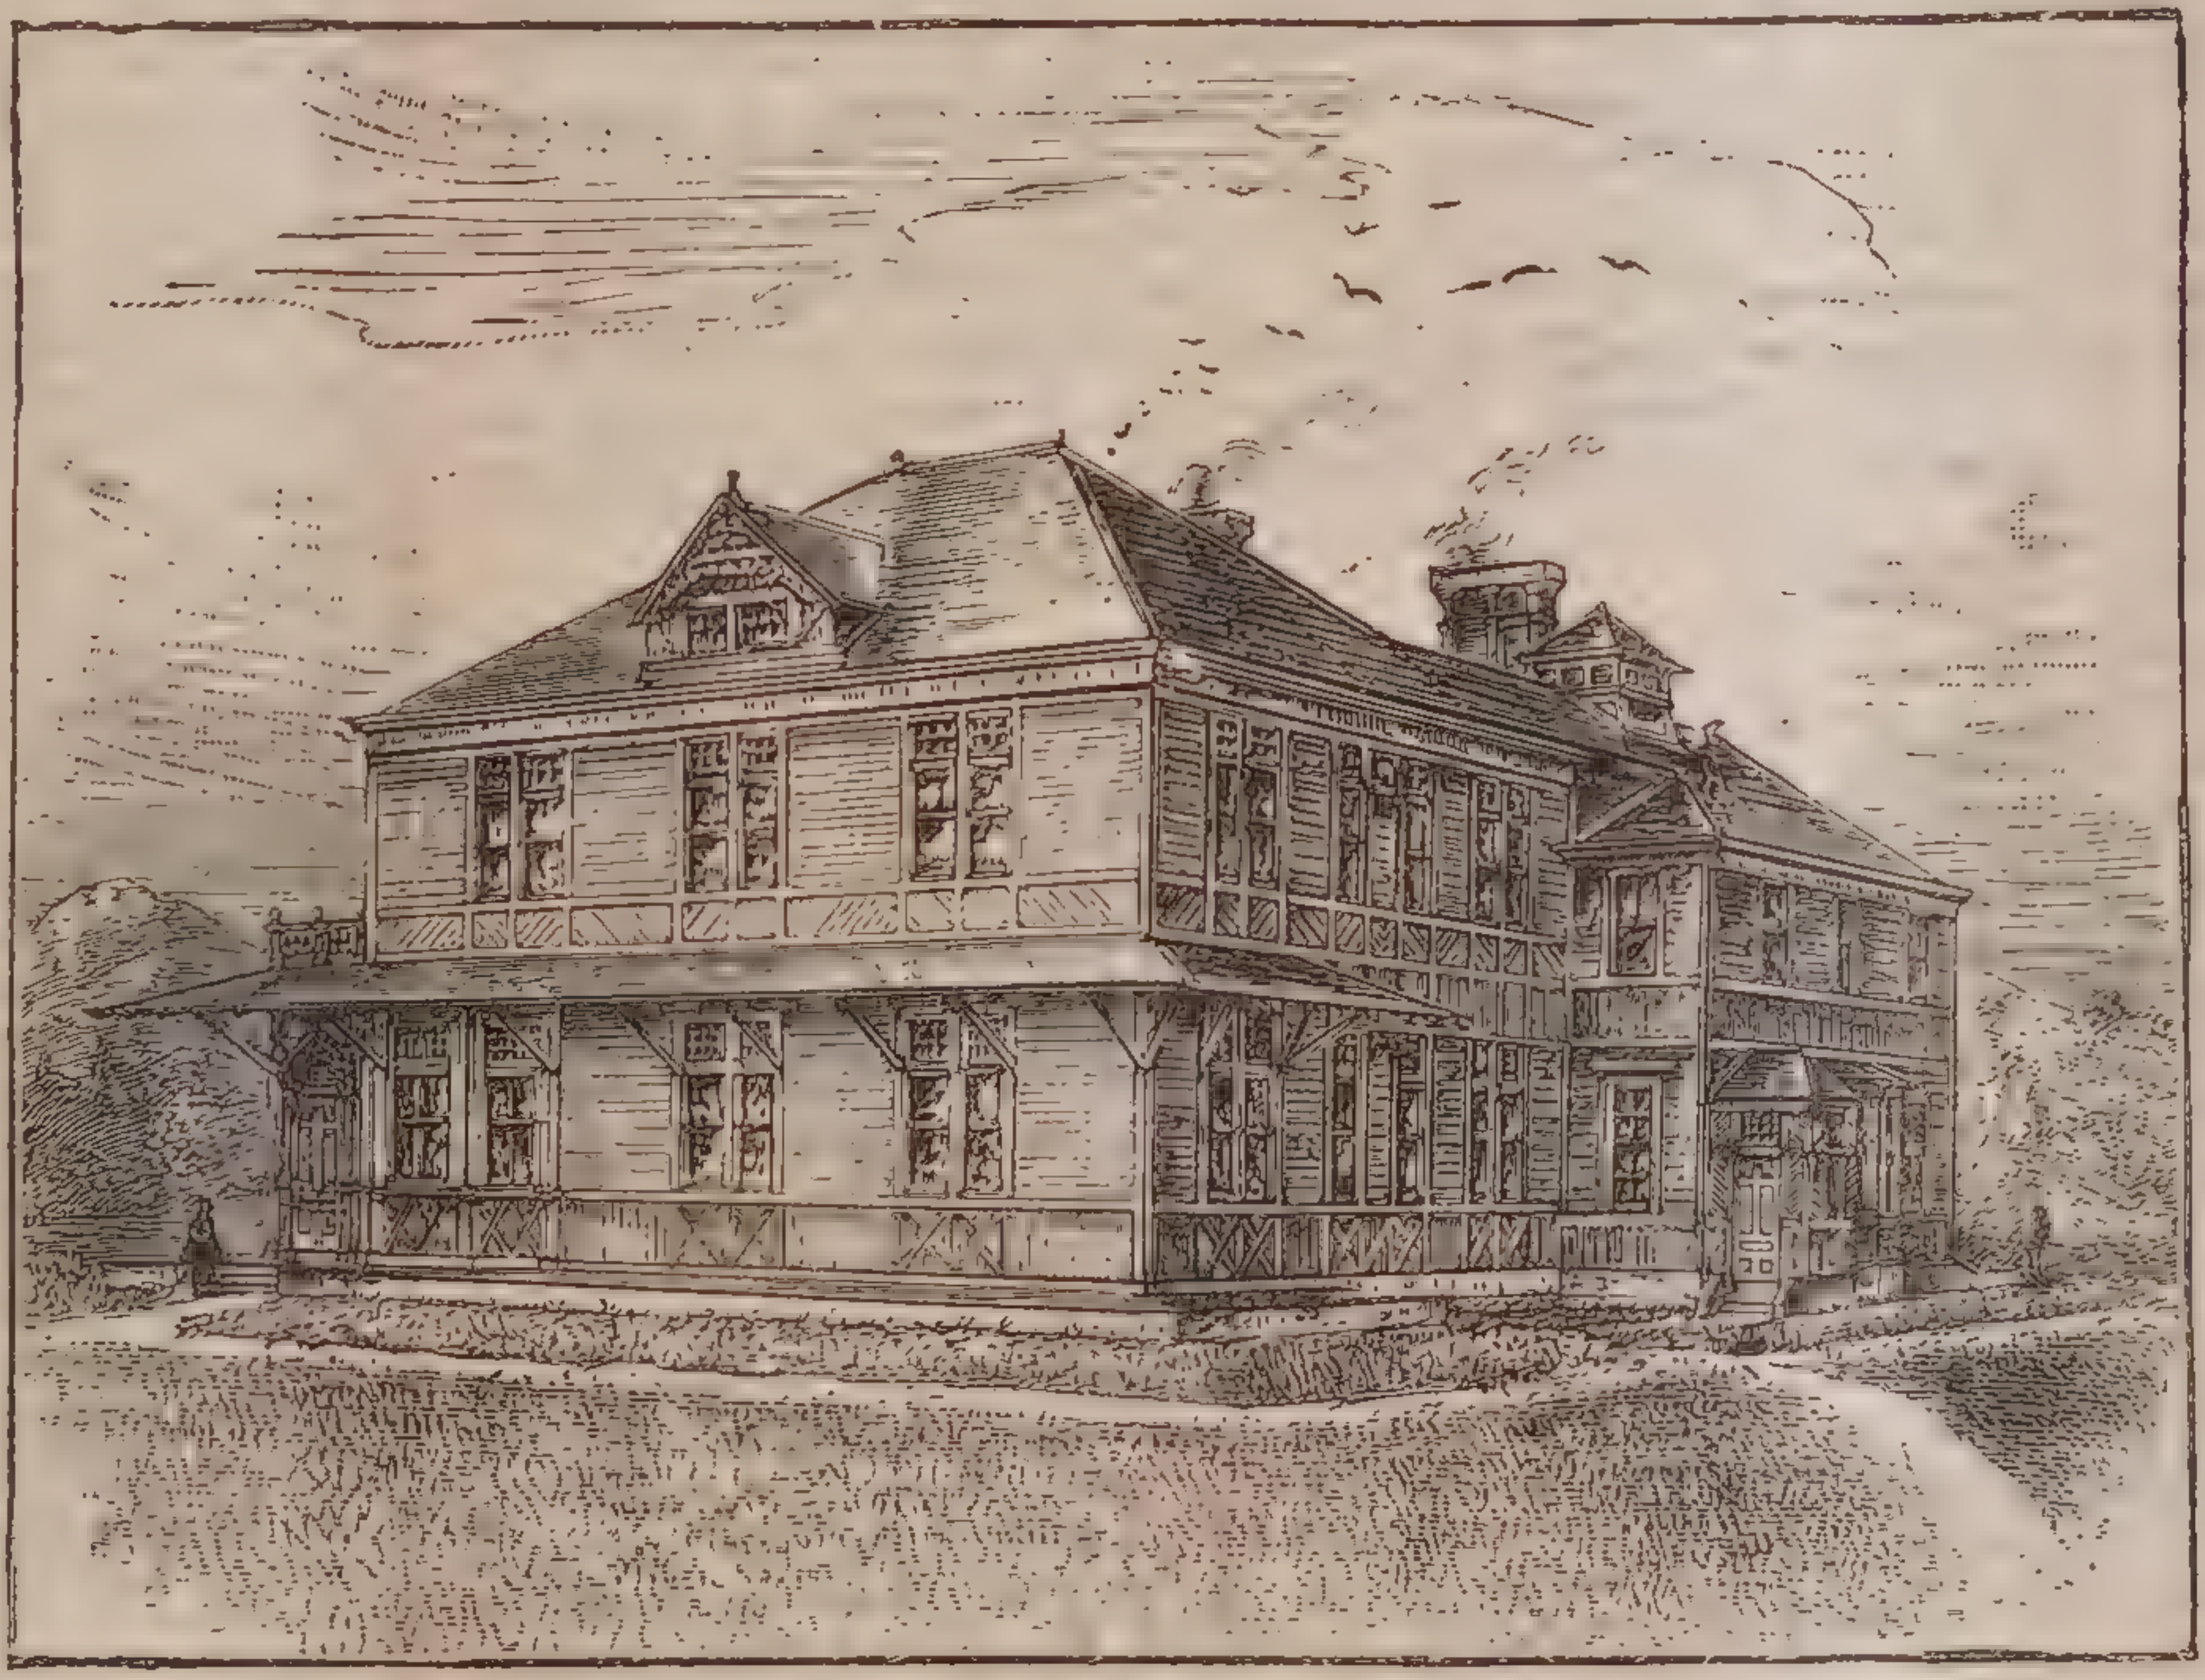
LONDON: 56, PATERNOSTER ROW.

DR. BARNARDO'S NEW COLONY.

The following particulars with respect to Dr. Barnardo's new development in emigration work will be interesting to our readers. They are taken partly from a recent account by the travelling commissioner of The Pall Mall Gazette, and partly from information furnished by Dr. Barnardo himself :—

From Binscarth a short line runs due north to a little place called Russell, and halfway between Russell and Harrowby (a corresponding station on the main line) is the site of Dr. Barnardo's new Industrial Farm. After examining a good deal of the province, his agent pitched upon this spot, and, so far as observation goes, it would have been difficult for him to make a better choice. The Doctor has secured altogether 8430 acres, which is made up as follows : a bonus from the Manitoba and North-west Railway, 2400 acres ; a bonus from the Manitoba Government, 960 acres ; purchase from the Manitoba and North-west Railway, 960 acres ; school lands purchased, 640 acres ; and acquired from other parties, 3,470 acres. The large house he is erecting is to be completed by the end of March, at a cost of £3500. It is strongly and warmly built of wood, and, when finished, will be a thoroughly comfortable, and even an imposing structure.

On the ground floor is a large dining hall, while dormitories occupy an equal space above. There is a large entrance hall, and from the windows of the hospital-rooms on the second floor is a view as charming as any that can be seen in the North West. If any of his lads are ill, they will be able to lie in bed and look for miles and miles over prairie and bluff, wooded valley and hay-land, and all on a scale which they can never have even dreamed of at home. The greater part of the land will be developed as a Mixed Farm, and one of the most experienced men in the North West, who has for years been in the employment of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has been secured as superintendent and bailiff of the whole property.



NEW FARM HOUSE

Dr. Barnardo's intention is always to keep from eighty to two hundred lads in residence. These will be picked boys, will be all over sixteen years of age, and will have been thoroughly tested in the Labour House ; and no lad guilty of any grave fault will ever be allowed to go out. Each of these boys will be bound under an agreement recognisable by Canadian law to remain at the farm for one year, giving his labour in return for what has been done for him, and of course receiving at the same time invaluable experience and further training. Thus, the free labour of from 100 to 200 lads will be available for the purposes of the Institution, and as the land is very fertile and the prospects of farming in the neighbourhood are of the most favourable kind, experienced men have given positive assurances that without any difficulty all the food required for the maintenance of the inmates of the Institutions can be easily raised by themselves. Not only so, but that after they once get into full swing a large residue of the crops can be devoted for the other purposes of the Institutions.

Dr. Barnardo intends, however, to proceed with great caution. Forty-nine picked lads will soon be on the Atlantic aboard the Polynesian, and no more will be added until these have been broken in and the prospects widen out before them. It is, as we have said, Dr. Barnardo's belief that the farm will be, not only self-supporting, but largely productive in aid of the rest of the work after the present season. But during the first season, until food has been grown, the lads will require support, and it is calculated that £200 will supply the whole Institution with food and other necessaries until their first crop can be realised.

A Creamery and Cheese Factory are to be at once built by the labour of the lads themselves on their arrival, who will also have on hand the erection of stables and cattle sheds. A consensus of opinion from the whole countryside seems to show that both the creamery and cheese factory will be largely availed of by farmers for miles around, and will be a source of certain revenue to the Institution. A Cannery for small fruits such as are easily grown adown the magnificent gulleys which bound the property along the Assinaboine River will also be established shortly. But perhaps the best part of Dr. Barnardo's scheme is that which provides small allotments for such young fellows as have attained by industry, honesty, and long service, positions of special honour. The wheat fields will lie in front of the house ; to the left there is a pleasant little copse, and on the right a large tract of hay-land where any amount of hay can be had at all times for the cutting. "It was pleasant," says The Pall Mall representative, "to stand at the upper windows of the house and try to imagine what the view would be when, instead of being black and leafless, the trees and all the valley should be green with the spring ; when, instead of unbroken snow, the eye could range over miles of golden wheat, and then turn for rest from this splendour to the natural prairie carpeted with its multitude of wild flowers, and wonder what these boys from black courts and squalid alleys would think of their new home in the New World."

As to the Farm itself, some capital is absolutely required in order to start it ; and after careful calculation made on the spot by those who have been for years familiar with all the requirements of Canadian farming, and also based upon the careful revision of Mr. E. A. Struthers, who, after many years' practical experience in the North West, has now been engaged as the permanent Superintendent and Bailiff of Dr. Barnardo's new venture, it is estimated that £1292 will be required, in order to meet the whole extra expenditure of the first two years of farming life.

The following interesting list of items will show how the sum is reached :—

	Canadian Money.		English Money.
	dol.	c.	£	s.	d.
Draught Stock, Implements, &c.
4 pairs Oxen, at 125 dols. per pair	500	0	103	1	10
1 pair Horses, at 300 dols. per pair	300	0	61	17	2
1 pair Ponies, at 175 dols. per pair	175	0	36	1	8
3 Wagons, at 75 „ each	225	0	46	7	11
2 Carts...... at 30 „ „	60	0	12	7	5
6 Breaking Ploughs, at 30 dols. each	180	0	37	2	3
1 Mower..........................	75	0	15	9	3
1 Rake (Horse Hay)	30	0	6	3	8
4 Sets of Harrows, at 15 dols. each	60	0	12	7	5
1 Seeder	80	0	16	9	10
1 Self-Binder......................	300	0	61	17	2
1 California Saddle...............	40	0	8	4	11
4 Sets of Ox Harness	50	0	10	6	2
2 „ Horse „	70	0	14	8	8
1 Light Market Wagon	125	0	25	15	6
Lot of small Tools	150	0	30	18	7
Freight Charges, say	100	0	20	12	5
Seed, Grain, &c.
200 bushels Wheat....at 80 cents.	160	0	32	19	10
150 „ Oats......at 50 „	75	0	15	9	8
75 „ Barley....at 75 „	56	25	11	12	0
100 „ Potatoes..at 75 „	75	0	15	9	3
Lot of Fruit Plants, and Evergreens, say....................	150	0	30	18	7
Wood and Hay.
5 tons Hay, at 5 dols.	25	0	5	3	1
Cost of 100 Cords of Wood, cut upon property at 80 cents per cord	80	0	16	9	10
20 loads of Dry Wood, at 2 dols...	40	0	8	4	11
Pigs and Poultry	75	0	15	9	3
Sheep..........................	200	0	41	4	10
Cows—50, at 35 dols.	1750	0	360	16	9
Items not included..............	1060	60	218	13	8
	Dols. 6266	85	£1292	3	1

At the end of the second season it is hoped sufficient will have accumulated from the sale of wheat and other products of the farm to enable its needful extension without further outside assistance, but Dr. Barnardo is now naturally most anxious that the whole of this sum of £1292 should be promised to him by Christians on this side of the ocean for the development of what he believes to be one of the most important, useful, and most hopeful of any of the various schemes he has set on foot for the welfare of poor boys.

It should be borne in mind that the greatest difficulty experienced in rescuing lads between seventeen and twenty from the streets and the lodging-houses, is how, after training, to provide them with permanent employment in the future, without turning out adult labourers to make room for these. Moreover, all the avenues for labour in England are more or less closed against such lads. Even if they were open to them, the dangers to the lads of drifting back to their old life upon the streets would be very great. The far North West of Canada has none of these dangers, and has an illimitable field ; and if only lads of really good character (and no others will be sent), honest, industrious, and sober, are sent out there, in a few months they will become so completely altered by their surroundings as to acquire a healthy distaste for city life, and a passionate love for the country—a fact which constitutes one of the most hopeful elements in their future.

If 200 lads can be sent out each year to the Industrial Farm, those coming in one year will replace their companions who have already had a year's training. The whole country side is open for the employment of the latter at good wages, and there is at present no appearance of any possibility of limit to the demand. To send out inexperienced, ill-conducted emigrants would be a fatal mistake, hurtful to the emigrants now, as well as to the Dominion, and in the near future suicidal to the whole scheme of emigration ; but the plan which Dr. Barnardo is adopting, although it may be a little more troublesome and slightly more expensive at first, presents such scope for the relief, literally, of thousands of young lives that may be saved the contamination of the streets and the lodging-houses, that it is difficult to speak too highly or too warmly of the prospects.

After all, what is £1200 or £1300 as capital for the commencement of so comprehensive and wise a scheme? A mere bagatelle as compared with the vast sums daily squandered by the worldly on their pleasures! If some one rich man or woman were to offer £2000 as a reserve fund to meet all the possible contingencies of the scheme for the first few seasons, it would place the whole work upon so firm a foundation, and give such confidence and strength to those who are carrying it on as would largely increase its powers for good. Dr. Barnardo's address is 18 to 26, Stepney Causeway, London, E.

THE FIRST PARTY OF THE SEASON.

On Monday last, the mid-day prayer-meeting at the Aldersgate Y.M.C.A. was enlivened by the presence of the first contingent this year of two hundred and five boys from Dr. Barnardo's Homes, who, in accordance with an unwritten tradition, now of several years' standing, were gathered together to be commended to the prayers and sympathies of English Christians prior to their departure for Canada, to "seek their fortunes." The two hundred ranged in age from twelve years up to the borders of manhood, and in their sea-going and settlers' attire presented an interesting appearance to the crowded audience. Mr. Robert Paton presided.

After the customary singing and prayer, Dr. Barnardo took up his parable, first on the general question of emigration, and then as to the history and position of the party about to sail. Emigration of the young, he said, is one of the great needs of the day, in view of the increasing struggle for existence, and of the enormous growth of city populations; and nothing but good can follow, if only the emigrants are industrious and morally upright. These conditions are carefully observed in the case of every lad sent out from the Homes. He had no hope of emigration conducted upon any other lines. It is madness to suppose that the mere legerdemain of sending a young boy to Canada will change his moral nature. Hence, a boy's record must be established as clear on this side of the water by way of essential preliminary. Each lad has therefore been subjected to a real test both as to his working powers and as to his desire to do well. This is doubly necessary upon the present occasion, for a portion of this party of emigrants is to be settled upon the new Industrial Farm in connection with the Homes in Manitoba, where it is above all necessary that the settlers should be industrious.

Proceeding to some facts regarding the boys themselves, Dr. Barnardo stated that 113 of the number are from the Boys' Home, Stepney; 71 from the Youths' Labour House, 5 from Leopold House, 7 from the Bromyard Farm Home, and 8 from the Union Jack Brigade. The average age of the boys is 16 years 3¼ months, while their average length of residence in the Homes has been 7¼ months. A period of six months or thereabouts is found to be amply sufficient for testing the big youths who are inmates of the Labour House. Some curious statistics followed as to the sources whence the lads were taken. While 102 of the number come from Middlesex, and 18 from Kent, smaller numbers or single boys come from nearly every other county in England! Stirling and Lanark in Scotland are represented by one lad each, as also are Clare and Cork in Ireland. One comes from New Jersey, U.S.A.; one from Syria; one from Canada; one from India; one from Turkey and one from Germany. Of the whole, 107 have been rescued from lives of adventure actually upon the streets. It was stated that these 205 will bring the number of Canadian emigrants, boys and girls, from the Homes up to 2918. Of the 2713 at present actually in the Dominion there have been only nineteen moral failures—a statement of fact which was loudly cheered by the audience.

Dr. Barnardo struck a deeper chord by his concluding remarks, in which he urged into emphatic prominence the ever-present aim of the Homes as being Christian. They seek, above all else, the salvation and spiritual good of the boys and girls. There are, thank God, among those about to go forth to the new land, not a few whose hearts have been touched by Divine grace—young fellows who are not only of Christian spirit, but fired with missionary zeal. His hope, indeed, was that in a very real sense the Homes will prove a missionary college, sending forth young men, who, living in prayer and faith, will carry the Gospel with them all over the homesteads of Canada.

From a word or two on the financial aspects of the emigration movement, it appeared that the cost of sending one lad to the Distributing Home in Ontario is £8 10s., a sum which includes an excellent outfit, and which leaves a small margin for contingencies on the other side. It is probable, however, that after April next, owing to the proposed withdrawal of Government aid by the Dominion, this total will be increased to £9 10s. per head. The expenses to the Homes of an emigrant to the Industrial Farm in Manitoba are £11, owing to the much greater distance. It was mentioned that twenty-seven boys at £8 10s., and nine boys at £11 yet remain to be provided for.

The party were, at the close, earnestly commended in prayer to God by Rev. Dr. Rosedale and by Mr. Colin Young. Much attention was attracted to the young voyageurs as they left the building.

Another meeting was held in the evening, at the "Edinboro' Castle," Limehouse. Lord Stanley of Preston, Governor-General elect of Canada, was expected to preside; in his unavoidable absence, Mr. T. A. Denny took the chair.

◆

OBITUARY.

MR. CHARLES BINGLEY.

This young man was one of the most earnest and devoted workers of the Y.M.C.A. connected with the Great Assembly Hall, Mile End-road, and was terribly in earnest about the souls of his fellow-men. Before his conversion he was a leader in the "Skeleton Army." He was buried at Bow Cemetery on Sunday week, a most impressive service being held in the "Young Men's Hall" of the Great Assembly Hall. About one thousand persons were present, including his employer, and over fifty of his fellow-employés. He was to have been married on the very day on which he was laid in his last resting-place. A few days before his death, on being visited by one of the young men, he said, "Oh, how grand to think that soon I shall see the Master, and hear Him say, 'Come up higher.'"

MR. WILLIAM NOBLE left on Saturday morning last for a short holiday visit to the South of France. He is expected to return in about a fortnight, when he will prepare for the approaching summer's campaign. A number of marquee missions are being organised in and around London, to be conducted by Mr. Noble during the summer months.

FOR THE GOSPEL'S SAKE.—We much regret to learn that the widow of the late Mr. Robert Craig, evangelist, is in very straitened circumstances. She is living with her son, who is unemployed, and her married daughter in a state of almost total destitution in Stepney. Any friends interested may communicate with Mr. W. R. Nicoll, "Edinboro' Castle," Rhodeswell-road, E.

REQUESTS FOR PRAYER.—For blessing on special missions at Canterbury, from April 8 to 15, to be conducted by Rev. J. F. T. Hallowes, and at Clepington.——For blessing on the Confirmation classes at Ravington, Warwick, and Baddesley Clinton, that all the candidates may be decided for Christ.——Mr. John Girling, Hon. Supt. of the Hackney-road Mission, is, and has been during the last month, suffering extreme bodily affliction. Prayer is asked, that he may be speedily restored to health, so that he may be further instrumental in extending Christ's kingdom and the temporal welfare of many.——For blessing at Wonersh, near Guildford, during a ten days' mission by Mr. J. McAuliffe.

WORKING GIRLS IN LONDON.

On the afternoon of March 21 a meeting in connection with the Homes for Working Girls in London was held at Lincoln House, 12, York-place, Baker-street, W. The Hon. and Rev. Edward Carr-Glyn presided.

Mr. John Shrimpton, the honorary director of the Homes, made a short statement of the work and the present prospects of the Homes, of which there were eight; one more is about to be founded at 11, Fitzroy-street. In the eight Homes there is accommodation for 420 inmates, for whom full board is provided at 4s. 6d. per week. During the year all the Homes have prospered. Since the founding of the Homes, 9500 girls have been residents. He felt that these Homes have a peculiar claim upon friends in the country, for a majority of the girls who are benefited by them are from the provinces. This fact ought to be known all through the land. A friend who, on coming to London, paid a visit to the Homes, was very much struck with the fact that in one Home, out of sixty-six girls (inmates) only four were London girls. Mr. Shrimpton hoped that as a result of the attention of their country friends being drawn to this fact, more liberal help would be forthcoming. There is a sum of £520 still due on Lincoln House, which the Committee will be very thankful to be able to pay off.

In stating how God sends help unexpectedly, and by persons unknown, Mr. Shrimpton mentioned the case of a lady who, having read in some paper that it was wiser to bestow money on benevolent objects while living rather than keeping it back till after death, wrote to him and said she had willed £500 to the Homes, but had now sent it on to him at once, instead of leaving it as a legacy. This unsolicited donation was given them to enlarge Victoria House, 135, Queen's-road, Bayswater. The premises next door have been secured with this object. The total amount required is estimated at about £1800. When completed, there will be accommodation for thirty more residents. Another instance was that of an anonymous donor, who, reading an account in the Press of the work, promised 2000 guineas. This handsome promise enabled them to found another Home, which has been done by securing the house, 11, Fitzroy-street, opposite Morley House. There is great cause for praise, and this was the reason they had been asked to meet on that occasion. Rev. G. D. Macgregor then offered up the thanksgiving prayer.

The Chairman delivered an address, dwelling upon the great good which had been done in connection with these Homes, and the value the girls themselves set upon them. He wished that they could be multiplied all over London. He asked all of them to pray for the workers and superintendents, also for the girls. Mr. Daniel Wellby offered a concluding prayer for a continuance of the Divine blessing.

MEDICAL MISSIONS.—A new Medical Mission House will be opened by the Church of England Women's Missionary Association, at 344, Wandsworth-road, to provide additional accommodation for ladies who are preparing for medical mission work. Midwifery and other courses of instruction are given by qualified women medical practitioners, one of whom resides in the House.

CHRISTIAN UNION OF GERMAN WOMEN.—The Bible-class on Sunday afternoons has led many German young women to regard 36, Hart-street, Bloomsbury, as their Sunday Home; and the Tuesday evening assemblies have been eagerly looked forward to by the members. The Union is connected with the Homes for Working Girls in London, and Mr. John Shrimpton, 38, Lincoln's Inn Fields, is the treasurer.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS' CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.—The first of a series of meetings for commercial travellers, which this Association proposes to hold in the provinces, took place at the Abbey Hall, Reading, on Tuesday, the 20th inst. The attendance was encouraging, and all present felt that the hour had been most profitably spent. The secretary (Mr. Leonard Courtney) presided, and offered a few remarks upon Ps. xci. He pointed out that even in the midst of business cares we might abide under the shadow of the Almighty; and called upon his hearers to be bold in giving the same testimony as the Psalmist does in ver. 2. The meeting closed with praise and prayer. The arrangements for April are as follow:—Ipswich, 20, Providence-street, April 17; Brighton, Steine House, April 24. All commercial travellers are cordially invited.

YOUNG MEN IN EXETER HALL.

Looking back in thought over a long course of years, we cannot recollect any Y.M.C.A. anniversary in Exeter Hall with a more attractive menu than that of last week. Any one of the selected speakers would have been enough for a full evening's feast of reason and flow of soul; the combined trinity of speeches provided a veritable embarrassment of riches. The solid fare was richly garnished by the delightful song of the musical friends who filled up the greater part of the platform. The preliminaries were few and brief—earnest prayer by Rev. W. H. Barlow, vicar of Islington, and the reading of Scripture by Dr. H. Grattan Guinness. Then Mr. J. H. Tritton, the chairman, called on to speak. Mr. M‘Neill is a northern light, who has hardly as yet had the chance of establishing a platform reputation in London, but his address last week, by its manly fervour and good sense, will do much in that direction. He began by a personal testimony to the value of the Y.M.C. Association, as a member of which he said he began Christian work. Then followed a rousing appeal to any of the young associates present who were not decided Christians, to give themselves speedily and permanently to Christ. "The longer I continue in the Lord's service, the more I feel that it must be 'dreich' (Scottice for 'weary') work to be taking some part in the externals of Christian effort without having a heart for it. We are called to-day to a great conflict. If ever the expression, 'A soldier of the cross,' was a real description of the Christian life, and no mere extravagant military metaphor, it is in these days. Whatever a soldier needs, not simply of clothes, but of courage behind the clothes, of knowing the meaning of a battle-cry, of striking a blow from his shoulder, and putting himself for time and eternity into his work, the Christian young man of to-day needs it all."

Rev. John M‘Neill, of Edinburgh,

Then came a magnificent and much-applauded plea for out-and-outism in the total abstinence cause, on behalf of which Mr. M‘Neill is doing yeoman service among his own people. He affectionately urged young men to take their stand with regard to this burning question, even though they might be in "a set" that was very lukewarm about it. "While you are making up your mind, make up your mouth," was one of the sententious and aphoristic phrases with which the speaker pressed home the need of a firm resolution in avowing the principles of abstinence. He unsparingly condemned "those who brew, those who distil, those who retail—ay, and the decent bodies who buy a drop occasionally." Then he told a sad story of a female member of his own congregation, whose husband, in a drunken fit, had struck her, knocking out one of her eyes, while the other eye went into total darkness through sympathy. This incident was the text of a touching plea for abstinence, if not for one's own sake, for the sake of our sisters. If a young fellow's blood does not boil against this drink curse, it is because he has got no blood, and such a man will be of little use to a Y.M.C. or any other Association. To show the hardening effect of the drink, Mr. M‘Neill told how that inhuman wretch, instead of being repentant for what he had done to his poor wife, sometimes taunts her with her helplessness in "a puir man's hoose."

Passing from this topic, the speaker next exhorted his Y.M.C.A. friends to greater individual effort on behalf of their fellows, and to cultivate Christian enthusiasm. What we want nowadays is individual young men with great big burning hearts, filled with love for Jesus Christ. "The enthusiasm of humanity" was about the weakest drivel he ever heard tell of; men prate about it, while they do not take their hand out of their bosom to lift up a single specimen of humanity who greatly needs to be helped. The want of individual enthusiasm is the dry-rot in the Christian churches. This remark led to a practical application of the parable of the Good Samaritan. Our callousness is like that of the Edinburgh working man who saw the line on a newspaper placard, "A million lives lost," but who restored his pipe to his mouth with an air of smug contentment, as he discovered that the awful catastrophe had happened "away in China." Mr. M‘Neill's last point was the need of the weeding out, in our churches and associations, of the half-hearted and the unready. Here he gave a graphic exposition of the exploits of Gideon and his three hundred men. What God wants is men, even though they be but few, who are ready to do and dare for Him. The story of Gideon had taught him not to be elated by the largeness of numbers, or depressed by their fewness. Let any Association have but a few young fellows, whole hearted in their devotion to the Lord Jesus Christ, fighting the drink, the curse of impurity, the commercial dishonesties, and the Pharisaic formalism in the churches, and so forth; then God would use them mightily.

Rev. C. H. Spurgeon

had an ovation that touched him greatly. His address was an eminently practical one, though couched in the simplest of language. Looking on the vast audience he was reminded, he said, of the saying of Blücher in Paris, "What a city to loot!" What an audience to win for the Lord Jesus Christ, with its marvellous possibilities, if possessed by the "more abundant" life He is ready to bestow. Christian young men—what a wonderful combination of words. He was sometimes inclined to repine that his youth had gone with its sparkle and freshness, though age perhaps brings with it other virtues. Mr. Spurgeon proceeded to consider various classes of young men—those who "suppose" they are Christians; those who say "of course" they are; those who are "almost Christians," &c. On each head he had weighty things to say in the direction of counselling certainty and thoroughness in the matter of Christian possession and profession. He called for a decided attitude with respect to the drink, to the curses of impure living and of shady practices in business life. If these things are important, how much more is it needful to be out and out in taking Christ as our Prophet, Priest, and King, and in openly, manfully avowing ourselves as his disciples. He advised every Christian young man to connect himself with some section of the Christian Church. Let them make up their minds as to their duty in this matter, and be true to their convictions, even to the minutest particular. Decision in the Christian life is demanded by our Lord, who deserves our deepest homage; it is demanded by the needs and circumstances of the time. It is deplorable to think of the many young men who are throwing away their lives and powers on unworthy objects. Does someone say, "I should be called a fool, if I became a Christian!" Well, it shows that there must be something in a man before the world will call him a fool. Better be a fool than a "noodle." Some young men, it has been said, are like a telescope—you have only to draw them out, see through them, and then shut them up! The hardest game to play is the "betweenity" game; the man who lives on the borders has to do the most fighting. Far better live in the centre of the King's country. And when the King comes in his glory, those who have been true and faithful to Him in the time of his humiliation, will have a higher place on his throne.

Canon Wilberforce

took the platform, and without a pause rapidly delivered an impressive speech, which was largely a plea for the liberal support of the Association, that aims at being the most patriotic institution in Great Britain. He declaimed severely against the sham patriotism which talks loudly of "the integrity of the Empire," but will not bear being laid alongside the spirit level that lifts up that King of Patriots, Jesus Christ of Nazareth. There is no patriotism worthy of the name that does not go down to the roots of the nation's life, and seek to purify the springs of the national existence. The Y.M.C.A. aims at lifting up the whole man, and deserves to be heartily sustained. It is one thing to come to Exeter Hall and spend a pleasant hour in listening to such men as Mr. Spurgeon, and another thing to put the hand into the pocket and help to build up an institution whose claims ought not to be resisted.

One reason why it should be sustained is, that it is endeavouring to solve one of the most difficult problems of the age. It is thoroughly unsectarian, and keeps to the front the transcendent truths on which all Christians are agreed. It teaches the glorious Gospel in all its simplicity. The beautiful motto in front of the Boston (Mass.) Association is, "I hold and I am held." That is the Gospel under the power of which we want to bring young men to hold with all the tenacity of our being to the divine humanity of Christ, and to know that He holds us with the powerful grasp of his human divinity. As an illustration of the cementing power of the one Gospel, the Canon told with much effect of how the Northern and Southern armies, during the American Civil War, were encamped, one Christmas Eve, on opposite banks of the Rappahannock. Both forces had been breathing forth mutual threatenings and slaughter, when the band of the Confederates struck up the tender pathetic air of "Home, sweet Home." By and by, there was an unwonted silence in the camps. Then the Northern band took up the same strains, and the two companies of musicians played it together. There was not a dry eye in either camp, and nothing but the deep stream of the river kept the two armies from throwing down their weapons and embracing each other in deep repentance for the sin of their internicine strife. Nothing will ever bring the hostile forces of the Christian Church to cross the Rappahannock that divides them and lead them into brotherly concord, like the singing of the "Home, sweet Home" of Christianity—the angels' anthem of "Peace on earth, good will to men." The Canon proceeded in this strain, with telling incident and appeal, to plead the cause of the Association, which is producing, he said, noble specimens of whole-hearted consecration to God and man. Incidentally, he alluded to the recent Trafalgar-square disturbances, remarking that it was time the Christian Church impressed our rulers with the fact that the national heart disease cannot be cured by the bayonets of the military, or the bludgeons of the police. The argument used by the authorities, in connection with the disturbances, was that some ancient documents proved Crown rights over the Square that were absolute. So, said the Canon, when our baser passions make demonstrations within our nature, we must appeal to the crown rights of Jesus Christ, and say we do not belong to the world, the flesh, and Satan. We are to reckon ourselves to be dead to them, though they may still exercise a certain influence over us. We are the Lord's, and we must look to Him for power to quell the risings of evil within.

The eloquent Canon had to leave at the close of his speech to catch the Southampton train, and Mr. Spurgeon also embraced the opportunity of retiring. But the audience mostly remained to hear an urgent appeal from the secretary, Mr. Kennedy, for generous support in the Association's work. He wisely refrained from giving any elaborate and detailed report, but said that during the year hundreds had received blessing in various ways in connection with the work. He asked not only for monetary assistance in meeting pressing claims, but for the personal co-operation of those who can help in work for young men. The brief digest, supplied to the Press, of the year's operations shows an immense amount of Christian endeavour directed to meeting the wants of young men, physically, mentally, and morally. The Association "aims to rescue, elevate, educate, and befriend young men, and it calls into use every legitimate means for the accomplishment of its high purpose." This being so, it deserves well of all true Christian patriots.

On Wednesday evening last week, and Sunday evening last, Rev. J. M'Neill gave evangelistic addresses in the large Hall. On Sunday evening, to a large congregation, he preached a powerful Gospel discourse founded on the story of the rich young ruler. His message was delivered with much unction, and many sharp home-thrusts. A deep impression was evidently created, as a large number remained for the after meeting, when Mr. M'Neill further unfolded the way of salvation with beautiful directness and simplicity. A little roughness of speech here and there may jar on refined Southern ears, but the evangelist probably adopts this method of set purpose so as to shake his hearers out of their spiritual lethargy. He is specially gifted in the way of exposing the sham refuges of the unrenewed heart, and if God spares him he must have a future of great usefulness in store.

◆

DISTRESS in SOUTH-EAST LONDON.

(Concluded from our issue of March 16.)

A few words may be said as to the work done, by the Society for Assisting Deserving Working Men, for the unemployed in this part of London, as regards their material well-being. Employment has been found for about 150 men, many having been placed in good permanent situations. More than 400 families have been relieved. Some who have, on careful investigation, been found to be thoroughly deserving have, with the help of odd jobs, been sustained for weeks, until employment has been found for the bread-winner. When employment has been obtained, the men's tools, where necessary, have been redeemed from pawn. In many instances the interest due on articles in pawn has been paid, to prevent their being altogether lost.

A workshop has been erected where the men who are awaiting their turn to obtain work can be employed in various ways at their own trades. A waiting-room, well supplied with papers and various religious publications, has been open throughout the winter. Some pieces of furniture and other articles have been made, and Major Cox will only be too happy to show these, as well as painting, graining, plaistering, bricklaying, and other sorts of work, which have been executed at 8, Blackheath-road, and elsewhere, by the men on the registers. Many of these have been unable as yet to find employment. Gardeners and handy labourers of all sorts can also be recommended.

A list of suitable families who have expressed a desire to emigrate has been kept, and already a small batch of emigrants has been selected, and with the assistance of other societies been despatched to Sydney, and a larger contingent will, it is hoped, be shipped for Canada next month.

A special feature of the work is that no money is given away. All relief is administered in kind, in the shape of tickets for bread, grocery, meat, and coal, and also dinner tickets at a coffee tavern. Neither is it desired that any recipient should consider the receiving of assistance as an alms or charity. It is particularly desired that no one shall be "pauperised," and, therefore, it is explained that all money spent in relief tickets, redeeming articles, &c., is advanced as a loan. It is gratifying to learn that some of the recipients who have obtained employment have, after discharging all their just debts, repaid several small sums.

It is unfortunate that the Society, for want of funds, is compelled to restrict its operations, after having been most usefully employed since the end of November, and at a time when the distress in many cases is even more acute than ever. Although there is still a great lack of employment, many seem to imagine that the troubles of the indigent and deserving are at an end because the days are longer. This is not the case. It will be fully two months before the painters, builders, and dock labourers will be in full swing again. Now is for many the very hardest time, as it is most difficult to obtain employment.

The amount of work at the office has been very heavy. Altogether about seven hundred of the unemployed have registered their names in the South-East District, and, besides working in Greenwich and Deptford, Major Cox has been able to assist picked men who have registered their names in the parishes of Woolwich, Lewisham, Lee, Rotherhithe, Camberwell, and Bermondsey. As very few of the men are single, and each man of the seven hundred registered represents, on an average, five in family, the total amount amongst whom this work has been carried out is about 3500. In all cases there has been a thorough investigation into the circumstances, at no small pains and cost.

So much having been already accomplished and in a new direction—viz., the placing deserving workmen in communication with employers of labour, it would be unfortunate if this effort were to fall to the ground for lack of support. Small pamphlets giving an account of the work of the Society will be forwarded on application to Major J. C. Cox, 8, Blackheath-road, S.E. This gentleman will also be pleased to enter into communication with any Christian workers who could give the time to visit amongst the poor people on the registers. Helpers in this work are most urgently required, and most earnestly requested to come forward. New Cross on the S.E.R. is the most convenient station, from thence by tram, about four minutes, to Blackheath-road.

◆

MR. FRANCIS MURPHY.

This Apostle of Gospel Temperance has been conducting a campaign against the drink, at Buffalo, in the State of New York. The Evening News of that city gives a glowing account of one of the early meetings, and of the peculiar gifts of the evangelist. He retains his wonderful power over the emotions of his hearers, and evokes the affectionate regard of all.

In the report before us, Mr. Murphy quoted from a striking utterance of Mr. Powderly, the well-known leader of the Knights of Labour, which wound up thus: "If there is a damning blight and curse to labour, it is that which gurgles from the neck of the bottle." After some characteristic talk from Mr. Murphy, several ministers chimed in, and then there happened this little episode:—

"Mr. Murphy told a pathetic story of a wife with a drinking husband, and a little girl sick and praying for father. 'But, do you know, father has signed the pledge. His wife is a young girl now, and the child is sick no longer. I want you to see the man,' and he led forward George J. Bryan. Said Mr. Bryan, 'I am the man, and was the man. I am full to-night, not of champagne or old Bourbon, but of the Spirit of God. I feel like a new man since I got this blue ribbon. The witchery of the cup has pursued me in youth, and middle age, and to my old age. It transplanted me from a four-story block in Washington, where I was editor and proprietor of the Evening Post, to the walls of an asylum. I have shed tears enough almost to float the Great Eastern. Now I have determined, by the help of God, to make a last grand stand in Buffalo for my family, my friends, and my country.'"

The report closes by saying that Mr. Murphy jumped down from the platform, and grasped hands and pushed shoulders with surprising energy, and a large crowd donned the badge of blue.

A Voice from the Heavenly Fatherland.

Vide The Christian, March 16.

Hush ! listen: Kaiser Wilhelm speaks
  To hearts o'erwhelmed with grief:
O whispered words, on wings of love;
  We hail your sweet relief!

"My loved ones, children, people dear,
  The Lord indeed hath blest
My 'going out': and 'coming in'
  To this, his perfect rest.

. . . .

So beautiful it is, to be
  In presence of my King,
The One to whom, on earth, I brought
  My life, my everything.

I ruled for Him, I served for you,
  For you I laid aside
All thought of self; lest any need
  Of yours be unsupplied:

And now I wait you all, and each;
  Oh ! meet me on this shore, [love,
Whence, through my Saviour's wondrous
  I shall 'go out' no more."

Charlotte Murray.

◆

HOME OF INDUSTRY.

The new and old Beehives are well filled up with bees of all kinds. This prolonged winter, with its chilling blasts, has caused the halfpenny meals to be very popular, and many a hundred have dined at the old Beehive who had not even the brown coin to constitute them a purchaser.

The new Home, 29, Bethnal Green-road, E., is all alive with the party of a hundred lads of all ages; each one has an individual history, his wits already well sharpened with the wear and tear of London life. Thirteen have been experts in street-sweeping; some have walked 120 miles from their village home to find work in this already over-filled city. Almost all of them know the pangs of unsatisfied hunger, and the dreary realities of a lonely life in this wilderness of human beings.

They have dwelt with us from periods of two years to two weeks, some bringing characters, others have none. Strange discoveries are made; fresh lights upon histories come out; mothers and fathers found, when these young hearts are washed by the sharp, dividing knife of God's own Word. As they see us seeking to live before them the Christ-life, they are thus prepared by the charm of family home-life to value the quiet and calm of the Canadian farmhouse. A home-evening is their greatest enjoyment and foreshadowings of heaven for these orphan and destitute lads. We ask prayer for them whilst on the ocean.

Annie Macpherson.

LONDON MEDICAL STUDENTS.—On Monday, March 8, an interesting meeting of medical students was held in the library of St. Thomas's Hospital, under the auspices of the "St. Thomas's Hospital Christian Association," which is in connection with the Medical Prayer Union. There were about thirty men present, and the meeting was addressed by a deputation of six Christian students from St. Bartholomew's Hospital. The secretary of the St. Bartholomew's Hospital Christian Association took the chair, and two others gave short addresses. The meeting was felt to be a profitable one by all present, and many expressed the hope that other meetings of a similar kind might soon be arranged. The advisability of holding meetings for medical students had long been recognised; this was, however, the first time it had been put into practice. We trust that all readers of The Christian will continually remember in prayer the students of our various Metropolitan hospitals.

C. F. Harford-Battersby,
Hon. Sec. Medical Prayer Union.

FUNDAMENTAL TRUTHS OF THE GOSPEL.

EVANGELICAL ALLIANCE CONFERENCES.

(CONCLUDED FROM LAST WEEK.)

On Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, last week, further Conferences were held in connection with the Evangelical Alliance. There were three meetings on the first-named day, in the Mildmay Conference Hall, the chairmen being Archdeacon Richardson, Mr. J. E. Mathieson, and General Sir Robert Phayre. On the afternoon of the second day a great audience came together at Mildmay, to hear a special address by Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, under the presidency of Rev. D. B. Hankin, of St. Jude's, Mildmay. The same day there were two gatherings in the Great Assembly Hall, Mile End-road. Over these latter, Rev. Archibald G. Brown and Lieut. General Field presided. Two meetings were held in the Assembly Hall on the Thursday, with Rev. J. Pullein Thompson and Mr. T. A. Denny in the chair.

There has been a true evangelical ring in almost all the addresses delivered. Mr. Spurgeon's deliverance was a memorable one, and is reported fully on the following pages. Owing to its length, and the peculiar interest attaching to it, we give it precedence, though it was delivered on the second day. The Conference Hall could not hold all who desired to hear the preacher. The attendances at the other meetings have been fluctuating. Mr. Fox "drew" at Mildmay; many went specially to hear Mr. Brown at the Great Assembly Hall, but his words were brief.

We furnish extended reports of most of the addresses. Revs. C. H. Waller, W. Park, and P. Colborne spoke twice on the same subjects.

Mildmay Conference Hall.

Wednesday Afternoon, March 21.

Scripture Tested by Experience.

SPECIAL ADDRESS,

By Rev. C. H. SPURGEON.

I feel great joy in looking into the faces of such an assembly as this. God grant that there may be a power in our testimony—our united testimony, as I think it will be—to the statement that our experience supports the truth of the Gospel. While we believe the Bible because we have received it as the Word of God, we also believe it because it tallies with our experience; as face answers unto face, so does our experience tally with the Word of God. I think I speak for you all when I say that we receive the Bible as the Word of God; and therefore what we find in it we believe, not because of our judgment of it, but because the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.

> This is the judge that ends the strife,
> Where wit and reason fail.

We do not, of course, pretend to understand everything that is in the Book. Nor can we say that all its teachings are pleasant to us; there are some of them that make us shudder, and thrill us through and through. But we believe it because God hath said it, and it does not come into our minds to cavil or question, or to do otherwise than meekly receive whatever we find in Holy Scripture. I believe that true theology is simply the grammatical explanation of the Word of God. What He says, that we desire to say. If we differ from God's Word, the Lord forgive our differences; but our desire is, in all things, to say, "The mouth of the Lord hath spoken it," and there is an end of the matter.

MYSTERY A PROOF OF DIVINITY.

I often feel greatly rejoiced because of the mysteries of the Bible; and the mysteries of the Gospel too. When I cannot understand anything, it seems to me as though God had set a chair there for me to kneel down and worship; that the mysteries are intended to be an altar of devotion, and that the more high and elevated the great revelation of God may be, the more entirely it seems out of my reach, the more does it seem to be an altar for the great God of truth, where we stand and worship, bowing at his feet. If I could understand all the Bible I should not believe it; I should feel it could not have come from God; it must be man's book if I could measure it, and if my plumb-line could reach the bottom of it. It is all the more surely God's Book because, while it is so simple, as far as its language goes, yet it does sometimes bewilder us because it is so deep, and its solemn meanings are infinitely beyond our ken.

We begin, then, by saying that we accept the Gospel because it is in Holy Scripture, and because we receive Holy Scripture as spoken of God. What I cannot comprehend is how the Church has got into such a condition that she tolerates ministers who decry the inspiration of God's Word. I am not going so much to blame the ministers as to blame the churches that endure them. If to-morrow in Constantinople there should stand up a mollah who would begin to decry Mohammed, and speak lightly of the Koran, they would fling him from his pulpit; he would not be endured an hour. They would say, "Get you gone; go somewhere else; we cannot tolerate you as a teacher in the midst of Islam, when you deny the great truths that we believe in." And surely, if we had got the heart of Christians in us, and did really believe in the Bible, we should not, because of the cleverness of a man, listen to him while he is explaining away the very things on which our souls' hopes depend. Our indignation would burn like coals of juniper, and it would be found impossible on any large scale that cavillers at the essential doctrines, and at the Word itself, should be supported as ministers of Christ.

I know that there are some who have a little suspicion that way, for when they are boldly faced in their attacks upon Scripture, they say they are not attacking it at all. They remind me of the Scotchman who put his foot through a fence, intending to steal fruit, and when the owner asked him where he was going, he replied, "Back again." These men must be boldly confronted, and told that we are not going to have their misrepresentations. If they do not believe the Word, they must say so, and go elsewhere and set up on their own account. If they are to be ministers of the Gospel, they must preach the Gospel. If they are to be avowed servants of Christ, they must glorify his Blessed Name, and magnify the doctrine of his sacrifice and substitutionary atonement.

CONFIRMATORY EVIDENCE.

I think it is ours to believe the Bible before we have any proofs of it; without going into detail as to this or that, it is for us, without proof even, to take it as God's Word. Afterwards, if it pleaseth God to give us proofs, we thank Him for the confirmation of our faith; but if God speaks that is proof enough. If, indeed, He has spoken, "Let Him be true, and every man a liar." In these days, however, God has been pleased to give us much confirmatory evidence of the truth of his Word. I will only allude to two forms of evidence that are often very useful. One is historical. We find that the Old Testament Scriptures, even those parts of them which were not thought to be profitable reading for Christians, have turned out to be very useful indeed, as corroborations of the correctness of Holy Scripture. I should not wonder if some of those lists of names in the Chronicles—those passages that appear to have no meaning, and to be simply a string of names—will be found some day or other to be most remarkable confirmations of the Word of God. Then, whether you go to Egypt, or Palestine, or Bashan, or Persia, or Nineveh, wherever you please to go where stones are turned up that have any bearing at all upon the subject, they are always confirmatory of Holy Scripture. I am unable to remember any inscriptions that have been deciphered that have staggered the faith of those who receive the Bible as the Word of God. If at any time difficulties have been suggested, it has after a while been proved that we have either misread the Scripture or misread the old stones. The two things did agree, as truth always agrees with itself.

There was a man in Scotland who had a piece of cloth stolen. The thief was found with the piece of cloth in his house. The maker and owner of the cloth swore to it. The judge at the trial said, "There are hundreds of such pieces of cloth made in this district and put out into the fields to dry; how can you swear to it as your piece?" "Well," said the man, "I can swear to it by this: I have a certain number of tenter-hooks upon which I stretch my cloth, and there are holes in this piece which are exactly at the same distance from one another as my tenter-hooks. There are two hooks in a certain place, and three hooks in another, close together, and the holes in the cloth exactly fit to these tenter-hooks, therefore I can swear it is mine." So we also can swear that this is none other than the Word of God, because we find that every historical statement given in the Book fits into the tenter-hook of absolute fact, which is brought out by something else, and which even profane writers do not venture to doubt. This is good evidence, and it keeps accumulating. The Palestine Exploration Fund, and every effort of that kind, deserves the generous help of Christian men. Let them dig into the earth's bowels, and let them bore through the earth, and thread it like pebbles on a string, but they shall not find anything that will contradict the historical statements of God's Word, but these shall be confirmed. Many of the doctrinal statements, too, are interwoven with them, and they stand fast. For all this we are very thankful.

INTERNAL WITNESS.

There is another form of evidence that cannot be dealt with too much—the internal evidence. To my mind, the majesty of the style of Scripture still remains one of the surest proofs of its Divinity. Now and then you may have read in albums pieces taken from the great poets and great writers, and sometimes you meet with a piece, under which the compiler is foolish enough to put the name of Jesus, or Moses, or Paul. You have never any need to put the name of either to any fragment of Scripture. Nobody ever mistakes anything for Scripture which is not, if he is familiar with the Word of God. No one will ever mistake an utterance of Scripture for a piece of secular writing; that is to say, if he be really qualified to judge, and is a reader of God's Word. For whether it be that Moses is the writer, or Samuel, or David, or Amos, or Paul, there is a certain Divine style and majesty of rhetoric that can never be imitated, and is certainly never approached by any who have endeavoured to imitate it. I would like anybody who thinks he can do it to try. We have four Gospels; let them try to write a fifth. Gentlemen of large imagination, and persons quite capable of writing every kind of fiction and imitating the style of all the poets, whether modern or ancient—let these try to give us some new incidents which can be interwoven into the life of Christ. Let them give us a new miracle if they can. I believe that to invent a new miracle would be as impossible as to work it; and to write a new Gospel would be such as would puzzle all the wits of all the ages; they could never accomplish it. Let them try their hands at a new Psalm, and after that is done tell us which passage of Scripture can be fairly left out. Of all the birds, beasts, fishes, and insects that the Lord God has made we cannot spare one; and whenever man in his cruelty or folly has destroyed any one link in the animal creation, the greatest mischief has been sure to follow. It is exactly so with regard to the Scriptures. We cannot spare a single verse; if a single verse were gone calamities might follow at which we are now unable to guess. The Book is a whole, and every part is necessary to the whole. It is neither to be added to, nor can anything be properly taken from it. So let it stand. You and I have no desire either to add to it or to take from it. Precious Book! Precious Book! Well hast thou been called "the God of Books"; for there is none like thee. Thou art no mere book, as other books are; thou risest as much above them all as the Alps are above the mole hills!

EXPERIENCE THE BEST TEST.

I have thus given you a bare hint that there are various lines of proof, but this afternoon my line of proof is one to which you can all add your portion. You who have never been to Palestine and never will go; you who do not know much about literary style and are not perhaps so familiar with the Word of God as you might be—you can at least follow me in this particular form of Scriptural evidence. In Psalm xlviii. 8 you will find the words that will serve me for a motto to-day: "As we have heard, so have we seen in the city of the Lord of hosts, in the city of our God." No man is a good hearer, or has carried out his hearing to its full extent, until he has gone to see what he has heard. The Lord Jesus Christ said, amongst his earliest utterances, "Come and see." And this is the Gospel, "Taste and see that the Lord is good." You are invited to apply to the Holy Scripture, to the Gospel itself, the practical test of your own experience. That is the subject of this afternoon.

Somebody says, "How can we see those things of which we have heard?" Well, we can see them, first, if we examine for ourselves the facts laid down in Scripture, as to whether they are facts or not. This one—that man is sinful. Is not that a fact? If you have ever seen yourself in the glass of God's law you know that it is—that human nature is depraved; that it is universally depraved. Those who wrote God's Word had never been in the centre of Africa, but they wrote in it about human nature in Africa. Certainly no prophet had been in North America among the Indians; yet they wrote concerning human nature as correctly in reference to the Red Indian as when they wrote concerning the Semitic races. They made no mistake when they wrote that human nature is depraved; the facts stated in the Word of God are true.

We are also told in Scripture that the grace of God can renew the fallen; can bring back those who have wandered; that it has turned the lion into a lamb and the raven into a dove. Is not that a fact? Have we not seen it? Are not some of us proofs of it? Do we not live in the midst of these wonders, these miracles of transformation which the Spirit of God is working through the Word? Take any of the facts that are set down in the Gospel system, and then open your own eyes candidly and go and see whether these things be not so. Judge for yourselves. That is one method of test that is open to us all.

TEST THE PRECEPTS.

The next thing is: Test the precepts, and see as to their consequence. There is this precept, "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." If you have believed in the Lord Jesus Christ, tell me, are you not saved? Are you not saved from sin; saved from the fear, and curse, and guilt, and power, and dominion of sin? Is not that true? Again, Jesus says, "Come unto Me all ye that are weary and heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Have you come to Him? Then has He, or has He not, given you rest? Further, He adds, "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of Me, and ye shall find rest to your souls,"—another kind of rest. Have you taken his yoke upon you? Have you become his disciple, and do you learn of Him? If so, do you not find another, yet higher and deeper rest, than that which He gave you at first?

It is within your power, then, my brethren and sisters, by obedience to the precept, to see whether or not the promise appended be true. Here is one that I have often found to be true, and I suppose you have done the same, "Call upon Me in the day of trouble, and I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify Me." If I were now to say, "Let those who have proved that stand up," I believe that almost every seat would be empty. My trouble may have taken one shape, and yours, my brother, has taken another; while yours, my sister, is of quite a different sort. Yet we have all alike called upon God in our day of trouble, and He has delivered us, and we have glorified Him.

I might thus go on through all the Gospel precepts, and I am sure I should find you asserting: It is even so; as God said, so has God done. His work runs parallel with his Word. Oh, it is a blessed thing to hang upon the arm of God. I do not know that I ever realised that so fully as I did a few months ago, when I seemed not to have a solitary friend left. But I got to hang upon God alone, and though I have got a great many kind arms I could hang upon now, I do not intend to do so. I have found that it is very much sweeter to hang upon God's arm alone, and I shall henceforth, I trust, be prevented from, in any measure, depending upon the arm of flesh. God with friends—that is very sweet. God without a friend is the sweetest of all. And if you venture upon Him in every way you shall find it true. "Blessed is he that trusteth in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord is; for he shall be as a tree planted by the rivers of waters." You know the rest, you who have tried it. If you have ever done business on great waters, you have proved the truth of great promises. If you have been up to your necks in great troubles, or have been brought into vehement burning flames, you have had great deliverances. You can speak well to-day of that Blessed Name which never faileth. Let heaven and earth pass away, but not one jot or tittle of God's covenant Word shall ever fall to the ground. Here again we have the test of experience by which to prove God's Word.

ALL THINGS NEW.

But there is a higher way still, if possible, of proving God's Word to ourselves. "He that believeth in Me hath everlasting life." You have believed in Him; we will take that for granted. Then you have everlasting life. Tell me, is it not so? You are at this moment living in a way you never lived before. You have got into you a new form of life altogether—so changed is everything, because you are changed. A young girl was being questioned about her conversion, and she said, "Either the world is quite altered, or else I am; it is one of the two." As the world remains the same, doubtless, the alteration was in her. Now, you know, we are like the young man whose eyes were opened by Elisha's prayer: we see horses of fire, and chariots of fire — things quite invisible to us before. Now, strange to say, the things we do not see with our eyes we see with our souls, so that they appear to be the only real things; and the things that we see with our eyes have now come to be regarded as shadows. "For the things which are seen are temporal, but the things which are not seen are eternal." There has been born in us a new, holy, and superior sense, so that the lower senses of the optic and auditory nerves have now become only the channels of communication with a shadowy world. Our new life has new senses that hold intercourse with the real world—the world which endureth and abideth, when, as a moment's foam dissolves in the wave and is lost forever, all the things that are made shall utterly disappear. Are you cognisant of this new life? You cannot tell another what it is; but you do know that at this moment you have a life within you, just as much superior to your former life as that is superior to the life of a dog. As an ordinary man is far above the beast, so the renewed, regenerated man is yet further above the ordinary man. He sees what another sees not, hears what another hears not, discerns spiritual things, which can only be spiritually discerned, for God has given to him to be partaker of his Holy Spirit.

When we once get into this experience, we have got evidence enough; now it teems all around us. Of course, it is not good evidence to the unbeliever, because he will not accept our evidence. He puts against it this statement, that he does not see it. This is no better refutation than the evidence of the Irishman, who, when convicted of theft by three witnesses, said, "Plaze, your honour, I can bring thirty witnesses who can prove that they did not see me steal it." All the evidence of the unspiritual man is of that kind; he says, "I do not see it." That is exactly what we have said. The carnal man cannot see it; he has not the capacity and faculty with which to see it. We have said, "You must be born again." So that we prove it by the very witness of the very men who thought to disprove our assertion.

OUR WITNESS IS TRUE.

But why are we not to be believed? There was a lawyer in the United States, a disbeliever, who found himself one evening attracted to a Methodist class meeting; it was pure curiosity that brought him there. He looked round and saw his neighbours—small farmers and shopkeepers, all persons of excellent repute. One rose up and stated the circumstances of his conversion; then another and another. They stated certain facts, and they all seemed very much to appeal the one to the other. As the lawyer sat there he began to think within himself, "Now, if I had a case to prove in court, I should not wish for a better lot of witnesses than these men round about me. If they all swore to a thing I feel that I should carry the judge and jury with me to a certainty. If I would believe these men in such a case, ought I not to believe them when they are stating what they evidently most solemnly believe to be true, and where their very best character is developed in the worship of their God. I ought assuredly to believe them now." And he was convinced by their testimony.

If we were to try to prove to a horse outside in the street the beauties of poetry, we should not expect to succeed. Neither do we expect to succeed when we try to prove our faith to an unspiritual man. The horse has no basis of poetic faculty, and the unbeliever does not possess any spiritual faculty till God the Holy Ghost has renewed him, and he is born again. The fact that men do not accept our witness does not at all astonish us, for when the Lord of Glory Himself began to witness to these things his testimony was not accepted. "He came unto his own, and his own received Him not." Having once become possessed of spiritual life, we get abundant opportunities of testing the faithfulness of God. Every promise in God's Word becomes an opportunity of showing the power, the immutability, the love, the faithfulness, and the gentleness of God. But let us be careful ever to verify experience. You who always prosper, and enjoy good health, be thankful for it, and for the little round of promises that will fall to your lot; you who suffer in person, and are often sick, and go frequently to the grave; you who are slandered, or whose lives are a daily battle, thank God for that enlarged range of promise which you can now test and try. You cannot see the stars now, but if you were to go down to the bottom of a well at high noon you could see the stars. God sometimes takes us down into the deeps of affliction that we may see his promises. Many of the promises are written in sympathetic ink—a kind of ink that seems to leave no mark on the paper till you hold it to the fire; then the black lines stand out. There is much of God's Word that must be held to the fire of some fierce and trying affliction. Then you say to yourself, "I now understand the words, and I see that the Lord is good." You must be cast upon a certain island ere you can shake off the beasts into the fire. Or you must be banished to another certain island ere you can be in the Spirit on the Lord's day, and hear behind you the voice of the trumpet, and see the majestic Being at whose feet you shall fall as dead. I say, be thankful for trials when they come. Say to yourself, as the rumbling wheels of trial come up to the door, Here comes another waggon-load of gold; let me have the grace to receive it, and not to leave a particle of it without getting fresh proofs of the faithfulness of God, and learning that as my day so shall my strength be.

I hope I do not altogether astonish you if I say that I am now getting to the beginning of my subject. I hope and trust I shall not weary you, because I have found that there is nothing that people like to hear so much as what they know. If I am travelling over the same country as you have travelled in, you will recognise the various spots, and say to yourself, "Yes, I have been there; I can bear witness to the truthfulness of what is written in God's Word. If these be proofs, I have had them."

THE DOCTINES OF GRACE.

Let me go over some of the principal doctrines which are assuredly believed among us; the doctrines of this Evangelical Alliance, in which some of us have been nurtured from our childhood. Our dear friend, the chairman (Rev. D. B. Hankin), has told us that he remembers me thirty-five years ago, or thereabouts, which is quite correct. There was a good woman who came to me begging the other day, and she said she heard me preach in Bagnigge Wells-road fifty years ago. I said to her, "Dear madam, are you not mistaken? Was it not sixty?" She said she did not know but it might be sixty. "Well," I replied, "as I am only fifty-four, I do not think I said much sixty years ago." But one thing I can say, and the chairman will confirm it. I lately met a brother from America with whom I shook hands twenty years before. I shook hands with him again, and he said to me, "I heard you preach twenty years ago, and you are on the same old lines still." I said, "Yes, and if you come back at the end of another twenty years, you will find me on the same lines." I cannot preach anything else, because I do not know anything else, and I do not intend to. I have come to the decision of Paul: "I determined not to know anything among you save Jesus Christ and Him crucified." It is a fine thing to have a blind eye—a single eye to see nothing but the old truth. When I can find something better I will give it you.

A FALLEN RACE.

Now there is, first of all, the doctrine of the Scriptures with regard to man, to which I have already alluded. We have tested it for ourselves. I believe in the Fall. I am quite sure I must have fallen some time or other, for I know I am not as good as God would have made me, and as I shall be one day. But as I found myself in my natural estate, when the Spirit of God woke me up to examine myself, I did not find myself to be the perfect creation of God. I found myself a fallen being while I was yet a boy. With godly parents and a holy training, I had yet abundant evidence that somewhere or other I had had an awful fall. Some people think that in the fall Adam broke his little finger; he met with much more serious mischief than that. There was an awful fall for the whole race in that day when our great representative wilfully broke the law of his God. The Scripture tells us that the human heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked. Perhaps you do not believe it; but I know it was true of me, and I believe it may be true of the rest of us. When man once begins to see himself, he begins to hate himself, and is ready to condemn himself outright. According to Scripture, there are tendencies in us towards evil; do you find no such tendencies in you towards evil? Do you have to try and force yourself to think a wrong thought? Do you ever have to sit down and try to think of something evil? Evil thoughts come quickly enough of themselves, like ill weeds that grow apace. But when you wish to do right, and to study it, and to bring yourself into an elevated frame of mind, is there not effort wanted, because of the old nature which points downwards and towards evil within, as Scripture tells us it does?

IMPOTENT FOR GOOD.

Then do we not find ourselves, when really aroused by the Spirit of God, to be impotent in everything that is good? The Holy Scripture speaks of a time "when we were yet without strength." Do you not find yourself without strength? I hear the Gospel, "Believe and live," yet I verily feel I could as well make a world as believe; it is beyond the strength of my dead nature. There must be the power from God even for that. I think I might appeal to every person here who has passed from death to life. Remember your natural condition, and you will agree that the Scripture does not say a word that is too severe about you. Does it not too truly describe the awful disease that raged within you, and the consequent death that came upon you, with the corruption that followed? Oh, dear friends, when Scripture speaks to us about the two natures striving within—the law in our members warring against the law of our mind—do we not find it so? I do not think anybody ever could have dreamt that seventh chapter of Romans. There are many who do not understand it; but it is a true description of the experience of God's people. Yes, we can say that the Word of God in its teachings about the fallen estate of man has been verified in our experience.

Go a little further. Holy Scripture speaks of the nature of sin. It never treats it lightly. It is a matter of great and solemn demerit. You hear modern thinkers talk about human faults and errors; Scripture never talks so. Sin in God's Book is an exceeding great and bitter evil. Let me ask you who have been convinced by the Spirit of God if that is not how you think of sin. When the light came and streamed into your soul, did sin seem a trifle to you? Did it not seem a thing horrible, and above measure detestable and loathsome?

THE PUNISHMENT OF SIN.

As to the punishment of sin, we may say what we please about it; but there is a certain something within a man's breast that bears witness to the truth of the most terrible declarations of God's Word with regard to the punishment of sin. That which troubled me most when I was awakened to a sense of sin was this: How can God forgive me? I said, If God does not punish me, He ought to do so. And the difficulty with me was: How can this world stand if I go unpunished? How can God sit on the throne and judge righteously if He passes over such sin as mine? To speak briefly, I damned myself; I condemned myself as solemnly, in the court of my conscience, as God Himself can do from his great white throne at the last great day. I so thought of sin that the most burning words of the most fierce of the prophets could not have been more intense than those which I pronounced against myself, while I stood under the guilt and curse of sin.

Then, again, I felt that the sin in me could not be cured by any degree of suffering. The theory is that a certain amount of suffering in a future state can kill sin out of men's hearts. Did you ever see sin killed in you by suffering? I never did. The supposed purifying effect of suffering is totally unknown to my moral consciousness. If sin brings evil upon me, it brings also another evil—a desperate weakening of the will against it. The heart of man is like the heart of Pharaoh. God may seem to empty the universe of his plagues upon a man, and yet he is more hardened than ever against God.

Law and terrors do but harden,
All the while they work alone;
'Tis a sense of blood-bought pardon
That dissolves the heart of stone.

All that is taught in Scripture with regard to sin we must have learned to confirm by our own experience, and I stop at this point, leaving you to testify to it for yourselves.

CHRIST'S ATONING SACRIFICE.

Let us proceed another step. The grandest doctrine of the Word of God, to my mind, is the doctrine of the atoning sacrifice of Christ. I will contend for every letter of the truth; but, if I must give up something, I will hold on to this. "Without shedding of blood there is no remission of sins." "The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin." I confess to a great horror when I have heard men say this is the doctrine of the shambles. God be merciful to these, the chief of sinners, and convert them by his love. As to this doctrine of Sacrifice—to put it plainly, of substitution, Christ being made sin for us, though He knew no sin, that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him—when God the Holy Ghost led you to receive it, did it not satisfy the intense craving of your spirit? Did you ever know what perfect rest about sin was till you saw it laid upon Christ, carried away by Christ up to the tree, borne by Him upon the tree, and there made an end of by the shedding of his precious blood? Would anything short of that, do you think, content you now? I am sure it would not. There is a thirst in the human heart that nothing can ever satisfy but "God so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." There is a deep abyss that nothing can fill till the Son of God leaps into it; and then it is filled.

VICTORS THROUGH THE CROSS.

Let me ask you, further, as to this doctrine of substitution and atonement. How does it act upon your mind with regard to practical matters of life? Did you ever conquer a sin except by the blood of Christ? Did you ever slay a sin until you took the nails that fastened the Saviour to the cross, and nailed the sin up with them? Did you ever pierce its heart, except with the lance that set his heart abroach upon the bloody tree? You know it is so. There is a moral power, a Divine spiritual principle, in the cross that helps us to overcome sin.

What is there that is not in the cross? I do but touch it as the swallow touches the earth with his wing, and is gone. The crucifixion of Christ, the substitution of Christ—it is an infinite theme, yielding infinite blessings to the hearts that receive it; we know it is so. God forbid that we should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, for by it the world is crucified to us and we to the world.

But let me give you a hint or two about some other things which have been proved by your experience and mine. They prove the doctrine of effectual calling. We were called a long while by our ministers; called by our mothers—oh, so tenderly; called by our Sunday-school teachers—so persuasively. But we never came, till at last the Holy Spirit called us. Without the violation of our will, He mastered our will. Without injuring the most delicate fibre of our mental constitution, He ruled and governed us. He did not take us by the ears, and drag us to the Cross. More effectually than that, and with our full consent, we yielded to his Divine sway, and came to Christ. I have heard a great deal about free will, and I am not going into any discussion over it; but I never heard a Christian doubting that his conversion was the work of the Spirit of God. We are all agreed about that. We do believe the Lord called us—called us out from among men by the effectual working of his grace. Our experience coincides with that.

REGENERATION BY THE SPIRIT.

Then we believe in regeneration. Brethren and sisters, do we not know what it means? You do not know the day perhaps when you were regenerated; it is not necessary you should. A poor, troubled woman said to me the other day, she was afraid she had not been born again, because she could not tell the day. I asked her when her birthday was, and, curiously enough, she did not know that. She said she was born before the Registration Act, and she had not got any record of it. "Well, I am sorry to hear that," said I, "because it proves that you are not alive." But she knew she was alive. "Oh yes, I know you are alive, because you are troubled that you do not know when you began to live. You would not be troubled about that if you were not alive." So sometimes the very troubles that people have about not knowing when they were converted prove that they are converted. I remember my grandfather looking for his spectacles everywhere and ever so long, when he had got them on all the time. Indeed, he could not have looked for them without them, his sight was so far gone. So some persons are looking for their grace by their grace. That grace that has made them anxious is the very thing they are using when they are searching for a sense of grace. Do I not speak to many, who, whether they know the day or not, do really know they have been born again? "Old things have passed away; behold, all things have become new." You do not want any proof of that, because you carry the proof in your own bosoms.

UNION WITH CHRIST.

There is a great doctrine of Holy Scripture, that we need to preach more and more—our union with the Lord Jesus Christ. We are one with Him, as the stone with the foundation, as the branch with the vine, as the limb with the body, as the wife with the husband. Have you ever proved this? Have you felt that He sympathises with you? Do you sympathise with Him? When He is grieved, are you grieved? Is the prosperity of Christ's cause your prosperity? If you see Christ wounded in one of his members, are you touched by it? Are you happy when you are dwelling in communion with Him, and unhappy when you find the slightest shadow comes across you to hide from your face the Well-beloved? Has it come to this: "It is no more I, but Christ that dwelleth in me"? Do you dwell in Him? You are, indeed, the most honoured and blessed of all God's creatures if you have learned that you are one with Christ by an eternal union—one with Him in life and growth; one with Him when He rises in triumph over his foes.

If you have proved this, you have got past all doubts about Holy Scripture. To some of us it really seems ridiculous when people begin to try and prove those things which are become our meat and drink. "Prove that there is a sea!" says the fish; "where should I be if there were not?" "Prove that there is air!" says the bird; "how could I fly if there were not?" "Prove that there is a sun!" says the eye; "how could I see if there were not light?" Jesus lives in us, and we live in Him, and we can prove it because we rejoice in Him with a joy unspeakable and full of glory.

THE POWER OF PRAYER.

If time permitted I might dwell upon the various works of the Spirit of God, which we have proved and experienced. I might also speak of the inward joys that are unfolded in Holy Scripture. We know some of them, and we are going on to know the rest. If we are rejoicing in God, and working righteousness, God will surprise us with some new display of his grace. Let me touch for a moment upon another proof of the truth of God's Word and Gospel—the power of prayer. Now we have got into it, have we not? I shall not give you any instances this afternoon, or attempt to do so. If you have once learned truly to live the life of faith, you will not be many days without testing the power of prayer. Certainly you will never be a month without distinct evidences that God as surely hears prayer, as that we, being evil, answer the requests of our children, and give good gifts to them that ask us. If there is any fact that is proved, it is that God hears prayer. If there is any scientific statement that is capable of mathematical proof, this is. It is not a dozen of us who have tried it, and can bear witness that we have found it true; it is not a hundred of us; we solemnly avow, before the Eternal God, that thousands, yea, millions of God's people, have been in the habit of approaching the Throne of Grace, and asking of Him the things they need; and they have received those things at God's hands. When they have not received the exact thing they asked for, they have been most grateful that God, in infinite mercy, has rather listened to the spirit of their prayer than to the letter of it. If He does not pay us in silver, it is in gold. If we have not received the thing we thought was best, we have received what He knew was best. So we can prove that He still heareth prayer. This seems to me to be a grand line to work out, and one which any of us can as well deal with as the most learned Doctor of Divinity, or the gentleman who is Senior Wrangler in his university.

PRAYING ABOUT LITTLE THINGS.

I remember being told, as a lad, of a minister who lost a key, and prayed to God to find it. It was told to me as a very singular thing, and the person telling me was a Christian. He seemed to think the minister was irreverent in praying to God about such a trifling thing as a key. But is it not the case that the little things give us more trouble than the big things? Job could bear the loss of all his camels, but I wonder what he would have said to Mrs. Job if a button had been off his shirt. How often some little thing irritates good men and women. Men screw themselves up to bear the great troubles of life, but with some intensely little thing they get worried. I do not think that Paul was at all afraid of the devil; he was a match for him. But once we find that the devil did not go himself to attack Paul; he sent round one of his errand-boys—"a messenger of Satan." He did not send him with a sword to fight Paul, or Paul would have fought, and vanquished him. But he came merely to buffet him, and he worried Paul, who could not stand that boy of a devil. Had it been a respectable sword—some fierce temptation—Paul would have been at him at once, and overcome him. But it was only a messenger of Satan, sent to buffet him with a thorn in the flesh. A thorn in your finger is a very nasty thing; it is so small you can hardly see it. But if it should fester, what pain it will cause! So it is with small troubles. If we take the little things to God in prayer they will become great proofs of the Father's great condescension in helping us through them.

GOD'S PROVIDENTIAL CARE.

There is another field of proof that I shall not enter upon; I will only open the gate, and leave you to go in and explore. It is the field of providence. "There is a Providence that shapes our ends"—God, who rules and overrules. Have you not found it so? How often we forget that providences are not singular. You have heard of the Puritan who had to ride twenty miles to meet his son, who also rode twenty from another direction. When they got to the journey's end, the son said, "Father, I have had a most remarkable providence. When riding, my horse stumbled very badly, no less than three times, yet he did not come down, so I have reached you safely." The father replied, "My son, I have had an equally remarkable providence; my horse never stumbled at all, so I have got safely to you." Don't you think we forget that these providences that seem to leave out providence are those that have most providence in them! From day to day our bread comes, and we forget that the manna fell from heaven. Do we not sometimes need to have the manna stopped for a week, in order to make us feel how dependent we are upon God for it? We know that all things work together for good to them that love God, who are the called according to his purpose.

DYING GRACE.

There is another line of argument I could take up at great length—the way in which God supports his people when they come to die. Ah me! we shall all come to die before long. And yet we need not make a sigh about it. I said to one the other day, "Brother So-and-so has gone home." The good man answered me, "Where should he go else? It was getting evening-time with him, and it was time the child went home." So it is. We have been told Jesus can cheer and comfort us in our dying hours. We have not yet come to that last test of all, but we have been very near it sometimes. Some of us know what it is to lie by the month together on the edge of eternity, looking in at the chinks of the door. And it is blessed work, when you rest upon Christ, for He is graciously with you. It is a sweet thing to see all melting away behind you, and everything getting nearer before you. Some of us have got the most of our friends on the other side of the flood, and it is going home, indeed, for our home seems to be there now. Some of you have lost a husband or a dear wife; many of you have lost children or a venerated father, and some of the dearest friends you have had. They have gone to make it all ready for you, and God will not take you to heaven till He has got a nice circle of friends there for you; especially your Lord, whose face you shall see.

I have no theory about what dying men say, but I have a deep impression that before the death of many of God's saints it would be impossible to tell whether they were on the earth or in heaven. Their bodies lie before us on the bed, suffering or faint, but there is a far-away look on their faces, and sometimes they say strange things—things which were it lawful to repeat we could not quite comprehend. There is an evident something that they see and hear. You must know that I am speaking no dream now, but a matter of fact that comes before your memory. There is an evident introduction for them, if not within the gate, yet so near that it stands ajar for them. I do believe they peer through the gates of agate and carbuncle, and some of them even begin to see the King in his beauty. Whether that be so or not, if ever you have spoken to them at such times, they will tell you that all is well. My dear venerated grandfather, at the age of eighty-eight, was passing away, and my uncle said to him:—

Firm as the earth thy Gospel stands,
  My Lord, my hope, my trust;
If I am found in Jesus' hands
  My soul can ne'er be lost.

"Well, James," said the dying saint, "I do not care much about that verse; it is not strong enough for me. It says, 'Firm as the earth;' but that is not firm at all. It is all slipping away from my view; I like better that other verse:—

Firm as his throne his promise stands,
And God can well secure
What I've committed to his hands
Till the decisive hour."

Men who are in any trouble do not draw distinctions about verses of poetry like that. When John Hiatt lay dying, someone said to him (I think Dr. Liefchild), "You have trusted your soul to Jesus now for years; now you are in the swelling of Jordan; can you trust Him with your soul now?" "Trust Him with one soul? I could trust Him if I had a million." So can we now; or if we cannot now, we shall when we are there. We shall have grace given us in dying moments to say joyfully, with all the strength we possess—

Where is thy victory, boasting grave;
And where, oh death, thy sting?

As to the stories of the deathbeds of dying infidels, they are too horrible to read. We are perfectly satisfied to die with the assurance that "when thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee."

I have done, dear friends, and the principles I have given are much more than sufficient. Let me say, if you want another set, I can find them on the other side. Will any of you turn aside from the old Gospel? Instead of reading your Bible, read novels; instead of going to conferences and godly meetings, attend the theatre; instead of trying to deal honestly, try to get money anyhow you can. You will then see whether these things will afford you peace, whether they will lift you up and give you joy. Although the old Gospel is said to decry works, it produces them in such a way as the new gospels do not produce them. They tell us that our Gospel teaches people to look to their own salvation, and be selfish. Now, that is a lie; because we teach them that to be saved is to be saved from being selfish, and we appeal to every one who is honest, whether we, who preach this Gospel, which they say is selfish, are not the very men and women who are working your mission halls, Sunday-schools, and every other work of faith and labour of love. We prove by our practice that we love the souls of men. And if we have not proved it enough —and I fear we have not—we will go on to prove it more. For there is nothing, it seems to me, that can lend a glory to virtue and self-denial, and the seeking to bless our fellow-men, like the feeling that we are debtors unto all, since we are debtors unto the God of all grace.

God bless you. May this Book be written on your hearts; may its precepts be exemplified in your lives; and may its doctrines be the comfort of your souls. I have had great joy in addressing you. May the Lord give his blessing on all the work done here, and all in connection with it, henceforth and for evermore. Amen.

TUESDAY, MARCH 20.

[MORNING.]

Sin and its Consequences.

By Rev. W. PARK.

Everywhere, in all nations, and in all ages, we find in the hearts of men the feeling that there is something, not only in their surroundings, in the world in which they live, but also in their lives and characters, that is not as it ought to be—in other words, we find that they have a sense of sin. That feeling of sin is often distorted, and assumes many curious shapes. This is exactly what we would expect if human nature has fallen; for conscience, of course, must share in the fall, and though not utterly silenced, its voice would be often indistinct, its judgments often mistaken. If you talk to a Buddhist priest in Siam he will confess that he is a sinner; but what he means by sin is that he has let particles of rice drop from his mouth when he was eating, or that he had not shaved his eyebrows, or that washing himself in the darkness he had, without knowing it, taken the life of some tiny insect. If you talk to a Hindu, he will tell you that he is a sinner; but you will find that the sin which troubles him is that he has partaken of broth in which beef was boiled, or that he has eaten with a man of a different caste, or that he has been disrespectful to a Brahmin. If you talk to a Chinaman, he may possibly confess that he has sinned, but the sin before his mind is that he has trampled upon a grain of rice or on a piece of paper on which were written characters, or that he has neglected on the proper day to offer worship before the ancestral tablets.

A UNIVERSAL CONSCIENCE.

Beneath these false ideas about sin there lies, I believe, in the case of the more thoughtful of the heathen, a perception of moral duty, and consequently a sense of sin, approaching much more nearly to our own. There are no moral precepts more admirable than those of Confucius and Buddha. The native tract writers of China, whose leaves circulate widely among the people, condemn all such practices as infanticide, gambling, opium smoking, and drunkenness, while they impress upon the people the duty of cultivating a great host of virtues. A recent writer on this tract literature of China declares that the Chinese do not need to have a sense of sin awakened; what they want is to see some way of remission and forgiveness. We find also that just as soon as the heathen are brought into contact with Christian men and women, missionaries and others, who are living pure, godly, Christian lives, and begin to compare themselves with them, a deeper sense of sin is awakened in the hearts of many.

Among ourselves, that is, among those who live in Christian lands, a sense of sin may be said to be universal. Are there any men or women among us who are entirely contented with their own state? Sometimes we feel ourselves in the presence of a duty which ought to be done, and which we are unable to rouse ourselves to perform, and that is an awful thing. We see temptation coming, and we know that we are certain to fall; sometimes we even long for temptation in order that we may have an excuse for sin: both states are equally terrible. Our "sin of sins" too often is that we are not masters of ourselves. A small scroll, as someone says, would contain all our victories over evil; a whole volume might be filled with the record of our defeats. As Carlyle puts it, the devil often speaks out of us in disordered sentences. We cannot help fearing death, not so much from the pain that accompanies it, as from the judgment that lies beyond it. It is this which produces the restlessness and discontent which are so common.

Nor can we hope that sin will pass away after a little time. Time does much to mitigate sorrow. It binds up broken hearts; it patches us up again after we have been sorely wounded; it removes painful memories; it fills vacant places; over every grave a road runs at last. Time also changes many of our desires and aims.

SIN NO PASSING DEFECT.

But history and experience tell us that sin is not a mere passing defect which time removes. It is true that there are certain sins which disappear in certain places as the ages roll on; but while certain sins vanish, sin always abides. The fountain of evil never runs dry, though the streams that proceed from it vary in their appearance and their character. The sins of childhood, its peevishness, and changefulness, and disobedience, disappear as youth opens before us; but youth brings with it a pride, a vanity, a recklessness of its own. As a youth passes through the golden gate of manhood, a sobering influence passes over him; but strong passions, a longing to be rich at any cost, the love of pleasure, a determination to crush others down, and mount the ladder of life over their heads—such foes as these lie in wait for him; how few fully escape from their hands! And when old age comes upon a man, the shadows close around him, and the fountain of many pleasures once delighted in dries up; then avarice often lays hold upon him, hardening, petrifying every tender thought and feeling, and withering the whole nature up. Sickness is found often to make men selfish, and prosperity to produce pride, riches to foster selfishness and luxurious living, poverty to produce discontent. Each event that happens to a man seems to have some sin corresponding to it, which it is apt to awaken in his heart. Evidently the tree is corrupt in all positions and at all seasons, and it brings forth corrupt fruit.

There are many who do not trouble themselves much about sin; their own special sins they dearly love. It is more to the point to them to learn that they cannot hope to sin and escape the consequences of their evil doing. In some way or other suffering is pretty sure, sooner or later, to overtake the evil-doer. I may forget my sin, and fancy I have left it behind me for ever; but my sin is lying at my door all the time, and some day faces me to my confusion, or springs upon me and destroys me. I may escape the effects of my sin myself, but I see them entering into the lives and corroding the happiness of my children. Suffering does not follow sin instantly, but stand back, and watch the great Weaver at his work, try to grasp the pattern He is developing, and his meaning will soon grow plain: "There is a God that judgeth in the earth." Nor is there any hope that death will take us out of the reach of sin and of its consequences. We do not know much about death; but as we know it, it is chiefly a physical change. A man might declare that death ends all, and that the life of both soul and body is put out at the moment of death, though in doing so he would do violence to every noble thought and instinct of his heart.

A HOPELESS OUTLOOK.

Altogether the outlook for our race is a very hopeless one, in regard to sin and its consequences, if we shut out the teachings of the Bible. But, thank God, we have a voice from heaven to guide us out of the gloom.

I heard a voice upon the slope
Cry to the summit, "Is there any hope?"
To which an answer pealed from that high land,
But in a tongue no man could understand;
And on the glimmering summit, far withdrawn,
God made Himself an awful rose of dawn.

As we turn toward the dawn, to catch that light which has shone from heaven, at first it only seems to make our darkness deeper. There are certain truths written in sympathetic ink upon the heart of man by nature, which are brought out distinctly by the Word of God when it comes into contact with our spirits, through the operation of the Holy Spirit. It is so with regard to sin; we all know there is something wrong within us, but the first thing that the Word of God does, when it is applied to a man's heart, is to rectify and deepen that sense of sin. Compare the moral tone of society in this country, where Bible teaching is in the air, with that which prevails in India and China. Compare the feeling a worldly man has in regard to sin, a man whose whole heart is occupied with thoughts of profit or pleasure, and whose views are bounded by the horizon of earth and time; compare his views with those of a Christian who has been taught by the Spirit of God. Inside the professing Church, as well as without it, there are many mistakes about sin. Everything depends upon the standard of life and duty which I set before me. Christ's standard is this: "Thou shalt love the Lord with all thine heart, and thy neighbour as thyself." There are many professing Christians who, I fear, have never come to realise the depth and evil and woe of sin.

THE MYSTERY OF THE PAST.

About the origin of sin the Bible does not say much, but it has a great deal to say about its results. No doubt there are many difficulties surrounding the origin of evil in the universe, but its existence does not prove that there is no God, nor that there are two gods, a good and an evil one, nor that God has been conquered by evil. There are too many proofs that there is one great, wise, good, almighty Person, who is in all, and through all, and over all. All that we can infer from the present state of things is—and in drawing this inference we are aided by revelation—that God for wise reasons has permitted evil to enter his creation, that He will conquer it, and bring good out of it somehow in the end. The secret things belong to God, and we need not vex ourselves about them. As to the origin of sin in this world, the Bible tells us enough to satisfy us—and facts correspond with its statements. We know and feel that we are a fallen race, that we each bring with us into the world a sinful heart, and that out of that sinful heart evil deeds and evil words flow day by day. We are evidently members of a fallen race; we may as well face the fact. But this fact gives no man an excuse for his own sin, if for no other reason, then for this: everyone of us has a thousand times omitted to do right when we might have done it, and taken the wrong way when the right one was plain and clear in view.

As to the results of sin, they are terrible as pictured to us in the Bible. Over and above those which we see and feel, what awful words the Bible has to say about man's present state through sin. Think of these two expressions, "children of wrath"—as if wrath were our parent, under whose roof we should live for ever; "he that believeth not the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him." God's anger, searching for a dwelling-place in the world, has found it on the head of the sinful man. The wrath of God here and hereafter, and banishment from his glorious presence—these, as the Bible reveals them unto us, are the results of sin.

THE MYSTERY OF THE FUTURE.

As to the punishment of sin, there must be distinct Christian teaching on this subject, if for no other reason, because Christ has taught us so much about it; but all our teaching should be given with the greatest tenderness. "Of whom," says Paul, "I tell you weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ"; and surely we may well weep when we think of the consequences which that enmity brings. Some men have realised more deeply than their neighbours the meaning of the future punishment of sin, and it has driven them constantly to plead with God with tears and groans in prayers, and sent them out to labour night and day for the salvation of perishing men. I think there is one statement about the future of sinful men in which possibly all here might be agreed. There is not one word of hope in the Bible for those who die impenitent. There are one or two mysterious texts dealing with the great future which it is very difficult to interpret; but to build on them a doctrine or dogma which would be opposed to the general teaching of Scripture would be a very foolish method of interpretation. Look at the oft-repeated and terrible statements of the Son of God, whose nature and whose name is love—"cast out into outer darkness"; "there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth"; "these shall go away into everlasting punishment, but the righteous into life everlasting"; and worst of all, as it seems to me, those awful words which Christ uttered to the Jews, "If ye believe not that I am He, ye shall die in your sins"; wrapped up in them as in a deadly poison robe, self-woven, and from which there is no escape for ever. As the curtain falls in the distant future, all God's intelligent creatures have not been reduced to one class, those who fear and worship Him. Two classes are distinctly seen. Sin and death, no doubt, have been cast out into the darkness; but sin is still doing its deadly work, and doing it, as far as man can see, beyond all hope of cessation or recovery for evermore. The Bible concludes all under sin, and the wages of sin is death. Our only safety, as regards that great eternity, is, fully and thankfully, to turn our back on sin, and accept God's mercy and Spirit now; for indeed to every one of us eternity has already begun.

THE DOVE OF HOPE.

Here my subject ends, and yet one cannot end here; to end thus would mean despair. You all know the picture in which out of a raging, stormy sea a great stone cross rises, built upon the solid rock; and to this cross a poor shipwrecked woman is clinging, while the waves are beating against her and threatening to wash her away. Amid the awful sea of sin and guilt, the cross of Jesus rises, and he who clings to it is safe. On that boundless ocean of wrath an ark is floating, and the door is open; anyone may enter it. God, against whom we have sinned, has Himself provided a Sinbearer and a Sacrifice. He has "made Him to be sin for us who knew no sin." Down from the distant heaven a hand has been stretched to us, and in that hand is a gift, the most precious gift that even God can give—the gift of "eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." The Dove who descended on Christ at the moment of his baptism is promised to us also; and if we seek for Him He will come down upon us, calming the storms within us, and bringing back to our sin-tossed and troubled hearts the very peace of God.

Jesus Christ the Son of God.

By Rev. C. B. SYMES.

The Evangelist John paints a very natural scene where Jews gather round a lowly man, who speaks with great authority, and makes mysterious allusions to his parentage, until at last they ask, "Who are thou? Where is thy Father?" On the answer to whose questions rests our faith. It is not uncommon now to say, "I believe in Jesus Christ because the truths which He has taught commend themselves to my moral nature." May we not rather reverse the order and base our acceptance of our Lord's teaching on our confidence in Him? "Who are thou, Lord?" This is the supreme question in relation to Christianity. For Christianity rests on the personality of Christ more heavily than any other religion on its founder. Other teachers have presented great moral precepts, and laid down leading principles, which carry their own authority on their front. As soon as they are uttered our conscience and reason endorse them, and we feel, whatever the speaker may be, the word is true. But a great deal of our Lord's teaching, and especially that which is concerned with the redemption of our souls, does not carry this internal evidence, and would not commend themselves to our human judgment and conscience, as for example, our Lord is not the only teacher who has told us substantially "to do good, hoping for nothing again," and when the precept is uttered we feel at once its intrinsic moral obligation; but when our Lord says, "He that believeth on Me hath everlasting life," or "Whoso eateth my flesh and drinketh my blood hath eternal life, and I will raise him up at the last day," the words carry no intrinsic authority, and base their claim on our faith solely on the personal authority of the speaker. If He be Divine, and fills eternity, He can guarantee our eternal future. If He be only human, eternity makes Him as helpless as we are.

We venture, then, most reverently to look our Lord in the face and ask, "Who art Thou, Lord?" This is not the occasion to attempt the proof of doctrine. It is a meeting for testimony, not for argument. We are simply testifying to the truths which are most surely believed among us. I therefore assume that our Lord is entitled to our perfect confidence, and that when He bears witness of Himself his witness is true. What, then, is the declaration of Jesus concerning Himself?

HIS PRE-EXISTENT DISTINCT LIFE.

We are taught to seek the explanation of his earthly life in his previous heavenly existence. "Ye are from beneath, I am from above." "I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world: again, I leave the world, and go to the Father." "And now, O Father, glorify Thou Me with thine own Self with the glory which I had with Thee before the world was." In such words as these our Lord asserts his separateness from the Father, and yet his unity with the Father. He teaches us that the unity of God is no arithmetical unity, nor is it a uniformity. It is a unity which includes an inner diversity; a unity which is consistent with a distinction between the Father and the Son. That there should be such a distinction in the Divine Being seems demanded by some of the perfections of God. Is not God love? Yet the conception of God existing as a solitary monad from all eternity seems to clash with this attribute. For a loving being to have existed from eternity without any object to love is incongruous. From all eternity was it true: The Father loveth the Son.

HIS SPECIAL SONSHIP.

This is the relation our Lord bears to the Divine Being—the Son of God. He claims for Himself a Divine Sonship which differs and excels any sonship which man bears to God. No man, however pure he may be, can reflect more than the moral perfections of God—truth, righteousness, love. No man can aspire to share those physical perfections which are inseparable from Deity—omnipotence and infinity, but these are claimed and exhibited by Christ. Nor can any man claim that equality with God in a pre-existent state which our Saviour asserts repeatedly. Our Lord claims, then, that He had a personal existence as the Son of God before He became incarnate. I am aware that the Sonship of the Lord Jesus is a profound mystery which no language of ours can fully define. Sabellius sought to represent the relationship of Jesus set to the Divine Being by resolving the distinctions of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit into three manifestations of the one existence, by which our Lord was to the Father what a ray of light is to the sun, and God revealed Himself in Christ simply as a man of genius may reveal himself in a work of skill. I am conscious of a great tendency in our own times to fall into the old error. It would save many intellectual difficulties if we could thus satisfy the teaching of Scripture. How could the Father show all that He doeth unto the Son, or give all things into his hand, if He and the Son were identical? The Word not only was God but was with God in the beginning as a distinct personal existence. Thus much for the separate personal existence of our Lord as the Son of God.

AN UNCREATED SONSHIP.

The next fact with regard to this is, that He never had a creation or beginning. The Arian contention that our Saviour was the first and grandest creation of God has never satisfied the heart of Christendom, nor its head either, because it does such violence to the statements of Scripture. Nor has Unitarianism, which is substantially the same as Arianism, ever succeeded in winning the more profound minds, though it has often captivated acute thinkers; nor has it ever inspired a vigorous Church. The Christian conscience can yield to the authority only of God. The Christian heart can only respond to the touch of God. Conceive of Christ as only the grandest of creatures, and we see Him crownless, sceptreless. Only as we see in Him the glory as of the only begotten of the Father, one who has neither beginning of days nor end of years, do we with all our hearts leap up in exultant adoration and cry, "Thou art the King of Glory, O Christ. Thou art the Everlasting Son of the Father."

THE ETERNAL SONSHIP OF CHRIST.

This clause asserts what is to me the profoundest mystery of the Saviour's Person with his Eternal Sonship—a mystery in regard to which it is easier to grasp certain positive ideas than to reconcile them one with another, or with other truths respecting Christ. (1) We do read in Scripture, that the Saviour has the ground of his existence in the Father. The root of the Son's existence is in the independent life of the Father. As the Father hath life in Himself, so hath He given to the Son to have life in Himself. And yet while thus the life of our Lord seems to have its spring in the being of the Father, we are not to regard it as having a beginning—but as completely co-existent with the Father, as the shadow is co-existent with the body or the radiance is co-existent with the sun. (2) He was in loving fellowship with the Father. Beyond this we can more clearly see that between our Lord and his Father there has been eternal communion. Our Saviour speaks of Himself as even prior to the incarnation one with the Father and the Father with Him He declares that even while He is on earth He is also in heaven:—"Even the Son of Man which is in heaven." The Son lives by the Father, and communicates to us what He has seen of the Father. "The Father loveth the Son," and this fact sets our Saviour before us in even a more glorious light than all the visions of Revelation in which rank after rank of shining holy ones bow before Him in lowliest reverence, and praise him in gladdest song. (3) Yet He is subordinate to the Father. The Saviour represents Himself throughout as subordinate to the Father. The Son can do nothing of Himself but what He seeth the Father do. And when Jesus has done His mediatorial work, He is represented as giving up the kingdom to the Father. "The Son Himself also shall be subject unto Him who put all things under Him, that God may be all in all."

THE MYSTERY OF GODLINESS.

Great is the mystery of godliness. We are conscious that these statements present insuperable difficulty. That our Lord should in any way be dependent on the Father for his existence, and yet possess that self-existence and independence which are inseparable from our conception of Deity; how Christ can be subordinate to the Father and yet equal, are problems which I do not believe we shall ever solve until our eyes see the King in his beauty. But we may believe truths which we cannot reconcile. This is not the only circle in which we are compelled to recognise facts which we cannot reconcile. The liberty of man which creates his responsibility is as irreconcilable with the supreme action of the Divine Spirit as is the Sonship of our Lord with his self-existence, or his subordination with his equality.

Enough for us gratefully to recognise that in that great Leader, Teacher, Saviour, King, whom we trust with all our hearts, from whom alone we learn our creed, in mystic union with whom we will enter calmly the unknown life, is none other than the image of the invisible God. We are sure that his going forth is from everlasting, and through all the ages of our future life we shall proclaim Him, "My Lord and my God." Not unreasonably is the Christian Church jealous for the Divine glory of her Lord. Let the Unitarians magnify the human nobleness of our Saviour, and while we listen to their adulation we sigh, "They have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid Him." We are indeed told that there is something of God in every man, only that Jesus had more than the ordinary share. What man in the very crisis of his life would dare to appeal to God to restore him to the glory which He had before the world was? What man is possessed of such Divinity that he can walk the waves, and open the grave, and burst his own bond of death?

Before men can alter our conceptions of Christ they must blot out the record of his unique life, his wondrous words, his glorious resurrection and ascension. While there remain to us these miracles of power and mercy; while we listen to those sublime discourses in which our Lord bade the brethren farewell that He might re-enter the Father's glory, discourses in which, with such simple but solemn grandeur, He asserted that He was equal with God; while we listen to those reassuring words, "I am the Resurrection and the Life," which have dried many tears and stilled the sighs of saddened hearts, and nerved departing souls for the great unknown, as they relied on meeting on the other side of that dark shadow, clothed from head to foot, Him who holds the keys and "opens the kingdom of heaven to all believers"—we shall claim for Him the pre-eminence as "the image of the invisible God," "the only-begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth."

The Person and Work of the Holy Spirit.

BY REV. T. McCULLAGH.

PAUL'S question, "Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed?" was a test question. It is still pertinent and necessary, and, in answering it, no one in England to-day can say, "We have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost." In England the third Person of the Trinity is constantly referred to in the religious services of all Christian Churches. Millions repeat every Sabbath after the minister, in the words of the Apostles' Creed, "I believe in the Holy Ghost;" or in the language of the Nicene Creed, "I believe in the Holy Ghost, the Lord and Giver of Life, who proceedeth from the Father and the Son, who with the Father and the Son together is worshipped and glorified, who spake by the Prophets." Congregations who do not use those ancient forms are reminded of Him in the most frequently sung and familiarly known verse in English poetry, Bishop Ken's Doxology, with its concluding line, "Praise Father, Son, and Holy Ghost." And further, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth, they are reminded of Him in the most frequently quoted and most extensively known passage of Scripture, St. Paul's Benediction: "The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost, be with you all. Amen."

BELIEVE IT NOT.

And yet how many there are who have heard that there is a Holy Ghost, but believe it not. This is the case with all avowed anti-Trinitarians. This is the case, too, with some who belong to churches whose confessions of faith are orthodox. They do not profess to be Deists, or Arians, or Unitarians, but they try to modify, or attenuate, or explain away the Deity and personality of the Holy Spirit. Some of them, we fear, are ministers who, of course, baptize in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. They conclude their religious services as others do, with the Apostolic Benediction, but in their meaning, or with their mental reservation, it is the benediction of "another Gospel." The "grace" of their Jesus Christ is the grace of a creature, and the "communion" of their Holy Ghost is fellowship with an influence or operation, an impersonal something without intelligence. And these, in their incongruous jumble of ideas, they dare to place on a level with the "love" of an infinite God. This, surely, is the absurdity of reason, the irrationality of rationalism.

THE UNITY OF THE TRUTH.

It is necessary to preserve intact each one of the several doctrines with which God has built up into a complete and symmetrical whole the glorious temple of revealed truth. The connection of one Gospel doctrine with another is such that one cannot be renounced or corrupted without leading inevitably to the surrender or corruption of another and another, if not of all. For instance, let the doctrine of human depravity on account of Adam's fall be rejected, and the doctrine of atonement must be rejected too. If a man disbelieves that "by the offence of one, judgment came upon all men to condemnation," he will also disbelieve that "by the righteousness of One, the free gift came upon all men unto justification of life."

The next link in the ruptured chain of revealed truth that will be cast away is sure to be the doctrine of regeneration. If a man's nature be not essentially sinful, of course he needs no second birth; if he happen to do wrong now and then, with a nature not radically depraved, he must be capable of self-reformation, and his innate potentialities in such a case will render him independent of Divine intervention and help. Rejecting the doctrine of regeneration, it follows that the Holy Spirit as a regenerating and sanctifying agent will be rejected too.

TWO GREAT ERRONEOUS TENDENCIES.

The defection from revealed truth on the Person and work of the Holy Spirit has resulted from one of the two great erroneous tendencies in religious thought which have been prevalent ever since error entered the world with sin. One has been in the direction of an excessive supernaturalism, which attaches a supernatural virtue to even certain material objects, and a supernatural efficacy to certain human administrations and acts. The other is in the very opposite direction of a complete anti-supernaturalism. When our Lord was upon earth, these tendencies, diverging from the line of truth in opposite directions, were in organised form and full force within the Jewish church in the rival sects of the Pharisees and Sadducees. They have ever been found in Christendom, and have succeeded in overthrowing the faith of some. In our day British churches have to guard against both the leaven of the Pharisees and the leaven of the Sadducees. Perhaps those set for the defence of the Gospel have paid, not too much but too exclusive an attention to the encroachments of the Pharisees, and whilst so watching, the leaven of the Sadducees, which, in its strong antipathies to the supernatural, has spared neither the Person nor operations of the Holy Spirit, has been spreading with disastrous results. It is now for the friends of truth, with the help of the insulted Spirit Himself, to purge out the old leaven that they may be a new lump.

In regarding the Holy Ghost as the author and sustainer of spiritual life, we assign Him the place given Him in the Bible in the great work of redemption. The Father originated and began the work, when "God so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son." The Son was the actual Redeemer, and from "the old, old story" you know how the work was accomplished by the "incarnation, nativity, baptism, fasting, and temptation, the agony and bloody sweat, the cross and passion, the precious death and burial, the glorious resurrection and ascension." Or, to use the language of Scripture, He was "delivered for our offences and raised for our justification." The part taken by the Holy Ghost is that of the administrator of redemption. There was a mission of the Spirit as distinctive as the mission of the Son. Our Lord Himself taught his disciples to expect it. He promised "the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name;" and again, "if I depart I will send Him unto you." And we know how the promise was fulfilled. When He ascended up on high, and led captivity captive, and received gifts for men, He sent, as the chiefest, and including all the others, the gift of the Holy Ghost.

THE LORD AND GIVER OF LIFE.

The mission of the Spirit is to give life to dead souls—dead in trespasses and sins. In the administration of redemption, by a new birth, He gives to those upon whom He operates a new nature, and the life from the dead which He thus communicates He sustains by his own indwelling. So complete is that that St. Paul says, "Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you?" The description given of Stephen, "full of faith and the Holy Ghost," applies to all believers who have attained "the fulness of the blessing of the Gospel of Christ." The mission of the Spirit is still in progress, as the Christian dispensation is the dispensation of the Spirit. To some extent He was in the world from the beginning. At creation He "moved upon the face of the waters." Before the Flood He "strove with man." We see Him and hear Him in Isaiah's temple-vision. All the way through He was the inspirer of the Prophets. They "spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." But in comparison to the fulness in which He was given on the day of Pentecost, the antecedent period is spoken of as the time when He was not given. When on the last great day of the feast Jesus called upon the thirsty to come to Him and drink, with the wonderful promise that out of him who believed on Him should flow rivers of living water, St. John adds, "this spake He of the Spirit which they that believe on Him should receive; for the Holy Ghost was not yet given, because that Jesus was not yet glorified."

WE ARE WITNESSES.

When the suffering Redeemer became the glorified High Priest, then came Pentecost and its wonders, with its soul-saving scenes and spiritual power. Then, as a result, arose Christian churches, walking in the fear of God, and the comfort of the Holy Ghost, and were edified and multiplied. As the promise spoken by the prophet Joel is, "unto you and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even to as many as the Lord our God shall call," let us who "stand up for Jesus" also bear our testimony for the Lord the Spirit. We are his witnesses. Let our pulpits witness for Him, not only by preaching about Him, but by preaching in demonstration of the Spirit and of power. Let our congregations witness for Him in the ordinances of public worship. Whether they use some venerable liturgical form, or pray extemporary, let them "pray with the Spirit and the understanding also, and sing with the Spirit, and with the understanding also."

Let our psalmody and hymnody be as faithful in invoking his presence and power in the future as they have been in the past. Let the Church of England sing with its own Bishop Heber:—

Spirit of truth, on this thy day,
To Thee for help we cry;
To guide us through the dreary way
Of dark mortality.

Let Nonconformist churches sing with their own Dr. Watts:—

Come, Holy Spirit, Heavenly Dove,
With all thy quickening powers,
Come shed abroad a Saviour's love,
And that shall kindle ours.

Let "the people called Methodists" sing with their own Charles Wesley:—

Assembled here with one accord,
Calmly we wait the promised grace,
The purchase of our dying Lord;
Come, Holy Ghost, and fill the place.

As individual Christians, born again of the Spirit, let us witness for Him by the testimony of holy living. "If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit."

[AFTERNOON.]

Christ's Sacrifice and the Conscience.

BY REV. CHARLES A. FOX.

LET us consider the propitiatory work of Christ, who is the righteousness of the believer, as set forth in the Epistle to the Hebrews (chap. ix.): "Christ being come a High Priest of good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this building; neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood He entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us." What are the "good things to come" here spoken of? Under the dispensation of the law God's people had the altar of sacrifice, the mercy-seat, the priesthood, and the Shekinah presence. What is the superiority of the Christian Dispensation?

First of all, it consists in a greater and more perfect tabernacle. Among other good things therein is an altar, which is the cross of Calvary, on which there was offered one offering for ever —an altar the efficacy of whose sacrifice avails for Jew and Gentile, for the past, the present, and the future; an altar from which there is a new and perfect highway into the holy place, for we read in this same Epistle that Christ, our High Priest, has "passed through the heavens." As the priest of old passed from the altar of sacrifice right through the veil into the very presence of God, so our High Priest passed from the cross of Calvary up to the throne of God. We have a new and perfect altar, a new and perfect highway, a new veil—"that is to say, his flesh," which was rent on the cross. We have also in this tabernacle a new mercy-seat, which is sprinkled with the blood of atonement; and we have a new shrine, a new Shekinah presence, which is that of God Himself. This is the more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, and which can never pass away. Besides that, we have in Christ Himself a more perfect tabernacle. He was personally the temple of God. His perfect sinlessness was the altar on which his blood was offered. He was the sacrifice Himself, the Priest who offered the sacrifice, the mercy-seat, the Shekinah presence of God—"the brightness of the Father's glory."

A PERFECT SACRIFICE.

Again, we read here of a more perfect sacrifice. "Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood He entered in once into the holy place." Where was the superiority of the sacrifice of Christ over the old sacrifices? First of all, it consisted in this, that it was final. The old sacrifices had to be offered morning by morning, evening by evening, year by year. But this one is offered "once for all." This is the sacrifice towards which all other sacrifices pointed, and through which they had their efficacy. Sinless and infinite, this sacrifice was also a person. The animals were unconsenting victims, but Christ was a consenting offering. "No man taketh my life from Me, I lay it down of myself." This is the offering of the very essence of God Himself on our behalf, as a substitute for us and for our sins. And, besides that, there is this superiority: under the old law there had to be various offerings. If there was one offering whose blood was shed, there was another, the scapegoat, for instance, upon the head of which the hands of the priest must be laid, and the sins of the people confessed; the blood of the one animal was shed, but the other animal was sent alive into the wilderness. Now, these two goats represented what our blessed Lord had in Himself—perfect unity. Not only was our Lord the offering whose blood was shed; but, as the scapegoat, He carried our sins into forgetfulness, and as our forerunner He entered the holy place, the very presence of God. Besides all this, there is a Divinity, a Deity, in our sacrifice. The sacrifice of Jesus was the sacrifice of God Himself. "God was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself." It was the Father who in Jesus was thus offering Himself; it was the Son as the substitute for us who offered Himself also to the Father. He Himself expresses it thus, "Lo I come, to do thy will, O God." There is a perfect obedience, a perfect sinlessness, a perfect offering, a perfect shedding of blood.

We also read of Christ having "obtained eternal redemption for us." Not only have we a more perfect tabernacle, and a more perfect sacrifice, but there is finality of redemption. It is a redemption for ever, offered once for all; it is for past and future, as well as present, for Jew and Gentile alike. Further, it redeems us wholly—body, soul, and spirit. We are wholly redeemed unto the Lord, and He is wholly given to each one of his redeemed ones. It is likewise eternal, because it has neither beginning nor ending—He is "the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world."

A CLEANSED CONSCIENCE.

This being, then, the superior platform, the grand framework of this wondrous dispensation, of the propitiation of Jesus, what are the results, the effects, the fruits of it? We read in the passage we are considering: "If the blood of bulls and of goats, and the ashes of a heifer sprinkling the unclean, sanctified to the purifying of the flesh: how much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered Himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God?" Now, under the old sacrifices there was a cleansed body, a cleansing from bodily disqualifications and impurities. This personal sacrifice of Christ, however, cleanses us from the eternal consequences of sin, cleanses us, not ceremonially, but morally and in the conscience. Do we know this? Have we a conscience void of offence? Is the conscience so purged by the precious blood of Christ that there is perfect peace there? Is there perfect access and communion with God?

We have more than provision for all this. We read, "For this cause He is the Mediator of the new testament (or covenant), that by means of death...they which are called might receive the promise of eternal inheritance." This is a further fruit of the blessed redemption of Christ Jesus. Under the old sacrificial commandment, the covenant was, "Thou shalt." Under the new covenant of the Lord Jesus and his Cross, it is, "I will." Not only are the old covenant and its ordinances blotted out, but the new one is written in, upon the heart and conscience—the true law of God is written within us by the Holy Spirit. Thus the spirit of man is so changed that he desires to do the will of God; the Spirit of God is introduced into the spirit of man, and the spirit of man is under grace of the Spirit of God. The new covenant is the covenant of power, of purity, and of performance; it is also a covenant of fire. We had an exemplification of this at Pentecost. The Lord had presented his offering, and the fire came down from heaven, showing that the offering had been accepted; it rested on the very heads of the Apostles. The result was a complete change in the men. Their former cowardice had disappeared, and they stood forth to speak the word of God in the power of the Holy Ghost to the very murderers of Jesus. By the covenant of fire, the whole being is renewed, and brought under the Divine will; this covenant illumines by consuming. We must, in our daily life, be consumed by the fire of the Lord, and then it will appear that God's law is written in the book of the conscience—the heart, the life.

OUR ETERNAL INHERITANCE.

In the words "receive the promise of eternal inheritance," we see that we are at once introduced into our inheritance. "We that do believe enter into rest." "Being justified by faith, we have peace with God." This "rest" proceeds unbroken during our whole earthly life, and is introductory to the perfect "rest" which "remaineth for the people of God." This is the eternal inheritance, "incorruptible, undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven" for us, as we are reserved on earth for it. Let us see that we realise the eternal inheritance, that we are heirs and joint-heirs with Christ. There are inexhaustible golden mines on the estate of every true believer. Let us realise what has been secured to us by the precious atoning propitiation of Christ.

We have spoken of six good things. There is a seventh good thing mentioned: a new Mediator, a new High Priest. Christ is our High Priest. If we believed that, then there would be an end of all the controversy about priesthood in these days. Our High Priest has passed out of sight, but not out of hearing. You will agree with me that, if Christ Jesus were visible among us, no one would think of going to any other priest on earth. The Lord is in heaven, ever ready to attend to the cry of the least and the vilest of his children; and is it not an audacity beyond description that any should pass Him by and consult so-called priests? Is it conceivable that I would go to a fellow creature, ignorant of my soul and my sin, to ask him for absolution, when Christ is in the heavenly places waiting to receive my confession? "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

Shall we not remember our High Priest—shall we not use Him? He hath, as the Mediator of the new covenant, willed to us all that God could give us: his peace, his presence, his love, his joy, his power, his fellowship, his throne, and Himself. Being a risen Mediator, He is in the court of probate to administer the will, or testament, or covenant, on our behalf. He sees to the execution of his own will. He is the only person who can possibly do it; because He first died to give force to the will, and rose again to execute or administer it. This is the High Priest of good things to come. Let us in these perilous days, when every kind of error prevails, hold fast to the simple truths of Holy Scripture, to the blessed priesthood of the Lord Jesus Christ, the complete atonement through the sacrifice of Christ on the altar of Calvary, and the anointing of the Holy Ghost.

Christ the Propitiation.

By Rev. CHARLES NEW.

We read in the First Epistle of John that "Jesus Christ the righteous...is the propitiation for our sins." Let us not be afraid of a theory of the Atonement. It may be enough for bare salvation to know—as the dying thief knew—that the crucified Saviour saves, but this is not enough for Christian assurance and strong Christian life. We cannot fathom the mysteries, but it becomes us to listen to what God has told us. We have not been left in the dark where most we need light. God not only tells us that Jesus saves, but He says how He saves.

The Scripture word propitiation has a well-defined meaning, and in itself embodies a theory. When we read it in connection with what else has been revealed, we cannot be wrong in saying that the death of the Lord Jesus Christ is the one means by which God extends his favour to sinful men. When we ask, How can fallen man be restored to God? we are pointed to "Christ the propitiation for our sins, and not for ours only, but for the sins of the whole world."

GOD'S VIEW OF SIN.

To propitiate is to turn away wrath. We would rather not think of the wrath of God, as we feel that judgment is his strange work. But propitiation has no meaning unless the wrath of God be implied. Appalling as sin may appear to us, when viewed in the light of God's Word, our estimate of it falls far short of what it is in the sight of a holy God. God is love—love which passeth knowledge, love which only finds outward expression in the cross of his dear Son. And yet we read: "The wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men"; the "wrath of God cometh on the children of disobedience"; "he that believeth not the Son... the wrath of God abideth on him"; "to whom is reserved the blackness of darkness for ever"; "where their worm dieth not, and their fire is not quenched"; "treasure up unto themselves wrath against the day of wrath"; "in flaming fire taking vengeance on them that obey not the Gospel"; "the wine press of the fierceness of the wrath of Almighty God." These are not merely isolated passages, but such as occur throughout the Scriptures. It is not Divine sorrow of which they speak, nor even Divine displeasure, but Divine wrath, and when we put them together we have an indescribable revelation of the sinfulness of sin. Many of them no doubt are figurative, but God's figures are figures of the truth, and their truth is sustained by history.

The curse that from the first has followed sin, and above all the cross whereon sin was condemned and punished, show that words cannot tell nor mind conceive what sin is, and what is the wrath of the Holy One against it. There lies the need for propitiation. There is Divine wrath to be turned away. Whilst that wrath remains, God cannot receive man, and man cannot approach God. If we ask how God's wrath utters itself, we may venture to reply: In separation from the sinner. Can anything be worse than that? Can outer darkness, or any other terrible figure depict what it is for a soul to be left with its sins, cut off from God?

THE PENALTY MUST BE PAID.

God has said that sin is so serious that He cannot pass it by without penalty. Love ceases to deserve respect when it ignores righteousness. Before God can receive the sinner, there is wrath to be averted, and that must be brought about in a way by which righteousness shall be honoured equally with mercy. Man needs propitiation too, so that the way of approach to God may be open, so that God may show mercy on him. Emphasising propitiation we do not forget the other part of our Lord's redeeming work. He is our leader, example, master, intercessor, life. But He only becomes these after we have first taken Him as the propitiation for our sins.

Let us notice that this is a propitiation, provided and effected by God Himself. No feature of it should be more jealously observed; otherwise, it would seem that God needs to be appeased, that there must be intervention to buy off his anger, and that this was unjustly effected by the innocent being punished, instead of the guilty. No wonder that many have revolted from that idea. A God whose love cannot pardon without intervention, and whose righteousness is thus allied to unrighteousness, cannot be the God of the Bible. Nor is He. The Scripture doctrine of propitiation knows nothing of these contradictions, nor could it suggest them, but to those who forget that He who made the propitiation was God. Jesus was "God manifested in the flesh"; He was "The Word made flesh"—"the Word was in the beginning with God, and was God." Gazing on the cross, we say with joy, This was the true God; this was no interposition to make God merciful, but it sprang from his mercy. It was not laying our sins upon another; it was a taking of them Himself. He Himself, in his infinite mercy, made the atonement that was needed. "Without shedding of blood there is no remission." Christ was "the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world."

Hence, salvation is said to be by Christ's death, by his blood. It is not by his incarnation, not by his temptation, not by his holy life, not by his witness for the truth, not by his daily suffering in an evil world, but always by his death, by the shedding of his blood. "Christ died for the ungodly." "We have redemption through his blood." And many other passages.

THE DOOM OF SIN WAS THERE.

Asking how Christ's death could turn away the wrath of God, we are told plainly—it was by substitution. It is sometimes said that that word is not in the Bible; but the thing is there. "The Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all." "He hath redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us." "He made Him to be sin for us who knew no sin." He was "once offered to bear the sins of many." He "suffered for sins, the just for the unjust." He "bore our sins in his own body on the tree." It is said, however, that this is impossible, as sins cannot be transferred. Of course, this is so, but though sin cannot be transferred, the penalty can. The holy Son of God could not become a sinner, but He could take the sinner's place, and bear the sinner's doom. That is what the Scriptures teach really took place. On Calvary He asserted his sinlessness in the cry, "My God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?" The doom of sin was there. For a moment Christ was forsaken by the Father. Then He knew the Divine wrath, and what it was to be cut off from God. And what was that awful darkness, but to descend into hell? There the Divine wrath uttered itself, and its threatenings were fulfilled. Sin was gathered upon one sacred head, and judged and punished there.

This is a propitiation sufficient for the sin of the world. The Father's co-equal Son stooped for the moment to sin's penalty, and there is now an open way to God, whose face, once averted from the sinner, is now towards him. The love once pent without Him is now set free, and with outstretched arms He entreats the Son to come and welcome. Christ has taken away wrath by taking it upon Himself. Prayer does not secure it, good works do not, repentance does not, faith does not; but Christ secured it. "God was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself." If Christ has turned away wrath, can any sinner be lost? For an answer to this we have but to remember what salvation is. Salvation is not represented by penalty cancelled. That is but an open way to it. Salvation is fellowship with God. "This is eternal life, to know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom Thou hast sent." Propitiation does not save, it makes salvation possible, it clears the way for us to God, and enables God to throw the door wide open, to "receive us graciously, and love us freely." "Thou wast angry with me, but thine anger is turned away, and Thou comfortest me."

[EVENING.]

Holy Scripture and its Authority.

By Rev. C. H. WALLER.

I propose to speak on the Inspiration, Authority, and Sufficiency of Scripture. By the Inspiration of Scripture, I mean that it is God's Word written—not only the word of man, nor merely the word of inspired men. Scripture is the word of inspired men, no doubt; but I believe the Bible to be the written Word of God. By the Authority of Scripture, I understand that it is God's law for us. Not for us only, however, for I see that it was law for the Son of God Himself while He was on earth. That which was law to the Son of God when upon earth cannot be less than law to us now. Scripture may be law to the angels too. One of them confessed to St. John, "I am a fellow-servant of thine, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them that keep the sayings of this book." St. Peter says also, that there are things in the Scriptures of the prophets that "angels desire to look into." As for the Sufficiency of the Scripture, that is, it is God's truth. With all reverence, we may say that, so far as written words can be, the Bible is the way, the truth, and the life for men. The Word of God is quick or living—is life; it is the word of truth; and it is the way—also the way to the tree of life. The written Word is all this to those who receive it, as likewise the living Word is to those who receive Him.

"The words that I speak unto you," said our Lord, "are spirit and life." "The testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy," we also read. Prophecy is that which men or angels speak for God, and the Spirit of prophecy does not speak, except to bear witness of Christ. If, then, in the Scriptures we have eternal life, it is because they testify of the Lord Jesus Christ, who is the Alpha and the Omega of God's written Word. I understand this statement as implying not only that Christ is the first and the last, but that He is the Alpha and the Omega, the first and the last letter of the alphabet of the New Testament. When our Lord said, "I am the Alpha and the Omega," I believe He meant that He was the beginning and the end of the Alphabet of God's Word written—the first and last letters of the written truth of God.

GOD THE AUTHOR OF SCRIPTURE.

Why do I believe the Bible to be God's Word written? I only know two ways in which anything that is written can be regarded as anyone's work. One way is, if he should write it himself, as God wrote the ten commandments on the two tables of stone with his own hand. The other way is, if he put his name to what is already written, and thereby make it and take it for his own word. This, I believe, is what God has done with all Scripture.

Sometimes we are told that the Church gave us the Bible, and, therefore, the Bible is not so much the Word of God as the word of the Church. I have had it said to me by men claiming inspiration for Holy Scripture, "That's all very well, but you won't maintain the infallibility of the Bible unless you maintain the infallibility of the Church." I object to that. So long as I live, God helping me, I will maintain the infallibility of the Bible, but I will never maintain the infallibility of the visible Church on earth, or any portion of it. Men say the Bible cannot be better off than the Church. Supposing I were to say that my mother gave me the Bible. Does that make it my mother's word, or no better than my mother's word? If my mother gives me the Word of God, does that prove that she wrote it, or that she has authority to add to it, or take away from it, or to explain one part so as to contradict another? Does it bind me to take her interpretation of anything the Bible says? Whether I say my mother or the Church, it makes no difference to the argument, but the conclusion is the same in both cases. Neither my mother nor the Church, though giving me the Bible, wrote a line of it, nor did they appoint anybody to write a single word. The visible Church has had the same authority as a body in all ages, but it has never had authority to take from, or add to, the Word of God. Supposing all sections of the visible Church met together, and, after solemn prayer and deliberation, should appoint a man to write a letter to the heathen world. Would that be Scripture? Never! It was the same from the beginning, and no such thing as the Church appointing anyone to write Scripture was ever heard of.

AN OBJECTION MET.

The prophets of the Old Testament wrote the Old Testament Scripture, and the Apostles and prophets of the New Testament wrote the New Testament Scripture. And who made the Apostles and prophets? None but God Himself; nothing less than the personal call of God made a prophet, and nothing less than the personal call of Christ made an Apostle. No one but a prophet and an Apostle could ever deliver anything to the Church as Scripture, nor could the Church receive anything as Scripture, except from Apostles and prophets. No one else ever had authority to write anything as God's written Word. I shall prove this from the pages of the Bible itself. I must, however, first meet one objection. I have had it said to me, "If you prove the inspiration of the Bible from the Bible, is not that arguing in a circle?" No, it is not. It might be, if the kind of proof which the Bible furnishes were different. For instance, the Koran, Mohammed's Bible, says that Mohammed received it from heaven, and that assertion is the only ground for the belief. That is not the shape of the argument, nor the kind of proof, presented by the Bible. Such "proof" would be a dogma, a doctrinal statement, an assertion, and little more.

The Bible is not only a book of doctrine or teaching, it is history—the oldest and truest in the world. The history presented in the Bible covers a longer period than has ever been put together in one book, and on one authority. It has been tried and tested in every possible way, and its truth has been fully proved. Over and over again statements have been made to show that the history is not accurate, and the charges have always broken down. Demanding the closest examination, Bible history fully bears it; it is worthy of far more careful attention than men commonly bestow upon it. In the Bible we have a history of how the Book came to be. To get at the whole truth you must put many passages together; and side by side with the history we have the nation to whom God first gave the Bible, the Jewish nation, a nation to this very day.

THE OLD TESTAMENT.

The Bible says that the Old Testament Scriptures are those of the prophets; the Jews also have always said so, and they would receive nothing as Scripture but that which was delivered by a prophet. Another point to consider is that the words of the prophets, delivered in the name of God, are to be taken as the Word of God Himself. These two facts prove the inspiration of the Bible as God's written Word. Now, our Lord called the Old Testament Scriptures "Moses and the prophets," for Moses and the prophets wrote them all. In Exodus xvii. we read that Moses was commanded to write God's Word against Amalek in a book, and "rehearse it in the ears of Joshua." That shows that Moses was then writing a book which he would leave to Joshua, and not only leave for Joshua, but for that greater Joshua, of whom it is said, "In the volume of the book it is written of me, I come to fulfil thy will, O God." In Deuteronomy xxxi. we read that Moses wrote the law, and delivered it unto the priests, the sons of Levi, "which bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord, and unto all the elders of Israel...Thou shalt read this law before all Israel in their hearing." Other similar passages show that the law was above the Church of Israel, above the judges, above the priests, and above the kings. In Deuteronomy xvii. there is a striking passage, showing that it was obligatory on the priests to tell and teach the people that which was written in the law, and in all difficult cases of controversy the law was final. The teaching may be summed up in a passage from the fourth chapter of the same book: "Ye shall not add unto the word which I command you, neither shall ye diminish aught from it, that ye may keep the commandments of the Lord your God which I command you."

THE TRUE BASIS OF INSPIRATION.

I have said that the Holy Scriptures are from the first the scriptures of the prophets. I have shown you that they are not the scriptures of the Church, nor the work of the Church of Israel—that her judges, elders, priests, magistrates, and kings could only guard, obey, and administer the law written by Moses, which was the Bible of that day, the first Bible given to mankind. What the Church of Israel could not do, the prophets did do, and they continued the Old Testament of Moses until the Old Testament was complete as we now have it. Look at Deut. xviii. We there read: "I will raise them up a Prophet from among their brethren, like unto thee, and will put my words in his mouth; and He shall speak unto them all that I shall command Him." Like many others, these words receive their full meaning only in the Lord Jesus Christ, but they also in a measure apply to all the prophets, from Moses to the last prophet of the Old Testament. The Jews have always understood the words in that sense, and the context shows that this is the signification, because the prophets were given in place of something else—so that the people should not follow the nations in seeking after charmers, familiar spirits, wizards, and so forth; the prophets were to take the place of all forbidden means of communication with the unseen world. The passage applies to all the prophets, as well as to our Lord, and I take it to be the true basis of the inspiration of all Scripture. It is just in that part of the Bible where we ought to find it, just at the end of Moses and the beginning of Joshua. "I will put my words in his mouth." And so it was always understood of God's prophets. Hear what the last of the Old Testament prophets said of it: "Your fathers where are they? And the prophets, do they live for ever? But my words and my statutes, which I commanded my servants the prophets, did they not take hold of your fathers?" In Isaiah, also, while it is said that "all flesh is as grass," while prophets come and go, "The Word of our God shall stand for ever." The prophets die, but the Scriptures do not. The prophets were the creation of God, not of the Church. The Lord made Moses and Aaron. He also said, "I will raise thee up a Prophet." I take the Scriptures of the prophets to be God's Word, because God said that such prophets would arise. That is what I understand by inspiration, neither more nor less. It is God's own declaration that the words are his. The Scriptures are the scriptures of the prophets, and the words of the prophets must be taken as the words of God.

THE METHOD UNREVEALED.

How the writings are inspired I purposely leave. I will tell you why, and that is, I know nothing at all about it, except what everyone knows who can quote two texts of Scripture. One is by Paul, "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God"; another by Peter, "Every prophecy of Scripture came not by the will of man, but holy men of old spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." These texts I know, but I know nothing about them which you cannot know. I believe that few things have done more to make men doubt the inspiration of the Scriptures than the discussion of this point. Whether Moses wrote from dictation, or recollection, or as a reporter giving the substance, whether he used any older books, or copied anything, we cannot say. Of these matters we are absolutely ignorant, and where we are ignorant, what folly to attempt discussion! The law was binding on Joshua. God put his words in Moses' mouth, and we read: "Whosoever will not hearken, I will require it of him." The inspiration of Scripture means that the words of Scripture are the words of God.

It was, of course, necessary that the Church should have the power to know who were prophets and who were not. This power God has given to the Church in all ages. Israel was instructed thus: "When a prophet speaketh in the name of the Lord, if the thing follow not, nor come to pass, that is the thing which the Lord hath not spoken." The early Church was told not to believe "every spirit," but to "try the spirits whether they be of God, for many false prophets have gone out into the world." God seldom left one prophet to testify alone; he sent another, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word should be established. One of the most beautiful testimonies of a prophet in all Scripture is that borne to John the Baptist by the Church of Israel: "John," they said, "did no miracle, but all things that John spake of this man," that is, Christ Jesus, "were true." It was not reserved for the Christian Church to distinguish prophets from other men, and the writings of prophets from the writings of other men. The Apostles were Jews, and were perfectly familiar with all this. So manifest was the distinction between men who were prophets and men who were not, and the writings delivered by prophets and other writings, that neither the Church of the Old nor the Church of the New Testament has preserved any record of any debate or discussion upon the question. St. Paul quotes the third Gospel as "Scripture"; St. Peter calls all St. Paul's Epistles "Scripture." These writings were delivered as "Scripture," or they would not have been received.

THE SCRIPTURE AUTHORITATIVE.

From the fact that Scripture is God's Word, we pass easily to its authority as God's law. So it was delivered to Joshua: "This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth." Joshua began the prophets. The other division of the Old Testament, called the Psalms, opens by saying: "Blessed is the man whose delight is in the law of the Lord." Our Saviour Himself acknowledged the Old Testament as the law of God. The Scriptures were, indeed, his life and teaching from the day when He answered Satan three times with "It is written," until the day when He expounded to his disciples, "from the Scriptures," the things concerning Himself. When attacked by Scribes and Pharisees, He answered with, "It is written," "Have ye not read?" and "The Scriptures cannot be broken." Twice He quoted the Psalms as the law, and, speaking of the law and the prophets on two distinct occasions, He said: "It is easier for heaven and earth to pass, than for one tittle of the law to fail." Our Saviour's use of the Scripture as law, for ever settles the question of its authority.

I think that by far the most remarkable proof of the sufficiency of Scripture is what happened on Easter day. When our Lord was expounding to those two disciples "in all the Scriptures the things concerning Himself," He restrained their eyes that they should not recognise Him. The Living Word concealed Himself, if we may say so, behind the written Word, as if it was too much for them to receive the Christ of Holy Scripture and the Living Christ Himself. That which the living and unseen Christ did for them, the Holy Scripture does for those who search it now. It is quite enough if we see Him in the Scripture by the guidance of Him whom we do not see. We need no other guide, if the anointing of Him dwell in us. And if, in the defence of the Gospel we be called upon to stand up and contend earnestly for fundamental truths, what is our weapon but the sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God?

Christ the Believer's Righteousness.

BY REV. P. COLBORNE.

To the true believer, the propitiation offered to God, by our Lord Jesus Christ, appears of inestimable value, owing to the spotless righteousness of Him who became the Sin-bearer, Such a believer realises at the cross a deeper sense of the exceeding sinfulness of sin. While availing himself of the provision made there to relieve him of the penalty of sin, he finds himself in a sinful state of being. Some wickedness is left in him responsive to temptation; some feebleness warns him against himself. Rest is not to come from mere holding of doctrine, nor from inference or reason. Faith in the Saviour must not stop short of the finished work of Christ. What is wanted is the appropriation of the righteousness of the One who was raised from the dead for our justification.

Christ's presence with believers must do more than anything else to keep them right. From the Apostles we learn, not only that Christ lives in believers, and does not forget them, but that He makes intercession for them. If He came that we might have life, He is living now in such a way that we may have that life more abundantly. The figures of the vine and the branches, of the body and the living head, are lost to us if they do not show us that the Lord Jesus maintains a vital union with believers.

There is a sense in which the righteousness of the Lord Jesus Christ is without us, our environment. We put on his righteousness; but it is also an external defence. It is given to cover and protect, and so to nourish the righteousness of the believer. So "the least of these little ones who believe in Me" may grow to be giants. Men who have been resting under this shadow, with great delight, find the joy of the Lord their strength.

A thoughtful, affectionate acquaintance with the Word of the Lord is one of the ways by which a believer may avail himself of the righteousness of Christ. Another way is in the devout and discerning celebration of the death of the Lord in the memorial Supper. At the table the Christian may meet the Lord, and receive direct from Him some spiritual gifts. There is righteousness enough in Christ to swallow up all our unrighteousness now; and it is certain that we shall never be satisfied until we wear his image, and his work will not be complete until we all are one with Him, and in his likeness shine.

Great Assembly Hall, Mile End.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 21.

Afternoon Prayer-meeting.

REV. A. G. BROWN (CHAIRMAN).

WE are here to plead with God for a gracious revival of power and undefiled teaching of the truth as it is in Jesus right away throughout the land. There are thousands who are conscious that there is a huge system of departure from the truth working all round about us. There is hardly a truth which is dear to the hearts of God's children but what is being called in question. These things make the faithful of the land sigh, and cry, and groan before God, and we are here just to plead with the Lord that much power may rest upon the testimony which is being borne in different parts on the fundamental doctrines of God's Word.

It seems to me to be a battle of the S's; sin, the Scriptures, sacrifice, substitution, and salvation are all involved. Once eliminate the sacrificial features of Christ's death, however, and you may take all the rest. I hold that there would not be so much error preached if the people who sit in the pews would take the matter up. I ask my congregation to bring me to book if I do not preach what is written. I should like a little heckling. If I don't speak according to the Book, let them tell me so. It will be an act of kindness. "Believe not every spirit, but try the spirits, whether they be of God." Let us take an uncompromising stand for the Book, and for every word in the Book.

BY REV. F. H. WHITE.

THE Apostle Paul, speaking of the Gospel, said, "If I preach the Gospel, I have nothing whereof to glory;" and he further says, "Necessity is laid upon me; yea, woe is me, if I preach not the Gospel." The same man that pronounced a curse upon an angel who should preach another Gospel declared himself to be woeful if he preached not the Gospel. God forbid that any of us should preach any other Gospel than that which Paul preached.

Consider John xii. 44—49, and John xv. 7. Christ says that those who "receive not his words hath One that judgeth him," and that He had spoken the words which his Father commanded Him. Then again He says: "If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you." The Lord never breaks an engagement, and He has made a sweetly solemn engagement that when two or three disciples—men having his Word in them—are gathered together in his name, He is in their midst.

What is the use of us without God's Spirit, and without the anointing of the Holy Ghost? If we do not abide in Christ, and his Word abide in us, what sort of Christians are we? Observe that there are two abiding places: if ye abide in Me—that is Christ; if my words abide in you—that is the believer. "If a man love me, he will keep my words." "Whoso keepeth his word, in him verily is the love of God perfected." It is a common cant saying at the present day that you may be loyal to Christ, although disloyal to his words—that you can receive Himself, and reject his teachings. Some would divorce the personal Christ from practical Christianity. Christ said, "If ye abide in Me, and my words abide in you," combining Himself and his words. What do you think the Emperor of Germany would say if someone should tell him he was loyal, but should at the same time tear up his proclamation in his face? It is because the Jews, in looking for the Messiah, did not understand the Word of God, that they killed Christ. If they had given attention to the inspired words, they would never have crucified the Lord. Those who say that they are loyal to Christ, and do not keep his words, are like those who crucify the Lord afresh.

Christ is not only a personal Redeemer, but He is the living Word of God. Further, I had never known Christ, but for his words. It was through ear-gate that He first entered my poor heart.

I heard the voice of Jesus say,
"Come unto Me and rest."

All that every believer has ever known of Christ has come through his words; written, it is true: thank God they are written! Let us receive them wisely, and read them as wise men; let us attend to their teaching earnestly and lovingly. Some are friendly enough to the truth, but not sufficiently unfriendly to error. I do not see how we can be friends of both, unless we place ourselves under the charge of being like Mr. By-ends in Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress.

[EVENING.]

Sin and Death.

BY REV. H. E. BROOKE.

WHAT I may have to say you must look upon as a sort of background for more agreeable and happier truths which are afterwards to be enunciated.

When the Lord Jesus Christ appeared upon earth, and I need not say that He was the embodiment of the Gospel—for the Gospel of God is "concerning his Son Jesus Christ"—when He came forward publicly, there was, first of all, a ministration of the proclamation of sin. That was by John's baptism. John was raised up to call the nation to a sense of their sin, and to preach to them the great message of repentance. And we are told that under his ministry numbers flocked to the river Jordan to be baptized of him, confessing their sins. For thirty years the Lord Jesus Christ had been living in obscurity; but there, in the midst of men confessing their sins, He appeared. Baptism implies sin, and sin needing to be washed away. Therefore, John hesitated to baptize Jesus, saying, "I have need to be baptized of Thee, and comest Thou to me?" There was the place where the Son of God appeared, and there the testimony was borne to Him from God above, and the Holy Spirit came in bodily form, and lit upon Him, when a voice was heard from heaven, saying, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

THE DOCTRINE OF SIN FUNDAMENTAL.

We find the same combination of sin with salvation in the word of the Gospel. I do not suppose that we have in any part of the Bible a clearer statement of the Gospel than in the Epistle to the Romans, which was written to set forth Christian doctrine. That book begins with a dark revelation of sin. In chaps. i. and ii., and in the first half of the third chapter, you have the subject of sin explained and opened up. Why? In order to prepare you for the Gospel which is afterwards to be announced. And when you have all the world brought in guilty before God, then comes the revelation of the righteousness which God has provided "by faith of Jesus Christ unto and upon all them that believe." It is for this reason that the Scripture doctrine of sin is a very necessary one to set forth as fundamental truth. However repugnant, however repulsive in some phases, and however unattractive it is, the truth concerning sin is a very necessary one to set forth, especially in these times. Amidst the many elements of departure from the truth, there is none more potent than ignorance on this subject. It is because of this ignorance that there is so much ignorance as to the remedy which God has provided for sin.

A Christian gentleman working in Paris was endeavouring to convince a Frenchman that he was a sinner, when the Frenchman said, "Oh, no, sir; I am not a sinner; I have not time to commit sin." Now, that ignorant remark was, after all, merely expressive of what we all naturally feel as to sin. The mistake which the Frenchman made was in confounding sin with the common notion that sin consists only in some overt acts, such as theft, murder, and so forth. He "had no time" to pursue a course of dissipation, and therefore he thought he was not a sinner! When we come to God's Word we find that this common notion of sin is quite fallacious.

WHAT IS SIN?

In 1 John iii. we read that "sin is the transgression of the law," or, as I think it may be more correctly defined, "Sin is nonconformity to law." If we ask what that law is, we find that it is not the law of society, not the law of public opinion, but the law of God which is expressed either in the two great commandments given by Christ, or in the Ten Commandments contained in the law of Moses. These set forth God's claims upon us as his creatures. If we take the law positively, as in the two commandments, it is perfect love—to "love the Lord thy God with all thy heart," and to "love thy neighbour as thyself." These things none of us do. We transgress the law, we do not conform to the law, we are sinners. What we need is to give up this shallow view which we naturally have of sin, when we account sin as merely a breaking forth of corruption in this or that direction; and we need to embrace God's definition as something more searching, more real, and more comprehensive. And I ask, which one of us (at all acquainted with his own heart) does not feel that we are rightly brought in sinners before God?

After all that we can say in presenting Scripture truth concerning the nature of sin, I believe that we need a teacher more than man to bring it home to our hearts. While the Word of God sets before us a very clear definition of what sin is, namely, nonconformity to law, and that "by the law is the knowledge of sin," yet we need the Spirit of God who wrote that Word to impress it upon our hearts, and I believe that the Spirit does come and convince of sin. Then, and not till then, do we really understand what this fearful evil is.

THE WHOLE RACE INVOLVED.

As to the extent of sin, I call your attention to a passage which speaks for itself, and is far more eloquent than anything I can say (Rom. v. 12): "By one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned." Mark the unity of the source—"by one man," and the universality of the extent—"passed upon all men, for that all have sinned." Also observe the uniformity of result—"death by sin." The entrance of sin into the world is, in this chapter of Romans, brought before us in connection with a very glorious truth, which is put parallel with another glorious truth. That is, the entrance of righteousness in Jesus Christ; and I think that in treating of this we gain immensely in the appreciation of God's provision in meeting sin. If we have on the one side one man the source of sin, we have, on the other, one Man—the God-Man—the source of righteousness. If in the one case we have an evil extending to the whole race of which the one man was the head, so we have in the second case blessing extending to the whole of those of which the God-Man is the head. And if there are, on the one hand, fearful consequences, which God's Word does not shrink from telling us most plainly, so there are, on the other hand, glorious consequences resulting from that one righteousness which spreads to all who are connected with Christ.

THE TERRIBLE CONSEQUENCES.

It is sometimes supposed that those who speak of the terrible consequences of sin—which can never be more plainly expressed than in the words of our Lord, "everlasting punishment," speak with a certain amount of pleasure on the subject, and gloat over that which is most fearful to others. But which is the proper part—the taking up of these things which God's Word declares to be a source of danger, or the shrinking from them? In the Book of Leviticus we are told that no leaven or honey shall be in the meat (or, as in the Revised Version, "meal") offering presented to God. Leaven is the symbol of sin, and no offering must have sin with it. Is not honey the type of that sweetness, "godliness," of human nature, which, when it comes into collision with God's Word, when it runs counter to God's righteousness and holiness, is nothing better than corruption? I think we must set aside all our natural feelings, and ask what God has written. When we find a warning concerning what is called in the Book of Revelation the second death, we ought to bow and receive the statements, because God has so written them. Adam, being the head of mankind, all of us sinned in him, so that the consequence, death, has come unto all. We are all born in a state of spiritual death. God said to Adam, "In the day thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." Adam did not die, as to the body, until a thousand years after his sin; but spiritual death took place on the very day he sinned. Spiritual death is our heritage, then, and we are born in a state which the Bible describes as "dead in trespasses and sins." Misery, corruption, sorrows, and tears, are part and parcel of this spiritual death in which we are all involved. Scripture goes on, however, to speak of something worse—namely, the second death. That cannot be annihilation, but must be a state for which there is need of solemn warning. This punishment is identified with the lake of fire, into which we read, "whosoever was not found written in the Book of life" was cast. I think it is best for us to leave these solemn statements of God's Word, in their simplicity, to speak for themselves.

It seems to me that if one desires to set forth the propitiation for sin, and the righteousness which God has provided, the message comes as it has been set forth by God Himself, when a commencement is made by recognising the solemn fact of the entrance of sin by the fall of man, the universal extent of sin, and the fearful judgment pronounced upon sin in God's Word. These things realised, we are prepared to hear of the propitiation for sin, and to value it.

God and Sin.

By Rev. TALBOT GREAVES.

When we contemplate the moral government of God, two great mysteries meet us—the one the mystery of the fall of the innocents, and the other the mystery of the salvation of the fallen. It is with the latter that I have now to deal. I assume as a fact the fall of man, and the consequent guilt and utter corruption of his whole family, and that in the natural course of things punishment follows sin. I am not one of those who take it for granted that in the nature of things salvation must come to all men. I regard salvation as great salvation, as no easy and facile work, but so difficult that the righteous scarcely are saved; while, as regards the unrighteous, we can only ask, with trembling lips, "Where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear?" So we meet the great question—How shall man escape the just consequences of his sin? The answer is found in the fact that God hath set forth Jesus Christ to be "a propitiation through faith in his blood, to declare his righteousness for the remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God,...that He might be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus."

I ask first, why is a propitiation for sin needed? Let us understand clearly for what it is not needed. It is not needed in order to procure for us the love of God. Socinians charge us with teaching that we owe to the death of Christ the love of the Father—after representing God the Father under a horrible Siberian aspect, as a wild beast thirsting for blood, implacable and destitute of love, until propitiated by the blood of his Son. It is a wicked libel. We see God as eternally loving his creatures, and sending his Son to open the way for the exercise of his love. People like to misrepresent the doctrine of the atonement, in order to say something against it. So far from being indebted to the work of Christ for the love of the Father, we are indebted to the love of the Father for the work of Christ. That work was not needed to persuade an unwilling Judge to pardon us, but to enable a willing Judge righteously to pardon us. Our word to the sinner is: Do not suffer a lingering thought that God hates you to keep you from Him. God hates sin, but He loves you, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for your sins. We entreat you not to harbour any fear that, notwithstanding the atoning work of Christ, there is enmity in the heart of God towards you. He loves you, and because He loves you, He sent his Son to die for you.

PENALTY A PROOF OF LOVE.

If propitiation is not needed to make God love us, and if neither our sin nor his Divine justice have extinguished his love, then, it may be asked, Why should more than repentance be required on the sinner's part to ensure the free and lavish forgiveness of God? We answer, that to love a culprit does not mean to embrace him, and to be reconciled to him. The father of a son who is living a life of crime continues to love that son, but he cannot, without being participator in his crime, embrace him, and be reconciled to him. And so, in our natural state, alienated from the life of God through the ignorance within us, enemies of God through wicked works, God loves us, but He cannot be reconciled to us. The enmity, however, is altogether on our side. On God's side it is just disapprobation, displeasure, and wrath against sin. And so, in order that God might embrace evil offenders, "while we were yet sinners Christ died for us." Fallen in Adam, fallen in sin, deserving, according to the law of righteousness, everlasting damnation, God in his infinite mercy, instead of allowing his just wrath to take its course, and consign the whole human race to endless misery, in company with the fallen angels, interposed an arrest of judgment. This interposition was not, however, in order to do an unrighteous thing—that would be far from God; nor was it to gratify his love at the expense of his justice, but it was to open a way in which his love might righteously embrace us.

The question which we hear asked so often—Why could not God pardon sin merely upon the repentance of the sinner, without an atonement?—would never be asked were it not that men shut out of view altogether the position of God as the righteous Ruler and Judge of the universe. Remember that the Scripture says, "Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever; a sceptre of righteousness is the sceptre of Thy kingdom." My whole moral nature rejects as simply impossible any forgiveness which ignores God's law, which obscures God's justice, and which enfeebles God's rule. Whatever the infinite love of God may permit Him to do, the Holy One and the Just will do, and the whole intelligent universe will acknowledge that while in punishing sin God's love is never absent from his justice, so in forgiving sin his justice is never absent from his love.

GOD MUST VINDICATE HIMSELF.

Propitiation is needed for the sake of the justice and truth of God. But more than that, it is needed for the protection of God's unfallen creatures. This is a very important feature of the atonement, which has been brought out very strikingly by Mr. Arthur in one of the "Present-Day Tracts." It is needed for the protection of God's unfallen creatures. What God might do if he had to deal with one solitary offender in the midst of an unpeopled universe, I do not know; but, as a fact, God has to deal with a holy and unfallen family as well as man. If He were, in a single instance, to allow his authority to be defied with impunity, his law to be violated, on the maintenance of which the whole order of the whole universe depends, a most disastrous precedent would be set up. If God were to extend pardon on mere repentance without an atonement, would it not be just as good as saying, "I do not ask for your love or your hate; your obedience or your disobedience are nothing to me; it is no part of my office to regulate your conduct towards me or one another; if you do wrong, I shall not punish you, and if right I shall not reward you; I abolish reward and punishment throughout the whole of my dominions." What a terrible temptation that would be to the righteous! What a fearful encouragement to transgressors! I believe that the opposition which is so widespread to the doctrine of the propitiatory sacrifice of Christ rests upon the idea that punishment is cruel. Excessive punishment or unjust punishment is cruel, but not punishment itself. It is part of the duty of a judge to punish wrong-doing for the protection of those who do right.

Next, I ask, what is required in a propitiation? As it is to reconcile God and man, He who is our propitiation must be God and man. Only in the infinite resources of Jehovah can such a propitiation he found. The Eternal Son of God took our nature, and bore the penalty of sin. As man, he felt it with extremest bitterness; as representative Man, substitute for the guilty, he deserved it with extremest righteousness; but as God-Man He was able to sustain and exhaust the wrath of God. The wrath was exhausted, and then the righteousness of Jehovah's government was secured. The arms of God's mercy were then opened to sinners, and now God is just, and strictly just, and a free, unconditional Justifier of the ungodly that believe in Jesus.

UNITY OF THE FATHER AND THE SON.

In viewing the Lord Jesus as the propitiation for our sins, we must never lose sight of his eternal, essential oneness with the Father. The Lord Jesus Christ was not an innocent creature taking the place of guilty ones. He was not a distinct and separate Divine Being, subjected by another separate and Divine Being to the punishment of our transgressions. He was essentially and eternally one with his Father, so that when "the chastisement of our peace was upon Him," it was not that God was laying the punishment upon someone else, but he was laying it upon Himself. If, when we see the eternal Father accepting, as the price of our redemption, the tears, and sighs, and groans, and blood of his own eternal Son; receiving what it must have been bliss to want and misery to have; if our moral sense recoils from such a transaction, and we are almost ready to say, No, not at such a cost; not by putting the punishment of my sins upon thy innocent Son will I accept heaven and the boon of my own forgiveness, then that Eternal Son draws near, and He hushes all these thoughts, for He says, "I and my Father are one."

As to the effect of the propitiation upon the heart of the sinner, sin puts on an aspect of exceeding sinfulness when it is seen to be pardoned through the blood of Jesus, such an aspect as it never can put on in the eyes of those who look to be pardoned simply upon repentance.

THURSDAY EVENING.

The Spirit of the Age.

By Rev. Dr. BRUCE.

At the outset, Dr. Bruce (who is chairman of the Congregational Union) said he had come a long distance, and from numerous pressing duties, to show his hearty concurrence and sympathy with the Evangelical Alliance in this public testimony to the central, catholic, and fundamental truths of the Gospel. He did not speak with any official authority, as Chairman of the Union, but simply as a servant and minister of Christ. At the same time he expressed the strong conviction that the great body of their Congregational ministers and churches are sound in the faith; individuals here and there may have departed from it, but the churches, as a mass, remained faithful.

Proceeding to deal with the topic of the Inspiration, Authority and Sufficiency of the Scriptures, he said no one can read carefully the literature of the present day without feeling that there has set in, in different quarters in the Christian churches, a tendency to depart more or less from a simple and strong faith in Scripture. Those who would defend orthodox truth must be prepared to meet with obloquy, and to have offensive adjectives hurled at them. As an illustration of this, Dr. Bruce quoted an extract from an article in The Westminster Review, in which the writer said that the exponents of the popular faith are either so intellectually dull that they cannot master the logical effects of recent criticism, and are unable to realise the spirit of the age in which they live, or else their moral sensibilities are so blunt that they perceive no moral incongruity in the advocacy of opinions they do not hold, in any ordinary and conventional sense. If this charge, said the speaker, be in accordance with the so-called spirit of the age, it is not a spirit either of charity or of truth. There seems to be at the present time not only a decay of dogma, but of real living faith. Some churches and individuals are shifting and drifting away from the old moorings, dragging the anchor with them. If Christianity were ever to be destroyed (which it never can be), it would not be avalanches that come down from the high icy mountains of infidelity, or by any attack from the enemy, but from foes within its own household. Therefore, it behoves all Christian men to rally round the Gospel, and to bear their united testimony in favour of the truth.

PREJUDICED CRITICS.

A writer in the Psalms asks: If the foundations be destroyed, what shall the righteous do? What are the foundations of the Christian faith? There may be collateral foundations in the existence of the Church, and in the testimony of God in the individual conscience; but the main foundations are in Holy Scripture. Dr. Bruce proceeded to complain that agnostic and unbelieving critics do not treat the Bible with reverence, charity, or justice. They do not even record to it the same respect, or treat it with the same equity, that people extend to ordinary books. They seem to come to it with a desire to find flaws, and, when they do find any real or fancied imperfections, they maliciously rejoice. Like the Sadducees of old, they "err, not knowing the Scripture nor the power of God." Anyone who comes to it with unprejudiced mind, and will read it carefully and sympathetically, will soon find that it is like no other book in the world, and that it carries with it its own credentials.

Without defining inspiration Dr. Bruce mentioned the common belief of the Churches that the Scriptures are inspired, not in the sense in which all good books and all good men are inspired of God, but that it is specially and supernaturally inspired, so as to secure accuracy and to reveal to us the secrets of the Divine mind. He contended that the inspiration of the Old Testament is amply shown by our Lord's endorsement of it, and by the fact that many of the passages most precious in meeting the case of anxious enquirers, and troubled souls, and believers in the sick chamber, are found in Christ. Where in all our Christian hymnology is there anything to surpass the twenty-third Psalm? The Old Testament is the foundation of the whole structure, and we cannot understand the New apart from it. There is a unity in the whole Bible, running through from Genesis to Revelation.

Then its inspiration implies its authority. We defend the authority of Scripture, not merely because it is Scripture, but also because it commends itself to our conscience and reason, as in the sight of God, to be true. It is not to be regarded merely as a conglomeration of writings produced in different ages, but it embodies the revealed will of God, and therefore comes to us with all the weight and sanction of authority.

A WILL O' THE WISP.

We are sometimes told that we must interpret the Bible in accordance with the spirit of the age. What is the spirit of the age, and where are we to catch that will-o'-the-wisp? Is it to be found on some Christian platform, in the pulpit, in the press, or on the stage? Is it to be found in certain publications in Paternoster-row, or does it emanate from such eloquent lips as those of Canon Liddon in St. Paul's? Does it dwell at the repository of the Bible Society in Queen Victoria street, or does it only penetrate into the offices of certain papers in Fleet-street or Ludgate-hill? Surely, if it be so difficult to catch, this spirit of the age cannot be an infallible guide. We do not believe in an infallible Pope, or an infallible Church, and so we are driven to find an anchorage in the truth of God as revealed in the Scripture, and as manifested in Him who is the Eternal Word. Holding the inspiration and authority of the Bible, we also hold to its sufficiency, and are prepared to further its circulation in our churches and throughout the world. Let us hold fast by it; let us obey its precepts; and let there be no contradiction between the spirit and manner of our life and the spirit of this blessed Book.

The Righteousness of Christ.

By Rev. TALBOT GREAVES.

Men in their natural state are not only not righteous in God's sense, but are far from it. They do not even know what it means, and it is enough for them if they stand well with their fellow-men, and are free from what society calls crimes or misdemeanours. This was the position of Saul of Tarsus; but when the light of God came into his soul, he saw things in God's light. "When the commandment came, sin revived, and I died." He became as nothing in his own estimation, and felt himself to be a miserable sinner. We are all in the same condition, and what we need to learn is that God, in and by his Son Jesus Christ, has wrought out a perfect righteousness for us. So the righteousness which God requires, God Himself provides. He takes the place of the offender, that He may bring the offender to stand in his place. He becomes the accursed thing, which is sin, in order that man may become that blessed thing, the righteousness of God. That is the whole story of God's wonderful redemption. Christ took our nature, and was subject to all its infirmities and temptations. Yet He was without sin; not a movement of his will that was not in accordance with the Divine will, and in harmony with the Divine mind. His whole life was a perfect response to the will of God—that is the righteousness of Christ. Observe that it is called in Scripture the righteousness of God, for the righteousness of Christ rests on the Godhead of Christ. Take away his Divinity, and the glory of his righteousness fades away like the golden light from the sunset sky. But since He is "Immanuel, God with us," his righteousness, like his atonement, has an infinite value.

Being thus the righteousness of the God Man it is incapable of addition. No works of the regenerated man can contribute one iota to his acceptance before God. It were folly, impiety, and blasphemy in us to say that it can. To the very last, even to the verge of eternity, and ripe for glory, for justification, the believer stands on exactly the same level before God as the veriest sinner, who, with the trembling hand of faith, has just put on the robe of Christ's righteousness. It is, therefore, God's work alone, and, because it is God's, it is perfect. "Blessed is the man to whom the Lord imputeth not iniquity." The Lord imputes, reckons, to the poor sinner the righteousness of Jesus Christ, so that we can say, "He hath clothed me with the garment of salvation, with the robe of righteousness."

The medium through which this righteousness is apprehended and received is our faith. "Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to everyone that believeth." Our faith is the hand that appropriates, and the arm that embraces Christ. By faith Christ, and I the chief of sinners, are made one in the sight of God, and I am therefore counted righteous in Christ.

After an earnest Gospel appeal to any who as yet knew nothing of these glorious saving truths, Mr. Greaves closed with a word of caution as to the distinction that must be observed between justifying righteousness and personal holiness. If this is not observed, the soul is sure either to get into the old spirit of bondage and fear, or to land in the system of perfectionism, which can only be truly described as a state of spiritual stagnation. The life of holiness is a life of continuous struggle—a stemming of the stream. Christians are sometimes told that they are not to struggle to be holy, but are to float. If they do, they will inevitably float down the stream, and not up. Holiness and righteousness are jumbled up together in many of the writings of the present day in a most extraordinary way. What is important truth, when spoken of justifying righteousness, is delusive and dangerous error when applied to personal holiness. Justification is the work of Christ done and finished for us; sanctification is the work of the Holy Spirit begun, continued, and carried on within us. The one is our title to glory; the other is our meetness for it. As Robert McCheyne said: "Christ for us is all our righteousness before a holy God; Christ in us is all our strength in an unholy world."

Gathering up the Threads.

By Rev. G. STRINGER ROWE.

I HAD designed to speak on "The Holy Ghost, the Author and Sustainer of Spiritual Life," but in the course of a conversation with one of the Secretaries of the Evangelical Alliance, Mr. A. J. Arnold, he mentioned that, as I spoke at the close of an important series of meetings for united testimony on the fundamental truths of the Gospel, it would be well that I should endeavour to gather up, as it were, the threads of the valuable addresses which have been delivered by our honoured brethren.

A DEMONSTRATION OF UNITY.

Some may ask, now that these meetings have been held, what good has come of them? I reply, they have furnished a demonstration of the unity of Christians in all the great central truths of their faith, showing that the Lord's disciples are one, notwithstanding freedom of difference in minor particulars. The unity, indeed, is the more impressively manifested when it is seen to be unhindered by these differences.

It has been amply proved that there are those who will continue to teach and uphold the foundation truths of the Gospel without abatement or concealment, and without concession to the shifting fashions of surrounding thought and opinion. And that these truths are sacredly precious to multitudes has been witnessed by the thousands who have taken part in the meetings which are now drawing to a close.

The position which has been taken is one of firm and confident protest against the doctrine that the faith of God's holy religion in Christ Jesus must be expected to undergo change in the course of years, or that it is now in process of a development dependent upon varying circumstances of man's life, or advances in man's philosophic or scientific knowledge.

NO RUDIMENTARY GOSPEL.

The Gospel, in the very nature of it, as a Gospel of God, could not have been flung, in a germinal or rudimentary form, into the midst of human thought and habit, pride, and passion, to take its chance of development. What system of faith might at last emerge from such a medley of influences, presents, doubtless, a very interesting subject of conjecture, with such light as is thrown upon it by religious systems which have grown up under these conditions. But we have maintained, and still hold, that God's revelation of man's deliverance from sin, and restoration to Himself, came into the world in Christ Jesus complete and unalterable, and we repeat that, in the very nature of it, the Gospel, to be a Gospel at all, could have come in no other way.

We affirm that there is abundant evidence to show that the doctrines of the Gospel were received in the beginning as we hold them today; and that the reception of them was followed by precisely the same results. So also we have now the daily accumulating evidence that, amidst the utmost diversities of clime, and peculiarities of race, language, habits, environment, the Gospel, without being itself modified or adapted, is everywhere "the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth."

The Reformation did not, as some like to affirm, develop or discover the doctrine of justification by faith. The Reformation uncovered it, and recued it from the concealment in which it had lain hidden for ages, buried under the superstitions and vain traditions of men. No; whenever the Gospel has been subjected to the influences of development—and, unfortunately, examples are by no means lacking—the result has, without exception, been a progress towards its destruction.

ATONEMENT A CENTRAL DOCTRINE.

We may profitably look again, for a moment, at the very central doctrine of the atonement of the Lord Jesus Christ, around which all other elements of the Gospel cluster, so that, if this be taken away, you have not merely altered an important feature of the Gospel, you have actually disintegrated and destroyed it. Searching, now, the Gospel revelation to learn what this atonement is, we find it set forth that the Son of God, being made Man, did, as such, fulfil all righteousness, and, bearing the sins of the mankind of which He formed a part, suffered death on their behalf, and in their stead, thereby offering a redeeming and atoning sacrifice, and becoming "a Propitiation for the whole world;" whereby God, who gave the sacrifice, made it possible for Him to "be just, and the justifier of Him that believeth in Jesus."

There are those who tell us, and sometimes in language which seems to us terribly profane, that they are shocked and repelled by this doctrine. We have not, in these testimonies of ours, been trying to make apology for the doctrine. Our position is, that you cannot have this Gospel without it. God's foundation-stone must be a stone of stumbling and a rock of offence to all who refuse to build upon it. There is no vainer or more ill-judged attempt possible than that which tries to make it otherwise. The doctrine of sacrificial atonement by the blood of Christ is interwoven in the whole texture of evangelical truth.

I know not where to find such fatally misused ingenuity as you may sometimes see spent upon the obstinate attempt to compel the plain words of the New Testament Scriptures on this point to bear a meaning wholly different from their manifest sense. Consider the fact that the Gospel was first taught to Jews. To their minds, such terms as atonement, propitiation, blood of atonement, sacrifice, passover, the lamb slain, could convey only one meaning, that of a substitutionary offering by death for sin. As they heard the words, no alternative meaning could possibly suggest itself to them. Those, then, who think it necessary to explain away a great difficulty from the Gospel teaching find themselves confronted by a far greater. They must vindicate those who communicated the Gospel revelation, and the Son of God Himself, against the charge of having used language that of necessity conveyed a meaning wholly different from that which they intended.

AN IMPERIAL STANDARD.

When St. Jude wrote, "Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you and exhort you that ye should earnestly contend for the faith once delivered unto the saints," can it be imagined that he had in his mind the possibility of that faith needing to be modified as the fashion of men's thought changed? "Once delivered to the saints"—no words could be made stronger or more clear to describe an imperial standard of truth set up once for all and unalterable, to which men should come back in all years afterwards, to test and adjust their own measurements of truth.

These meetings of ours have been a gathering of the tribes around the original and unchangeable standard of the truth. We have joined together to protest against any tampering with it, believing that there is much in the present time which peculiarly calls for such protest. And we have solemnly, and joyfully, pledged ourselves to abide faithful, by the grace of God, to the Word of God.

And now, as this demonstration of united "testimony to the cardinal truths of the Gospel" comes to an end, the question presses upon us, How can we best continue its influence, and go on to secure the great end it has had in view? We cannot be always or frequently demonstrating after this fashion. Neither, if it were possible, would it be a thing to be desired.

LET THE TESTIMONY SPREAD.

But that which we have now been doing centrally, cannot we do in many ways locally? Have not these meetings deepened the conviction in our minds that, upon a common ground of faith, there should be shown forth a loving community of brotherhood? Shall we not, giving free exercise to the instinct of our common life, use all opportunities of proving that we are one in Christ, with a unity which does not depend upon uniformity of church system, or even of creed in lesser matters, a unity which no such system or creed is permitted to hinder in its frank, full, and thankful recognition of "all them that love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity"? Let the world have no just occasion to say that our practice contradicts our profession, and that we suffer subordinate things to neutralise the uniting force of the faith in which we declare that we are all one, not alone by community of opinion, but by oneness of life and love.

Then, we must surely go forth hence, girding ourselves with renewed stedfastness of purpose to maintain and guard the one unchanging truth of God in his holy Gospel. We call upon all who are set as teachers of Christian truth to be faithful herein, even as we ourselves purpose, by the grace of our Lord, and the ever-present help of the Holy Spirit, to abide faithful. And we especially exhort those who are conscious of the flattering charm of the demand which calls upon them to secure the credit of purveying something new in religious faith; which makes them the tempting promise, that philosophy, and science, and modern thought shall all speak well of them, on the condition that they grade their teachings so as to bring them to the level of what the day's fashion pronounces to be wise and true: let such day by day renew their trust at his feet from whom they hold their sacred commission, and take their message from Him alone, in cheerful hope that, though many revile them and affect to despise their word, they shall at the end give up their mandate, loyally observed, into the hands that gave it, saying, "I have finished my course; I have kept the faith."

EVERY BELIEVER A WITNESS.

Not only official teachers, but every believer, in his own place and calling, is set for the defence of the Gospel. Let each of us faithfully protest against the strange popular infatuation, that because a man is clever, learned, and brilliant, therefore, his infidelity to the Gospel is to be condoned; that any man's genius confers upon him a licence to trifle with the truth of God. Let us jealously shut out from our homes all religious literature which avowedly opposes itself to the teaching of the Word of God. There is no more narrowness and bigotry in this policy than there is in the caution which you use to keep poisonous adulterations from the food provided for your home table.

Above all, and in order that our testimony to the truth may be steady and effectual, we must let that truth have full possession of our own selves. Its sway within our own secret lives must be supreme and undisputed. They who can offer their own personal knowledge and experience in evidence, while their testimony is enforced by the abundance of the fruit of the Spirit in their lives, are rendering the best of all service to the maintenance of the truth; and it is a service as fully within the reach of the least and the feeblest, as of the most gifted.

Let these things be to us no abstract propositions, no mere theories of religion, or only creed articles of a dead orthodoxy, but let them be to us of all realities the most living and real: that we "were the slaves of sin," in condemnation and darkness, with the wrath of God abiding on us, but that by the grace of the Holy Spirit we "obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine which was delivered" us; we accepted in penitence and obedient trust the Gospel which showed us Jesus Christ the Son of God, given by the Father's love to bear our sins by the shedding of his most precious blood in sacrifice for us; and in Him "we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of his grace;" that in Him all are made righteous, and, by the administration of the Holy Spirit, prove that Christ Jesus is "of God made unto us wisdom, and righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption;" that "the life we now live in the flesh, we life by the faith of the Son of God, who loved us and gave Himself for us;" that we are now the sons of God; and we walk, day by day, in the certain hope that, "when Christ, who is our life, shall appear then shall we also appear with Him in glory."

Against such testimony faithfully upheld, however weak in itself the hand that upholds it, the powers of darkness hurl themselves in vain.

A GOOD WORK AT PONTYMOILE, near Pontypool, is carried on by Mr. Thomas M. Wintle, amongst the miners and labouring population, which has been attended with great blessing. There are offshoots of the work in three other districts, comprising ragged schools, evangelistic and temperance services, Bible carriage and colportage work, visitation by a Bible-woman, and the feeding of the destitute. The distress which prevails is very painful to witness. We regret to learn that the work is hampered financially, over £60 being needed to set it free from present liabilities. Mr. Thomas Wintle, the superintendent, works hard and deserves generous support.

A VOICE FROM JAMAICA.—In a letter, dated Spanish Town, January 31, Mr. Alfred Brown says:—"About two years ago I remember reading an appeal for prayer and hymn-books for the Lepers' Home, Spanish Town. I little thought then that I would have the joy of regularly visiting this place. The Lepers' Home is now well provided with prayer and hymn-books, and it would make the hearts of the givers glad to hear how heartily the inmates join in the service. It would take me too long to describe the heartrending sights I witness in this place. I should like some tracts. I visit the hospital, almshouse, and gaol, once a week, and many a time I would like to leave a tract with the poor sufferers, but cannot. Many are the tears that are shed as I tell of the Saviour's love." Mr. Brown's address is Monk-street, Spanish Town, Jamaica.

THE MESSAGES OF ST. PAUL.

Salutations of Paul to the Church at Rome, sent by Phœbe, servant of the Church at Cenchrea.—ROM. xvi.

"He gave some to be apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, unto the work of ministering, unto the building up of the body of Christ."—EPH. iv. 11.

PHŒBE, thy work was great indeed,
Thy faith shone clear and bright;
"A succourer of many" thou,
Christ's service thy delight.
By thee, to each dear saint by name,
A recognition 's given
Of something borne or done for Him
Who sits enthroned in heaven.

How sweetly the Apostle owns
Each joint and band that bound
The saints at Rome in holy love,
As in one body found.
Priscilla and Aquila greet,
My helpers in the Lord,
Who for my life laid down their neck;
Our thanks to them accord.

To Epænetus, well-beloved,
Achaia's firstfruits, give
My salutation in the Lord;
For him 'tis Christ to live.
'Tis not of Paul that we would be,
Though honoured is his name,
But of Paul's Christ, his Lord and ours,
Eternally the same.

Greet Mary, who bestowed on us
Much labour, saith the word.
What deep emotions fill the heart
When that sweet name is heard.
There comes an echo of the past
"A good work she has wrought";
It was a Mary who in love
The fragrant spikenard brought.

She brake the box that held the nard:
Its use for her was done;
Christ filled her heart, she lived to Him
God's ever blessed Son.
And so where'er the Gospel sounds,
This deed which she hath wrought,
Shall through the world be told of her,
With holy teaching fraught.

To those of note Paul greeting sends,
Who were in Christ ere he,
His friends and kinsmen who believed
And laboured faithfully.
Greet Amplias beloved in Christ;
In Christ all love endures;
Love out of Christ will pass away
With that which it allures.

"Love that which you may love for aye"
Was wisely said of yore.
Love that's of Christ its level finds
On yonder blissful shore.
This love can bind the tend'rest hearts,
It is a threefold cord,
Oh, happy they who, loving, love
Each other in the Lord.

Urbane, Stachys, Paul would greet,
His helpers much beloved;
Thus would we ever mindful be
Of saints far off removed.
For though we many members are
We but one body make,
United to a Living Head
And of his life partake.

"Apelles, the approved in Christ,"
Thy record is on high;
Yet to our hearts this tribute breathes
Of holy ministry.
"Approved in Christ," oh, rather this Than all earth's sculptured praise;
"Approved in Christ," oh, let the thought,
Our tone of service raise.

A household in the Lord, how sweet!
Narcissus, thou could'st say,
Like Joshua, thy house, with thee,
Would serve the Lord alway.

How precious, when we bend in prayer,
To name our brethren dear,
And ask that each by God be blessed,
In his appointed sphere.

Tryphena and Tryphosa were Much honoured for their love;
The work they wrought in simple faith,
Is registered above;
These women laboured in the Lord,
Themselves they sought to hide;
The savour of their work doth still Within the Church abide.

Beloved Persis, Paul salutes,
Who laboured much indeed;
And Rufus chosen in the Lord,
Of whom the Church had need.
And now there follow other saints
Dear to the heart of Paul,
Members of Christ, the Living Head,
Fruit-bearing branches all.

Their work on earth is ended now,
The Spirit saith "they rest"—
Where Jesus is, our loved ones go,
And are for ever blessed.
They know no more of pain or care,
Their tears are wiped away,
The Lamb who loved them is their song,
And their eternal stay.

Torquay. ELIZABETH BRAUND.

AFRICAN MISSIONS.

SIR,—Letters have again come from my son, F. S. Arnot, dated June 5, 1887, from the Garanganzi country, or Katanga mentioned by Dr. Livingstone. He enjoys good health, and is able to take frequent journeys to many villages surrounding; he finds a very much deeper interest in his Gospel message, and he enjoys the entire confidence of the king and his people. On one occasion, when on a journey of three weeks, he met with a narrow escape from a lion. On hearing the growl of the lion the man who was in front stopped, but was urged to go on, and my son tried to prevent the three lads who were behind from stopping, but too late to prevent the lion's charge. "He made straight for the last lad, who was carrying my mat and blanket. I ran back instantly, and succeeded in intercepting him, so that he fell short in his spring, a few feet from his intended victim and before my very face, too near indeed for shooting with a rifle, and I had no spear. The men and lads had gone off like deers, and left me and my royal friend alone in the reed thicket, and face to face. For a moment it was a question as to what the next scene would be. He was raging, and would fain have sprung at me, but seemed to lack the nerve. I held him hard between my eyes and slowly cocked my rifle, lifting it to my shoulder at the same time for a steady aim, when he suddenly broke. His huge tail dropped, he drew his teeth in under his lips, and made off. I sprang after him at once, hoping to get a shot at a safer range, but the grass was so dense I did not succeed in sighting him again" . . .

Then he adds: "You see that Daniel's God is still the same to us." A native remarked to one of his own tribe, "that he would go anywhere with such a white man who would throw his own body in between a lion and a black lad of no account."—I am, &c.,

54, York-street, Glasgow. W. ARNOT.

MISSION TO DEEP SEA FISHERMEN.—The Worshipful Company of Goldsmiths have made a grant of £50 to the Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen, 181, Queen Victoria-street, E.C.

REFORMED CHURCH OF ENGLAND.—Christ Church, West Kensington-park, W., formerly occupied by the Vicar of St. Matthew's, Kensington, has been taken by Bishop Richardson, and will now be used as a Reformed Episcopal Church.

TRIPOLI and the SOUDAN.

My Kabyle friend, Oubouktouch, of whom I bought a piece of land to put up the mission house in Kabylia, asked me, "Is not the Sultan of Stamboul one of the greatest monarchs in the world?" "No," I replied, "he is gradually losing all his possessions."—The River Euphrates, which symbolises that political power through which it flows, has been drying up in our days. The Turkman host, which sallied from the Euphrates a mighty power to devastate the West, as described in the sixth trumpet, is in its turn to be devastated, dried up under the sixth vial, and this is being accomplished likewise in our days. One by one the Sultan has lost his hold; Greece, Moldavia, Wallachia, have broken loose; then, again, Algiers, Egypt, Tunis, are detached, and more recently Bulgaria, Bosnia, Servia, Montenegro, Eastern Roumelia, are no longer under his power, and to these may be added Cyprus.

Along the north coast of Africa nothing remains of Barbary and Turkish domination but Morocco (on which the Sultan has a very feeble hold), Tripoli, and Cyrenaica, and these powers will doubtless follow the fortunes of the rest.

In Morocco missionary work has at length had a beginning for the Mohammedans, but no Protestant missionary is found for the two latter. It would seem that here, as in other places where difficulties exist, whether from the authorities or the people, the most likely means of overcoming them would be by a medical mission; but then it remains to be seen if this would be allowed without the permission of the Sultan, as impediments have arisen elsewhere.

Tripolitana extends from the sea coast down to Fezzan, and has a population something above a million. Tripoli itself contains 40,000, and is represented by 30,000 Mussulmans, 6000 Jews, 3000 Maltese, 600 Italians, 100 Greeks, 150 French-Algerians, and outside a considerable number of negroes in the oasis surrounding the city, and perhaps 30,000 Turkish soldiers encamped on the sea-shore.

Tripoli, as seen on approaching it from the sea, offers a picturesque and imposing aspect—its white houses, grouped behind its ancient walls, surmounted by elegant minarets, and palm trees produce a pleasing effect. On one side of the town is the Pasha's palace, and on the other a modern fort defending the entry of the port. In that port is anchored a man-of-war under the command of a Turkish admiral. A considerable number of troops command the town, which have been reinforced lately. A charming oasis of palms and olive trees surrounds Tripoli at a distance of about ten miles. ("La Tripolitaine." Par Marc Fournel. Challamel, Paris.)

Amongst the foreign population of the town must be included the Italian Franciscan Friars and Sisters, who have schools both for boys and girls; they have a church at Bengazi. The consuls of England, France, Germany, Austria, Italy, Holland, Spain, Greece, and Belgium, form a little friendly community apart, and are cast on one another's sympathies for agreeable intercourse.

Three great magazines erected by Englishmen for the alfa trade are on the sea coast. In the evening the population, with the exception of the native women, have their promenade by the sea. The streets are straight and tolerably roomy, the houses whitewashed, the Jewish quarter very dirty. It possesses a very fair hotel, and two or three humbler ones. The country though hot is healthy. The oasis above referred to is a charming place, with its magnificent palm trees, some even 100 feet in height, their heads in the burning sun, their roots in the water. The dates afford food to men, horses, camels, and dogs. In the towns the food of the people is the invariable couscous, strongly seasoned with red pepper.

The negroes inhabiting the oasis are from all parts of the interior. Brought in as slaves by the caravans, and not having been sold en route, they have been permitted to claim their certificate of freedom from the authorities of Tripoli; and, despairing of the three or four months' journey back across the desert, they have remained on the spot, living as in their own countries, inhabiting huts of alfa or made of branches of trees, speaking, of course, very various tongues. One has to be there, in the midst of this magnificent oasis, with its spreading palm trees, its gardens, and little artificial rivulets, under a golden sun and a blue heaven, to feel the poetry of life, and its perfect contrast to the bustle, cupidity, and ambition of our large towns. And, going outside to the sandy plain looking towards Cyrenaica, we are in the veritable desert, where sea, sand, and sky meet, producing on the observer, with so few lines, an indefinable impression of endless space and solitary grandeur, absolutely awe-inspiring.

But these poor negroes and these various nationalities mixed up with the thousands of Mussulmans have no one near them to speak of the boundless love and grace of God; no Christians of Cyrene again to announce the resurrection of Jesus, and life through his name. Here, too, we may get access to the wandering Touaregs, although, at the moment, the state of warfare between them and the Turks causes a sensible interruption to the caravan traffic with the south, which is entirely in their hands, and which proceeds from Tripoli to the three destinations of Bournou, Wadai, and Zender. The trade of Tripoli would be destroyed if they did not come to an understanding with the Touaregs, who claim the power of protection to all caravans passing through their territory, and the reasonable recompense attending it.

ROUTES TO THE SOUDAN.

The northern issues of the caravan traffic from Rhat and Rhadames are impeded, but not that from Ouargla and Ain Salah in the south of Algeria. Rhadames is a town of 10,000 inhabitants, where the Touaregs are hospitably entertained. The caravan from hence proceeds to Bournou, a negro town about four times the size of Tripoli, surrounded by walls, and having seven gates; this route passes by Mourzouk, where an important market is held, and which for a long time had a resident, an English political agent, to prevent the slave trade.

The caravan for the negro kingdom of Wadai, follows the same route to the limits of Fezzan, and at some distance from Gartrome organises a fresh caravan; and, entering the desert, passes through the country of Tibbous. At Ghelta there is a Zaouia of the Senoussi, where it is stopped, and a profession of the Mussulman faith is demanded; and, on refusal, the goods are confiscated and further progress barred, the same proof of orthodoxy is demanded at Boucha, the capital of Wadai, and it is necessary to recite the Fahtha. The widespread influence of the Senoussi fraternity assumes very threatening proportions as they aim at closing the route to the Soudan against all but the faithful, as they have done at Bengazi, where they have more influence than the Turkish Padishah representing the separate villages of Cyrenaica.

The caravan from southern Soudan to Kado and Zender proceeds on the ordinary route as far as Sebaâh, a little walled town, at which the caravans for Wadai and Bournou stop, they then proceed through a mountainous country to Air, where Barth and his companions stayed eight months; here they must obtain the protection of the Touareg chief of Bolhrou, a little town, seven days distant in the mountains from Air; thence to Damagu, the most busy town of the Kél-oui, and to Zender, a town of the size of Tripoli; on from thence to Kano a town of less importance.

It will appear thus that the dangers and difficulties of penetrating to the Soudan are not greater than in many other parts of Central Africa. The Touaregs have to be subsidised, and, though they have the credit of being ferocious and treacherous, there is a certain nobleness of character about them, which one can take advantage of by the exercise of good judgment and discretion. They are very indifferent Mohammedans, and have been actually termed by Arabs, the Christians of the desert, but the tattoo mark of the cross on the forehead can be only the sfaxira of the East.

The great significance of Tripoli consists in its being one of the principal doors of the Soudan, as it was in Roman times (then starting from Lebda, now in ruins, to the east of Tripoli); but there are other doors open, such as that from Southern Algeria, whence the traffic will be worked, if the Tripoli route is closed. The Pasha of Tripoli positively forbids all travellers access through his own territory, but there is no prohibition through Algeria. The Arabic would seem to be the most valuable language for these parts, and Ain Sefra, Laghouat, Tougourt and Biskra advanced posts, where to meet the caravans proceeding northwards. May the Lord raise up some enterprising young men to evangelise them.

Paris. GEORGE PEARSE.

VILLAGE LIBRARIES.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of November 4, 1886, you kindly inserted an appeal from me for books for Village Libraries. The response was very liberal, and I have as a result opened twelve free Village Libraries, many of them in isolated spots, where in some cases there is no spiritual provision. The results have been most encouraging. Direct blessing has followed in the wake of the libraries. There are five places which now have simple Gospel services regularly once or twice on the Sunday. At one of these, a very benighted, out-of-the-way spot, there were more than a score converted to Christ, over a year ago; all of whom are standing firm, and, I believe, growing in grace.

The system upon which I work these libraries, and which I would commend to workers in villages all over the land, is as follows. Having secured some trustworthy person to take charge of the library, I place 80 to 150 volumes, according to need of village, in a strong cupboard; a good strong case turned up on its end, and the lid hung on hinges as a door, will serve the purpose, if you cannot command the funds for cupboards. Let it be distinctly understood the books are not given to that village, but lent. Connect, say, half a dozen of the villages in your plan, and each summer, when villagers have little time to read, repair, re-cover, renumber, or replace where needed. Thus each cluster of villages, with a little work, and a little yearly addition, will get a distinct change of volumes every year, for six years. At the opening of the library secure a cottage or some building. Invite the people, explain your plan, and make known it is free to all, and that the books will be changed once a week. Have some loving talk with the people about their souls, and thus very often, even at these meetings, hearts are touched. At one such opening, a woman stopped to speak to my wife at the door, and said, "Oh, this is what I want to know—my sins forgiven. Will you come and see me and help me?" I could quote numbers of blessed things as resulting from this effort.

Will your readers help me again? I have many places now in view where libraries are much needed, and I want quite a number of volumes, to supply those already established. While I gladly welcome all sorts of books, or even unbound literature, that may now be on your readers' bookshelves, and which they can spare or sacrifice, I should be specially glad if friends could send me some of "Shaw's Sixpenny Series"; the Religious Tract Society's cheaper publications, and "Horner's Penny Series." In parcels received, there have been many books more fit for workers than general readers. These have been sent in parcels, carriage paid, to poor but devoted workers in various parts, and have been a source of much help and blessing. Will your readers be sure and send packages carriage paid; luggage rail is the cheapest plan, as I have no fund to fall back upon, and the working expenses, including binding of books is a constant, heavy drain. SYDNEY WATSON, Evangelist.

3, Gladstone-terrace, New-rd., Basingstoke, Hants.

THE HEBREW OLD TESTAMENT.

While it is manifestly desirable that translations of the Holy Scriptures should be as accurate as possible, it is unquestionably of the utmost importance that the original text which forms the foundation of all translations, should be pure and complete. Through the labours of a succession of devoted scholars, the Greek text of the New Testament has been cleared of many unauthoritative readings, and reduced to a form which far excels in trustworthiness the text of any classic work of antiquity. On the Hebrew text of the Old Testament, however, much less labour has been expended; yet it is gratifying to know that in recent years, while the "higher criticism" has been trying to pull down, there have not been wanting scholars whose great aim has been to preserve carefully, by reducing the text to its original integrity. Foremost among these has been Rev. Dr. Ginsburg, who for years has devoted his time and talents to collecting manuscripts and examining authorities in many countries. Some of the many results of this well-known scholar's labours are already accessible to the learned, but it is a gratifying fact that Dr. Ginsburg's purpose will not be fully accomplished by the simple publication of the materials of textual criticism.

Dr. Ginsburg is at present actively engaged upon the preparation of a revised text of the Hebrew Scriptures. This work, which will be brought out by the Trinitarian Bible Society, will embody the results of thirty years' toil, and, as it is the first text formed on anything like a full view of the critical materials, it must at once take a first place among Hebrew Bibles. No edition in existence can be said to represent the Massoretic text, which has been so carefully guarded by the Jews. Dr. Ginsburg's object is to supply this very need.

Last year, by way of completing his travels in search of materials, Dr. Ginsburg visited Spain, in company with Rev. Dr. Bullinger, secretary of the Trinitarian Bible Society. A number of very valuable manuscripts were unearthed and examined. At Walthamstow, last week, at a meeting held in St. Stephen's schoolroom, Dr. Ginsburg related the results. Not only did he discover the long-lost printer's copy of what is known as the "Complutensian Polyglot" (1514—1517), but he was able to corroborate some important various readings of Old Testament passages.

There is more warrant than has hitherto appeared for the adoption into the text of certain words which are given in the margin of the Revised Version on Genesis iv. 8; so that we may in future read, "And Cain said unto Abel his brother, Let us go into the field. And it came to pass, when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and slew him."

On Joshua xxi. 36, 37, there is a note in the margin of the Revised Version, from which it appears that the passage is not found in the common Massoretic text. It is interesting to know that all the ancient manuscripts collated by Dr. Ginsburg in Spain—and better manuscripts he has rarely, if ever, had the pleasure to examine—contain the verses, but in a slightly different form, as follows: "And out of the tribe of Reuben, to be a city of refuge for the slayer, Bezer in the wilderness, with her suburbs," &c.

Psalm cxlv. is what is called an Alphabetic Psalm, the verses beginning with the letters of the Hebrew alphabet in their proper order. One verse is missing in the common editions, namely, that beginning with the letter Nun, which should come between 13 and 14. Dr. Ginsburg has found good manuscript authority for a verse similar to one supplied by the ancient versions, and we may read here: "The Lord is faithful in all his words, and holy in all his works."

Those whose delight is in the law of the Lord will pray that Dr. Ginsburg may be blessed with health and strength, so that his important and much-loved labours may have early completion and be owned of God in time to come.

RABBI RABINOWICH.

Mr. Rabinowich, by God's grace, continues to preach to eager Jewish listeners the Gospel of Christ every Sabbath day. The extracts from his addresses which have appeared in England naturally refer chiefly to the national and historical aspects of the truth in its relation to Israel. But in all his addresses the personal experience of salvation by grace, through faith in the Atonement, is the central and moving power of his words. The following passage in an address on Good Friday was communicated to Dr. Saphir by a friend, a German minister, who heard it:—

"It was a mighty flood which covered the earth in the days of Noah, when God destroyed the earth on account of the sins of mankind; but afterwards He set the bow in the clouds. But greater was the flood which rushed upon the heart of the Son of God when He hung upon the cross, for He bore the sin of the world, and He bore also the unfathomable ocean of my sins. And above the dark floods of human sin were the clouds of the Divine wrath; the thunders of his holiness rolled, and Jesus had to pass through the dark depths, when He cried, 'My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?' But above the floods of man's sin, and between the clouds of the Divine wrath I behold the bow of Jesus' love, and the seven words which the Saviour uttered on the cross are as the seven colours of the bow. I have seen the bow in the clouds, and my soul is saved, for this bow is more enduring than even the bow of Noah. For heaven and earth shall pass away, but Christ's words shall not pass away."

THE DUKE OF NORFOLK.

"Pius V. was no sooner settled in that see (of Rome) but he began to practise to unsettle her from her throne (Elizabeth), and to that end (as we are informed by Catena, who was secretary to his nephew, Cardinal Alexandrino, and wrote his life) he employed one Robert Bidolph, a gentleman of Florence, residing here under pretence of merchandise, to engage a party against the Queen (Elizabeth). This he so effectually did, not only among the Papists, but Protestamts also, that the Duke of Norfolk was drawn into the conspiracy, by promise of marriage with the Queen of Scots; and in the meantime he persuaded the Spaniard to assist the conspirators, and at last, to promote the business, sent over Dr. Nic. Morton to certain of the principal English Paptists to denounce the Queen an heretic, and therefore fallen from all power and dominion, and by them to be accounted a heathen and publican, and they dis-obliged from her laws and commands.

"The Duke of Norfolk, Bidolph and others being a little before the insurrection secured upon some suspicions, and so prevented from appearing in the rebellion, the bottom of the business was discovered.

"The Duke of Norfolk was brought to his trial January 16, of the following year, and on June 2, was beheaded!! The Pope, in the meantime (May 1), was called to his trial, and to give his account for these things before a far other supreme throne of justice, than what he pretended himself here placed in (1572)."

[Extracted from a book published in London, 1674, entitled, "A Discourse concerning the Original of the Powder Plot," and conspiracies against Queen Elizabeth, collected out of Thuanus-Davila, Perefix, &c., authors of the Roman Communion.]

YOUNG WOMEN IN RESTAURANTS.

A number of ladies and gentlemen met last week at the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Morton, 10, Endsleigh-gardens, Euston-square, N.W., when information was given respecting the work carried on in connection with the Young Women's Christian Association among the young women employed in London railway refreshment rooms and restaurants. The Hon. Conrad Dillon, who presided, said they were met to hear something about the work at Morley Rooms, carried on by Miss Charlotte Gough. He regarded it as a very happy sign that they had taken up the case of young women in refreshment rooms and restaurants. It might seem to be one of the most hopeless classes at first sight, as many of the young women were unapproachable on the question of temperance. Some people thought that if these young women should be convinced they ought to throw up their employment, but it must be considered that this is not an easy thing for them to do. Their employment is their bread, and few ladies would be willing to take into their houses young women who had come from behind a bar. Miss Gough devoted three days of the week (as well as Sunday, when a Bible-class is held) to the work of the Home, and three days to visiting. He hoped the outcome of that meeting would be that an assistant would be found for Miss Gough. He urged all the friends present to make known the work which was being carried on, as there was much help needed.

Miss Townend gave an address on the temptations of the young women. Drink is one of the greatest difficulties in their way. Some of them enter the bar with a hereditary craving for the drink, and there are many sad stories of ruined lives and broken hearts which have come under notice. Then there is the exposure to midnight hours. She was glad to hear that some of the great railway companies spare no pains in providing for the welfare of the young women engaged in their refreshment rooms. In some firms, however, there is no such care taken, and the young women in their employ are left exposed to all the evils and temptations by which they are surrounded. Personal sympathy is the method to be used to save them from drifting right away.

Mr. D. Marshall Lang spoke upon the question, "How to raise their moral and spiritual tone." He said, until the public took up the matter, little could be done. Earlier closing should be insisted upon, for while they are kept so many hours under baneful influences, and then have to walk the streets hours at which expose them to so much evil, the difficulty of raising their tone will be insurmountable. Mrs. Fletcher spoke very highly of the work carried on by Miss Gough. The Hon. Emily Kinnaird gave some account of the work of the restaurant branch, of which there were agents at work in the West of London, in country districts, and all along the railway lines, as well as in several towns. The work has been commenced in Edinboro' with success, as an outcome of a Convention in November last, when Miss Gough read a paper, urging its necessity. There are 200 members at Morley Rooms, and the Y.W.C.A. would be glad of similar rooms in other parts of London.

Miss Morley is hon. superintendent. She and her brothers, Messrs. Howard and Charles Morley, are generous helpers of the work.

CITY OF LONDON TOTAL ABSTAINERS' UNION.—The tenth annual meeting was held at the Y.M.C.A. lecture hall, Aldersgate-street, on March 22, Mr. Geo. Williams, the president, in the chair. The report showed a large amount of valuable and interesting work during the year, chiefly consisting of holding meetings in the large business establishments of the City. The meeting was addressed by Mr. John Hilton and the Rev. F. A. C. Lillingston. A vote of thanks to the Chairman, the speakers, and the choir was adopted on the motion of Mr. Hind Smith, seconded by Mr. Robert Brown.

THE CROSS.

God forbid that I should glory
Save in Jesus and his cross;
Publishing the wondrous story,
Counting all things else but dross.

Here I worship God descending,
Sharing our most low estate;
Righteousness with mercy blending,
Man to raise and re-create.

God in Christ is reconciling
To Himself a sinful world;
Justice on forgiveness smiling,
Love's bright banner is unfurled.

Here I read "No condemnation,"
Sentence cancelled, pardon free;
Here rejoice in full salvation,
Jesus loved and died for me!

Human praise and fancied merit,
Forms and notions are but loss;
All that my own works inherit
Vanish from before the cross.

Here I find best cure of sadness,
Strength to labour or to wait;
'Midst affliction, peace, and gladness,
Thankful in whate'er estate.

Wounded, find I balm for healing;
Fainting, courage for the fight;
Jesus, heart of God revealing,
Changes weakness into might.

Here I know my guilt forgiven,
Learn to hate and conquer sin;
Foretaste of the joys of heaven,
Christ enthroned my heart within.

Cross of Christ unseals life's fountain,
Drives the darkness, brings the day;
Spans the chasm, moves the mountain
Which would else obstruct the way.

God forbid that I should glory
Save in Jesus and his cross;
Publishing the wondrous story,
Counting all things else but dross.

Newman Hall.

THE GOSPEL IN FRANCE.

The Methodist Evangelistic Mission in France is doing a really good work, earnest evangelists throwing themselves heart and soul into it, counting no toil too great if they may only "save some." Rev. Wm. Gibson writes from 4, Rue Roquépine, Paris:—

"At this moment our Mission is in full revival. During the last few months the attendance has increased largely in most of the halls; the former converts are being strengthened and taught in the faith; and continually fresh souls are being rescued from the errors of Rome and gathered into the Church of Christ.

"Lately, also, La Bonne Nouvelle has been more than ever owned of God, and our hearts have been rejoiced by hearing of instances of good through its distribution.

"A Medical Mission is about to be commenced at Suresnes, where we have a very flourishing cause. The fullest details of the Mission will be given to anyone who will inquire for them."

We are sorry to learn that the work is greatly restricted by lack of means.

REBECCA JARRETT has the offer of undertaking a rescue work in a large seaport town, among the poor low dock population. She will want funds to furnish modestly. Ladies will aid her by counsel and superintendence. It is much to the glory of God that she has been kept steadfast for nearly three years and a half, with terrible trials at times from the persecution of her old friends, from want, and suffering health. We wish her much success in her new Home.

Letters to the Editor.

A "DOWN-GRADE" IN IRELAND.

Sir,—In your excellent biographical notice of the worthy Prelate who presides over the diocese of Dublin, and who is also well known and appreciated over with you in England, there is just one sentence to which, I regret to say, I feel I must take exception: I mean where the writer, alluding to the High Church or Ritualistic movement, says, "The flowing tide of which has as yet scarcely reached the shores of Irish Church life." I shall as briefly as possible, knowing the value of your space, explain why I think the writer has taken a too favourable view of us.

First, we have only one weekly organ of the Church of Ireland, The Gazette. Now, The Gazette on Dec. 4, 1886, said that a man might "fairly" take our Lord's words, "This is my body," literally, and that what he adored under the "species" of bread "was it not shown?" "Species" is the word used in R.C. catechisms, &c., for the outward appearances of the bread, smell, touch, taste, &c., which is not changed after consecration. Well, when this bold statement (which was called "very moderate" in The Church Times) was made, what happened? Many Evangelicals, and even moderate High Churchmen, protested; but they were shut out—boycotted, in fact. Mr. J. H. Nunn, a foremost Churchman and thorough Protestant, attempted to ventilate the matter in the General Synod, in order that some condemnation might be passed; but, no! no one would listen, and the Dean of Connor objected to the Synod noticing The Gazette, &c.

Again, at All Saints' Church, Grangegorman, Dublin, when the late Dr. Maturin, rector, died last autumn, we read in the Dublin papers that the body lay in state in the chancel with candles burning around it, and solemn celebrations of the Eucharist (i.e., masses for the repose of the soul) were frequently offered. The curate (present at all this) was appointed rector by Protestant lay nominators and the diocesan, and everything goes on as before—the Romish-looking altar, processions, &c. And then in Dublin University, a Guild of the Holy Trinity has been formed, whose members follow such practices as the confessional, fasting communions, celibacy of the clergy, fish dinners on Fridays, &c. The leader of this sect was a son of the late Dr. Maturin. These are zealous men who work hard for "conversions" (so-called) to their opinions. And now it is commonly reported that Dean Gwynn, a decided High Churchman, is to be the new Regius Professor of Divinity in Trinity College. He is a warm friend of the "Guild," so we may expect some marked advance under his fostering care.

I could say much more, but fear this is too long already. "Pray for us," that this Popish movement may be checked, and that Lord Plunket's hands may be strengthened in his noble efforts to wage a war against, not only the Popery in Spain and Italy, but that also (which is more insidious) in our Protestant Church.—Yours, T. C. D.

SCOTCH GIPSY AND VAN CHILDREN.

Sir,—The following particulars will give some idea of the wretched lives the poor gipsy and van children in Scotland are living. At Aberdeen, in November last, I found, on a pouring wet day, twelve vans teeming with juvenile and adult dwellers. Most of the vans, inside and outside, were specimens of the worst kind of mud and filth painting I have ever seen, and the dwellers in some of them were steeped in ignorance.

In one van-house there were five poor motherless children from twelve downwards, who might never have been washed in their lives. They were nearly naked, and their father—if they had any—was away. In another van-house on wheels there were two men and two women. One of the latter was dying, and disease was at work in some other van-houses with a sad outlook. In another van-house there was a poor old gipsy woman with some grand-children. She said she could send the poor thin children to school, but could not pay for the books. I helped her to buy them, and left her in the midst of her heartaching surroundings with tears of sorrow and thankfulness in her eyes. In the twelve vans leading to death there were between twenty and thirty children growing up in the blackest ignorance and with a blacker outlook as regards their future.

In some respects, but in much larger numbers, I came upon heart-rending scenes among the gipsy and van-dwellers in Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Dundee.

In one of the border towns I visited the gipsies in their wigwams, one of which I shall never forget. There was one bed for man, woman and seven children. The children were ill in bed, with a few dirty old rags to cover them. The man said that "one of them had got inflammation on the brain." The fact was the poor children were ill of fever, and no doubt by this time some of them are out of the range of sickness, ignorance, and misery. Not one of them could read or write a sentence.

Coming nearer home I met, at Plaistow and Upton Manor, twenty-five van and tent-dwelling families of present-day English gipsies. In the van-houses and tents there were between fifty and sixty children growing up, with schools close by, in heathenish ignorance and wretchedness. A few days ago I met with a gipsy near Hammersmith, "racked" with rheumatism, and with a son in deep consumption. His case confirmed what I have stated over and over again—viz., that our present race of gipsies are deteriorating in physique and stamina; and disease is making havoc among them. The Bill I am promoting, the lines of which I have been advocating for ten years, and which will include the Scotch gipsy and van children, will not be passed if the enemies of the 30,000 poor children can prevent it, and thus by this backward move bring peril to the children and the country all around. Shall it be so?—I am, very sincerely yours,

George Smith, of Coalville.

The Cabin, Crick, Rugby.

"FACTS FOR FEMALE TRAVELLERS."

Sir,—I can fully endorse all that Mr. Spencer says in his letter in The Christian, of March 16, entitled, "Facts for Female Travellers." One of my servants told me lately of a girl she knew about who got an engagement at a distant Register Office, for a situation in Stockton-on-Tees. Arriving at her destination with a few pence in her pocket, she asked two porters at the station where she could find the house. They put a few questions to her, told her it was an improper house, paid her fare back to her home, and sent her off again by the first train.—Yours truly, W. D. D.

OPEN-AIR MISSION.—By an oversight in our report of the annual meeting, we credited the Mission with distributing only 10,000 tracts; whereas the actual number was 969,080—a considerable difference.

SOLDIERS IN IRELAND.—Many men of the Limerick garrison, to escape the surroundings of barrack life, gladly avail themselves of the advantages of the Home. Latterly increased numbers have attended the Gospel service held all the year round.

THE LATE REV. G. BOWEN.—A special meeting of the Committee of the Bombay Missionary Conference has been held, to consider the subject of a suitable memorial to the late Rev. George Bowen. Various suggestions were carefully considered, but that evidently finding most favour was the erection of a Bowen Memorial Hall, in a central position, to be at the disposal of the general Christian public for evangelistic and other purposes. Connected with this, it was suggested, might be a free library, specially accessible to native Christians. The Bombay Guardian approves of the Memorial Hall scheme, believing that it will commend itself to the warm approval of all friends and admirers of Mr. Bowen, and at the same time be in every way a suitable manner of perpetuating his memory in the city.

BLIND IN EAST LONDON.—Sir Charles Lowther, Bart., has generously presented the trustees of the "People's Palace" with a complete copy of embossed English works in Dr. Moon's type for the blind, being desirous that the blind population in the East of London should have the same advantage as their sighted brethren in having a library they can read for themselves. There are 345 volumes, large and small, in this gift, and they comprise, besides the Holy Scriptures, a large number of religious works, 22 volumes of English history, Mackenzie's history of Scotland in seven vols., several volumes of ancient history, eight of natural history, and a variety of books of biography, poetry, and anecdotes. These books were prepared by "Moon's Society for embossing the Scriptures and other books, maps, &c., for the blind," 104, Queen's-road, Brighton.

MR. GEORGE CLARKE in IRELAND.

Last week this young evangelist concluded a series of mission services in various parts of Ireland, which were accompanied by remarkable blessing. Indeed, since Mr. Moody's visit there had been nothing like it as regards the interest awakened and the power which accompanied the preaching of the Gospel.

Mr. Clarke had been invited by the Dublin Evangelistic Committee to hold a fortnight's mission in the Christian Union Buildings, immediately after the last Convention in September. Some addresses which he delivered during the Convention showed that a more than ordinary power accompanied his preaching. From the first a deep interest was awakened, and night after night the large hall, with its annexe, accommodating about 3000 people, was filled. The Bible-readings during the day were attended by from 1000 to 1500 persons, including all ranks and classes in the city.

At the close of the fortnight's mission, the interest was so manifestly growing that the Committee unanimously requested that the services should be continued for a third week, and then much regret was expressed that engagements elsewhere prevented him remaining for a fourth week. About five hundred persons professed, at the close of the mission, to have received blessing. The mission has borne tangible fruits. The various branches of Christian work, religious and charitable, of which the buildings are such a vigorous centre, have since wanted neither money nor workers.

Mr. Clarke had been earnestly requested to remain in Ireland with a view to holding missions in other parts of the country, to which he willingly consented. A ten days' mission which he held in Cork seemed to awaken an equal interest. The large Assembly Rooms, seating about one thousand people, were crowded night after night. The noon meetings were well attended, Christians were greatly stirred up, and many, it is believed, have been born again.

But perhaps the most remarkable mission was that held in Newry, in the North of Ireland. It is a busy, enterprising town, of about 15,000 inhabitants, about 6000 being Protestants, and, amongst these, congregations representing all the leading denominations. No mission of exactly the same kind, or on the same scale, had been held there before. The invitation to Mr. Clarke was signed by a very large number of all denominations.

A large and representative committee was formed; a fine store, affording seating accommodation for 1200 persons, was kindly lent by a leading merchant, and neatly fitted up by a committee of ladies. Much prayer was offered up to God for a blessing. The building was filled from the first, and at times there could not have been fewer than 1500 present. There is no sensationalism or undue excitement in Mr. Clarke's method of conducting a mission; but as the speaker, in earnest and persuasive appeal, addressed the vast audiences on the great themes of eternity, the stillness and solemnity was at times such as is seldom experienced. There must have been few Protestant families in the neighbourhood, some member or members of which did not find a blessing during that memorable fortnight. Men who had not darkened the door of a church for years, drunkards and backsliders for whom Christian friends had long been praying, were there, and, we trust, received saving impressions. Church-goers of all classes, who had all their lives been nothing more, became true followers of the Lamb. Old and young, rich and poor, were brought face to face with Christ and his salvation; and numbers, it is believed, have entered upon the way of life. The hall of the Young Men's Institute was crowded during the day. Mr. Clarke's visit to Newry will be long remembered.

After brief visits to Cork and Dublin, in each of which a number of largely attended meetings were held, Mr. Clarke left on the 17th inst. for England. The prayers of many to whom his services have been blessed will follow him on his visit to the Southern Hemisphere. He has accepted an invitation to hold a six months' mission, the Lord willing, in Ireland on his return in 1889. The prayers of your readers are earnestly requested for a blessing on his labours past and to come.

Dublin, March 24. D. M.

◆

THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The following was issued as a private circular, but having been published by The Record, it has been sent us by a member of the Society:—

March, 1888.

Many of the best, oldest, and truest friends of the Church Missionary Society have for some years been pained and grieved at a tendency to depart from the old paths, and from distinctively Protestant and Evangelical principles.

The questions arising out of the Ceylon, Japan, and Jerusalem Bishoprics, with the overture to the Bishop of Lincoln (Dr. King) to become a Vice-President, he not being a member of the Society; and now the Service recently held in St. Paul's Cathedral, notwithstanding the new, idolatrous Reredos—all these have deeply stirred the hearts of many, and have been the subjects of painful controversy at home, and of injury to the work abroad.

While some have already left the Society and others are leaving, this circular is to invite you to consider how best past mistakes may be rectified, present evils remedied, and future troubles averted.

The battles have been fought in Committee and lost by decreasing minorities, because of the want of proper organisation. Our friends have gone to Salisbury-square not knowing whether any, few or many, would be present to support them.

It may not be generally known that every clergyman who subscribes 10s. 6d. is qualified to be on the Committee, and can have summonses and the agenda paper sent to him on application. We are now in the presence of a gigantic conspiracy, whose evil effects are seen in the Church at large, and it is, therefore, an urgent necessity that the true friends of the Society should unite in forming themselves into a compact body pledged to attend meetings of the General Committee, and to use their utmost influence in keeping the Society in the old paths.

It will be necessary that some arrangements should be made to send notices to those who co-operate in this movement, whenever important business requires their attendance.

This and other details will be considered at a meeting called for this purpose, when replies to this circular have been received.

Let us pray that the proposed action may receive such support, that it may be productive of the best results, in promoting the glory of God and the true interests of the Society.

If you are willing to join in thus banding ourselves together, as those who love the Lord Jesus Christ better than we love any Church, or any Society, will you kindly sign the enclosed duplicate, and post it, addressed, "C.M.S., 13, Buckingham-street, Strand, W.C."

Lichfield, Vice-President.
A. T. Cotton, Bart., K.C.S.I., Late Vice-President.
F. T. Haig, Major-Gen., Hon. Life Governor.
James Maden Holt, Vice-President.
James Inskip, Ann. Governor.

P.S.—It will greatly assist if you will kindly send the names and addresses of any friends qualified, and willing to unite in this movement, and to whom we may send a copy of this circular.

[Lord Ebury and Mr. T. B. Dale have appended their signatures to those of Lord Lichfield and others. Mr. J. Braithwaithe and Mr. R. C. L. Bevan approve of the circular. Sir Arthur Blackwood has also given in his warm adhesion. Most of these are amongst the Society's oldest subscribers and life governors. Mr. Bevan is probably the largest donor the Society ever had. Mr. Dale has been a member for sixty-five years, and treasurer and secretary of his association half that time. Adhesion from the Society's staunchest Protestant and Evangelical friends are being received; the sole object being, as the Circular says, "to keep the Society in the old paths." Protestant and Evangelical Church laymen should qualify themselves under Laws III. and IV. of the Society.

◆

UNION HALL MISSION.

The annual gatherings of this Mission were held on Thursday last week at Union Hall, Carlisle-street, Edgware-road. A large company of workers and friends came together in the afternoon for praise, prayer, and mutual conference. About 200 friends remained together for tea.

In the evening, when the large hall was well filled, the chair was taken by Mr. R. C. Morgan. After singing and prayer, Mr. Robert Bilke gave a brief and encouraging account of the work of the Mission during the past year, specially bringing to notice the need of about £200 for the erection of class-rooms at Queen's Park Hall, and also of £30 for the repair of tents. The statement gave a cheering account of many efforts put forth, and of much blessing given upon all the work.

The chairman spoke of the great blessing God had been pleased to bestow on this and like missions throughout London; and also dwelt on the great good to be derived from Christians conferring together as did devout men of old. "They that feared the Lord spake often one to another." "Teaching and admonishing one another with psalms, and hymns, and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your heart unto God."

Mr. Robert Paton gave a most stirring address on holding firmly to the grand truths of the Word of God, and allowing no compromise with the many errors that are now brought to the front. Mr. T. B. Millar commented on 1 John i. 3, "The fellowship with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ." Mr. J. G. McVicker gave an address, dwelling particularly on knowing the fear of the Lord in connection with the judgment seat of Christ. Mr. J. E. Hawkins, Mr. W. R. Lane, Mr. W. Holmes, and others also addressed the meeting.

MR. JOSEPH CLARKE, of the London Evangelisation Society, has been conducting special services in various places in Breconshire, with marked success. Many have been led to trust the Saviour through the earnest preaching of this evangelist.

A MISSIONARY DROWNED.—The Cunard steamer Cephalonia, from Boston, which arrived at Queenstown on Saturday evening, brought news of the drowning of Rev. Dr. Sheldon, the well-known Indian missionary, together with Mrs. Cunningham and two Indians. The party were proceeding up the River Otikee on February 20, when the boat capsized and all were drowned.

Y.W.C.A., BOURNEMOUTH.—The Westbourne branch was started in January, 1887, with four members. During the year the numbers steadily increased, and there are now sixty-five members. The small room hired for the classes proved insufficient, and it has been found advisable to take a small house at 2, Seymour-terrace, Middle-road, where a Home and Institute are now open. Young women will find good accommodation, with board and lodging, on moderate terms, and the week-day and Sunday classes will be carried on with fresh vigour. Members coming from a distance will find great attraction in the pure, fresh air of Westbourne, combined with a cheerful Christian home.

Among the Churches.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

Evening service is now being held in the ancient church of St. Mary, Canterbury, after the lapse of two centuries.

A volume of Canon Hoare's sermons has been translated into Chinese, and is being circulated, and also utilised as homilies by some of the C.M.S. native pastors in mid-China.

A Church Discipline Bill, introduced into the House of Lords by the Archbishop of Canterbury, facilitates the process by which clergymen offending against morality can be proceeded against.

A Conference of lay readers was held in Lambeth Palace at the invitation of the Archbishop of Canterbury. The readers of the Lambeth diocese, who assist the clergy in teaching, preaching, and visiting, now number about eighty drawn from every rank.

Canon Knox-Little was the preacher at the mid-day services in St. Paul's Cathedral during last week. On Tuesday he addressed an audience of some 4000 people; he warned young men against the vice of gambling, which, he said, is as much a national sin as drunkenness.

CONGREGATIONAL.

Dr. William Adamson, of Edinburgh, has declined the invitation to be assistant pastor at the City Temple.

Under the ministry of Rev. Robert Arnold fifty-eight new members have been received into fellowship in nine months at Lavender-hill Church; the congregations have also largely increased, and the commodious Sunday-schools are inconveniently crowded.

Rev. John Hewlett, of the London Missionary Society, after twenty-six years of missionary labour at Almora, Mirzapore, and Benares, left India on the 10th inst., for eighteen months furlough in England. Mr. Hewlett has been appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor of the N. W. Provinces and Oudh, one of the first Fellows of the new University at Allahabad.

After a pastorate of nearly five years, Rev. D. Burford Hooke has resigned his charge of Christ Church, Rhyl. He is returning to London as assistant for the ensuing year to Rev. Dr. Hannay at the Memorial Hall. The appointment has been made in view of Dr. Hannay's absence in Australia at the forthcoming centenary of Congregationalism in Victoria.

At Nichol-street Mission-hall, one of the branch halls of Union Chapel, Islington, 13,514 breakfasts have been given to poor children during the winter. The parent church and its three branches number 870 members, with 3468 scholars in the Sunday-schools, and 263 teachers. The total contributions for all purposes during the year amounted to £7523.

At a meeting of the Halifax Congregational Union, Rev. J. Lightfoot, vicar of Cross Stone, Todmorden, in the course of an address, expressed the hope that the day would soon dawn when men would learn that the Church of God is not limited by the horizon of party or sect. True unity is not uniformity, but is to be realised amid differences of opinion and name.

METHODIST.

Mr. Lancelot Middleton has closed a mission at Canning Town. At almost every meeting several persons gave themselves to Christ.

The meetings in connection with the Manchester Mission will be held in the St. James's Hall, which has accommodation for six thousand people, instead of in the theatre, after Sunday next.

The General Methodist Synod in Italy has been in session in Rome. The first meeting was for ministers alone, and was attended by representatives of nearly all the evangelical churches, and warm words of fraternal sympathy were addressed, especially by the Waldensian pastors.

Rev. G. Mackenzie Cobban, of Madras, who is returning to India in the autumn, wrote to Rev. Thomas Champness a few days ago, asking for evangelists to labour in the Hindu villages, and in reply Mr. Champness wrote: "I shall ask our friends to pray that we may have, at least, two men for you in November."

All the meetings in connection with the West London Mission continue to be largely attended, the halls sometimes being filled to overflowing. Rev. Hugh Price Hughes announces that the sisters who labour in connection with the Mission have received a valuable promise of sixteen gallons of fresh country milk, to be forwarded to them twice a week, for distribution among starving children and sick women.

Rev. G. A. Bennetts, Mildmay-park Wesleyan Chapel, has been denouncing the works of certain poets and novelists as having an immoral tendency. After the sermon on a recent Sunday evening Mr. Bennetts produced a large bundle of books which he said had been sent to him to be destroyed by a person to whom they had been a great snare. Subsequently the books were committed to the flames by the minister and the chapel officials.

The special committee appointed by the last Wesleyan Conference to report as to the way by which waste and friction in the working of the various sections of the Methodist Church may be lessened or prevented has met at the Centenary Hall, London. Great unanimity characterised the proceedings. A series of resolutions was adopted without a dissentient voice, to the effect that the Wesleyan Conference receive representatives from the Primitive Methodist, New Connexion, and Bible Christian Conferences, and from the Annual Assembly of the United Methodist Free Churches; and that means be adopted to prevent henceforth the needless multiplication of chapels where there is already sufficient accommodation.

SALVATION ARMY.

At Romford, says Staff-Capt. Reynolds, "we have good spiritual meetings, the corps is rising and souls are being saved."

Work has been commenced in Walthamstow and Forest Hill. At the opening meetings at both places several persons professed conversion.

In Arboga, Sweden, the authorities are reported to be very glad, because it has become so quiet in the town, since the Army came there. Especially they notice a great difference in and outside the public-houses. During the first nine days at Morrtelge, Sweden, fifty-six souls professed, including some of the worst characters of the town.

SOCIETY OF FRIENDS.

Luke Woodard has been engaged in the Friends' first Gospel work in Las Vegas, New Mexico.

At Friendsville, North Carolina, a "Friends' Christian Fellowship Union" has recently been formed under a feeling of deep and blessed solemnity.

Jonathan B. Hodgkin, of Darlington, and Isabella Young, of York, have concluded a satisfactory series of meetings at Bishop Auckland, Durham.

Friends of Whittier, California, are building a college there. Thirteen acres of ground, and many thousand dollars have been given for the purpose.

Meetings for united prayer on behalf of the Friends' Mission work in Madagascar, India, China, Syria, Constantinople and South Africa, as well as at home, will be held on Tuesday next, at Devonshire House, Bishopsgate-street, E.C.

George Satterthwaite and Norman Penny are giving much pleasure to the mission workers and people of Ramalla, Palestine, and preaching Christ to good congregations. Overwork and sickness are trying Friends on Lebanon and in Madagascar.

PRESBYTERIAN.

Rev. Hugh Shearer is to be ordained to the charge of Queen's-road, Brighton, in succession to the late Rev. William Fraser.

Dr. Talmage, of the Brooklyn Tabernacle, received into fellowship, on Sunday, March 4, 122 new members, making the total membership 4183.

The Free Church Foreign Mission Committee have received a letter dated Bandawé, Livingstonia, January 7, which states that the steamer had arrived from the north and reported that the Arab village of Ml'osi had been attacked. Mr. Moir and Mr. Sharpe were wounded but not dangerously.

Dr. Gavin Russell has been appointed medical missionary to Formosa, the cost of his outfit and salary for three years being undertaken by Rev. R. W. Barbour, of Bonskeid.—Mr. P. J. Maclagan has been appointed missionary to Swatow, also in connection with the China Mission of the English Presbyterian Church. Mr. Maclagan is son of Dr. Maclagan, of Berwick, one of the most respected elders in the English Synod.

If the congregations throughout England have not had their missionary zeal quickened, the fault will surely not rest with the Moderator of the Synod, Rev. W. S. Swanson, whose year of office is now drawing to a close. Mr. Swanson has certainly made the most of the splendid opportunity which his election to the chair placed within his reach, and his voice has ever been powerfully raised in the interests of the foreign field, in which he laboured so long and so well.

BAPTIST.

There are now 1062 converts in the Congo Mission, which organised its first Church last November.

City-road Chapel, Bristol (Rev. W. J. Mayers, pastor), has unanimously resolved to abolish the system of pew-rents.

New Sunday-school buildings for Shoreditch Tabernacle, under the pastorate of Rev. W. Cuff, are about to be erected, at a cost of £3000, towards which £1000 have been subscribed.

The third anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. W. Frith, Hornton Chapel, Kennington, will be held on Thursday next, April 5. Rev. F. B. Meyer will preach at 4 p.m., and Rev. C. Graham at 7.30.

The first anniversary of the settlement of Rev. Frank M. Smith as pastor of the church at Norfolk-street, Peckham, was recently celebrated. The past year, says a correspondent, has been rich and fruitful of results.

Rev. R. Shindler has resigned the pastorate of the church at Addlestone. Without seeking another pastorate, he will be happy to supply vacant pulpits, and assist brethren who may need help. His address is, Portland Villa, Addlestone, Surrey.

By a recent legal decision concerning the will of the late Governor Coburn, of Maine, U.S., the American Baptist Home Mission Society receives a legacy of £50,000, of which £30,000 is to be held in trust for the support of schools among the freedmen.

The anniversary of the Parsons-hill Church, Woolwich, was recently held. The membership is now 700, over 100 having joined the church during the past year. The Gospel Temperance Mission has obtained 2300 pledges within the past few years, and the meetings have been largely attended and very enthusiastic.

At the annual meeting of the church at Mare-street, Hackney, it was stated that the membership of the church is 502, and that 142 of this number were received into fellowship during the past sixteen months, twenty-six being scholars of the Sunday-school. All the organisations of the church are reported in a flourishing condition.

NOTES FROM IRELAND.

Much blessing has attended a series of Gospel meetings held at the Diamond, near Crumlin, by Rev. J. S. McDade, Methodist Conference evangelist.

Mr. John Brandon, of Canada, has concluded successful Gospel services in the Methodist Church at Knockninny, and is now holding similar services at Church-hill.

Signor D. Turino, of Italy, has been delivering during the past week interesting addresses, which have attracted considerable attention, in Dublin and Belfast, on "The Waldensian Church, Past and Present."

Dr. Henry Grattan Guinness of London, delivered several earnest Gospel addresses in Belfast last week, and is this week conducting a series of evangelistic meetings in St. Enoch's Presbyterian Church, in that city.

The annual meeting of the Belfast Y.M.C.A. has lately been held. The Society is in a prosperous condition, and has carried on during the year every department of its work with unabated activity and success. It distributed a large number of religious tracts, organised several evangelistic meetings, fostered a missionary spirit, and has 1400 young men on its roll of membership.

"FALLEN ON SLEEP."

Mrs. Hobson, wife of Rev. W. F. Hobson, retired army chaplain, of Dover. Mrs. Hobson was one of the ladies who, with Miss Florence Nightingale, went to the East to nurse the sick and wounded of the British army, who took part in the Crimean war.—Rev. John Abbs, some time pastor of the Congregational Church at Kirbymoorside, and formerly for twenty-two years a missionary of the London Missionary Society in Travancore, South India.—Rev. Dr. W. S. Karr, professor of Systematic Theology in the Hartford Theological Seminary, U.S.—At Palabala, River Congo, West Africa, Mrs. Harvey, wife of Rev. C. H. Harvey, of the Livingstone Inland Mission. Mrs. Harvey was trained at the East London Missionary Institute; she was on her journey to the sea-coast to embark for England on account of ill-health, when overtaken by a fever, to which she succumbed in two days.

CONTINENTAL & FOREIGN NOTES.

SABBATH OBSERVANCE.—Christians all the world over are invited by the Geneva Society for the Better Observance of the Sabbath to consecrate the first week in April to prayer for this object.—Le Chrétien Belge.

M. DE PRESSENSÉ has been delivering his lecture against immoral literature at Fontainebleau and Rouen with great success. Invitations come to him from all parts, showing much interest is felt in the movement.

A NEW STRIKE.—The Journal "O Paiz," published in Rio de Janeiro, says the priests have struck, refusing to say masses at so low a price, consequently the churches in the capital of the Argentine Republic are closed.—Le Témoin de la Vérité.

REVIVAL IN JAPAN.—A revival has been going on simultaneously in different parts of Japan. As a result, the increase in all the churches of Tokio cannot be much less than a thousand. Yokohama has also enjoyed a rich blessing, and reaped a glorious harvest. Many of the cities and towns of the Empire are now wonderfully stirred up.

AT LIEVIN (PAS DE CALAIS), on Feb. 12, five heads of families, having abjured the errors of Romanism, were admitted into the Reformed Church. A few weeks later three others followed their example, making a total of thirty-five persons. This new church, erected in the midst of a mining population, has thus a good prospect of being filled.—Le Signal.

MECKLENBURG.—M. Windolf, a Baptist, who recently died at Sternberg, having expressed a wish that one of his brethren should speak at his grave, M. Wegener from Ludwigsluft complied with the request. A few days afterwards he was served with an official notification, that for so doing he had incurred a fine of £1 1s., and three days' imprisonment.—Wahrheitszeuge.

THE FRENCH FOREIGN MISSION SOCIETY has been encouraged by some generous gifts and legacies. Further sacrifices are yet needed to put the Society in a position to enter into open and opening doors in connection with stations already existing. More missionaries are called for in Lessouto, where "God is sending a wave of blessing which is pushing the greater part of the tribe towards the Gospel."

THE C.M.S. WORK IN EAST AFRICA.—The latest mail from East Africa brings the news that Rev. E. C. Gordon had crossed the Lake Nyanza, and been favourably received in Uganda. The Christian converts had not relapsed, but seem eager for instruction. The fear of persecution had not, however, subsided, for the leading Christians were still in hiding. Bishop Parker, with Rev. R. P. Ashe, Mr. Mackay and other missionaries, had made their way to the south end of the lake. The Bishop has been more particularly engaged in the exploration of Speke Gulf, in the hope of finding on its shores a likely site for a new central station. In the recently published "Letters and Journals" of Emin Bey there is the following passage:—"In 1876 the Church Missionary Society sent out a well equipped party to Uganda...at the south end of the Victoria Nyanza...Here, ever since 1877, a number of missionaries have carried on the work in spite of great difficulties and hardships. Mr. A. M. Mackay has laboured there for ten years with the greatest perseverance and zeal. Much translation-work has been accomplished, and the Mission-school has been resorted to by large numbers, many of whom have become Christians...There are about 45 communicants, 200 Protestant Christians, and 100 catechumens."

HEART TROUBLES.

Weakness of the heart is one of the commonest ailments, and many believe that it is beyond remedy, but it is only so when actual organic disease exists. In the greater number of instances the affection supposed to be incurable is little more than a weakness, resulting from general constitutional debility, whereby various organs are hindered from performing their functions in the quiet methodical manner characteristic of health. When this is the case, the heart, the most important functionary of all, is one of the organs most readily affected, and the weakness induced often remains unremedied, when other organs are apparently restored to full vigour.

That as a remedy Magnetism is superior to medicinal means is a fact confirmed by a widely extended experience; and any who have need of help in this direction, or who wish to know the success that has attended our efforts in treating this phase of suffering, should read our report, which may be had post-free on application.

Miss E. J. A. PEARSON, Ellesmere Lodge, Portswood, Southampton.

Feb. 19, 1885.—"I shall be most happy to recommend your Magnetic Treatment in the most favourable terms to anyone who asks my opinion of it. I can only tell them it has, with God's blessing, worked wonders for me. I am now able to walk quite long distances, and to go through fatigue, which would have been quite impossible before I adopted your Treatment a year and a half ago, and the attacks of heart weakness which I used to have several times a year, and which quite prostrated me for the time, grew much fewer and feebler. Of course the heart is not strong, so I feel any over-taxation of it or excitement, but recover from the effects in a way which quite surprises me. I can only attribute the very marked improvement in general health to wearing the Magnetic Vest.

"My dear mother, who has worn a similar Appliance for more than a year, also speaks in high terms of the benefit she feels from it, and which, indeed, we all notice. It is a pity that prejudice prevents so many from giving your Treatment a fair trial."

Jan. 1, 1887.—"You will be glad to know that my dear aunt, aged 87, has derived marked benefit from the Vest she began to wear about a year ago. Her health is much better than it was then."

Nov. 29, 1887.—"A sense of thankfulness and gratitude impels me to write to inform you that my health has gone on steadily improving since I began to wear the Magnetic Vest you sent me some years ago, till now people will scarcely believe I am an invalid at all—indeed I do not feel like one. Appetite and sleep are excellent; I can even go out in this damp November weather without feeling any the worse for it, and perform all my duties with energy and enjoyment. When I compare this with the distressing state of prostration in which I began to wear the Appliance, I can only feel adoring thankfulness to God for directing me to this wonderful remedy. It must be this that has helped me, as I take no medicine whatever, and have taken no stimulant for many months. It is singular that prejudice hinders so many from adopting the remedy."

Magnetic Treatment involves no more inconvenience than the wearing of an ordinary garment, and is often as effectual as the most radical change of climate or favourable condition of health which could be devised for an invalid. This is no extravagant statement, but it is what is continually attested by our patients. Although we do not assure any applicant that cure is certain, we are permitted to refer such inquirers to a goodly number of those who know from experience what Magnetic Treatment has done for them. A list, containing the names of 1,000 such persons willing to answer inquirers, can be had free, together with all information on the treatment, from B Corson Garratt, 16, Finsbury Square, London, E C.

STANDARD LIFE OFFICE

Pays HALF A MILLION ANNUALLY in Death Claims.
Its INVESTED FUNDS exceed 6½ MILLIONS, increasing yearly, and the New Business for the last Bonus period exceeded the amount transacted by any of the Scottish Life Offices.
83, King William Street, E.C.

Issue of 7, 5½, or 5 per Cent. LAND MORTGAGE DEBENTURES.

The MEXICAN GENERAL LAND MORTGAGE AND INVESTMENT COMPANY, Limited.

This Company now offers for a limited period its 7 per cent. and 5 per cent. Debentures. These securities are amply protected by Deed of Trust, and have had the approval of high authority, as a desirable investment.

Half-yearly coupons are attached.

Prospectuses, giving full particulars, &c., will be forwarded on application to the undersigned, or any authorised agent. Wm. C. PRESCOTT, Manager.

Offices—Dashwood House, 9, New Broad Street, London, E.C.

A SURE ATTRACTION

Is Provided by the PERFORMANCE of

A SERVICE OF SONG

In your Church on Sunday Afternoon or Evening, or in the week.

Between FORTY and FIFTY are published by
J. Curwen & Sons, 8 & 9, Warwick Lane, London, E.C.

TEETH.—Messrs. PAGET

(SURGEON-DENTISTS),

445, STRAND

(Opposite Charing Cross Station).

Messrs. PAGET, the Old-established Surgeon-Dentists (English and American), supply their celebrated ARTIFICIAL TEETH, without pain, in one visit. Fixed either with or without plates or palates, by atmospheric pressure. Mastication, articulation, life-like appearance guaranteed.

A Tooth, 5s. Sets, 50s. Stoppings, 2s. 6d. Pamphlet (illustrated) sent gratis and post free.

Dr. Paget attends personally daily from 10 till 5. Consultations Free.

445, STRAND (opposite Charing Cross Station), LONDON.
Established over 50 years.

Temperance Wines

MASON'S WINE ESSENCES

WILL PRODUCE IN A FEW MINUTES A DELICIOUS WINE OR CORDIAL. GINGER, ORANGE, RASPBERRY, BLACK CURRANT, CHERRY, &C.

WHOLESOME. ECONOMICAL.

Send 9 Stamps for Sample.
NEWBALL & MASON, Nottingham. Agents wanted.

FIVE GOLD MEDALS AWARDED.

Goddard's Plate Powder

NON-MERCURIAL.

FOR NEARLY HALF A CENTURY this Powder has sustained an unrivalled reputation throughout the United Kingdom and Colonies as the Best and Safest Article for Cleaning Silver and Electro Plate. Sold in Boxes 1s., 2s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. each, by Grocers, Chemists, Ironmongers, &c.

FOGS!

AND DAMP AIR PRODUCE

Catarrh, Coughs, Hoarseness.

The FINEST REMEDY for

COLDS, COUGHS, ETC.,
IS CONGREVE'S
BALSAMIC ELIXIR

In Bottles, 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d.

Prepared by G. T. CONGREVE, Coombe Lodge, Peckham.

SOLD BY ALL MEDICINE HOUSES.

Now Published in one
HANDSOME SHILLING VOLUME,
Post Free.

"MR. GEO. THOS. CONGREVE on
CONSUMPTION
AND ITS SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT.

Showing that direful disease to be curable in all its stages; with observations on

ASTHMA, CHRONIC BRONCHITIS, etc."

AND THE NEW APPENDIX
TO THE
WORK on CONSUMPTION,
CONTAINING
226 MOST INTERESTING AND AUTHENTIC CASES

That have appeared in the Weekly Journals and Monthly Magazines from 1881 to the present time, with

NOTES APPENDED TO MANY
SHOWING THE
PERMANENCE of CURE.

N.B.—The work "On Consumption," by itself (in paper covers), may be had for Sixpence (post free) from the Author, Coombe Lodge, Peckham, S.E., or from the Publisher, Elliot Stock, 62, Paternoster-row, E.C.

The Two Books, bound in One Volume (cloth), for One Shilling, post free from the Author.

NOTICE TO THE READERS OF "THE CHRISTIAN."

The Twenty-fifth Series of Weekly Cases will Commence after EASTER WEEK. Meanwhile the testimony of several journals (selected from upwards of one hundred and fifty), which have all reviewed "Consumption and the Appendix" favourably, may be interesting.

From the "TEACHER'S ASSISTANT" (a work extensively used in the Methodist Connexion, Feb., 1888:—

"This work ought to have a wide circulation. Consumption is the scourge of the English race, and generally the prejudice exists that it is incurable; and this prejudice is certainly strengthened by the helplessness of the general practitioners. Mr. Congreve seems to have found a method of treatment that is successful, and the success with which his method has been attended seems to justify the opinion that this dire scourge can be conquered. The work contains an immense number of testimonials from the most reliable sources. The author is himself a man of Christian character, and, we understand, an earnest worker in the Church; and the book affords sufficient evidence that he understands the subject, and has made it a life study. We may say that we have known a case, of which there is no record in this book, where a lady, who was given up to die by the ordinary physicians, was restored through the use of Mr. Congreve's medicines, so that her life has been spared for years, and she has been enabled to enjoy life. A copy of this wonderful work should be in every household; and it is possible for it to be so as it is published at One Shilling."

From the "CHRISTIAN TREASURY" (a well-known Monthly Serial), Feb., 1888:—

"Consumption, with an Appendix, is the title of a volume giving hundreds of instances of cure of consumption, by the well-known Mr. Congreve. The original work has now added to it a huge list of letters, from persons who know what they write about. It is a marvel of cures effected in most cases by very few bottles of medicine. Mr. Congreve has evidently been raised up for the purpose of demonstrating to the world that the terrible ravages of consumption can, in a great measure, be averted, and many will thank God for his services to humanity. For ourselves we positively know of several cases of wonderful cure from the use of this medicine, and can therefore confidently commend this book and the boon it advocates to our numerous readers and their friends."

(Continued from page 11.)

To Let, Apartments, &c.

PERCY'S HOTEL, LONDON.

40, Bedford-place, Bloomsbury-sq., W.C.

First-class Private, highly recommended by the Bishop of Algoma; Rev. M. E. Thorold, M.A., Leicester; Dr. Georgens, Ouchy, Lausanne; J. Bevan and Mrs. Braithwaite, 312, Camden-road, and many others. Terms very moderate. Tariff on application.—Mrs. LLOYD HARRIS, Proprietress.

LONDON.

WEST CENTRAL HOTEL,

(First-class Temperance), 97, 99, 101, 103, Southampton-row, Russell-square.—Highly commended by Rev. Charles Williams; Rev. John Cairns, D.D.; Rev. A. B. Grosart, D.D.; Rev. H. S. Paterson, M.D.; Rev. and Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness, F.R.G.S.; T. W. Russell, Esq., M.P.; Dr. Norman Kerr; Frederick Sherlock, Esq.; Dr. Ziemann. Plain Breakfast or Tea 1s. 3d. Beds, 1s. 6d. to 2s. 6d. A very comfortable winter residence. Printed Tariff on application to FREDERIC SMITH, Proprietor.

HENDERSON'S HOTEL, LONDON,

20, Bedford-place, Russell-sq., W.C.

This first-class Private Hotel is highly recommended by readers of THE CHRISTIAN from all parts of the world. Weekly boarders from £2 2s. Beds from 1s. 6d. Tariff on application.—Mrs. GRACE PERCY HENDERSON, Proprietress. Late of 40, Bedford-place.

WESTON HALL,

(En Pension), BOURNEMOUTH.

Conducted by Mr. and Mrs. RATCLIFFE.

ST. LEONARD'S-ON-SEA.—Boarding Establishment, Meliora House, 20 and 21, Carisbrooke-road. Conducted by the Widow of the late Rev. F. WAGSTAFFE, and Mrs. LOCKE. Good table. Home comforts. Terms moderate. Near sea, gardens, and rail.

HEALTH RESORT FOR CHRISTIANS. Comfortable winter Home, near Stroud. Dry and sheltered. South aspect. Baths if required. Terms very moderate.—S. PYALL DIPROSE, Pitchcombe View, Stroud, Gloucester.

BRIGHTON.—Sussex House Boarding Establishment, pleasantly situated in the Old Steine, having a sea view, and the beautiful Steine Gardens in front. Near to Pavilion, Aquarium, and piers. Special terms for winter months.
Mr. & Mrs. BOX, 58, Old Steine.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Furnished Apartments. Central, sheltered position. South aspect. Near pier and gardens. Hot and cold water baths. Terms moderate.
Mrs. MOON, Ootacamund, St. Peter's-road.

ABODE OF FAITH, established 1876, to receive erring ones of gentle birth who cannot remain at home.—Letters confidential,
Mrs. DALBY, 21, Norfolk-road, St. John's Wood.
Luke xix. 10.

HIGHBURY.—Board and Residence for Christian City Gentleman. Terms moderate.—Mrs. LIEBSTEIN, 40, Highbury-hill.

ST. LEONARDS.—88, Warrior-square.—Winter Residence. Superior boarding establishment. South-west aspect. Good cuisine. Bath-room, and every home comfort. Tennis. Terms moderate and inclusive.

INTEMPERANCE.—Private Home for six Ladies. Terms from 1½ to 3 guineas weekly. Highest professional references given, for which, with other particulars, apply to Miss PUDNEY, Buxton House, Earls Colne, Essex.

HASTINGS.—BOARD AND RESIDENCE in a Christian family. Liberal table. Home comforts. Use of piano and drawing-room. Three minutes from sea and rail.
Mrs. COMPTON, 22, Cambridge-gardens, Hastings.

HASTINGS.—Boarding Establishment, Sunnyside, Cornwallis-gardens.—Pleasantly situated. Central position. Thoroughly comfortable, and well recommended as winter residence. Hall and staircases heated. Smoking-room. Liberal table.—Proprietress, Mrs. BUTTERWORTH.

LAUSANNE.—The President, Continental division Y.W.C.A., desires to recommend most highly the Pension de Famille, 7, rue Beau Séjour, of Madame HENRIQUET, widow of a devoted French Pastor. It commands fine view of Lake and Alps. Five to seven francs a day. Mlle. HENRIQUET gives lessons in French and singing when desired. Baths (hot and cold).

COMFORTABLE HOME FOR LADY BOARDERS and young Ladies pursuing their studies at High School. Best references.
L., 32, Lansdowne-street, Brighton.

WORTHING HOME OF REST for Christians. Close to, but not facing sea. Every comfort. Terms 25s. to 2 guineas.—LADY SUPERINTENDENT, Rutherford Lodge, Worthing.

COMFORTABLE CHRISTIAN HOME offered to two or three Ladies, for permanence, or a shorter period. Charmingly situated at Eastbourne. Terms moderate.
M. P., St. John's Rehoboth, Selwyn-road, Upperton.

SEASIDE CONVALESCENT HOMES for Sale. Freehold. Three substantially built Residences, containing 12, 7, and 6 rooms respectively, standing in half an acre of land, situated at Southend-on-Sea, close to the front.—Apply to Mr. BRADSHAW BROWN, Auctioneer and Valuer, 59, Fenchurch-street E.C.; and Estate Offices, Millwall, E.

THE SOUTH DEVON HEALTH RESORT

BISHOPS TEIGNTON (Teignmouth the nearest Station.)

All the Rooms in this Establishment are engaged until the end of April.

C. F. CARPENTER, Proprietor.

DINARD.—French Protestant Lady, many years in England, offers comfortable Home to Ladies. French, English, German, Italian, music, drawing, painting lessons if required. Highest references.
DINARD, Tapper's Library, Westbourne-grove.

SWITZERLAND.—A Lady will give a Home to young Lady who will help her in the care of the children. House beautifully situated.
Madame GAUTSCHY, Avenue des Alpes, Lausanne.

ALL SEEKING APARTMENTS or Board (towns, suburbs, country, seaside, or anywhere) should call or write, stating wants. No charge whatever. Only fee (2s. 6d.) paid by those who let. All wishing to let rooms or obtain boarders should write for prospectus, sent free.—BROOKES' Apartments Agency, King-street, Cheapside, London. Agencies everywhere.

SALISBURY.—To be Sold or Let, furnished or unfurnished, a charming ten-roomed Villa Residence, with a large well-stocked garden, and tennis court. Close to station and Evangelical Church.—E. A. RAWLANCE, Bulbridge, Wilton.

BRIGHTON, West.—Drawing-room Apartments, well furnished, in a quiet, private house, permanently or otherwise.—Mrs. DIXON, 25, Clarendon-villas, West Brighton.

KONIGSHEIM HOUSE OF REST, Weston-super-Mare. This Home provides a rest to English and Foreign Governesses, and Lady Christian Workers. Terms from 12s. to 21s. a week inclusive.—Address LADY SUPERINTENDENT.

SEASIDE.—SHOREHAM (6 miles westward of Brighton).—Apartments or Board for young people. Terms moderate.—Miss GLADING, Barnett House, High-street, Shoreham, Sussex.

COUNTRY APARTMENTS, FURNISHED OR UNFURNISHED.—A very large Sitting-room and a large bed-room adjoining. Facing the Fore-street. A short distance from two railway stations. Very pretty walks and drives.
Mrs. R. LINES, Noel House, Hertford.

HOME WANTED, in a Christian working man's family, for a little Girl of seven, whose wife would train to good and useful habits.
A., 195, Hampstead-road, N.W.

CLAPHAM.—Home wanted by a Lady, in a quiet Christian family. Terms must be moderate. References exchanged.—Z., Mr. Bachhoffner, Stationer, 162, High-street, Clapham.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—A Widow Lady offers a thoroughly comfortable, refined Home to two or three Ladies. An invalid or motherless girl would receive kind and careful attention. House beautifully situated; bath-room, &c.
Mrs. SLOMAN, Birchfield, Woodbury-park-road.

WANTED, by Widow Lady and daughters (students), four Unfurnished Rooms, near Finsbury Park and station. Select neighbourhood. Terms £30 per annum. Quietness; no smoking.
WHO, Hicox's Library, Seven Sisters-road, N.

A LADY WISHES to hear of a temporary Home in the comfortable house of gentlepeople. Dry, bracing climate. Evangelical ministry.
Miss BURCH, Annington House, Eastbourne.

A MARRIED MEDICAL MAN, residing in a pleasant neighbourhood of Bath, can offer a comfortable Home to a Lady or Gentleman. Terms 2 guineas a week. References exchanged. No children.—Z., care of Mr. J. Davies, Pump Room Library, Bath.

COMFORTABLY FURNISHED APARTMENTS, in most healthy situation in Buxton. Terms moderate.—Mrs. WARDLE, 1, Matlock-villas, Fairfield-road, Buxton, Derbyshire.

TORQUAY.—The Mildmay Consumptive Home, to receive six Female Patients, open at Smyrna, Warberry-road, W. Terms 10s. 6d. or 7s. weekly. Application to SECRETARY. Entirely dependent on voluntary contributions. Subscriptions solicited to enlarge and maintain this work. (Matt. xxv. 40.)

Miscellaneous.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS.—A Christian will gladly correspond with any earnest seeker after Divine truth.—EVANGELIST, Clapham, S.W.
Heb. vii. 25.

THE PARENTS of a Lad, 16, sailing for Canada April 12, by s.s. "Sardinian," would be glad to know of a Christian Gentleman going by the same steamer.
Captain W., 57, Manor-park, Lee, S.E.

THE PARTY OF FIVE who got out at Clapham-road Station on Tuesday eve, will hear of what they lost by applying at 9, Goldhawk-road, W.

MRS. KLEIN, Baker and Confectioner, 10 and 11, Paddington-street, Baker-street, W., English, Vienna, and French Bread, of the best quality. Dinner and milk rolls of every description. Pastry Whites, Households, and Vienna Flour at the lowest prices. Whole Meal and Rye Flour. Punctual attention to all orders.

QUALIFIED ACCOUNTANT AND AUDITOR.—Miss M. HARRIS SMITH, many years' experience, undertakes preparation of financial statements, balance-sheets, audits, &c., of societies, companies, and institutions.
33, Furnival-street, W.C.

WASHING WANTED by an experienced Laundress, with every convenience. Terms moderate. Highest references. Plenty of water, good drying grounds.—Mrs. HUNT, Leamington House Laundry, 21, Park-terrace, East-row, Kensal-road, Westbourne-park.

One Shilling, post free.
CANCER and Simple Tumours dispersed by Electricity. By G. EDGELOW, M.D.
H. RENSHAW, 356, Strand, W.C.

LARGE YELLOW AFRICAN DAISY. Hardy annual. Invaluable for church or table decoration. In bloom from June to December; seed 7d., post free. Gigantic Lemon Sunflower, very handsome and rare, seed 4d. Scabious, mixed colours, 2d. per packet. Grass, 2d. per packet. Also very choice Flower Seeds, for garden border, 13 varieties for 1s. Sold for a charity.
Miss W. B., Wrentham Rectory, Suffolk.

COLONIES.—Immediate Openings for Pupils on good stock and grain farms, and larger estates in Canada, the United States, and Tasmania. Premium from £50. Pamphlet free.—FORD, RATHBONE & CO., 21, Finsbury-pavement, London.

BYWATER, TANQUERAY & CO., 79, Queen-Victoria-street, London (late BYWATER, PERRY & CO.), are Agents for Residents abroad, Missionaries, Chaplains, &c., in every part of the world. Goods and Outfits supplied at Wholesale prices. Shipping and passages arranged. Banking in all its branches. Full descriptive Catalogue post free. Specially appointed Agents to seven of the leading English and American Missionary Societies. 2000 References.

ELEGANT COUNTERPANE, Turkey Twill and White Calico. Coloured Illustration, model, and instructions, 9 stamps. Charming Cretonne Summer Counterpane, model and instructions, 9 stamps.—CLIFFORD, Newport, Mon.

IRON MISSION ROOMS, &c., erected on the most reasonable terms, by R. SAUNDERS, 127, Hungerford-road, London, N. Estimates and designs free. 25 years' practical experience. Also Churches and Schools, &c. Best workmanship.

IF YOU WISH to help a poor tradesman, give him one of our Registered Mitre Machines, for making Picture Frames. Price 13s., carriage paid to any address in the Kingdom.
Makers, BOOTH BROTHERS, Dublin.

MASSAGE.—Treatment by an experienced Physician, recommended by eminent London doctors.—A Lady, who has greatly benefited by the above Treatment, and desires to continue it, wishes to meet with two or three other Ladies, who will share with her the expenses and benefits of a thoroughly cheerful Home in a most healthy part of Brighton, where they will receive the kindest attention, and the requisite rest, "without isolation."—For full particulars, apply to Miss F. RAVENSCROFT, 33, Eaton-place, Kemp Town, Brighton.

GOSPEL TENT, to hold about 300, wanted for City Mission Work during summer months in a district of over 4,000 poor people. Who will help, by lending or otherwise? Many souls have been won to Christ in former Tent Missions.—J. J. B., City Missionary, Meadfield, South Norwood, S.E.

100 PACKETS OF FLOWER SEEDS FOR 1s.!—Probably the most extraordinary value ever offered. Each packet different, named, and newly saved, from choice outdoor kinds. Post free 1s. 3d., 6 parcels (600 packets), 6s., free, without prepayment if good references are sent. Satisfaction guaranteed.
AMATEUR FLORIST, Liverpool-road, St. Albans.

The 'CLERGYMAN'S' BOX OF PURE GARDEN SEEDS. 10/6 10/6

Containing 50 Packets of the best Seeds for a supply of Vegetables all the year round. The cheapest ever offered. Sent carriage free on receipt of P.O.O.

OAKSHOTT & MILLARD, READING
Seedsmen to the Queen.

NEAVE'S

FOR INFANTS,
INVALIDS,
AND THE AGED.

FOOD.

UMBRELLAS RE-COVERED FROM 2s. EACH.

IF YOUR UMBRELLA WANTS RE-COVERING send it by Parcels Post (with Postal Order enclosed) to STRONG BROS., Umbrella Makers, Redhill, Surrey, who will re-cover it and return it as good as new by next post, carriage paid. Good strong twill, ladies', 2s., gents', 2s. 6d.; good alpaca, ladies', 3s., gents', 3s. 6d.; strong durable silk, ladies', 4s. 6d., gents', 5s. Patterns post free. Reference kindly permitted to the Rev. W. J. Fowell, Redhill. ☞ A sample New Umbrella at wholesale price. List free.

Publications.

THE NEAR RETURN of the Lord Jesus Christ. By CHEYNE BRADY. 17th thousand. Price One Penny.
S. W. PARTRIDGE & Co., 9, Paternoster-row, E.C.

The original and most comprehensive.

THE QUEEN'S PRINTERS' TEACHER'S BIBLES.

Twelve Sizes,
Fifteen Editions,
Fifty Styles.

From 3s., at all Booksellers.

EYRE & SPOTTISWOODE,
GREAT NEW ST.,
LONDON, E.C.

TO ADVERTISERS.

Advertisements must arrive not later than FIRST POST MONDAY to be inserted in the following issue.

Terms for Advertisements
"The Christian"
(PREPAID)

Miscellaneous Advertisements in small type are charged at the following rates:—

Not exceeding 30 Words		....	3	0
"	39 "	....	3	9
"	48 "	....	4	6

And 9d. for every additional line of nine words or under, the address being in all cases charged for.

READY EARLY IN APRIL.

THE COMPREHENSIVE TEACHERS' BIBLE.

With Entirely New Aids and New Concordnace on an Improved Plan.

"It would be difficult to suggest a more comprehensive and compact mass of information. . . . Nothing short of an exhaustive apparatus criticus is placed in the hand of the instructor."—Bookseller.

This Book will contain, in addition to the NEW HELPS and CONCORDANCE, the COMPLETE BAGSTER BIBLE, and an INDEXED ATLAS.

SAMUEL BAGSTER & SONS, LIMITED, 15, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

DAINTREE & CO., DYERS, LONDON.

The LARGEST WORKS IN LONDON for Dyeing and Cleaning in every Branch.
98, Mount-street, Grosvenor-square, W.; 365, Southwark-park-road, S.E.; 44, Leicester-square, W.C.

Carts Collect and Deliver to all parts.—PRICE LISTS BY POST.

ILLUSTRATED GOSPEL BOOKS.

SIXPENCE PER DOZEN.

"CAN YOU UNDO?" By Rev. A. A. RAMSEY.
"STAND FOR SOMETHING." By Rev. A. A. RAMSEY.
"SURE WE ALL KNOW THAT." By Rev. A. A. RAMSEY.
"I DON'T DESERVE SUCH LOVE AS THAT."
"TAKE CARE OF THE BLOOM." By Rev. E. HERBER EVANS, D.D.
"SOMETHING'S GOT HOLD OF ME." By C. R. PARSONS.
"HERRINGS FOR NOTHING."
THE HOLY BIBLE: What it is, and How to Read it. By Rev. J. E. SAMPSON.
THE GOOD FIGHT. By H. K. WOOD ("A Glasgow Merchant").
"HATH," or "SHALL HAVE?" By CHEYNE BRADY.
BLIND ELSIE'S QUESTION."

DRUMMOND'S TRACT DEPOT, Stirling.
London: S. W. PARTRIDGE & Co.

FIFTY ANSWERS TO INFIDEL OBJECTIONS. — By W. R. BRADLAUGH. Price Sixpence. Post free, 7½d. London: JOHN SNOW & Co., 2, Ivy-lane, Paternoster-row, E.C.

60, All Different, 1d. and ½d. Leaflets; 25, 4d.

THE "MOUNTAINS OF BREAD" series of little Books and Leaflets, by the late Georgiana Thompson, are copyright. Profits for poor and suffering Christians are still supplied by addressing, Miss A. THOMPSON, care of Dr. Cranage, Old Hall, Wellington, Salop.

ELECTRO-HOMŒOPATHY.—"Diseases, whether Simple or Chronic, and How to Treat Them." Containing Treatment for Cancer. By D. APPERLY. Post free, 7s. 6d.
D. APPERLY & Co., Cheltenham, Gloucestershire.

THE PRIESTHOOD, the Altar, and the Sacrifice, in the Christian Church; or the Lord's Supper, and the Sacrifice of the Mass: Which shall it be? By a Churchman. Price 1s.—KENSIT, Paternoster-row.

MRS. GRIMKE'S TEXT CARDS.—To be had from Mrs. GRIMKÈ, Prestwich, Manchester, who likes orders sent to her direct, or from E. KAUFMANN, 129, Cheapside; or booksellers.

JUST READY.

By the REV. J. A. WYLIE, LL.D.,

Author of "The History of Protestantism;" "The Papacy: its History, Dogmas, Genius, and Prospects," &c., &c.

WHICH SOVEREIGN:
QUEEN VICTORIA, or THE POPE?

ABRIDGED EDITION of 100,000 Copies. Price Threepence, or 2s. 8d. per Dozen.

Special Terms for Large Quantities, for Distribution, on Application.

This telling Treatise by the veteran Protestant writer, Dr. Wylie, could not have appeared more opportunely than in the present year (1888)—when we are about to commemorate the TER-CENTENARY, or the three-hundredth Anniversary, of the defeat of the attempted Invasion of our country by the Spanish Armada; and the BI-CENTENARY, or two-hundredth Anniversary, of the Accession in 1688 of the Protestant dynasty to the throne of the United Kingdom.

ALSO BY REV. J. A. WYLIE, LL.D.

THE SPANISH ARMADA: 1588.

Being an Account of the Events preceding, and a concise Narrative of the Defeat of the Spanish Armada.

Reprinted from the Author's "History of Protestantism," by permission of Messrs. Cassell & Co.

32 pages, Demy 8vo. Price 1d.

This will be found a most interesting, striking, and accurate narrative of the attempted invasion of England in 1588.

THE REVOLUTION of 1688.

A Retrospect

From John Wycliffe to William of Orange.

Being an Historical Account of the events preceding the Revolution — events so strikingly paralleled by the state of England at the present time.

32 pages Demy 8vo. Price 1d.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

ADDITIONAL
SACRED SONGS & SOLOS.

COMPILED AND SUNG BY

IRA D. SANKEY.

Consisting of a Choice Assortment of New Pieces, with an approved Selection of Standard Hymns.

309 HYMNS AND TUNES; IN ONE VOLUME.

This volume of "Additional Songs and Solos" will be published Separately in several editions both of Words and Music; particulars of which will be shortly announced.

The Cheapest Edition of the Words will sell at 1d.
(Nearly Ready.)

The Music will be issued both in Old Notation and in Tonic Sol-fa.

☞ The Demy 8vo. Edition in Old Notation may now be obtained at the following prices:—

TINTED COVERS	2s.
CTOTH LIMP	2s. 6d.
CLOTH BOARDS	3s.
CLOTH, BEVD. BOARDS, GILT EDGES ...	3s. 6d.

This Book is not intended to interfere in any way with the publication of "SACRED SONGS and SOLOS" (441 Hymns); which will be on Sale as heretofore.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS.

COMPILED AND SUNG BY

IRA D. SANKEY.

Nos. 1 and 2 Combined, containing 441 Pieces.

MUSIC AND WORDS.

OLD NOTATION.

Large 8vo. Size 8¾×5⅜.

1	F.	Tinted Covers ...	2	6
2	F.	Limp Cloth	3	6
3	F.	Cloth Boards	4	6
4	F.	Cloth Boards, gilt edges	5	0
5	F.	Morocco, gilt edges ...	8	6
6	F.	Morocco, flexible, kid-lined, gilt edges ...	12	6
7	F.	Seal yapped, kid-lined, silk sewn	21	0

This is the original Musical Edition, which has been so much used, both for singing and playing from.

OLD NOTATION: CHEAP EDITION.

Small 8vo. Size 7⅜×4¾.

1	H.	Tinted Covers ...	1	6
2	H.	Limp Cloth	2	0
3	H.	Cloth Boards... ...	2	6
4	H.	Morocco, gilt edges ...	5	6
5	H.	Morocco, flexible, kid-lined, gilt edges ...	8	6

This "Small Octavo" Musical Edition is very convenient for singing from. It has the advantage of being both cheap and portable.

TONIC SOL-FA.

Large 8vo. Size 8⅜×5⅜.

1	G.	Tinted Covers ...	2	6
2	G.	Limp Cloth	3	6
3	G.	Cloth Boards	4	6
4	G.	Cloth Boards, gilt edges	5	0
5	G.	Morocco, gilt edges ...	8	6

This is the original Sol-fa Edition, which has been largely used both for singing and playing from.

TONIC SOL-FA: CHEAP EDITION.

Small 8vo. Size 7⅞×4¾.

1	R.	Tinted Covers ...	1	6
2	R.	Limp Cloth	2	0
3	R.	Cloth Boards	2	6

This small Sol-fa Edition has recently been issued, and will be found very convenient for singing from. It is portable and cheap.

LARGE QUARTO (Old Notation).

Size 11×8½. Thickness 1½ inch.

Handsomely Bound in Cloth Extra, bevelled boards, gilt edges	16	6
Morocco, gilt edges	30	0

This is a very handsome Edition. Both Words and Music are printed in large type, and all the pages have rules round them. The Volume is specially intended for use at the Organ, Harmonium, or Piano. Being attractively got up, this Edition forms a very acceptable present.

SMALL QUARTO (Old Notation).
A NEW AND CHEAP EDITION.

Size 9½×7½. Thickness ¾ inch.

Cloth Back, paper sides ...	5	0
Cloth Boards	6	0

This is a new and cheap Edition in QUARTO size. It is very convenient for playing from, and has been much approved.

SCHOOL EDITION. In Old Notation, or Tonic Sol-fa.

Size 6×3⅞.

Tinted Covers...	0	4
Printed Cloth	0	6
Cloth Limp	0	9
Cloth Boards	1	0

This Edition contains all the Words, also the Complete Air of each piece. It is specially adapted for use in Schools.

WORDS ONLY.

CHEAPEST EDITION (A).

Size 4⅜×3¼.

1	A.	Sewed	0	1
1½	A.	Paste-down Covers ...	0	1½
2	A.	Printed Cloth ...	0	2
3	A.	Cloth Boards	0	4

In this Edition the complete Book of 441 Hymns is to be had for ONE PENNY. The type, though small, is very clear and legible. In cases in which large quantities are required—as, for example, Sunday Schools or Missions—this is the most suitable Edition.

NONPAREIL EDITION (B).

Size 5⅜×4¼.

1	B.	Tinted Covers ...	0	3
2	B.	Printed Cloth ...	0	4

The type in this Edition is a size larger than that in Edition A.; and consequently this book is in many instances preferred.

POCKET EDITION (C).

Size 4⅝×3.

1	C.	Limp Cloth	0	6
2	C.	Cloth Boards	1	0
3	C.	Morocco, gilt edges ...	2	6
4	C.	Morocco, flexible, kid-lined...	4	6

This Edition, as its name implies, is very handy and portable: it affords a clear type in a small-sized Book.

SMALL 8vo. EDITION (D).

Size 6⅜×4.

1	D.	Tinted Covers ...	1	0
2	D.	Cloth Limp	1	6
3	D.	Cloth Boards... ...	2	0
4	D.	Morocco, gilt edges ...	4	6

The Four Books above-named have rules round every page.

SPECIAL CHEAP EDITION
(Reduced Size).

Size 5⅜×3⅝.

7	D.	Blocked Cloth ...	0	9

This Book is printed in the same Type as the four D. Editions mentioned above; but, being printed without rules to the pages, the book is of course of smaller size.

EXTRA LARGE TYPE (E).

Size 6⅝×5.

1	E.	Tinted Covers ...	1	6
2	E.	Limp Cloth	2	0
3	E.	Cloth Boards	2	6
4	E.	Morocco, gilt edges ...	5	6
5	E.	Morocco, flexible, kid-lined...	8	6

These five sorts have rules round every page.

SPECIAL CHEAP EDITION
(Reduced Size).

Size 6×4¼.

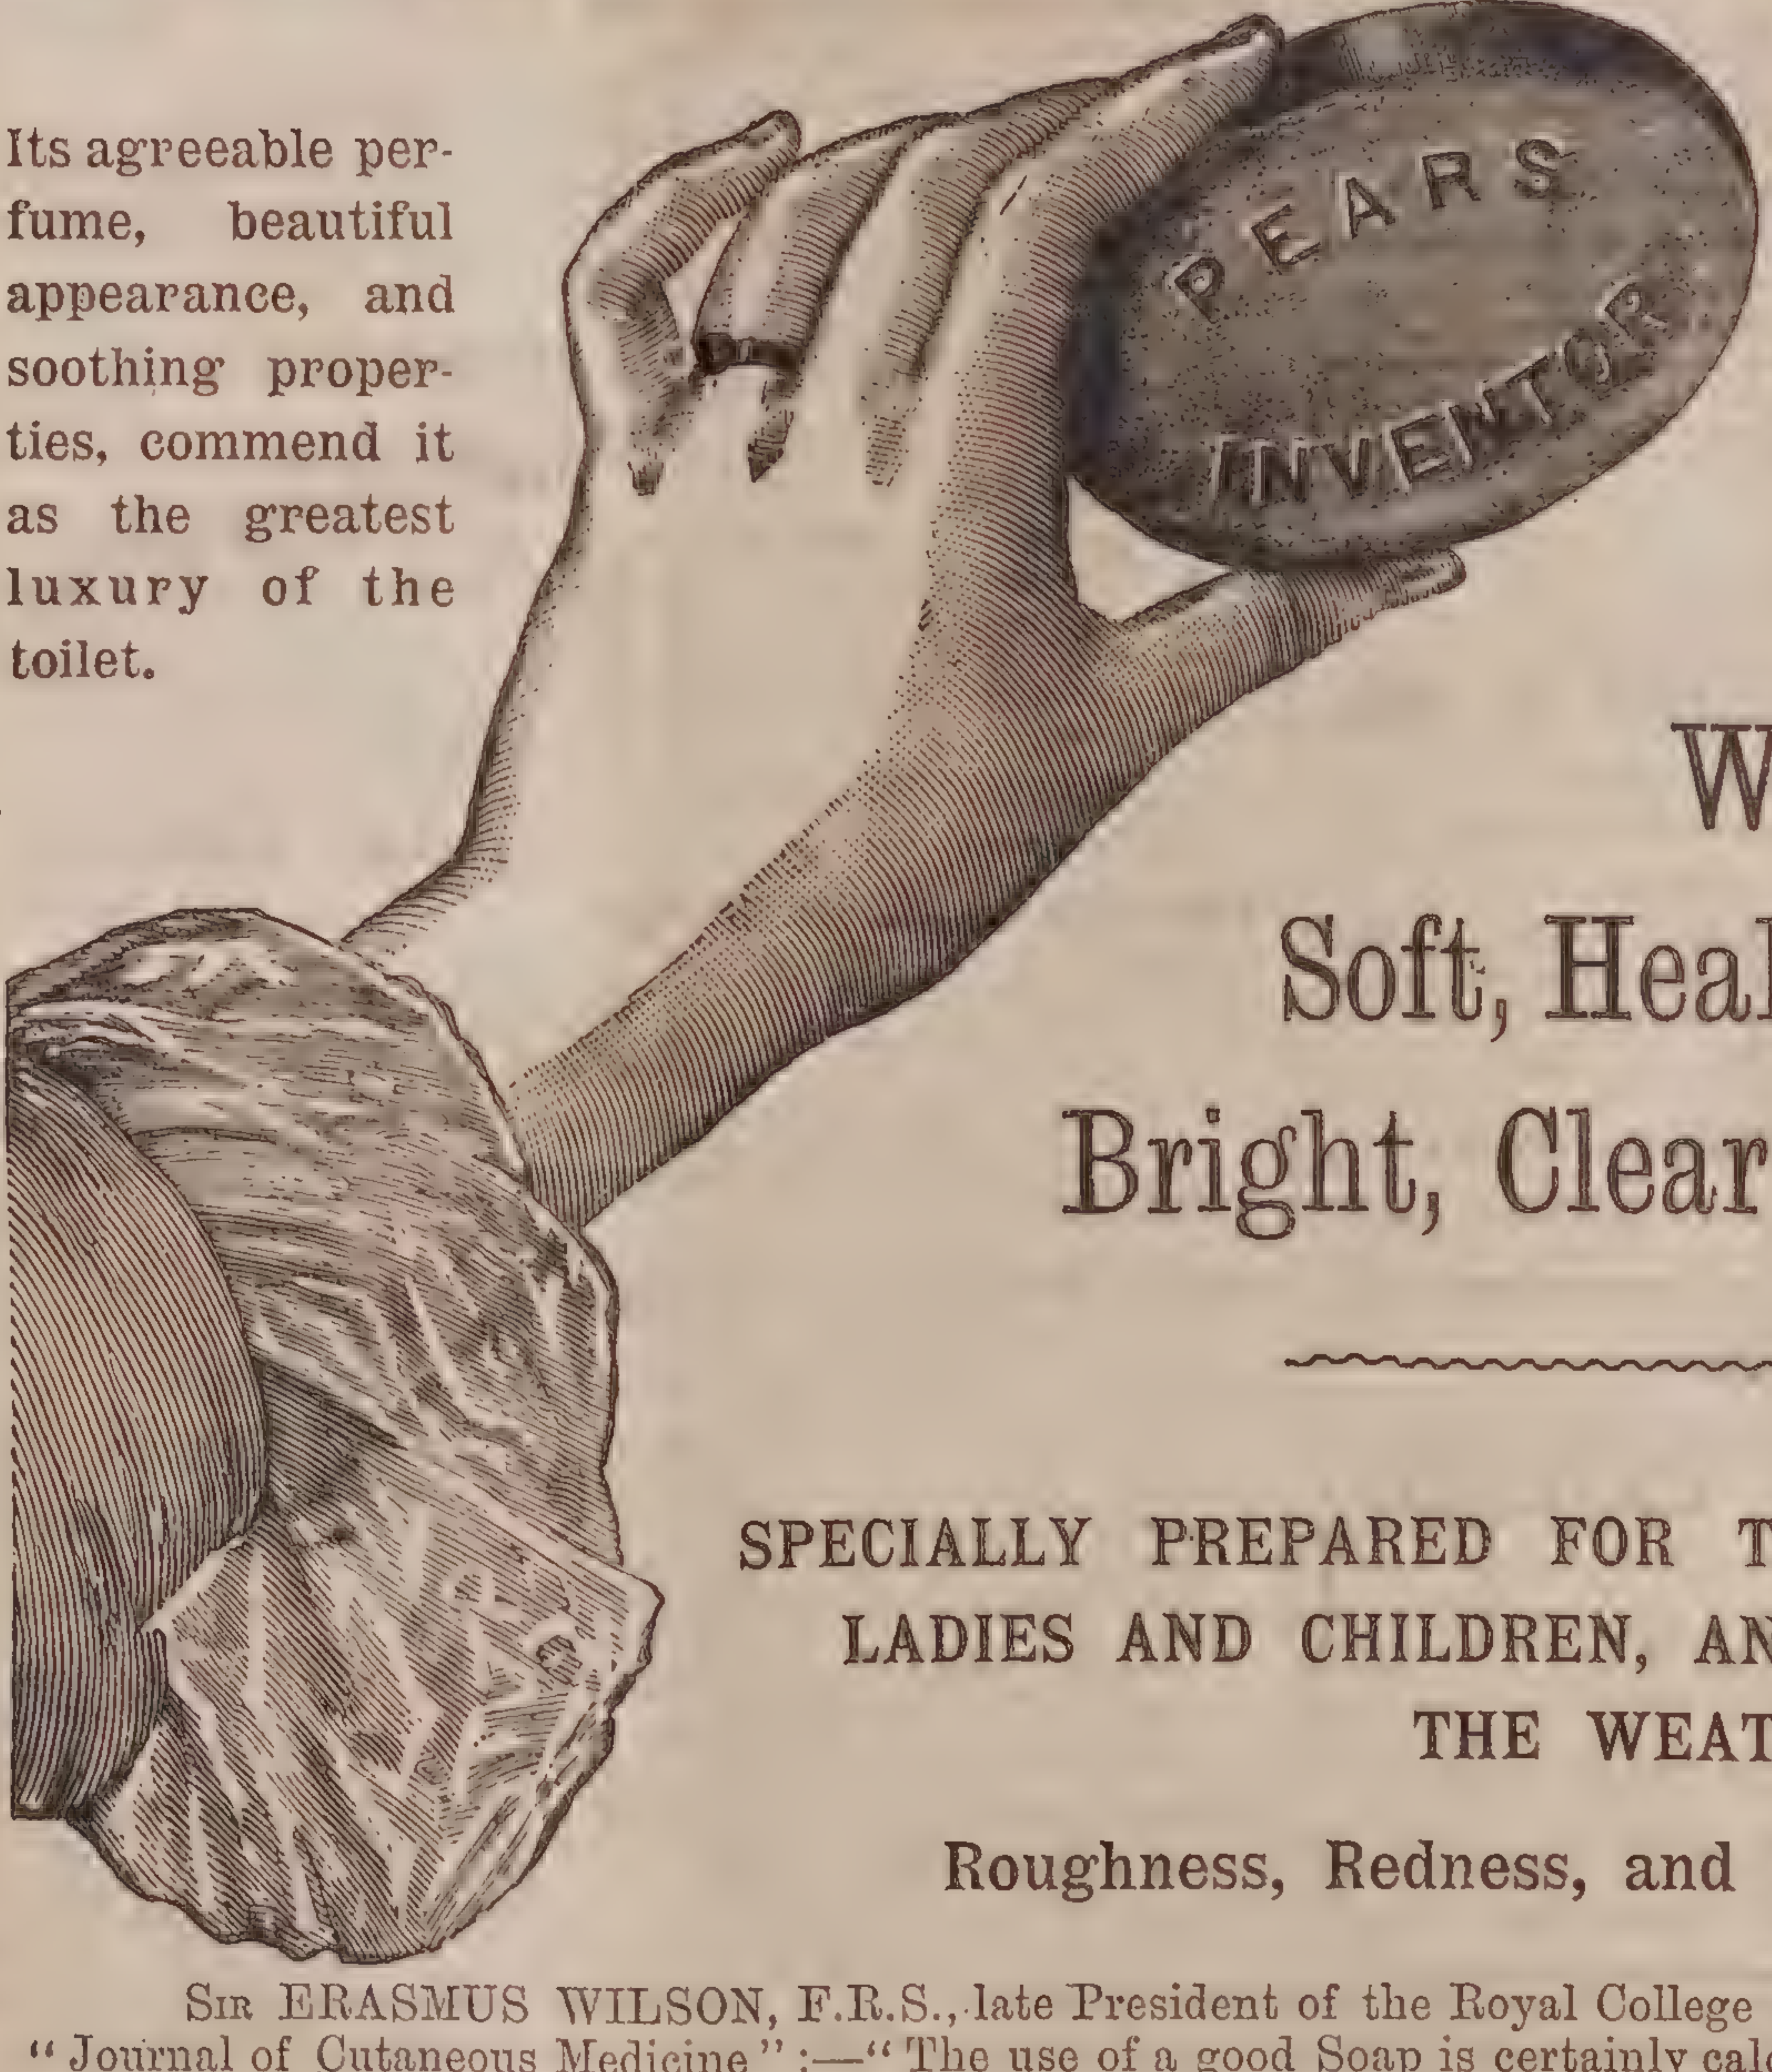
7	E.	Tinted Covers ...	1	0
8	E.	Blocked Cloth ...	1	6
9	E.	Morocco, gilt edges ...	4	6
10	E.	Morocco, flexible, kid-lined...	6	6

All these ten sorts are in good large print, and are very suitable for the aged and for any whose sight is not good.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller or Musicseller in the Kingdom.

For the Toilet.
For the Nursery.
For Shaving.

Pears' Soap



Its agreeable perfume, beautiful appearance, and soothing properties, commend it as the greatest luxury of the toilet.

Fair,
White Hands.
Soft, Healthful Skin.
Bright, Clear Complexion.

SPECIALLY PREPARED FOR THE DELICATE SKIN OF LADIES AND CHILDREN, AND ALL SENSITIVE TO THE WEATHER.

Roughness, Redness, and Chapping prevented.

Sir ERASMUS WILSON, F.R.S., late President of the Royal College of Surgeons, England, writes, in the "Journal of Cutaneous Medicine":—"The use of a good Soap is certainly calculated to preserve the skin in health, to maintain its complexion and tone, and prevent its falling into wrinkles. . . . . PEARS is a name engraven on the memory of the oldest inhabitant; and Pears' Transparent Soap is an article of the nicest and most careful manufacture, and one of the most refreshing and agreeable of balms for the skin."

Mr. J. L. MILTON, Senior Surgeon to St. John's Hospital for the Skin, London, writes:—"After fifteen years' careful trial in hundreds of cases, nothing has answered so well, or proved so beneficial to the Skin, as Pears' Transparent Soap."

PEARS' SOAP is sold everywhere in Tablets, 1s. each. Larger sizes, 1s. 6d. and 2s. 6d. (The 2s. 6d. Tablet is perfumed with Otto of Roses. A smaller Tablet, unscented, is sold at 6d.) Insist on having PEARS', as injurious imitations are often substituted for extra gain.

Notes on Daily Readings.

SUNDAY, APRIL 1.——MICAH VI.

A NEW prophecy. "This chapter and the next have no direct connection with the earlier chapters. The prophet first calls upon the people to discuss with Jehovah the cause between Him and them. Comp. Isa. i. 18, xliii. 26."—S.C.

5.—Remember now what Balak king of Moab consulted.—Another "great display of grace, the frustration of the plan formed by Balak (concocted with the elders of Midian, Numb. xxii. 3) to destroy Israel by means of the curses of Balaam. The words 'from Shittim (Israel's last encampment beyond Jordan, Numb. xxv. 1) to Gilgal' (the first encampment in Canaan, Josh. iv. 19) embrace not only Balak's advice and Balaam's answer, by which the plan was frustrated, but also the defeat of the Midianites, the crossing of the Jordan, the entrance into the promised land, and the circumcision at Gilgal, whereby the then generation was received into covenant with Jehovah. These acts of the Lord, as emanations of his covenant faithfulness, attest his righteousness."—Keil.

6.—Wherewith shall I come before the Lord?—"The remembrance of these gracious acts calls to mind the people's base ingratitude, so that Israel now inquires with what it can now appease the Lord."—Keil.

8.—What doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, &c.—Not that this would save Israel, for God alone had been and would be their Saviour, but such a walk would glorify Him and testify to his being their salvation. "To walk humbly" implies a sense of their sin. To "hear the rod" acknowledges their desert of chastening, but even this gives evidence of their relationship to God (Heb. xii. 7). To the end of the chapter is a record of sins which call for chastisement.

MONDAY, APRIL 2.——MICAH VII.

1.—Woe is me! for I am, &c.—"The words are put by Micah into the mouth of the true Israel."—S.C.

5.—Trust ye not in a friend.—"The corruption reaches to the innermost recesses of society. Confidence is extinct. Our Lord uses the words of ver. 6 in Matt x. 35, 36; Luke xii. 53."—S.C.

7.—Therefore, I will look unto the Lord.—Comp. 2 Tim. ii. 13 (R.V.): "If we are faithless, He abideth faithful; for He cannot deny Himself."

8.—Rejoice not against me, O mine enemy.—"The enemy whose insolent exultation is here deprecated is Assyria, personified as a woman (10—12)."—S.C. The language, however, admits also of a spiritual application to sin, the Christian's great enemy. See sin personified, Rom. vi. 14, 17, 20.

11.—In that day shall the decree be far removed.—"It probably here refers to the ordinance by which Israel was separated from the nations of the world, 'the middle wall of partition,' which the Messiah was to break down (Eph. ii. 14.)"—S.C. In other words "the law": so Vulgate.

12.—In that day he shall come to thee from Assyria, &c.—Better (R.V.), "Shall they come unto thee." "Assyria represents the Eastern world, Egypt the Western."—S.C. This verse and the next describe the present Gentile dispensation, and the desolation of the land meanwhile. See Matt. viii. 11.

18.—Who is a God like unto thee?—Few more beautiful descriptions are to be found in Scripture of "the God of all grace." The concluding words (20) are taken up by Zacharias (Luke i. 70—74). "The remnant of his heritage" means "here, as elsewhere, the Lord's people, the true Israel."—S.C.

TUESDAY, APRIL 3.——NAHUM I.

"The Book of Nahum contains one extended prophecy concerning Nineveh, in which the ruin of that city and of the Assyrian world-power is predicted in three strophes, answering to the division into chapters: Chap. i., the Divine purpose to inflict judgment upon this oppressor of Israel; chap. ii., the joyful news of the conquest, plundering, and destruction of Nineveh; chap. iii., its guilt and inevitable ruin."—Keil. "The prophecy of Nahum is both the complement and counterpart of the Book of Jonah. Nineveh, as appears from Nahum, had fallen back into the violence of which it had repented. It had been spared, but had sunk back into its old sins. The office of Nahum is to pronounce its sentence. That sentence is fixed. 'There is no healing of thy bruise' (iii. 19). 'He will make the place thereof an utter desolation' (i. 8)."—Pusey.

2.—God is jealous, and the Lord revengeth.—Better as in R.V., "avengeth." "Revenge," as commonly understood, is not to be attributed to God, but "vengeance" is (Rom. xii. 19). The brighter view of God's character presented in ver. 7 needs, however, such a background as this. Even the Gospel contains not only a revelation of a righteousness of God (Rom. i. 17) offered to faith, but of "the wrath of God against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men" (18).

7.—The Lord is good, a stronghold in the day of trouble, and He knoweth them that trust in Him.—We have in this verse not only the love of the Father, but the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and in the last clause the fellowship of the Holy Ghost.

8.—The place thereof.—Keil thinks Nineveh (1) is meant, as representing the place or headquarters of opposition to the people of God.

11.—A wicked counsellor.—The Targum explains this of Sennacherib. Others of Rabshakeh (Isa. xxxvi. 14—20).

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4.——NAHUM II.

In the Hebrew the last verse of chap. i. is the beginning of the chapter. This verse is applied in Is. lii. 7 to Christ's salvation, which suggests that the destruction of Nineveh, which forms the subject of this chapter, is typical of the destruction of the great world-power (Rev. xviii.), which is overthrown at the time of Christ's second coming.

2.—For the Lord hath turned away the excellency of Jacob.—Better in R.V.: "Bringeth again the excellency of Jacob as the excellency of Israel." Jacob is the natural name, Israel the spiritual name, of God's people (Gen. xxxii. 28). "He will exalt the nation once more to the lofty eminence of its Divine calling."

7.—Huzzab shall be led away captive.—"The Rabbinical view is that Huzzab is the name of the Queen of Nineveh."—S.C. Pusey prefers rendering the word "it is decreed," followed by, "He shall be led away," &c.

11.—Where is the dwelling of the lions?—"On the monuments of Nineveh the figure of the lion is everywhere conspicuous."—S.C.

THURSDAY, APRIL 5.——NAHUM III.

1.—Woe to the bloody city!—"Literally in the margin 'city of bloods.' The plural of the word is often used in Hebrew to express blood shed by violence, and the guilt so contracted."—S.C. As to that great city of which Nineveh was a type, see Rev. xviii. 24, and compare the many parallel thoughts and expressions in that chapter and this, from which it would appear that Nineveh, as the capital of the first great world-power that enslaved Israel, is here treated as the type of the last of the great world-powers of Daniel vii. in its last phase.

4.—Selleth nations through her whoredoms.—See Rev. xviii. 23 (last clause). The application of the figure of a harlot (which generally represents an apostate church) to Nineveh may be connected with her repenting at the preaching of Jonah, and afterwards falling away into her former sins. So the Roman Empire professedly repented in the fourth century and became Christendom, but her apostasy and relapse into practical heathendom are matters of history, and justify the strong language used prophetically of her in Rev. xviii.

8.—Art thou better than populous No.—Better in R.V. "than No-Amon." "Thebes in Upper Egypt is the city meant here. Amon is probably the name of the chief divinity of the city."—S.C.

19.—There is no healing of thy bruise.—"Nineveh sank and never rose; nothing soothed its fall. In the end there shall be nothing to mitigate the destruction of the world. As Nineveh is the image of the world, its pomps, wealth, luxury, vanity, wickedness, oppression, destruction; so its king is the image of a worse king, the prince of this world."—Pusey. Antichrist, rather than Satan, seems typified.

FRIDAY, APRIL 6.——HABAKKUK I.

The name of this prophet is suggestive of the great revelation entrusted to him as to the efficacy of faith (ii. 4). "Habakkuk means embracing. Like many Hebrew names it is peculiarly fitted to express the character of the prophet, full of trustful faith, clinging to the promises of God."—S.C. Nahum had predicted the fall of Nineveh, which took place by the combined forces of the Medes and Chaldeans (B.C. 625). Habakkuk, about this time, is sent to foretell the rise and rapid advance, and rapacity and ferocity of the newly formed Babylonian kingdom of the Chaldees, to be so soon used as God's scourge of Judah, as Assyria had been of Israel. But in the midst of his message of judgment shines forth the message of mercy, "the just shall live by his faith," and the book closes with the triumph of faith (iii. 17—19).

2.—O Lord, how long shall I cry?—"A state of general corruption, and the predominance of wickedness in Jerusalem, have long disturbed the prophet's spirit. The description accords most remarkably with Jeremiah's account of the state of Jerusalem under Jehoiakim (Jer. xxii. 15—17)."—S.C.

5.—I will work a work in your days.—St. Paul quotes these words in the Synagogue of Antioch in Pisidia (Acts xiii. 41), with a probable reference to the approaching destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans, which, as a judgment upon unbelieving Judaism, far exceeded that by the Chaldeans.

12.—Art Thou not from everlasting?—The prophet speaks in the name of the faithful few, "we shall not die," and grounds this confidence on the immutability of Jehovah.

SATURDAY, APRIL 7.——HABAKKUK II.

1.—What I shall answer when I am reproved.—Better (R.V.) "concerning my complaint." "He refers to the complaint raised against God (i. 13—17), that He lets the wicked go on unpunished."—Keil.

2.—That he may run that readeth it.—Almost all commentators suppose this to mean "that he that runs may read," whereas it is, "that he that reads may run." In other words, that the reader, being impressed with the importance of the message, may at once start off on the course it sets before him. If the question be asked, Whither shall he run? The latter part of Heb. vi. 18 is the best answer. The Jewish Targum is, "That he may hasten to obtain wisdom, whoever he is that reads in it."

4.—The just shall live by his faith.—The order of the words in Hebrew is, "the just by his faith shall live," which leaves it an open question whether the assertion is that the soul made just by faith should live, or that the just (however made so) should live by faith. Gal. iii. 11 is strongly in favour of the former, as St. Paul's argument turns on the words showing that only by faith is a man just "in the sight of God." So also is Rom. i. 17. See R.V.

5.—Yea also, because he transgresseth by wine.—The difficulty of this passage is to know to whom it refers. Most suppose a transition to the Chaldean, here described ideally (drunkenness being a notorious Chaldean vice), but many things favour the connection with the proud self-righteous one spoken of in the beginning of ver. 4, on whom, to the end of ver. 17, are pronounced woes in reference to his worldly and self-indulgent character.

19.—Woe unto him that saith...to the dumb stone, Arise, it shall teach!—One of the attempted justifications of Romish idolatry is that images of our Lord and of the saints instruct the people. Such images are, however, now, as then, "teachers of lies" (ver. 18), and come under the woe here pronounced.

Y.M.C.A. Bible Lessons.

OUTLINES PRERARED BY HENRY THORNE.

Sunday Afternoon, April 8.

THE FIG TREE, FAVOURED BUT FRUITLESS.—LUKE xiii. 6—9.

THIS parable should be read in the light of the previous verses. The cruelty and sacrilege attributed to Pilate were a prelude to the barbarities of Titus. The Jewish nation as such perished with the destruction of Jerusalem. In the act of Pilate we see the first approach of the Husbandman to the fruitless tree, and in the sequel we see the fulfilment of the terrible command to "Cut it down." "Drops," says one, "come down from the warning cloud before wrath is poured out to the uttermost.' Concerning this tree note:—

(1) ITS POSITION.—In a vineyard. Sunny slopes are generally chosen for vineyards (comp. "very fruitful hill," Isa. v. 1). "The vineyard of the Lord of hosts is the house of Israel" (Isa. v. 7). This was guarded by a fence, stoned, and cared for in every possible way. A fig tree in a vineyard of such a character would be in a favoured place. The Israelites were so favoured (2 Sam. v. 23). They had around them the fence of Divine protection (Zech. ii. 5), and there shone upon them the sunshine of the Divine favour (Ps. lxxxv. 1). It was their great advantage to possess the Scriptures (Rom. iii. 1, 2), and, above all other advantages, they had the presence of the Messiah (John x. 10). Similar privileges are enjoyed by those born in a Christian country or residing in a godly family (2 Tim. iii. 15), or sitting under an earnest Gospel ministry (1 Thess. i. 5).

(2) ITS POVERTY.—"Found none." Not even a little. Without Christ we can do nothing (in the way of fruit-bearing, John xv. 5). Compare "the empty vine" (Hosea x. 1), and the fruitless tree ("nothing but leaves," Mark xi. 13). Note the disappointment of the owner (Isa. v. 2). The Lord desires fruit (Isa. v. 2); expects it (Matt. xxi. 34); labours for it (John xv. 2), and finds pleasure in it (Cant. iv. 16, vii. 13). The barrenness of this tree was long continued. Through all the years of its existence it drew upon the resources of the soil, but gave nothing out. Note the fruits of the Spirit (Gal. v. 22, 23), and see how all were lacking in degenerate Israel.

(3) ITS PERIL.—"Cut it down." The peril of the tree arose from its prominent position (Matt. xi. 23), from the wrath of the owner (Ps. ii. 12), and from the fact that it was doing harm ("cumbereth"—Gr., katargeō, to make useless). It was spoiling the ground. See how the unbelief of Israel worked ill for others (Rom. ii. 24). Fruitless professors do more harm to God's cause than avowed infidels. God will deal with such. The candlestick that gives no light must be taken "out of its place" (Rev. ii. 5).

(4) ITS PROBATION.—"This year also." The long-suffering of God is brought out here, and rightly associated with the work of an intercessor (Is. liii. 12). The vinedresser had probably spent much time over the tree (Rom. x. 21). He also hoped it might do better (Is. lxv. 8). He saw, moreover, the good results that would then accrue ("well"). Well for the tree: it would be spared; and for those who got the fruit: they would be provided with food (Neh. xiii. 15), and with medicine (2 Kings xx. 7). The digging and dunging relate to the last efforts of Christ to save a soul.

(5) ITS POSSIBILITIES.—Fruit or failure, usefulness or destruction. If fruitful, well; if not, even the Vinedresser will abandon it. "When," says Dr. Arnot, "Jesus lets a sinner go, who shall take him up?"

MR. DENHAM SMITH.—Notwithstanding the prolonged and exhaustive character of Mr. Denham Smith's illness, and the distressing attacks of suffering which prostrate him, and which now recur with greater frequency, he still maintains the same peaceful attitude of mind. This week has brought increased weakness.

EAST LONDON.—A correspondent writes to us concerning the poor in the streets and alleys of the East-end, surrounding the East-end Tabernacle, and suggests that help should be sent to the pastor for the purpose of assisting a large number of these people to emigrate this spring. The destitution in the neighbourhood of Mr. Brown's church passes description, and emigration seems the only permanent remedy.

International S. S. Lesson.

Sunday Afternoon, April 8.

CHRIST'S LAST WARNING.

MATT. xxiii. 27—39. Golden Text: Ps. li. 10.

"THERE is nothing," says Dr. Parker, "by common consent of all men who are entitled to judge upon the matter, in all eloquence, ancient and modern, to compare, for grandeur of malediction, for moral nobleness, for intellectual insight, with the eloquence of this denunciation of Christ's. How it rolls and scorches like a flood of lava!"

But it is most important to remember that these awful words were spoken, (1) in the presence of the guilty ones, and not behind their backs, to them and not of them; (2) that in saying these words the Speaker risked his life. If anything could make his death more sure, it was this speech. Jesus spoke in full knowledge of all this. (3) He could speak more sternly and awfully than others, because He loved men so well. There is nothing so searching and fearful as the stern side of love. Also, He could be more faithful, because He knew the heart. When we indulge in burning indignation, we generally make some mistake and misjudge others. (4) These words were spoken only when every other means had failed—they were his last warning; and (5) they end in an outburst of mighty compassion, "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem," &c.

27.—Hypocrites.—The word hypocrite comes from a Greek word meaning an actor on the stage—one who plays a part. Hence, a feigner, a hypocrite. When we try to be what we are not, to seem to be better than we are, we are hypocrites, more or less. The temptations to hypocrisy are many and great. While thorough-going, conscious hypocrites are few, sincere men, free from all taint of false appearance, are few also. Whited sepulchres.—About a month before the Passover, the Jews used to whitewash the various tombs that lay around Jerusalem, in order to make them conspicuous, so that no pilgrim might stumble against them unawares, and thus contract ceremonial defilement. This had just been done when our Lord was speaking. He saw them, gleaming in the pure Syrian sunlight, brilliantly bright and beautiful. But are within full of dead men's bones, &c.—Not only repulsive and defiling, ceremonially, but actually contaminating and deadly. So hypocrisy is more than offensive; it infects, having in it the seeds of moral and spiritual death.

28.—Iniquity, better lawlessness, "a reckless disregard of the very law of which they professed to be the interpreters."—Ellicott.

29.—Garnish the sepulchres of the righteous.—"In lieu of observing their words, imbibing their spirit, or imitating their lives. Thus Herod the Great, a monster of cruelty, rebuilt the sepulchre of David."—Abbott. They professed to condemn their fathers, and to honour the prophets whom their fathers slew; yet they were plotting worse sin than any committed by their fathers. It is easy to condemn others; but what if we do the same or worse? We condemn these Jews for crucifying Jesus, exactly as they condemned their fathers for slaying the prophets; if we also reject Him, are we better than they?

31.—Wherefore ye be witnesses unto yourselves, &c. —You admit your outward descent from them that slew the prophets; but in your hearts ye know that ye are their true children spiritually, cherishing towards Me that very spirit of hate and murder which they cherished towards the prophets. Jesus here spoke as the searcher of hearts.

34.—Behold, I send unto you, &c.—Words that refer prophetically to the ministry of the Apostles and their company after Pentecost. Teachers should point out carefully the Divine majesty of these words. How sublimely He speaks as God! Compare this with Peter's explanation of the coming of the Holy Ghost, as the gift of the risen Lord (Acts ii. 33).

39.—Ye shall not see Me henceforth, till, &c.—This (Tuesday, April 4, A.D. 30) was the last day of our Lord's public ministry. They saw Him no more in his Messianic ministration. After his resurrection He appears to chosen witnesses only (Acts x. 41). Some day the Jews will be converted. They will receive Jesus as their King. Then only will they see Him.

LESSONS.

(1) The awful nature of hypocrisy.—To see this, ponder the figure used, "whited sepulchre." No sinner so hardened as the hypocrite, for nothing "hardens all the heart and petrifies the feeling" like secret sin. Further, there can be no hope for the hypocrite. "How can ye escape the damnation of hell?" The God of truth "desires truth in the inward parts."

(2) Christ's feeling towards hypocrites.—How fearful his wrath! Every word burns like fire. What will it be for the impenitent hypocrites to stand before Him at the Last Day. And yet, to the end of his awful discourse, He was yearning for their repentance and salvation.

(3) If we are lost, the fault is ours only.—To reject Christ is to commit spiritual suicide. Note the contrast here. God working so long and patiently to bring men from sin to Himself: they continuing in sin, growing worse and worse. "How often would I!" "Ye would not!"

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

Great Assembly Hall, Mile End-road, E.—In the evening of Sunday week, Mr. W. R. Lane preached a very powerful sermon on the death of the Emperor of Germany, during which he made touching mention of the death of Mr. Charles Bingley, referred to elsewhere. At the close between 20 and 30 went into the inquiry-room, while many were dealt with in the body of the hall.

Ballinode, Co. Monaghan.—A successful two weeks' mission has been held in the Orange Hall of this village, by Mr. Thompson, of the Irish Evangelisation Society. The severe weather at first interfered, but the second week brought out large numbers, and much blessing has followed the simple story of the Cross. Rev. Mr. Graham (Presbyterian) co-operated with Mr. Thompson, the evangelist.

Mr. Henry Lakin has closed a ten days' mission at St. Andrew's Hall, Leith. The weather was unusually stormy, which told somewhat upon the attendance. The mission, however, has been very successful. Many were impressed, while not a few professed to believe in Jesus. The prayers offered have been answered, for which let the Lord's remembrancers return thanks. Mr. Lakin began a ten days' mission at Leeds on Saturday, the 24th inst. He requests prayer for blessing on his labours at that place.

Mr. Richard Weaver has been preaching with great acceptance and much power during the past three weeks at the "Edinburgh Castle," Limehouse. The great building has been thronged on Sunday nights with the roughest audience, many of whom have professed decision for Christ. Although physically feebler than of yore, Richard's addresses have been marked by marvellous energy, as well as by much spiritual power. Mr. Weaver returns to Cheshire this week, to resume work for the Lord there next Sunday.

Burgess Hill.—Mission services, conducted here by Mr. J. Barnabas Bain, have been most successful. The mission has resulted in the conversion of a number of persons, and in the quickening of Christians. A young lady who received blessing during this mission writes, in reference to the change wrought in her, "There will not be time for reading novels now. We shall want all we can get for reading our Bibles and for prayer." On April 8 Mr. Bain will commence an eight days' mission at Haywards Heath.

Wood Green, N.—A very real work of grace has been in progress here during the past month, especially amongst the young people, in connection with special services held in the Gospel Hall by Mr. James B. Wookey. The meetings have been well attended, and the power of the Holy Spirit has been felt in our midst. Many have been under deep conviction of sin, not a few having been transformed from death to life, and there has been much manifest blessing. Of the new converts a goodly number are youths of from between ten and eighteen years of age, and for these a special weekly Bible-class has been formed, the members of which already number upwards of thirty Christian lads.

K. R. S.

REV. EDWARD WHITE.—At a meeting at Hawley-road Chapel, Kentish Town, last week, a written address and a cheque for £1000 were presented to Rev. Edward White, on his retirement from the pastorate which he has held for about thirty-six years. The contributors included not merely past and present members of the church and congregation, but friends and admirers of Mr. White all over the country.

REPLIES TO THREE ENQUIRIES.

ENQUIRY 1.—Why should I consider it to be my duty as a Christian to support the Institutions known as "Dr. Barnardo's Homes?"

1. Because in the forefront of the whole work the CONVERSION TO GOD of the Children gathered into the "Homes" is kept clearly in view and earnestly sought after, to attain which blessed result the operations and influence of the HOLY SPIRIT are ever besought upon their systematic and daily instruction in the Word of God; and also because the inculcation of the principles of Total Abstinence forms a definite part of every day's training.

2. Because the "Homes" are the largest of their kind in the world, even now sheltering MORE THAN TWO THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED otherwise homeless, destitute, or orphan children; and will (D.V.), when the original scheme is fully completed, always be able to shelter 3000 poor boys and girls.

3. Because they promptly relieve destitute children of either sex, of every age, of any nationality, and of any creed or of none.

4. Because candidates require neither patronage nor votes, nor money, in order to secure admission, but only to give proof of real destitution.

5. Because immediate shelter to any homeless child applying for relief is provided by a Receiving House, which is open in East London at all hours of the day and night; and a Jubilee Shelter, having the same object, is about to be established in West London.

6. Because it is no disqualification for admission if a boy or girl applying for relief, and otherwise eligible, is found to be maimed of limb, or afflicted with some grievous physical disorder; thus, blind children, deaf mutes, and little cripples, if really destitute, may claim immediate admission.

7. Because the domestic life adopted by the Institutions embraces every approved system suitable for the training of children of different ages and of either sex. For example, Big Lads, capable of being taught trades, are brought up in a hardy way in large groups in Industrial Schools, on what is known as the Barrack System. Little Boys, between ten and thirteen years of age, are reared in Smaller Homes, chiefly under the gentler care and softer influence of women; while quite Tiny Boys, from three to ten years of age, are Boarded out with humble families in villages scattered throughout the country. Babies are either Boarded out or are reared in the Infants' House, called Babies' Castle, charmingly situated in the county of Kent; while all the Girls are, without exception, brought up in small groups and in separate cottages on the Family Plan, either at the Village Home at Ilford, or Boarded out with suitable families in country districts.

8. Because a separate Rescue House is always open for the immediate reception of female children snatched from positions of peril, and agents of the "Homes" are constantly at work by day and by night to discover or deliver such unhappy children from the custody or evil influences of persons seeking their ruin.

9. Because these Institutions are Voluntary Industrial Homes, all the boys over twelve years of age being instructed in useful handicrafts, and all the girls in the details of domestic service.

10. Because these "Homes" have for some years steadily Emigrated as many of their inmates as, after testing and training, were found physically and morally suitable for Colonial life.

ENQUIRY 2.—What Financial Aid is required to maintain the Existing Work efficiently, and also to complete the Original Scheme of the Homes, now so nearly finished?

1. ANY GIFT, HOWEVER SMALL, sent for the Maintenance Fund, will be gratefully accepted in support of the large family now sheltered in the Homes: 16s. 6d. will feed one child for a month; £2 10s. will do the same for three months; £5 for six months.

2. £16 will supply the entire cost of the maintenance, education, and industrial training of one boy or girl in the "Homes" for one year.

3. £8 10s. will cover the entire expense of outfit, railway fare, ocean passage, &c., of one young trained emigrant to the Province of Ontario, Canada. [£11 is required for Manitoba.]

4. £100 will supply all the Inmates of the several Institutions, now numbering 2432 boys and girls, and 150 adults, with FOOD FOR ONE DAY; £700 will do the same for a week.

5. £10 will furnish a Cot or Bed either in the Convalescent Home at the seaside, or in Her Majesty's Hospital for Sick Children at Stepney-causeway, or the Girls' Infirmary, Ilford.

6. £30 annually will maintain a Name Cot or Bed for use of a Sick Child, in one of these Infirmaries; or,

7. £750, invested as an endowment in the names of the Trustees of the "Homes," will provide the annual sum needed for the perpetual support of one Name Cot or Bed in either of the Infirmaries mentioned.

8. £1,292 will meet all expenses to be incurred at the Manitoba Farm.

9. £1,500 will complete "THE QUEEN'S VILLA," a House to receive 20 little rescued girl waifs, to be built at the Village Home in Essex, as the country memorial in these Institutions of Her Majesty's Jubilee.

10. £4,000 are also required to accomplish the rebuilding of HER MAJESTY'S HOSPITAL FOR SICK CHILDREN, in Stepney-causeway, as the town memorial of Her Majesty's Jubilee.

11. £2,900 are urgently needed to erect THE CHILDREN'S CHURCH, in the Girls' Village Home at Ilford, for the religious worship and instruction of the inmates.

12. £950 will build the last cottage required to complete the Village Home.

13. £7,000 are sorely needed to pay for the various additions now being made at Stepney-causeway (on the site of eleven old houses bought in 1886), including two schoolrooms, four trade-shops for new handicrafts, a gymnasium, one reading-room, and one play-room for younger boys, stores, enlarged lavatories, swimming-bath, dining-hall, with rooms for the staff, &c.

ENQUIRY 3.—How can I best advance the work of these Homes?

1. By daily prayer for God's blessing to rest upon the whole enterprise. Also by bringing the special needs of the "Homes" at certain seasons before other of God's remembrancers for united prayer.

2. By giving a Donation to promote some one or more of the foregoing objects, or by becoming a regular Subscriber to the funds.

3. By endeavouring to make the objects of the Institutions thoroughly known, and by becoming a Collector in aid of the funds. (Very beautiful collecting books are issued, under certain conditions, to Christian people applying for the same.)

4. By "adopting" a child now in the Institution as your own protégé—i.e., paying £16 per annum for his or her maintenance.

5. By giving a special donation to the Emigration Fund. As pointed out already, £8 10s. will defray the entire cost of one child's emigration to Ontario, Canada; £51 will do the same for six children; and £102 for twelve children.

6. By carefully endeavouring to disseminate the publications of the Homes among your friends, directing their attention to the same, resolving, as some of our fellow-workers do, never to send off even a letter without enclosing one of our small books in the envelope. Application for these books should be made to the Publication Secretary, 18 to 26, Stepney-causeway, London, E.

7. By sending contributions of articles of value for disposal to our sale room at Stepney, such as old coins, pictures, gold or silver ornaments, books, lace, &c.

8. Ladies can render valuable aid by forming working parties to make underclothing for the girls at the Village Home, and flannel shirts and socks for the boys.

9. By exercising personal self-denial as regards the use of needless luxuries, the cost of which, if saved and sent to the "Homes," would go far to relieve the pressing wants of some poor children.

10. By inducing your friends to visit the "Homes," which are open every afternoon between two and five o'clock (except on Saturday or Sunday, when no visitors can ever be admitted).

11. Many who cannot afford to give money now, may perhaps remember the Institutions when drawing up their Wills. A form of Bequest, approved by the Solicitors of the Homes, and suitable for adoption by testators, will be forwarded on application as below.

12. If you live in a large town which the Founder of the "Homes" has not visited, you may arouse such interest in the Institutions as shall lead to a visit from him, when further accounts of the Waifs could be given, and a permanent nucleus of important aid established.

13. In conclusion, remember that any donations, however small, will be thankfully received and gratefully acknowledged, if addressed to the Treasurer, William Fowler, Esq.; to the Chairman of Committee, Samuel Gurney Sheppard, Esq.; or to

DR. T. J. BARNARDO,
18 to 26, Stepney Causeway, London, E.

Note.—Cheques should always be crossed London and South-Western Bank. So also should Money Orders and Post Office Orders, the latter being payable only at the G.P.O.

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

HOME.

Sunday-closing in Ireland has been referred to a Select Committee.

During Mr. Coad's recent mission at Hove, 632 pledges were taken, and at a children's meeting 129 signed.

The C.E.T.S. Prayer Union is being reorganised. Several dioceses have elected officers for their branches of the Union.

The summer open-air campaign of the Scottish Temperance workers is already in contemplation. Why not the English also?

The new Sunday-school hymn book of the United Methodist Free Churches has a special section devoted to temperance hymns.

The authorities of the Regent's Park Zoological Gardens have given notice of an application for a spirit licence at the coming Licensing Sessions.

The Times, speaking of University sports, says, "Cafés or billiard rooms would be a sorry substitute for the breezy pleasures of the Isis or the Cam."

Rev. J. M. Hewson, travelling secretary of the Baptist Total Abstinence Association, has been conducting a successful Gospel temperance mission at the Mission Room, Sussex-road.

The Monthly Popular Number of The C.E.T. Chronicle has been abolished. Henceforth one week's issue is to be the monthly number, the matter to be of a lighter character than the ordinary issues.

Dr. Cameron, M.P., has brought in a Bill to bring towns of 50,000 inhabitants and upwards under the Act enabling the licensing authorities (Scotland) to fix the closing hours earlier than 11 o'clock.

By the International Convention on the North Sea Liquor Traffic every liquid obtained by distillation and containing more than five litres of alcohol per hectolitre shall be considered a spirituous liquor.

Dr. Richardson states that the hostility of his brother medical men to him on account of his temperance views has greatly damaged his formerly lucrative practice, and compelled him to rely for support largely on his pen.

Sir J. Gorst said in the House of Commons that the outstill system was exploded in all the provinces of India except Bengal and Assam, the most backward of all. Sir R. Temple said the Government desired by taxation to limit the consumption of drink in India.

At a special meeting of the Executive of the United Kingdom Alliance, by resolution, deep regret was expressed that Government had not included the direct veto in their Local Government Bill, and had decided to give compensation when licences were not renewed.

Mr. George Blaiklock, of Hoxton Hall, has recently lectured at Monmouth, Hay, Wilton, Trowbridge, Mere, Calne, Marlborough, Swindon, and other towns in the West. The meetings have been large, and over 70 pledges have been taken. Mr. Blaiklock expects to visit the North in April.

Mr. Ritchie, in answer to a question in Parliament, said the question of clubs in which intoxicating liquors were sold was an important and difficult one. The Government were considering the question, and would be glad if, without undue interference with bonâ fide clubs, they could in any way deal with it.

FOREIGN.

It is stated that a 500 dollar licence fee has reduced the number of saloons in Philadelphia from 6000 to 1300, and decreased drunkenness 25 per cent.

A fatal defect has been discovered in the prohibitory law of Rhode Island. The "loan" of liquor has not been expressly prohibited, and under this guise the law is flagrantly violated.

The French Chamber of Deputies have abolished without compensation an ancient privilege of wine growers by which they were permitted to distil a certain quantity of alcohol for home use.

Dr. Joseph Cook, Boston, U.S.A., in one of his Monday lectures lately declared "the sovereignty of the saloon in misgoverned great towns to be the most dangerous evil in American politics to-day, and likely for many years to be."

◆

Notices.

T.B.B.—Hebrew and English Parallel Bibles can be procured of the British and Foreign Bible Society, Queen Victoria-street, E.C., 7s. 6d. and 10s. 6d.

Applicants for Tracts.—S. Thwaites, 18, S. Rynner-street, Nottingham; A. Brown, Monk-street, Spanish Town, Jamaica, West Indies; A. Friday, 2, Alma-row, Henfield, Sussex; J. Beck, 36, Salisbury-street, Blandford, Dorset; Elizabeth Baker, Manor House, Broadway, Ilminster; J. G. Poole, 23, Fourth-avenue, Bush Hill Park, Enfield, N.; Secretary, Highgate Tract Society, Wesleyan Chapel, Archway-road, Upper Holloway, N.; J. J. Browne, Meadfield, South Norwood, S.E.; T. Glover, Grange House, Eastbourne, Sussex; Miss Ellis, 95, Ledbury-road, Notting Hill, W.

Communications Received with Thanks.—M.L. R.H.W. E.H.K. B.R. T.H. E. de M.R. St. G.T. A.F.G. C.B. B.F.K. H.H. C.G.B. M.R. S.M. W.N. M.K.L. S.S.V. C.F.H.B. M.H.W. J.W.W. J.T. J.R. A.T. F.B. W.D.D. E.S.M. C.M. W.A. C.A.S. F.G.H. M.A.L. B.B. G.E.W. M.V. H.F.G. L.B. D.C.P. H.E.B. L.J.F. S.D.L. J.T. C.L. C.H.W. W.H.R. H.C.N. R.D.F. N.L.B. G.S. E.W.F. J.C.S. W.H. A.A.B. W.B.H. J.S. W.M. C.C.F.A. M.E.B. H.B. W.H.M. L.P. W.H.G. F.A.B. G.B. R.H. G.K. L.T. A.M.J. A.M.P. W.M.S. M.H.S. G.M. F.N. A.F. C.M. R.B. J.B.B. M.J.K. E.P.L. E.C.N. H.K.S. J.E. W.R. J.T.T. H.N.B. H.S. G.M.D. G.M. W.H.T. H.I.A. D.F.L. N.H. W.H. P.C. C.J.G. M.N. E.M.W. W.F. R.G.L. L.B. A.A. T.C.V. A.J.B. G W.M. G.J.H. R.H. W.N. C.B. M.J.S. J.C.H. J.M. C.S. A.C. A.B.C. J.H. E.A.R.

Forthcoming Meetings.

The Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, and Wales on due notice. Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, W.C.

The Irish Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

The Church Army will send evangelists (working-men) to any clergymen on due notice, for short or long missions. Hon. Sec., 128 & 130, Edgware-road, W.

The Metropolitan Tabernacle Evangelists' Association will send lay preachers and evangelists to any chapel or hall of any evangelical denomination in London. Hon. Sec., 121, Camberwell New-road, S.E.

The Country Towns Mission supplies qualified missionaries for work in the country. Apply to Secretary, 18, New Bridge-street, Ludgate-circus, E.C.

Y.M.C.A., New Metal Exchange, Whittington-avenue, E.C.—Special services by the Mission Band, Y.M.C.A., Gordon Hall, Margate, March 29 to April 2. Meetings at 12, 3, and 8 each day.

Conference Hall and Y.M.C.A., Stratford, E.—Sundays in April, 3 and 7 p.m., Mr. C. Russell Hurditch. Bible-readings, Sundays, 3 p.m.; Tuesdays, 8 15 p.m.; Wednesdays, 8.15 p.m.

Y.M.C.A., The Priory, 198, Upper-street, N.—Sunday, April 1, 3.15 p.m., special addresses by Mr. W. Haig Miller; 8 p.m., open-air mission; 8.30 p.m., evangelistic meeting. Wednesday, 6 to 10 p.m., anxious inquirers and strangers.

Y.M.C.A., Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.—Sunday, 3.45 p.m., meeting for men only; 7 p.m., Mr. H. Grattan Guinness.

Conference Hall, Mildmay-park, N.—Sunday, April 1, 3.30 p.m., Mr. P. S. Badenoch; 7 p.m., Mr. James L. Stanley. Wednesday, April 4, First of series of Bible-readings by Rev. H. E. Brooke; subject—"Satan."

Strangers' Rest, 163, St. George's-street, Ratcliff-highway, E.—Easter Monday, April 2, special tea for sailors, 6 p.m. Monthly workers' meeting, Friday, April 6. Tea, 6 p.m; meeting, 7 p.m. Addresses by Rev. John T. Briscoe, on "Secrets of Power."

Kilburn Town Hall, N.W.—Sunday evening services will be held by the Evangelistic Mission on and after April 8, 7. p.m. Preacher for the month, Mr. A. M. Kyd.

Metropolitan Music Hall, Edgware-road.—Good Friday, 7.30 p.m., evening of sacred song by choir, assisted by friends. Selections from the "Messiah," and the works of Mozart, Mendelssohn, and Weber. Closing services for the season, Easter Sunday, Rev. T. J. Malyon, 3 p.m; Mr. Charles Cook, 7 p.m.

Great Assembly Hall, Mile End-road, E.—Sunday, April 1, 11 a.m., and 6.30 p.m., Mr. S. Golding.

Christian Convention, Norwich, April 11 and 12.

Glasgow Meetings of Christians, Queen's Rooms, Clifton-street, and Christian Institute, 70, Bothwell-street, Monday and Tuesday, April 2 and 3.

Dublin Believers' Meetings, May 29, 30, 31, and June 1.

St. George's Hall, Regent-street.—Sundays in April, Dr. McKilliam, at 11 and 7.

Burlington Hall, Savile-row.—Wednesday evenings in April, Dr. McKilliam, at 8.

Christian Workers' Reunion for Bible study and prayer, 186, Aldersgate street, every Thursday, at 3.30.

House of Rest, 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn, N.W.—Friday, March 30, 7 p.m, "Christ Crucified"; tea at 6. Friday, April 6, all-day meetings; 11 a.m., special praise meeting; 3 p.m., Rev. J. S. Rupell, on "Being filled with the Holy Spirit"; 7 p.m., "Personal Knowledge of Christ."

Children's Scripture Union.—Annual meeting, Exeter Hall, Strand, Thursday next, April 5, 3 p.m.; chairman, Rev. E. A. Stuart, President. 6.30 p.m., Rev. F. B. Meyer; addresses by Mrs. Evered Poole, and others.

Union Hall, Carlisle-street, Edgware-road, W.—Good Friday and Easter Monday, praise, prayer, and addresses, 11 a.m., and 3.30 and 7.30 p.m.

Deepening of the Spiritual Life.—Meeting at Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road, W., every Friday, 3 30 p.m. Friday, April 6, Rev. W. J. Latham. April 13, Rev. H. Sharpe.

A Reunion for prayer, praise, and mutual edification will be held at the Conference Hall, Eccleston-street, S.W., near the Victoria stations, Monday, April 2, at 4.

City Temple.—Dr. Parker, Thursday, April 5, noon, "Urgent Church Reforms."

Torquay Christian Conference, April 10, 11, and 12; subject—"Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, to-day, and for ever." Revs. Colin Campbell, F. B. Meyer, J. Hudson Taylor, E. N. Thwaites, J. Wilkinson, and Mr. Pember are expected to take part.

Southern Conference of General Baptist Churches, Thursday, April 12, Baptist Chapel, Borough-road, Southwark, S.E.; address, 7.30 p.m., by Rev. F. B. Meyer. Public admitted.

Marriage of Miss Booth and Commissioner Tucker.—Monday, April 9, St. James's Hall, Piccadilly; 11 a.m., The Claims of God and of the Heathen World upon every Follower of Christ; 2.30 p.m., Testimonies of Consecrated Men and Women given up to Labour for God in various parts of the World; 7 p.m., An Offering up of Lives to be spent wholly in the Service of God in any part of the World. Addresses by the Maréchale, Commissioner Tucker, and others. Tuesday, April 10, Congress Hall, Clapton, 11 a.m., the marriage service. The bride and bridegroom will deliver addresses. 7 p.m., great Indian Durbar; about 1000 officers will take part.

Subscriptions received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott to Monday, March 26, 1888.

, Will donors oblige us by giving explicitly and fully the titles of the missions to which they wish their donations to be applied? Mistakes which sometimes arise will thus be obviated. Will they also bear in mind that our Donation List is made up for the Printer on Monday morning? Any amounts received afterwards will be acknowledged in the subsequent week's number.

, We would respectfully urge all our friends, when remitting to us, to make Cheques, Money Orders, or Postal Orders payable to Morgan & Scott, and to cross them "City Bank;" this will effectually prevent loss of same.

, Donations should be sent by Cheque or P.O. Orders, not by stamps.

	£	s.	d.
F.C.S.—Please send full address.
Lia—Please send full address.
Mr. A. G. Brown's Work—Mrs. O. £1; M.AJ. 2s 6d	1	2	6
Christian Community—L.M.H. 5s; M.J. 2s 6d; S.G. £1 10s; H.M.A.S. 10s	2	7	6
St. Giles' Christian Mission—O.W.L.J. 10s; M.D. 5s; Frail, £1; J.C.M. 2s 6d; Worthing, 10s; M.R. £1	3	7	6
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—O.W.L.J. 10s; A.W.P. 1s; Worthing, 2s	0	13	0
Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen—O.W.L.J. 10s; L.E.S. £1	1	10	0
Gospel Purity Association—H.W.M. £1; L.T. 10s	1	10	0
Gray's-yard Ragged Church & Schools—E.G. 5s; Free Breakfasts—L.W. £1	1	5	0
Dock Labourers' Mission (Mr. Coleman)—T.C. 5s; B. & B. £5; Two Young Ladies, 4s... ...	5	9	0
Poor Children's Dinners—M.S.	0	2	6
Suppression of Opium Traffic with China (Lecturing & Travelling Agent)—M.S. 5s; C.W. £1; Mrs. C. 10s; J.W. 10s; Miss J.M.R. £1; Miss H.M. £1; Mr. R.A.C. £3 3s; X. 1s ...	7	9	0
Miss Weston's Work, Royal Navy—J.S.McK. ...	0	10	6
Rev. W. E. Hurndall's Work—J.S.McK.	0	10	6
Mr. Fegan's Boys' Home—Frail, £1; Mary, 10s; Emigration Fund—M. £5	6	10	0
Distress in S.E. London—H.W. £1; E.V. £1; H.H.S. £1; H.M.A.S. £1; C.E.Y. 10s	4	10	0
Lepers in India—S.G...	3	0	0
China Inland Mission—S.G. 10s; E.W. £2; Opium Refuge—E.S. £10	12	10	0
Bordighera Mission & Refuge—Misses C.	1	0	0
London Bible-women—Misses C. 10s; Nurses—Misses C. 10s	1	0	0
Salvation Army—J.W. 5s; J.W. 5s; M.A.J. 2s 6d; E.W. £2	2	12	6
Girls' School, Osaka, Japan—Misses C...	1	0	0
George-yard Ragged Schools—H.H.S. £1; M.A.J. 2s 6d	1	2	6
Home of Industry—H.H.S. £1; H.M.A.S. £1 ...	2	0	0
Children's Penny Dinners—H.H.S.	1	0	0
Relief London Poor—L.E.S.	3	0	0
Zenana & Medical Misn. (Dr. Griffiths)—L.E.S.	2	0	0
McAll Mission—L.E.S.	1	0	0
Miss de Broen's Work, Paris—L.E.S.	1	0	0
Ladies' Samaritan Society (Paralysed & Epileptic)—L.E.S....	1	0	0
Mrs. Meredith's Prison Mission—L.E.S.	1	0	0
Seamen's Christian Friend Society—H.M.A.S....	0	10	0
Dinners Sick Children—H.M.A.S....	0	5	0
Latymer-road Mission—H.M.A.S....	0	5	0
Mildmay Misn. to Jews—M.A.J. 2s 6d; Heth, £1	1	2	6
Y.M.C.A., Aldersgate-street—H.M.A.S...	1	0	0
Freedman's Mission Aid Society—H.M.A.S. ...	0	10	0
Aldershot Mission Hall—H.M.A.S...	0	10	0
Widows' Friend Society—C.E.Y.	0	10	0
Female Education in the East—Mary	0	10	0
Distressed Irish Ladies (Mrs. Lalor)—Heth ...	1	0	0
Unemployed, Millwall Docks (Mr. Chorley)—Lymington, 5s; Worthing, 10s...	0	15	0
Missions in Turkey—T.N.J.	0	10	0
London City Missions—T.N.J...	0	10	0
Mr. Orsman's Work—T.N.J.	0	10	0
Strangers' Rest, 163, St. George's-street—T.N.J...	0	10	0
Poor Jews in London (Mrs. Finn)—J.I.B.	0	5	0
Colar Mission (Miss Anstey)—J.I.B.	0	5	0
	£80	9	6

[Advertisements.]

Friendless & Fallen—M.E.C. 5s; Great Waltham, 10s.

National Industrial Home for Crippled Boys, Kensington, W.—M.E.C., Bedford, 2s 6d.

Women's Mission House, Jerusalem—A Friend, £5; Mrs. C. £2; A Friend, Dublin, 10s.

Rescue Society—Verulam, £1.

Evangelistic Mission (Fund No. 1)—J.E.V. 1s; Kilburn Hall, New Building—Anon., Kensington, £1.

Old Home of Industry—B., Edinburgh, Parcel.

Ham-yard Soup Kitchen & Hospice—A.A.A. £10 10s.

London Samaritan Society (Free Meals)—Miss B. £2 1s; Miss R.M. 9s; Miss F.K.T. 3s 6d; A. 2s 6d.

Union Hall Mission—A Friend, Pitlochry, £1; Anon. 1s; Potterne, 5s.

Breton Evangelical Mission—Sukia, 5s.

Tower Hamlets Mission, 31, Mile End-road, E. (Debt, Assembly Hall)—J.R.B. 10s.

Compton-street Mission Hall, King's-cross.—We have so many sad cases before us that we seem overwhelmed with difficulty as to how to help some of God's own children amongst them. It is heart-breaking to visit and see the distress without means to alleviate it. —(Mrs.) A. Taverner, 41, Judd-street, Euston-road, N.W.

The Anchorage.

Hebrews vi. 19.

To Shelter, and give Spiritual care to, Young Women lately Fallen into Sin, whether or not about to become Mothers, with a special annexe and suitable arrangements for such as are of gentle birth.

ANYONE desiring admission for such cases to apply (by letter only) to Mrs. H. Stuart-Wortley, Rosslyn House, Grove End-road, N.W., London, also for Servants trained in the Anchorage House. Donations may be sent to Mrs. Stuart-Wortley for the Anchorage Mission, or to Messrs. Morgan & Scott.

City Temple, Holborn Viaduct.

◆

On GOOD FRIDAY MORNING

(MARCH 30, 1888), at Eleven o'clock,

The Rev. DR. PARKER

WILL PREACH A

SPECIAL SERMON

ON BEHALF OF THE

ORPHAN WORKING SCHOOL, Haverstock Hill, Hornsey Rise, and Margate.

400 ORPHANS of the Institution will Lead the Musical Part of the Service.

A Collection will be made for the Benefit of the Institution.

JONADAB FINCH, Secretary.

Offices: 73, Cheapside, E.C.

The HERALD OF MERCY

A Gospel Messenger for World-wide Distribution.

THE APRIL NUMBER, NOW READY, ONE HALFPENNY.
TWELVE COPIES SENT POST FREE FOR SIXPENCE.

CONTENTS.

Saved from the Fire!
The Soldier's Prayer.
The Destruction of Sodom
How the Spring Buds Conquered.
Bishop William Taylor.
Doctor's Prescriptions.
One Step More.
The Conversion of 'Satan.'
The Children's Page—
A Posy of Daisies.
An Old Man's Story.

THE HERALD OF MERCY
is published monthly, and consists of eight quarto pages. One Halfpenny. 6d. per dozen post-free.

THE HERALD OF MERCY
Abounds with Articles and Stories specially addressed to the Unconverted. One Halfpenny. 6d. per dozen post-free.

THE HERALD OF MERCY
contains a full-page illustration, and numerous smaller engravings. One Halfpenny. 6d. per dozen post free.

THE HERALD OF MERCY
Is just the periodical for placing in the hands of children and young people; "The Children's Page" being a feature in each Number. One Halfpenny. 6d. per dozen post free.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.

SAML PEACH & SON'S NOTTINGHAM LACE CURTAINS

Direct from the Looms at Manufacturer's Prices.

Extraordinary Value. Lot No. 121,

21/ POPULAR PARCEL Sent Carriage Paid for 21/

Containing one pair of magnificent Drawing-room Curtains, 4 yds. long, and nearly 2 wide, taped edges. One pair handsome Dining-room Curtains, 3½ yds. long, ornamental design, taped edges. One pair Sitting-room Curtains, 3 yds. long, effective floral pattern. One pair pretty Bed-room Curtains. One large-sized Antimacassar. One Lace Cover for fancy table. Twelve yds. Trimming Lace. Two Lace D'Oyleys. The Curtains can be had in either White or Ecru.

A Black Spanish Silk Lace FICHU given away to every Purchaser of the above parcel.

"The quality and design of these Special Parcels are excellent, and are the best value ever offered."

MONEY RETURNED IF NOT APPROVED.

P.O.O.'s and Cheques made payable to SAMUEL PEACH & SON CASTLEGATE, NOTTINGHAM. NEW PRICE LIST POST FREE.

GRAY'S YARD RAGGED CHURCH & SCHOOLS,

JAMES STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

President—F. A. BEVAN, ESQ., 54, Lombard Street, E.C.

Funds are Urgently Needed to meet the current Expenses of this Institution. From 500 to 700 Casuals and Tramps are here supplied with Bread and Coffee every Sunday, after Gospel Services. Nearly £3 per week required for Food alone.

Contributions will be thankfully received and acknowledged by George Hanbury, Esq., Treasurer, 21, Portman-square, W.; Philip Gough, Esq., Hon. Sub-Treasurer, 33, Cambridge-street, Hyde-park, W.; or by Messrs. Morgan & Scott.

SEND FOR A BOX OF PATTERNS REPRESENTING A STOCK OF £75,000·0·0

Post Free TO ANY PART OF THE UNITED KINGDOM

Messrs. BAINBRIDGE & Co. (The largest Wholesale and Retail Drapery Warehousemen in the English Provinces).

will send a Box containing 1000 Patterns of

Black & Coloured Silks
Dress Materials
Zephyrs, Ginghams, Prints
Household Linens
Calicoes, Shirtings
Flannels
Mantle Cloths
Laces & Embroideries
Handkerchiefs, &c.

Send a Post Card. All Parcels carriage paid.

"The Parcels Post obliterates distance, and brings those living in the most remote country districts into direct contact with the best sources of supply."

29, 31, 33, 35, & 37, Market St., Newcastle-on-Tyne.

ESTABLISHED AD 1793. DRESS FABRICS. BLANKETS. SERGES. FLANNELS. HADDON & CO. TRADE MARK. ROYAL WELLINGTON WOOLLEN COMPANY.

TO HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN & H.R.H. PRINCESS OF WALES.

Haddon's PURE DRESS FABRICS

ARE WORN BY LADIES OF THE MOST CULTURED TASTE THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

SPRING PATTERNS NOW READY.

"Most attractive fabrics."—The Queen. "Delightful materials. Of surprising value."—The Lady. "Remarkable for refined elegance."—Court Journal. "Novelties to our heart's content."—Myra.

Patterns on approval free. Carriage paid on orders exceeding 20s.

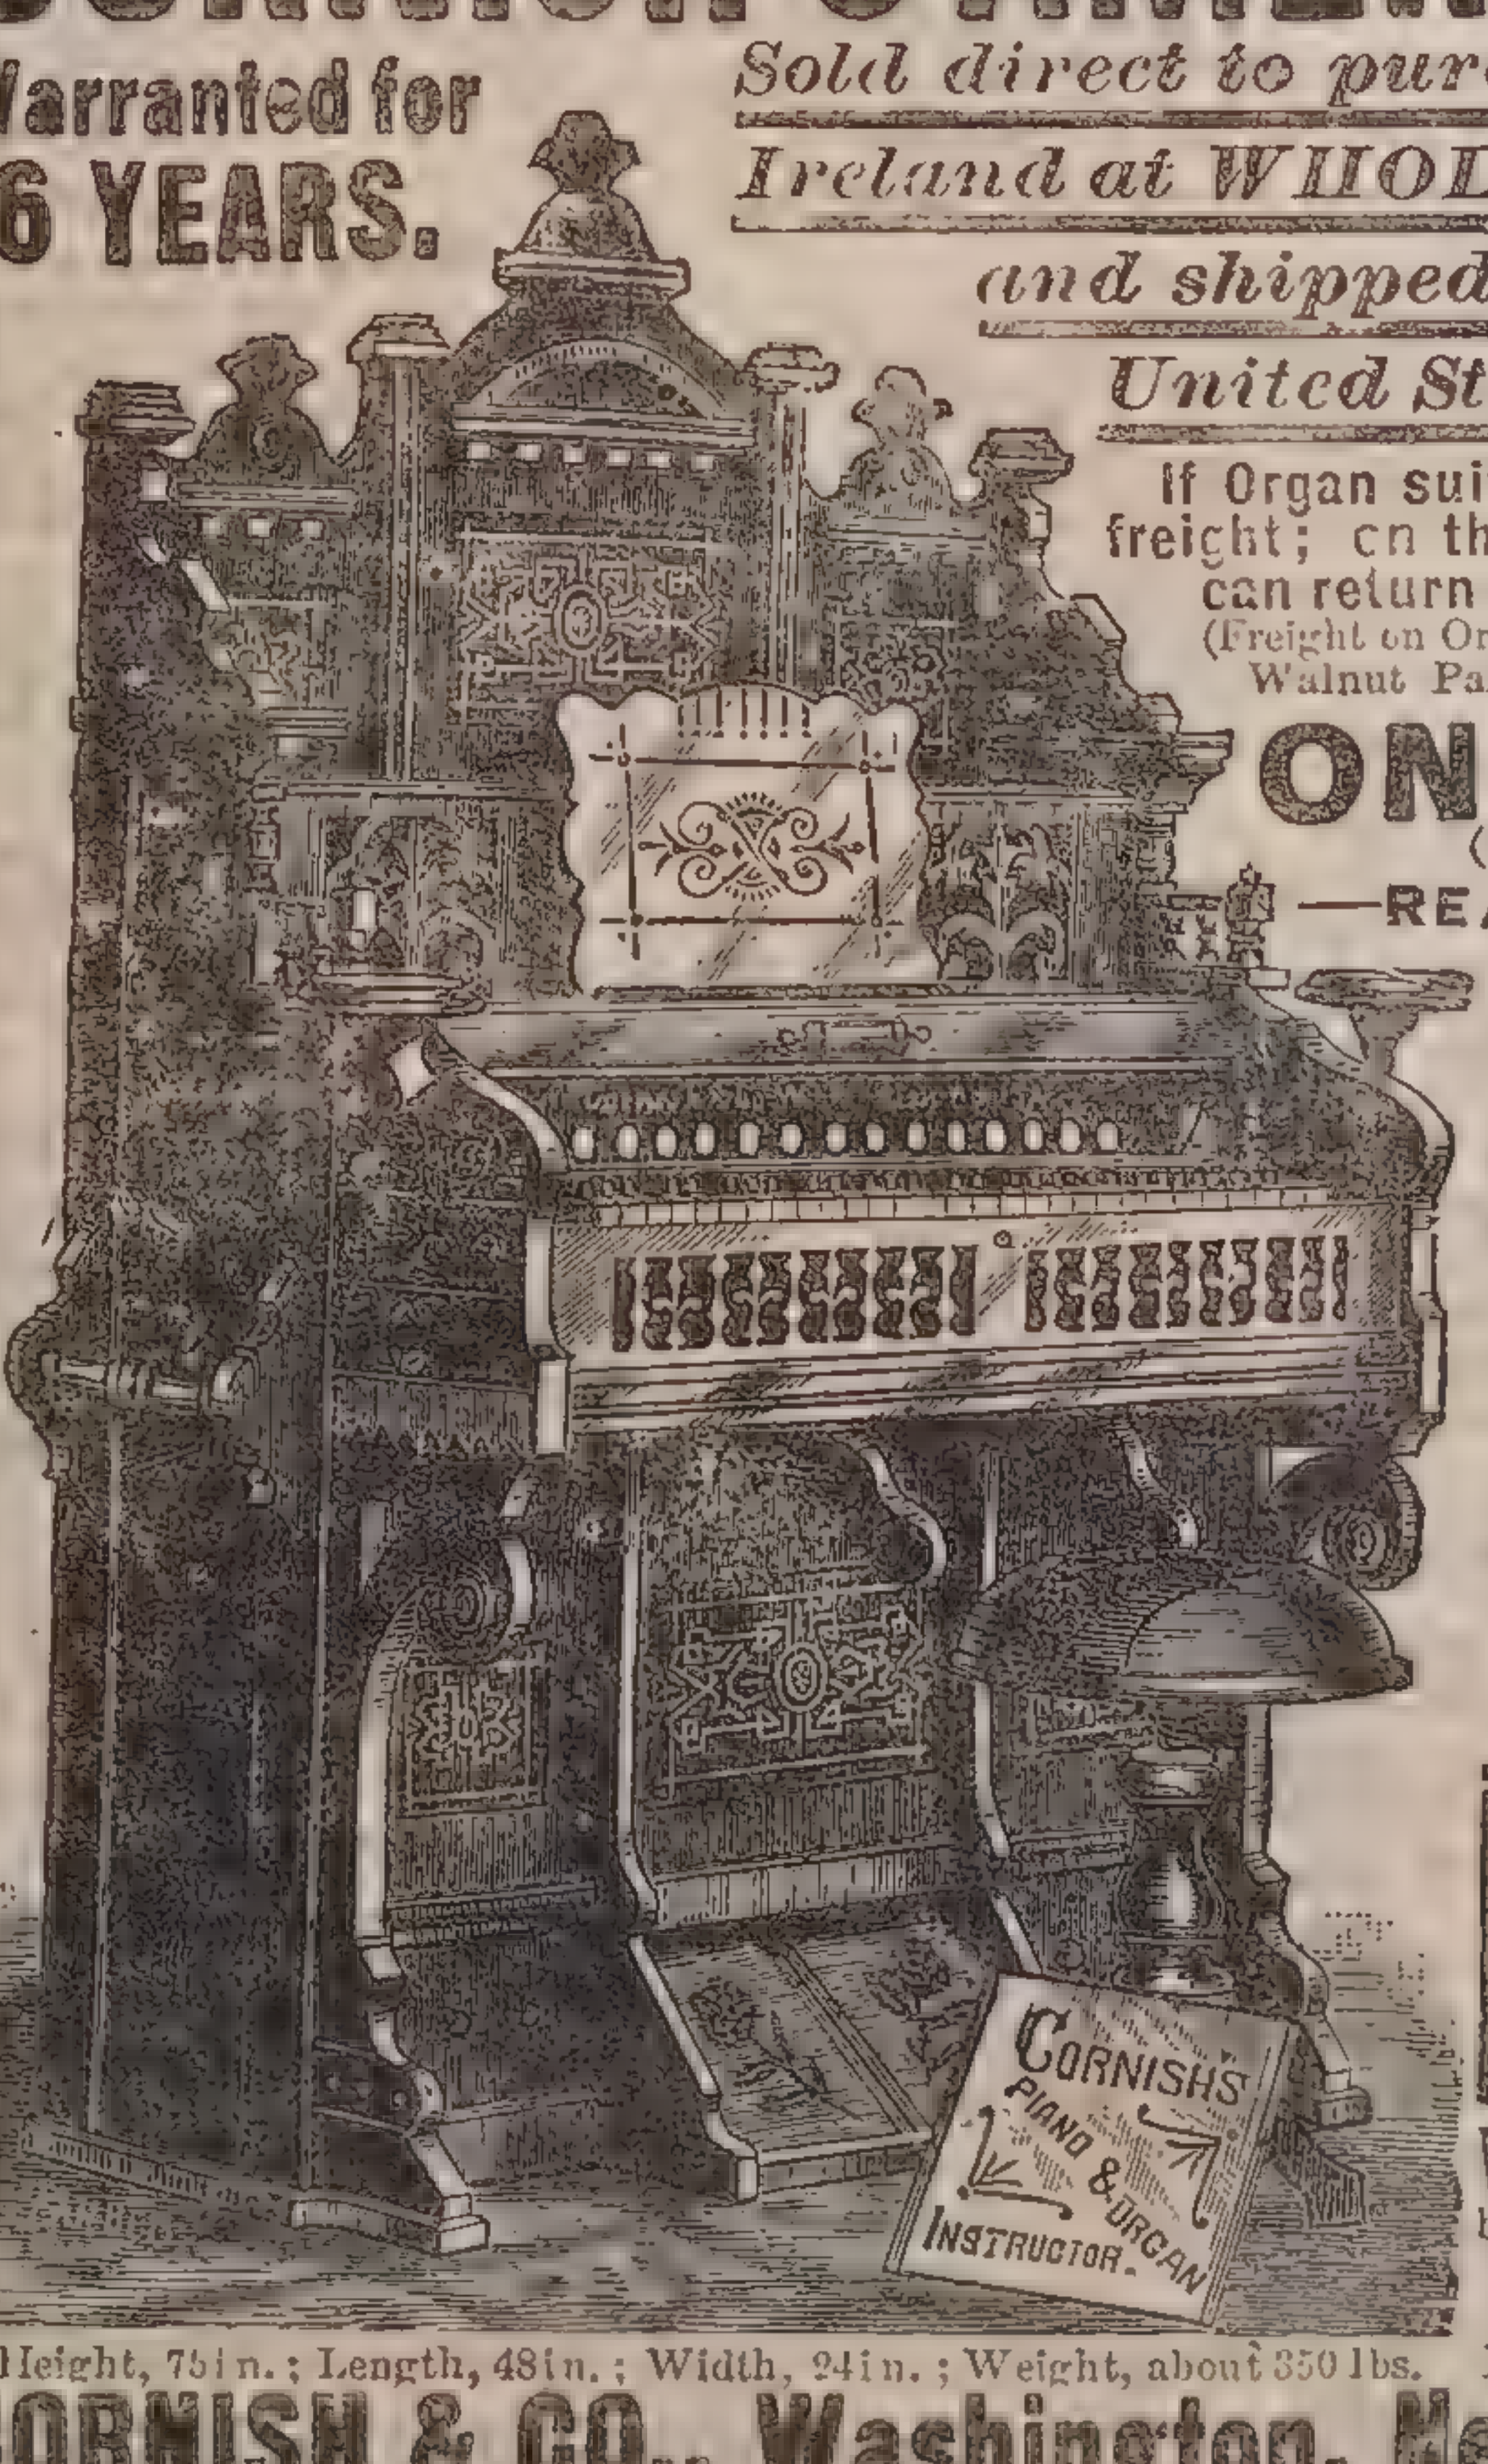
HADDON'S ROYAL WOOLLEN COMPANY, WELLINGTON, SOM.

CORNISH'S AMERICAN ORGANS

Warranted for 6 YEARS.

Sold direct to purchasers in Great Britain and Ireland at WHOLESALE FACTORY PRICES and shipped direct from Factory in the United States ON TEN DAYS' TEST TRIAL.

[MENTION PAPER WHERE THIS "AD." IS SEEN.]



Height, 75in.; Length, 48in.; Width, 24in.; Weight, about 350 lbs.

If Organ suits, purchaser is to send us its price and pay freight; on the contrary should Organ not suit, purchaser can return it and we will pay freight charges both ways. (Freight on Organs to Liverpool is about £1. 12s. 6d.) This Elegant Solid Walnut Parlor Organ, shown by annexed cut

ONLY 14 GUINEAS

(Stool and Instruction Book included.)

—READ DESCRIPTION GIVEN BELOW.—

STYLE "CHIME" No. 8,000.

5 Octaves, 14 Stops, Sub-Bass, 2 Octave Couplers —and 2 Knee Swells.—

CONTAINS 5 SETS OF REEDS, VIZ.:

One Set Large, Powerful	Sub-Bass	of 13	Reeds
" Exquisitely Pure, Sweet	Melodia	" 37	"
" Rich, Mellow Smooth	Diapason	" 24	"
" Charmingly Brilliant	Celeste	" 24	"
" Pleasing, Soft, Melodious	Viola	" 13	"

Solid Black Walnut Case, well and substantially made, and elegantly finished and embellished with fancy frets, carved ornaments and gold tracings. Patent Triple Upright Bellows, which are superior to any bellows ever constructed, rollers, handles, lamp-stands, music-pocket, sliding fall with lock and all the latest conveniences and improvements.

HOW TO ORDER.

It is only necessary to send references as to your responsibility from your Banker, Postmaster, Merchant or Shop keeper you deal with, and the Organ will be shipped promptly on 10 days' test trial.

WHY pay a dealer in musical instruments in Great Britain or Ireland 100 per cent. profit, when you can buy direct from Factory as cheap as the dealer can!

Church, Lodge and Parlor Organs in great variety.

LARGE ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.

Be sure and write to us. WE CAN SAVE YOU MONEY.

CORNISH & CO., Washington, New Jersey, U. S. America.

BIBLICAL WORKS PUBLISHED BY MORGAN & SCOTT.

THE BIBLE REMEMBRANCER.

A Handbook to the Old and New Testaments. With Steel Frontispiece. Containing An Analysis of the Whole Bible, by means of which any Biblical Event can be readily referred to. Also—

- A Scripture Atlas of 12 beautifully-coloured Maps.
- Alphabetical Index to the Psalms.
- Scripture Numeration.
- Key to the Promises.
- The Prophets, in Chronological Order.
- Improved Readings of Scripture Words and Phrases.
- Epitome of Remarkable Scripture Characters.
- Difficult Texts Explained.
- Prayers Recorded in Scripture.
- And a large amount of Valuable Biblical Information.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.

"We do not know a more useful handbook for Bible readers and Bible students. It seems to embody nearly everything necessary in such a book." The Christian Commonwealth.

"Full of instructive matter from beginning to end; well arranged; and most suitable for those who desire either to understand for themselves, or to help others to understand, the Holy Book."—Irish Congregational Magazine.

Cheap Editions: Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

THE BIBLE INTERPRETER.

An Illustrated Dictionary of the Holy Scriptures. With Steel Frontispiece. Consisting of Explanations of more than Eighteen Hundred Scripture Words and Phrases. The Volume also contains—

- A List of the Prayers recorded in the Old and New Testaments.
- A Table of the Reigns of the Kings of Judah and Israel.
- A Table of the Order and Dates of the Books of the Bible.
- A List of the Miracles recorded in the Old and New Testaments.
- A Table of Scriptural Proper Names, with the correct Pronunciation.
- A List of Parables recorded in the Old and New Testaments.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.

"A compact and handy manual of reference, which will be found useful by all students of the Bible. It is especially designed to meet the requirements of Sabbath-school teachers, and others who are unable to procure the larger and more expensive works of this class. The pages are interspersed with numerous engravings illustrating the text, as well as views of places famous in Biblical history."—Literary World.

"We commend the book as a whole, as a cheap, handy, reliable treasury of Biblical information."—General Baptist Magazine.

"What a boon for Sunday-school teachers, and Sunday-school scholars also, is this little treasure! The appendices alone are worth the money charged for the whole."—Preacher's Analyst.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

NOTES FOR BIBLE READINGS.

By S. R. BRIGGS and JOHN H. ELLIOTT.

A Collection of over Six Hundred Subjects, carefully compiled and arranged. Suitable for Bible Readings, Cottage Lectures, Sabbath School Lessons, &c.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

This work contains Introductory Matter by D. L. Moody, consisting of Useful Hints on "How to Study the Bible," and "How to Read the Bible."

"This is a book which every Bible student should possess. It will be of special value to the class teacher, and an assistance also to the preacher. It supplies valuable matter for private meditation; and those who conduct Bible Readings will find it most suggestive."—Christian Progress.

Cheap Edition: Tinted covers, 2s. 6d.

THE KING'S PALACE.

A Series of Readings for each Day in the Month.

By Rev. J. H. ROGERS, M.A.

Presentation Editions: Cloth, gilt edges, 2s.;
Morocco, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"The counsels of this little book are wise, loving, and direct. The aim is to lead the reader to have a clean heart and a clean life—to consecrate all to Christ. The book is beautiful; all that art, taste, and skill can do to make the theme attractive has been done. The result is that within and without 'The King's Palace' is simply perfect."—Irish Congregational Magazine.

Cheap Editions: Cloth limp, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

SCRIPTURAL HOLINESS, NOT SINLESS PERFECTION.

By Rev. CHARLES GRAHAM.

Presentation Edition: Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

"With considerable skill and sagacity Mr. Graham has proved his title, and wheeled away much fanatical rubbish. Anything that will promote true holiness has all our heart."—The Sword and Trowel.

Cheap Edition: Tinted covers, 1s.

CHRIST AND THE SCRIPTURES.

The Living Word and the Written Word.

By Rev. Dr. ADOLPH SAPHIR, B.A.

Presentation Editions: Cloth, extra, 3s.; with gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

CONTENTS.

I. The Book of the Person.
II. Jesus and the Scriptures.
III. The Testimony of Apostles.
IV. Five Characteristics of the Bible—Evidences of its Divine Origin.
V. Israel's Messiah—The Living and the Written Word.
VI. Scripture and the Holy Ghost.
VII. Practical Observations with Reference to the Present Age.

"We know of no volume that we more earnestly desire to see in the hands of persons of every age who are pondering the religious question of momentous importance, so much agitating men's minds at the present time. It is admirably adapted for the mature and thoughtful; and also peculiarly fitted to give a right direction to the lives and thoughts of the young, and to mould them into Christians of a high type of character."—The Newcastle Daily Journal.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth neat, 1s. 6d.

CHRIST LIFTED UP.

By Rev. R. GILCHRIST, of Shotts.

I. "Christ Lifted Up" upon the Cross. II. "Christ Lifted Up" in Glory.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"Right well has the author done his work in this charming book. In the first part he exhibits 'Christ Lifted Up' on the cross; and deals in an inexpressibly sweet and tender manner with the words and spirit of Jesus while nailed to the tree. In the second part, Christ risen from the dead, and exalted to the right hand of the throne of God is evidently set forth before our eyes. In both sections there is much sound exposition, and the book from beginning to end sparkles with fresh, and beautiful, and inspiring thoughts." Methodist New Connexion Magazine.

Cheap Edition: Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.

"OUT OF EGYPT."

A Series of Discourses and Bible Readings on the Exodus of Israel, and its Spiritual Lessons.

By Rev. Dr. G. F. PENTECOST, M.A.

Presentation Edition: Cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"A truly living and freshly suggestive book; scriptural in teaching, and enriched everywhere with suitable anecdotes and apt illustrations. A most practical commentary on the portion of the Word with which it deals." British Messenger.

"A capital book, full of both mental and moral force, and all aglow with evangelical sentiment."—Primitive Methodist.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 2s.; Cloth, 2s. 6d.

"IN THE VOLUME OF THE BOOK:"

Or, The Pleasure and Profit of Bible Study. Being an Introduction to the Study of the Holy Scriptures. With Introductions by Rev. Joseph Cook & Rev. H. J. Vincent, D.D.

By Rev. Dr. G. F. PENTECOST, M.A.

Presentation Edition: Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"No one can read this almost unique volume without being stimulated to a more diligent study of The Book. It is not, strictly speaking, evidential; yet the key to valuable Scripture evidence is to be found within. It is not exegetical; but the careful reader will be taught thereby a sound method of exposition. It is not homiletical; although the seed corn for dozens of addresses are contained in its brief compass. Buy it, we can say to all; read it with your Bible open and a common-place book to hand, ready to catch up and store away the many precious things so lavishly scattered throughout its pages."—Night and Day.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth limp, 2s.

THE GIFT OF GOD.

A Series of Addresses.

By Rev. THEODORE MONOD.

Presentation Edition: Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

"Sweet, spiritual, and simple. If all holiness addresses had been like these, there would have been more holiness and less boast about it. Their precious savour of Christ must have made these words of Mr. Monod very fragrant to those who have heard them; and they will be refreshing to readers now that they are given to the press.—The Sword and Trowel.

Cheap Edition: Tinted covers, 1s.

LIFE MORE ABUNDANT,

And other Addresses.

By Rev. THEODORE MONOD.

Presentation Edition: Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

"All full of the Gospel, as an egg's full of meat; and withal bright and taking in their style. You cannot help reading when you once begin, nor can you help being both interested and edified."—The Sword and Trowel.

Cheap Edition: Tinted covers, 1s.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

By ANNA SHIPTON.

THE "ANNA SHIPTON" LIBRARY.

Containing Eleven of Anna Shipton's favourite Works, handsomely bound in Six Volumes: in a neat box.

CONTENTS.

1st Vol. { Tell Jesus. Footsteps of the Flock.
2nd Vol. { The Secret of the Lord. Wayside Service.
3rd Vol. { Precious Gems. Gathered Herbs.
4th Vol. { The Watch Tower in The Wilderness. The Promise and the Promiser.
5th Vol. { The Sure Mercies of David.
6th Vol. { Asked of God. God's Messengers.

10/6 NET.

"TELL JESUS:"

Recollections of Emily Gosse.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, gilt edges, 2s.

"Presents us with notices of a life spent in loving, intimate, and uninterrupted communion with a present Lord."—Christian Times.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 6d.; Cloth, 1s. 6d.

FOOTSTEPS OF THE FLOCK.

A Series of Narratives in Christian Life.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"These 'FOOTSTEPS' are true to life, and abound with practical illustrations."—Methodist Recorder.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth, 1s. 6d.

THE SECRET OF THE LORD.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"The aim of the writer is to show the connection between communion with God and a useful, happy life."—The Freeman.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth neat, 1s. 6d.

WAYSIDE SERVICE:

Or, The Day of Small Things.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"This book has greatly refreshed us. It is interesting from its many proofs of prayer heard and blessing bestowed; but more from its deep piety, and the manifest fellowship of the writer with her God."—The Sword and Trowel.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth, 1s. 6d.

PRECIOUS GEMS

For the Saviour's Diadem.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"Seven Narratives simply and beautifully written, and radiant with devotion and spirituality."—The Christian World.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth, 1s. 6d.

GATHERED HERBS.

A Series of Eight Narratives.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth, 1s. 6d.

THE WATCH TOWER IN THE WILDERNESS.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"I will stand upon my watch, and set me upon the tower, and will watch to see what He will say unto me."—Hab. ii. 1.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth, 1s. 6d.

THE PROMISE AND THE PROMISER:

Or, The Power and Presence of the Lord with His People.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"The young will read it to great advantage, and the more matured will find it interesting and helpful. Its perusal cannot fail to do good."—Oldham Chronicle.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth, 1s. 6d.

THE SURE MERCIES OF DAVID:

Or, God's Dealings in the Sanctuary.

Cloth neat, 2s. 6d.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 4s. 6d.

"We rise from the perusal of Mrs. Shipton's volume refreshed and strengthened; and with the determination still to plead for, and still to prove, 'The Sure Mercies of David.'"—The Christian.

GOD'S MESSENGERS:

Or, The Lost Blessing.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"The various chapters are mines of richest experience."
The Sword and Trowel.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth, 1s. 6d.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

By D. L. MOODY.

HEAVEN.

Its Hopes, Its Inhabitants, Its Riches, Its Rewards.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"Mr. Moody presents to the mind a real and Scriptural Heaven—the heaven of the apostle John."—The Baptist.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.

THE FAITHFUL SAYING.

A Series of Gospel Addresses.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"These Addresses are admirable examples of the readiest way to reach the hearts of men with the truths of Christ."—General Baptist Magazine.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.

THE WAY TO GOD.

A Series of Addresses on the Way of Salvation.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"These new discourses from Mr. Moody's pen are plain, anecdotal, and full of the glorious gospel of salvation."—The King's Highway.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.

PREVAILING PRAYER.

A Series of Addresses on Prayer.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"Will help many souls to believe more in God as the hearer of prayer."—Irish Congregational Magazine.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.

SOVEREIGN GRACE.

Its Source, Its Nature, and Its Effects.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"Particularly useful as showing the part which the grace of God takes in the work of conversion and regeneration."—Preacher's Analyst.

Cheap Editions; Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE LATE MR. GEORGE BREALEY.

ARROWS SHOT AT A VENTURE.

A SERIES OF NARRATIVE TRACTS.

By GEORGE BREALEY,
Author of "The Blackdown Tracts."

Price 6d. per Packet of 12 Tracts, assorted.

Each Tract consists of Sixteen Pages, tastefully printed on tinted paper. The narratives are interesting, the application concise, and there are earnest and pointed appeals to unawakened souls.

CONTENTS.

1. The Bridge of Love.
2. A Life-belt for Sinking Souls.
3. Nanny and her Burden.
4. "Mighty to Save."
5. The Shipwreck.
6. Law and Mercy.
7. Taken at his Word.
8. The Christmas Dinner.
9. "The Door is open, Donald."
10. Old Maggie's Three Texts.
11. Received or Rejected?
12. Giving and Taking.

"A sixpenny packet, containing a dozen narrative Tracts of eight sorts, in which the Gospel is very clearly presented and illustrated by true incidents of a striking character. For general circulation they are capital, and are sure to be read."—Word and Work.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

NEW AND CHEAPER EDITION.

SEARCHING THE SCRIPTURES

In order to Abiding Communion with God. Also, Suggestions for Bible Reading and Study, and a Plan for Consecutive Daily Reading.

BY

DR. J. ANDERSON,

Graduate of King's College, Aberdeen, and Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London.

TINTED COVERS - - - - 1s. 6d.
CLOTH LIMP - - - - 2s. 0d.
CLOTH BOARDS - - - - 2s. 6d.
PRESENTATION EDITION.
CLOTH, BEVD. BDS., GILT EDGES 3s. 6d.

"'Searching the Scriptures' is a scholarly, accurate, suggestive, and wise work on the study of the Books of the Bible: how best to get at their teaching; and how best to turn their teaching to practical account. Preachers and teachers will find it a treasury of thought; beautiful expositions; and fruitful suggestions. It is nicely got up, and is suitable for a prize or a present. The author has rare analytical skill; a profound knowledge of the book; and a graceful literary style."—Oldham Chronicle.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

NEW BOOK BY ANNA SHIPTON.

"THE LORD WAS THERE."

Incidents from My Journal.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, gilt edges, 2s. (Cloth, 1s. 6d.)

CONTENTS.

I. The Walk to Emmaus.
II. The Shepherd's Voice.
III. A Strength to the Needy.
IV. The Master's Message.
V. The Shadow of a Great Rock.
VI. The Pavilion of Jehovah.
VII. A Friend that Loveth at all Times.

"THIS volume is rich in devout meditations, and such narratives of experience as cannot fail to strengthen the faith of believers, and lead them to greater trustfulness in the love of their Heavenly Father. It is a book for quiet hours, and will leave a blessing with every reader."—Primitive Methodist.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Fry's Cocoa

·Pure· ·Concentrated· ·Cocoa·

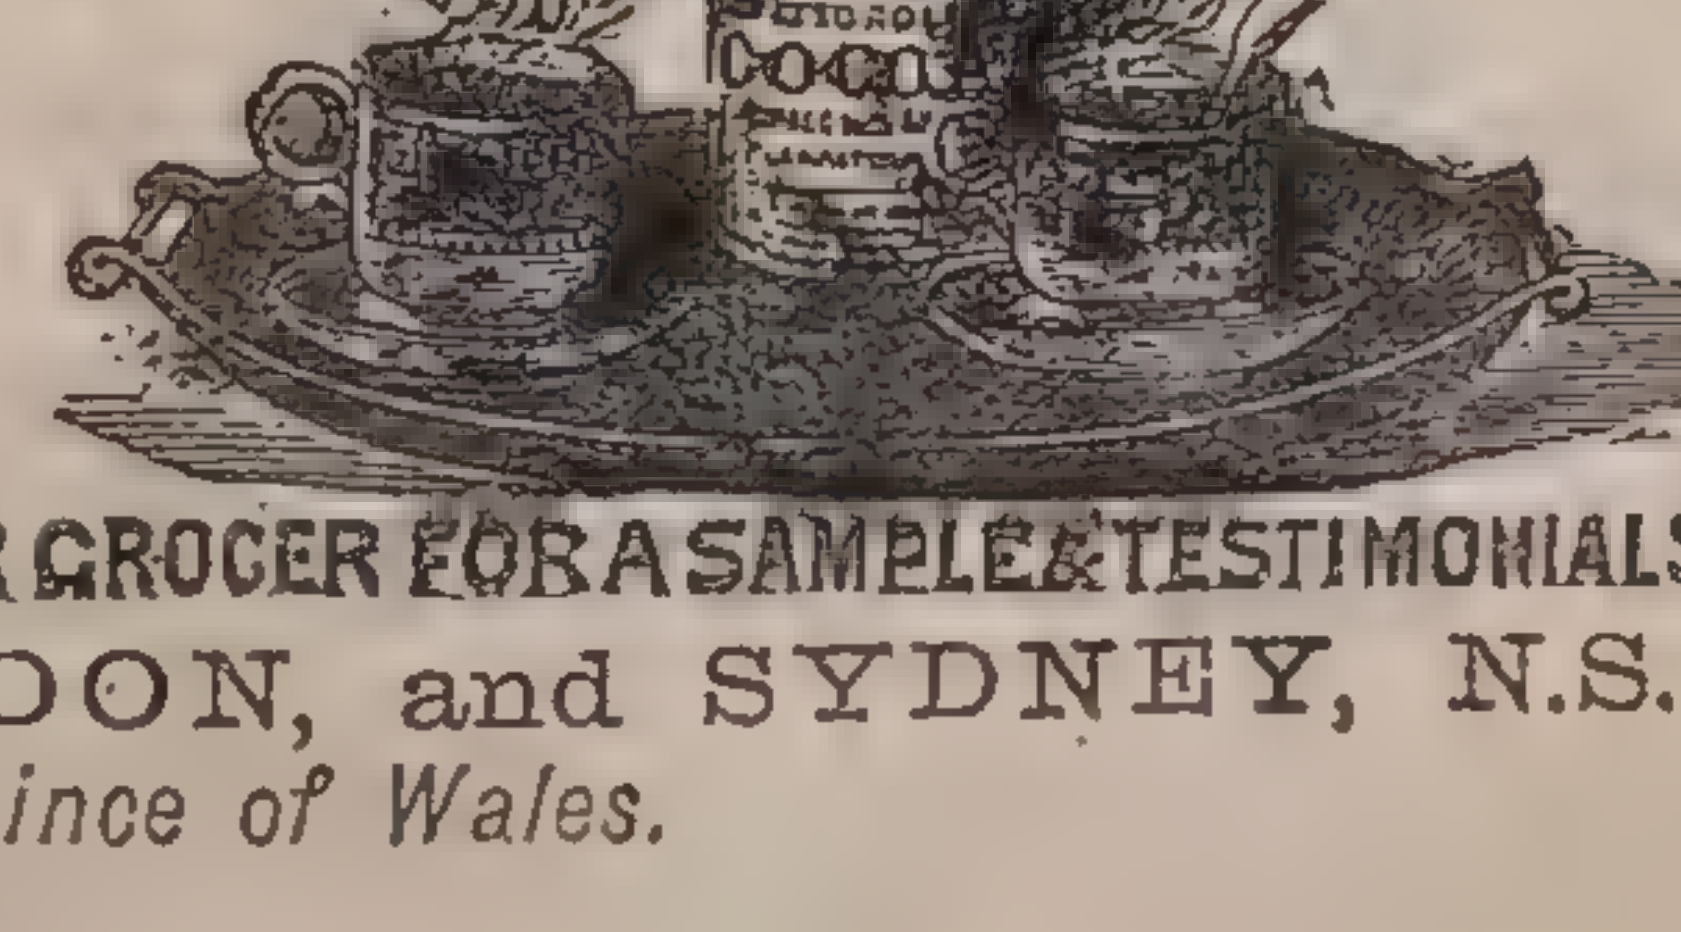
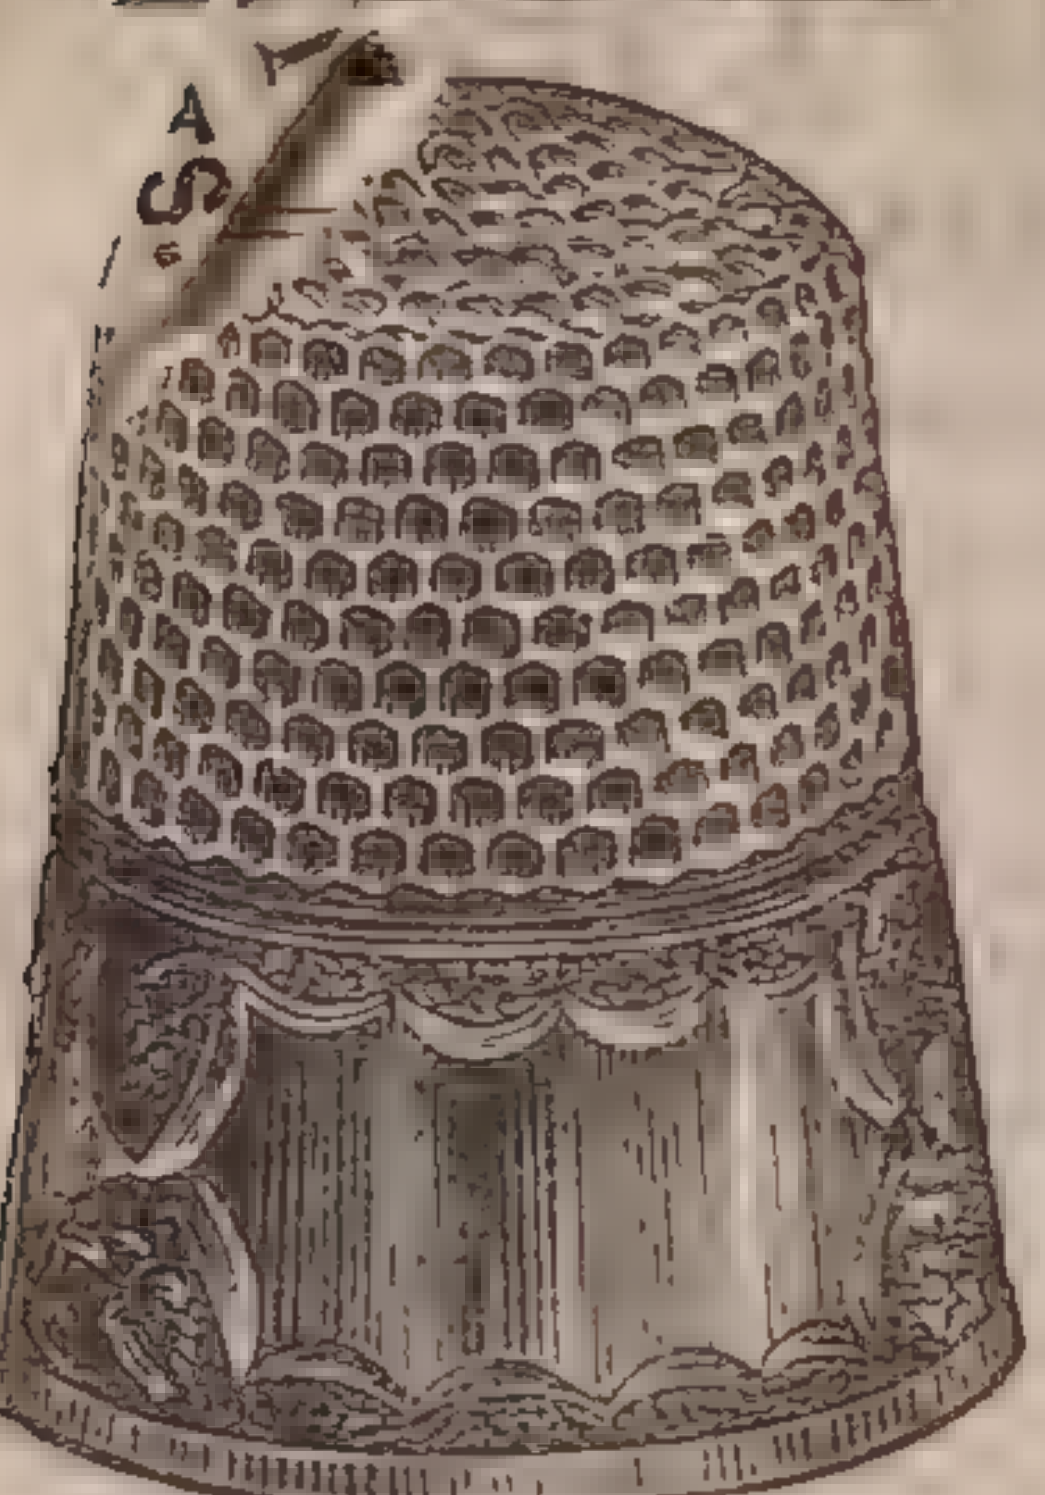
33 PRIZE MEDALS
awarded to the Firm



ASK YOUR GROCER FOR A SAMPLE & TESTIMONIALS

J. S. FRY & SONS, BRISTOL, LONDON, and SYDNEY, N.S.W.,
Makers to the Queen and Prince of Wales.



THE "DORCAS" THIMBLE.

(Horner's Patent.)

STERLING SILVER.

The Queen, May 8th, says —"The 'Dorcas' Thimble is more durable than the generality of these indispensable work-table implements; it is made in three parts, the inner and the outer being Silver, and the intermediate Steel; forming a resisting power not obtained in silver only. What is more uncomfortable than sewing with a thimble that has seen service to such an extent that it has holes in its sides? With the 'Dorcas' Thimble this annoyance vanishes."

2s. 6d.

FROM ALL JEWELLERS.

If you cannot obtain it near you, send a wax impression of the open end of old Thimble to show the size, to

C. HORNER, Thimble Manufacturer, HALIFAX.

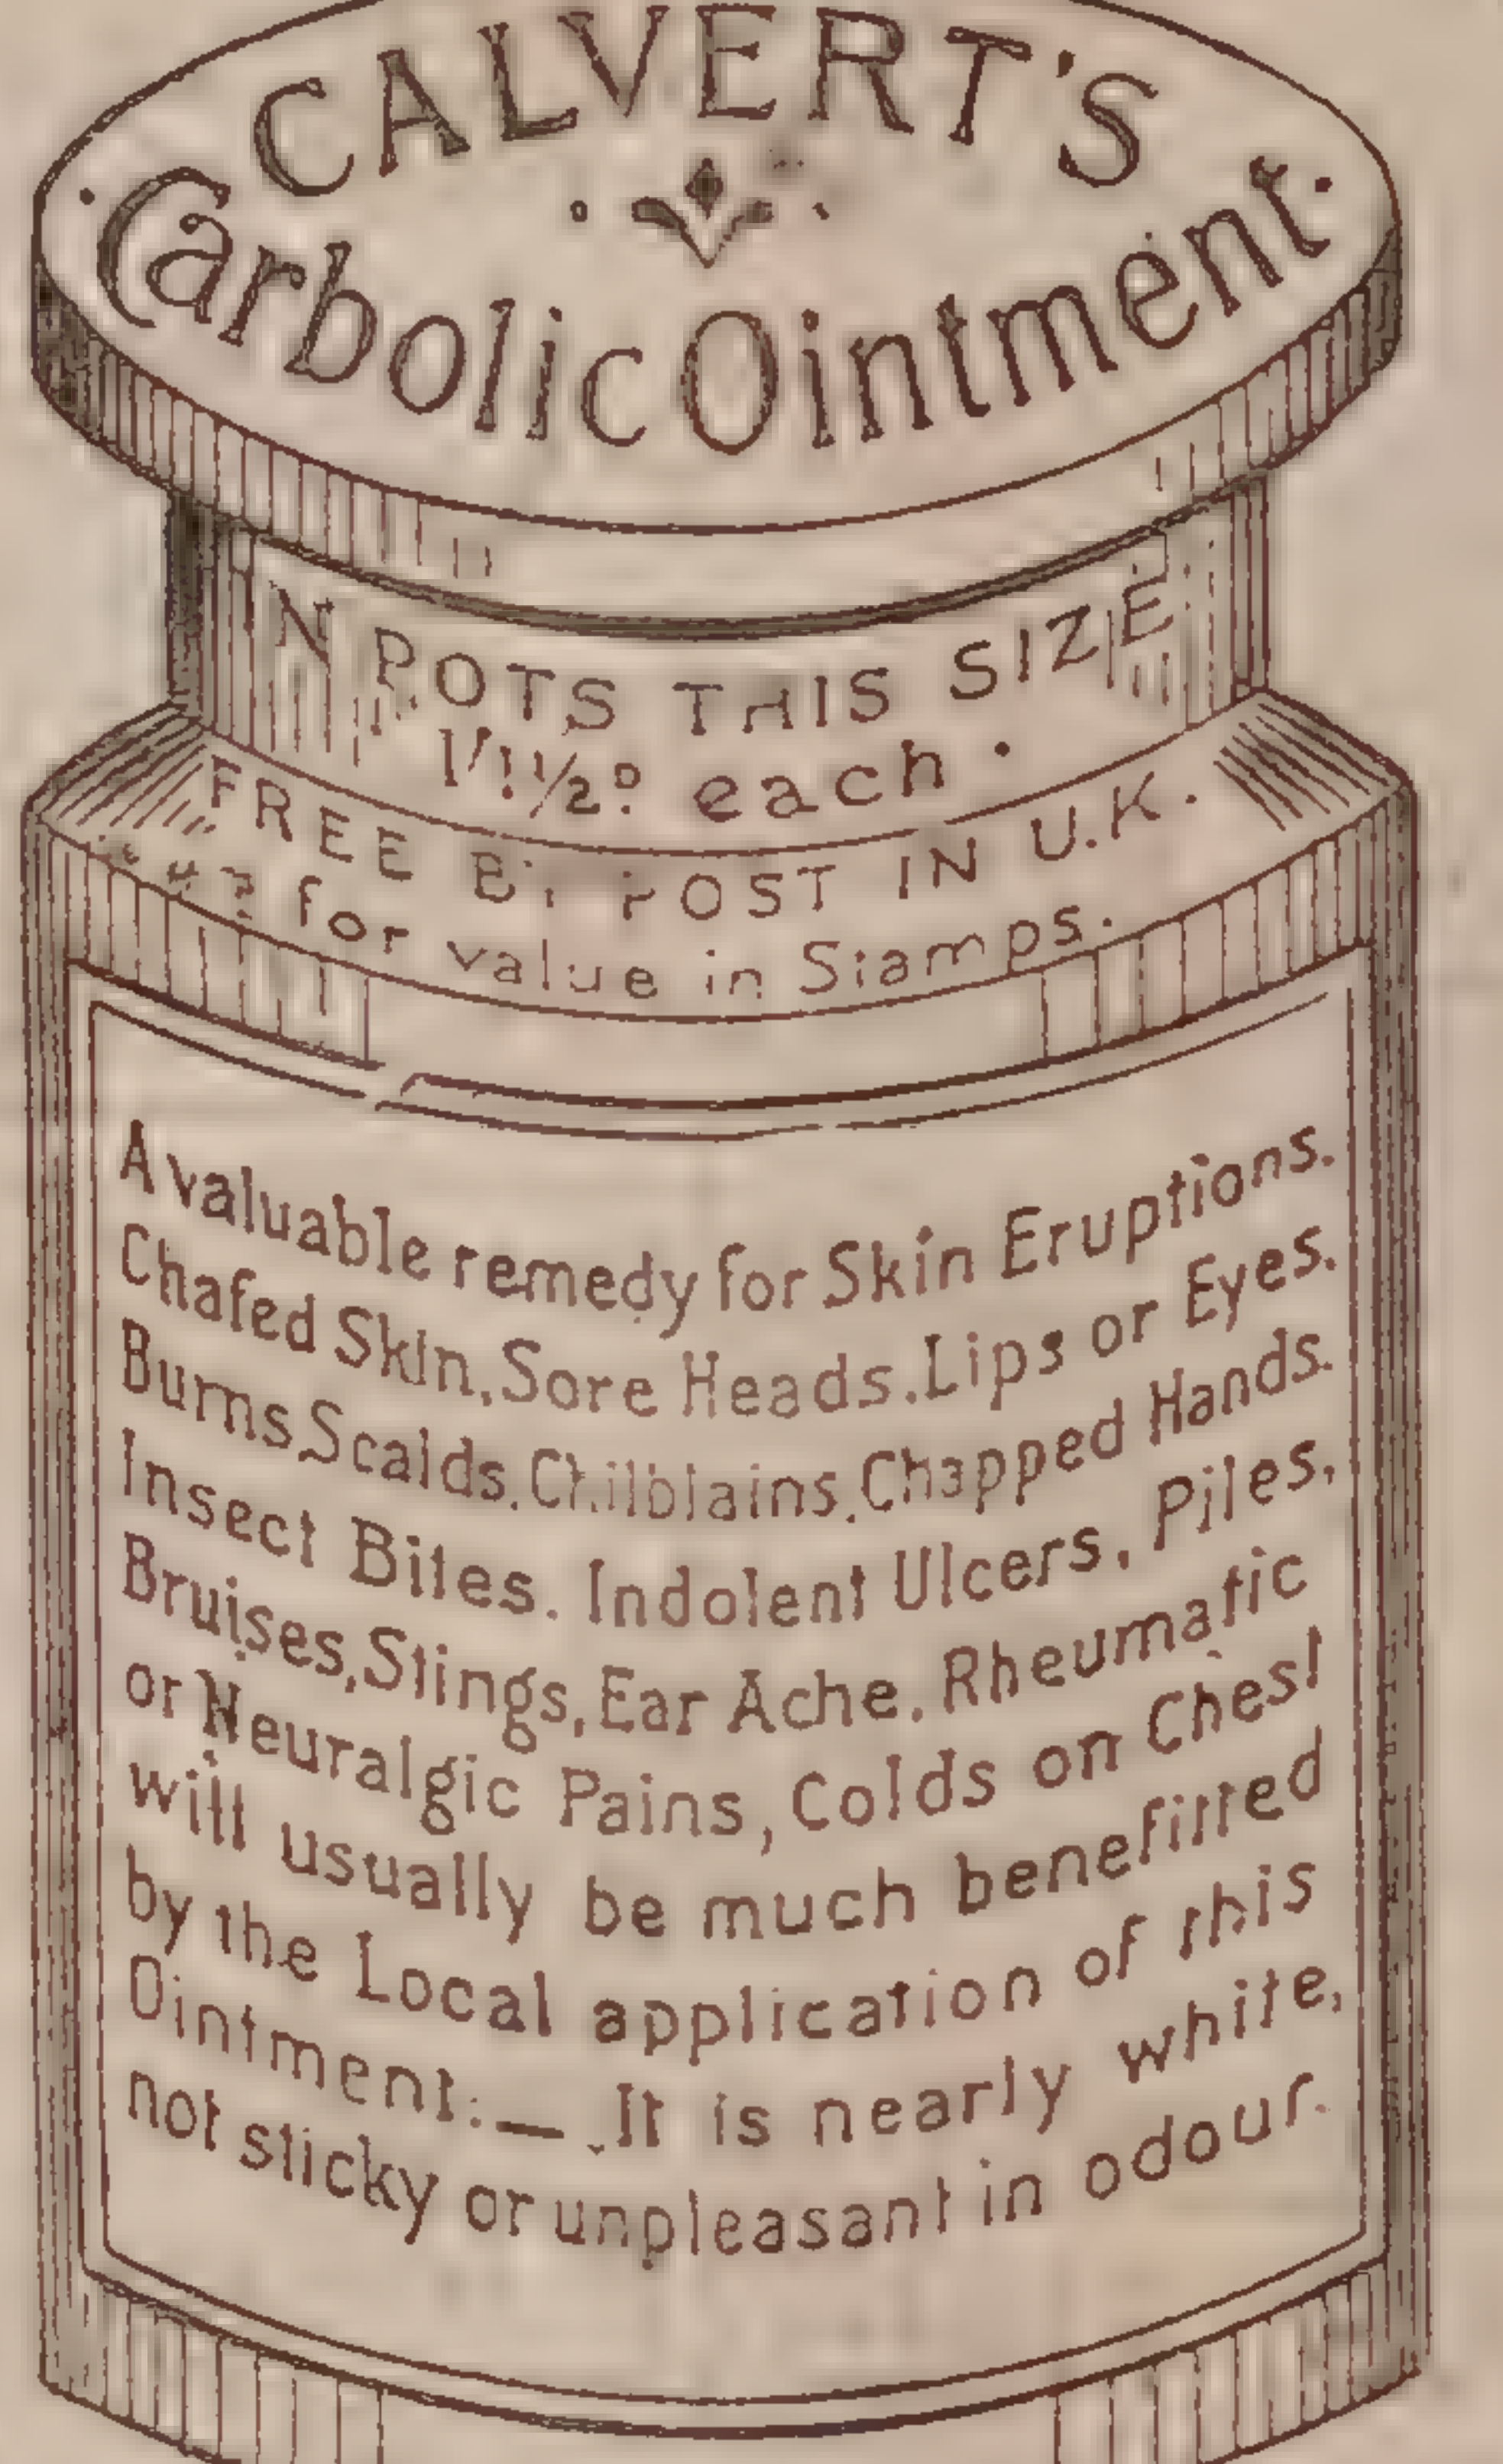
NEVER BE WITHOUT

"CALVERT'S OINTMENT is a charming acquisition to the Toilet table—it allays irritation, softens the skin of the hands, producing a delicate whiteness, entirely cures chaps or chilblains, heals burns speedily, and is one of the best preparations of its kind for various skin eruptions."

Editor "La Mode Illustrée" says:—



CALVERT'S Carbolic Ointment

IN POTS THIS SIZE 1/1½D each.

FREE BY POST IN U.K. for value in Stamps.

A valuable remedy for Skin Eruptions, Chafed Skin, Sore Heads, Lips or Eyes, Burns, Scalds, Chilblains, Chapped Hands, Insect Bites, Indolent Ulcers, Piles, Bruises, Stings, Ear Ache, Rheumatic or Neuralgic Pains, Colds on Chest will usually be much benefitted by the Local application of this Ointment:— It is nearly white, not sticky or unpleasant in odour.

Will keep GOOD in ANY CLIMATE

W. C. FITZGERALD, Chemist, Wellington, New Zealand, writes:—"I would not be without your Ointment on any account; it cures Burns, Scalds, and Cuts with far less trouble than anything I ever used."

Numerous other Testimonials received by

F. C. CALVERT & CO., Manchester,

WHO HAVE BEEN AWARDED

50 Gold and Silver Medals, Diplomas, &c.

EXCELLENT KNITTING AND FANCY WOOLS.

AT MOST EXCEPTIONAL PRICES

NEW CATALOGUE PRICE LIST

Now Ready, Free by Post, also

"NOVELTIES" in NEEDLEWORK,

PERFORATED FELT AND PLUSH NEEDLEWORK, in all the newest Introductions, Tracings, Styles, and Shapes, in many novel and useful articles; also, one of the most extraordinary Stocks kept by any London house of EXCELLENT REAL SCOTCH KNITTING AND FANCY WOOLS.

FULL WEIGHT IN EVERY SHADE, SIZE, KIND, COLOUR, OR PRICE.

WAKEFORD BROS., Artistic Needlework, Wool, Knitting Yarn, and Fancy Emporium,

104 and 106, KING'S ROAD, SLOANE SQUARE, LONDON.

LINEN FITTED SHIRTS

UNDRESSED FROM THE FACTORY.

2s/3d

A Clergyman in Banff says I am well pleased with the Shirts and will call upon you again.

A Gentleman in Aberd says I am very much pleased ... with the Shirt sent. It is without exception the cheapest I ever saw.

A Medical Man in Perth says: The sample Shirt gives every satisfaction, a perfect fit. Please send me a similar ½ dozen.

No1. Quality 2s/3d each, 3 for 6s/6d; 6 for 13/-.
No2. Extra Heavy 2s/11d each, 3 for 8/6, 6 for 17/-.
BY POST 3d EXTRA FOR 1, 4d for 2, 6d for 3, 9d for 6

HENRY BLYTH 19 & 24 Earl Grey St EDINBURGH

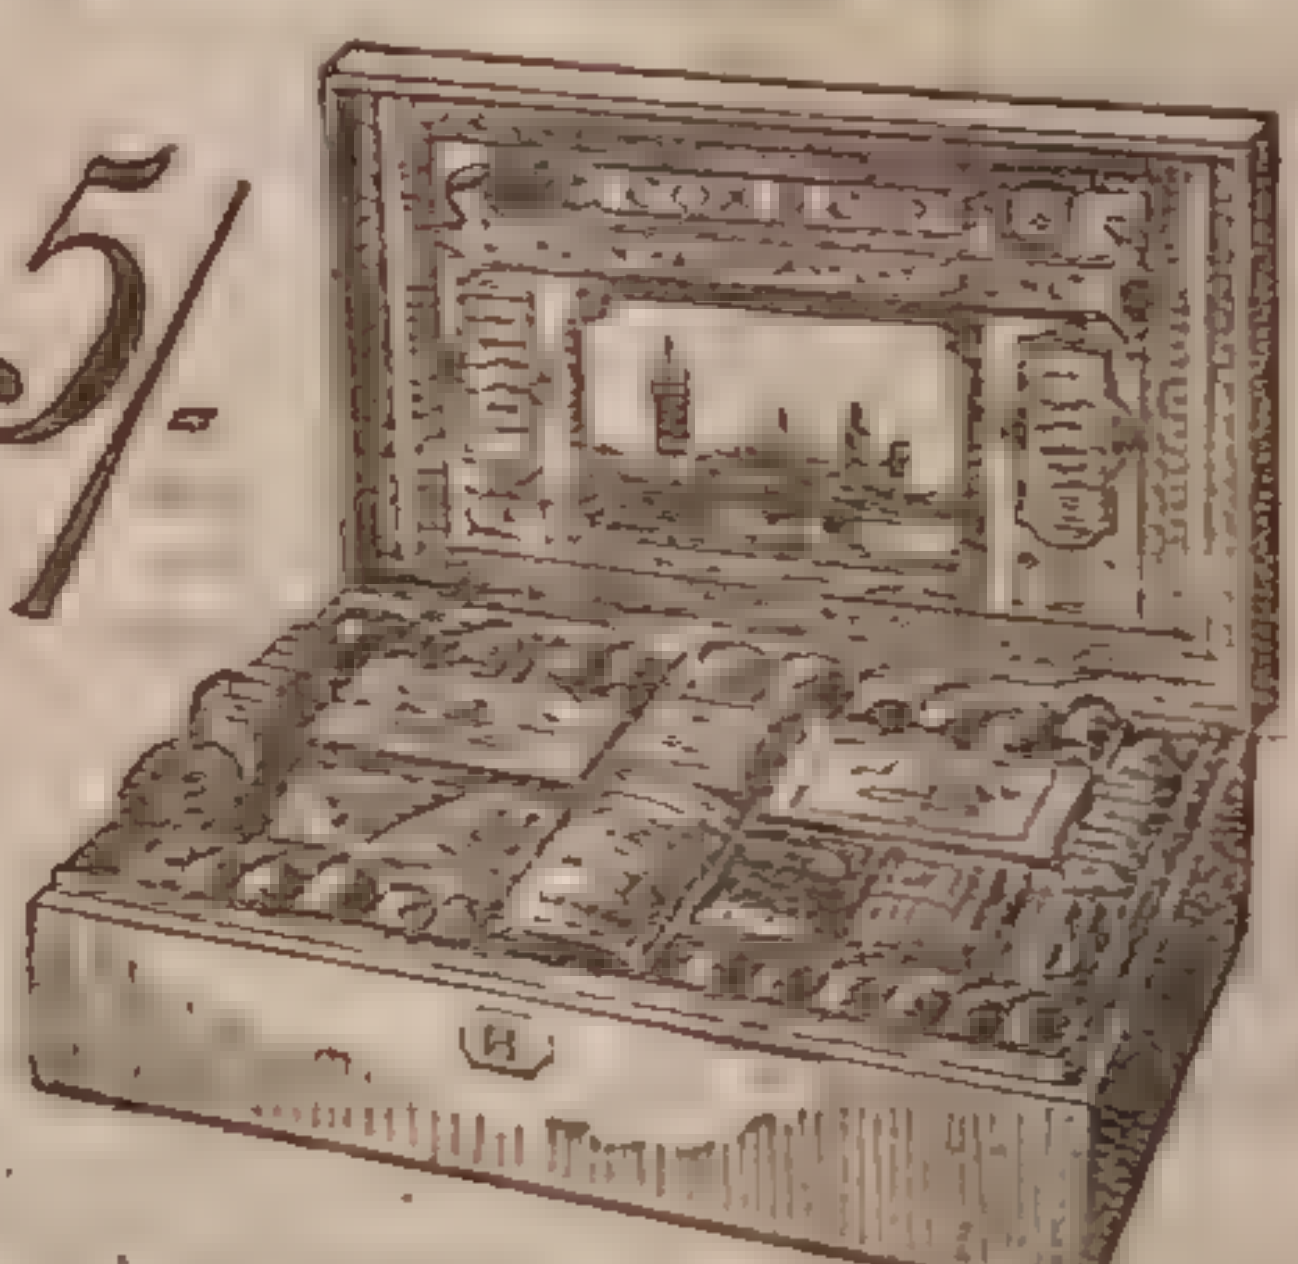
NEEDLEWORK CABINET

SIZE 10IN. × 7IN. × 3IN.

FREE BY POST 5s 6d

Invaluable to every Lady at Home or Abroad



5/-

Contains a Year's Supply of useful Haberdashery & Needlework Requisites, as follows:—Black & White Sewing Cotton, Coloured Sewing Cotton, Sewing Needles, Darning Needles, Bodkins, an assortment of Twilled Tapes, Hooks and Eyes, several Cards of Linen Buttons (different sizes), Pearl Shirt Buttons, Black & White Linen Thread, Mixed White Pins, Black Pins, Darning Cotton, a Measure, Silvered Thimble, &c.

In a HANDSOME WOOD CABINET, with Lock and Key.

Forwarded to any part of the Kingdom on receipt of P.O.O. for 5/6.

COX & Co 99, NEW OXFORD STREET, LONDON.

BEAUTY ✦ DURABILITY ✦ AND ✦ REAL ✦ ECONOMY

R. ATKINSON & CO.

FOR 50 YEARS, BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT,

HER MAJESTY'S POPLIN MANUFACTURERS.

LADIES

UNAWARE OF THE GREAT IMPROVEMENTS RECENTLY MADE BY ATKINSON & Co IN THE MANUFACTURE OF POPLIN, & WHO ONLY KNOW THE OLDER MATERIAL BEARING THAT NAME, ARE INVITED TO WRITE TO THEM FOR PATTERNS (FREE) OF THEIR BLACK & COLOURED.

SILK POPLINS.

WHICH WILL BE FOUND UNRIVALLED.

Price 4/6 to 11/- per yard, Width 24 inches.

A SINGLE DRESS.

FREE BY PARCEL POST TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD WHERE THE SYSTEM IS IN OPERATION.

TEN MEDALS.

SIX ROYAL APPOINTMENTS.

R. ATKINSON & CO., 31, COLLEGE GREEN DUBLIN

The Christian:

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

A Weekly Record of Christian Life, Christian Testimony, Christian Work and Missionary Enterprise.

No. 949.] LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS, E.C. FRIDAY, APRIL 6, 1888. REGISTERED AT THE G.P.O. AS A NEWSPAPER. [ONE PENNY. POST FREE, 1½d.

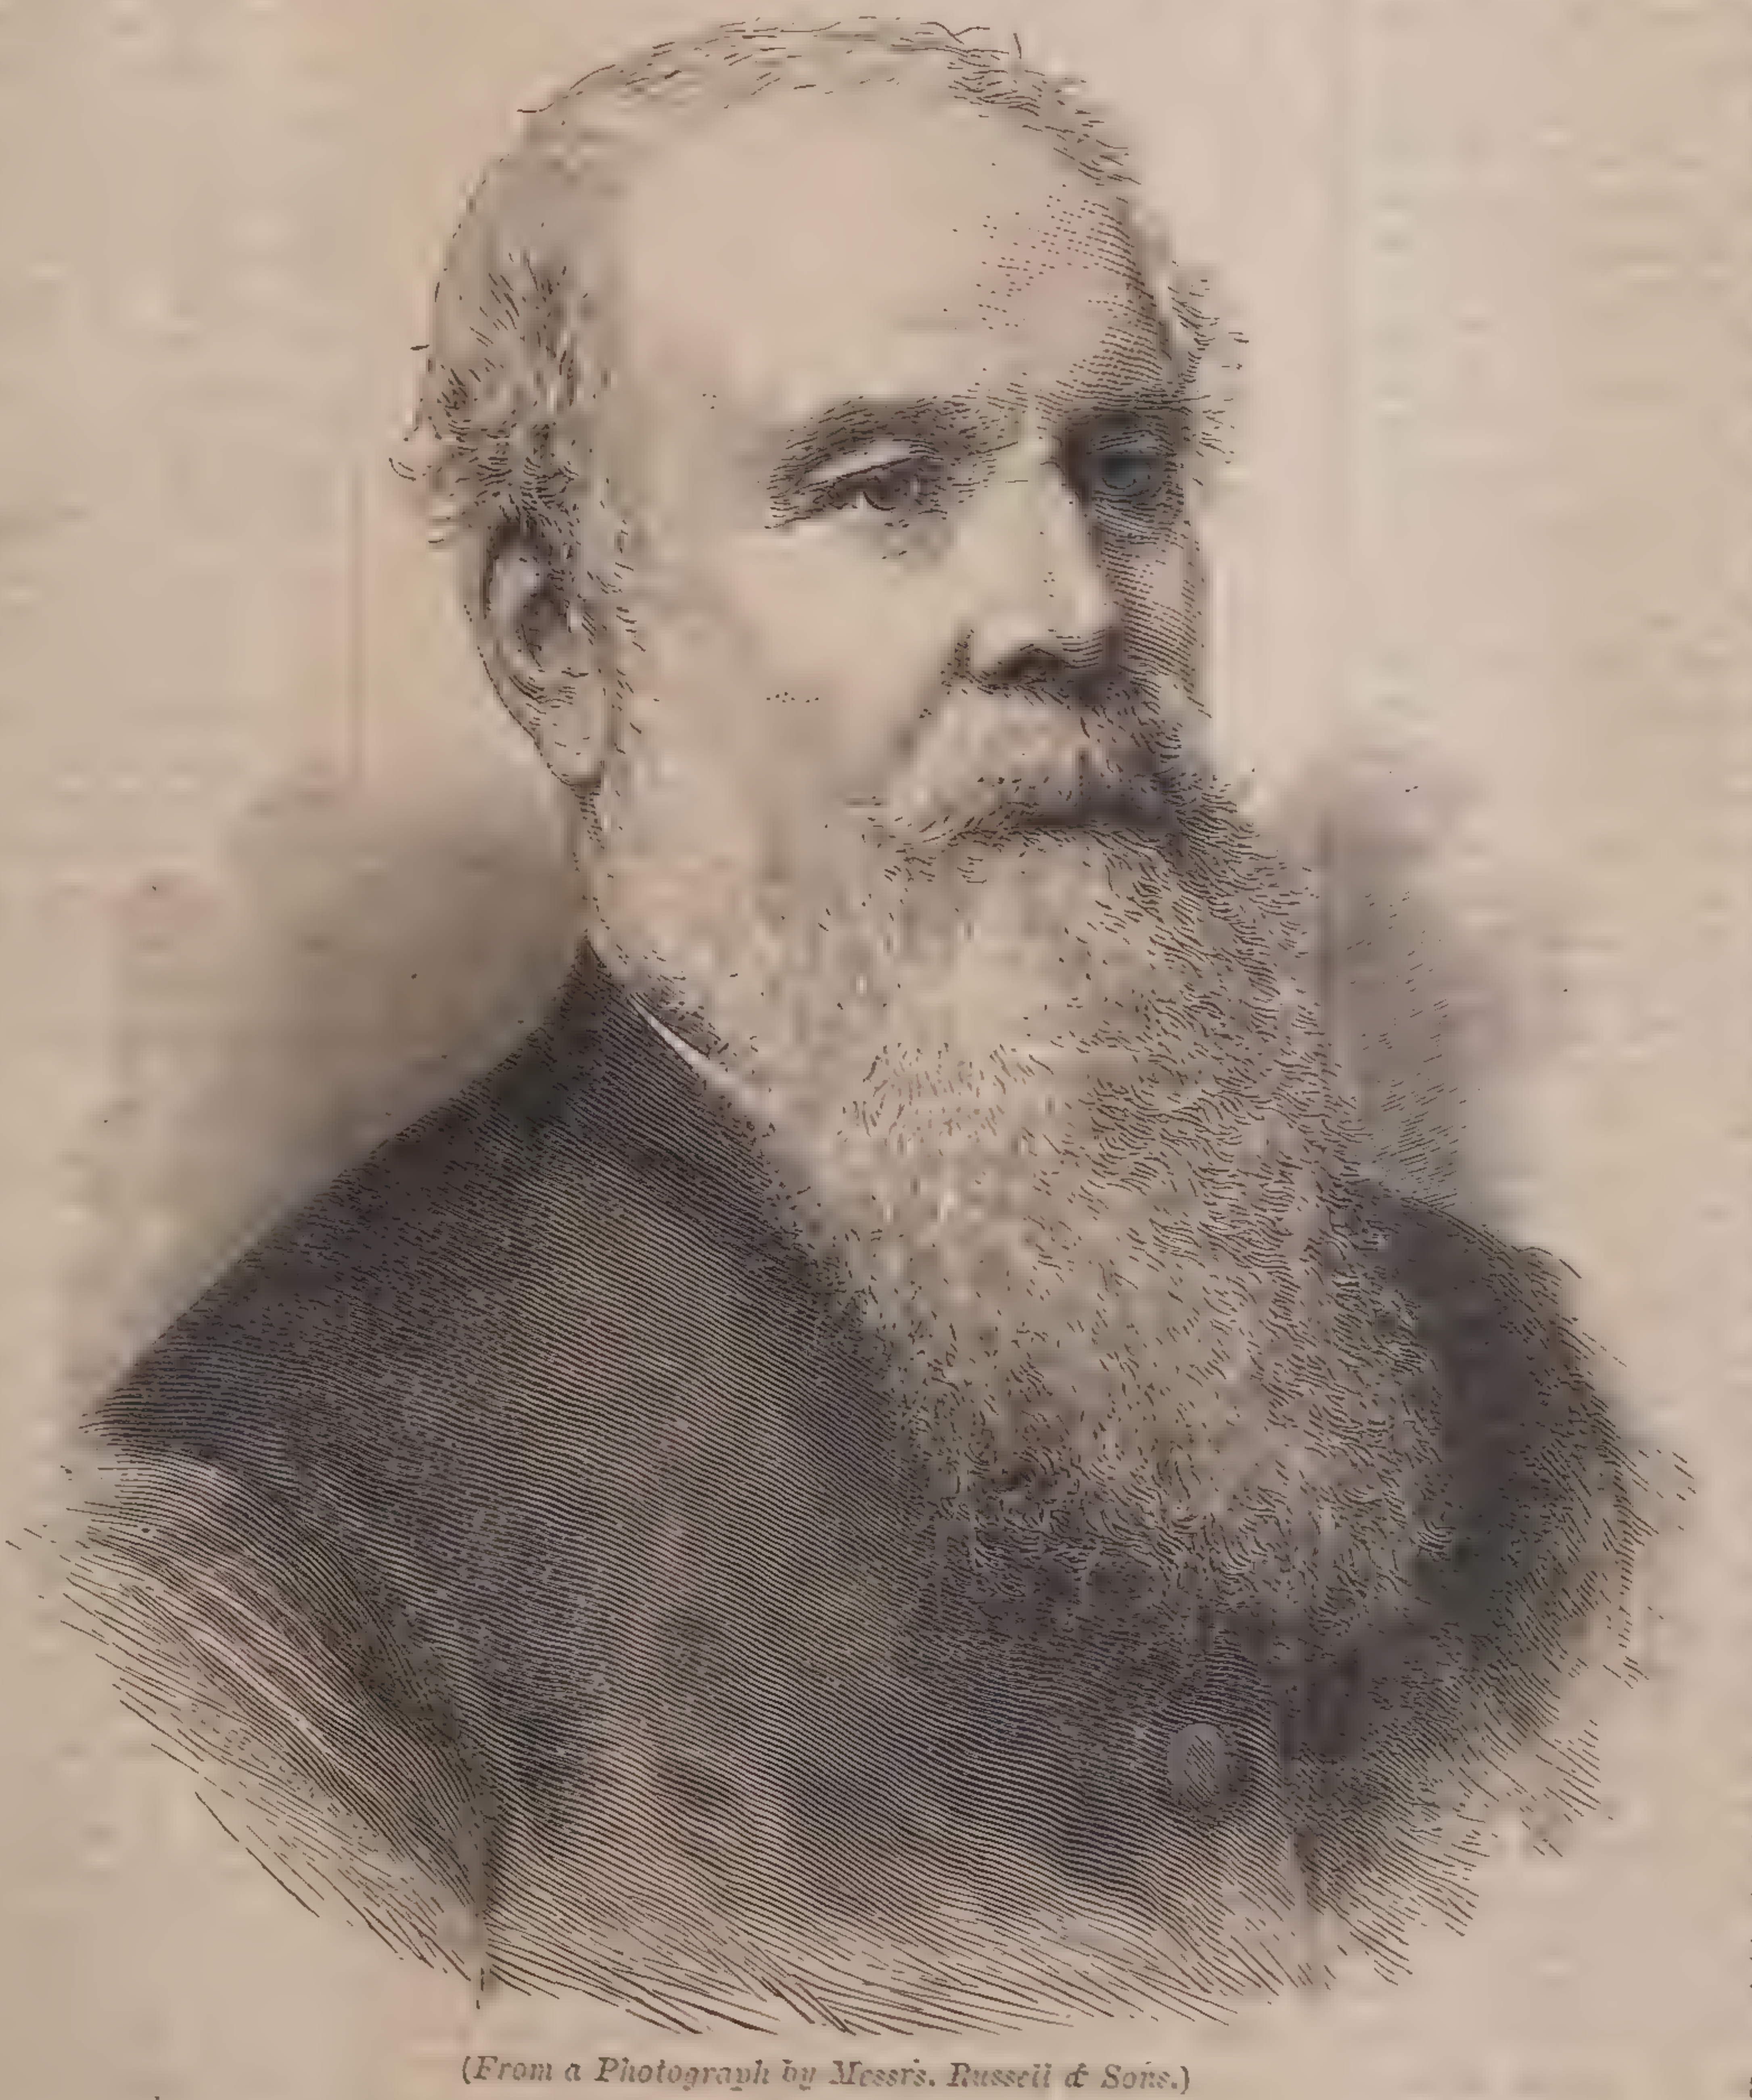
REV. JOHN CHARLES RYLE, D.D.,

Lord Bishop of Liverpool.

THE Ryle family have long been rooted in the north-east of Cheshire. Mr. John Ryle, of Macclesfield, grandfather of the Bishop whose life work we purpose briefly to sketch, was born in 1745, and it was in his boyhood, 1756, that the first silk mill was established in the little town. The trade rapidly spread, and he himself founded a business, which, by an accumulation of profits through a long succession of years, placed him in possession of an ample fortune. His son and successor, Mr. John Ryle, besides continuing the silk mill (in partnership with Mr. Daintry) carried on a bank at Macclesfield. and (in partnership with the same gentleman) another bank at Manchester.

On May 10, 1816, was born at Park House, in the outskirts of Macclesfield, his eldest son, JOHN CHARLES, who in due time was sent to Eton, and in or about 1833 to Christ Church, Oxford. In 1832 Macclesfield was enfranchised by the Reform Act, Mr. John Ryle being returned as its senior member, and thus the father's Parliamentary honour and the son's University life began together. The fond hope of both men was that the Ryle name should, for some time to come, be associated with their native town's new dignity, there being everything to encourage the expectation in the father's influence and the son's growing ability. In 1835 the father was re-elected, and in 1836 the son gained the Craven Scholarship, a much envied university distinction. In 1837, however, after the dissolution occasioned by the new reign, the father did not offer himself to the electors, and this might seem to indicate that the commercial difficulties of the period, which were soon to culminate, had begun to make him anxious in his various undertakings.

The son's energies, however, relaxed not, and on February 22, 1838, he took his B.A. degree, with first-class classical honours. Nothing had then occurred in his father's business to discourage his hopes of a Parliamentary career; and for this, which had so long been the object of his heart, there was a manifest and increasing personal fitness. His intellectual capacity had been proved in the schools; he was of manly physique; both at Eton and Oxford he had been at the head of the boats and the Eleven; in his county he was now an active and popular yeomanry officer. All his thoughts had been, and were, of lay and public life; and whether or not this purely secular anticipation, which continued down to the very eve of his taking holy orders, was any disadvantage to him as a clergyman, we are struck with one thought: that here may be perceived the secret of his being ever afterwards so thoroughly at home with the lay mind.



(From a Photograph by Messrs. Russell & Sons.)

In the early summer of 1841, amid the gathering difficulties of the commercial world, Mr. Ryle's banks both broke, the silk mill, we rather think, having been previously relinquished. In deep waters John Charles Ryle, now twenty-five, had to reconsider his future. Being academically well qualified for the sacred office, and his inclinations veering that way, he sought the diocese of Winchester, then under Bishop Sumner, and in the year of his misfortune entered into deacon's orders. His curacy was at Exbury, a chapelry in the parish of Fawley, the rector of which was Mr. Gibson; in that seaside hamlet of the New Forest. at the remotest possible distance from his late great home in Cheshire, Mr. Ryle buried his grief and recommenced life, but heir to a nobler inheritance than the secular one of which he had been disappointed. In the plainest of little chapels within a grove of trees he met his humble flock. tenants of the neighbouring squire, and the way he went in and out of the cottage homes showed how completely his soul had bent itself to his new lot. During the two years of his seclusion there he acquired, it can be stated, an entire pastoral knowledge of every man. woman. and child under his charge.

Late in 1843 the Bishop appointed him to a living in his gift, St. Thomas and St. Clement, in the city of Winchester; but before a twelvemonth had passed, in or about August, 1844, Mr. Ryle accepted from Lord Lyndhurst, who was then Lord Chancellor, the living of Helmingham, in Suffolk. Though he had been all his life used to an urban people, he never would again accept a town ministry until his appointment to Salisbury and Liverpool.

On the 29th of October, 1845, he married Matilda Charlotte Louisa, the youngest daughter of Mr. John Pemberton Plumptre, M.P., of Fredville, in Kent. In 1861, on the nomination of the present Bishop of Norwich, Dr. Pelham, he became Rector of Stradbroke, a great rural parish in Suffolk, having a large population and a spacious church with a splendid tower. This church he restored, besides building schools. In 1870 he was made Rural Dean, and in 1872, Honorary Canon of Norwich. In 1880 he was advanced to the deanery of Salisbury, and before he had taken possession was further promoted to the newly founded see of Liverpool. But we must now go back again somewhat.

His Helmingham incumbency was the main period of "Ryle's Tracts," the first of these being his opening sermon, originally printed for private distribution only, and taking its title from the text, "I have somewhat to say unto thee." The series was, indeed, a remarkable one: not so much for the number of the tracts, although this exceeded 200—since we can hardly be mistaken in assuming that they were written editions of his sermons—as for their execution and success. They were addressed, not to the illiterate and profligate, but to the respectable, middle-class church-goer. Short, sharp, and importunate were the titles; and below the titles was matter solid, fresh, and as full of strict reasoning, on a Scriptural basis, as of spiritual appeal; in a style undeclamatory, unconventional, spoken, heartfelt, pointed. "Are you Converted?" "Are you Forgiven?" "Are you Holy?" "Are you Free?" "Do you Pray?" "How Readest Thou?" "Strive." "Strike." "Watch." "Occupy." "Wheat or Chaff?" "Our Home." In this fashion we were challenged, and cautioned, and stimulated in every part of us, and we could not but attend to ourselves—and attend to Scripture.

In 1876 was made out a list of little more than one hundred tracts, with the circulation of each appended, and the sum total exceeded eleven millions and a half. A selection of them is now made in eight small volumes, under the felicitous title of "Home Truths." Compared with other successful tracts, Mr. Ryle's had a strength especially their own, an individuality never to be mistaken. They must have owed much to their titles; and we have little hesitation in asserting that Mr. Hunt's advertising list of the tracts would alone form an effective tract for a young sermon-writer, showing him the kind of subject he might sometimes take with him into the pulpit, even should he never read a line of the tracts themselves for a style. We fully believe that the Bishop's intimates could tell of many a triumph won to the Redeemer's kingdom by these multitudinous messengers. Some are known to the public. Bishop Riley, of the Mexican Reformed Church, which began in 1865, was much indebted to a Ryle tract, "Are you Forgiven?" for ability to start in that movement, and he has supported his share of it by translating above forty of the tracts into Spanish. One of these, "True Liberty," gained over to the cause a Mexican Roman Catholic priest of great ability, Manuel Agnas.

We will not profess to have read more of the tracts than may be sufficient to justify the preceding observations; nor does anything we have written commit us to the opinion that the accurate theologian would be satisfied with every statement. He would, in fact, probably criticise something in the tract "Are you Forgiven?" for example. We doubt if the author, at the time it was composed, had sufficiently considered the distinction so properly insisted on by Scott, between forgiveness and justification. Are not these two here mixed up together? To the general reader it might not greatly matter, perhaps, that he should have two doctrines proceeding concurrently under one title, but the exact student, we suspect, may feel some disappointment. On the other hand, let us point to an admirable example of the writer's best style in a difficult doctrinal essay. We refer to his tract on "Assurance," most carefully thought out, and extremely valuable. In this, and in Biddulph's Discourse on Assurance (with its appendix) at the end of his Lectures on the Fifty-first Psalm, less popular and more academic in style, the pastoral divine, as well as the inquiring disciple, will find all they can want on that important subject. We cannot resist mentioning one more tract, a match of that on Assurance, not especially doctrinal, and admirably suited to impress the undecided—"The Choice of Moses."

The Bishop's longer treatises and volumes are also numerous, occupying mainly the Stradbroke period, and some the Liverpool. "The Upper Room," a substantial volume, but a collection of subjects, has just appeared. Of an earlier work, entitled "Knots Untied," a contemporary, evidently well informed, made the statement last year that seven young men were then known to be studying for holy orders, as the result of reading it. Of the volumes, perhaps, the most popular has been "Christian Leaders of the Last Century," sketching the lives of eleven eminent revivalists, with Whitefield and Wesley at their head; and his enthusiastic admiration of them is shared by most of his readers. We doubt, however, whether a still more valuable work is not the Expository Thoughts on the Gospels, as being more continually and lastingly in the reader's hands.

From the heart of East Anglia Mr. Ryle spoke by his writings to all England, and to excellent purpose. Could he have done more good if the ambition of his early life had been realised? We doubt it, although, like his honoured father-in-law, he could have done much in the House of Commons. The Lord of all the wide domain had granted unto him vastly more than he had lost, and as year after year added to his new inheritance of usefulness, he must have found ever fresh reason to lift up his head with joy and still press forward. In 1880 he entered upon much more than the lordship of Macclesfield.

Of his important diocese the special difficulties we understand are these:—Lancashire abounds with native English old Roman Catholic families; Liverpool teems with immigrant Irish ones, and with those Welsh ones who know not bishops. The princely merchants of the great city, who could spare their thousands as common men do guineas, are mostly from beyond the Tweed where they have known presbyters only. A bishop, therefore, in working the special organisation of which he is in charge, is sorely straitened for means and countenance. Nevertheless, within the last seven or eight years, the first Bishop of Liverpool's great exertions have produced remarkable successes, which have found their way into the tables of the Year Book. But there are also spiritual results, beyond the reach of tables, and we know that we are right in adding that never did Bishop more persistently than he, aim at these, in ordinations most particularly.

Another praise, which he may not always get credit for, is his due; we refer to his generous large-heartedness towards those who theologically differ from him. He has been, and he is, anything but narrow-minded; as those well know who have read his Christian Leaders, or remember the warm receptions which, as Canon Ryle, he used to get at Church Congresses. He does not insist (except for himself) on his own precise views of truth in every particular, and if he sees the Gospel holding an emphatic place in another man's system he will be tolerant of concomitants which might strike some as perilous; such faith has he in the sovereign power of the Gospel of Christ if it be central. In this spirit he hopefully surveys the Church of Christ, and in this spirit he administers his episcopate.

In the Bishop of Liverpool's son, who in 1881 finished his undergraduate course at Cambridge with theological distinctions probably unexampled, and became a fellow of King's, Alderman Ryle, of Park House, has had a descendant of conspicuous talents in the fourth generation. The Bishop's age is now seventy-two. We earnestly hope that he may yet be long spared to bless the Hand unseen which altered the course of his early life's voyage, and to deepen the mark which his ministry of forty-seven years has, by God's grace, unquestionably made on the Christian work of his period.

◆

A VETERAN EVANGELIST.

Our dear friend and brother, Mr. Opie Rodway, writes:—

I have felt very prostrated lately, and have to give up special services for the present. I hope, after rest, I may (D.V.) resume work; but I never expect, at my age (sixty-seven in October), to get through so much work as I did last year. It must have been in answer to the prayers of many Christians that we had a blessed year. I travelled nearly 3600 miles, held 327 services at 48 places. I think 1214 stayed behind as inquirers, and 569 professed to find peace in Jesus. If the churches had been prepared, I believe we should have had a much larger blessing. At one church, where the people were longing and praying, and expecting a revival, 125 joined within four months of the meetings, and ten backsliders were restored. They prayed for us in America and London, and many who read The Christian united in prayer, and we ought to praise Him for the great blessing He has given.

THE SHIPWRECKED FISHERMEN AND MARINERS' SOCIETY.—The forty-eighth annual report of the Committee of Management gives much information as to the beneficent purposes and operations of this excellent Society. Between 11,000 and 12,000 persons are relieved annually; and, moreover, the seafaring classes are greatly assisted in endeavours to help themselves. The secretary is Mr. W. R. Buck, Sailors' Home Chambers, Dock-street, London, E.

B.C. 397 and A.D. 1888.

> "Then they that feared the Lord spake often one to another: and the Lord hearkened and heard, and a book of remembrance was written before Him for them that feared the Lord and that thought upon his name."—Malachi iii. 16.

The little Conference of thirty-two years ago at Barnet has become a thousand, and we have Conferences and Congresses of many kinds in many places, multiplying from year to year. And yet there never was more crying need of full and open brotherly conference than now.

Things have greatly changed since that first gathering at Barnet in 1856. The great revival in Ireland followed in 1859, and its results and influence abide with us still. Its most striking feature was the felt presence of God: men and women, youths and maidens, outrageous sinners and respectable formalists, were brought to anticipate the day which has been thus vividly described:—

Soon the whole,
Like a parchèd scroll,
Shall before my amazèd sight uproll,
And without a screen
At one burst be seen
The Presence wherein I have ever been.

God marched through the land in indignation, and the people trembled; rottenness entered into their bones; and men of exemplary lives fell upon their faces, like Job, and abhorred themselves, repenting in dust and ashes.

We are told by a zealous and enterprising contemporary, which represents one of the boldest evangelistic movements of the time, and glories in "these democratic and humane days" that the great want of the age is to imitate Christ. Failure in this is "the root of the weakness of evangelicalism," which The Times asserts, and which, so far as it is a fact, we all deplore. We would rather say, however, that the consciousness of the presence of God, and consequent overpowering conviction of sin, is the first great want of the age. "The Spirit of truth…shall convict the world of sin."

When Malachi wrote, things in Israel were much as they are in Britain to-day, and we may expect God to interpose in the same way as He did then. "I will come near to you in judgment: and I will be a swift witness against the sorcerers, and against the adulterers, and against the false swearers; and against those that oppress the hireling in his wages, the widow and the fatherless, and that turn aside the stranger from his right, AND FEAR NOT ME, SAITH THE LORD OF HOSTS." This was the root and consummation of their offence. Just as Daniel charged Belshazzar, "Thou hast not humbled thy heart before the Lord of heaven…and the God in whose hand thy breath is hast thou not glorified."

In contrast with this, it was expressly THEY THAT FEARED THE LORD who conferred together, in the days of Malachi. The evils of the time were largely the subject of their discourse—a time in which their words were stout against the Lord; when men called the proud happy; when they that worked wickedness were built up. It was not primarily on account of their beneficent concern for their fellow men, that the Lord hearkened and heard his own people, and that a book of remembrance was written before Him; it was "for them that feared the Lord and that thought upon his name."

The Gospel truly means "peace upon earth, and goodwill among men"; but, first of all, it means "Glory to God in the highest." There is great danger "in these democratic and humane days…in this wonderful age, and this wonderful island," of reversing this order, and of giving the second place to God.

For example: while the Scripture saith that "no drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of God," how little is said of intemperance as sin against God, in comparison with its disastrous effect upon the drunkard's earthly position, and the misery it brings upon his wife and children. Our hearts bleed for the fatherless and widows upon whom a great company turns the screw of oppression, and enlarges its dividend by reducing to 2½d. a gross the price for making match boxes. But we do not adequately regard the claim of God, who complains against those who sell the poor for a pair of shoes, "I am pressed under you, as a cart is pressed that is full of sheaves"—and demands of the oppressors, "What mean ye that ye beat MY PEOPLE to pieces, and grind the faces of the poor?"

God waits that He may be gracious until we acknowledge Him; for He will not give his glory to another.

The second essential to such Christian conference as is needed now not less than in the days of Malachi is brotherly confidence. "The fear of the Lord" is the uniting bond. They may differ very widely, for some are better taught and better trained than others; but they are all Christians on the Scripture basis, that they are "righteous by faith," because they "believe on Him that raised up Jesus our Lord from the dead; who was delivered for our offences, and was raised again for our justification." There can be no Christian conference except among Christians, and this is the Holy Spirit's definition of a Christian. Among these there may well be brotherly and loving confidence and conference. "They spake often one to another."

They in the days of Malachi were not confined to annual conferences. Possibly they had not any such. But they spake often one to another. They were not afraid of one another. That generation passed away, but succeeding generations in like manner conferred together, until the Messenger of the Covenant, whom they had by faith delighted in, had come and founded his Church upon that rock-confession, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God."

They had not a humanly-formulated creed, but they had a Divinely-exalted Christ, foreordained in eternity, manifested in time; by whose precious blood, as of an unblemished Lamb, they were redeemed, and by whom they believed in God, who raised Him from the dead that their faith, and gave Him glory that their hope, might be in God.

They were taught, as dead and risen ones, whose life was hid with Christ in God, to set their affection not on earthly things, but on things above, for He was sitting there on God's right hand; and they hoped upon the promise of his appearing, when they shall appear with him in glory. How then could they do other than mortify their members which are upon the earth, seeing they had put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge after the image of his Creator, in which there is no distinction of race or caste or circumstance, but Christ is all, and in all?

As many as rose to their high calling as the elect of God, holy and beloved—baptized into Jesus Christ, buried in his death, raised in his resurrection, walking in newness of life—became compassionate and kind, humble, meek, long-suffering; they forbore and forgave one another as Christ had forgiven them; and over all they put on love the bond of perfectness. The peace of God, to which they were called as members of one body, ruled in their hearts, and they were thankful. They were the lineal descendants of those who, by the last of the Prophets, were signalised as "they that feared the Lord, and spake often one to another."

For the word of Christ dwelt richly in them in all wisdom. They taught and admonished one another, with psalms, and hymns, and spiritual songs, singing with grace in their hearts unto God. And whatsoever they did in word or deed, they did as unto the Lord Jesus, and thanked the Father in his name. Husbands and wives, children and parents, servants and masters, fulfilling their mutual relationships in the fear of God, continued in prayer, watched for answers, and gave thanks for them when they came; and walked in wisdom toward them that were without.

If we are not saints after this pattern we ought to be; and if we ought to be it behoves us to give ourselves and God no rest until we are. For only so can the people of God, in any dispensation, influence the world for Christ.

> Thou son of man, show the house to the house of Israel, that they may be ashamed of their iniquities: and let them measure the pattern. And if they be ashamed of all that they have done, shew them the form of the house, and the fashion thereof, and the goings out thereof, and the comings in thereof, and all the forms thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and all the forms thereof, and all the laws thereof: and write it in their sight, that they may keep the whole form thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and do them. This is the law of the house: Upon the top of the mountain the whole limit thereof round about shall be most holy. Behold, this is the law of the house. (Ezek. xliii. 10—12).

And when this law of the house of God, as given by Ezekiel, is fulfilled, then also shall that spoken by Micah and Isaiah become true:—

> In the last days it shall come to pass, that the mountain of the house of the Lord shall be established in the top of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills; and people shall flow unto it. And many nations shall come, and say, Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for the law shall go forth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem. (Micah iv. 1, 2.)

We are not ready to set others right unless we are right ourselves. And we are not right ourselves unless love, the bond of perfectness, binds us together with all those who love our Lord Jesus in sincerity. We ought to be ready, for subjects multiply on which there is pressing need that they that fear the Lord should speak often one to another.

A foremost, and God-honoured, and world-known preacher holds, and requires his students to hold, Calvinistic views. Yet a prominent speaker on Christian and philanthropic platforms, at present the leader of a new departure in evangelistic enterprise, has "no doubt that the fundamental cause of the failures, both of the evangelical section of the Established Church, and of the ancient Evangelical Dissenters, is Calvinism."

A very popular minister in the northern capital holds up in weekly lectures the writings of John Bunyan as ideal books; and for two centuries the Pilgrim's Progress has been loved next to the Bible by thousands of the choicest saints. But the popular and earnest preacher of the West-Central Mission declares that "if Bunyan had not been bound and fettered by the theology of a narrow, although most devout, school; if he had caught more of the world-embracing philanthropy of St. Paul; above all, if he had entered deeply into the ethical teaching of St. John, he would have produced a totally different allegory." "Christian would have lingered long in Vanity Fair, treading in the footsteps of Jesus Christ, and winning the sinful throng by words and deeds of love."

These differences of view are not edifying to them that are without. We express now n judgment in the matter. But they that fear the Lord might well speak one to another on such a theme as this, seeking to become of one mind and of one judgment, that the Christians of this nineteenth century may not be charged with giving contradictory representations of the Gospel, and sending forth from the same fountain salt water and fresh.

There are other urgent topics, such as "The Government versus God in India," and the attitude of the Church of God towards the iniquities which, according to our correspondent, Mr. Dyer, are preparing the way for another Mutiny in our great Dependency.

Our contemporary, The British Weekly, has supplied an amount of appalling information as to the temptations to which our young men and maidens fall victims, about which they that fear the Lord ought to speak often to one another, until they have devised means of delivering them from the accursed places where they fall.

The multiplication of young ministers on the Down-grade, suggests the question, How are they educated and trained? Are our theological halls and colleges to any extent in the hands of men who manufacture sceptics? That is a question worth considering. Are the men on the Down-grade the necessary product of a system? and are they to be pitied as much as blamed?

The Master left orders to preach the Gospel to every creature. Thank God, there is to be a great Missionary Conference in June, but its utility will very much depend on the degree of individual interest created by those who fear the Lord speaking one to another privately, socially, and in Church relationships, as to the Great Commission.

If they who fear the Lord were often speaking earnestly and eagerly to one another concerning the world-wide work, which the ascending Christ left as a legacy to his people, and exhorting one another so much the more as we see the day approaching, there would be little time, and less inclination, for Down-Grade Modern Thought. The powers which lie in the atoning death and glorious resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ will be felt to be essential to the task of evangelising the world the moment that work is seriously undertaken. There will be little need to defend the truth when the Church of Christ rises up in the power of the Holy Ghost to do the truth.

BIRKENHEAD Y.M.C.A.—From the fourteenth annual report it appears that this Association is increasing in usefulness. The membership, exclusive of honorary subscribers, has reached 247, as against 160 a year ago. The Institute has for some time been quite inadequate to the needs of the Association, and it is proposed to build a new one, providing complete accommodation. The estimated cost is £5000, of which about £1000 has already been promised. Land for the new building has been purchased.

HAM-YARD SOUP KITCHEN AND HOSPICE.—This is the original Leicester-square Soup Kitchen and Refuge, founded in 1846. In the forty-first report, just published, particulars are given of the cheap dinners, and the free distribution of coals, clothing, and food. The system of relief by recommendation and registration, adopted in 1883, continues to work well. Two hundred and fifty-six men were admitted into the Hospice in 1887, and the average duration of their stay was seventeen nights each. About one half of the whole number were benefited beyond mere food and shelter. The Duke of Cambridge is patron and president of the institution.

ABRAHAM: GOD'S FRIEND.

By Rev. F. B. MEYER, B.A., Regent's Park Chapel.

V.—Gone down into Egypt.

Genesis xii.

The path of the separated man can never be an easy one. He must be willing to stand alone; to go outside the camp; and to forego the aid of many of those supplies on which other men freely draw. It is a life, therefore, which is only possible to Faith. When Faith is strong, we dare cut ourselves adrift from the moorings, which coupled us to the shore, and launch out into the deep, depending only on the character and word of Him at whose command we go. But when Faith is weak, we dare not do it; and, leaving the upland path, we herd with the men of the world, who have their portion in this life, and who are content with that alone. Ah, how can we say enough of his tender mercy, who, at such times, bends over us, with infinite compassion, waiting to lift us back into the old heroic life!

"And there was a Famine in the Land."—A famine? A famine in the land of promise? Yes, as afterwards, so then; the rains that usually fall in the latter part of the year had failed; the crops had become burnt up with the sun's heat before the harvest; and the herbage, which should have carpeted the wolds with pasture for the flocks, was scanty, or altogether absent. If a similar calamity were befall us now, we could still draw sufficient supplies for our support from abroad. But Abraham had no such resource. A stranger in a strange land; surrounded by suspicious and hostile peoples; weighted with the responsibility of vast flocks and herds; it was no trivial matter to stand face to face with the sudden devastation of famine.

Did it prove that he had made a mistake in coming to Canaan? Happily, the promise which had lately come to him forbade his entertaining the thought. And this may have been one principal reason why it was given. It came, not only as a reward for the past, but as a preparation for the future; so that the man of God might not be tempted beyond what he was able to bear. Our Saviour has his eye on our future, and sees from afar the enemy which is gathering its forces to attack us, or is laying its plans to beguile and entrap our feet. His heart is not more careless of us than, under similar circumstances, it was of Peter, in the darkening hour of his trial, when He prayed for him that his faith might not fail, and washed his feet with an inexpressible solemnity. And thus it often happens that a time of special trial is ushered in by the shining forth of the Divine presence, and the declaration of some unprecedented promise. Happy are they who gird themselves with these Divine preparations, and so pass unhurt through circumstances which otherwise would crush them with their inevitable pressure.

How often do professing Christians adopt a hurt and injured tone in speaking of God's dealings with them. They look back upon a sunny past, and complain that it was better with them before they entered the wicket gate and commenced to tread the narrow way. Since that moment they have met with nothing but disaster. They had no famines in Ur or Charran; but now, in the Land of Promise, they are put to sore straits and are driven to their wits' end. The trader has met with bad debts which sorely embarrass him; the capitalist has been disappointed in several of his most promising investments; the farmer has been disheartened by a succession of bad seasons. And they complain that the service of God has brought them misfortune rather than blessing.

But is not this the point to be borne in mind on the other side? These misfortunes would probably have come in any case, and how much less tolerable would they have been had there not been the new sweet consciousness that God had now become the refuge of the soul. Besides this, God our Father does not undertake to repay his children in the base coin of this lower world. Spiritual grace will ever be its own reward. Purity, truth, gentleness, devotion, have no equivalent in the ore drawn from the mines of Peru, or the pearls of the sea; but in the happy consciousness of the heart at peace with God and rejoicing in his smile. Had God pledged Himself to give his servants an unbroken run of prosperity, how many more counterfeit Christians would there be! Well is it that He has made no such promise; though it is certainly true that godliness has the promise of this life as well as of that which is to come. Do not be surprised if a famine meets you; it is no proof of your Father's anger, but is permitted to come to test you, or to root you deeper, as the whirlwind makes the tree grapple further with the soil.

"And Abram went down into Egypt to sojourn there."—What a marvellous history is that of Egypt, linking successive centuries. Full of mystery, wonder, and deep thinking on the destiny of man. The land of Pyramid, and Sphinx, and mighty dynasties, and of the glorious Nile. We need not wonder that Egypt has ever been one of the granaries of the world, whilst we consider the periodic inundation of that marvellous river, which preserves the long narrow strip of green between far-reaching wastes of sand. Thither in all ages all countries have come, as Joseph's brethren did, to buy corn. The ship in which the Apostle Paul was conveyed to Rome was a corn ship of Alexandria, bearing a freight of wheat for the consumption of Rome.

In the figurative language of Scripture, Egypt stands for alliance with the world, and dependence on an arm of flesh. "Woe to them that go down to Egypt for help; and stay on horses; and trust in chariots because they are many; and in horsemen because they are very strong; but they look not unto the Holy One of Israel, neither seek the Lord!" (Isa. xxxi. 1.)

There were occasions in Jewish story when God Himself bade his servants seek a temporary asylum in Egypt. Whilst Jacob was halting in indecision on the confines of Canaan, longing to go to Joseph, and yet reluctant to repeat the mistakes of the past, God said, "I am God, the God of thy father: fear not to go down into Egypt; for I will there make of thee a great nation: I will go down with thee into Egypt." And, in later days, the angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dream, saying, "Arise, and take the young child and his mother, and flee into Egypt." There may be times in all our lives when God may clearly indicate that it is his will for us to go out into the world, with a view of accomplishing some Divine purpose with respect to it. "Go, shine as lights," He seems sometimes to say. "Arrest corruption, as salt; witness for Me where my name is daily blasphemed." And when God sends us, by the undoubted call of his providence, He will be as sure to keep and deliver us as He did Jacob and his seed, or the Holy Child.

But it does not appear that Abraham received any such Divine direction. He acted simply on his own judgment. He looked at his difficulties. He became paralysed with fear. He grasped at the first means of deliverance which suggested itself, much as a drowning man will catch at a straw. And thus, without taking counsel of his heavenly Protector, he went down into Egypt.

Ah, fatal mistake! But how many make it still. They may be true children of God, and yet, in a moment of panic, they will adopt methods of delivering themselves which, to say the least, are questionable; and sow the seeds of sorrow and disaster in all after life. Christian women plunge into the marriage bond with those who are the enemies of God, to save themselves from embarrassment. Christian merchants take ungodly partners into business, for the sake of the capital they introduce, to carry them through some financial crisis. Christian people of all grades will court the help of the world, to enable them to stave off the pressure of difficulties, and to maintain their respectability before the world. What is all this but going down to Egypt for help?

How much better would it have been for Abraham to have thrown the responsibility back on God, and to have said, "Thou hast brought me here; and Thou wilt now bear the whole weight of providing for me and mine; here I will stay till I clearly know what Thou wilt have me to do." If any should read these lines who have come into positions of extreme difficulty, through following the simple path of obedience, let them not look at God through difficulties, as we see the sun shorn of splendour through a fog; but let them look at difficulties through God. Let them put God between them and the disasters which threaten them. Let them cast the whole responsibility upon Him. Has He not brought you clearly into difficulties, that He might have an opportunity of strengthening your faith, by giving some unexampled proof of his power? Wait only on the Lord, trust also in Him; his name is Jehovah-rophi; He will provide.

See how one Sin leads to Another.—When Abraham lost his faith, and went down into Egypt, he lost his courage, and persuaded his wife to call herself his sister. He had heard of the licentiousness of the Egyptians, and feared that they might take his life, to get possession of Sarah, who, even at the age which she had reached, must have been possessed of very considerable charms.

There was an element of truth in it, as she was his half-sister; but it was meant as a lie; and it was certainly accepted by the Egyptians themselves, "for the woman was taken into Pharaoh's house." It was a mean and cowardly act, which was utterly indefensible. It was a cruel wrong to one who had faithfully followed his fortunes so long. And it endangered the promised seed. Yet so it happens; when we lose our faith, and get filled with panic for ourselves, we become regardless of all and every tie, and are prepared to sacrifice our nearest and dearest, if only we may escape.

The world may entreat us well (ver. 16), but that will be a poor compensation for our losses. There is no altar in Egypt, no fellowship with God, no new promise; but a desolated home, and a wretched sense of wrong. This failure gives us an insight into the original nature of the patriarch, which was by no means heroic; and betrays a vein of duplicity and deceit, such as has so often re-appeared in his posterity. How thankful should we be that the Bible does not shrink from recording the story of the sins of its noblest saints. What a proof of its veracity is here, and what encouragement there is for us; for if God was able to make his friend out of such material as this, may we not aspire to a like privilege, though we, too, have grievously violated the high calling of faith. The one thing that God requires of his saints is implicit obedience, and entire surrender. Where these are present, He can still make Abrahams out of us, though, by nature, the soil of our nature is prone to barrenness and weeds.

For the Young.

THE PRECIOUS BLOOD OF CHRIST.

1 Peter i. 19.

At Gibraltar the English have a strong fortress cut in the rock. It is protected by very powerful guns, and a garrison of soldiers, some of whom are always on the watch.

One night a sentry on duty, in a gallery cut in the rock, saw a dark figure coming towards him. "Who goes there?" he cried.

"A friend."

"What is the password?"

"The precious blood of Christ."

Strange words! they were spoken by mistake. The next moment the new-comer recollected himself, and gave the right password. He was a Christian man, and his mind was so full of joy in thinking of what he had just heard at a Gospel meeting, that these words came to his lips unintentionally. But they had a work to do for God. They echoed through the gallery in the rock, and reached the ears of another sentinel who was just then burdened with a sense of sin. They came to him as a message from heaven, and brought him peace with God.

If we take the four consonants in the word "precious," P, R, C, S, each of them may help us to remember a reason why "the blood of Christ" should be "precious" to us.

P., Peace.—He "made peace through the blood" (Col. i. 20). Once on my return home I found a letter waiting for me. Inside it was a bill for £1 4s. 6d. Now I could not remember whether it had been already paid or not, and I did not want to pay it again, so I had no peace about that debt until I had looked through a lot of old papers, and found the receipt for it. There it was, signed and settled, and I had no more doubt or trouble about it. The receipt was the ground of peace. But there was another debt I once found I had that I could never have settled myself—my sins, I mean; but I have peace with God now, because I have a receipt for that debt, too. That receipt is "The precious blood of Christ."

The next letter, R, stands for Redemption, or Ransom from death and the power of sin. You remember how Richard I., the Lion-hearted King of England, was shipwrecked on his voyage to England, and made prisoner by an enemy, and confined in a castle in Austria. How did he get his liberty again? Why, the English had to pay a large sum of money as a ransom—about £60,000. But the redemption of our souls is more precious, and we are redeemed, not with silver or gold, but with the precious blood of Christ. Just as the Emperor of Germany had King Richard under his power, so sin and death reign over all men by nature until they are each redeemed. What is the price in this case? It is a life for a life, for "without shedding of blood is no remission," or setting free.

We see a picture of this in the history of the Passover, in Exodus xii. The Lord said, "When I see the blood I will pass over you, and the plague shall not be upon you to destroy you, when I smite the land of Egypt." The houses of the Israelites were not safe simply because a lamb had been slain; each had to make use of the blood. How precious it was to them; it was the only ground of difference between them and the Egyptians. It was not the death of the lamb merely that made them secure, but it was their faith in God's promise which led them to shelter themselves under the blood. If we had been in one of those houses we should have been safe, because the blood was sprinkled on the door; we should have been sure of it, because we had the Lord's promise.

Nothing but the blood of the lamb on the door would have done, and so we know that there is no other ransom for our souls than the blood of Jesus Christ; how precious we should hold it to be, and not put anything in its place.

One day I was showing a friend of mine, a schoolboy, a picture of the broad and the narrow ways. I asked him which road he was in, and he could only tell me in reply, "I say my prayers." That was all the poor boy was trusting in, as if that could save him. God has said: "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." So either I have to die, or someone must take my place. Who can do it? We hear the Lord Jesus say, "I have found a ransom." He has given Himself for us, and it is not by our prayers, but by his precious blood, that we are accepted and receive salvation.

C, Cleansing.—The blood of Christ is precious, because it "cleanseth us from all sin." One day, an officer in the army, named Captain Hedley Vicars, went to a friend's house, and was shown into a sitting-room. As no one was in the room, he took up a book from the table, and began turning over the leaves. It was a Bible, and his eye caught the words: "The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin" (1 John i. 7). They struck him as the very thing he needed, but he hardly dared to think they could be meant for him. He went home, but could find no rest, until he had asked God to show him if they were true for him. This he soon believed, and he said, "If it is true for me, henceforth I will live as a man who has been cleansed by the blood of Jesus." Have you found out that it is true for you? If so, you will be able to join in the new song, "Unto Him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood" (Rev. i. 5).

S, Separating.—Some boys I know who have begun to stand up for Christ among their schoolfellows are called all sorts of nicknames, one of which is "saints." Now the meaning of the word "saint" is one who is "set apart," or "separated" from sin to God. If you serve the Lord Jesus Christ, and confess Him with your mouth as your Saviour and Master, the thought of his death for you will make you hate sin, and you will want to separate from all that is evil. Thus the blood of Jesus, which was shed for you, separates you from sin that would grieve Him. Like a leper who had been cleansed, and had a few drops of blood put on his right ear, his right hand, and right foot, so we may know and feel that every part of us has been ransomed, cleansed, and sanctified by the precious blood of Christ.

Bolton. H. G. Harris, B.A.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—The following are the portions for the ensuing week:—Sunday, April 8, Isaiah xli. 8—20; Monday, April 9, Isaiah xlii. 1—12; Tuesday, April 10, Isaiah xliii. 1—11; Wednesday, April 11, xliv. 1—8; Thursday, April 12, Isaiah xliv. 9—20; Friday, April 13, Isaiah xliv. 21—28; Saturday, April 14, Isaiah xlv. 15—25.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.

Mr. Martin J. Hall, Camberwell, April 9—13; Hammond-square, Hoxton, April 16—20. Mr. H. Hutchinson, Mission Hall, Phythian-street, Liverpool, April 9—13; Altrincham, Cheshire, April 14; Shireoaks, April 15—16. Mr. E. Arrowsmith, on Continent for two months. Messrs. Lidstone and Hutchinson, Ipswich, April 17—19. Mr. T. Lewes Sayer, Sutton, April 8—13; Kilburn, April 16—20; Stockwell Orphanage, April 23—26; Romford, April 29 to May 4. Mr. Josiah Spiers, Wakefield, April 24 to May 4; Park Chapel, Camden Town, May 6—20. Mr. George Banaster, Dorking, April 21—30.

Leaves from my Note Book.

BY REV. W. HASLAM.

I.—THE BLACKSMITH.

When people go out of their way to insult and abuse those who preach the Gospel, we may be sure there is something behind urging them on. Sometimes Satan seems to foresee that he is about to lose one of his chosen subjects; therefore he puts up his slave to demonstrate most conspicuously against the Gospel. It is usually a good sign when we see this; we can afford to be quiet and wait the end.

Going to church one week-day evening in the country, for a special service, we passed by the blacksmith's shop. Being on the road we heard the blacksmith [illegible] out with a loud voice; but, not supposing his language was intended for us, we moved on. Thereupon he came out into the road, as if in a towering passion, with a piece of red-hot iron on a pair of tongs. Using very bad words, he called us all a set of hypocrites. "Ain't Sunday enough for you and your church-going?" he said. "What do you go there for on a week-day? You're a parcel of fools, that you are."

The Vicar said, "Poor fellow! never mind him; let us go on."

He shouted after us, "I've a good mind to burn you with this iron [illegible]." However, he did not come out this [illegible] as we passed on, and soon forgot all about him.

We had a happy service, and the Lord gave blessing through His word. We were detained in church for a considerable time, speaking to anxious souls and rejoicing with those who were rejoicing. As we returned, the blacksmith came out again into the road, to give vent to the feelings of his defiant mind. I said to him, "My dear man, you had really better be quiet; we are doing you no harm. I only wish you had been with us this evening; it would have done you good."

"I've got such a fire," was his reply. "[illegible]"

Finding that anything we could say was unavailing, we left him for the present, and went home.

A few weeks after this I went again to the same place to preach. The Vicar said, "Do you remember the blacksmith who was so abusive to us the first time you were here?"

"Oh yes, [illegible] of him. [illegible] what about him?" I asked.

"Why, poor fellow, he has met with a dreadful accident, and is not likely to recover. He has been asking daily for you to come down to see him."

"Indeed!" I said. "I should like to go and see him at once."

I did so, and found the man whom I had seen so red-faced and country-looking now so changed in appearance that I could scarcely recognise him. He was very weak and quite [illegible].

He knew me, and said, "Thank you, sir, for coming to see me."

After a little pause, he continued, "I have been wanting to ask your forgiveness, sir, for all my bad words to you that evening when you were a-going to church."

"What made you think of this, then?" I asked. [illegible]

"Oh, sir, [illegible] for all. I could [illegible] I was [illegible]. The Lord [illegible] to me, I thought. I felt so happy as [illegible]."

"This is beautiful," I said. "I should like [illegible]."

"[illegible]," he said. "I [illegible] about it after you had gone by. There was a time when I [illegible] that I [illegible]. You will forgive me, won't you?"

"Oh, most certainly," I said; "I forgive you heartily. Now tell me what has happened to you."

He began to speak in a low voice, and said, "[illegible] day [illegible] evening [illegible]— I was shoeing of a horse, [illegible], and I suppose I [illegible] the quick, instead of the hoof. The poor creature kicked and threw me forward on my hands; [illegible] on my back and kicked [illegible] on the back of my head. [illegible] At last [illegible] I could [illegible] brought me up here, and the doctor says [illegible]."

"Poor man," I said, "and you suffered much pain then?"

"Yes," he replied, "and as much as I want; and I tell you what it was the best job that ever happened me in all my life, for now I am saved. [illegible] happy—glory be to God! I tell you I be happy since that day. I thought you would like to know this, and rejoice [illegible] with me."

"Indeed I do. But I am very sorry that you have had to pass through so much suffering."

"Now don't you go to say a word about that," he added, interrupting me; "[illegible] as I deserve. [illegible] I had been laughing against the Gospel, but [illegible]."

"Then [illegible]," he continued, "I don't [illegible]. [illegible] There was a narrow [illegible]. I should have been in hell [illegible]. Now, [illegible] I am on my way to heaven instead."

The poor man became excited talking on the [illegible], and was [illegible] speaking so much. I [illegible] he [illegible] a little.

"[illegible]," he exclaimed, "[illegible] the Lord's [illegible]. I [illegible] the neighbours [illegible] the 'happiest' thing in the world."

"It is so," I said, "and I only wish more people could be brought to see it as you do."

"Yes," rejoined the sick man; "two of my mates have been brought to [illegible] by [illegible] of that [illegible], you know. [illegible]"

I said, "The Lord [illegible]"

"I cannot say a word against the hard blows," he said; "I only feel to thank the Lord."

[illegible]

After a long time he recovered enough to go [illegible] slowly, and lived to tell many in his own happy way of the Lord's willingness to save sinners. This he did for several years, and then entered into rest.

THE LATE ARCHBISHOP TRENCH.—It is proposed to [illegible] the memory of the [illegible] [illegible] College, Dublin.

MARYLEBONE MEDICAL MISSION.—The annual report shows that this Mission is [illegible]. During the year [illegible]. [illegible] Dr. R. Chambers, [illegible] Marylebone, N.W.

LIVES IN DANGER.

In December 188[illegible], a [illegible]

Ye gentlemen of England, who live at home at ease,
Think of our noble lifeboat-men who face the raging seas;
And, braving fear with stormy waves—a fierce and deadly strife—
Go [illegible] to save human life.
[illegible]
Nor fear they how the billows roar, nor heed the tempests blow.
With [illegible] expect them
To wrest from out the jaws of death their drowning fellow-men.

A stately ship sails proudly on, and nears Old England's shore,
And loving hearts beat high with joy at seeing home once more.
But lo! a change comes o'er the scene, and threatening clouds appear;
The wind has changed, and [illegible] fast—the sky is dark and drear;
[illegible]
The ship—[illegible] has struck the ground.
[illegible]
The drowning sailors' [illegible]

[illegible]
[illegible] a better fate had earned,
Of broken hearts, of blighted homes, of desolation spread,
[illegible] widows, children, [illegible] left to [illegible] food.
That England should [illegible] herself and [illegible] to [illegible],
[illegible] is what we now would ask.
[illegible] should [illegible] a [illegible] prize,
For when [illegible] "self-righting" boats, [illegible]
[illegible] H. M.

SUNDAY CLOSING AT BELFAST.—At a meeting [illegible] Belfast [illegible] the Sunday sale of intoxicating [illegible] the [illegible] well-being of the people, and urging upon the Government the [illegible] Sunday Closing [illegible].

GLASGOW HOUSES OF SHELTER.—These institutions, [illegible] for their object the providing of a home for females on their liberation from prison. [illegible]

SOUTH LONDON SHOEBLACK SOCIETY.—The present home and office of [illegible] Borough. [illegible] The total earnings for the year [illegible]. Mr. W. A. Chandler [illegible] clothing.

LAW AND TEMPERANCE.

THE licensing clauses of the Local Government Bill are being vigorously discussed. At a meeting at Manchester a few days ago of the Central Association for Stopping the Sale of Intoxicating Liquors on Sundays, it was resolved that no measure can be satisfactory which does not provide for the compulsory closing of public-houses on Sundays throughout England, and that the question should be dealt with nationally instead of by localities.

A meeting of the leading supporters of the various branches of the Temperance Movement was held last week at the residence of Lord Kinnaird, in Pall Mall. After considerable interchange of opinion, the following resolution was adopted; "That this meeting is strongly opposed to any legislation which has a tendency to create a vested right in licences for the sale of intoxicating liquor." A second motion objected to any legislation which would transfer any portion of the Imperial revenue arising from the liquor traffic to the use of the proposed local government authority for the diminution of local rates. This was also carried, as was also a proposition in which gratification was expressed that the Bill proposed to give facilities for stopping the sale of intoxicating liquor on Sunday, but as there would be considerable delay before coming into practical operation, the meeting urged the Government to promote the passing of a Bill which would at once give this general boon of Sunday closing to the whole of England.

At a meeting of the National Prohibition Party, resolutions have been passed, declaring that the proposed transfer of the licensing authority from the magistrates to licensing boards would in no way abate the evils of the drink traffic, and might even aggravate them; and that the hopeless conflict of opinion created by the licensing clauses of the Bill affords a new and convincing proof that this pernicious traffic can never be adequately dealt with by any attempts at mere regulation, or by committing the power to grant or withhold licences, either to elected Boards, or to the electors themselves, in their respective districts, and that the only remedy for this national evil is a national prohibitory law. In other resolutions it was maintained that the question should be considered on moral, rather than monetary grounds, and that the proposal to compensate liquor dealers is both immoral and impolitic.

Rev. C. H. Spurgeon spoke last week at the sixth anniversary meeting of the Metropolitan Tabernacle Blue Ribbon Total Abstinence Society. The following resolution was adopted:—

"That, whilst recognising with pleasure the attempt of the Ministry in their County Government Bill to afford some check by the ratepayers over the issue of licences for the sale of intoxicating liquors, this meeting protests most emphatically against their proposal to enact a vested interest in licences; and it calls upon the Government so to amend the measure as to give the ratepayers complete protective power against the issue or renewal of licences in their respective districts by a direct popular veto, unfettered by compensation."

In the course of some remarks, Mr. Spurgeon said that he had not read the Bill nor the clause. He was not prepared to speak about it, because when he did speak about anything he liked to know all about it, and when he did bite he put his teeth in. He thought it was a dangerous thing to allow the principle of compensation at all, and what could be said for it he could not imagine. Dr. Barnardo, who spoke subsequently, said there ought to be compensation; but it should be compensation to the poor orphans and widows who had been ruined by the drunken habits of the husband and parent, induced by the temptations thrown in their way by the publicans.

The Honorary Secretaries of the Association for stopping the sale of intoxicating liquors throughout England during the whole of Sunday have issued a circular in which they say: We rejoice to state that Mr. J. C. Stevenson's Bill was read a "first time, in the House of Commons, on February 10, and in support of the measure a great meeting will (D.V.) be held in Exeter Hall, on Wednesday evening, April 11, at which the Archbishop of York has promised to preside. All who are in sympathy with our movement are invited to come with their friends to this great Metropolitan and national gathering. We further ask that those who earnestly desire their country's welfare will bring this question at once before their representatives, and give them no rest till they promise to support Mr. Stevenson's Bill. Above all, let us beseech our heavenly Father to guide the thoughts and decisions of our fellow-subjects, and of those in authority over us, to the immediate enacting of this indispensable and beneficent legislation."

◆

THE EMPEROR'S FAVOURITE HYMN.

UNDER the heading of the "Emperor Frederick's Favourite Hymn" (says The Daily News) the music shops in Berlin are exhibiting a hymn set to music by Robert Radecke. The words are by Ernest von Willich, the only son of Ehrenfried von Willich, the stepson of Schleiermacher, composed at twelve years of age, when the boy lay on the bed from which he never rose again. The hymn, and the tune to which it is set, pleased the present Emperor so much that he has often ordered it to be sung, and so it has got to be accepted as his favourite. In as close a translation as possible the hymn runs as follows:—

When the Lord me sorrow sends,
  Let me bear it patiently;
Lifting up the heart in prayer,
  Comfort He will not deny.
Therefore let there come what will,
In the Lord my heart is still.

Though the heart is often weak,
  In despair and all forlorn,
When in days of utmost pain,
  Not a day of joy will dawn:
Tell it: Let there come what will,
In the Lord all pain is still.

So I pray, oh, Lord my God,
  That my faith and hope may stand,
Then no care I know, nor need,
  Guided ever by thy hand!
Therefore let there come what will
In the Lord my heart is still.

EVANGELISATION IN LIVERPOOL. — The twelfth annual report of the Evangelisation Society for Liverpool and neighbourhood gives an interesting account of tent work and special missions. The labourers seem to have had much encouragement. Mr. T. Lydiatt, 27, Clifton-crescent, Birkenhead, is the Society's agent.

THE SOLDIERS' HOME, HYDE-STREET, WINCHESTER.—The tenth annual report states that real blessing has resulted from the Word preached at the free breakfasts and teas. While many have been relieved bodily by means of friendly help, some have been spiritually benefitted. Communications may be addressed to Miss L. Perks, at the Home.

MISS PAPILLON'S SOLDIERS' INSTITUTE, SANDGATE, contains five rooms besides the mission hall. The managers and friends, however, have for some time felt the great need of an additional room, more spacious than any at present available, and they purpose erecting an iron hall at a cost of £200. A circular on the subject has been issued with the twenty-ninth report of the Institute.

THE LONDON MEDICAL MISSION. — The various agencies of this Mission, in the district of St. Giles, were much blessed last year. Owing to the expiration, in about two years, of the lease of the dispensary in Endell-street, it has been decided to erect a new building on adjacent freehold land, and the required funds (about £1500) are appealed for. The sixteenth report is a record of earnest work carried on for the glory of God. The number of attendances at the dispensary average over 19,000 yearly. Mr. C. W. Priestley is secretary of the Mission.

NOTES FROM THE NORTH.

OFF TO CANADA.

EARLY on Thursday morning a large company assembled in the Christian Institute, Glasgow, to bid farewell to and commend in prayer one hundred and twenty of the boys from Mr. Quarrier's Homes preparatory to their sailing for Canada.

CHILDREN IN PALESTINE.

In a recent letter Miss Fenton, who has charge of the Free Church Mission School at Tiberias, says that she has now over fifty girls under tuition, of whom twenty-two are Moslems, and the others Jewesses and Greek Catholics. The children take great delight in their Bible lessons, and one of them remarked to Miss Fenton, at the close of a lesson, "Now we have school and a teacher, God will expect us to be different from what we were before; and we wish to be good and please Him, and we will ask Him to make us good." In the evenings the children repeat in their Homes the lessons they learn at school.

REDUCING PUBLIC-HOUSES IN GLASGOW.

Sir William Collins presided on Thursday evening last week over a meeting in the Christian Institute, of citizens favourable to a reduction of licences in Glasgow. He remarked that the proposal to give compensation to licence-holders was monstrous, and that compensation should be given rather to those who had been ruined by drink, and to the widows and children of men who had been cut off in their prime, owing to the temptations placed before them. Resolutions were unanimously adopted, appealing to the magistrates to exercise their statutory powers in largely reducing the number of licences in Glasgow. The chairman and speakers were appointed as deputation to wait upon the magistrates in support of the resolutions.

DR. SOMERVILLE'S EXPERIENCES.

During his tour in central Europe Dr. Somerville was frequently the object of special prayer at the Glasgow noon-day prayer-meeting, and on Monday week he gave the friends who assemble there some account of his experiences. His account of his visit to Rabbi Lichtenstein was listened to with peculiar interest. This Rabbi, he said, was afraid to be baptized, although he believed in Christianity, lest he should detach the Jews from him. Dr. Somerville, however, declared that the Rabbi should not yield to that worldly wisdom, but should rise up and be baptized. Mr. Moody, of Pesth, had expressed to him the belief that the time would soon come when the Rabbi would make an open confession of Christ. In passing through Germany on his way home he had found that there was an earnestness about the people which should be an example to the countries of Europe.

COLONEL EDMONDS' FAREWELL.

Last Monday evening week St. Andrew's Hall, which is one of the largest in Glasgow, was nearly filled by the members of the Scottish branch of the Salvation Army, who had gathered to take farewell of Colonel and Mrs. Edmonds. Mr. Bramwell Booth, who presided, was delighted with the reception given him by the audience, and in a brief address declared his confidence in the efficiency of the Army to save the vilest of men. In his farewell address Colonel Edmonds showed how remarkable had been the work he had been privileged to accomplish in Scotland. During his command nearly £76,000 had been raised for the work; the corps had increased from five to 84, and the average of converts per month from 244 to 1110. Mrs. Edmonds followed, with a modest report of rescue-work under her charge, and stated that, since August 1885, there had been received into the Home 119 girls, of whom only 27 had turned out unsatisfactorily. Colonel Edmonds will be succeeded by Major Adams.

CARING FOR THE SAILORS.—A meeting was held last Tuesday at Chipstead, Chislehurst, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Townend, in aid of the Seamen's Christian Friend Society's Cornish Branch. Rev. W. Fleming, LL.B., vicar of Christ Church, presided, and Mrs. A. P. Townend, hon. secretary, read a very cheering account of the past quarter's work on the Cornish coast. It was also stated that the Chislehurst Ladies' Committee had made a large number of bags and woollen articles for the sailors, besides raising and contributing a further sum of £34, making nearly £100, in aid of the Sailors' Rest and Mission at Fowey, Cornwall.

THE STEWARDSHIP OF MONEY.*

OBJECTS DEMANDING FINANCIAL HELP.

As Christians we should be forward to recognise the principle of God's ownership and our stewardship. Our stewardship is the truth emphasised by our Saviour in the parables of the Talents, the Pounds, and in other parts of his teaching.

It being proved, then, that it is our duty to devote a portion of our substance to the cause of God and to beneficent objects, the question arises, "What do these include?" We answer—

(1) The claims of public worship.
(2) Home and foreign missions.
(3) Special evangelisation.
(4) General beneficence.
(5) Care of the poor.

It cannot be denied that the great majority of Christian people give next to nothing towards the three latter items; very little to the second; and but very inadequately to the first. This, however, does not prevent them from praying very hard that the "Gospel may have free course and be glorified"!

SYSTEMATIC GIVING.

People who do not act upon a systematic method give much more in intention than in reality. St. Paul knew this when he wrote, "Every man, according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give." Knowing also how natural it is systematically to defer action in such matters, he further writes, "Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store as God hath prospered him; that there may be no gatherings when I come."

We have met with several persons who, on adding up their givings, have been quite astonished to find how small a proportion such givings bear to their income. John Ashworth tells of one who, from the time he was married, kept a small book in his pocket into which he entered all his givings. At the end of the first year he guessed how much he had given, but on adding it up he found that the total did not amount to one half of what he had expected.

We have known several persons who gave systematically, and whom it was a real pleasure to apply to for money. The late E. R. was one of these. At every stocktaking he transferred to "Charity Account" in his ledger one-tenth of his profits; he thus virtually gave the money at the end of each half-year. All that then remained for him to do was to see it appropriated to the most deserving objects. If such systematic giving were generally adopted, collecting for a good object, instead of being, as it is now, the most undesirable and self-denying of all duties, would become simply a luxury! Instead of the snubs and rebuffs which are so common nowadays, the least agreeable answer possible would be, "I am sorry my charity fund is exhausted," or, "I regret my judgment is not with your scheme."

We strongly deprecate the idea of considering what we owe to God as his stewards in the light of a tax; yet, seeing that we usually make systematic arrangements to "render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's," should we not as systematically prepare to "render to God the things that are God's.

UNFAITHFULNESS IN GIVING.

Unfaithfulness in the matter of giving springs from the inbred selfishness of human nature, unchecked by the rigorous application of the principle of self-denial. Greed, the inordinate love of getting gold and of holding it, is as much a sin as pride; and, like it, reigns powerfully and universally in the human heart. The antidote to such covetousness is giving; and the only method of breaking this "yoke" of covetousness is by giving freely and by giving systematically.

One of the most liberal men of our acquaintance told us that, years ago, when once asked to contribute to a thoroughly good object he distinctly discovered in his heart a disinclination to give; and that he there and then resolved that if ever again he discovered a similar feeling he would give double!

Another friend told the writer that when he began to accumulate money quickly he became conscious of the grasping spirit gradually taking hold of him; and that, in self-defence, he had to resort to the only effective antidote—viz., giving freely and largely.

MOTIVES UNDERLYING ACCEPTABLE GIVING.

The offering will not be acceptable if given with ostentation. One of the foremost and most popular preachers of the present day tells the story of attending his first missionary meeting as a boy. He had two pennies and a sixpence in his pocket. He went intending to give a penny to the collection. As the meeting proceeded he determined to give twopence. Presently his heart was so warmed with sympathy for Christian missions that he longed to be able to give the sixpence, but there arose a serious difficulty—"What about the ostentation?" This gave his young conscience considerable trouble. A bit of genuine Christian ingenuity, however, settled the matter. He sandwiched the sixpence between the pennies! and, doubtless, He who commended the widow smiled upon the boy.

The offering will not be acceptable if it be inadequate. If it be true that our Master estimates our services by what they cost us in effort or self-denial, it follows, that, when we give money without at all feeling it, we shall not get much credit for it in Heaven. "I will give you £5—I shall never feel it," said a gentleman to a friend of ours. "Give me something you will feel," was his reply.

---

* From Conscience and System in the Stewardship of Money. By A Business Man. London: Morgan & Scott. Price 2d.

MRS. WALL'S WORK IN ROME.

Mrs. Wall's good work in Rome is progressing, there being now three medical missions in different parts of the city. The thirteenth annual report gives some account of the origin and development of the work with which Mrs. Wall's name is so honourably connected. Over six thousand attendances were made last year at the meetings, the medical advice and assistance being highly appreciated by the people, who have been suffering many privations through want of work.

The report contains several stories, showing what the grace of God is doing in the hearts of some of the poor Italians. One simple peasant, for instance, brought up in a village among the mountains, and taught to rely upon the priests and believe in their power to forgive sin on confession, came to a knowledge of the truth about two years ago, and his subsequent career has been very satisfactory. One afternoon he was asked at a meeting to tell his acquaintances what the Lord had done for him. "Instead of feeling ashamed, as many would have been under such circumstances, he seemed quite pleased, and spoke to them from a full heart, begging them to leave the path of sin and vice, and seek the Saviour who alone could change their hearts. In November he was received into the Church, having, by his changed life and conduct, given proof of being a true and earnest follower of the Lord Jesus. Although living two miles or more from our hall, he is always present at the services. He is very much persecuted by his fellow workmen, but he says, 'I know where to go for strength, and the Lord will keep me faithful.' He often induces some of his companions to come with him to the services, and takes great pleasure in finding the hymns for them and trying to make them feel at home."

FRIENDLY LETTERS.—Miss Skinner, of Bath, has written one of this series addressed to boot and shoe makers (Jarrold & Sons).

"WITHOUT SIN."

Christians, beware! Satan's most subtle and wily snares are laid for you. Many of God's children are pained by hearing their brethren in Christ thus expressing themselves, "Thank God, we are without sin." The following experience of an earnest Christian missionary may be of use to them. He said:—

"My mind was specially directed to the question of holiness. Comparing my experience with what I heard from other believers, I concluded that they had a definite blessing from the Lord which I had not. This led me to search the Scriptures very closely, and also to wait upon the Lord in prayer, with only this one subject possessing me. I was so engrossed in this inquiry that I did not take necessary food and sleep. Soon I received what I then thought to be the blessing. I cannot describe the sensations I passed through. I told my friends, to the joy of some, but to the grief of others, that I was sanctified, and that sin was taken from me, and I thought I was telling this to the glory of God. I enjoyed great happiness and pleasant emotions for a time, but soon after this was taken ill with congestion of the brain. All my happiness fled. I felt as though God had withdrawn all his love from me, and had given me over to Satan. My anguish at this time I can never forget. The blessing which I thought I had obtained but a few days before was gone, and I was ashamed to turn my face to heaven. Three days passed away before I was delivered from this horrible state; but during the time I enjoyed moments of quiet from temptation. At this time I saw myself a sinner, as I had never seen myself before, and I saw God dwelling in pure and unapproachable light. When our gracious Lord delivered me from the trial, I rejoiced in Jesus more than ever.

"About the time of my deliverance the question arose in my consciousness, 'Who is to wear the crown, you or the Lord Jesus?' I answered, 'Let Him wear the crown, for He has done all the work'; and thus the sin of thinking about my own attainments in holiness was brought home to me.

"I learned some very solemn lessons from this experience. I learned that it is possible to go wrong, even when we are fasting and praying for holiness; that it is possible to say and sincerely believe we have no sin, even when we are full of it; that beautiful religious feelings are often deceptive; and that Satan specially tries to mislead those who specially seek the face of God. Since that deliverance I have been very much blessed of God. But now I believe that every blessing must be in Christ, and only in Him; and I aim at always being occupied not with my sacrifice for Him, but with his sacrifice for me."

Another consecrated Christian, who has fallen asleep in Jesus, thus wrote:—"We must not conclude all light is from God. Satan can be 'transformed into an angel of light.' He is ever ready to meddle with all that merely stimulates the imagination, while grace influences the will and the understanding. There is a danger of being deceived as to inward calls and drawings or inspirations. The true knowledge of God cannot fail to strip off the delusions of self, and as we learn to see our own utter nothingness and emptiness we shall be more and more filled with God."

Throughout the Bible we trace each revelation of God to man; each and all brought him down very low with his face to the ground in self-emptied humility. I end with M. Monod's sweet little prayer, "None of self and all of Thee!" I. M.

STRATFORD GOSPEL MISSION.—The first annual report of this Mission, at Amity Hall, Portway, West Ham, E., states that the year's endeavours have been greatly blessed. Mr. H. Oliver is the superintendent of the Mission, which is still in debt.

THEATRICALS AT TEA.

Under the auspices of the Committee for Conducting Special Religious Services for the People, it is the custom to invite a number of employés at theatres and music-halls to a social gathering once a year. On Friday evening one of these meetings was held at the Shoreditch Town Hall, and was attended by between 500 and 600 persons, young and old, consisting of scene-shifters, flymen, members of the ballet, chorus singers, dressers, &c. The theatres and halls represented included the Britannia, Standard, Pavilion, Surrey, Sadlers' Wells, Foresters', Paragon, and several others. A good substantial tea was provided, and to each guest there was given a button-hole scent-sachet, with Scripture motto attached. These were presented by the Bible Flower Mission, and they were supplemented by a similar number of books given by the Religious Tract Society.

After tea the chair was taken by Mr. George Williams (President of the Young Men's Christian Association), who has always shown great personal interest in the gatherings, and who defrays the cost of them. He delivered a short address, reminding the company that that was the tenth time he and they had had the pleasure of meeting together. They used to meet on Ash Wednesday, but the Government altered the arrangements with respect to the closing of theatres on that day, and now they met on Good Friday, which was the best Friday in all the year, for it was a day commemorative of One who gave his life for all; and he wanted them to know it, to realise it, and to understand it. The Atonement has been achieved and sin forgiven, so that there is pardon for every one, and none need despair if they will only confess their sins and seek for pardon through the Lord Jesus Christ. Rev. T. Evans followed. He spoke upon the difficulties, the joys, and the sorrows of life, and advised them to extract all the sunshine they could out of existence. It is, however, in religion only that we can find true happiness, and it is never "designed to make our pleasures less." Addressing himself to the question of strong drink, the speaker urged his hearers to become total abstainers, as he had been from his youth upwards, and they would find it a source of great happiness, comfort, and enjoyment. A man, however, might be a teetotaler and yet a bad man. That is not the fault of total abstinence, but a sign of badness of heart. Mrs. Chadwick sang a solo, and several other short addresses followed. The audience were quick in taking up apt allusions, and it was noticeable that every allusion to the evils of strong drink readily met with a responsive cheer. The hymns, too, with which the proceedings were interspersed, were heartily joined in, the singing being led by a number of members of the choir, who give their services at the Pavilion Theatre and Shoreditch Town Hall special services.—Daily Chronicle.

FINSBURY PARK VIGILANCE ASSOCIATION exists for work. During last year nine houses of ill-fame were closed through the direct efforts of the committee; two midnight meetings were held, at which a considerable number of fallen women were prevailed upon to forsake their evil courses; a Rescue Home was established in Hanley-road, and called Alpha House; indecent prints were suppressed, and the operations of a band of boy thieves were exposed and stopped.

"COMPEL THEM TO COME IN."—Now that springtime is approaching, when open-air mission work will begin in earnest, perhaps the following suggestion may prove useful to some earnest churches. Let a band of workers go, half an hour before the Sunday evening service, into one of the streets near by, and hold a short open-air meeting, coupled with an invitation to attend the services. By choosing a different street each Sunday, the whole neighbourhood would be gone over, and by going over again when all the streets had been visited, they could keep it evangelised. H. E.

EVANGELISING IN THE FAR WEST.

By Rev. E. P. HAMMOND.

Your readers may be interested to have some account of our meetings in the Western States this winter. We went first to Denver, Colorado, where we were invited by most of the ministers to hold a series of meetings. It was very pleasant to meet those with whom we had laboured fourteen years ago. There were at that time some striking cases of conversion. We were glad to find many of the converts still in Denver, and leading consistent Christian lives.

The meetings were in the Mammoth Rink, holding several thousand. The ministers worked nobly. The children's meetings were held in various parts of the city, and many children were led to the Saviour. On several occasions nearly everyone present who was not a Christian before professed conversion. In one case, between one and two hundred, it was believed by the pastor of the church, came to Christ and gave evidence of a change of heart.

From Denver we went to Albuquerque, New Mexico. There is there a population of eight thousand, about half of them Mexicans. Though it was midwinter, it was nearly as warm as in May. Many invalids go there from the East, and are often cured by the balmy climate. The town is nearly a mile above the ocean. There are in this region between 9000 and 10,000 Pueblo Indians, who live in villages, in adobe houses or houses made of mud. Into the first meeting came Professor Ryan, who delighted us all by telling how he was converted in a meeting which I conducted in Washington, N.J., in 1864. He is now at the head of an Indian school which we visited, and he brought his children into the meetings every day. They were greatly interested in hearing the story of Jesus and his love.

From New Mexico we went to San Diego, in Southern California. Three years ago that place had a population of 3000, now it claims 30,000. We found ourselves in January in the midst of blooming flowers in the open air, and trees laden with oranges. But, alas, the fruits of righteousness enumerated by St. Paul in his letter to the Galatians, we did not find in abundance. The Sabbath is greatly desecrated. Bands of music in large waggons, advertising real estate, go about the streets every day in the week, and sometimes on the Sabbath.

Just as one of the bands of music had been entertaining a crowd of many hundreds one Sabbath morning, and had left for Coronado Beach, we seized upon the opportunity to hold an open-air meeting. As we preached Christ and Him crucified to that motley crowd, the utmost quiet prevailed. We told them how they could secure a title to mansions in the skies, and begged them to be as anxious to lay up treasures in heaven as they were on earth.

Among those who assisted in the open-air meetings, which were held every day, was a man who was converted twenty years ago in my meetings in Dublin. He was then twelve years of age. One evening, a man who had been a contractor was on his way to the docks to drown himself. He heard this man from Dublin preaching near the Post Office, was arrested, and following him to the meeting, asked me if I thought God could save such a dreadful sinner as he, who had that very hour determined to commit suicide. We pointed him to Christ. He prayed for mercy, and I believe obtained it, for from that time his friends told me his life was changed. There were other striking cases of conversion, but there is no time to relate them.

We found people in San Diego and Los Angeles from all parts of the world. Numerous ministers with whom I had held meetings in distant places, though there for their health, were still ready to labour earnestly for the Lord in the special services. The recital of what they had seen in similar meetings did much to arouse the people to labour and pray for the same blessing in Southern California. The daily papers in San Diego gave on an average a column a day, reports of the meetings. By these reports some were led to come in from other towns, and so the influence of the work was extended.

(To be concluded.)

MILDMAY MEN'S NIGHT-SCHOOL.

The eighteenth anniversary of the Mildmay Men's Night-School was celebrated on Wednesday, last week, when the certificates and prizes awarded for regular attendance and successful work during the past winter session were distributed in the Conference Hall, which was well filled by the scholars and their friends.

In introducing Mr. T. A. Denny to preside over the meeting, Mr. J. Mathieson remarked upon the happy results of the devoted labours by Mr. P. S. Badenoch and the staff of teachers. He also read the examiner's report, which was to the effect that the results of the examinations were alike creditable to the men and the teachers, the school having not only maintained its standard of efficiency, but made a distinct step forward.

Mr. Badenoch gave some account of the work of the school. It had met three nights a week since October 3 last, 1206 names being entered on the books, as compared with 1019 during the previous session. All the school statistics showed a like improvement. The average attendance has been 403, the classes having numbered 49. The men represented 164 occupations: there were 54 labourers; 163 builders, bricklayers, carpenters, and painters; 57 grocers, bakers, butchers, and milkmen; 121 warehousemen, packers, and porters; 48 printers and compositors; 122 clerks; and 70 policemen. Mr. Badenoch said that the results have been encouraging alike from intellectual, moral, and spiritual points of view. The highest aim is always kept in mind, and all who enter are given to understand that their salvation is the real object and desire of those who conduct the school. Mr. Badenoch intimated that not a few who have attended the school have come to a saving knowledge of Christ, and he read extracts from the written testimonies of wives and mothers as to the great change that had come over their husbands and sons consequent upon their attendance at the school.

The certificates and prizes were to have been distributed by Louisa Lady Ashburton. Her ladyship was, however, prevented from attending by family bereavement, and a substitute had to be found. At short notice, Lady Macnaghten came forward, and in a most genial manner conducted the ceremony.

It was a happy sight to see the men assembled in such large numbers for such a good purpose. One well-known Christian worker was heard to remark to another, "Schools such as this all over the kingdom would be an effectual antidote to Socialism." These are sensible words, for with sharpened intelligence and well-furnished minds, working men would prefer the practical to the visionary, and see wisdom in respecting others as they claim respect for themselves.

MR. SPURGEON'S ORPHANS AND COLPORTEURS.—During the last few days a legacy of £5000, to be used for current expenses, has come to the Stockwell Orphanage, and £3000 to the Metropolitan Tabernacle Colportage Association. During the year just ended Mr. Charlesworth and his choir have earned £1418 for the Orphanage by their singing in the provinces.

WORK AMONG OUR SOLDIERS.—The fifth annual report of the Mission to Mediterranean Garrisons is a record of quiet labour, attended by much encouragement. On board troopships, and in hospital at Gibraltar, a good testimony has been borne, and God has vouchsafed many tokens of blessing. All communications respecting the Mission should be addressed to Mrs. Todd Osborne, Rysland, Newton-Mearns.

"BRIDGE OF HOPE" SHELTER.

About three years ago we were awaked about one o'clock in the morning by the loud rapping of two policemen at our door. They brought with them three respectable young Irish servant girls, who, believing, as many still do, in the golden streets of London, had come over from Cork, with their poor, but tidy, box of clothes, no money in their pockets, but bright hopes of good situations and high wages directly they landed. They arrived late at night at the Docks, and the policemen saw these three innocent girls actually walking into one of the vilest dens in Ratcliff-highway, the only available lodging in this neighbourhood. The men followed them, told them of their danger, and the girls gladly followed them to our Refuge. Of course, we received them for the night, and the next day passed them on to a respectable servants' lodging-house, whence, their credentials established, they easily obtained good situations.

It was then I resolved, by God's help, I would not rest until I had opened in Ratcliff-highway a night shelter, to which any destitute or stranded woman might come, and know that by entering it she was not losing her claim to respectability.

Hearing of our need, a friend gave me £50. I took a small house, got some iron standards, and swung across them strong matting hammocks. These, with a pillow covered with American cloth, and a thick pair of scarlet blankets, form a bed by no means uncomfortable, and one which is easily kept clean. The fact that during the first year it was open 1738 nights' lodgings were given shows how it was appreciated.

We are daily learning how better to help the poor around us; and, living in among them, we are close at hand to give the little help when and where most needed. There are some so far lapsed and willing to live upon the bread of idleness, that for them there is nothing but the workhouse or the casual ward; but many, very many, can be helped, and it is for them we open our Night Shelter. Poor working-women, tailoresses, factory girls, the lower classes of domestic servants, may be taken ill. They are nursed in the Parish Infirmary, but when they get better and come out, they have nowhere to go. To hundreds of such we have been able to give bed and and food, perhaps for as many as seven nights, until work has been found, and then lodgings can be paid for.

Sometimes a poor, repentant girl has found her way to us in the middle of the night, and she has been glad to enter the Refuge in the morning. Sometimes a young girl, in a naughty fit of temper, has run away from her place or home, and, when quiet hours of the night have come on, she is glad to be told of our Shelter, and she is restored unharmed to her anxious friends in the morning. Instances of usefulness might be multiplied; let one, a type of many, suffice.

E. B.—A girl of nineteen, an orphan, alone in London, one day, hungry and weary, found her way to our door. She had been employed by two large firms, which she named, earning as a mantle hand, 14s. or 16s. weekly. When work became slack she was dismissed. She kept on her lodgings as long as her small savings lasted; and then, when money and clothes had all gone, she lived for a whole week on one meal a day, the breakfast her landlady provided, not knowing at the week's end what would become of her.

We took her in and lodged her, and gave her each morning an early breakfast, and some food in her hand for her mid-day meal, and sent her out to look for work. She was not hopeless now, nor hungry. She had found friends, and work too was found after a few more days' search. Then she had a week's free lodgings in our shelter, and so was able on the Saturday to take her week's earnings whole, and begin life again, a happy working girl.

What might have become of that young girl, and of many similarly situated, if the "Bridge of Hope" had not kept open doors? No woman leaves our house without hearing of the Saviour, whose arms are ever open to receive back the wandering ones. Surely this is not "pauperising the people;" it is simply helping our less fortunate sisters, as I believe Christ would have us help them.

As our night shelter becomes better known, we find it needs very great care in order that the benefit may be bestowed only upon those to whom it will be a real help. Such shelters can be easily abused. Our night shelter has been at some little distance from the Refuge, and the difficulties in working it have been very great. Every arrangement has been most inconvenient, and we scarcely know how we have managed at all to get through the heavy stress of the last few months. Now, however, our new night shelter, which will accommodate thirty women, is in progress. It is being built on the site of the very last of those thirty-five infamous houses, which only seven years ago made Betts-street one of the worst streets in all London. We pray that nothing may hinder its being open quite free of debt early next autumn, so that next winter this blessed work shall be felt to be a boon far and wide in this poor neighbourhood.

Some £1200 is needed to complete the buildings, besides the every day needs. I shall be very thankful to supply further details.

Our night shelter has been a blessing to hundreds, and we trust will be to thousands more, and though, perhaps, we cannot say we have often entertained "angels unawares," we can rejoice in what is much better: we have many times heard the Master's voice saying, "I was a stranger, and ye took Me in."

Ratcliff-highway Refuge, Mary H. Steer.
26, Princes-square, London, E.

◆

MR. HENRY VARLEY.

We give some extracts from letters from Mr. Varley:—

"February 2.—We left the Cape January 22; so far we have had a lovely passage. Truly the Lord was with us in that colony, and thousands of loving farewells attended my coming away.

"February 6.—We are 800 miles from Hobart; delightfully fine. Yesterday I preached three times, and, though on shipboard, eleven persons confessed the Lord Jesus Christ, while many more appeared to be deeply impressed. I am feeling well and strong.

"Friday, February 10.—We anchored off Hobart at eight this evening. On Sunday afternoon and evening I preached in the Town-hall. The meetings were crowded, and we had a most blessed time; many confessed the Lord.

"February 15, Perth, Tasmania.—I met in Hobart a dear fellow who was greatly blessed by our mission ten years since in Sydney, who has become a valued servant of Christ, and is now a leader and teacher of a company of believers. Mr. G., of this place, is more devoted than ever. He has built six chapels, and had out a number of Mr. Spurgeon's men as preachers. Telegrams and letters in abundance await me for service. It was a great joy to hear of and see those who were brought to the Lord on our last visit still faithful to their Saviour.

"Launceston.—A blessed service here, though only twelve hours' notice. I had a meeting of ministers and others on Thursday morning, and a most precious time we had. There is a longing for increased spiritual life." [Mr. Varley writes later from Melbourne, having met his children there, and says he is in capital health.]

SOUL WINNING AND PRAYER UNION.—Text for April 10 (Isaiah xliii. 5, 6):—"Fear not: for I am with thee; I will bring thy seed from the east, and gather thee from the west; I will say to the north, Give up; and to the south, Keep not back: bring my sons from far, and my daughters from the end of the earth."

VILLAGE MISSIONS.

A DAY OF BLESSING.

One Lord's day morning in 1887, we left a friend's house where we had often had great kindness shown. With pony and chaise four of us soon reached a large village, and before 10 a.m. had begun visiting from house to house, where on previous visits the people seemed indifferent. Now a change had come, and the writer found three anxious souls who were pointed to Jesus, and I fully believe did trust in Him. Others found anxious ones who in like manner were directed to the Saviour. After proclaiming the Gospel at every corner, we trotted on to the next two villages.

Here a freethinker refused our papers and opposed, but the visitor claimed to be a freethinker too, who after many a search and struggle had proved that the only sensible place for such a one is at the feet of Jesus. Down a crooked lane were some houses well remembered. I soon found one with whom I had pleaded before. She had been so influenced by our message, books, &c., that she had sent them to friends at a distance, and, when entreated now to receive the Lord, she did so with much feeling. Next door a similar case was waiting for me with similar blessing.

The march through the village to catch my friends was diversified with proclamations of the Gospel amid hearty expressions of sympathy from Christians around. A short trot brought us to our dining-room, a leafy lane. Our usual after-dinner nap was shortened by the keen north wind, and soon after two o'clock we were in the next village, where, in a similar manner, we made known the Gospel. About four o'clock we had secured a kettle of water at an old friend's house for tea.

We next found our way to the best corner for a meeting, and stayed until about six o'clock with a good company of earnest listeners, among whom was a mother who had come two miles to meet for worship near by, who some years before had knelt with us in her cottage, and given herself wholly to the Lord. She spoke of our finding her husband, &c., at the next place. On arriving there we found him earnestly seeking the Lord, and in poor health; also a daughter just arrived from New Zealand, a seeker. If there is joy in the presence of the angels over one sinner that repenteth, there is certainly joy on earth, and to have two in one house is a rare delight. Not soon shall we forget the daughter's expression—she had "long been seeking"; as we knelt in prayer with the old man he suddenly exclaimed with a new-found joy, "Bless the Lord," &c. The great man of the village refused our papers, because "small-pox is carried in that way," but the poor received the truth, and the Spirit blessed us.

At 8 p.m., we were gathering a crowd on a large village green near our lodging, with many around us whom it had been our privilege in days gone by to point to Jesus. It was a happy time indeed. We cannot tell more of that tour other than that the next morning we called at three houses just off the green, the dweller in one having been at the meeting the evening before. She promised when we were gone to go alone to the Lord with the verse:—

Just as I am, without one plea.
But that thy blood was shed for me,
And that thou bidd'st me come to Thee,
O Lamb of God, I come!

Seven miles from his home we met our freethinker again, who followed us some distance confessing that his mother died happily in the Lord. We told him he would soon join us. Several invalid friends who help us much in prayer bear him with many others on their hearts before the Lord who is the Hearer and Answerer of prayer. T. S. Heley.

CO. MONAGHAN.—During the past four weeks Gospel meetings have been held in the Orange Hall, Cornawall, Drum, co. Monaghan, by Mr. John Nesbitt, of the Irish Evangelisation Society, with gratifying results.

AMERICAN NOTES.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

March 13.—Imprisoned! With a few million fellow-beings your correspondent is cut off from the outside world. The white-plumed army has come in myriads. Whole States, including cities, towns, and hamlets, have surrendered. We are blocked on every side, and can only wait for deliverance. A storm-blizzard, of unparalleled dimensions for New England, is upon us, and there are drifts of snow piling, in some places, to the height of 30 ft. On the level it is now not far from 4 ft. The Eastern States have their annual share of winter, but the present blizzard is a novel experience. We had the first touch of spring a few days ago, when, lo, the winter rallied for a final assault, and we are fairly imprisoned.

. . . .

Springfield, Mass., my present field of labour, is midway between New York and Boston, about three hours' ride from either city. But for three days no trains have arrived from any point. Nor is there any telegraphic or telephonic communication, so that business is temporarily paralysed. One ambitious firm has, however, succeeded in getting New York market quotations by telegraphing to Montreal, thence to London, viâ France to New York and return. Trains are held fast in snowdrifts along all the railroads, and there is prospect of great suffering. School children who were overtaken by the blizzard were sheltered at neighbouring houses, while employers and employés are huddled together in factories, shops, and hotels, day and night. It is impossible for them to reach their homes, although some of them live near. One man bravely faced the blinding storm, and reached a point opposite his own house; but he could not cross the street, and so turned in upon his neighbour, where they cared for him. All this may seem marvellous, but I am not romancing. The stern facts are all too real just now.

. . . .

March, 15.—Liberated. After forty-eight hours the storm subsided. Thousands of men are now shovelling paths through the great snow-drifts. Old Sol is aiding the work with his hot breath, but it will be many days before regular traffic can be resumed. The papers have not yet reached us from the outside world. Several parties of snowed-in passengers have been rescued from delayed trains. One party of 165 has arrived. Fifty hours without food is no pleasant experience. But not many suffered that length of time. Brave men reached the trains from the surrounding farms with provisions and coal. Some singular episodes have occurred. Milkmen have made prodigious efforts to avert a threatened milk famine. They have been successful. Were it not for condensed milk found in the stores there would be real suffering, especially among children the past few days. How dependent we are on the providence of God! How helpless to avert a snow-storm!

. . . .

March 16.—Communication is opened with New York, Boston, and the surrounding country. Reports of the storm show its extent. It covered an immense area—from Canada to W. Virginia, raging worst around New York and the sea-coast. The casualties are very numerous, especially among the shipping. Hundreds of lives are reported lost, both on land and sea. Had the cold been as intense as that produced by Western blizzards, the suffering and mortality would have been still more. How little we know of nature's terrific forces! What part they shall play in future judgments, who can tell? God hath reserved the treasures of the hail against the day of his wrath. May this display of his power be recognised by us all, and his voice be heard above every tempest, saying, "It is I, be not afraid!"

. . . .

Busy Frances E. Willard, than whom there are few more active women, is about to prepare a volume of personal reminiscences and speeches autobiographic of the development of the society of which she has so long been the head and the leading spirit. The book is also to contain a sketch of Miss Willard's life as a teacher, and her years of study and travel across the sea. The work is well under way, and is to be published in the fall. It will be finely illustrated.

. . . .

The World's Women's Temperance Union has just issued a petition addressed to the different Governments of the world, praying for the deliverance of the Free State of Congo from the floods of liquor of the vilest kind, that are being poured into this helpless country by the civilised nations of the world. Every Christian heart ought to be stirred to its depths by the awful fact that wherever a Christian missionary goes he opens the way for Christian civilisation, so-called, to force its vices on the nations it invades; and, that with every Bible carried to the heathen, thousands, nay, millions of gallons of rum are sent along for company. It is earnestly to be hoped that this petition will be signed by every Christian man and woman in England.

. . . .

We are not likely to starve for mental pabulum. The report of books published in 1887 in Brother Jonathan's dominions amounts to the large number of 4437. Novel writers take the lead, another sign of our advanced age (?); 1022 new works of fiction have been thrown on the book market. A critic remarks that possibly the 22 may be works of merit, while the 1000 constitute the chaff to be consigned to the garret of literary oblivion. We would that it were even so; but, alas, they are not harmless chaff, but baleful poison, the kind to damage the mind and damn the soul. 408 books are of the juvenile class, many of them of the Indian-killing sort. Next are the legal publications, which number 437; religious, 357 educational, 283; miscellaneous, 253; poetry, 225; biography, 201; travel, 187: fine arts, 173; medical, 171; history, 150; political and social, 141; artisan, 123; various sciences, 76; domestic and rural, 61; sports, 48; humour, 26; philosophy, 21. This, then, is our contribution to the advancement of thought (!) in the past year: novels, 1022; philosophy, 21.

. . . .

Meantime, the circulation of the Bible, the light of the ages, the Word of God, increases here and elsewhere. Bible study among Christian people is becoming more general, and the healthy, searching teaching of some evangelists is doing an important work in rebuking error, and guarding against a superficial and artificial spirituality.

PADDINGTON.—The hall in Church-place, Paddington-green, built by the late Mr. Stevens, is now in the hands of a man who wishes to turn it into a dancing saloon. Can you not stir up an interest in this matter, to retain it in the service of the King, in whose name it was built?—Yours,

M. A. Mayor.

20, Manor-place, Paddington Green, W.

MISS SHARMAN'S ORPHANAGE.—According to custom a service on behalf of this excellent institution was held at Rev. Newman Hall's church, Westminster Bridge-road, on Good Friday, the preacher on this occasion being Rev. C. B. Symes. Referring to the claims of Miss Sharman's Home, he observed that in one way they could imitate their Saviour—for He cared for the orphan. Was not his injunction to them to visit the fatherless in their affliction, and keep themselves unspotted from the world? In their desire to serve Christ let them have a care for and minister to the necessities of the orphan. At the Orphan Home carried on under the superintendence of Miss Sharman, something like 280 girls are being fed, clothed, and, as far as was humanly possible, brought to Christ; and the institution is entirely dependent for its funds upon voluntary contributions. This is a great and a good work, and he asked them to express their sympathy for it that morning for the love of Christ, and not for themselves. About 200 of the orphan girls of the Home were present, and during the collection sang "Behold the Lamb of God" in a most creditable manner. Their cheerful and happy appearance was much admired.

SURREY CHAPEL.

The historic name of Surrey Chapel is to be perpetuated in a handsome building which is in course of erection in Blackfriars-road, and which, it is expected, will be completed in October next, at a cost of £11,000. On Friday afternoon the stone-laying ceremony in connection with the new building took place in the presence of a large concourse. A religious service preceded the ceremony. Stones were laid by Mr. Horace B. Marshall, J.P., Mr. I. Huckle, Mr. J. Caudwell, F.R.S.L., Mr. S. Plummer, Rev. T. Penrose, Rev. B. Senior, and Mr. E. Tiplady, representing the Sunday-school. Towards the purchase and building fund altogether £1100 was laid upon the stones. After the ceremony the company adjourned to the Metropolitan Tabernacle, where, in the schoolroom, a thousand persons sat down to tea.

Later on a public meeting was held in the Tabernacle, at which Mr. W. I. Palmer, J.P. (Reading), presided, supported by Mr. Senior and a number of ministers, including the President of the Primitive Methodist Conference. The chairman delivered a brief and genial address, in which he said that, whatever had become of the old historic building, the work in that crowded and needy neighbourhood was being carried on in an energetic manner by Mr. Senior. He knew a great deal about the work of the Primitive Methodists in the country districts, and he felt great sympathy with that work, as being a substantial contribution to Christianity, especially in the villages.

Rev. B. Senior gave an interesting account of the history of Surrey Chapel. They had succeeded in getting the best freehold site in Blackfriars-road, within forty yards of the old Surrey Chapel, and the new building being erected would be an ornament to the Blackfriars-road, a credit to the Primitive Methodists, and a house of mercy for the teeming multitudes yet unsaved in that neighbourhood. There were no fewer than eighteen public-houses in the Blackfriars-road, and only one parish church. So far, they had been much encouraged; the names engraved on the memorial stones that day represented almost every shade of Christian faith. They were hoping to raise enough money to open the chapel free of debt. Addresses followed by Rev. T. Whitehead, President of the Primitive Methodist Conference (who came down very heavily on "modern thought in religion;" there would be none of that in new Surrey Chapel), Rev. J. King, Rev. George M‘Cree, Rev. T. J. Malyon, and Rev. W. Penfold Cope. Mr. Senior announced that Mr. Spurgeon had promised to preach the first sermon in the new chapel.

KOREA.—The first Protestant Church has been organised in connection with the American Protestant Mission. Fifteen members are enrolled, and others are calling for baptism. Though contrary to Korean law, the government is reported as raising no question. It is but a score of years since the organisation of a Christian Church in Japan was not only contrary to the law, but would have been visited with severe punishment, yet today there are more than 15,000 church members in that empire.

PROPOSED NEW MISSIONARY SOCIETY.—The organisation of a new missionary society is now being considered by Christian workers in the United States. Almost simultaneously suggestions upon the subject came from China, Africa, and Chicago, to Dr. Dowkontt, of the New York Medical Mission. The China Inland Mission and Bishop Taylor's Mission in Africa, which are self-supporting, are the models set before the friends interested. It is proposed that the new organisation shall embrace some of the peculiar features of these two missions, and have in it the element of medical missions. The originators desire to take Canada into the organisation and make it a representative international missionary society. The name which thus far commends itself is "The Evangelical Medical Missionary Society."—Missionary Review.

Notes and Comments.

NEXT week we hope to give a portrait and sketch of Mr. Henry Varley.

The recently issued and interesting annual report of the "Mansion House Council on the Dwellings of the Poor" illustrates what an amount of real and useful work may be done in a quiet way, and that the prompt and efficient exercise by vestries and other local authorities of their already large powers would remove many of the evils now prevalent in connection with the homes and health of the poor. In Bethnal Green, for instance, a great improvement is shown to have resulted from the energetic action of the council, and an idea of the extent of its good work may be formed from the statement in the report that during last year "more than three thousand five hundred cases were dealt with from the central office alone," exclusive of the operations of district committees. In many parts of the Metropolis, however, the local administration is still marked by apathy, rather than energy. The fact that the work of this Society is done almost entirely by volunteers, and at a very small cost, should further commend it to the public.

It is an ill wind that blows no one any good. The wind that blew the roof off Kilburn Hall, and sent Mr. Hurditch and his fellow-workers to Eccleston Hall for their Easter Monday gatherings, gave to the West the advantage of becoming better acquainted with this useful Mission. The hall was crowded afternoon and evening in spite of ungenial weather, and the whole tone of the meetings was in marked contrast to Down-grade teachings on the one hand, and to the depression of spirit they have caused on the other. Our notes of addresses are reserved for next week. Mr. Hurditch announced that £2100 had been provided towards the £5000 for the new Kilburn Hall. We trust soon to hear that he is able to arise and build.

A correspondent sends us the following from a Sussex paper, and asks, "Can nothing be done to stop such blasphemous performances?":—

> Apropos of the proposed reproduction of the Ober Ammergau "Passion Play" at Mayfteld, the following, which is an authentic list of the original "performers," with a note of their various occupations, may be interesting:—

Character	Name and Occupation.
Christ	Joseph Mair, wood carver.
Peter	Jacob Hett, wood carver.
John	Johann Zwink, painter.
Virgin Mary	Franziska Flunger, maker of patterns for wood carving.
Mary Magdalene	Josepha Lang.
Herod	Franz Paul Lang, stovemaker.
Pilate	Tobias Flunger, wood designer.
Judas	George Lechner, wood carver.
Caiaphas	Johann Lang, grocer.
Annas	Gregor Stadler, wood carver.
Nathanael	Paul Fröschl, smith.
Ezekiel	Sebastian Deschler, sculptor.
Joseph of Arimathea	Thomas Bendl, woodcutter.
Nicodemus	Anton Haafer, labourer.
Roman Centurion	Joseph Zwink, wood cutter.
Barabbas	Johann Allinger, labourer.
Choragus	Johann Dimmer, private.
Contralto Singer	Josepha Flunger, sister of Franziska.

The rate at which theatres and music halls are being increased in number in the metropolis, is by no means a satisfactory index to the tendency of the times. A new theatre is in course of construction at the West End, and it is stated that four others are about to be commenced. Six years ago London had forty-one theatres. Four of these were subsequently closed, as unsafe in the event of fire; but the gap has since been filled up, and if there are not as many as fifty now, there is every sign that there soon will be.

Music halls are still more numerous than theatres, and are growing with yet greater rapidity. Eight such buildings received the statutory certificate from the Metropolitan Board in 1886, and when the report for 1887 is issued, a further addition will doubtless be found on record. When a deputation representing the threatrical and music hall interest waited on the Home Secretary, a little time ago, it was stated that there were fully 550 places of amusement in London, of which 450 were music halls. Some of the latter are doubtless small places, but a large number are of considerable magnitude. The capital invested in places of amusement in London is estimated at little less than four millions, without reckoning buildings like the Crystal Palace and the Albert Hall. The London theatres, music halls, and concert rooms, are said to have accommodation for about half-a-million of persons.

How does this stand in comparison with buildings devoted to public worship, especially bearing in mind that these places of amusement are in many instances open on six nights in the week? How great must be the influence of these scenes of worldly pleasure on the habits of thought among those who frequent them, and how powerful must be the leaven thus working among the different classes of society. The persons employed in connection with these places (still speaking of London only) is reckoned at 150,000, besides a large number who receive indirect employment from that source. All this points to a state of things by no means favourable to the spread of vital godliness in modern London.

This is a time when the limits of religious tolerance will occupy the attention of Christian men. The Spectator, which is a so-called liberal journal on religious questions, has shown the heavy set-off of the evil consequences which attend such tolerance. It eats away the foundations of spiritual life, undermines deep moral principle, weakens the sense of the importance of opinions which are held to be true, and is attended by such a loss of firmness of conviction as to wear insensibly away the most operative beliefs. Men cannot waste their whole career in reviewing again and again the deepest principles by which their life is moulded, and the loss of thorough belief to preachers is incalculable in its effects.

Our age knows no greater danger than this latitudinarianism, and no greater duty than to consider its just and proper restraints. It is remarkable that the above journal recommends a limitation of intimacies with those whose principles of conduct are not fortified by definite religious belief, and with persons of totally different spiritual aims. For ourselves we have two examples, among many more, before us. The Nonconformists of the eighteenth century tolerated Arianism till all that was vital in Puritan theology was succeeded by a reign of religious formalism and torpidity; and the Moderates of Scotland tolerated error until the very sinew and fibre of the decided faith of the Covenanters were paralysed.

The submission of intellect and heart to the supreme authority of Scripture is our sheet-anchor. The Evangelical Revival in England and Scotland has worked marvels. But it has not been faultless in regard to its unhesitating loyalty to the New Testament. It has read the Epistles with an unconscious, it may be, but constraining desire to make them square with Calvinistic doctrine, or Church of England Articles and formularies, or with John Wesley's Sermons. Very much of modern unsettlement is the reaction against these tendencies. What the age wants is the uplifted, open Bible, and the reverently obedient subjection to its immutable teaching.

Christian union is not inconsistent with fidelity to truth, and it is gratifying to learn that ministers and laymen, representing all shades of thought on the subject, have lately met in London, and have, with great unanimity, resolved that henceforth the Wesleyan Conference shall receive representatives from other Methodist bodies, that common action shall be taken in relation to Methodism, and fraternal intercourse promoted. While disunion threatens in one direction, and while Methodist amalgamation is not held practicable, it is pleasant to see a successful attempt, so far as churches have already attained, to walk by the same rule, and to mind the same thing.

Every bitter word spoken in religious controversy, so long as it is unretracted, is not only a weakness on that side, but a potent factor on the other. Love and gentleness are firstfruits of the Spirit, and so far as not these, but their opposites, are manifested, the truth is discredited and denied; for truth is the harmony of all the virtues. God is love, and he that loveth is born of God and knoweth God.

Gibbon, the great historian, thus concludes his glowing description of the glories of the Cathedral of St. Sophia, built by the Emperor Justinian, which, at the lowest computation, cost £1,000,000:—

> A magnificent temple is a laudable monument of national taste and religion, and the enthusiast who entered the dome of St. Sophia might be tempted to suppose that it was the residence or even the workmanship of the Deity. Yet how dull is the artifice, how insignificant is the labour if it be compared with the formation of the vilest insect that crawls upon the surface of the temple.

Thus even the Atheist is constrained to acknowledge how vastly the humblest work of the Creator transcends the most glorious construction of human wealth and art.

We understand that at the forthcoming meeting of the Baptist Union the question of the censure on Mr. Spurgeon will not be canvassed; but a strong attempt will be made by his sympathisers to impose a test-creed as the condition of membership in the Union. We cannot but sympathise deeply with the intention of those who are moving in this matter, because they are animated by a sincere desire to purge the Union of any who may have departed from evangelical truth; and also to arrest the advance of error. At the same time we gravely question whether the imposition of a creed will serve their purpose. Their intention is in the highest degree commendable. The spirit by which they are animated is doubtless sincere. But their method is open to serious question. Will a creed stop the dry-rot?

The difficulty of a creed is in this. It enumerates certain things as essential, but it leaves out many more. But which of us has any right to accentuate certain truths as necessary to be believed, whilst we pass by others? Are not all truths binding on us alike? And does not the imposition of a creed substitute that as the rallying point of Christians, in the place of that spiritual union which is pre-eminently the union of life? The union of the New Testament is, in all cases, that of growth and life; the body. the growing temple, the tree. Is there not considerable danger in making a creed, for which we have neither warrant nor example in the Word of God? And does not all this agitated endeavour to purge religious corporations point to a want of faith in the purgative influence of the Holy Spirit, who, through the ages, has kept the Church so pure, by pouring into it repeated and fresh tides of life?

Everywhere a mighty shaking is going on. The most ancient and venerable structures are being ruthlessly tested. No religious society is permitted to escape. Much that seems valuable may be unable to stand the ordeal, and pass away. But amid the destruction of the form, the reality will abide. Nay, it will be more apparent and valuable. "The things which cannot be shaken will remain." And it may be that God is breaking up many human inventions, that we may be thrown back on his creations. The scaffolding is being taken down, with noise and dust, that his own true erection may stand forth in symmetry and beauty.

A large meeting was held at Tokio on February 23, to celebrate the completion of the translation of the Bible into the Japanese language. Dr. Hepburn, a medical missionary, took the chair, and gave an interesting account of the history and progress of the work, which commenced in 1872. A comparatively large number of translators have been employed, but it is stated that the translation is remarkably uniform, the same native assistants having been engaged upon both the Old and the New Testaments. Dr. Hepburn said that agreement and simplicity in the style quite equal to that of the English Revised Version had been attained; and, in concluding his address, presented the translation to the Japanese nation in the name of his brethren, "the Protestant missionaries of Japan, and of the whole Church of Christ in America and England." The future of Japan will depend to a great extent upon the use which she makes of the treasure now committed to her charge and keeping.

We regret to see in Tuesday's papers a statement that Japan is about to Russianise its form of Government, and, among other despotic measures, to suppress the freedom of the press and of public meeting.

The advisers of the Czar of Russia are clever, if not wise, in their generation; for one of the conditions for the establishment of full diplomatic relations between Russia and the Pope is stated to be the use of the Russian language for all sermons, prayers, and hymns in the Roman Catholic churches of Poland. The reason for this is not far to seek, and it will be interesting to observe how far Rome, to gain her own ends, will lend herself to a scheme which has for its main object the suppression of the Polish language.

The religious persecution in Russia, which we commented upon last week, has now entered upon another and more acute phase: Without the least warning, and without any assigned cause, the Russian Government has summarily stopped the operations of the American Bible Society in the Baltic provinces, and the circulation of Bibles in Esthonia has been forbidden. There is but too much reason to fear that this prohibition will very soon be extended to the British and Foreign Bible Society, and that the ultimate result will be the total expulsion of both these societies from the country. It is also announced that the persecution of Lutheran pastors continues, four more having been exiled, and sixty committed for trial for opposing the intolerant and arbitrary Russianising decrees of the Government.

Speaking recently, the new Roman Catholic Bishop of Hexham and Newcastle gave a glowing account of the spread of Romanism in the North of England. In 1829 there were only fourteen Roman Catholic chapels in the county of Durham, whereas at present there are fifty-eight. In Cumberland there were only four chapels and four priests; to-day there are sixteen chapels and twenty-one priests. Westmoreland then had only one priest; now there are four chapels and four priests. Northumberland, which now has forty-one chapels and forty-nine priests, had then only twenty chapels and nineteen priests. In and about Newcastle the Roman Catholic population has increased ninefold during the last sixty years.

Another instance of the evils of the conventual system, somewhat similar to the Vigo case, commented on in these columns a few weeks ago, is reported from Spain. It appears that a lady, being obliged to leave home on account of ill-health, placed her daughter, a minor, in a convent for three months. Upon her return the mother went to fetch her, but was only allowed to see her behind a grating, and the abbess refused to give the girl up, it being alleged that the latter was delicate, and wished to become a nun. The ecclesiastical authorities were appealed to in vain, and the mother has now applied for assistance to the Minister of Justice at Madrid. Unhappily, however, in that priest-ridden country the civil power seems to be paralysed by the ecclesiastical: thus, in the Vigo case no punishment whatever has been inflicted, and a parish priest, who lately fired upon one Protestant clergyman and assaulted another, has virtually escaped scot-free.

The Roman Catholic papers are rejoicing over what they term the "splendid triumph for the Catholic faith" which, they state, has followed a fortnight's mission of two priests in Bognor. One journal remarks, that "the evening sermons contained a considerable admixture of controversy, as large numbers of Protestants attended them," and adds that during a ceremony "in which the statue of Our Lady of Dolours was, for the first time, carried by members of the confraternity," the church was crowded and "many Protestants joined in the procession." One of a dozen Protestants who are said to have "presented themselves for instruction," the journals refer to as "a lady well known as the chief support of Protestantism in Bognor, and the principal district visitor of the Anglican Church." Perhaps some of our readers in Bognor can give us the facts from the other point of view.

Protestants in Spain are learning by unpleasant experience that they are in a priest-ridden country. Rev. J. B. Cabrera, of Madrid, was recently assaulted in a brutal manner at Cevico de la Torre, and some of his friends who had declared themselves Protestants were also badly treated. The ringleaders in the attack were Roman Catholic devotees, and the civil authorities looked on without interfering. Mr. Thomas Wilkes, a highly respected Christian worker, who left England a few months ago to assist in evangelisation in Corunna, reports that an attack was made upon him on the 10th of March by the priest of Loureda, who not only struck him a blow on the head, but when reminded that the law might be invoked to avenge the offence, retorted with insolence, "The law is nothing to me!" It certainly seems as if the priests of Spain regard themselves as above the law, and the sooner they are reduced to something like submission the better it will be for the people. Recent assaults and riots are however having one good effect in Spain: they are drawing public attention to the Protestant faith, and awakening a desire on the part of some to learn those doctrines which lie at the base of civil and spiritual freedom.

It was a disastrous admission that Mr. Ritchie made to the publican interest, when introducing the Local Government measure in the House of Commons some time since. He said, speaking on behalf of the Government: "We recognise your claim to compensation, and we place you on a much more secure footing than you occupy at present." It is a bitter experience for thousands of earnest workers to be told that Her Majesty's Government are anxious to make the liquor traffic more secure than it is at present. We should think that it is secure enough, with its titled representatives in Parliament, and its millions of money invested, and with so vast a constituency who are sacrificing all that is dear and valuable in its support. And what is the object of making it secure? Simply that it may be better able to pursue its terrible career, like another Juggernaut, of devastation to all that makes life worth living. When will our rulers see that the strength of the drink traffic is the weakness of the people, and that, like the vulture of Prometheus, it is eating out the vitals of the nation?

Speaking, the other day at the City Temple, of the social condition at the East-end of London, Dr. Parker said that, if he had the power, he would shut up the public-houses, as the first and best means of ameliorating the condition of the people. His contention was right in the main. At the same time, it would be in vain to legislate too far in front of public opinion. The people must be led to see the matter in its true light, and to realise the infinite wrong they are inflicting on themselves by the maintenance of the drink traffic. Nor must Christian and temperance workers relax their efforts in this direction. The time is coming when the Christian Church in this country will have to come out more decisively than ever in its uncompromising antagonism to the drink traffic. It is rapidly becoming the absorbing question of the time, overshadowing all others. There is no hope for England, unless some great movement can be promoted to cut at the root of this terrible system. And such a movement must originate in the Christian Church. There must be personal total abstinence, and there must also be determined devotion to the interests of temperance versus those of drinkdom.

The National Drink Bill of the United Kingdom for last year shows a lamentable increase of considerably over two millions, as compared with that of the previous twelve months. Altogether, last year the sum of close upon one hundred and twenty-five millions was spent on drink during the year, the average expenditure per head for the whole of the population being more than £5. These figures are particularly saddening, when it is remembered what efforts are being made to spread temperance throughout the British islands. No wonder that there is poverty in the land, or that the distilling and brewing interests are so disastrously potent in our legislation.

The miseries of Ireland, tossed though she is like a shuttlecock from one party to another, are not all to be traced to political sources. The Irish peasant is too often his own worst enemy, and the inculcation and gradual acquirement of habits of steady industry, self-restraint, and sobriety would do more than Acts of Parliament to remove many of his existing grievances. The following outspoken warning recently uttered by the Roman Catholic Bishops is worthy of attention on both sides of the Channel. "Drunkenness," it is declared, "has wrecked more houses than ever fell beneath the crowbar in the worst days of eviction; it has filled more graves and made more widows and orphans than did the famine. It has broken more hearts, blighted more hopes, and rent asunder family ties more ruthlessly than the enforced exiling to which their misery had condemned exiles." There is also good reason to believe that the opposition to Sunday closing in Ireland comes entirely from those interested in the drink trade.

All reverent exploration and investigation are to be welcomed as bearing additional testimony to the truth of the Word of God, which, as Mr. Spurgeon said the other day, has already been tested in ten thousand ways. A very interesting lecture was lately delivered at the British Museum by Mr. Boscawen on the ancient city of Sepharvaim or Sippara, discovered in 1880, which, it is contended, explorations have clearly proved to have existed as early as the thirty-ninth century before the Christian era. Inscriptions found there show that during this long period the Euphrates has altered its course to the westward. Mr. Boscawen pointed out, amongst other things, the close resemblance between the temple discovered in Sepharvaim and the Jewish Temple, the internal arrangements and the different portions being identical, the Holy Place, for instance, being separated from the Holy of Holies by a veil. The further exploration of the site has, it is stated, been undertaken by an American expedition.

Some little time ago the advocates of advanced theories in respect to the antiquity of man laid considerable importance upon the announcement that human footprints had been discovered in the solid rock in South America. A report has reached the Victoria Institute, however, with photographs taken by a geologist in the district in question, from which it appears that the footprints were in lava, and that in some cases the impressions were of sandals, and in all cases, of people with small feet and high insteps. The district is stated to be of a volcanic nature, and as volcanoes evidently have caused remarkable changes in it, it would be difficult, if not impossible, to arrive at any accurate idea of the time when the impressions were made.

SCHOOL BOARD REFORM.

Twelve months ago the London School Board appointed a special committee to consider the subjects and methods of instruction in Board schools. The committee has now presented its report, and the suggestions and recommendations therein contained will meet with the concurrence of the majority of educationists, not only in London, but throughout the kingdom.

It scarcely, however, needed the prolonged labours of a special committee to set forth what teachers and others have long pointed out as the crying evils of our present elementary school system. The utterly vicious practice of "payment by results," so long acted upon by the Education Department, could not possibly have produced any other results than those deplored in this report. The unfortunate children who have passed through our elementary schools have too often left them little better than the "machines" the report describes them. The instruction given in the schools is, to a large extent, unintelligent cram, and the children receive no training, physical or mental; not being taught to think, to reason, or to observe. In order to fulfil the requirements of a stupid code, they have had to pass a large portion of their school life in "getting up" subjects of no use to one out of a hundred of them. The result is, that, while the memory has been overloaded with useless facts, the eye and the hand have been almost, if not entirely, neglected. Thus it comes that of the hundreds of thousands who have been "educated" partly at the public expense, very few of them have left their schools fit to enter upon any business; and the rest have gone to swell the ranks of "unorganised and unskilful labour."

The remedy which the committee proposes for this state of things, consists (1) in extending the Kindergarten principle, so that the children after leaving the infant schools shall undergo manual training, in order to prepare them in after years for the skilful use of tools; (2) the more general teaching of mechanics, and mechanical and geometrical drawing; and (3) more attention to object teaching. Then, with the further aid of evening schools, in which commercial subjects may be studied, and of technical schools, in which the principles and operations of various trades and industries are taught, it may be hoped that the children of the future will be fully equipped for the struggle for existence.

The dignity of labour has hitherto had but scant recognition in our schools; in the future it will be the aim of the schoolmaster to raise the importance of labour in the eyes of his pupils.

It is, however, an absolutely essential condition for carrying out such a scheme, that the present system of inspection, and of payment of grants, must give place to some more intelligent mode of spending the public money voted for education. What the committee of the London School Board proposes, was, in a measure, carried out in many schools before the days of the Revised Code. Object lessons especially, which the committee now find to be so much in need of encouragement, were a feature in every school, but were killed by this system of "payment by results."

REV. F. B. MEYER at BRIGHTON.

A series of addresses on Christian living were delivered here last week by Rev. F. B. Meyer. The movement was initiated by an undenominational committee of clergymen, Nonconformist ministers and laymen.

The afternoon meetings were held in the Pavilion, but they were so largely attended from the first, that, to accomodate the great crowds who were compelled to stand in the passages, they were moved to Mr. Figgis's church, which was kindly lent, and where the evening meetings were held. This building was repeatedly filled by large congregations; and when the ordinary evening audience had left, there was a great influx of young people from the establishments around. Very deep and widespread interest was excited, and very pleasing testimonies have been given to the blessing experienced. There were thirteen meetings in all, extending over five days.

MISS VON FINKELSTEIN.

This talented lady is now on her way to the Australian Colonies, having sailed on Thursday last week by the s.s. Orizaba. Her farewell lecture was given in Exeter Hall on the evening of Tuesday week, to an overflowing and deeply interested audience. The centre of the large orchestra and platform was arranged s as to illustrate various phases of life in the Holy Land, and the lecturer had the assistance of some twenty persons, who were attired i costumes to represent the different classes and ranks of the inhabitants of Palestine. Mis Von Finkelstein's address, which extended ove an hour and a half, embraced selected portion from all her lectures, and set forth in a wonder fully vivid manner many of the Orienta customs and modes of life, referred to in th Scriptures.

Mr. George Williams was unable to presid on the occasion, owing to a previous engag ment, but a letter from him was read, in whic he cordially expressed his sense of the impor tant service rendered by Miss von Finkelstei in connection with her sketches of Palestin life, that shed so much light on the sacre writings. The chair was filled by Sir Charl Warren, who in the course of his remarks a the close of the lecture, testified from persona knowledge to the wonderful realism and co rectness of the representations given. I the name of the Sunday School Union an many friends of Miss von Finkelstein, S Charles presented her with a gold Malte cross of beautiful design and finish, as an e pression of the esteem in which she is hel and a memento of her labours througho the country on behalf of Biblical truth. In th course of the lecture a collection was taken aid of the Teachers' Home of Rest, Hasting in connection with the Sunday School Union

In its issue of last week, The British Week had the following paragraph:—

"MISS VON FINKELSTEIN AND OURSELVES.

"We are happy to state that this action h been settled. We acknowledge that we have be misled in our statements regarding this lad and hereby withdraw all charges made by against her, and express our regret that th should have been published in the columns our paper."

THE VERY BRIGHTEST PRAYER-MEETI

I ever attended (writes a correspondent of a c temporary) was at Regent's-park Chapel, l Sunday evening, after the service. The meet lasted about twenty minutes; the school-room w crowded. It would be well if other conductors prayer-meetings would follow the example of Meyer. When a brother was going round a round, over and over, he cried, "Stop, broth You are not addressing God. Ask a blessing, a be brief." Several brief prayers followed, wit few remarks from Mr. Meyer. I am quite sure t is just the kind of prayer-meeting we want.

HE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

ITH reference to the circular regarding the hurch Missionary Society, signed by Lord ichfield and others, which was printed in our st issue, we are informed, on authority in hich we have entire confidence, that the atements in it are, to say the least, very oneled. We are assured that the suggestion at there is in the Working Committee any tendency to depart from the old paths, and om distinctively Protestant and Evangelical inciples," is absolutely unfounded, and that ere is not one single member who desires to viate from "the old paths" in the slightest gree.

There have been grave differences of opinion nong the members upon the particular quesons referred to in the circular, but the cisions complained of were voted for and proved of by many of the most decidedly otestant and spiritually-minded amongst em, who thoroughly believe that the Comittee acted rightly. But even some who ink mistakes were made, have still unwavering nfidence in the general faithfulness of the ommittee.

One evangelical clergyman who was applied by the promoters of the circular, replied, in letter which has been printed in The Record: I have the fullest and most entire confidence the piety, faithfulness, and discretion of its esident and directors. We never had wiser, ler, or holier men to direct us. I do not conler that the C.M.S. has in the slightest degree parted from old paths and principles." The ciety, we understand, is receiving many ters to the same effect, and numerous special ntributions in testimony of the sympathy of e donors.

We are further informed that only one of e signatures to the circular, or of the gentleen stated to approve of it, is a regular member the Committee who can form a judgment garding their general spirit and principles.

We may add that several recent "new partures," if we may so term them, in the ciety's methods, are in exactly the opposite ection to that suggested in the circular. e increasing use of prayer-meetings, the bruary Simultaneous Meetings, the Wholey Devotional Gathering last January, exhibit very different tendency. Of the same kind the Special Winter Mission to India, and recent decision to send out Lay Evangelists small allowances.

THE WORKING MEN'S MISSION.—With the ening days of spring, the authorities of the orking Men's Mission, Collingwood-street, New-, have discontinued their plan of "feeding the ngry" of the New-cut and adjacent localities. e beneficent work was commenced over fourteen eks ago. Altogether, over 23,000 repasts have en provided by the Mission during the winter nths for poor families, unemployed men, and edy children. Besides these, at Christmastide cial gifts of food, clothing, groceries, &c., were de to hundreds of deserving poor. Upon no t of their work, the Superintendents state, can y look with greater satisfaction than to the busy es spent in the soup kitchen.

.W.C.A. INSTITUTE, BOURNEMOUTH.—This stitute and Boarding House was opened on rch 26. It is a year since this branch was rted, the classes having been held in a room ich proved too small. The new house contains a ge room for meetings, and is capable of taking or twelve borders. The opening service was ducted by Rev. F. E. Toyne, after which Miss ngfield Digby, the local president, declared the me open, and urged the need and benefit of such mes, where young women can find friends and e, spiritual and temporal. The Home is called igby House," and is now open to receive boarders visitors from our large towns, requiring rest and nge of air. Terms on application to the tron; or to the secretary, Mrs. Fitzpatrick, endower, Alumhurst-road, Westbourne, Bourneuth.

OBITUARY.

MRS. BRANKS.

THIS lady, the wife of Mr. R. T. Branks, 82, Tollington Park, fell asleep on March 26, aged sixty-seven. From the time of her conversion, in early life, she devoted herself with much earnestness to the enlightenment of others in the Gospel. On Sundays she was found in the Sunday-school at Littleham, in Devonshire. On Saturday afternoons she assembled the village children, and told them the story of the Cross. Another branch of her work was the visitation of the sick and poor. Mrs. Branks was in sympathy with all true Christian workers, irrespective of their denominational associations.

REV. A. O. CHARLES.

With much regret we have to record the decease of this well-known Christian worker, who for many years has superintended the work of the Home for Little Boys, Farningham. He passed away yesterday (Thursday) week after a brief illness, and having been unconscious for nearly three days. In addition to his energetic and earnest labours on behalf of poor boys, Mr. Charles took a warm interest in all evangelical movements. Those who helped in the meetings at the Agricultural Hall during the first visit to London of Messrs. Moody and Sankey, will recollect the active interest shown in the work by Mr. Charles. His remains were interred in Highgate Cemetery on Wednesday afternoon.

MR. HARRISON PENNEY, DARLINGTON.

This well-known Friend, one of Darlington's best known citizens, has passed away rather suddenly, at the age of sixty-one. He was a man of high Christian principle, diligent in many religious and philanthropic works, and withal fervent in spirit in the service of the Lord. Born at Poole, Dorsetshire, he established himself in Darlington in 1849, as a printer and stationer. The North Star, a paper opposed to Mr. Penney on political and other grounds, says:—"As a religious teacher, a temperance missionary, an unpretentious philanthropist, an unselfish advocate of any good cause which had his countenance, he earned that to which he was entitled, the respect of his fellow-men." Mr. Penney was a minister among the Friends. About twenty years ago he accompanied the veteran Quaker philanthropist and traveller, Mr. Isaac Sharpe, to Iceland and Greenland upon a religious missionary enterprise. Mr. Penney was a dear personal friend of our own, and we have often had occasion to admire his uncompromising faithfulness to conscientious conviction, even when we did not altogether agree with him. He was ever ready to go anywhere to relieve the sick and offer spiritual counsel; and it is in this kind of work, more especially, that he will be missed in many a household.

REQUESTS FOR PRAYER.—For blessing on a mission in the Liverpool Y.M.C.A., by Dr. H. Grattan Guinness, from April 14 to 24.——For a mission by Mr. Henry Lakin, at Christ Church, Burton-on-Trent, commencing on Sunday next.——For blessing on a special mission at St. James's, Holloway, N., from April 7 to 14, to be conducted by Rev. Canon McCormick, D.D., of Hull.——For blessing on a fortnight's evangelistic mission at Airdrie, N.B., from April 8 till 20.——For blessing on special evangelistic meetings in Crieff, N.B., from May 7 to 22.——For meetings to be held by Lord Radstock in Vienna, beginning Sunday, April 8.——That many new converts at Erith may be established in the faith.——Mr. and Mrs. George Pearse request the prayers of Christian friends for journeying mercies on their returning to work in North Africa.

STRATFORD-LE-BOW.—Mrs. Servanté, wife of the Vicar of Christ Church parish, writes:—During the past twelve months we have collected almost entirely from our own people £95 for repairs, and have made our schoolrooms comfortable. We are obliged now to borrow seats from the mission hall. The rooms are used every day, and often afternoon and evening, for sewing classes, mothers' meetings, Band of Hope, temperance meetings, children's dinners, prayer-meetings, Gospel meetings, and Sunday-school. We need £45 for the seating and a platform, and I fear our poor people can do no more. The distress in this parish during the last three years has been so great that my time has been fully occupied, and the strain upon my husband is very great. The late Lady Hobart took a most kindly interest in my work among the women, and helped me to start sewing classes, which have been a great boon to our poor mothers. We have 400 women in our mothers' meetings.

PARIS CITY MISSION.

LORD MOUNT TEMPLE presided over a largely attended drawing-room meeting in aid of the Paris City Mission, which was held on Saturday, March 24, at the residence of the Hon. Mrs. Spencer-Cowper in Paris. His lordship is president of the Mission, and in opening the proceedings he related the interesting circumstances of its origin.

Professor YEATMAN delivered an eloquent address. He said that the object and glory of the Mission is to preach the Gospel to the poor and neglected classes. Surveying France, a pessimist has some grounds for saying that there is little or no hope for her. When we consider the civil funerals, the infidel clubs, the mockery of God's holy Word and name, the foul and corrupt literature published, the atheistic materialism, and the pleasure-seeking indulged in, we may well say that never were the forces of evil more subtle or more active, never was infidelity more aggressive and defiant. Yet, the Professor said, there were signs of hope and promise. Now there is religious liberty, freedom to preach the Gospel without hindrance; twenty years ago this liberty did not exist. Great progress has been made; and a desire has been awakened to hear the truth.

The moral and spiritual progress of France is proved by facts. In the year 1812, the Protestant Church in France had but 107 ministers, and the Church had but 10,000 members. The Church had no society or work; it was simply content to exist. To-day there are 900 pastors and 800 churches. The French Bible Societies are actively sending out yearly thousands of Bibles. The Société Evangélique, which began with an income of 16,500 francs, has now an income of 125,000 francs. The Société Centrale, which commenced with three missionaries, has now 570 agents, has built 43 new churches, and planted 160 mission-stations. It has 53 mission schools, and is training 200 young men for mission work. There are also 50 religious periodicals. All this is the work, not of the Government, but of Frenchmen themselves. I have therefore, said the Professor, great faith in the future of France.

Pastor Theodore Monod said that the Professor took a more hopeful view than himself, yet he believed that there was a "good time coming" for France, in spite of the existing ignorance of Divine truth, the opposition to religion, and blasphemy of God's holy name; the good and bad are now growing together, but the good is making immense progress by means of the popular evangelistic meetings, and other Gospel agencies.

Mr. W. J. Lockie, the Paris secretary, made an earnest appeal for increased funds to enable the committee to add another missionary to the staff, and raise the number of agents to nine, for the exhibition year, 1889.

The hon. secretary for England is Mr. J. M. Weylland, 31, Carlton-hill, St. John's Wood, London, who will be happy to send reports and information.

MR. DENHAM SMITH.—We cannot report much change in Mr. Denham Smith's condition. The earlier part of the week he had many distressing attacks, which have left him weaker, but in comparative ease and comfort the last few days.

H.R.H. THE CROWN PRINCESS OF DENMARK has graciously consented to become patroness of the Scandinavian Sailors' Temperance Home, and has also given a donation of £30 to the building fund. The Home is also patronised by H.M. the Queen of Sweden and Norway, and by H.R.H. the Princess of Wales.

SPAIN.—Pastor Sábio del Valle writes from Saragossa:—The house in which we have had our chapel the last seven years has been bought by nuns. At once, God procured us another hall for our meetings, but we are obliged to go to the expense of fitting it up, which will cost from £10 to £15. To all those who might desire it, I shall be happy to send the report of our last year's work.

TYNDALE MEMORIAL CHURCH, SOUTH HACKNEY.—The ceremony of laying the foundation stones of Rev. J. F. Porter's new "Tyndale Memorial Church (Primitive Methodist)" took place a few days ago, Lord Robert Montagu laying the principal stone. The estimated cost of the building, together with the site, is £1500, of which only about £500 has up to the present been subscribed.

THE CHURCH CONGRESS.

For the next Church Congress, which is to be held in October at Manchester, the following extensive programme of subjects has been drawn up by the committee:—

For Tuesday, October 2.—To what extent results of historical and scientific criticism, especially of the Old Testament, should be recognised in sermons and teaching. The Church in Wales—(a) tithes, (b) work, and (c) vernacular preaching and literature. At working men's meeting:—The needs of human nature and their supply in Christianity. How to supply the defects of the parochial system by means of evangelising work. Gambling and betting. The duty of the Church to seamen. Positivism: its truth and its fallacies.

For Wednesday.—Foreign missions of the Church of England and of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States of America—(a) to English-speaking people: (1) in the colonies, and (2) in other countries; and (b) to non-Christian people—Mahommedans, Buddhists, Hindoos, &c. Philosophic doubts—(a) atheism, (b) agnosticism, and (c) pessimism. At working men's meeting:—Hindrances to Church work and progress. Temperance—demoralisation of uncivilised and heathen races by the drink traffic. The Sunday-school system in relation to the Church. Disposal of the dead—(a) funeral reform, and (b) cremation. Social purity.

For Thursday.—Adaptation of the Prayer Book to modern needs—(a) creeds and the Thirty-nine Articles, (b) catechism, and (c) services. Maintenance of voluntary elementary schools: should the education in them be free and religious? At working men's meeting:—Economics—(a) competition, (b) co-operation, and (c) over-population. The bearing of democracy on Church life and work. Lay representation in Church councils and statutory parochial councils. Free and open churches; reserved seats and their influence on attendance.

For Friday.—Christian service—(a) worship, (b) almsgiving, (c) work, and (d) home life. Church finance—(a) proportionate giving, (b) endowments and their effect on voluntary contributions, and (c) redistribution of endowments and taxation of incomes. At working men's meeting:—Sunday observance—(a) closing of public-houses, (b) opening of libraries, museums, &c., and (c) Sunday recreation and travelling. Eschatology—(a) punishment, and (b) restoration. Lay help—(a) of man, in things secular, in things spiritual; and (b) of woman, in sisterhoods, as deaconesses, as nurses, as district visitors, as teaching sisters. The increase of the episcopate. The desirableness of reviving the common religious life of men—(a) clergymen, (b) laymen, and (c) in connection with missions to the heathen.

PROPHETIC READERS' UNION.—Any friends desiring to join themselves to this band of prophetic students, should communicate with the Hon. Sec., Rev. W. Frith, 111, Edith-rd., West Kensington, W.

THE NATIVE RACES OF INDIA.—Rev. J. Gelson Gregson, for many years temperance missionary to the soldiers in India, addressed a public meeting in Belfast a few days ago, on the demoralisation of the native races in India through intemperance. Resolutions were passed condemning the present excise system in India, as tending to increase the sale of native liquor in districts where it was previously unknown, and calling upon committees of missionary societies to ask their agents seriously to consider whether they should not endeavour to remove this stumbling-block to the progress of their work by becoming abstainers from alcoholic drinks, and by introducing unintoxicating wine at the Lord's Supper.

THE BIBLE FLOWER MISSION, the offices of which are at 110, Cannon-street, E.C., has for its object the visitation of patients in hospitals and infirmaries, with a view to spreading the Gospel among them by means of texts of Scripture attached to bouquets of flowers. Owing to the prevalence of scarlet fever last year, some hospitals were closed for several months; but, nevertheless, over four hundred thousand bouquets, cards, lavender bags, and other gifts were distributed. The Mission is greatly in need of workers, and would gladly have the assistance of Christian ladies who could give some time periodically. Senders of hampers by rail will be glad to know that all the railway companies will convey flowers to the Mission offices at a reduced rate by passenger train, provided they are fully addressed and prepaid. Miss Anne Dove, the honorary superintendent, devotes her whole time to the Mission.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

Mr. Richard Weaver's visit to the Edinburgh Castle has been blessed to many. We are thankful to say that Mr. Weaver's health is now so far restored that he is able to undertake fresh engagements. His address is Fallibroome, near Macclesfield, Cheshire.

Mr. Steedman, of Edinburgh, has concluded a thirteen days' mission at Lochgelly and at Lumphinnans, during which he has addressed thirty meetings. Prayer has been answered to the evident conversion of many, the reclaiming of backsliders, and the reviving of Christians.

Mr. George Hooper, of Eston, Middlesborough, an evangelist of the Methodist Free Church, has completed a fourteen days' mission at Tamworth and Fazelly, Staffordshire. A gracious influence has been felt in all the meetings, and a number have professed to find peace in Christ.

Southsea Bible Carriage.—Messrs. F. Seal and J. Coster have completed a fortnight's mission at Reading, Berks, with their Bible carriage, in connection with the Southsea Mission. Many tracts, Testaments, Bibles, &c., have been sold and given away, while thousands have listened to the Gospel message.

Stonehaven, N.B.—A fortnight's special meetings of much interest have been held in connection with the Free Church here. The first week Rev. G. W. Cumming, of Grangemouth, addressed the gatherings in the church, and his earnest words made great impression, while the second week Rev. E. Brown, of Torry, conducted the meetings among the fishermen in the Mission-hall with continued tokens of blessing.

Frome.—Captain W. Warner Dennis has conducted a sixteen days' mission in the Wesleyan Chapel at Frome. During the mission more than one hundred and sixty persons passed through the inquiry room. On Monday, March 19, more than three hundred persons sat down to tea, including the new converts. At the close of his address, Captain Dennis asked the Christian friends present who were willing to help the new converts, to rise in token of the same, and a large proportion of the congregation responded.

Mr. Leonard Weaver has concluded a most successful mission in Stanley Congregational Church, Liverpool. Notwithstanding the severe weather there were never less than 500 present at the services, while hundreds remained for the after-meetings. Scores went into the inquiry-rooms, many of whom went away rejoicing in the assurance of pardon and peace. Believers have been greatly refreshed and quickened. At the two last meetings Mr. Reginald Radcliffe was present and spoke with his usual earnestness and power.

Mr. J. Brown, of the Evangelisation Society, concluded a fortnight's mission at the Baptist Chapel, Erith, on Monday last. Throughout the mission the interest has constantly increased. It has been a time of much refreshing to the Lord's people, backsliders have been brought back, and over sixty anxious inquirers have been dealt with at the close of the meetings. A very noticeable matter has been the conversion of several very aged men and women who have long resisted the invitations of the Gospel. J. E. Martin.

Mr. Charles Inglis has again visited Huntingdon, and held a most successful five days' mission. The Corn Exchange (one of the largest buildings in the town) has been crowded with all classes, eager to hear the truth, and many precious souls have received lasting blessing. The afternoon Bible lectures have been very largely attended by all denominations in the town, and have proved a great source of blessing to many.

Hawick, N.B.—Mr. and Mrs. Somerset Gardner have again visited Hawick, this being Mr. Gardner's third visit this year. The mission, although a brief one, lasting from 17th to 21st ult., will be by many long remembered as a time of receiving a fresh impetus in the Divine life. Mr. Gardner spoke twice on the Sabbath, and the remaining evenings in the Baptist Chapel with much power and unction of the Holy Ghost. The meetings were specially held for quickening and deepening the spiritual life of believers, and many since have testified of the great blessing received. Mrs. Gardner conducted meetings for women only during the afternoons, which were well attended, and much appreciated for the practical words of counsel and instruction given. A dinner-hour prayer-meeting was held in the chapel, which proved very helpful to those who availed themselves of the short interval at their disposal for communion with God in prayer. W. S.

Mr. William Forbes closed his second mission at Weybridge Congregational Church on Friday last. He held two meetings daily. The members of the church got much blessing, and sinners professed conversion.

Forres, N.B.—Mr. C. G. Rogers, Scottish Y.M.C.A. evangelist, conducted a fortnight' special evangelistic services here, under the auspice of the local Y.M.C.A. The attendance was good especially the last week, and a few professed fait in Christ.

Churchill, Somerset.—A mission has been conducted in this and the surrounding villages during the past three months by Mr. Woodhouse evangelist. One hundred and forty-five person have professed to find the Saviour. The whol neighbourhood has been moved, and it is believe the results are of a permanent character.

Beauly, N.B.—Mr. Rogers, a young evangelist, is giving a course of addresses here alternatel in the Established and Free churches. The minister in the parish are taking part in the services. M Rogers' earnest and effective addresses are muc appreciated, and we pray that his labours may b sanctified. D. C.

Y.M.C.A., Montrose, N.B.—Mr. Joh McAuliffe has closed a mission of fourteen day here. Gospel addresses have been given in th various churches and halls. Children's meeting and open-air gatherings have also been held. Believers have been refreshed, and sinners saved. M McAuliffe is now holding village mission service around Framlingham, Suffolk.

Mr. Somerset Gardner, evangelist, conducte meetings for Christians in Edinburgh from Marc 11 to 17, in Rose-street United Presbyteria Church, kindly granted for the occasion. Th teaching was on similar lines to that given at t Keswick Conference, and was close and practica and much appreciated. Mr. Gardner is particular happy in his method of conducting after meeting a very valuable feature in the work, and most esse tial to obtaining definite results. W. G.

Swanscombe.—In December last prayer w asked for a mission in the Parish Church, Swan combe, opened by the Bishop of Rochester, a conducted by Rev. G. T. Turnbull, vicar Frampton, which extended over twelve days, a at which many received definite blessing. O most cheering sign was the hundreds of young m who attended when men only were addresse Last week Mr. Turnbull revisited the place, a conducted another series of meetings, when t Parish Church was crowded to the door. The r sults of the mission are most satisfactory.

Douglas, Isle of Man.—A successful t days' mission has been held here under the auspic of the Y.M.C.A., conducted by Mr. Henry Thor Many have professed to decide for Christ, whi Christians have been strengthened and helped. has been a time of great blessing, and will be lo remembered in Douglas as the first united Gosp mission. On the last day about sixty of the c verts and workers met for tea, after which a sh address was given by Mr. Hallowes, who is n holding special meetings at the Independe Church. A few parting words were also spoken Mr. Thorne. S. C

The Highbury Corner Gospel Mission needs help in open-air work. Apply to Thomas James, Hon. S 144, Upper-street, Islington, N.

PADDINGTON HALL AND HYDE-PARK M SION.—Mr. John Davidge is superintendent this Mission, the head-quarters of which are at Church-street, Paddington-green, W. The s and dying are visited, tracts are distribut fallen women are sought out, and visits are paid the dustyards of the district. The results set in the last report are very encouraging.

AN AFRICAN SETTLEMENT.—We recen stated that a new settlement is about to be form in the Cape Colony, that it will bear the name "Tennyson," and that the settlers would be selec from the South of England. We believe that families intending to emigrate are about twen five in number, that they have all hitherto resi in Hampshire, and that they will occupy land the Queenstown district of the colony. Every c seems to have been taken to ensure the selection suitable persons, and to make it probable that t will begin their new life under very favoura conditions. The party will be accompanied b nursing sister—a lady of position and experie —who cannot fail to be a help to the women children. The promoters of this promising exp ment deserve a full measure of success.—D News.

HE GOVERNMENT v. GOD IN INDIA.

HE publication from time to time of Mr. lfred S. Dyer's letters from India, in our ages, has brought us a vast amount of correpondence. With one or two exceptions, the tters express great thankfulness that the atter has been brought before the public, the riters feeling that the pain which is naturally aused by the perusal of such revelations is as othing compared to the great undercurrent of oe and misery which has until now been idden in the "dark places of the earth, full of he habitations of cruelty." There is no doubt hat the sight of the bleeding, wounded "man hat had fallen amongst thieves" was quite as ainful to the Good Samaritan as it was to the Priest and the Levite who "passed by on the ther side." The feeling of pity in everyone whose heart has been touched by the love of Christ, should be stronger than this feeling of version. When we consider the awful disance between the purity of Christ and the state f this fallen world, what is the sacrifice made y us, in going forth to the rescue of the slaves f sin, to be compared to the sacrifice of Him whose whole residence on earth was as "the Man of sorrows," on account of the abounding vil and rebellion against God around Him? Let the same mind be in us as was in Christ esus. Mrs. Josephine Butler, in a letter lately written to the Women's Congress at Washington, ays, speaking of this subject:—

> When I kneel in my chamber to plead for the delivernce of these for whom Christ died, I seem to see their aces gathering in crowds around me, filling the space n every side—the faces of the slaughtered dead as well s of the living. Those victims, voiceless, and unable to plead their own cause, seem to make their ceaseless, nute appeal from their scattered, unknown graves, and rom out those dark habitations of cruelty, where they re now helplessly imprisoned. But their weeping has been heard in heaven, and judgment is at hand. Of heir destroyers it may be said, "They murder the atherless; yet they say the Lord shall not see it." Of ou, O friends, let it be said, and let my Saviour Himelf speak the words, "Inasmuch as ye have done it nto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto Me."

Let us attack this evil in the same spirit.

It is very gratifying to hear of much practical outcome of the publication of Mr. Dyer's letters by us, perhaps the most encouraging of all Being the work done by a few earnest Christian young medical students at one of the largest of he London hospitals, who have been hard at work amongst their fellows in the hospital, and have obtained nearly a hundred signatures against the State Regulation of Vice in India, n addition to stirring up the Christian Associaions amongst the medical students in other parts of England, as well as Ireland and Scotand. It would take a special number of THE CHRISTIAN to report all the letters that have been received. That cannot be done, but it is necessary to print verbatim one which has been sent from an Indian commanding officer. It is worthy of note that he insists upon the fact hat the system is forced from above on unwilling subordinates, and that it is "wickedness n high places" that we have to fight with. He writes as follows:—

> SIR,—With reference to a letter from W. J. Robertson, Royal Horse Artillery, under the heading, "The Government v. God in India," published in your issue of February 24, and Mr. A. S. Dyer's indictment against he authorities in India under heading, "A Serious Crisis in India," in your issue of March 16, I would ike to make a few remarks.
>
> Like W. J. Robertson, I have never commanded in Bengal, but I have commanded a native regiment in Madras, and I can confirm all that he asserts in reference to the possibility of control or otherwise, by a commanding officer, over the vice regulations promulgated by superior authority. A commanding officer is helpless in the matter. These abominable and demoralising regulations emanate from the Government, and he bazaar licenses are issued without reference to opinions of commanding officers, whichever way the atter may lean. Although I had been for many years n India, I never realised the full enormity of—I may say extent of—the institution, until I was called upon officially and personally to aid in it, as follows:—
>
> In 1873 I was Lieut.-Colonel and Wing Commander of a native regiment in the Madras Presidency, and in a station garrisoned by European infantry, artillery, native infantry, and cavalry. One morning I received a demi-official note from the medical officer of the regiment, informing me that a private of the wing had that morning been admitted, suffering by disease caused by immorality, and requesting me, in urgent language, to take immediate measures to have the offending woman hunted up and arrested. This was something new to me; I had only just joined the regiment from long leave, but I wrote to the medical officer to the effect that he must have made a mistake, that I was not a police inspector, and that the duty he wished me to undertake was not one that should be undertaken by a colonel in the army. He sent me back an apologetic note, pointing out that, by a certain new enactment, wing officers (commanders) were enjoined to give the medical officer any assistance in these matters. I called for the document, and was astonished to find that the medical officer was correct. I have no remembrance of the exact wording of the regulation, but I remember its purport, and my surprise and disgust thereat; but I wrote to the medical officer, stating that I should decline in any way to act as police officer to attempt to secure healthy vice for the privates of the regiment. There that matter ended.
>
> A few years after I found myself in another station with European troops, but now I was commanding the regiment, and ex officio was a member of the cantonment committee, consisting of commanding officers, presided over by the General commanding; and here my eyes were again further opened to perceive the atrocities of the licensed prostitution laws. Several cases came up, where it was proved that most respectable women had been seized and sent up for examination which was carried out) on false charges of having communicated disease; the said charge having been made because the said woman or women refused to submit herself or themselves to the sensual lust of the accuser; and in no case do I remember a woman getting any redress, or punishment being meted out to the dastardly false accuser. How can such laws be otherwise than brutalising?
>
> Mr. Dyer's general statements can be verified by anyone who has taken the trouble to enquire into the matter, and who is not afraid to open his lips.
>
> It is impossible to conceive a more infernal and hellish state of things than is existing, brought into being by these vile enactments of the Government of India. If the native spirit has not long ago revolted against the brutal tyranny, it is due to the "long-suffering and patience" of the natives, governed by the restraining hand of God. But "his Spirit will not always strive with man," and the day will come, and perhaps is not far distant, when, as in the days of Noah, the judgment will come, and that suddenly. Surely our state is that fully described in the book of the Prophet Jeremiah, chap. v.: "Shall I not visit for these things saith the Lord: and shall not my soul be avenged on such a nation as this?"—Yours faithfully, B.

Let not our efforts be slackened in the slightest until the infamy of State-Licensed Lust is swept away. It is a fact that "the whole creation travaileth and groaneth together in pain until now," "waiting for the revelation of the sons of God."

THE EVANGELICAL TRAINING CLASS, which originated at the Mildmay-avenue Mission-room in 1887, held their second social gathering of members on March 27, at the Cottage Mission, 18, Spencer-road, Stoke Newington, N. The class is quite unsectarian. The members for the most part are engaged during the week at various places, carrying the Gospel message and preaching Christ to many in the common lodging-houses in the East-end of London. Others engage in open-air and other mission work. Young men are cordially invited to attend any Tuesday at 8 p.m.

ALASKA.—The new settlement of the Indians in Alaska is to be called New Metlakahtla. A letter written by Dr. Duncan states that it is bravely under way. Eight hundred of the Indians have crossed in canoes from British Columbia to this point, and the work of clearing the forest is going on. The Alaskan Indians are deeply interested in the new colony, and a number of them have visited it. Dr. Duncan has the plans ready for building a guesthouse to take care of strangers, and he hopes to extend his civilising work to the Indians of his new territory. He also refers to his hope for a grant of land from the American Government, and says that the Governor of Alaska has sent to him a commission of the peace, which makes him an American citizen.

THE VARIORUM TEACHER'S BIBLE.

WHEN, in 1877, Messrs. Eyre & Spottiswoode brought out what was simply styled "The Holy Bible, edited with various renderings and readings from the best authorities," they met a long-felt want, and placed many students of the Scriptures under great obligations to them. Since 1880, however, when "The Variorum Bible," a much more elaborate work, was published, the Queen's Printers have become entitled to a much deeper gratitude. The most serviceable form of this beautiful Bible is known as THE VARIORUM TEACHER'S BIBLE, and, in the worthiest sense, this edition of the Scriptures answers its high and important object.

The Variorum Teacher's Bible may be described in few words. It exhibits, on the same page with the authorised version and marginal references, a large selection of various readings of early manuscripts and authorities, and a collection of alternative renderings of the sacred text by ancient and modern translators and commentators. This information, given in the form of brief footnotes, was brought together and edited by Canons Cheyne and Driver, Rev. R. L. Clarke, Mr. A. Goodwin, and Rev. Dr. Sanday; and scholars who have examined the work are unanimous in praising the editors for their good judgment and careful accuracy. "The Queen's Printers' Aids," by well-known specialists, are bound up with this Bible, and altogether the book is one which teachers and preachers who love to linger over the Word ought to procure and use constantly. Intelligent Bible readers have now little if any excuse for being ignorant of the principal results of critical and philological investigation bearing upon the Scriptures; for this book is a compendium of such information, and answers many other purposes as well. Scholars with large literary resources are glad to have "The Variorum" at hand; and yet no studious person need fear that it is above his understanding. Indeed, it is emphatically a book for plain English readers.

By the Variorum Teacher's Bible the unlearned reader is supplied with independent explanations of thousands of the changes made by the revisers of the English Bible, and thus the book is very instructive as a companion Bible as well as specially useful in itself. For the information of our readers, we append some of the prices:—Ordinary edition, on fine white paper, from 7s. 6d. (cloth), to 26s. (Levant morocco); special edition, on fine thin India paper, from 13s. 6d. (leather) to 26s. (Levant Yapp). There are some good forms of binding at intermediate prices. The book makes an excellent present.

Evangelical Alliance Conferences.

IN the report in last week's issue of Rev. Charles New's address at Mildmay, one sentence in the concluding paragraph contained two clerical errors. The correct form of the sentence is:—"The love once pent within Him is now free, and with outstretched arms He entreats the sinner to come and welcome."

Some portions of the address of Rev. H. W. Webb-Peploe have caused considerable exercise of mind to some excellent friends of the Evangelical Alliance, which would, we think, be entirely removed by a careful consideration of the context, and a little allowance for haste in delivery. The sentence which, perhaps, has given the greatest uneasiness, and is certainly not happily expressed, is the following:—

> Now, as I read that blessed passage in Rom. v., and many others corresponding to it in purport, I find that the provision of God is complete for the race, and the righteousness of Christ is also complete; God has made such provision that all might be saved if only the Gospel could be made known and be accepted by them, and all who do not consciously reject it are really placed in a position of acceptance before God. [At this point the speaker was told that he had only five minutes more, and at once he had to drop the chief threads of his argument.]

We are authorised to say that Mr. Webb-Peploe was specially referring here to the magnificent provision of God to meet the sinner's need stated in Rom. v., and was in this sentence simply paraphrasing the judicial provision described in vv. 16—19. If for "a position of acceptance" he had said "a salvable position," it would have been more accurate, and would have expressed, we think, what he wished to convey. He holds strongly that Rom. i. 18 proves clearly that the heathen do sin against light, and are therefore amenable to the judgment of God. He was about to prove this when he was warned that he must close his address in five minutes.

The Book World.

⁂ Publishers will greatly oblige by always marking prices in books which they send us for review.

R.T.S. Biographical Tracts.

AMONG the recent issues of the Biographical Series are Philip Henry and Daniel Wilson. The persecuted Presbyterian and the Indian Bishop, in spite of differences in creed, circumstances, and character, are now together, and it is only meet that these brief sketches should be issued together. Just now, when godly "Churchmen" and godly "Nonconformists" are unitedly lifting the Gospel Standard against errors in doctrine and social impurities, these two lives are very seasonable.

Mr. Pember and Prophecy.

Mr. G. H. Pember's work, ANTICHRIST; BABYLON, AND THE COMING OF THE KINGDOM, has reached a second edition. The writing is always forcible, and those who cannot altogether adopt Mr. Pember's method of interpretation must admit that he brings much information to bear upon the study of prophecy. The first essay presents a fearful picture of modern apostasy and irreligion, of which the dread consummation is indicated in expositions of the Apocalypse, and other portions of Holy Writ. (3s. 6d. Hodder & Stoughton.)

Life Thoughts by Dr. Macduff.

RIPPLES IN THE MOONLIGHT. By J. R. Macduff, D.D. 2s. Nisbet & Co. As a companion volume to "Ripples in the Twilight," the author has culled from his pulpit addresses and MSS. quite a valuable compilation of pithy, though fragmentary selections, varied both as to topics and mode of treatment. Two shillings is the low price for this volume of 200 pages, whose every ripple is made to shine by elegant phraseology, vivid conceptions, and poetic imagery. The author's proposed recipe for the cure of ennui—to "make life not a being, but a doing," is one which he has evidently himself adopted, as his labours and writings do show. Still there's more to follow; "Ripples in the Starlight" are in due time to appear.

A Tract for the Time.

PRIMROSE DAY: A STORY OF THREE CENTURIES AGO. 2d. Partridge. This is a tract "for the present time and for all parties," sent forth "neither in the Conservative nor in the Liberal interest," but designed to point out that "more than three hundred and fifty years have gone by since the 19th of April stood out as a day never to be forgotten in the history of the world, and as one to be held in memory by all who regard liberty of conscience as their inalienable right." Luther had begun the Reformation, and for abiding by the Bible rather than conceding the papal demands many had been martyred, when, on April 19, 1529, those men in Germany who united to risk the worst threats of Rome, and to stand for God's Word and religious freedom, signed the famous "Protest" which gave rise to the name "Protestant." The author of this lively tract asks whether the time has not arrived for another "Protest." He refers, among other things, to the fact that the Pope is recognised and diplomatically approached by England, and calls upon free citizens to guard their heritage of liberty by keeping the coming "Primrose Day" in its important association with the glorious Reformation.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PSALMS AND CANTICLES, pointed for chanting, and set to appropriate chants. 1s. Wesleyan Methodist Book Room. This book has been prepared for use in Methodist congregations, and it is sure to prove popular.

THE KEEPER AND THE KEPT. By George Clarke. 6d. Marshall Brothers. A little book setting forth many of the promises of God to preserve in all circumstances those who put their trust in Him. There are, doubtless, many persons to whom these simple but earnest pages will prove helpful.

NEW OUTLINES OF SERMONS ON THE OLD TESTAMENT. Hitherto unpublished. 6s. Hodder & Stoughton. These eighty outlines of Old Testament subjects will, no doubt, be a great help to busy ministers. The index of subjects, and another of texts, are also useful. The preachers are of all schools—e.g., Canon Liddon, Baldwin Brown, Greenhough, and Stanley. We think that for the guidance of young ministers names should be attached to the outlines.

SELL'S DICTIONARY OF THE WORLD'S PRESS (167, Fleet-street) becomes larger year by year. The issue for 1888 contains 1300 pages of articles, lists, and advertisements, all interesting to newspaper workers, and calculated to be useful to business people in general. The claim that this is the largest book ever published at 2s. is undoubtedly true.

NELLA; OR, NOT MY OWN. By J. Goldsmith Cooper. 3s. 6d. Elliot Stock. A story for girls, showing how one who was intensely hostile to religion was effectually won to the Saviour through the patient forbearance and loving influence of a Christian school-fellow. It is evidently written by one who knows the secret and the unfading joy of consecration, and who herein sees the path of safety for girls amid the perils of school life.

GREAT TRUTHS IN HUMBLE POEMS. By Robert Morgan. 9d. Hebrew Christian Printing Press, Hackney-road, E. The modest title and preface of this little book disarm severe criticism. Though the poetry, both in form and rhythm, may not satisfy critical minds and ears, it contains what more polished verses too often lack, true piety. Every one of these pieces seems the outpouring of a changed heart in praise, exhortation, or prayer.

SPIRITUAL DECLINE IN THE CHURCH OF GOD. By Alfred Hill. 1s. 6d. This is a reprint of an address which was delivered in January last at the Clifton-road Church Institute, Brighton. It contains some plain counsels for pulpit and pew alike. Spiritually minded readers will pray that God may bless the solemn words of warning here uttered against the inevitable result of righteousness having fellowship with unrighteousness, of communion between the Church and the world. (E. Stock.)

THOUGHTS FOR CHURCH SEASONS. By Rev. Daniel Moore, M.A. 5s. Nisbet. These "thoughts" are good; they are contained in a series of short papers arranged for Church seasons in the order of the Book of Common Prayer. Invalids and others who desire to combine sacred meditation with prescribed daily devotion, will greatly value the book if they appreciate truly spiritual monitions; while to those Christians who have little regard for times and seasons, these papers will prove profitable in proportion as their highly spiritual teachings are spiritually discerned. 5s.

GLIMPSES OF GEORGE FOX AND HIS FRIENDS. By Jane Budge. 3s. 6d. Partridge & Co. Though clearly written by one of themselves, this is an interesting and tolerably fair account of the Rise, History, and Leaders of the Friends. The bulk of the book naturally deals with George Fox and Penn. Interesting chapters are, however, added on Edmundson's work in Ireland, and Barclay's labours in Scotland. The last chapter on the teaching of the early Friends gives concisely their views on Oaths, Warfare, Tithes, the ministry, the inward light, and the sacraments. The engravings are very well executed.

A GREEK TESTAMENT PRIMER. By Rev. Edward Miller, M.A., rector of Bucknell. This excellent introduction to the Greek of the New Testament is one of the famous Clarendon Press Series. There was quite room for such a book, and it is to be hoped that many will avail themselves of its trustworthy guidance to an acquaintance with the inspired original of the Covenant of Grace. The plan leaves nothing to be desired: there is an easy grammar, followed by a graduated reading-book made up of expressions and passages from the Greek Testament. Students who have not had the advantage of a classical education, may confidently begin Greek with this book. (3s. 6d. Henry Frowde.)

EVERLASTING LOVE. 5s. Hawkins. This is a collection of poems by Cecilia Havergal, Rev. J. Denham Smith, and others. No more glorious theme could be selected for songs of praise, and the breathings of the soul here set forth contain precious thoughts which will doubtless prove a blessing to many. Each page is beautifully embellished with floweret and landscape, which form a fitting frame-work for these inspiring thought pictures.—CROWNING BLESSINGS AND UNTOLD MERCIES (1s. each), and GRACE AND GLORY, REFUGE AND STRENGTH, and THE SHIELD OF SALVATION (6d. each) are also collections of poems by various writers in smaller and cheaper form than the above, in ornamental paper covers. Each adds its quota of comfort and cheer to the reader.

APRIL MAGAZINES.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE

is one of special interest. "The Campaign of Waterloo" is continued by John C. Ropes, and Dr. Henry M. Field, of The New York Evangelist, contributes a bright description of the Gibraltar "Rock." The illustrations throughout are clear and good. (1s. Warne & Co.)

WOMAN'S WORK.

It is very interesting to find one of our Queen s daughters using her high position and laying herself out so assiduously as does the Princess Christian for ameliorating the condition of the sick and the poor. In the current issue of The Woman's World there is a sensible and hearty paper from the pen of Her Royal Highness on "Nursing as a profession for women." The same magazine has a sketch of another royal lady, "Carmen Sylva," the poet queen of Roumania. "The children of a great city," by Mrs. Frances Jeune," is a paper well fitted to touch the sympathies of all classes of readers.

BIOGRAPHY IN THE MAGAZINES.

The popular element of biography is strong in the April magazines. In The Sunday Magazine Rev. E. J. Hardy recounts the salient points in the now well-known story of General Gordon's career, and classes him as one of the martyrs of the nineteenth century. In Good Words Charles Dickens finds a capable and appreciative Boswell in Mr. Andrew Lang. The Sunday at Home has two excellent sketches of this description—one giving an interesting glimpse into the lives of the present Bishop of Derry and his wife, the other, by J. Ewing Ritchie, embalming the memory of the late Vicar of Kirkbraddon, Isle of Man. The special commissioner of The Quiver follows up his sketch of Mr. Aitken by reporting this month an interview with Dr. Fairbairn, of Mansfield College, Oxford. The splendid history of the late President Lincoln's life work in the attractive pages of The Century reaches in its current instalment the breaking out of the Civil War between North and South, when the characteristic virtues of Lincoln were put so severely to the test. The same magazine has a critical analysis of the writings of Mr. R. L. Stevenson, by a brother littérateur, Mr. Henry James. Somewhat in the same line is the brief narrative by Rev. F. Hastings of his visit t "Ruskin's Forge," which, being interpreted, means the publishing establishment at Orpington, Kent, of Mr. Allen, who prepares for the book market the works of the famous art critic and political economist.

Two important pamphlets against drink and drunkenness have been issued in Russia by Dr. P. S. Alexeef, a Russian physician.

THE GOSPEL OF THE UNVEILED FACE. A sermon b Rev. A. G. Brown. 1d. This is a powerful discourse o 2 Cor. iii. 13—18 (R.V.), urging the power of the simpl Gospel of Christ, without any human adornment or vei to hide the face of the Lord.

Mr. John Kensit sends us BABYLON IN ST. PAUL'S an THE CRUCIFIX AT ST. PAUL'S, two penny tracts; als pamphlets entitled THE ARTICLES OF RELIGION OF TH CHURCH, by Rev. J. E. Sampson, and THE OLD RELIGIO IN ENGLAND, by George Cullwick.

The April issue of Toilers of the Deep is an especiall interesting Number, in its detailed reference to the con templated action of the Mission to Deep Sea Fishermer in substituting perfectly equipped Cruising Hospital for the mere Dispensary Ship hitherto in use.

PRAISE: MEDITATIONS IN THE ONE HUNDRED AND THIR PSALM. By Mark Guy Pearse. This book is already i its ninth thousand. It displays that beauty and patho of expression and teaching which characterise it author's other writings. Let it have many readers, fo it is calculated to prove a great blessing to God's childrer (1s. T. Woolmer.)

Mr. J. W. Moodie, "the Soldier Evangelist," has pro pared a brief autobiographical sketch—"A Soldier's Lif and Experience in the British Army." It is publishe (price 2d.) by Mr. A. Guthrie, Ardrossan, N.B.; any profit that may accrue will be devoted towards the expense c a mission to the Mediterranean garrisons.

In a little book, entitled THE HEALTH OF CHILDRE Dr. Angel Money, Assistant Physician to the Hospita for Sick Children, and to University College Hospita has brought together the chief facts governing th healthy growth of the infant child. The book is genuine contribution to preventive medicine, and mos mothers and nurses would be profited by perusing i (6d. H. L. Lewis, 136, Gower-street, W.C.)

HORNER'S PENNY STORIES FOR THE PEOPLE. This effor to supply wholesome literature at a cheap rate proving an eminent success. Among the latest issue are: "Promoted: a Story of the Zulu War," "The Sla Chase," "Charlie Coulson, the Drummer Boy," "Mario Mandeville," and "The Californian Nugget: a Tale c the Far West." The stories are well written, the subjec matter is excellent, and sound Gospel teaching pervade them. They should be circulated in their thousand (W. B. Horner & Son, 27, Paternoster-square, E.C.)

BOOKS RECEIVED.

Mr. P. Lindley, 123, Fleet-street, E.C. English ar French Cookery, by A. H. Wall. (1s. The Housekeep Series, Vol. I.)

Mr. H. K. Lewis, 136, Gower-street, W.C. Inebriety: i Etiology, Pathology, Treatment, and Jurisprudence, Norman Kerr, M.D., F.L.S.

Messrs. Macniven & Wallace, 138, Princes-street, Edi burgh:—Personal Reminiscences and Biographic sketches, by the late Rev. James Dodds, Dunba Second Edition.

otes on Daily Readings.

SUNDAY, APRIL 8.——HABAKKUK III.

.—Upon Shigionoth.—The plural form of the d 'Shiggaion,' which only occurs in the title he seventh Psalm. Hengstenberg takes it mean, "upon transgressions," and as the ject of this chapter is the Lord coming in gment, this would seem a suitable meaning.

.—God came from Teman, &c.—Better in V. margin "cometh," and similarly to the l of ver. 15. "The Hebrew is rendered meth' by most interpreters, ancient and dern. The prophet speaks of an impending nifestation. Teman is the southern, Paran eastern, district of Edom."—S.C. Hence, . lxiii. is parallel, and the Lord's judgment the professing Church at his second coming uld seem to be the subject of this chapter.

1.—The sun and moon stood still...at the ht of thine arrows they went.—If Josh. x. 12 referred to, it is as a parallel case of nature ing way when God rises to judgment. Vent" seems to refer to the sun and moon C.), "they turned and hid themselves." See v. vi. 12.

13.—Thou wentest forth for the salvation of people.—This is the great end and object of Lord's second coming. See Ps. lxxvi. 9: When God arises to judgment (it is) to save the meek of the earth." The head out of the use of the wicked points to Antichrist. Ps. 6 is a parallel.

17.—Although the fig tree shall not blossom, .—The prophet who has taught (ii. 4) that he just by faith shall live" now illustrates his own person what faith is. 2 Sam. xxiii. 5.

19.—He maketh my feet like hinds' feet.—The acious grasp with which the hind (or antelope) sps the rocks, over which it lightly passes in ng up to its "high places," is an apt emblem aith grasping the promises, and so mounting to "those things that are above" (Col. iii. 1).

MONDAY, APRIL 9.——ZEPHANIAH I.

'Zephaniah means 'he whom Jehovah les.' See Ps. xxvii. 5. He traces his cestry back to 'Hizkiah,' the same name Hebrew as the King Hezekiah. Therefore, s thought probable by many that the prophet s of royal descent."—S.C. Keil assigns the ter half of Josiah's reign as his time of prosying, after the reformation which took ce in his eighteenth year (2 Chron. xxxiv. 8). ing the last of the prophets before the Captiy, he sums up much that has gone before, d is peculiarly comprehensive. "If one shes a brief compendium of all the prophets, him read Zephaniah."—Bucer.

2.—I will utterly consume all things from off land.—Better (R.V.), "from off the face of ground." "The prophet's language is like at of Gen. vi. 7. Each of God's judgments is oreshadowing of that which is final."—S.C.

5.—That swear by Malcham, i.e., their king, al.

7.—The Lord hath prepared a sacrifice.—e Isa. xxxiv. 6. "The sacrifice is the guilty wish people."—S.C. "Those who are invited the sacrificial meal are the nations which has consecrated to war that they may conme Jacob."—Keil.

8.—The king's children.—"Possibly the sons King Zedekiah (2 Kings xxv. 7)."—S.C.

9.—Those that leap on the threshold.—"Unrupulous retainers of the rich and powerful, o violently invaded the dwellings of such as uld not resist."—S.C.

12.—The Lord will not do good, neither will do evil.—They attribute to the Lord that difference which they feel as to Him.

TUESDAY, APRIL 10.——ZEPHANIAH II.

1.—O nation not desired.—"O nation that th no shame."—R.V. Others prefer, "O tion not desiring," i.e., without longings. They were satisfied with themselves and with eir condition."—S.C.

2.—Before the decree bring forth.—The "deee" is the same word used Micah vii. 11 of e law. That which the law brings forth is judicial wrath against sin. "The law worketh wrath" (Rom. iv. 15). The day pass as the chaff.—Apparently the day of grace. See Ps. xcv. 7, 2 Cor. vi. 2.

3.—All ye meek of the earth.—The meek are those who take the sinner's place, and trust in the sinner's Saviour. Which have wrought his judgment.—"Submitting themselves to the word of God, they had done and were doing the judgment of God, judging themselves that they be not judged."—Pusey. To accept Christ and the substitutional judgment on sin which God caused to fall upon Him is to "do his judgment."

4—15.—"In these verses the prophet adds fresh motives for repentance. He unfolds the punishment that was hanging over the enemies of Israel on the west (4—7), on the east (8—11), on the south (12), and on the north (13—15). If the heathen were punished for their transgessions, what did the people of God deserve? See iii. 6, 7."—S.C.

15.—That said in her heart, I am, and there is none beside me.—"A similar phrase is used in Isaiah by God Himself (xlv. 5, 6, 18, 22). It would seem to be implied that Nineveh deified herself."—S.C. We have seen in Nahum that Nineveh foreshadows Babylon the Great of Rev. xviii. where much self-glorification takes place.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 11.——ZEPHANIAH III.

"From 1—7 the prophet sharply rebukes Jerusalem for her grievous sins."—S.C.

3.—They gnaw not the bones till the morrow.—Generally now taken as R.V., "they leave nothing till the morrow." "Insatiable as wolves which leave not a bone till the morning."—Keil.

5.—The just Lord is in the midst of her.—A striking contrast between Him who dwelt in Zion and his surroundings. The God of Israel was also the God of the whole earth, and therefore his judgments on the nations around should have affected Israel, but they did not.

9.—Then will I turn to the people a pure language.—"It should be plural 'peoples' (so R.V.)."—S.C. "God turns to the nations a pure lip, by purifying their sinful lips (see Isa. vi. 7) i.e., He converts them that they may call upon Him."—Keil.

11.—Thou shalt no more be haughty because of my holy mountain.—This refers to Jewish pride on account of their privileges.

12.—I will also leave in the midst of thee.—From the verb "leave" is formed the word "remnant" of the next verse. The "poor and afflicted" are contrasted with the proud and haughty of the previous verse. They trust not in Church privileges ("my holy mountain"), but in "the name of the Lord."

13.—Neither shall a deceitful tongue be found in their mouth.—Rev. xiv. 5 (R.V.): "Neither in their mouth was found no lie: they are without blemish." They claim to be before God what the sacrificial Lamb in whom they trust is for them: and God allows their plea: "as He is so are we in this world" (1 John iv. 17.)

15.—The King of Israel...is in the midst of thee.—This is at his second coming, but not till then. What follows refers to that time.

17.—He will rest in his love.—Lit. "He will be silent in his love." Contrast this description of his love to his people with what He will be to the world: "Our God shall come, and shall not keep silence" (Ps. l. 3).

19.—I will save her that halteth, and gather her that was driven out.—See Micah iv. 6—7, where, as here, the earthly Israel is meant, then to be saved for earthly blessing.

THURSDAY, APRIL 12.——HAGGAI I.

We now skip a period of about 100 years, from about B.C. 620, when Zephaniah prophesied, till B.C. 520, the time of Haggai. In the meantime the seventy years captivity had fallen upon Judah, and, after the capture of Babylon by Cyrus, a feeble remnant (about 50,000, as compared with 600,000 who left Egypt) had been permitted to return to their own land.

1.—In the second year of Darius the king.—"This can be none other than Darius Hystaspes, whose second year was B.C. 520. Sixteen years had therefore elapsed since the foundation of the house of the Lord had been laid. See Ezra iii. 11."—S.C.

2.—The time is not come.—The result of the success of their adversaries in weakening them (Ezra iv. 4) is here apparent.

9.—Ye run every man unto his own house.—It was so also in St. Paul's days. "All men seek their own, not the things which are Jesus Christ's" (Phil. ii. 21).

13.—I am with you, saith the Lord.—This, "the Lord's message," which "the Lord's messenger" spake, was to those who "obeyed the voice of the Lord their God" (12). See a similar connection between obedience and the Lord's presence, Matt. xxviii. 20.

14.—The Lord stirred up the spirit of...all the remnant of the people; and they came and did work in the house of the Lord.—Even their obedience, however, like that of the Philippians (ii. 12), was the result of God working in them "both to will and to do of his good pleasure."

FRIDAY, APRIL 13.——HAGGAI II.

7.—I will shake all nations, and the desire of all nations shall come.—"A figurative description of convulsions among the heathen kingdoms of the earth. It has been usual to regard this verse as a direct prediction of our Lord's visit to the temple, and to identify 'the desire of all nations' with Him of whom Jacob foretold, 'unto Him shall the gathering of the peoples be.' This view is sustained by reference to Micah v. 4; Mal. iii. 1, and Heb. xii. 26, 27."—S.C., which, however, prefers the view held by most modern critics, that "the desire of all nations" should be rendered "the desirable things of all nations" (R.V.), and refers to the silver and gold of ver. 8! Pusey exposes the unsatisfactory nature of such an explanation, and ably maintains the reference to Christ. "The words can only mean this, the central longing of all nations. He whom they longed for, either through the knowledge of Him spread by the Jews in their dispersion, or mutely by the aching craving of the human heart longing for the restoration from its decay."—Pusey.

8.—The silver is mine, and the gold is mine.—As though He would say, I need no such things to adorn my Temple, for all silver and gold is mine (comp. Ps. l. 9, 10), the latter glory of this house (through Christ's presence) shall be greater than the former with all its silver and gold.

23.—In that day will I take thee, O Zerubbabel.—The promise is to David's seed, of which Zerubbabel was then the representative. R. Isaac, a Jewish writer, says, "This is said without doubt of the Messiah, the Expected."

SATURDAY, APRIL 14.——ZECHARIAH I.

Zechariah's first prophecy was delivered two months after Haggai. After an introductory appeal (i. 1—16) to his countrymen to turn from their evil ways, he records a series of eight prophetic visions (i. 7—vi. 8) seen in one night, that of the 24th day of the 11th month, in the second year of Darius.

8.—Behold a man riding upon a red horse.—"Described (10) as the man that stood among the myrtle trees, in (12) as the Angel of Jehovah.—S.C. He stood among the myrtle trees that were in the bottom.—The myrtle grove in the lowly position symbolises "the land dear and lovely in the estimation of Jehovah, and the deep degradation into which the land and people of God had fallen at the time."—Keil. There is a great diversity of opinion as to the significance of the colour of the horses, though about two there is no dispute. "Red," the colour of blood, points to war (Rev. vi. 4), and "white" to victory (Rev. vi. 2). "Speckled" (rendered "sorrel," R.V.) denotes a "starling kind of grey ('ashen grey.'—Pusey) corresponding to 'pale' (Rev. vi. 8)."—Keil. Jerome, Cyril, and others regard the three horses as denoting the three great Gentile powers, whom Israel must yet serve, Babylon having passed.

18.—Behold four horns.—The second vision of the four horns and four smiths (R.V., better than "carpenters," A.V.) presents the Gentile domination in its four-fold entirety, in order to show their final destruction, because "they lifted up their horn (mark the singular) over the land of Judah to scatter it."

Y.M.C.A. Bible Lessons.

OUTLIRES PREPARED BY HENRY THORNE.

Sunday Afternoon, April 15.

The Syrophœnician Woman.—Mark vii. 24—30.

We have in these verses an account of the visit of our Lord to the coasts of Tyre and Sidon, and of his interview with the Syrophœnician women. A fuller account of the same events is recorded in Matt. xv. 21—28. We shall keep in view the records of both the Evangelists in the lesson for to-day. Note that we have

(1) An Interesting Journey.—In the visit to the coasts of Tyre and Sidon, our Lord: (a) Went out of his ordinary way (Matt. xv. 24).—His mission was to the Jews, but his heart went after everybody (see "other sheep," John x. 16). (b) Sought to maintain privacy (Mark vii. 24).—Prejudice would have been created amongst the Jews had they known of this visit to the Gentiles. All was done that could be done to prevent this. Note here "the spirit of wisdom" (Isa. xi. 2), and see how such a spirit was to be cultivated by the disciples (Matt. x. 16). (c) Showed regard for a despised and degraded people.—Great commercial prosperity appears to have been enjoyed by the people of this region, and they were surrounded by the charms of beautiful scenery—Phœnicia was on the Mediterranean coast, and Sidon was on a narrow strip of land between Mount Lebanon and the sea; yet sin abounded. The inhabitants were given to idolatry, and in an earlier time they harassed and despoiled the children of Israel (Ezek. xxviii. 22—26). The most sinful and degraded were the objects of our Lord's pity and regard (compare "Nazareth," Luke iv. 16, and "a sinner," Luke vii. 27, xviii. 13, xix. 7). (d) Anticipated the days of the Gentiles.—See the blessing of the Gentiles foreshadowed in the predictions of Isaiah (Isa. xlii. 6), and of Simeon (Luke ii. 32), in the command of Jesus (Mark xvi. 15), and in the vision of Peter (Acts xi. 4—18). (e) Found his fame had preceded Him.—"He could not be hid." His fame was originated by his acts. How well it is to be known for the good that we have done! Compare Ps. lxxvi. 1, and Mal. i. 11.

(2) An Earnest Suppliant (Mark vii. 25, 26).—Note that she was a woman, "the weaker vessel" (1 Pet. iii. 7), but full of strong faith. A mother.—The maternal instinct is at its best when it leads to the feet of Christ (Matt. xix. 13). A Gentile.—The least in privilege are sometimes the greatest in faith (see Samaritan, Luke xvii. 16; and Centurion, Luke vii. 9). In trouble.—Affliction is a benediction when it leads to Jesus (Ps. cxix. 67). One who had heard of Jesus.—If we would bring souls to Christ, we must let people know about Him (Rom. x. 17). Of a humble spirit.—"At his feet." "The place of pardon (Luke vii. 38), of healing (Luke xvii. 16), of rest (Luke viii. 35), of teaching (Luke x. 39), of comfort (John xi. 32), of worship (Matt. xxviii. 9)" Possessed of mighty faith.—Believed that the power of Christ was more than a match for the power of the devil.

(3) A Strange Rebuff (ver. 27).—Dr. Maclear points out three stages of this woman's trial: (1) Silence (Matt. xv. 23); (2) Refusal (Matt. xv. 24); and (3) Reproach (Matt. xv. 26). Behind the apparent sternness there was certainly a purpose of love. For other trials of faith see the storm at sea (Luke viii. 23—25), and the death of the ruler's daughter (Mark v. 35). The Jews regarded the Gentiles as dogs, and the woman probably knew this.

(4) A Humble Plea.—The suppliant did not question the truth of the Lord's word: ("Truth, Lord," Matt. xv. 17). Nothing is ever gained by such questioning (John iii. 33). She turned the seeming rebuff into an argument for the granting of her plea. If the land of Israel was the Master's table she felt she was at the edge of it.

(5) A Triumphant Issue.—The faith of the woman became a channel of blessing to the child. Faith defeats the devil (Eph. vi. 16), blesses human beings (James v. 15), and wins the favour of Christ (Matt. xv. 28).

THE PRINCESS AND THE POOR CHILDREN.—Princess Christian gave her last winter dinner to the poor children of the town in the Windsor Guildhall last week, when nearly 200 boys and girls were entertained. Upwards of 4500 children and 643 men have been provided with dinners since Christmas, and coals and blankets have also been distributed from the Princess's fund.

International S. S. Lesson.

Sunday Afternoon, April 15.

CHRISTIAN WATCHFULNESS.

Matt. xxiv. 42—51. Golden Text: Mark xiii. 37.

These words were uttered by our Lord on the last day of his public ministry. He had just given in the Temple his last public warning: see last lesson. He is now alone with his disciples, walking, probably, up the slope of Olivet, discoursing on the judgments coming on the beloved city now in full view. He is also telling them of his second coming. It is at the end of all this that He turns his discourse to practical account, and begins this exhortation: "Watch therefore," &c.

The New Testament is full of exhortations to watchfulness, no doubt because it is natural to us to sleep in respect of all things spiritual. It requires constant effort and grace to keep awake. Also, because all depends on our keeping ourselves alive to our Master's interests and future coming. See Matt. xxv. 13, xxvi. 38, 40, 41; Mark xiii. 34—37; Luke xii. 37, xxi. 36; Acts xx. 31; 1 Cor. xvi. 13; Eph. vi. 18; Col. iv. 2; 1 Thess. v. 6; 2 Tim. iv. 5; 1 Pet. iv. 7; Rev. xvi. 15.

Watching means working, i.e., making ready, and so being ready. The servant who leaves his work to watch idly at the gate for his lord's return does not truly watch. The real watcher does his best to have all ready in case his lord should come soon and suddenly. So those who love Jesus are here taught to be faithful always, because He may come at any time. Our Lord teaches this lesson in three illustrations:—

(1) The householder watching against midnight robbers.—They give no warning. They rather aim to find him sleeping. So the owner must watch through the whole night. It is thus with Christ's people. They must be always watching, always ready, "for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of Man cometh."

(2) A faithful servant left in charge by an absent lord, whose coming he constantly expects.—The servant is trusted—left in charge of the entire household. He is faithful, i.e., trustworthy—will work ever so hard, and suffer anything rather than abuse his trust. Does everything with a view to his lord's will and his lord's return. Teachers might do well to speak strongly about faithfulness to trust. How shameful to abuse confidence, and how noble to be simply faithful at any cost. Show that every Christian is a steward in trust—in trust with every possession, but especially with the Gospel. Are we keeping the Lord and his coming in view?

Note the Reward of Faithfulness: made "ruler over all his goods," i.e, not his house merely, but his entire estate. Faithful in little, he is entrusted with more. This is God's way always.

(3) An unfaithful servant left in post of great responsibility.—He is but a hireling—no real love for master, and no true honour. Wants to have a good time for himself. He makes up his mind that his lord will be long in coming, abuses his trust in every way, thinking he will have plenty of time to set all right before his lord comes home. See how unfaithfulness to his lord leads to injustice towards fellow-servants.

Note the Reward of Unfaithfulness: His doom is sudden, terrible, and without hope. "Cut him asunder." "Weeping and gnashing of teeth." These are fearful words!

ILLUSTRATIONS.

(1) Getting ready.—"Mother," said a child, "teacher tells me that this world is only a place in which God lets us live a little while, that we may prepare for a better world; but, mother, I do not see anybody preparing. I see you preparing to go into the country, and Aunt Eliza preparing to come here; but I do not see anyone preparing to go to heaven. If everybody wants to go there, why don't they try to get ready?"

(2) Always ready.—"John Wesley was once asked, 'Suppose you knew you were to die at twelve o'clock to-morrow night, how would you spend the intervening time?' 'How, Madam? Why, just as I intend to spend it now. I should preach this night at Gloucester, and again at five to-morrow morning. After that I should ride to Tewkesbury, preach in the afternoon, and meet the Societies in the evening. I should then go to friend Martin's house, who expects to entertain me, converse and pray with the family as usual, retire to my room at ten o'clock, commend myself to my heavenly Father, lie down to rest, and wake up in glory.'"

(3) Found unready.—A friend of the writer these notes told him how his sister was awakened great earnestness in the following way:—S dreamt one night that she heard a voice saying her very distinctly and solemnly, "Mary, get and do your work." She knew she ought to; bu being self-willed and unwilling, she refused. Pr sently the voice spoke again, "Mary, get up and your work." She refused a second time. St again the voice spoke the same words. This ti she refused; but with hesitation which grew alarm. Then she sprang up, went to the door begin her neglected task, when, lo! she beheld t heavens all ablaze with a terrible splendour—t brightness of the Lord coming with his saints power and great glory. The awful thought th she was now too late filled her with horror. Up that she awoke, glad to find it was but a drea but determined that, by God's grace, she wou escape the reality of which her dream was an ill tration and a warning.

◆

PROSPERITY or PAUPERISM?

These are alternatives full of meaning to Chr tian workers and philanthropists. The Earl Meath, who, as Lord Brabazon, was well known a nobleman taking a lively interest in social proble has recently brought them prominently un notice by editing a collection of articles written himself and others at various times on physic industrial, and technical training as related to public well-being. Lord Meath is of opinion t many of our social evils would be in a great m sure removed if an improvement were effected our national system of education, and many servers are in agreement with him on this po His lordship's book "Prosperity or Pauperism (5s. Longmans) will doubtless do something help in the formation of a public opinion wh shall insist upon legislative and other alteration the direction desired, in order that, to use his words, "our young men and maidens may start life with healthy bodies, with a knowledge things as well as of books, with the power of us their hands as well as their heads, and of mak the most of small resources."

Many of the essays and papers in the book un notice emphasise the importance of physical tr ing for the young, and the subject is one which certainly receive in the future much more at tion than has been given to it in the past. Sug tions are thrown out to School Board authori as to the manner in which the health of city-l children may be improved. Not only is bo exercise warmly commended, but the use of p grounds, open spaces, and other appointments the promotion of physical development is urge length. Combined with alterations in the Educa Code, these will, it is thought, "bring up a gen tion of English men and women physically cap of bearing the burden of the high civilisation extended empire they have inherited from t forefathers."

The training of destitute children, the need trade schools, and technical education are d with by many pens in various ways; but non the articles is more practically valuable than on the "Slöjd" system of Scandinavia. Mea "cunning," "clever," "handy" (compare the Eng "sleight of hand"), this word denotes diffe kinds of hand-work in wood, metals, or fabric pursued in educational institutions, and it may day be received into our tongue in the form "Slo The system has been adopted in France, Germ and other countries. In Sweden alone wood-s which consists mainly of carpentering, is pract in no fewer than 800 national schools, has been troduced into secondary schools for boys, an being adopted in the upper schools for girls. claimed for the system that it implants in young respect for work in general, promotes tivity, attention, and perseverance, trains to a s of form and accuracy, and assists in physical velopment. The work, moreover, is usefu itself, and the process is profitable from a d plinary point of view. The wide adoption of slöjd system will unquestionably tend to the ge good, and no apology is needed for bring'n under the notice of Christian workers.

CROYDON Y.M.C.A.—The Mayor of the (Mr. J. W. Hobbs) presided a few days ago the annual meeting of members. The va agencies in connection with the Association last year carried on with much satisfaction. number of new members added was 20, the nu of associates being 55. The total membersh 154, and associates 107.

Among the Churches.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

A Church Congress is to be held in Sydney, New South Wales, in April, 1889.

Mrs. Fraser, widow of the Bishop, has had erected in anchester Cathedral a Memorial Chapel to her usband.

The Bishop of London has licensed Rev. Edward avidson as minister of the French Protestant Church, loomsbury-street.

Parliament is to be asked to authorise the Ecclesiastical Commissioners to make agrant of £10,000 towards he restoration and repair of Westminster Abbey.

Rev. Canon J. J. Pulleine, rector of Kirkby Wiska, ear Thirsk, has been appointed suffragan-bishop of the iocese of Ripon. He will take his title from Penrith.

The Archbishop of Canterbury will receive the bishops ttending the Lambeth—hitherto known as the Pan-nglican—Conference at Canterbury Cathedral on June), and will deliver an address of welcome.

The Church Missionary Gleaner, for April, pleads for ffers of "picked men for important posts in Africa and ndia, and for extension of those and other fields; also or ladies for East Africa, Palestine, and Japan."

Letters have lately been received from Rev. J. S. ollins, the first missionary sent out from Dublin niversity, who went to China last autumn. He is reatly pleased with the prospects of his work in the heological College, Fuh-Kien, which has been opened or native pastors and catechists.

The Bishop of London has been called upon from more than one quarter to revoke the license of Rev. A. M. Dale, curate of Chiswick, and inhibit him from reaching in the diocese, he having been received into he Church of Rome. The Bishop has replied that the matter is under his "serious consideration."

PRESBYTERIAN.

Principal Rainy, of Edinburgh, will publish soon a manifesto on the relation of creeds to denominational union.

The system of seat-rents in United Presbyterian Churches is gradually being dispensed with in many of hem, and dependence exclusively placed on church-loor collections for the support of ordinances.

The native Christians of Efaté, New Hebrides, in eturn for kindness shown to them in times of trial by he Christians of Victoria, have sent to the Foreign Mission Committee in Melbourne a present of 1200 lbs. of the finest arrowroot, prepared by themselves. A still larger quantity was forwarded to pay for the printing and binding of the New Testament in the Efatése anguage.

Rev. Dr. Simpson, first pastor of the Presbyterian Church of England, Greenhill, Derby, lately severed his connection with the congregation, over whom he has presided with so much earnestness, ability, and devotion, for the last twenty-two and a half years. Dr. Simpson has relinquished his important trust owing to ill-health, and he leaves Derby with the respect and esteem of all classes of citizens.

SALVATION ARMY.

A friend has offered to support an official at Alexandria, if one can be sent.

Four hundred have sought salvation at the penitent form, in Christiania, Norway, in three weeks.

Mrs. Cooke, of the London Slum Work, appeals for more helpers to visit the slums, and tell their sin and poverty-stricken inhabitants of the Saviour's love.

The lieutenant of the corps at Lyons, France, writes: "God is with us. The corps has never been in such a good state as these last months; showers of blessing are falling on us, and on all around us."

Under the command of General Booth the Army commenced an Easter campaign at Ramsgate on Good Friday. There were contingents from all parts, a band from London, and another from Folkestone.

Nine of the soldiers who have been imprisoned at Torquay received a warm welcome on their release at a special meeting in the Royal Public Hall, Torquay. Six others were released on Thursday last week.

Meetings are now held in the prison at Kimberley, South Africa, with the consent of the authorities. At the last meeting reported, three convicts came forward, knelt in the ring, and professed to find pardon and peace.

Staff Capt. Osborn reports that with two other officers he went to attack a new town in Norway called Drammen. The meeting on the first night lasted four hours, and forty-five persons professed conversion. There were thirty more penitents the second night.

At the Grecian Theatre on Good Friday, meetings were held all day by the Chief of Staff, assisted by a large number of officers. In the evening seventy persons came forward to the penitent form and sought salvation in the presence of an audience of three thousand people.

At Beeston, in the Nottingham district, "during the nine months the corps has been opened many of the worst and vilest have been rescued from the ranks of sin." At New Lenton, where operations have recently commenced, "there is every prospect of a grand work being done."

The continued infringement of the Sunday Processions clause in the Torquay Harbour Act by Salvationists was under discussion of the local board last week. In giving instructions for proceedings to be taken against three men fo participating in a march through the streets Sunday week, the Board intimated that the clause would be strictly enforced in future. A memorial signed by a large number of leading residents supporting the action of the Board was received, as well as one against, sent in by the local Wesleyans.

SOCIETY OF FRIENDS.

J. Ernest Grubb has been very acceptably visiting Friends in West Cornwall and Exeter, and spending the Sabbath in Redruth.

Deeply interesting correspondence recently going on in The Intelligencer and Journal, of Philadelphia, on "A Plea for Unity," and "Is Re-union of Friends Possible," is very hopeful.

The Cardiff Adult School grows and spreads. On "Good Friday," after 160 had taken tea together, a most interesting meeting was held; a week's mission previously concluded, addressed chiefly by Agnes Thompson, of Barnard Castle, doubtless increased the interest felt.

METHODIST.

Special services at Camborne, conducted by Rev. Thomas Cook, have resulted in a very gracious revival, upwards of one thousand persons having professed to decide for Christ.

Mr. John Champness has concluded a special mission at St. Helens, which has been greatly blessed. Nearly two hundred persons have professed to find peace in Christ during the mission.

A unique convention took place at Bolton last week, in which all the Methodist bodies of the district took part. The ministers and delegated laymen of each section contributed papers or delivered addresses. The largest Wesleyan chapel in the town was crowded at the three meetings held during the day. The idea originated with the Wesleyans, and was heartily taken up by the other bodies.

BAPTIST.

The Baptist Magazine for April contains a portrait and biographical sketch of Dr. Clifford, President-elect of the Baptist Union.

Rev. C. H. Spurgeon preached at the new Baptist Chapel erected at Wallington, Surrey, on Easter Tuesday at 3 p.m., the occasion being one of the opening services. The building has sitting accommodation for 650 persons.

Towards the Adoniram Judson Memorial Fund now in course of being raised by the Baptist churches in America, Mr. John Rockefeller has offered £8000 on the condition that £40,000 is subscribed within six months. Of this sum £10,000 has already been secured.

Rev. W. Hobbs, pastor of Gipsy-road Chapel, Upper Norwood, has been providing free bread and milk breakfasts to children of the neighbourhood who are worse than fatherless, or whose fathers are out of employ- or ill. During this winter more than 30,000 meals have been provided.

CONGREGATIONAL.

The health of Mrs. Jackson Wray has now so much improved that she and her husband hope to leave New York for England on Wednesday next.

Professor Elmslie, D.D. (Presbyterian), has declined the call from Westminster Congregational Chapel, believing that duty and adaptation point to his abiding where he is at present.

Messrs. C. S. Horne and J. Wolfendale, students of Mansfield College, Oxford, during part of their Easter holidays, will conduct a mission in the neighbourhood of Madeley, Shropshire.

Rev. Taliesen Davies, of Bakewell, having resigned his pastorate, will devote himself to special mission work among the churches. His address is, Clapton's, Wooburn-green viâ Maidenhead.

The first Malay convert, a woman, has been baptized in Singapore, says The New York Evangelist. When a child she was taken prisoner, with her father, by cannibals. The father was killed and eaten, but the daughter was subsequently rescued by a trader, whose wife cared for her, and brought her up.

Mr. John Arundel, in recently forwarding from Sydney the sum of £35 12s. to the London Missionary Society, said it was the result of a collection taken by his young South Sea Island employés on Baker Island. The nine "boys" contributed about £20, and the Hervey Islanders the balance. It was, he says, a purely spontaneous movement. The number of men is about 104.

At the anniversary meeting of Cheshunt-street Chapel, a mission chapel connected with Cheshunt College, it was stated that the congregations had largely increased during the year; the Sunday-school is in a healthy and improved condition; the mothers' meeting has some fifty members; a useful and promising Young Men's Society has held its first session with forty members; the week-night service and young men's prayer-meeting are well attended.

NOTES FROM IRELAND.

A successful series of Gospel meetings has been held in the Episcopal Church, Portadown, by Rev. Mr. Potts, of Londonderry.

Several persons have been led to the Saviour at evangelistic services held during the past fortnight in the Methodist Church, Larne.

Dr. Henry Grattan Guinness, of London, addressed a series of Gospel meetings in St. Enoch's Presbyterian Church, Belfast, last week. The meetings were very largely attended, and many professed to have found Christ. On Thursday evening he lectured on Missions, referring especially to the life and labours of his father.

Rev. Professor Murphy, D.D., LL.D., has concluded the Carey Lectures for 1888, which he has been delivering for the past seven Sabbath evenings in various Presbyterian churches of Belfast. The subject chosen for the lectures this year was "The Levitical Sacrifices," and this Dr. Murphy treated in an able and exhaustive manner.

Mr. J. Townsend Trench, the well-known evangelist and land agent, has been addressing the Dublin Local Preachers' Association on the subject of preaching. He pointed out to them the importance of a strong, well-trained voice, distinct enunciation, freedom from fear of man, the duty of expecting results, and the necessity for pulpit preparation.

"FALLEN ON SLEEP."

Madame Aimé Humbert, Neuchâtel, a woman of great Christian activity, and who interested herself in the welfare of young women.—Rev. William Quekett, rector of Warrington, at the age of 85. The deceased gentleman was the hard-working curate of St. George's-in-the-East, whose exertions on behalf of the poor have been graphically described by the late Charles Dickens.—Rev. E. Rust, an aged minister of the Primitive Methodist Connexion.—Rev. David Arthur, for some years minister of the Presbyterian Church at Belize, British Honduras. —Rev. W. C. Moore, vicar since 1873 of Holy Trinity, Tulse-hill, S.W.—Mr. W. E. Terry, missionary in China under the auspices of the China Inland Mission.—Rev. S. H. France, pastor of the Congregational Church at Berbice, British Guiana.—Mr. Lloyd, financial secretary of the Tenby Y.M.C.A.; greatly beloved by all who knew him.—Mrs. Whigham, of Ballinasloe, wife of Rev. James W. Whigham, ex-Moderator of the General Assembly, and a devoted Christian worker.—Mr. George Lemon, of Longford, for more than fifty years an active Methodist local preacher and class leader.

◆

Mission Appeals.

Lower Edmonton.—An effort is being made by some Christian friends here to erect a mission hall for Gospel work among the poor. A site has been secured, and an appeal is made for help towards the undertaking. The treasurer is Mr. Thomas Willmott, 11, Hydeside-terrace, Lower Edmonton.

Boyle, co. Roscommon.—This town has a population of nearly 3000, and a large district of country round it. A great want is felt here for a hall for holding meetings, evangelistic, temperance, and other religious services. A coffee-stand or restaurant are also greatly needed. Mr. R. Poynton, Boyle, appeals to our readers to help him in these efforts.

The Gospel Mission (Undenominational), 146, Alderminster-road, Bermondsey, S.E. Mr. Alfred Andrews, mission secretary, 48, Beatrice-road, Bermondsey, writes: "We should be very grateful if readers of The Christian would send old books or Testaments, so that we may form a library. Our school and Band of Hope are full, and we desire to retain our elder children."

Saxmundham, Suffolk.—At this agricultural and seaside parish it is intended to open a reading-room with papers, &c., on April 15; we trust that if we start free of debt, the institution will be self-supporting. Will any of your readers kindly help with suitable books for a library, or texts or pictures for the walls; also large-sized copies of Sacred Songs and Solos, and large print Bibles for the old men. We hope to begin with the thirty-five to forty members who attend our Tuesday and Friday Bible-reading, for which we want Solos and Bibles. We shall be grateful for any help in this matter.—Rev. J. C. Stewart Mathews, Aldringham.

◆

CONTINENTAL & FOREIGN NOTES.

JAPAN.—The different Presbyterian and Independent Churches in Japan are organising their converts into one "United Church of Christ." They have decided to prepare a Hymn-book for use in all the churches.

A TALENTED CHINESE LADY.—Among the students who recently obtained a diploma in the Women's Medical College, New York, Miss Kin Yamei, a Chinese girl, took the first place. She is a lady of considerable culture, reading and writing five different languages fluently.

MOROCCO.—Mr. Baldwin accompanied by Mr. Summers has gone to the interior to look after some native converts, from one of whom he had received an interesting letter, signed, "The Slave of Christ." When Mr. Baldwin returns, he and his family think of going to Mogador.

JURANCON.—M. and Mdme. Pozzy, of Pau, with the evangelist Toribio, are successfuly working among the Spaniards here. A Sunday-school numbers about sixty boys and girls, who are well instructed in Scripture, and taught to sing hymns. Help is much needed to establish a day-school to keep these children out of the Romish schools.

HAVRE.—A Breton evangelist, M. Le Quéré, began preaching the Gospel in this place about six months ago. At first one meeting in the week was held, attended by very few; now there are five meetings every week, the room being crowded with an audience of 150, many of whom were Roman Catholics, several seem to be truly converted.—Le Signal.

RUSSIAN BIBLE SOCIETY.—An orthodox Russian, a Moravian brother, two Lutherans, and three members of the Reformed Church formed in 1863 the Russian Bible Society, which in 1869 obtained legal recognition. At the close of 1886 there were 1229 members, 452 priests with whose aid 90,076 copies of the Bible had been sold of which 46,397 were distributed by seven colporteurs, male and female.

BULGARIA.—In spite of political complications and disturbances, mission work goes steadily forward, and the national life and character are, it is hoped, beginning to feel the quickening power of the Gospel. The young men trained by the American missionaries are coming forward as leaders in national matters. Four missionaries, aided by a number of capable natives, are publishing a weekly newspaper in four languages, which circulates to the number of 9000 copies in all parts of the country. Last year 80,000 copies of religious and educational works were issued, while the Bible Society distributed 22,000 copies of Holy Scripture.

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

HOME.

The London Diocesan Temperance Sunday is fixed for April 22.

Pensilva, near Liskeard (says The Echo) has a mining population of 1700, of whom 1400 are known abstainers.

We regret to observe that in connection with the Niagara Falls Cyclorama, in London, a drink licence has been secured.

Principal Fairbairn was one of the chief speakers at a meeting held to inaugurate a total abstinence society in connection with Oxford University.

The first annual conference, &c., of the United Committee on the Liquor Traffic with Native Races is to be held on May 4, at Prince's Hall, Piccadilly.

At least a third of the members of Dublin City Council are directly or indirectly connected with the liquor trade, a fact which partly accounts for the Council's petition against Sunday closing.

At a meeting of the Northampton Chamber of Agriculture recently the farmers who spoke on the subject were unanimous in the opinion that their men worked better without beer than with it.

Mr. Bryce recently stated in Parliament that "the Government of India wanted to keep the House of Commons in the dark" on the subject of the spirit and opium trades licences in Upper Burmah.

The National Temperance League has issued an earnest appeal for funds. The present amount, about £2000 annually, is very small for a national campaign. We trust the appeal will meet with a liberal response.

The Saturday Night Gospel Temperance Concerts in connection with the Manchester Wesleyan Mission, Central Hall, have been crowded all through the winter, and the interest still continues. Many pledges have been taken.

An important meeting will be held in Exeter Hall on Wednesday evening next, at which the Archbishop of York will preside. Several members of Parliament and other leading friends of Sunday closing have promised to take part in the proceedings of the evening.

Mr. Richard Davy, surgeon to the Westminster Hospital, though not a total abstainer himself, testifies that in Britain drink is the mother of misery. Fully two-thirds of the accidents admitted into the hospital are directly or indirectly caused by intemperance.

In a recent Thursday lecture at the City Temple, Dr. Joseph Parker said he could make a Garden of Eden in the East-end in three months if he had his way. At first he should do nothing but burn down all the breweries, and shut up all the public-houses. The deadliest enemy with which the social constitution has to contend is the damnable drink shop. He did not say there were no good brewers and publicans, but he did say it was easier to be a bad publican than a good one.

FOREIGN.

Twenty-one of the new House of Representatives, New Zealand, are abstainers.

A total abstinence revival under the leadership of Bishop Ireland is in progress in St. Paul, Minn.

Halton, the first county in Ontario that adopted the Scott (Prohibition) Act, has returned to the licensing system.

A lady writing from Atlanta, Ga., says:—"Our city is drowned in whisky, and the papers suppress the facts systematically."

Mr. W. A. Rowe, America's champion bicyclist, attributes the greater part of his success to his total abstinence. He has never used either tobacco or intoxicants.

Total abstainers in Norway lately held an important meeting in the capital town, Christiania, for the purpose of binding more closely together the various temperance sections in the country.

The prelude to Joseph Cook's lecture on Monday, March 12, was on the subject, "High Licence a Hindrance to Prohibition." Miss Frances E. Willard followed him in a short address on "Women's Ballot as a Temperance Measure."

The American National Temperance Society was represented recently by Dr. Cuyler and other prominent officials at an interview with the Committee on Foreign Relations, Washington, with regard to the drink traffic on the Congo and the Western Pacific Islands.

Count Leo Tolstoi, the famous Russian litterateur, has organised and placed himself at the head of a temperance association at Mockar, called the "Society of the Temperate." The members are pledged not to drink intoxicating liquors of any sort, nor to sell or offer them to anyone, but to labour to convince others, especially children, of the dangers of intemperance.

THE BERLIN CITY MISSION recently held its annual meeting. The work is developing; missions are conducted in thirty-four parts of Berlin. It is proposed also to erect places of worship in some of the most destitute parts of the city. The first is to be built in the coming autumn.

THE SABBATH OBSERVANCE SOCIETY, Geneva, is offering a prize of £10 for the best pamphlet of from twenty to thirty pages, setting forth the danger to comfort, health, domestic peace, industry and moral religious life in general, incurred by those who habitually frequent drinking-houses and places of amusement. Manuscripts to be sent in by October 1.—Le Signal.

SPAIN.—From Mr. Armstrong's circular we learn that José Garcia has discovered in his evangelistic tours in Asturias several new groups of believers, of whose existence he was previously ignorant. It is hoped that England will send among them a good Evangelist. At Barcelona, M. Albricias has been conducting regular meetings, with an attendance of about 100 persons; the priests are trying in every way by promises and threats to hinder the work.

Forthcoming Meetings.

The Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, and Wales on due notice. Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, W.C.

The Irish Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

The Church Army will send evangelists (working-men) to any clergymen on due notice, for short or long missions. Hon. Sec., 128 & 130, Edgware-road, W.

The Metropolitan Tabernacle Evangelists' Association will send lay preachers and evangelists to any chapel or hall of any evangelical denomination in London. Hon. Sec., 121, Camberwell New-road, S.E.

The Country Towns Mission supplies qualified missionaries for work in the country. Apply to Secretary, 18, New Bridge-street, Ludgate-circus, E.C.

Y.M.C.A., New Metal Exchange, Whittington-avenue, E.C.—Daily prayer-meeting, 1.15 to 2 p.m. (Sat. excepted), at St. Peter's Vestry, Cornhill. Mission work each evening in Bermondsey, Whitechapel, Lambeth, Shadwell, &c.

Conference Hall and Y.M.C.A., Stratford, E.—Sundays in April, 3 and 7 p.m., Mr. C. Russell Hurditch. Bible-readings, Sundays, 3 p.m.; Tuesdays, 8 15 p.m.; Wednesdays, 8.15 p.m.

Y.M.C.A., 186, Aldersgate-street, E.C.—Annual meeting, Thursday, April 12, 8 p.m., Lord Kinnaird in the chair.

Y.M.C.A., The Priory, 198, Upper-street, N.—Tuesday, April 10, 7.30, annual meeting, Myddelton Hall. Sir Albert Rollits, M.P., Revs. W. H. Barlow, Canon Fleming, Henry Simon, F. B. Meyer, Mr. W. Edwyn Shipton will take part. North London Evangelistic Choir, 7.30 to 8 p.m.

Y.M.C.A., Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.—Sunday, 3.45 p.m., meeting for men only; 7 p.m., Mr. H. Grattan Guinness.

Y.M.C.A., Burlington Hall, 23, Savile-row, W.—Thursday, April 5, at 8.45, address by Rev. J. Hind.

Y.M.C.A., 17, Camden-road, N.W.—April 12 and three following Thursdays, addresses to young men, by Mr. Oscar Owers at 8.30; subjects—"Bible Checks on the Down Grade."

Conference Hall, Mildmay-park, N.—Sunday, 3.30 p.m., Mr. P. S. Badenoch; 7 p.m., Mr. James L. Stanley. Wednesday, 7.30 p.m., Bible-reading by Rev. H. E. Brooke; subject—"The World."

Kilburn Town Hall, N.W.—Sunday evening services will be held by the Evangelistic Mission on and after Sunday next, 7 p.m. Preacher for the month, Mr. A. M. Kyd.

Wesleyan West Central Mission.—St. James's Hall: Fridays, at 12 noon, Rev. Mark Guy Pearse; 7.30 p.m., Rev. Hugh Price Hughes. Sundays, 11 a.m., Rev. Mark Guy Pearse; 3.30 and 7 p.m, Rev. Hugh Price Hughes. Wardour Hall: Mondays, 8 p.m.; Rev. Mark Guy Pearse; daily prayer-meeting from 1.30 to 2 p.m. All seats always free.

House of Rest, 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn, N.W.—Friday, April 6, all-day meeting; 11 a.m., special praise meeting; 3 p.m, Rev. Dr. J. S. Russell, on "Being Filled with the Spirit"; 7 p.m., "Personal Knowledge of Christ."

St. George's Hall, Regent-street.—Sundays in April, Dr. McKilliam, at 11 and 7.

Burlington Hall, Savile-row.—Wednesday evenings in April, Dr. McKilliam, at 8.

Christian Workers' Reunion for Bible study and prayer, 186, Aldersgate street, every Thursday, at 3.30.

Regent's Park Chapel, Park-square, W. (near Portland-road Station)—Sundays, Rev. F. B. Meyer, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Visitors welcome. Gallery free.

Great Assembly Hall, Mile End-road, E.—Sunday, 11 a.m., and 6.30 p.m., Mr. William Nobbs.

Merchants' Lecture, Finsbury Chapel, Moorfields, E.C.—Tuesdays in April, 12 noon, Rev. Edward White.

Deepening of the Spiritual Life.—Meeting at Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road, W., every Friday, 3 30 p.m. Friday, April 13, Rev. H, Sharpe. April 20, Mr. R. C. Morgan.

Women's Mission House at Jerusalem.—Prayer-meeting for the above, No. 2 Room, Eccleston Hall, every Saturday, 4.15 p.m.

Christian Convention, Norwich, April 11 and 12.—Subjects—The Christian in Daily Duties: (1) His motive and aim; (2) His temptations and difficulties. The Christian in Suffering: (1) His attitude and conduct; (2) His helps and hopes. Speakers—Revs. M. Rainsford, F. A. C. Lillingston, C. Graham, Frank H. White.

Dublin Believers' Meetings, May 29, 30, 31, and June 1.

Torquay Christian Conference, April 10, 11, and 12; subject—"Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, to day, and for ever." Revs. Colin Campbell, F. B. Meyer, J. Hudson Taylor, E. N. Thwaites, J. Wilkinson, and Mr. Pember are expected to take part.

Bedford.—Convention for the Deepening of Spiritual Life, May 2, 3, and 4. Speakers—Revs. Dr. Elder Cumming, E. H. Hopkins, E. W. Moore, H. C. G Moule, Colonel Sladen. Conveners—Rev. [illegible]. C. Downer and Mr. H. F. Bowker. Hon. Sec., Colonel Corry Smith, Bedford, to whom all inquiries as to accommodation, &c, may be addressed.

Notices.

M.B.S., Paris.—Old postage stamps (except used penn ones) may be sent to Miss von Mielecka, Lady Anne House, Stamford, Lincolnshire, for the benefit of th Cottage Hospital, Barcelona.

Mrs. O.—"Nor'ard of the Dogger" is published by Messrs. J. Nisbet & Co., 21, Berners-street, Oxford-stree London, W., price 5s.

Will Mr. Vere Freeman give his address to Mr Butler?

Communications Received with Thanks.—W.G S.W. M.J.K. J.H.B. W.C.B. W.A. J.E.A. W.J.R. E.C.S G.B.B. T.J. J.F.H.W. S.S. C.G.D. J.O. D.K.A. M.E.B C.B. G.F.H. W.P. W.T. R.P. P.A.C. J.T.W. J.F.F C.P. J.C.B. I.B. J.S. J.C.J. E.R.K. J.W. J.R. T.J. G.L W.J.L. H.T. A.P. S.C. J.D. E.W.M. I.B.V. M.P. M.D J.P.C. H.J.W. J.K. W.G. D.C. R.H.T. J.K.W. D.B.U M.F. J.P.W. T.C.B. S.F. J.G.T. F.J. S.H.B. J.S.M L.M.T. A.E.C. H.L. A.D. K.B. M.H.B. T.H.R. M.A.H J.W. E.R.S. D.C.J. J.P. W.B. A.J.C. J.E.T. A.L.C E.L.H. H.M. R.C. J.M'A. W.A. G.B. C.S. W.W. W.E E.F.G. C.E.J. E.H.S. R.W.S. A.F. R.A. S.D.W.

Applicants for Tracts.—G. T. Binstead, 75, High street, Peckham; J. Smith, 26, Bath-road, Margate; A Chipperfield, 6, Victoria-crescent, Newport, Mon.; Mr Piper, Victoria-row, Camelford, Cornwall; W. Rowe Medrose, Camelford, Cornwall; J. Britton, Wood Cottages, Woodley; Miss Goring, 10, St. David's-street Brecon, South Wales; Miss Palmer, 34, Rue de Rivoli Paris (French); Miss Kelland, Matlock Bridge, Derbyshire.

◆

Subscriptions received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott to Monday, April 2, 1888.

 Will donors oblige us by giving explicitly and full the titles of the missions to which they wish their donations to be applied? Mistakes which sometimes aris will thus be obviated. Will they also bear in mind tha our Donation List is made up for the Printer on Monda morning? Any amounts received afterwards will b acknowledged in the subsequent week's number.

 We would respectfully urge all our friends, whe remitting to us, to make Cheques, Money Orders, o Postal Orders payable to Morgan & Scott, and to cros them "City Bank;" this will effectually preven loss of same.

 Donations should be sent by Cheque or P.O. Orders not by stamps.

	£	s.	d
Mildmay Mission to Jews (Medical Mission)—M.S., Uxbridge	0	2
Christian Community—M.R.	0	10
Gray's-yard Ragged Schools—M.R.	0	10
Latymer-road Mission—M.R.	0	10
Unemployed, Millwall Docks (Mr. Chorley)—M.R.	0	10
Mr. Rabinowitz's Work—B.S.M.	2	0
Latimer Church, Bow (Food, &c., for Poor)—Sutton 10s; J.B. £3	3	10
St. Giles' Christian Mission—E.P. 2s 6d; I.H. 10s; E.N. £1; J.B. £3	4	12
China Inland Mission—M.P. 3s 6d; "B.s." £2	2	3
London Missionary Society—"C.X."	5	0
Suppression Opium Traffic with China (Lecturing & Travelling Agent)—Mrs. S.E.B.	0	10
Shipwrecked Fishermen & Mariners' Royal Benevolent Society—M.S.	2	2
Destitute Children's Dinner Society—G.B	2	0
Working Men's Mission, New Cut—G.B.	1	0
Bethnal Green Board School Children (Mr. Wire)—G.B.	1	0
Home of Industry—"B.s." 10s; Miss Okell—G.B. £1	1	10
Gratuitous Circulation of The Christian—H.	0	5
Distress in S.E. London—A.B.D. 1s; C.D. £2	2	1
Miss Sharman's Orphans' Home—"B.s."	3	0
Bible Stand, Crystal Palace—"B.s."	0	10
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—"B.s." 10s; E.N. £2	2	10
Bridge of Hope, Ratcliff—"B.s."	0	10
Misn. to Deep Sea Fishermen—"B.s." 10s; J.B. £2	2	10
British & Foreign Bible Society—"B.s."	0	10
Bible & Colportage Society, Ireland—"B.s."	0	10
East London Training Institute (Mr. H. G. Guinness)—"B.s."	0	10
Children's Free Dinners—"B.s."	0	5
London Medical Mission—"B.s."	0	10
Dock Labourers—"B.s." 5s; C.D. £1	1	5
Spitalfields Gospel Mission—A.B.B.	0	15
Bristol Orphan Houses—I.H.	0	10
Mr. Fegan's Boys' Home—I.H.	0	10
Irish Church Missions—I.H.	0	10
George-yard Ragged Schools—C.D.	2	0
Dock Labourers' Mission (Mr. Coleman)—H.H.	0	5
Scripture Readers' Society, Ireland—J.B.	1	0
Ladies' Mission, Jerusalem—J.B.	0	15
	£48	11

[Advertisements.]

Bethnal Green Free Library, E.—Hon. Justice N. (ne annual subscription), £1 1s; Duchess of G., Parcel o Books. Mr. F. A. Bevan, Treasurer, 54, Lombar street, E.C.

St. Giles' Christian Mission—Lent Savings, 5s.

London Samaritan Society (Free Meals)—Miss R.M. 9s A.H.T. 2s; Miss G.R. 1s 6d; Mr. H.E.C. 1s.

Dr. Barnardo's Homes—Lent Savings, Anerley, 5s; H.R.H Dublin, 3s.

REPLIES TO THREE ENQUIRIES.

ENQUIRY 1.—Why should I consider it to be my duty as a Christian to support the Institutions known as "Dr. Barnardo's Homes?"

1. Because in the forefront of the whole work the CONVERSION TO GOD of the Children gathered into the "Homes" is kept clearly in view and earnestly sought after, to attain which blessed result the operations and influence of the HOLY SPIRIT are ever besought upon their systematic and daily instruction in the Word of God; and also because the inculcation of the principles of Total Abstinence forms a definite part of every day's training.

2. Because the "Homes" are the largest of their kind in the world, even now sheltering MORE THAN TWO THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED otherwise homeless, destitute, or orphan children; and will (D.V.), when the original scheme is fully completed, always be able to shelter 3000 poor boys and girls.

3. Because they promptly relieve destitute children of either sex, of every age, of any nationality, and of any creed or of none.

4. Because candidates require neither patronage nor votes, nor money, in order to secure admission, but only to give proof of real destitution.

5. Because immediate shelter to any homeless child applying for relief is provided by a Receiving House, which is open in East London at all hours of the day and night; and a Jubilee Shelter, having the same object, is about to be established in West London.

6. Because it is no disqualification for admission if a boy or girl applying for relief, and otherwise eligible, is found to be maimed of limb, or afflicted with some grievous physical disorder; thus, blind children, deaf mutes, and little cripples, if really destitute, may claim immediate admission.

7. Because the domestic life adopted by the Institutions embraces every approved system suitable for the training of children of different ages and of either sex. For example, Big Lads, capable of being taught trades, are brought up in a hardy way in large groups in Industrial Schools, on what is known as the Barrack System. Little Boys, between ten and thirteen years of age, are reared in Smaller Homes, chiefly under the gentler care and softer influence of women; while quite Tiny Boys, from three to ten years of age, are Boarded out with humble families in villages scattered throughout the country. Babies are either Boarded out or are reared in the Infants' House, called Babies' Castle, charmingly situated in the county of Kent; while all the Girls are, without exception, brought up in small groups and in separate cottages on the Family Plan, either at the Village Home at Ilford, or Boarded out with suitable families in country districts.

8. Because a separate Rescue House is always open for the immediate reception of female children snatched from positions of peril, and agents of the "Homes" are constantly at work by day and by night to discover or deliver such unhappy children from the custody or evil influences of persons seeking their ruin.

9. Because these Institutions are Voluntary Industrial Homes, all the boys over twelve years of age being instructed in useful handicrafts, and all the girls in the details of domestic service.

10. Because these "Homes" have for some years steadily Emigrated as many of their inmates as, after testing and training, were found physically and morally suitable for Colonial life.

ENQUIRY 2.—What Financial Aid is required to maintain the Existing Work efficiently, and also to complete the Original Scheme of the Homes, now so nearly finished?

1. ANY GIFT, HOWEVER SMALL, sent for the Maintenance Fund, will be gratefully accepted in support of the large family now sheltered in the Homes: 16s. 6d. will feed one child for a month; £2 10s. will do the same for three months; £5 for six months.

2. £16 will supply the entire cost of the maintenance, education, and industrial training of one boy or girl in the "Homes" for one year.

3. £8 10s. will cover the entire expense of outfit, railway fare, ocean passage, &c., of one young trained emigrant to the Province of Ontario, Canada. [£11 is required for Manitoba.]

4. £100 will supply all the Inmates of the several Institutions, now numbering 2432 boys and girls, and 150 adults, with FOOD FOR ONE DAY; £700 will do the same for a week.

5. £10 will furnish a Cot or Bed either in the Convalescent Home at the seaside, or in Her Majesty's Hospital for Sick Children at Stepney-causeway, or the Girls' Infirmary, Ilford.

6. £30 annually will maintain a Name Cot or Bed for use of a Sick Child, in one of these Infirmaries; or,

7. £750, invested as an endowment in the names of the Trustees of the "Homes," will provide the annual sum needed for the perpetual support of one Name Cot or Bed in either of the Infirmaries mentioned.

8. £1,292 will meet all expenses to be incurred at the Manitoba Farm.

9. £1,500 will complete "THE QUEEN'S VILLA," a House to receive 20 little rescued girl waifs, to be built at the Village Home in Essex, as the country memorial in these Institutions of Her Majesty's Jubilee.

10. £4,000 are also required to accomplish the rebuilding of HER MAJESTY'S HOSPITAL FOR SICK CHILDREN, in Stepney-causeway, as the town memorial of Her Majesty's Jubilee.

11. £2,900 are urgently needed to erect THE CHILDREN'S CHURCH, in the Girls' Village Home at Ilford, for the religious worship and instruction of the inmates.

12. £950 will build the last cottage required to complete the Village Home.

13. £7,000 are sorely needed to pay for the various additions now being made at Stepney-causeway (on the site of eleven old houses bought in 1886), including two schoolrooms, four trade-shops for new handicrafts, a gymnasium, one reading-room, and one play-room for younger boys, stores, enlarged lavatories, swimming-bath, dining-hall, with rooms for the staff, &c.

ENQUIRY 3.—How can I best advance the work of these Homes?

1. By daily prayer for God's blessing to rest upon the whole enterprise. Also by bringing the special needs of the "Homes" at certain seasons before other of God's remembrancers for united prayer.

2. By giving a Donation to promote some one or more of the foregoing objects, or by becoming a regular Subscriber to the funds.

3. By endeavouring to make the objects of the Institutions thoroughly known, and by becoming a Collector in aid of the funds. (Very beautiful collecting books are issued, under certain conditions, to Christian people applying for the same.)

4. By "adopting" a child now in the Institution as your own protégé—i.e., paying £16 per annum for his or her maintenance.

5. By giving a special donation to the Emigration Fund. As pointed out already, £8 10s. will defray the entire cost of one child's emigration to Ontario, Canada; £51 will do the same for six children; and £102 for twelve children.

6. By carefully endeavouring to disseminate the publications of the Homes among your friends, directing their attention to the same, resolving, as some of our fellow-workers do, never to send off even a letter without enclosing one of our small books in the envelope. Application for these books should be made to the Publication Secretary, 18 to 26, Stepney-causeway, London, E.

7. By sending contributions of articles of value for disposal to our sale room at Stepney, such as old coins, pictures, gold or silver ornaments, books, lace, &c.

8. Ladies can render valuable aid by forming working parties to make underclothing for the girls at the Village Home, and flannel shirts and socks for the boys.

9. By exercising personal self-denial as regards the use of needless luxuries, the cost of which, if saved and sent to the "Homes," would go far to relieve the pressing wants of some poor children.

10. By inducing your friends to visit the "Homes," which are open every afternoon between two and five o'clock (except on Saturday or Sunday, when no visitors can ever be admitted).

11. Many who cannot afford to give money now, may perhaps remember the Institutions when drawing up their Wills. A form of Bequest, approved by the Solicitors of the Homes, and suitable for adoption by testators, will be forwarded on application as below.

12. If you live in a large town which the Founder of the "Homes" has not visited, you may arouse such interest in the Institutions as shall lead to a visit from him, when further accounts of the Waifs could be given, and a permanent nucleus of important aid established.

13. In conclusion, remember that any donations, however small, will be thankfully received and gratefully acknowledged, if addressed to the Treasurer, William Fowler, Esq.; to the Chairman of Committee, Samuel Gurney Sheppard, Esq.; or to

DR. T. J. BARNARDO,
18 to 26, Stepney Causeway, London, E.

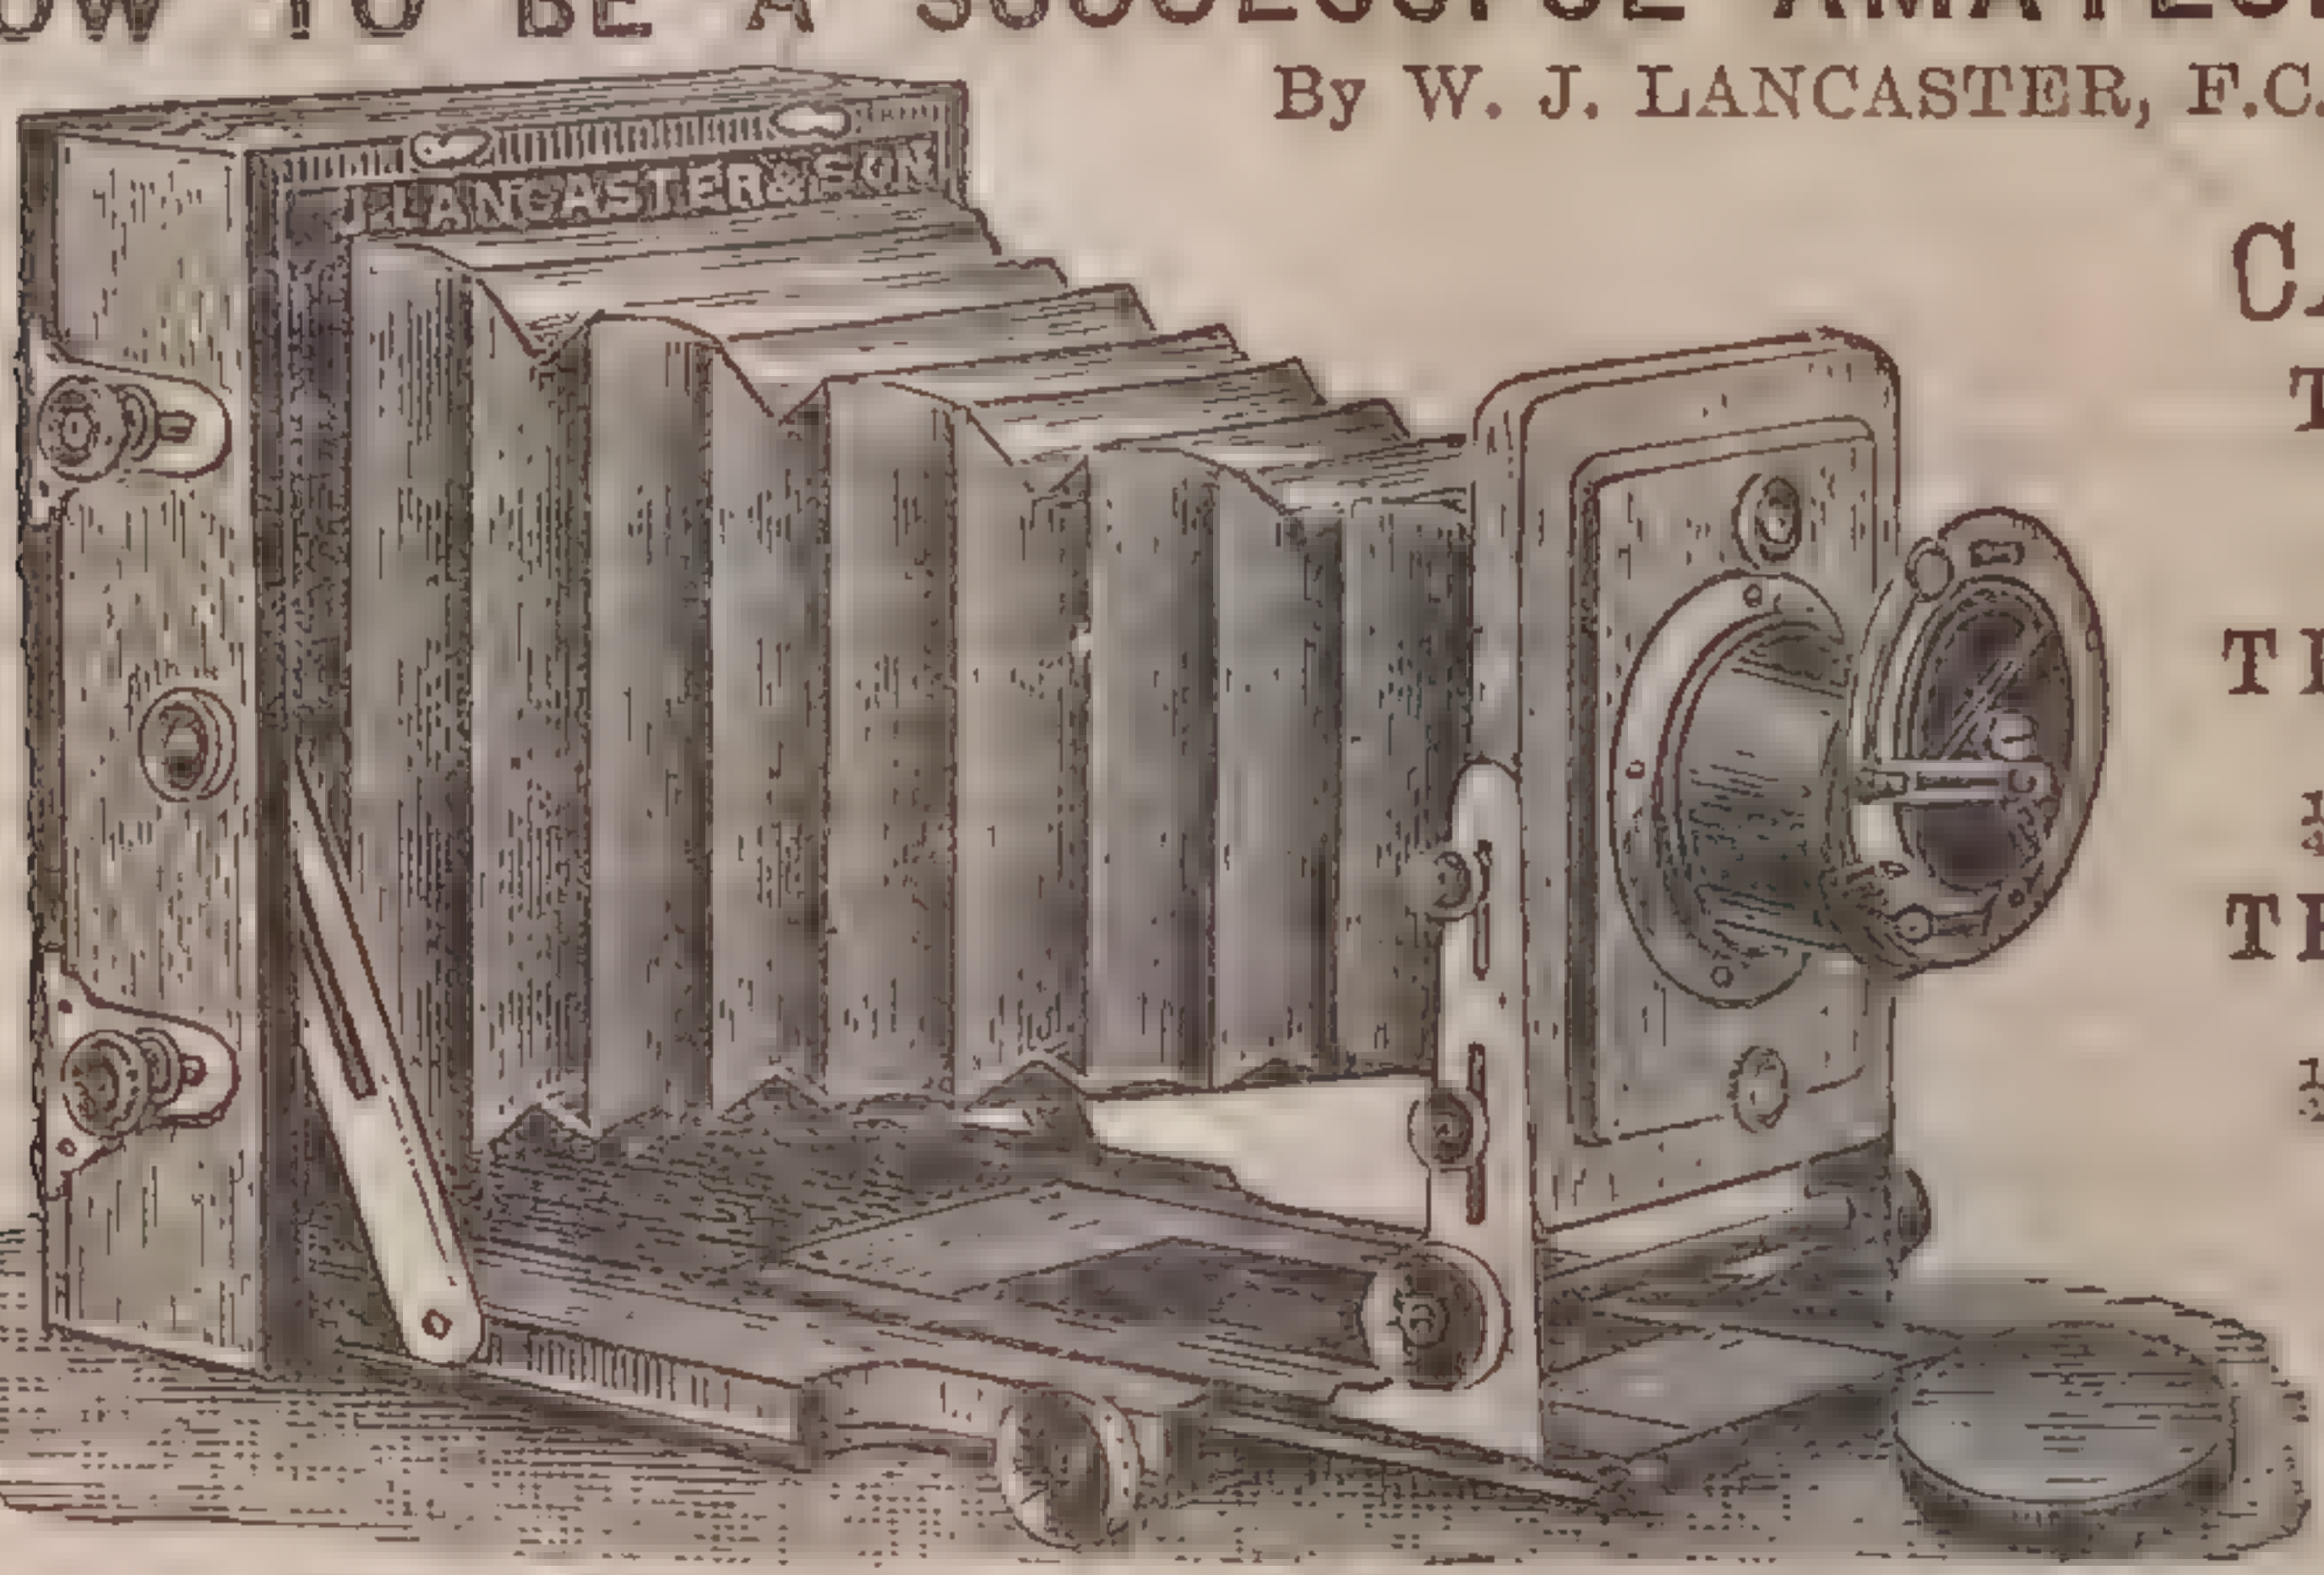
Note.—Cheques should always be crossed London and South-Western Bank. So also should Money Orders and Post Office Orders, the latter being payable only at the G.P.O.

J. LANCASTER & SON, OPTICIANS, BIRMINGHAM.

THE LARGEST MAKERS IN THE WORLD. OVER 35,000 SOLD.

"HOW TO BE A SUCCESSFUL AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHER,"
By W. J. LANCASTER, F.C.S., &c. 72 pp., 6 Stamps.



THE 1888 INSTANTOGRAPH (Patent).

CAMERA, LENS & STAND

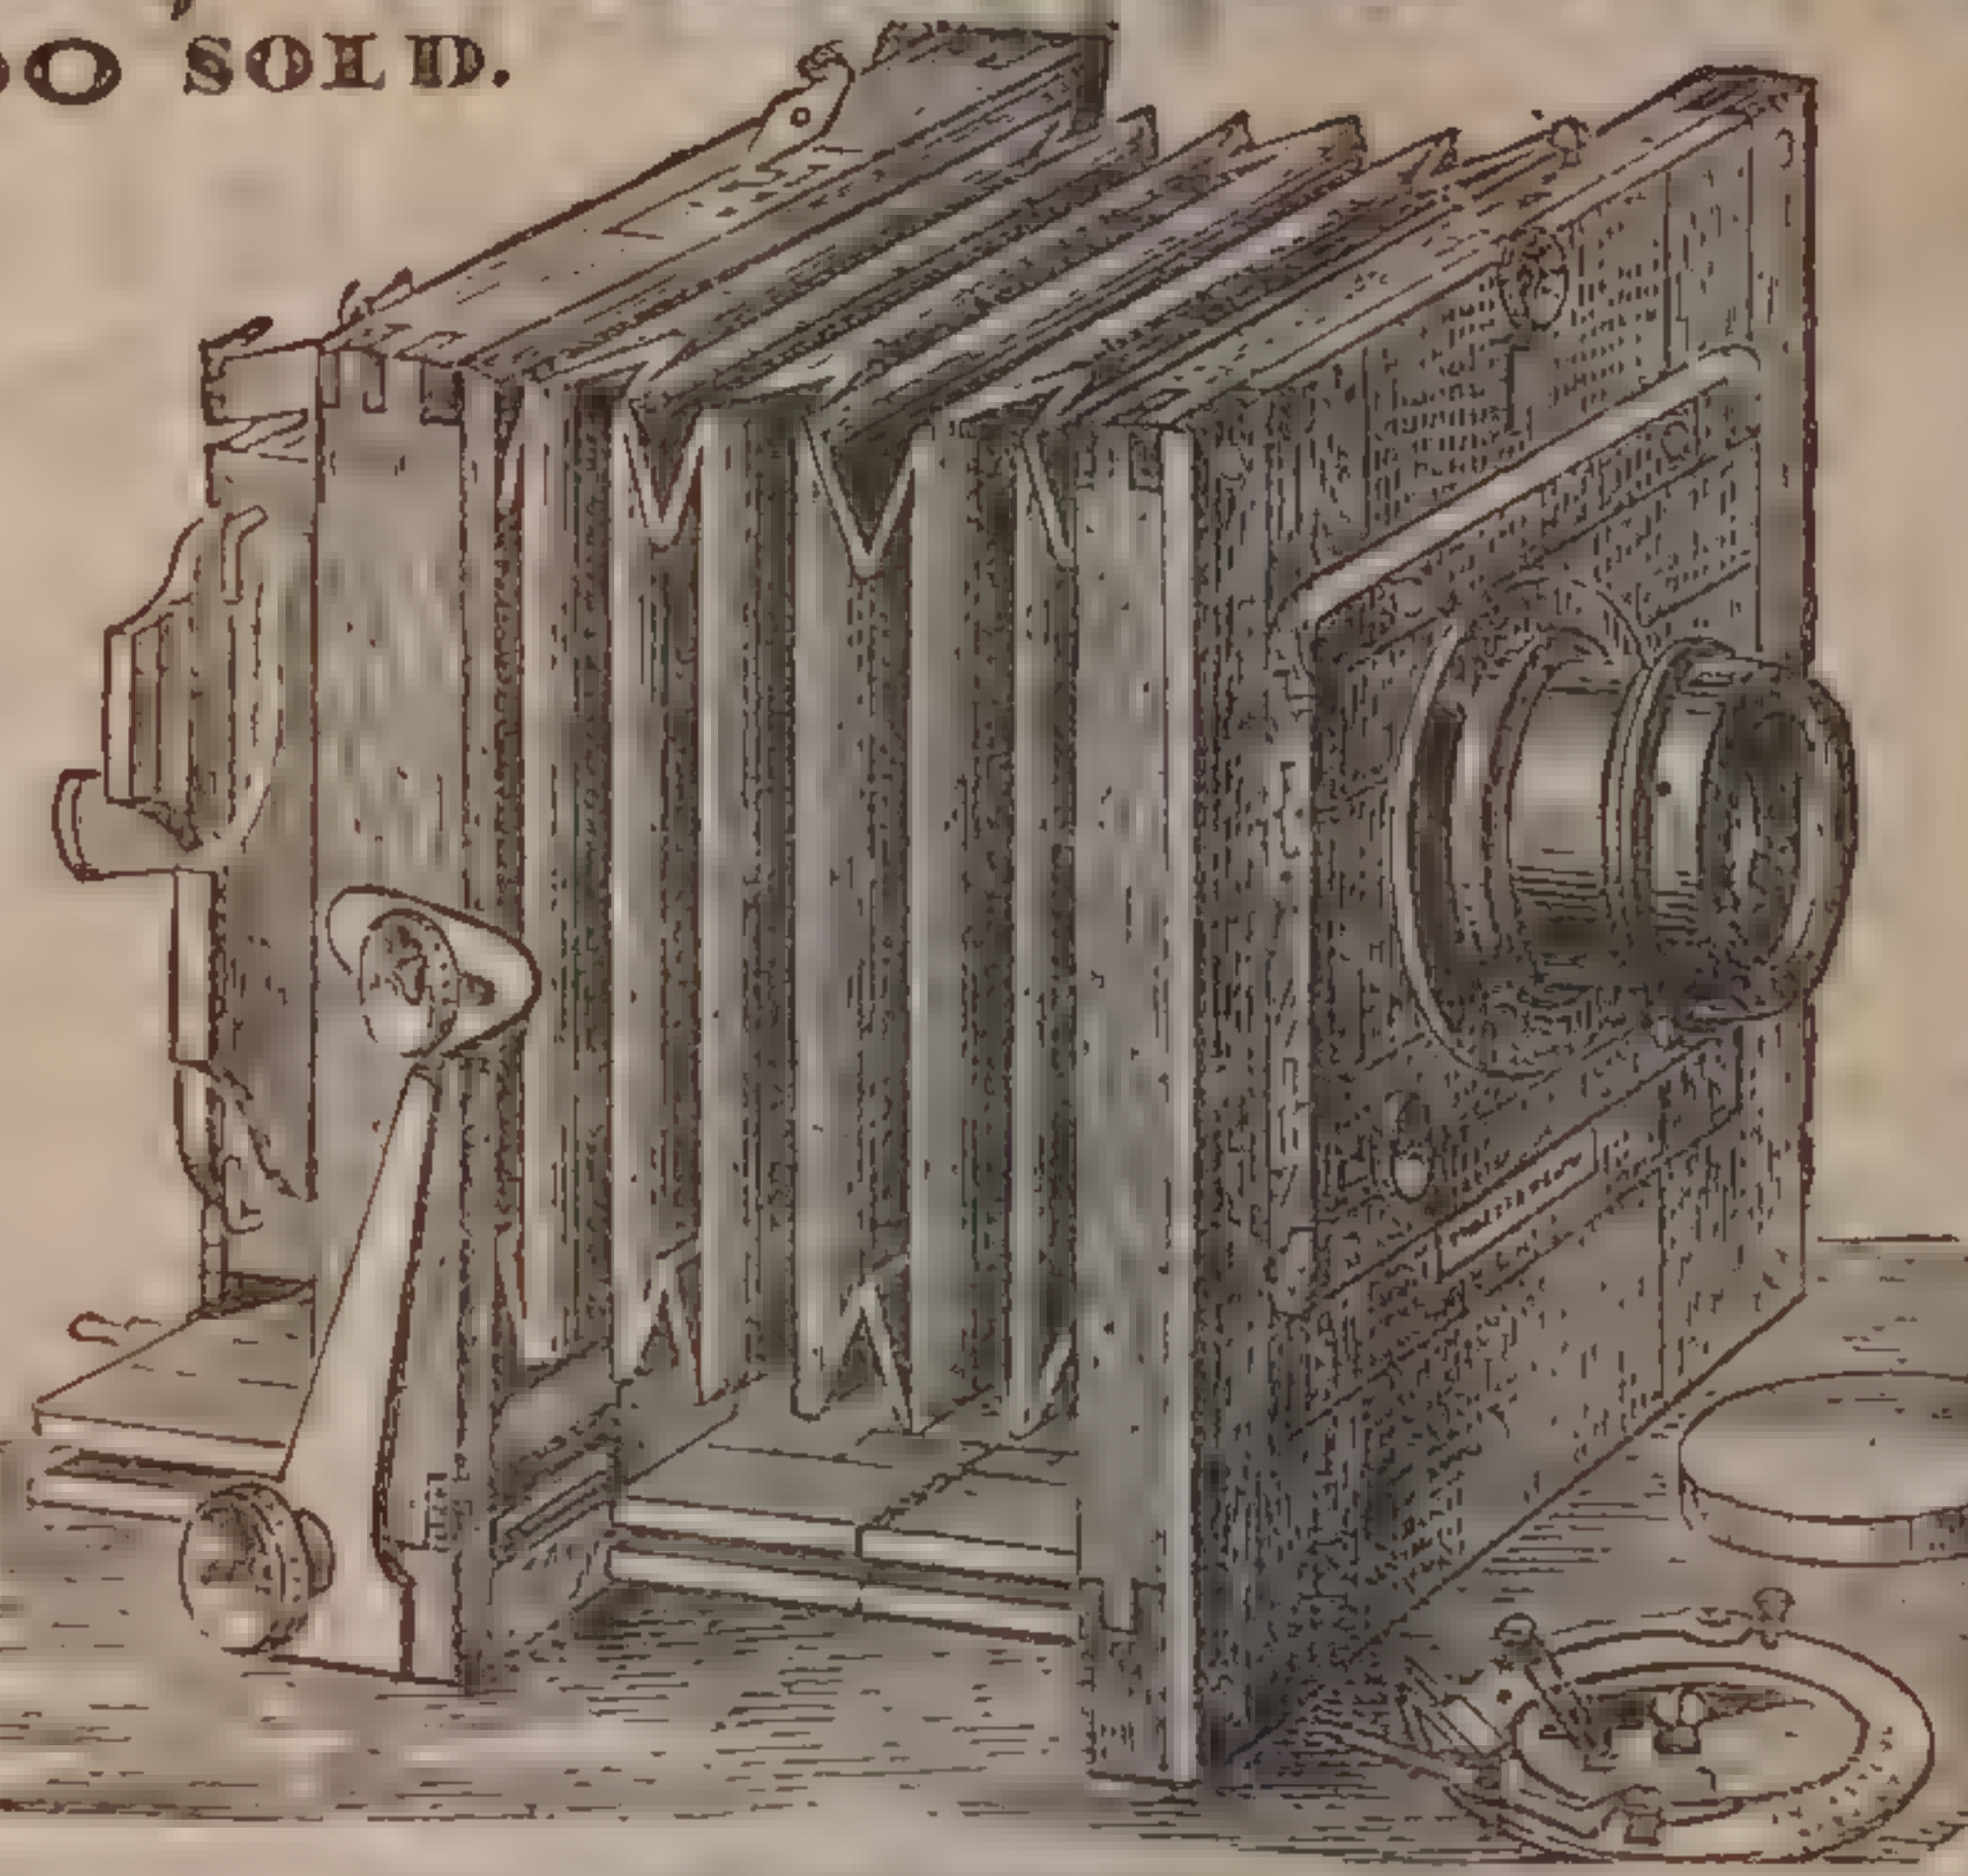
THE 1888 LE MERVEILLEUX
(PATENT),
¼ Pl., 21/-; ½ Pl., 42/-; 1-1 Pl., 63/-.

THE 1888 LE MERITOIRE
(PATENT),
¼ Pl., 31/6; ½ Pl., 63/-; 1-1 Pl., 90/-.

THE 1888 INSTANTOGRAPH
(PATENT),
¼ Pl., 42/-: ½ Pl., 84/-; 1-1 Pl., 126/-.

THE INTERNATIONAL
(PATENT),
¼ Pl., 50/-; ½ Pl., 100/-; 1-1 Pl., 150/-.

NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE,
FOUR STAMPS.



THE INTERNATIONAL (Patent).

BALDWIN & WALKER'S KNITTING AND FANCY WOOLS

TRADE-MARK REGISTERED

HIGHLAND WOOLS
FINGERING WOOLS
MERINO WOOLS
SHETLAND WOOLS
In Great Variety

Special makes for Machine Knitters
Prices and Patterns of which on Application.

SOLD BY ALL LEADING DRAPERS & HOSIERS.
If any difficulty is found in obtaining, apply to Manufacturers, who will gladly send address of nearest Retailer.

ESTABLISHED 1836 WEST CROFT MILLS, HALIFAX, YORKSHIRE.

GOLD MEDAL LIVERPOOL, 1886.

INDIAN MUSLIN.

Pure Cream-coloured Muslin (25 inches wide)
Washes well. Useful for

45 Yards for 6s. 6d.
Free per post on receipt of Postal Order.

DRESSES,
CURTAINS,
BLINDS,
DRAPERIES,
SHADING, &c.

90 Yards for 12s. 6d
Free per post o receipt of Pos tal Order

And in Colours. Much used for Decoration, Bazaars, Entertainments, &c. Beautiful Effects at a Small Cost. Novelties also in Useful and Fancy Fabrics for Dresses and Draperies.

Patterns and Prices Post Free.

JOHN KAY AND SONS, BURNLEY WOOD MILLS, BURNLEY.

"I always use Patent Tapes with the interwoven crosstapes. they never give way."
"I'll never use any more of these sewn tapes they are always giving way."

CARR'S PATENT TAPES

CAUTION.

Other and inferior makes of WOVEN LADDER WEBS are now being sold.

The ORIGINAL and BEST has the name "CARR'S" stamped on ONE cross-strap in every yard.

ASK FOR

CARR'S STAMPED LADDER WEB, and see that the name is there.

FOR VENETIAN BLINDS.

BEETHAM'S Glycerine & Cucumber.

Soon render the SKIN SOFT, SMOOTH, AND WHITE; entirely removes and prevents all ROUGHNESS, REDNESS, SUNBURN, TAN, &c., and preserves the SKIN from the effects of the Sun, Wind, or Hard Water, more effectually than any other preparation. No lady who values her complexion should ever be without it as it is INVALUABLE at all seasons for keeping the SKIN SOFT AND HEALTHY.

It is perfectly harmless, and may be applied to the skin of the tenderest infant.

Bottles, 1s., 1s. 9d., and 2s. 6d., of all Chemists; free for 3d. extra by the Sole Makers—M. BEETHAM & SON, Chemists, Cheltenham.

BY SPECIAL ROYAL AND IMPERIAL WARRANT!

Under the direct Patronage of HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN and the Royal Families of Europe.

FASHIONABLE DRESS MATERIALS
For Ladies, Children, and Gentlemen.

Unsurpassed for Beauty, Novelty, and Sterling Value.

Prices for Ladies—from 10½d. to 5s. 6d. per yd.

PATTERNS POST FREE.

REGISTERED.

Egerton Burnett's Royal Serges

REGISTERED.

NEW PATTERNS FOR SPRING, 1888.
Any Length of Material Sold.

Carriage Paid on Orders of £1 in value to any Railway Station in the United Kingdom.

Goods Packed for Exportation.

CAUTION—NO AGENTS. NO REPRESENTATIVES. NO BRANCHES.

Address—EGERTON BURNETT, Serge Warehouse, WELLINGTON, SOMERSET.

The Christian:

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

A Weekly Record of Christian Life, Christian Testimony, Christian Work and Missionary Enterprise.

No. 950.] LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS, E.C. FRIDAY, APRIL 13, 1888. REGISTERED AT THE G.P.O. AS A NEWSPAPER. [ONE PENNY. POST FREE, 1½d.

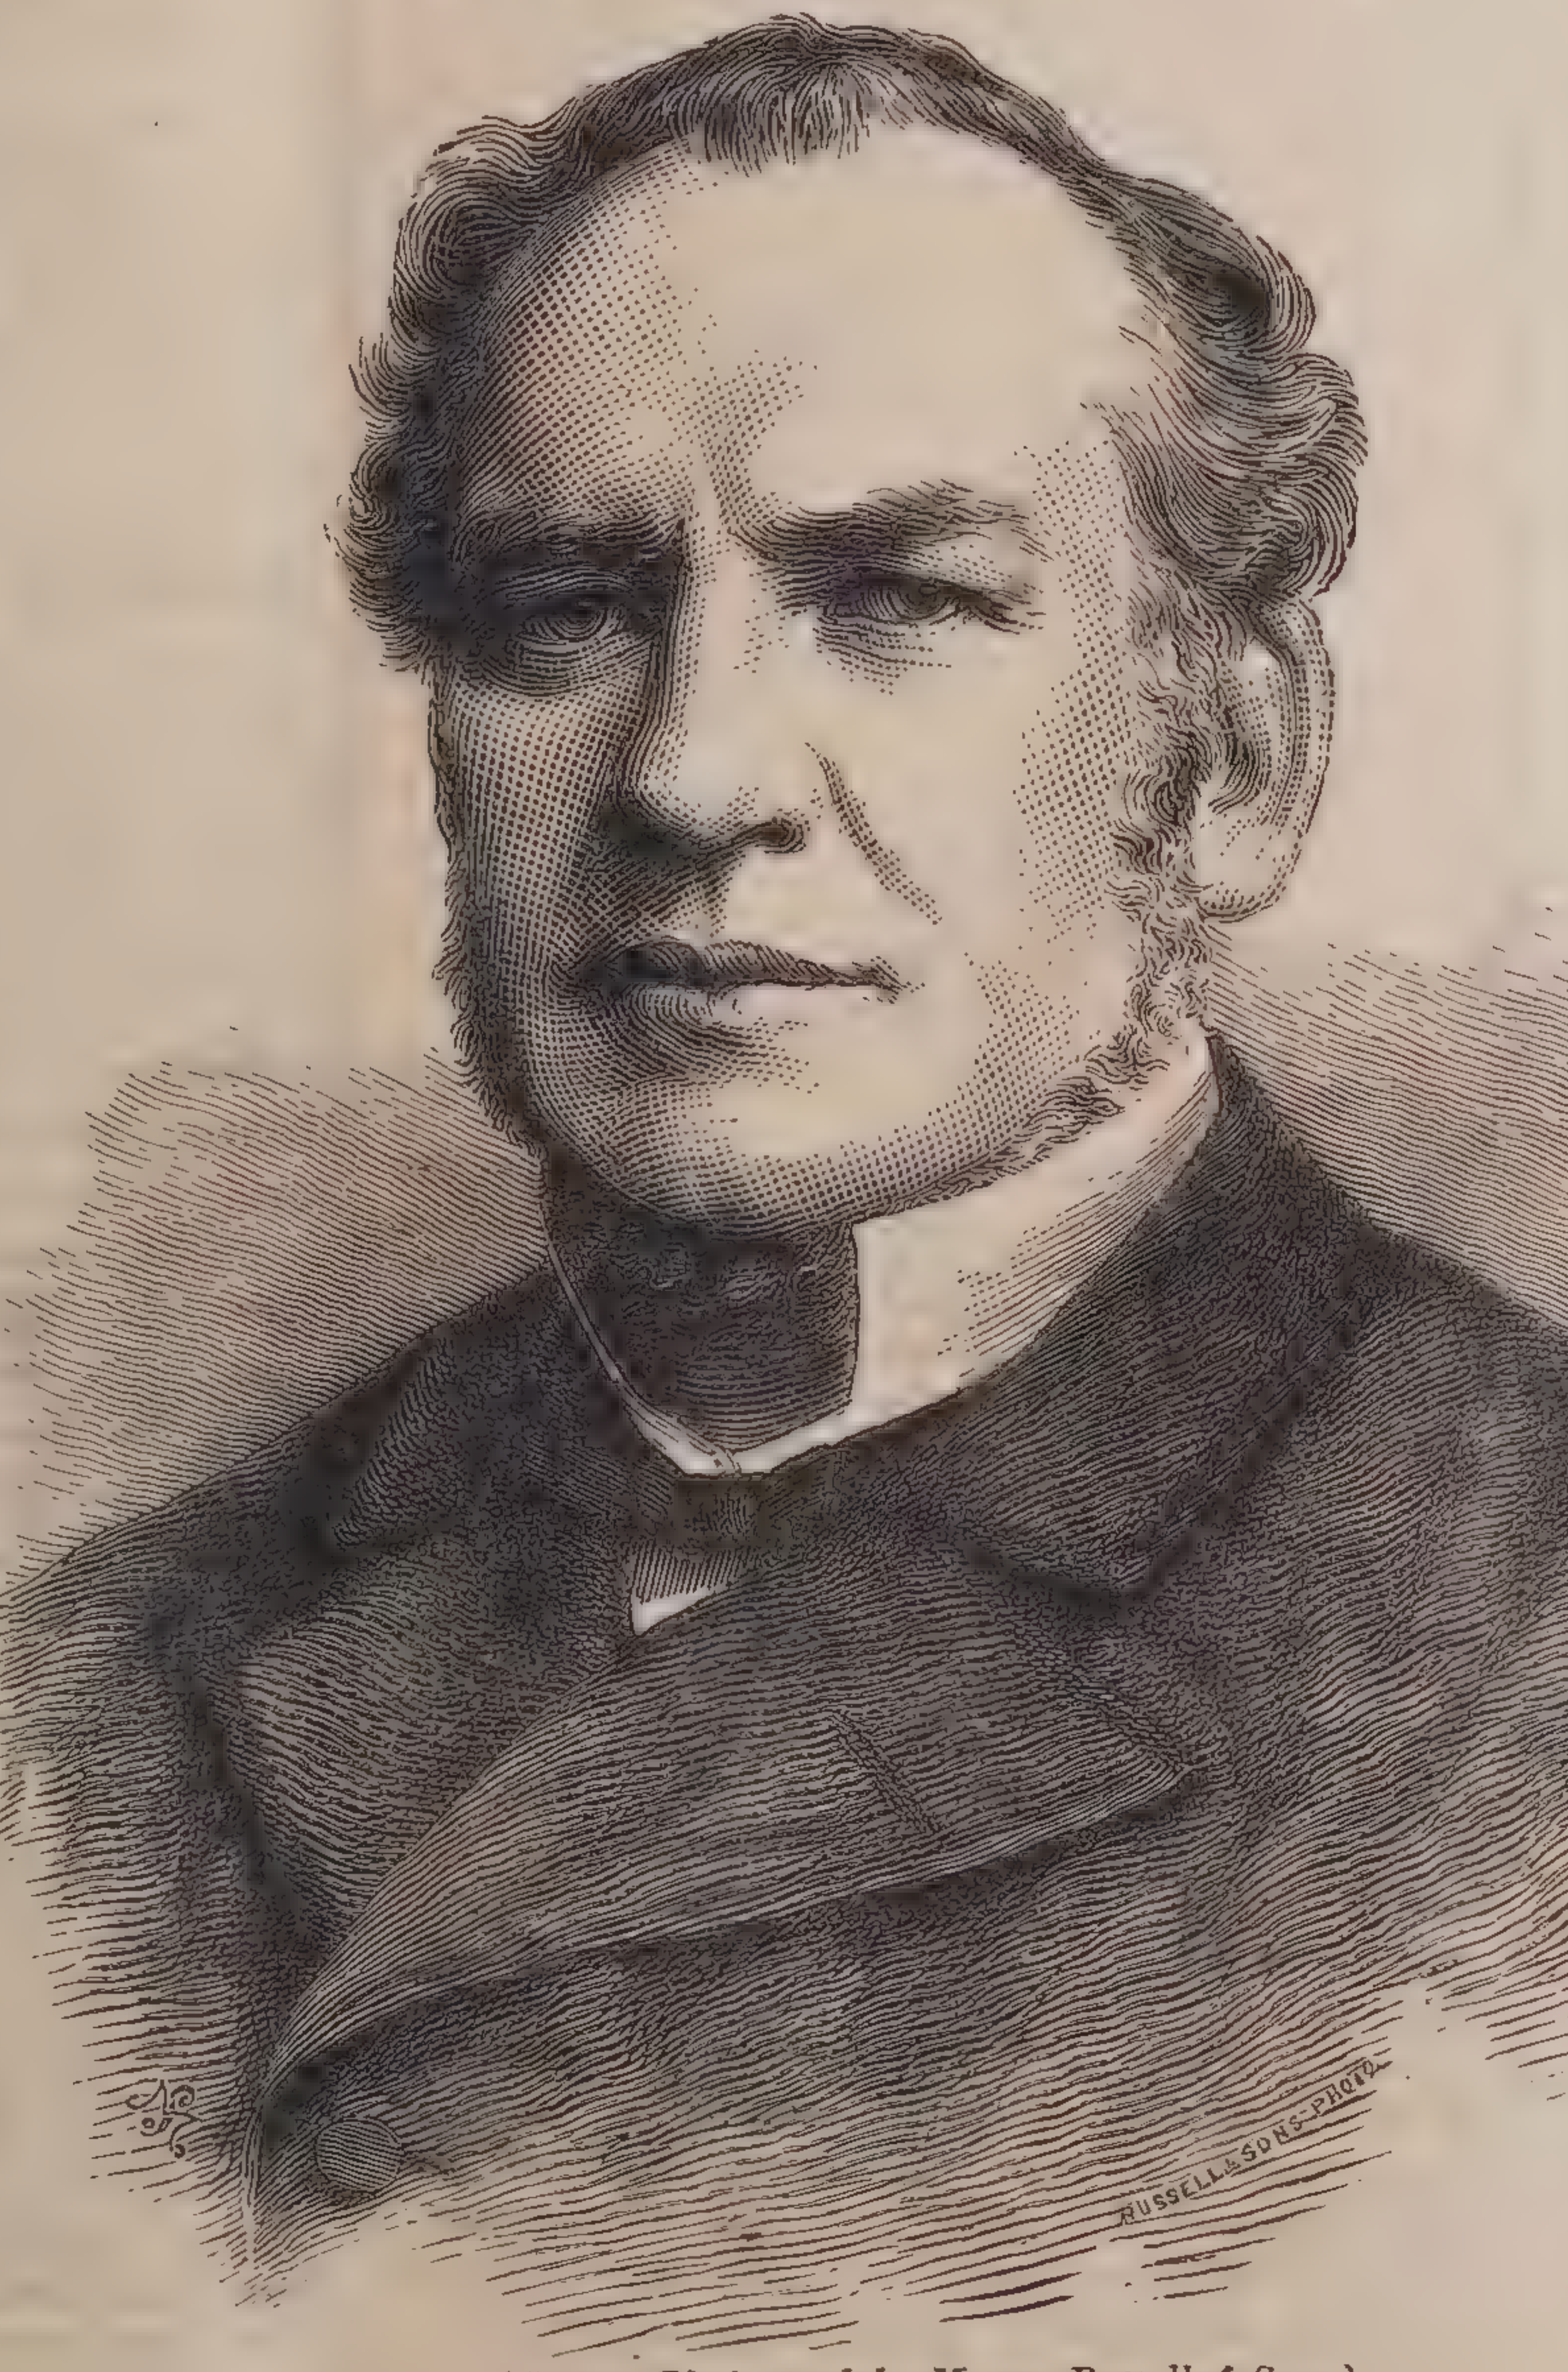
MR. HENRY VARLEY,

Evangelist.

ALL the world over, there are those who respect the name of HENRY VARLEY. People who know but little about the man readily class him among the plain and straight preachers of the Gospel; those who are better acquainted with Mr. Varley's life and work regard the well-beloved evangelist as one who always has the fear of God before his eyes, and the highest good of mankind very near his heart. Henry Varley's preaching may be defined as dealing emphatically with "righteousness, temperance, and judgment to come"; his life and practice are eloquent witnesses to the perfect sincerity of his profession. Whatever Mr. Varley does besides proclaiming the Gospel of the grace of God may be summed up in the statement that he never hesitates to rebuke sin; he is not afraid to denounce the vile man and the oppressor, and he rarely loses an opportunity to plead the cause of the wronged and helpless.

Born at Tattershall, in Lincolnshire, in 1835, Mr. Varley is now fifty-two years of age. In early life he received religious impressions which have never left him. His mother was a woman of considerable culture, having for some years been at the head of a large boarding school for young ladies. Her influence over the boy was as holy as it was powerful. Henry was still young when she died, but he has ever since cherished the memory of the happy hours during which he sat by her bedside, and read aloud her favourite hymns. School days were spent at Lincoln, and young Varley made his mark in two directions: he was quick at figures, and a capital elocutionist. These distinguishing powers of the boy have proved to be the distinguishing powers of the man.

Leaving school at about thirteen years of age, the lad went to London. One Sunday afternoon, while passing through Trafalgar-square in the course of a walk, he was accosted by Mr. J. W. Kirton, who was distributing tracts in connection with the Young Men's Christian Association. Placing a tract in the young man's hand, Mr. Kirton extended a cordial invitation to the Hon. and Rev. Baptist Noel's chapel in John-street, Bedford-row. The invitation was readily accepted, and lasting good resulted from that introduction to Christian influence and work in the great city. Instruction and light gained in the Sunday-school led to young Mr. Varley's conversion; and in 1853 he was baptized by Mr. Noel, and admitted as a member of the church.



(From a Photograph by Messrs. Russell & Sons.)

In the pursuit of business Mr. Varley soon afterwards went to Australia, but he returned to England in 1857, with the intention of preparing for the work of the ministry, with a view to settling in Australia. This purpose was not carried out. Having married a lady who has proved a true helpmeet to him, Mr. Varley determined to settle at Notting-hill, and combine Christian work with business. Success crowned his efforts; but he felt an irresistible impulse to devote himself wholly to preaching the Gospel. In business he was in a position of unquestionable disinterestedness from which to speak to men of business on religious subjects, and he often addressed faithful and loving words to the journeymen butchers of London. But all his efforts while he was engaged in business failed to convince him that he was doing his bounden duty.

Many give the end of their success to the Lord. Mr. Varley did not withhold the beginning of his prosperity. Efforts put forth in 1860 eventuated in the erection near Notting-hill of a place of worship capable of holding two thousand persons, and known as the West London Tabernacle. The cost of this building was met by Mr. Varley and his father-in-law. Mr. Varley's first savings in business, amounting to a considerable sum, were thus devoted to God.

After much earnest work in London, and answering many calls for help in various parts of the country, Mr. Varley began a series of visits to other lands. In 1875 he went to America, and preached with great acceptance and much blessing. It was not at all unusual to see twenty thousand people filling every seat in the Hippodrome, New York, on a Sunday evening. In the Association Hall, too, Mr. Varley's addresses attracted immense audiences, and drawing-room meetings were also held. The effect of his preaching was to kindle an enthusiasm in the breasts of the Christians of New York generally, which set hundreds of them seeking out their friends and relatives, and urging them to go and hear the Gospel.

About a hundred ministers met him at the close of the month which he had engaged to spend in the city, and begged him to remain at least another month, while, at the same time, from Boston and Philadelphia the cry came, "Come over and help us."

Immense audiences everywhere attended throughout America at his various addresses, which the Rev. Theodore Cuyler said were delivered "in familiar, John Bunyan-like English, and which held the large congregation as tight as in a vice." It is believed that immense good resulted from his unceasing efforts, especially in New York and Boston. For seven weeks in the former city he held meetings six days each week, always twice a day, and often three times. Hundreds of people were converted, and the churches confirmed in the faith. Before returning to England, Mr. Varley accepted an urgent invitation to visit Canada. He was received as a man greatly beloved, and the character of his work is clear from the following sentences written at the time by a Canadian correspondent:—"Our brother Henry Varley and his dear wife have come to us in the fulness of the Gospel of Jesus, having been greatly blessed at Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston, and Belleville to the salvation of many souls. Already this country has beheld what God can do by a man wholly surrendered. Aldermen, professors, merchants, drunkards, young and old, educated, unlearned, are daily testifying of the wondrous love of Jesus. Christians have been led to realise the riches of their inheritance, and awake out of the death-like sleep growing out of mere formalism and ceremonialism."

Returned to England, consecrated anew to his work, Mr. Varley was instrumental of increased good, and the West London Tabernacle was the centre of more fruitful effort than formerly. Among the agencies which sprang into existence were an "Industrial Home for the Blind," and the well-known organisation for evangelisation among the butchers of Smithfield Market. Year after year Mr. Spurgeon has lent his Tabernacle for the annual meeting of this mission, when a powerful testimony has been borne to the reality of Mr. Varley's work, and the greatness of his influence among the "market men."

In 1877 our friend visited Australia, and extended his travels to Tasmania and New Zealand. Hundreds of persons came forward and confessed Christ, and Mr. Varley came home much cheered to resume his pastoral and evangelistic duties. He soon realised, however, that pressing evangelistic work stood in the way of giving due attention to the pastor's duties; he therefore resigned the pastorate, in order that he might be at liberty to give himself exclusively to proclaiming the Gospel. To the deep sorrow of the church (Baptist) worshipping in the West London Tabernacle, the resignation took effect in 1882, and since that time Mr. Varley has devoted himself to evangelisation, paying especial attention to the work of promoting social purity.

This is a branch of work in which Mr. Varley has done yeoman service. With tongue and pen he has laboured mightily to enlarge the membership of the White Cross Society. His lectures "to men only" have been listened to by hundreds of thousands; his pamphlets also have reached a wide circulation, and thus, it is known, many have been warned of evil while there was still place for repentance. God has blessed the plain and solemn words spoken and written, and men have been thankful as well. In proof of this it may be stated that about 15,000 letters have been received from time to time thanking Mr. Varley for delivering his lectures.

Mr. Varley is content to be known as a "lay evangelist." Though he has no "charge," he has a world-wide interest and sympathy. In 1884 he paid a second visit to America. In every place he visited his fame had preceded him, and the buildings in which he spoke were crowded to their utmost capacity. Last year Mr. Varley made a call at the Cape on the way to Australasia for a second time. This journey has also been made for the glory of God and the good of men; the Word has been preached with power, and has been attended by much encouragement.

In a private letter, written recently from Melbourne, Mr. Varley says:—

> I have received a most hearty welcome to the city on the part of a large number of the Lord's people, and in every direction I come in contact with testimonies as to the blessed work done when we were here ten years since. One gentleman told me that he visited one locality, where there are 1500 families, and to this day he is constantly meeting with those who were brought to Christ, or were graciously helped in their spiritual life. A very interesting case occurred the other day. A Christian doctor (whom I met in Dublin some years since) was called in for consultation in regard to a gentleman who was dying. There was no cure, but he alleviated his suffering, and then began to speak of eternal things, when the sufferer said, "Oh! I thank God I was brought to Christ when Mr. Henry Varley was in Melbourne. I was saved in the Town Hall." "Yes," rejoined the doctor, "so was I." Another young man came to see me. He said, "At the last meeting you held in Prahram Town Hall I was brought to Christ. My brother and two sisters also were saved, and we four have been working for the Lord since (now ten years ago) in one of the suburbs."

Biblical exposition is, in Mr. Varley's belief, a desideratum in these days. There is, he holds, no better way of moving an audience in the right direction than by making the Word of God thoroughly understood. A passage of Scripture clearly explained, has a better influence than the best "original" thought and the most brilliant eloquence of the preacher. Of course such methods do not suit men who are mainly anxious to attain a great reputation; but preachers who have no concern about themselves, and are anxious only to save souls, may profit from Mr. Varley's experience, which is, that there is no surer means of obtaining the Holy Spirit's blessing than by an exposition of the Word. Mr. Varley is a fervent believer in the speedy coming of the Lord. This is one of the deepest convictions of his heart, and the effect of it upon him is that it gives a solemn yet gladsome glow of feeling to all his words upon any subject. He has recently written a deeply interesting volume on this great theme, entitled "Christ's Coming Kingdom."

PRISONERS OF HOPE.

"He whom Thou lovest is sick."—John xi. 3.

Sufferer, art thou sad and weary,
At the lot appointed thee;
Doth it seem all dark and dreary
Thus a prisoner to be?
Yet these cords around thee thrown
Are the bands of love, alone.

Mourner, Jesus knows thy sorrow;
Chose it; and to thee will bring
Hidden treasures for the morrow
From the depths of suffering;
Prisoner, yes, of Hope, art thou—
Hope, clear-shining even now.

Thou shalt read it all in glory:
How this mystery of love
Made thy life a brighter story,
Brighter, in the light above;
Jesus loves thee, therefore rest,
Trustfully upon His breast.

Jesus watch o'er thee is keeping,
Jesus who is still the same;
"Jesus wept"—with sad ones weeping,
And He knows thy feeble frame.
Lean on Him, and rest thee so,
While the tears of sorrow flow.

'Tis an offering He receiveth
From thy loving heart to Him;
Blessed is he who believeth
'Mid the shadows thick and dim;
For to trust Him, and be still,
Is the service of his will.

J. H. S.

MORNING STAR MISSION, NATAL.

The following incident, extracted from Mrs. Aitchieson's last letter, written from Ikwesi, Lamaci, gives an idea of the native customs:—

"A heathen near us insisted upon his daughter of eighteen marrying a man of forty in Pondoland, against her will. Twice he has taken her there, and received ten head of cattle for her; the last time he tied her hands and neck with an oxhide rope, telling the people to keep her there until she submitted. During the night, however, she escaped, and walked by moonlight until she recognised our hill-top; then she travelled round by the Magali Chief Umpequa (this is the chief who asks for a school); he was kind to her, and sent her on to us. My husband went with her to the magistrate; she told her story in court, and the father is to be severely punished, for it is against the law to enforce any marriage against the girl's wishes. To make the matter more aggravating, her father is a paid court official—paid to enforce this law. It shows how little the heathen regard our authority, when native custom comes in the way. Although this poor girl is now free, she must return to her father's house, and there, I know, she will be persecuted most unmercifully. We can do nothing more in the case, but we know that such matters in marriage constantly occur. Few are brave enough, however, to tell and bear the consequences; just one girl now and then rises above the horrible superstition of old rules and rites."

Mrs. Aitchieson also writes:—"I am looking forward to being able to do something towards the girls' boarding-school this year, and shall be glad to hear from anyone who is in the slightest degree interested in this undertaking."

A letter since received from Mr. Aitchieson expresses thanks to all who have sent him funds, and adds: "We intend sending two lads—the first who grounded their arms at Jesus's feet—to the American Mission College on the coast, to be trained for teaching and preaching."

MR. CAINE and SINGAPORE MISSIONS.

Dear Sir,—I notice you call attention in The Christian of Feb. 3 to Mr. W. S. Caine's letter about missions. But Mr. Caine is, unfortunately, very inaccurate in his facts and figures, even with the help of the "Blue Book of 1886," and has mixed these up so that it would be easy to find flaws in them. Still, there is a great deal of truth in what he says, even though he only "came on Saturday and left on Monday." No one, if he be a thoughtful man, can be here many hours without observing that "the heathen (and he should have added the Mohammedans) of the Straits Settlements are not troubled by missionary zeal."

There are various causes for this, but principally, as far as Christians are concerned, the fact that since the opening of China, about 1840, all the Protestant missionaries were withdrawn from this British colony—Singapore, Penang, and Malacca, as it was in those days—and sent to China. Thus we literally passed by the heathen at our doors, under the British flag, where there was every facility for doing effective work, and went on to "the ends of the earth," where to this day it is exceedingly difficult to carry on operations, especially in renting chapels and building houses. My heart is in China, I work for the Chinese here, but still I cannot help seeing we made a mistake.

The Romanists were not so foolish; they remained here in full force, and have gone on from strength to strength. They are now strong, and make a great show; continually living in the public gaze, with their "Sisters" in the Government hospitals, they commend themselves to not a few. At the same time, by their numbers, their influence in high places, and their wealth (for they own much valuable local property in houses and lands) they display great energy in schools and convents, churches and chapels, and may be seen everywhere.

But what Mr. Caine says about the Presbyterians is not correct. They are not neglectful of missions. For twenty years a catechist was employed by them more or less. About 1860, Tau See Boo and Rev. Alex. Grant were sent down by them. But, as these friends soon after became "Brethren," the plan for a Chinese Mission was upset for the time. The local congregation now gives from 700 to 1000 dols. every year towards the Chinese Mission, which has only been under the care of the English Presbyterians since 1882, during which time only one man has been here, and not two, as Mr. Caine supposes. During the past five years, in connection with this Mission alone, 51 adults have been baptized, and 81 received from China and elsewhere. After all deductions, the membership is now 107 adults and 43 children. These people in 1886 gave 659 dols. for mission purposes, and last year they gave quite as much. So things are not altogether what they seem. The "four rooms" are good-sized chapels, three of them built these last two years, towards which the Chinese Christians gave more than 600 dols. Missions here are not a failure in proportion to the effort expended.

But I confess the Christian Church is simply "playing at missions" here. Were it not so solemn, with all its momentous issues for time and eternity, it would be "ridiculous" to throw down one or two men among the one million and a quarter of souls in the Malay Peninsula, two-thirds of whom can be easily reached from Singapore, and expect any great results from such a course. Will you believe it, when I tell you, that the Straits Settlements have been practically unworked for forty years? From 1847 to 1877, Mr. B. P. Keacherry was alone in Malay work, "unconnected," and self-supporting. From about 1860 to 1884, Mr. Alexander Grant was alone in Chinese work, "unconnected," and very badly supported. There were besides several S.P.G. catechists and other natives employed. From 1843 there has been a Chinese girls' school in connection with the Church of England, now, since 1853, under the care of Miss S. Cooke. Mr. P. J. Hocquard, an unconnected worker, has been here since 1880, and similarly Mr. Macdonald used to work in Penang, but has gone to Australia, and came here in 1882, after a year in China, and I have been alone until a few months ago, when Miss McMahon came out to join our mission here. Also Mr. J. Haffenden, of the British and Foreign Bible Society, since 1882.

These are all the Protestant missionaries, who have been at work in the Straits Settlements since 1847, until about three years ago, the Indian Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church of America sent a man, and he (Rev. W. F. Oldham) was alone also, until a few months ago. He is now joined by other workers, Mr. and Mrs. Munson, Dr. and Mrs. West, and Miss Blackmore, besides teachers in his Anglo-Chinese school. The S.P.G. men are largely employed in English work, but employ catechists for the natives, a most unsatisfactory way of working, unless the missionary knows the languages himself, and is constantly superintending. There is only one S.P.G. man in Singapore, and one or two for Penang and Perak. The Anglicans here are "high" and exclusive, repudiating the good, honest term "Protestant," and what it implies. "So much for Protestant zeal for the conversion of our heathen fellow-subjects in the Straits Settlements."

Mr. Caine is wrong in his statement and inferences about the Eurasians. He is altogether too strong on this point. As for the spurious "specimens of Christianity" we have them here, as you have them at home, plenty of them; but these are not "products of the religion of Christ." They are heathen, as much as the Chinese or Malays. But it is sadly true that the revenue is chiefly drawn "from the encouraged vices and degradation of the population." The Mohammedan chiefs draw their revenue too from opium and drink, with the addition of gambling. But they learnt these enlightened (!) ways from us, and not from the Koran. The policy which leads to such is not of Christ, but mammon. So let us distinguish between things that differ. The British Government is only "Christian" in so far as we, as a nation, obey Christ, and surely He is not responsible for our national action in the opium curse, the drink traffic, and our social impurity.

Let friends or enemies give us the facts, bad as they are, and then let us set to work in God's name to remove, as far as possible, the reproach from the name and the Church of Christ.

J. A. B. Cook.

English Presbyterian Mission, Singapore.

PROTESTANT MISSIONS IN SINGAPORE.

Another correspondent in Singapore sends us the following "naked facts" respecting missions there:—

There are a chapel and school in connection with the English Church for Chinese, Indian, and other heathen and Mohammedan people, to be found here, in charge of Rev. W. Gomes, who is working hard amongst the people.

The English Presbyterian Mission for the Chinese is in charge of Rev. J. A. B. Cook, who has already established three small churches, the Chinese contributing largely toward the buildings. The Lord is richly blessing the earnest work of Mr. and Mrs. Cook and Miss McMahon.

The American Methodist Episcopal Mission is in charge of Rev. W. F. Oldham and Mrs. Oldham, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Munson, Dr. and Mrs. West, and Miss Blackmore. A very large school for Chinese boys, school and service for Tamils, and a church where people of all nations meet—a wonderfully prosperous and blessed mission.

There is another mission for the Chinese belonging to the Female Education Society, in charge of Miss Cooke, assisted by Miss Ryan, consisting of a boarding-school with forty pupils. Six young women have been trained up in the school as teachers, and are working amongst the heathen, and others as Bible-women. Married women also brought up in this school are working amongst their country-women. Miss Cooke also works amongst English soldiers, sailors, policemen, and in the General Hospital, where people of all European nations meet.

The prison is visited by different clergy, missionaries and catechists, so that through the permission of Major Grey, every creature in the prison can hear the Gospel in his own tongue. The difficulty caused by the many different dialects of the Chinese is met by the different catechists. Indians and Malays are all provided for there.

True, more labourers are wanted; but we trust it may be said of those who are working that they are doing their utmost to promote the cause of Christ amongst the heathen and their own country people.

◆

MR. S. WALTON AT WOOLWICH.

Our hearts are full of praise for the blessed mission which has just been held in our Soldiers' Home by Mr. Spencer Walton. God was of a truth among us. Old and young soldiers were bowed down under a deep sense of sin, and went down on their knees before their comrades, seeking for pardon and peace. Many of these were men who had been attending the Home for some time past, in whose heart we believe the seed was sown, and Mr. Walton had the joy of bringing them to the point of decision for Christ.

We never had a more fruitful mission, which was evidenced on the last day at the praise-meeting, where a very great number stood up to testify to having received special blessing. Mr. Walton will be long remembered by the soldiers. Many of these will soon be leaving this garrison for other stations, and we trust will be themselves messengers for Christ.

Many civilians who attended the meetings will also have to thank God for his faithful and heart-searching words, as in some cases whole families were blessed.

Margaret Dent.

EMIGRANTS' INFORMATION OFFICE.—This quarter's circulars, relating to Canada, the Australasian and South African Colonies, have just been issued by this Office, under the supervision of the Colonial Office; and a poster, giving a summary, is exhibited in every Post-office. Queensland grants free passages to female servants and selected agricultural labourers. Western Australia, Queensland, and Canada grant assisted passages, and the two former and Natal nominated passages at reduced rates—mainly to female servants and agriculturists. Farmers with capital, and female servants, are wanted in all the Colonies; and agricultural labourers in Canada, New South Wales, Victoria, Queensland, Tasmania, and New Zealand; while mechanics and general labourers are only in demand in very few localities. Intending emigrants are invited to write to the Office as to the arrangements (if any) which are made by Colonial Governments, and in some cases by private committees and individuals in the Colonies, for the reception and assistance of emigrants on landing. The circulars may be obtained, free of cost, from the Office, 31, Broadway, Westminster, S.W.; and ten separate Handbooks, with maps (one for each Colony), at 1d. each, post free.

THE INSPIRATION OF THE BIBLE.*

In calling attention to Mr. Horton's work on "Inspiration and the Bible," we cannot but say that it is a book of the age. Every page of it bears the trace of the unquestioning faith which the writer has in the infallibility of the modern school of criticism. Wherever this school leads, Mr. Horton is content to follow. The preface shows us what we have to expect in the work itself. There the author takes as his guiding star the principle that the scepticism or unbelief of the school of higher criticism need not deter us from availing ourselves of the results of their scholarly research, any more than a builder need hesitate in the employment of masons who are freethinkers in the building of a church. The objection, however, to this reasoning is obvious and cogent. The Bible, as a spiritual book, can only be understood through the lens of spiritual perception. Hence, while freethinkers may competently engage in piling on brick and mortar, it does not follow that their culture or scholarship entitles them to adjudicate on the Inspiration of the Bible.

We also demur to what Mr. Horton calls his inductive method of determining the nature of Inspiration and the extent to which the Holy Scriptures are inspired. Such a method requires for success an infallible judgment. But we cannot build on man. Even the school of the higher critics have not all things revealed to them; indeed the deep things may be hid from them and revealed to babes. The inductive inquiry ensures no certain finding. On that line of things, Inspiration is just as much as the individual inquirer may arrive at through the application of such scholarly tests or otherwise as may seem to him sufficient. How much better to ascertain the estimate which the Scriptures put upon themselves; to note the claim which Scripture makes in in its own behalf; and furthermore to be guided in our judgment of God's Book by our Lord's attitude towards it.

Our readers will be anxious to know some of the results that accrue from Mr. Horton's application of the inductive method in dependence on German Rationalism. Briefly summed up, the loss sustained is enormous. It is as if a mine of gold by repute had been found on examination to be but tin. "An inspired writing," says the author, "reminds one of a fabric of cloth of gold, which reflects the light of heaven, and renders to the patient observer the unmistakable design which is wrought on it; but when the warp and the weft are more carefully examined, the strands into which the design is worked are seen to be anything but gold." The fact is, if we are to endorse the conclusions of this book, the Bible teems with inaccuracies. It is spotted all over with mistakes and contradictions. The inspired material, or what was held to be such, is seen on examination to be "anything but gold"—mere human tissue. And yet we are expected to believe that it is by such admissions as these that the Bible is to conquer the scepticism that at present is rampant among the artisan classes. May we not as well expect that, by destroying the authority of law, criminals will fall in with virtuous ways?

According to our author, the inspired writers are all faulty, all fallible, all exponents of "the human and limited," as well as of the absolute and Divine. St. Paul he regards as mistaken when he said, "He saith not, And to seeds, as of many; but as of one, And to thy Seed, which is Christ" (Gal. iii. 16). In this verse we are told Paul shows "a trace of his Rabbinical learning." The magnificent allegory, too, so rich in spiritual teaching, recorded in Gal. iv. 21—31, is ruled out, as expressive only of "the human and limited" in the great Apostle of the Gentiles. But we cannot indicate in the space at our disposal a tithe of the strange things which the Inductive method is supposed to bring to light. We learn, though not an atom of proof is submitted in support of it, that the Epistle to the Hebrews "is an apologetic writing, which aims at conciliating the Jews whom Paul had exasperated." And worse than all, in our judgment, the New Testament is disqualified from being a standard of appeal in matters of doctrine. "It is a matter for mirth," Mr. Horton says, "to the unbeliever to point to Christian thinkers drawing their different and contradictory theologies from the same very limited set of sacred writings."

> This is the book where each his dogmas seeks;
> Each finds the book his own pet dogma speaks.

And where, we ask, if God's precious Word be denied us, are we to find the ground or warrant of doctrinal belief at all? Mr. Horton deprecates all doctrinal discussion, and smiles at the idea of the New Testament determining the question as between the universalist, the annihilationist, or the orthodox, &c. But if there be no standard of belief, preaching becomes a beating of the air, and any action with a view to conversion an impertinence.

---

* Inspiration and the Bible. By Rev. Robert F. Horton, M.A. 6s. T. Fisher Unwin.

◆

RATCLIFF STRANGERS' REST.

The Easter Monday Bank Holiday afforded an opportunity for the workers to provide a counter attraction to those of the Highway. Accordingly, about 150 sailors were invited to tea; the men remained to a meeting presided over by Mr. Robert Paton. Several Christian men gave very interesting and stirring testimonies, describing their conversion to God, and the power of Christ to keep. Several lingered at the close, when the workers dealt with them individually.

The monthly workers' meeting on Friday last was presided over by Mr. J. Jackson. Mr. Isaac gave a most encouraging account of the work, and pleaded for more helpers amongst the Scandinavian seamen on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Saturdays. Friends who can play the harmonium will be welcome, and those who can speak the language doubly so. Helpers are also needed for the Lads' Institute, which could be opened seven nights a week instead of three, if workers were forthcoming.

Rev. J. T. Briscoe, of Rye-lane, Peckham, gave a pointed and practical address on "Secrets of Power," specially dwelling on individual conversion, personal conviction, full consecration, and plodding perseverance. Mr. George Studd, recently returned from China, also gave interesting testimony of work in that far-off land; and, after a season of prayer, a profitable meeting was brought to a conclusion.

Y.M.C.A., 112, BROMPTON-ROAD, S.W.—The thirty-second annual meeting of this branch was recently held. The report presented by the secretary, Mr. F. H. Ardley, was very encouraging. During the year a good number of young men were brought to a knowledge of the truth, and the efforts of the workers have altogether been much blessed.

Y.W.C.A., BATTERSEA PARK.—The members of this branch met to celebrate their first anniversary on March 1, at 11, Victoria-road Rooms of the Association. At a meeting for members and friends, Mrs. Heale gave a satisfactory account of the work of the branch. Miss Bamber, of Tryon-house, Chelsea (who inaugurated the branch last year) gave an earnest address on Matt. v. 13. Prayer is asked for greater spiritual blessing. Workers and funds are greatly needed to carry on the work in this poor district. A. Jupp, Sec.

MANCHESTER BOYS' AND GIRLS' REFUGES.

The friends of the Boys' and Girls' Refuges, says The Manchester Guardian, are endeavouring to raise a special fund of about £5000 for the extension and consolidation of the work of that institution in its various departments. It is found desirable to bring the Working Boys' Homes nearer to the Central Refuge than they are at present, and in doing so an opportunity will occur for their consolidation. A Lads' Club is greatly needed, and would enable the managers to retain a friendly hold and beneficial influence over those who, from time to time, leave the institution to make their own way in the world. There are some crippled children in the Homes already, and more applying for admission have had to be refused. The establishment of a Home for these little unfortunates is a work of mercy which the managers desire to see accomplished.

The proximity of the Refuge to Strangeways Gaol has suggested the establishment of the Prison Gate Mission. In the five months of its existence 3889 prisoners have voluntarily come to the room, the pledge of total abstinence has been administered to 868 persons, and a number of young girls have been restored to their friends or placed in Homes, and so, it may be hoped, preserved from further crime and degradation. There are some 20,000 prisoners discharged yearly from Strangeways Prison, and most of these pass the doors of the Refuge. There can be no doubt that if the hands of the managers are strengthened, the Prison Gate Mission will be a useful barrier in preventing the return of the discharged prisoners to their old and vicious associations. Nor would this interfere with the operations of the Discharged Prisoners Aid Society, which for the most part has to deal with long-term prisoners—those who have earned money during their incarceration. These form but a small proportion of the whole—about 1200 out of 20,000. The Prison Gate Mission, by judicious and kindly dealing with the short-term prisoners, would be able to prevent many of them from becoming confirmed criminals.

These aspirations and plans are bold, but by no means extravagant, when what has already been done by Mr. Shaw, Mr. Kirlew, and their colleagues is taken into account. The growth of the institution has justified their courage and foresight in the past, and the usefulness of the work accomplished is a sufficient justification of the appeal now made to the sympathy of the public.

Contributions may be sent to Leonard K. Shaw, or Gilbert R. Kirlew, Hon Secs., Central Refuge, Frances-street, Strangeways.

REV. F. B. MEYER'S METHODS.—In commencing a lecture to the Regent's Park Literary Society recently, Mr. Meyer referred to the apprenticeship he had served in the slums of Leicester, which would greatly help him in his new work in London. He was greatly in favour of a more Christian system of giving relief than was at present used by the Government and charity societies. He wished to lead his congregation into a more Christian mode of philanthropy. Five years ago he went for the first time to the gates of the prison to see a man who was discharged; what he then saw animated him to see what he could do to help these unfortunates. He saw men come direct from the front door of the prison, and enter the front door of a public-house—this, in his mind, was the way to the back door of the prison again. He then obtained permission, and called on the following Monday morning, and took a batch of discharged prisoners with him to a coffee-house, and there breakfasted, and had a quiet chat with them. During five years he had thus breakfasted with quite 5000 of these men. Mr. Meyer then spoke of the friendship existing between him and these poor fellows, and stated he had found that in nine cases out of ten their imprisonment had been due to drink. A long sentence, and the excellent régime was the best thing that the men could have, and what was wanted was something that would keep them from being enticed again.—Gospel Temperance Monthly.

Leaves from my Note-Book.

By Rev. W. HASLAM, M.A.

Author of "From Death into Life."

2.—THE PARISH CLERK.

Some years ago I was passing across a nobleman's park in company with a friend. We were going to visit the gamekeeper's wife, who was very ill, and could not attend some special services then being held.

As we were passing the church, which was situated in the same park, the parish clerk came running out at the door. He took off his hat, and, bowing at the same time almost to the ground, said, "Come in, sir, and see the candles I have been putting up in the church!"

I said, "Thank you, we shall see them in the evening, lighted."

"Nay, if you please, come in and see them now."

Again I declined, and was moving forward, when he drew nearer to me, and said, somewhat in a whisper, "Come in, and have a prayer for the evening."

I at once complied with this request, to his evident joy. As we directed our steps to the church door he ran before us, and went into the great pew of the nobleman. From this he brought out three hassocks, which he placed side by side on the chancel step. When we came up to the place, he said, "Mr. —— will kneel there. Mr. Haslam," pointing to the next hassock, "will kneel there; and your humble servant, with your consent, will take this one," touching the third hassock as he spoke.

We all knelt for a few seconds, in silence. Then the clerk rose to his feet, and said, "Mr. —— will pray," which he did. After this, rising again, he said, "Mr. Haslam will pray next." I did so. Then the clerk rose to his feet for the third time, and said, "Your humble servant will pray now, with your permission."

Permission being granted, he began a collect, and broke down in the middle of it. He then began another, which shared the same fate. "What shall I do?" said the poor man, in evident distress.

Presently, he burst into tears, and cried out with a broken voice, "Lord, have mercy upon me." Becoming more and more earnest as he went on, I quietly and calmly said "Amen" to his prayers, and so became his clerk. "O Lord," he continued, "Thou knowest how miserable I am, and have been all the time during this mission. O Lord, do have mercy upon me—I'm the only one in my house unsaved: wife, son, and daughter, all saved, and I am left. Salvation is all round me, and I am swimming in it, and yet I'm not saved. What shall I do?"

On the previous night, I had been telling a story, which I had either read or heard, of a ship without water. She had plenty of spirits, abundance of salt meat, and dry biscuits on board, but no water! The sailors were in great distress, fainting and dying of thirst. At last a vessel hove in sight, and came alongside. Seeing the signal of distress, the captain of the ship inquired, "What is your trouble?" They answered, "We have no water; we are dying of thirst; send us water!" The captain, thus addressed, put his trumpet to his mouth, and shouted out, "It is all round you; you are swimming in it."

The great river Amazon comes out a long way to sea, with its fresh water; and this vessel was then floating in it, but the distressed mariners did not know it. One of the suffering crew believed the word of the captain, and immediately threw a bucket overboard, and drew up some of the water. He greedily put his parched lips to it, and, sure enough, it was fresh water; though rather brackish, it was good enough to restore the fainting ones. He lost no time in waking up his shipmates to tell them the good news.

It was in reference to this story that the clerk said, "I have been swimming in it; it is all round me." He was in evident distress of soul, because he had not availed himself of the Gospel privileges which had been so evidently blessed to his wife and children. This was the thought that was pressing upon his soul. He had been neglecting the mercy of God. He had heard the words of the Gospel, and had seen their effect upon others; yet he remained unsaved. Now it was his turn to plead for mercy; and plead he did in right earnest.

When I saw that the man was thoroughly sincere in his desire, and that he had come to his extremity, I suggested to him that he must believe in God. I said, "You must take salvation, as the sailor took the water, which was all round him. Take it, and thank God. He says, 'It is finished;' believe it is, and thank Him for it."

This seemed like a new thought to him. "I will, I will," he exclaimed.

Soon he did this, and gave thanks with all his heart. He rejoiced with a loud voice, until the walls of the empty church echoed with the sound of his thanksgiving. It had often resounded with his sonorous and somewhat nasal "Amen," but now the words came from the very depth of his heart.

After this, he rose from his knees, and gave expression to his happy feelings in snatches of Psalms and favourite collects, as they came to his mind. "To think," he said, "that I have been worshipping here these thirty years, and yet never believed in the dear Lord before. I do believe, and I will praise Him, and all that is within me."

All at once another thought evidently came to his mind. He looked towards my friend, who was still kneeling upon the hassock beside mine (weeping copiously), and then fell upon his knees again, and said, "O Lord, do save Mr. ——. Save him; he knows nothing about it. I've known him, Lord, for thirty years, and he has never said a word to me on the subject. O Lord, save him."

Hearing this, I leaned over and spoke kindly to my friend, urging him to yield his heart to God, and believe in the Lord Jesus Christ.

He said, with a trembling voice, "I did so last night, but I have no joy like the clerk."

I replied, "You are looking at yourself, instead of looking off unto Jesus. He is the only foundation of joy. You cannot admire a picture," I continued, "if you do not look at it. Look, and it will command your admiration. So a look at the Lord will command your salvation. Look and live."

In a short time I and my two friends were rejoicing together, and praising God.

The happiness of the clerk was excessive; he could scarcely contain himself. He was in a hurry to run home, and "tell his people." He said, "I want to tell all my neighbours, and wish to give thanks to God publicly in church to-night!"

Indeed, he did all these things; more than that, he has continued to be a faithful witness of the truth as it is in Jesus.

How simple is the plan of salvation! It is all round you—you are swimming in it! What a shame it is to live without salvation! What a shame to die, and perish without being a partaker of God's love.

"THE FARM HOUSE."—This House of Rest at Little Oddyns, Horsted Keynes, Sussex, is for the benefit of women and girls who earn their own living, such as shop assistants, milliners, school teachers, &c. The life is that of a private Christian household. The House is small, and only seven can be accommodated. It is now nearly three years since Miss Harriet Mason devoted herself entirely to it, and, in spite of difficulties, it has been a glad, joyous work. The small number taken gives better opportunities of heart-to-heart work, but it does not pay financially, especially as it is necessary to take in at reduced rates sometimes, and sometimes free. Any who would like to further an excellent Christian effort should communicate with Miss Mason, who will furnish full particulars.

WARRINGTON LODGE.

This private hospital for ladies was opened nearly two years ago, dedicated to the Lord, to be for Him a house of healing. He has graciously set his seal upon the undertaking. More than 200 patients have been received; many have gone forth restored to health, and able to take up again the duties of life; weary sufferers, though busy workers, from the mission fields of India and Africa have found here a quiet resting-place, and a house of healing. Letters are continually received expressing gratefully the benefit obtained physically, as well as help and refreshment to the spiritual life.

I believe the motto which strikes the eye on the opening of the hall door is something more than a painting on the wall, that the "Glory of God" is the ruling motive of all who are engaged in the work, from the honoured director and physician to the latest probationer. The writer, who has herself been a patient at the Hospital, and the subject of a critical operation, can speak from personal experience of the loving sympathy and attention shown to those who are suffering, as well as to the high surgical skill and unwearied kindness of the physician; it will never be forgotten, nor the remembrance of the feeling of safety, knowing I was in the hands of one who looked to the Head Physician for skill and wisdom. What a rest it was to be able to say with full confidence, in reply to some question, "Do as you think best; the Lord, I know, will guide your hand." And truly He does. Wonderful instances could be given of successful operations and perfect recovery.

Thinking of the many who are suffering with the diseases peculiar to my sex, who might with proper treatment regain health, I wish this truly Home Hospital was more widely known. It stands in an airy situation, quite detached, and the household arrangements are very good; the wards and rooms are lofty. bright, and well ventilated. Two of the former contain six, others four, three, and two beds, divided by curtains into cubicles, each containing the necessary furniture of a small room, so that privacy or society can be obtained. The private rooms are suitably furnished.

I must not omit the Free Ward, containing four beds, which, I am told, is always full, and glad I should be to hear the number was increased, which might be, if there were more subscribers. There is also a ward where the charge is only thirty shillings, the doctor giving his valuable services and providing medicine. Other wards and rooms vary from two guineas upwards, but all information on this point can be obtained of the Secretary, at Warrington Lodge, Maida Vale, W. I ask the prayers of God's people that his blessing may yet more abundantly rest upon this work.

An Old Patient.

THE FRENCH IN LONDON.—For twenty-six years Pastor G. Barbier has been labouring among the poor French in London. The last report, just issued, shows that the several useful agencies established in the neighbourhood of Soho are in good working order, and are highly appreciated by the people. Mr. Barbier's address is 10, Charlotte-street, Portland-place, W.

TRACT DISTRIBUTION.—Mr. Henry Cooke, of the Victorian Tract Distribution Society, writing from Malvern, near Melbourne, Australia, gives a good account of the operations of the Society. Visitors are supplied with sets of fifty tract-books (comprising several tracts) each; one set enables a visitor to leave a book weekly with from forty to forty-five families for nearly twelve months, without leaving any one book a second time. Already ten sets have been issued, and in Melbourne they have been in use for some twelve years. At Malvern the ministers of the various evangelical denominations have taken up the work, and to each tract-book a label is attached, announcing the services in the various churches.

ABRAHAM: GOD'S FRIEND.

By Rev. F. B. MEYER, B.A., Regent's Park Chapel.

VI.—Separated from Lot.

Genesis xiii.

In our last, we saw something of the original stuff of which God makes his saints. By nature Abraham was not superior to the general run of Orientals, who do not hesitate to lie, in order to gain a point or to avert a disaster. Compared with an average Englishman, Abraham would have come off a bad second. The faith which one day was to do business in the ocean waves could not swim across a tiny creek. It is hard to imagine that such a man would ever arrive at a stature of moral greatness so commanding as to overtop all his contemporaries, and look across the ages to see the day of Christ. Yet so it was. And from that thought we may take courage. Our God does not need noble characters, as the groundwork of his masterpieces. He can raise up stones as children. He can turn thorns into fir trees, briars into myrtle trees. He can take fishermen from their nets, and publicans from their toll-booths, making them into evangelists, apostles, and martyrs. We are not much by nature—wild, bad blood may have got into our veins, but God can yet make Abrahams out of us.

"Abram went up out of Egypt, he, and his wife, and all that he had, and Lot with him, into the south." Very marvellous this! Judging as men, we might have thought that he would never recover from that fatal mistake, that disastrous failure and sin. Surely he will reap as he has sown! He will never see his faithful wife again, but must bear for ever on his conscience the brand of coward treachery! Or if, indeed, she be given again to him, he will never extricate himself from the meshes of the net into which he has thrown himself! Irritated and deceived, Pharaoh will surely find some method of avenging the wrong with which the foreigner has repaid his generous hospitality!

But no. Contrary to all human anticipation, Jehovah appears on the behalf of his most unworthy servant. In after years the Psalmist gives us the very words, which He uttered in the heart of the king: "Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm" (Ps. cv. 14, 15). What a marvel of tenderness! God does not cast us away for one sin. "He hath not dealt with us after our sins; nor rewarded us according to our iniquities. For as the heaven is high above the earth, so great is his mercy toward them that fear Him." And thus, notwithstanding repeated falls and shortcomings, He lovingly pursues his Divine purpose with the soul, in which the root of the matter is found, until He sets it free from its clinging evils, and lifts it into the life of faith, and power, and familiar friendship with Himself. "Rejoice not against me, O mine enemy: when I fall, I shall arise; when I sit in darkness, then the Lord shall be a light unto me."

Warned by this Divine voice, and restrained by a power which suffered him not to do God's servant harm, Pharaoh had commanded his men concerning him, "and they had sent him away, and his wife, and all that he had." This is how it comes to pass that we find them again traversing the wolds of Southern Palestine on their way back to Bethel, unto the place where they had halted on their first entrance into Palestine. So complete was the delivering power of God, that the gentle monarch did not even take back the gifts which he had bestowed as a dowry for Sarah. The sheep, and oxen, and he asses, and men servants, and maid servants, and she asses, and camels, still remained in Abraham's possession. And we are, therefore, prepared to learn, "that Abram was very rich, in cattle, in silver, and in gold." That visit to Egypt beyond doubt laid the foundation of the immense wealth of the family in after time; and it was out of this that the next trouble sprang. A trouble it seemed at first. But God marvellously overruled it for separating his child still further to Himself, and severing the metal to a further extent from the alloy which had clung to it too long. Hitherto, we have been told repeatedly, "and Lot went with him." This record must not be made again.

(1) Who was Lot?—Son of Abraham's dead brother, Haran. He had probably succeeded to his father's inheritance. He may have come with his uncle across the desert in the secret hope of bettering his condition, but we will hope that he was prompted by worthier motives. He seems to have been one of those men who take right steps, not because they are prompted by obedience to God, but because their friends are taking them. Around him was the inspiration of an heroic faith, the fascination of the untried and unknown, the stir of a great religious movement, and Lot was swept into the current, and resolved to go too. He was the Pliable of that earliest Pilgrim's Progress. He may have thought that he was as much in earnest as Abraham; but it was a great mistake. He was simply an echo, a dim afterglow, a chip on the bosom of a mighty current.

In every great religious movement there always has been, and always will be, a number of individuals who cast in their lot with it, without knowing the power which inspires it. Beware of them. They cannot stand the stress of the life of separation to God. The mere excitement will soon die away from them; and, having no principle to take its place, they will become hindrances and disturbers of the peace. As certainly as they are harboured in the camp, or their principles are allowed within the heart, they will lower the spiritual tone, allure to worldly policy, suggest methods which would not otherwise occur to us, and draw us towards the Egypt-world.

Nothing but supreme principle can carry anyone through the real, separated, and surrendered life of the child of God. If you are prompted by anything less, as excitement, enthusiasm, fashion, contagious example, you will first be a hindrance, and end by being a failure. Examine yourselves, whether ye be in the faith. Prove your own selves; and, if you are consciously acting from a low and unselfish motive, ask God to breathe into you his own pure love.

(2) The Necessity of Separation.—That recent failure may have been due, to a larger extent than we know, to the baneful influence of Lot. Had Abraham been left to himself, he might never have thought of going down to Egypt, and there would have been another chapter in the Bible describing the exploits of a faith which dares to stand to God's promise, though threatened by disaster, and hemmed in by famine; waiting till God bids it move, or makes it possible to stay. There is something about that visit to Egypt which savours of the spirit of Lot's after-life. In any case, the time had come, in the providence of God, when this baser worldly spirit must go its way; leaving Abraham to stand alone, without prop, or adviser, or ally; thrown back on the counsel and help of God alone.

The outward separation of the body from the world of the ungodly is incomplete, unless accompanied and supplemented by the inner separation of the spirit. It is not enough to leave Ur, Haran, and Egypt; we must be rid of Lot also. Though we lived in a monastory, shut away from the homes and haunts of men, with no sound to break upon the ear but the summoning bell of worship, and the solemn chant; yet so long as there was an alien principle in our breast, a Lot in our heart-life, there could not be that separation to God which is the condition of the growth of faith, and of all those higher forms of the true life which make earth likest heaven. Lot must go. "Know that the Lord hath set apart him that is godly for Himself." No other foot then must intrude within the enclosure of the Divine proprietorship.

O hearts that sigh for saintliness as harts pant for water brooks, have ye counted the cost? Can ye bear the fiery ordeal? The manufacture of saints is no child's play. The block has to be entirely separated from its mountain bed, ere the Divine chisel can begin on it. The gold must be plunged into the cleansing fires, ere it can be fashioned into an ornament of beauty for the King.

As Abraham was separated from one after another of nature's resources, so must it be with all aspirants for the inner chambers of the palace of God. We must be prepared to die to the world and its censure or praise; to the flesh, with its ambitions and schemes; to the delights of a friendship which is insidiously lowering the temperature of the spirit; to the self-life, in all its myriad subtle and overt manifestations; and even to the joys and consolations of religion.

All this is impossible to us of ourselves. But if we will surrender ourselves to God, willing that He should work in and for us that which we cannot do for ourselves, we shall find that He will gradually and effectually, and as tenderly as possible, begin to disentwine the clinging tendrils of the poisoning weed, and bring us into heart-union with Himself.

It may be that Abraham had already felt for himself the ill effect of association with Lot, and may have longed to be free from him, without knowing how the emancipation could be effected. In any case, this may be the condition of some who shall read these words. Entangled in an alliance which you seem powerless to shake off, your only hope is to bear it quietly till God sets you at liberty. Meanwhile guard against its infection. By prayer and faith get honey out of the lion's carcase. Wait patiently till God's hour strikes, and his hand opens the fast-locked door, and bids you be free. That time will come at length, for God has a destiny in store for you, so great that neither He nor you can allow it to be forfeited for any light or trivial obstacle.

(3) How the Separation was brought about.—The valleys around Bethel, which had been quite adequate for their needs when first they came to Canaan, were now altogether insufficient. The herdsmen were always wrangling for the first use of the wells, and the first crop of the pastures. The cattle were continually getting mixed. "The land was not able to bear them, that they might dwell together."

Quarrels between servants have a habit of travelling upwards, and embroiling their masters. And so Abraham and Lot would be told by their head men of what was happening, and each would be tempted to feel irritated with the other.

Abraham saw at once that such a state of things must not be allowed to go on: especially as "the Canaanite and the Perizzite dwelt then in the land." For if those warlike neighbours heard of the dissensions in the camp, they would take an early opportunity of falling upon it. United they stood, divided they must fall. Besides, there was the scandal of the thing, which might work prejudicially on the name and worship of that God whom Abraham was known to worship. Would that the near presence of the world might have the same wholesome effect of checking dissension and dispute among the children of the same Father!

And so Abraham called Lot to him, and said, "Let there be no strife between ourselves, or our herdsmen. Choose whichever part of the country that pleases thee. Only separate thyself from me. If thou wilt take the left hand, then I will go to the right, or if thou depart to the right hand, then I will go to the left."

The proposal was very wise. He saw that there was a cause for the disturbance, which would lead to similar troubles continually. If he spoke sharply to Lot, Lot would answer in the same spirit, and a breach would be made at once. So he went to the root of the matter, and proposed their separation.

It was very magnanimous. As the elder and leader of the expedition, he had the undoubted right to the first choice. But he waived his right in the interests of reconciliation.

But, above all, it was based on faith. Had not God pledged Himself to take care of him, and to give him an inheritance? There was no fear, therefore, that Lot could ever rob him of that which was guaranteed to him by the faithfulness of God. And he preferred, a thousand times over, that God should choose for him, than that he should choose for himself.

The man who is sure of God can afford to hold very lightly to the things of this world. God Himself is his inalienable heritage, and, in having God, He has all. And, as we shall see, the man who "hedges" for himself does not do so well in the long run as the man who, having the right of choice, hands it back to God, saying: "Let others choose for themselves, if they please; but as for myself, Thou shalt choose mine inheritance for me."

Not mine—not mine the choice
  In things or great or small;
Be Thou my Guide, my Guard, my Strength,
  My Wisdom and my "All."

THE ITALIAN MILITARY CHURCH AT ROME.—Since its foundation, fifteen years ago, this church has always made the King's birthday (March 14) a day of rejoicing. This year 150 soldiers attended, and the meeting was under the presidency of Dr. Gray, of the Scotch church. In the midst of all the efforts made by the Papacy and the reactionary party to draw away the people from the love of country and liberty, and to substitute for the true religion of Christ the superstitions and teachings of men, it was a joy to many hearts to see how the young soldiers of Italy showed publicly their affection for the Gospel, whereby they are taught to "Fear God" and "Honour the King."

DOINGS IN ROME.

Dear Sir,—I have been here for the last five weeks with my wife, trying to keep off bronchitis by the mild Italian climate. Rome is very much changed since I was last here, huge buildings going up everywhere, spoiling fine views, choking up the Coliseum, and doubling the population of 1870. The presents which have been sent to the Pope on the occasion of his jubilee are magnificent; I hear they were valued at £4,000,000. If our people at home think the Pope's power is on the wane, let them come and see this show, and they will come to the same conclusion we have arrived at, that, though the Pope's temporal power may have suffered great loss, his spiritual power has gained greatly. I am persuaded that this very magnificent exhibition shows the homage of a host of supporters throughout the world, and speaks volumes of their devotion to the Papal cause.

Rome is very full. I was here thirteen years ago, and it seems to me there are more—many more, priests and clerical students than there were then. There have been large companies of jubilee pilgrims from different nations, and a large one, said to number 2000, is expected in the middle of April from Austria and Hungary. We have been to many churches, and we have received the impression that the male worshippers outnumber the females very greatly. This is remarkable, as we are constantly told that men are forsaking the public services.

I deeply grieve to say that Rev. Luke Rivington, one of the Cowley Brotherhood of our Church, has been received into the Roman Catholic Church. I was informed that his reception took place to-day, but others have told me that this was done a few days ago. These perversions are all the result of the Ritualistic or Popish ceremonies of our Church. If England is to remain Protestant, all those who want to keep it so should come out boldly against all the Ritualistic proceedings now so rife in our Church.

We have a faithful Church of England place of worship close by us—Trinity Church—where the Gospel is preached fully and fearlessly. There are two other Episcopal churches—an English one in the Via Babuino, and an American in Via Nazionale. My old friend, Dr. Gray, has a very good congregation in Via Vento Septembre, where you are always safe to hear the Gospel. These are the only churches I have been at.

Rev. H. Grattan Guinness was here last week, and had some grand meetings; probably he will give his impressions in print. We have a very nice Bible-reading every Thursday evening at Miss Simpson's house in Via del Croce, and there one meets with Christians from different parts of the world.

On Sunday evening Dr. Young, in Piazza di Spagna, has another, and his address and explanations are deeply instructive, and most interesting. He is a very faithful witness to the truth in Rome. Mrs. Noble has had about two meetings for ladies weekly in the last four weeks, and I hope much blessing may have attended them. At one of our meetings I was pleased to meet Mr. and Mrs. Gordon, and another member of the Salvation Army. I believe they are doing a good work in Rome, and are not as noisy as they are at home. The Presbyterians of Scotland have a good work going on among the Jews. I was at one of Dr. Young's meetings to-day, at which 35 Jews were present, 8 men, 20 women, and 7 fractions of humanity, who, small as they might be, made their presence very manifest.

Last Thursday Cavaliere Capellini had his anniversary meeting, at which some thirty Italian soldiers took their first Lord's Supper, the Wesleyan Chapel being well filled on the occasion; there was a most hearty service, and no one could help feeling that this is a real work. "Do you know anything about Capellini?" I said to an English gentleman. "Know him, I don't; but one of his soldier converts is a devoted Christian man, doing good work in South America." Surely this is only one of many testimonies which might be given in favour of the Cavaliere's work.

About a fortnight ago Mrs. Wall asked us to speak to her Italian class in the Trastevere. We drove over there, and were astonished to see upwards of 175 men and women assembled. The sexes were pretty evenly represented, and I do not think as a whole you could get a fairer representation of the poorest class of Romans. About twenty retired soldiers were there; one old soldier had served alongside our own men in the Crimea. Several hymns were sung most heartily; then prayer was offered, and three addresses were given to a most attentive and sympathetic audience. At the close there was a distribution of bread among the people.

What particularly struck us was: (1) their poverty, (2) their attention, (3) their heartiness in singing. I have said about 175. I counted that number, and was told there were some at the door I had not seen.

Last week Mrs. Burtchaell, the widow of a missionary here and in the Holy Land, asked us to visit her working party for Jewesses. I suppose we should call it a mothers' meeting, but some of the young women could not put in a claim for that class. This meeting is held in a remote part of Trastevere, and the day we were present the attendance was smaller than usual, but the features of the class were very similar to our mothers' meetings in England. This work is in connection with the London Jews' Society. The hymn-singing was very hearty.

Before leaving England, Mr. Spiers kindly sent us a supply of Italian illustrated Scriptural stories, and these are all gone. Some were distributed at Genoa, Pisa, Siena, and Orvieto, but the bulk we have given for distribution at Pisa, Siena, and here. No one has ever refused to accept them, and generally they have thanked us very warmly for them. Mrs. Young, No. 20, Piazza di Spagna, Rome, Mrs. Burtchaell, No. 50, Via San Nicola Tollentini, Rome, would be glad to receive small supplies for distribution.

I have not referred to the Baptist, Wesleyan, or Waldensian work, as I have not had opportunities of seeing what they are doing. At Siena we met a very earnest Waldensian pastor, and had the pleasure of attending his service. On the same Sunday afternoon we had a Bible-reading at our hotel, and were much refreshed. Some Christian ladies there promise to be a blessing in that old-fashioned city.

Now for the other side of the story. If it were not for the awful destiny at stake, in some aspects, the Roman Catholic religion appears really ludicrous. The stories the monks at the Araceli tell you about the Bambino, the apparent credulity of the people in some of the so-called miracles, the want of reverence in some of the services, are all examples of this. At the same time, we have been struck with the soul-burdened look, the deep distress and sadness of many men and women we have seen at the Lenten services. How are these people to be reached? Could you get them to believe that salvation is to be obtained without money and without price? That the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin? Surely, here is a field of work for those who can speak the Italian language.—Yours very sincerely, Albergo di Vittoria, Wm. Hatt Noble.

Via due Macelli, Rome, April 2.

MARQUEE TEMPERANCE MISSIONS.—Negotiations are in progress for the holding of a series of special extended missions under canvas, in the semi-suburban districts of London. Mr. William Noble's services have been placed at the disposal of the committee for these missions, which he will conduct, supported by the ministers and workers of the localities where the missions are held, and by an influential list of speakers, the services of some of whom have already been bespoken. It is expected that the first will be held early in June. Proposals from districts should be addressed to the Secretary, Mr. J. T. Rae, 134, Hoxton-street, London, N.

For the Young.

A FATHER TO THE FATHERLESS.

"One-half of the world knows not how the other half lives!" How little we do know what goes on around us!

"Scarcely to be regretted!" you say? That depends, dear reader! There is much that is well worth knowing, as I can prove, if you will accompany me to busy, noisy Holloway-road, North London. Rather a rough setting for a valuable gem, isn't it? And yet, there it is—unnoticed by the world—but very precious in God's sight.

Let us walk on, past the Nag's Head, towards Highgate, till we reach a turning, called Manor-road. Pause before number 3, and look at it attentively.

"Why? I see nothing to distinguish it from any other ordinary house!—a bow-window each side—a high flight of steps in the middle!"

No outward distinction, I grant you; but, after you have been inside, and seen what I saw last week, I think you will acknowledge that there is something very uncommon, both about it, and its inmates. Within its walls forty orphan girls are fed, clothed, and educated.

"At whose expense?" I will tell you. The Lord God Himself—their heavenly Father, supplies all their needs.

"Well, yes, of course, God is the Father of all orphans." True, but there is this difference—all orphans do not claim Him as their Father. These children do; they depend entirely on his bounty, asking Him only for whatever they want, in prayer. What is the result? He has been very gracious to them, and has not suffered them to want any good thing.

Let us knock at the door. It is opened by a tidy little maiden, who shows us into a sitting-room, where we are presently joined by a kind-looking lady, Mrs. Ginever. Her life history is extremely interesting. In her childhood she used to attend the services at the Female Orphanage Asylum. Even then she felt great compassion for fatherless children, and these early impressions were never effaced from her memory. In 1874 she was left a widow, and, after laying the matter before the Lord, asking his guidance, she decided on taking a small nine-roomed house in the Kingsdown-road. This was in July. It was only partially furnished, but there were six beds. In as many weeks these were all occupied by poor orphan girls, and in as many months the Home was already so full that she removed to her present residence. She has no fortune at her disposal; the work was commenced, and has ever since been carried on, solely by faith and prayer. God has raised up friends in all directions; through them He provides all that is needful from day to day, and year to year.

You must not suppose, however, that Mrs. Ginever has had no trials. God often tries his servants in order to purify and test them, and also that afterwards He may be enabled to bless them all the more exceedingly. Mrs. Ginever can relate many remarkable instances of this. Her funds have sometimes been so low that she has retired to rest, simply trusting that her household's daily bread would be supplied on the morrow, yet her confidence in the Lord has never been shaken, and never been disappointed.

At the present time she is as a second mother to 130 children; these live in three separate Homes, all free. Any really destitute girl is eligible, whether afflicted or otherwise. The elder ones are trained for servants, all the housework being performed by them. When a girl is quite ready for service, a situation is found for her; now and then someone adopts a child, or the heavenly Father calls one away to dwell with Him. Such vacancies are immediately filled up.

After a little conversation about the children's lessons, their meals, and their recreations, Mrs. Ginever leads the way to the schoolroom, where they are plying their needles most industriously. They rise on our entrance, and we see that all are dressed alike, in plain, dark frocks and pinafores. A sort of apron is tied round their waists, having a wide, deep pocket to hold work, cotton, thimble, &c. Very bright, joyous faces, have they not? Their room looks bright, too, and is warm, comfortable, and home-like. A table covered with plants stands in the window; texts and pictures adorn the walls, and toys the shelves; there is even a pet cat sitting by the high grate in front of the fire.

Listen! Mrs. Ginever has asked her adopted children to sing, which they do, with cheerful alacrity, and much spirit, especially in the choruses. Many thanks, my dears, for your three pretty songs! Next, let us inspect your work. Well done! you really deserve great praise—all hand-stitched, and each tiny tuck so beautifully regular! We shall be very glad to recommend you to any other ladies. Here comes the matron to show us over the upstairs rooms. Are you not charmed with the perfect order and neatness? Observe the little beds, with the corners of their blue or pink coverlets so carefully turned up at the feet; the illuminated texts; the big boot cupboard, and the pigeon-hole wardrobes for hats and capes. The lavatory is very striking to the eye, owing to an arrangement of towels, and scarlet and white check bags, hanging above the numerous basins. That book-case, with glass doors, in the hall, contains the children's library.

Now, I think, we have seen everything, so we will just re-enter Mrs. Ginever's parlour—bid her good-bye, and then depart, having spent a very pleasant afternoon.

If any of my readers feel desirous to assist Mrs. Ginever in carrying on her labour of love, I should advise them to pay her a visit, some afternoon. It will refresh believers, and greatly strengthen and increase their faith; comfort those in trouble, and touch all hearts. Those who live too far off for this, might give orders for plain needlework, for servant's print dresses, or for a little book, written by Mrs. Ginever (entitled "A Retrospect"), which contains an account of the progress of the work. It is sent post free for six stamps. Gifts of clothing, old or new, and donations of any kind, are very gratefully received. Above all, pray that Mrs. Ginever and the children under her charge may, both temporally and spiritually, be abundantly blessed.

Amy Lockyer.

GOLDEN KEYS.

A bunch of golden keys is mine,
To make each day with gladness shine.
"Good morning!" that's the golden key
That unlocks every day for me.

When evening comes, "Good night!" I say,
And close the door of each glad day.
When at the table, "If you please"
I take from off my bunch of keys.

When friends give anything to me
I use the little "Thank you!" key.
"Excuse me," "Beg your pardon," too,
When by mistake some harm I do.
Or if unkindly harm I've given,
With "Forgive me" key I'll be forgiven.

On a golden ring these keys I'll bind,
This is its motto, "Be ye kind."
I'll often use each golden key,
And Jesus' happy child I'll be.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.

Mr. Martin J. Hall, Hamond-square, Hoxton, April 16—20. Mr. H. Hutchinson, Mission Hall, Phythian-street, Liverpool, April 9—13; Altrincham, Cheshire, April 14; Shireoaks, April 15—16. Mr. E. Arrowsmith, on Continent for two months. Messrs. Lidstone and Hutchinson, Ipswich, April 17—19. Mr. T. Lewes Sayer, Sutton, April 8—13; Kilburn, April 16—20; Stockwell Orphanage, April 23—26; Romford, April 29 to May 4. Mr. Josiah Spiers, Wakefield, April 24 to May 4; Park Chapel, Camden Town, May 6—20. Mr. George Banaster, Dorking, April 21—30. Mr. G. L. Pilkington, Drill Hall, Norwood, April 11—18, at 6.30.

WORK IN CENTRAL AFRICA.

Rev. George Henry, M.A., M.B., C.M., of Aberdeen, who went to Livingstonia last year, has addressed some very interesting letters to Dr. George Smith, Foreign Mission Secretary of the Free Church of Scotland.

In company with Mr. M'Intyre, teacher, Mr. Henry has established a station in Chikusé's territory. The chief readily gave the permission to build. During their stay in the country, Messrs. Henry and M'Intyre, on two occasions, witnessed the cruel and absurd practice of testing guilt by drinking mwavi. The chief suspected some among his people of crime; he thought that one of his wives, but which one he could not tell, had been unfaithful, and he wanted to find out who was the partner in her guilt. The chief "resolved to settle the matter by making all the men and some women of his own and some surrounding villages drink mwavi. His plan was to bring so many to his village at one time, and, placing them in a circle, make them drink the poison in public. If they vomited and lived, they were held to be guiltless; if they died, no one seemed to care much. This scene occurred on the meadow on the edge of which our tent was pitched. After the people were assembled, a fantâstic figure, dressed up with a head-dress of feathers, danced about the circle for a time. The poison, which is the bark of the sassy tree (erythrophlorum guineense) was then beaten with a rude mortar and pestle, and, being put into water, was drunk by the suspected, who came up by two for this purpose, and then ran off to vomit or die. This was given to about two hundred and fifty people the first time I saw it, and to more than a hundred the second time. One of the headmen told us that the poison was made weak, yet each time one person died, and on previous occasions six had died. Walking out the day after one such exhibition of African heathenism, I saw a horrible sight—some dogs eating the unburied remains of the persons who died. God in his good time grant that this and many other evil customs may, by the Gospel, be swept away from this country!"

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—The following are the portions for the ensuing week:—Sunday, April 15, Isaiah l. 1—11; Monday, April 16, Isaiah li. 1—13; Tuesday, April 17, Isaiah lii. 1—15; Wednesday, April 18, liii. 1—12; Thursday, April 19, Isaiah liv. 7—17; Friday, April 20, Isaiah lv. 1—13; Saturday, April 21, Isaiah lvii. 15—21.

LAUSANNE.—Mr. Edwin Arrowsmith, of the Children's Special Service Mission, who is now making a tour abroad, has just spent a week here, with most encouraging results. He has held children's services and given special addresses to young men, young ladies, and Sunday-school teachers, which have been very well attended. So much interest has been excited that, in deference to a strongly expressed wish on the part of many, he has arranged to pay the town another visit about the end of May.

ELEVENTH INTERNATIONAL Y.M.C.A. CONFERENCE.—This Conference will be held at Stockholm from August 15 to 20. Great preparations are made at Stockholm to receive the foreign delegates. The Swedes are known to be very hospitable, and, no doubt, will make the visit pleasant and delightful for the strangers. Special arrangements are made for cheap railway and steamboat tickets, so that the expenses for the journey and a short stay in the beautiful and interesting Scandinavia will be comparatively small.

DUBLIN CITY MISSION.—The twenty-seventh annual report states that the agents, ten in number, were much blessed in their labours last year. Never were openings for personal dealing more numerous than now. The Mission works in perfect harmony with all denominations holding the fulness and freeness of the atoning sacrifice of Christ, and its supporters are much encouraged to find the people generally disposed to avail themselves of the various evangelical agencies. Mr. T. Pakenham Law, Q.C., 48, Stephen's-green, Dublin, is the hon. secretary of the Mission.

April 13, 1888.

The Christian.

CONTENTS.

Mr. Henry Varley 1
Poetry—Prisoners of Hope 2
Mr. Caine and Singapore Missions 3
The Inspiration of the Bible 4
The Parish Clerk 5
Warrington Lodge.............. 5
Abraham: God's Friend 6
Doings in Rome 7
A Father to the Fatherless 8
Work in Central Africa 8
From the Mission Field 13
The Gospel in Italy 13
Evangelistic Mission............14
Boston Open-Air Preachers......14
Children's Scripture Union......15
Notes from the North 15
Notes and Comments 16
The Horror of a Creed 17
Evangelising in the Far West 18
Friends' Mission Conference 18
American Y.M.C.A.'s 19
Metropolitan Music Hall 20
Evangelistic Notes..............20
Notes on Daily Readings 27

JUST READY.

By the REV. J. A. WYLIE, LL.D.,

Author of "The History of Protestantism;" "The Papacy: its History, Dogmas, Genius, and Prospects," &c., &c.

WHICH SOVEREIGN:
QUEEN VICTORIA, or THE POPE?

Abridged Edition of 100,000 Copies. Price Threepence, or 2s. 8d. per Dozen.

Special Terms for Large Quantities, for Distribution, on Application.

This telling Treatise by the veteran Protestant writer, Dr. Wylie, could not have appeared more opportunely than in the present year (1888)—when we are about to commemorate the TER-CENTENARY, or the three-hundredth Anniversary, of the defeat of the attempted Invasion of our country by the Spanish Armada; and the BI-CENTENARY, or two-hundredth Anniversary, of the Accession in 1688 of the Protestant dynasty to the throne of the United Kingdom.

ALSO BY REV. J. A. WYLIE, LL.D.

THE SPANISH ARMADA: 1588.

Being an Account of the Events preceding, and a concise Narrative of the Defeat of the Spanish Armada.

Reprinted from the Author's "History of Protestantism," by permission of Messrs. Cassell & Co.

32 pages, Demy 8vo. Price 1d.

This will be found a most interesting, striking, and accurate narrative of the attempted invasion of England in 1588.

THE REVOLUTION of 1688.

A Retrospect
From John Wycliffe to William of Orange.

Being an Historical Account of the events preceding the Revolution — events so strikingly paralleled by the state of England at the present time.

32 pages Demy 8vo. Price 1d.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

ADDITIONAL

SACRED SONGS & SOLOS.

COMPILED AND SUNG BY

IRA D. SANKEY.

Consisting of a Choice Assortment of New Pieces, with an approved Selection of Standard Hymns.

309 HYMNS AND TUNES; IN ONE VOLUME.

This volume of "Additional Songs and Solos" will be published Separately in several editions both of Words and Music; particulars of which will be shortly announced.

The Music will be issued both in Old Notation and in Tonic Sol-fa.

☞ The Demy 8vo. Edition in Old Notation may now be obtained at the following prices:—

TINTED COVERS	2s.
CLOTH LIMP	2s. 6d.
CLOTH BOARDS	3s.
CLOTH, BEVD. BOARDS, GILT EDGES ...	3s. 6d.

This Book is not intended to interfere in any way with the publication of "SACRED SONGS and SOLOS" (441 Hymns); which will be on Sale as heretofore.

NOW READY.
Book of Words. Tinted Covers, 1d.; Cloth, 2d.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

By the REV. F. B. MEYER, B.A.
(OF REGENT'S PARK CHAPEL).

ELIJAH: And the Secret of His Power.

WITH NINE ILLUSTRATIONS
Specially Engraved for this Work.

CONTENTS.

The Source of Elijah's Strength.
Beside the Drying Brook.
Ordered to Zarephath.
"The Spirit and Power of Elias."
The Test of the Home Life.
Obadiah—A Contrast.
The Plan of Campaign.
The Conflict on the Heights of Carmel.
Rain at Last.
How the Mighty Fell.
Loving-kindness Better than Life.
The "Still Small Voice."
"Go, Return!"
Naboth's Vineyard.
The Old Courage Again.
Evensong.
The Translation.
A Double Portion of Elijah's Spirit.
The Transfiguration.
"Filled with the Holy Ghost."

Attractively Bound in Cloth	2s. 6d.
PRESENTATION EDITION:
Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges... ...	3s. 6d.

> "We have read this volume with great care, and have been amply repaid by its contents. The varied events in the life of the Prophet are lucidly and graphically portrayed, and his character is admirably delineated. The doctrine is throughout consistently scriptural. Elijah's strong faith and temporary failure are powerfully reproduced. What we like much in the work is not only the happy use of Scriptural language, but likewise the practical lessons deduced from that old-world story and from the experiences of the Prophet for our own times and for ourselves individually. We cordially advise our readers to lose no time in putting themselves in possession of this really valuable little volume."
> The Christian Treasury.

ISRAEL: A Prince with God.

THE STORY OF JACOB RE-TOLD.

CONTENTS.

First Impressions.
The Sale of the Birthright.
The Stolen Blessing.
The Angel-Ladder.
The Noble Resolve.
The Education of Home.
The Mid-Passage of Life.
The Stirring-Up of the Nest.
The Midnight Wrestle.
Failure.
Back to Bethel.
The School of Sorrow.
Glimpses of the Israel-Nature.
Rest and the Rest-Giver.
Home: at Last!
The God of Jacob.

With FULL-PAGE ILLUSTRATIONS of
THE RIVER JORDAN and JACOB'S WELL.

Attractively Bound in Cloth	2s. 6d.
PRESENTATION EDITION:
Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges... ...	3s. 6d.

> "We have had considerable pleasure in reading this book on the Life of Jacob. Mr. Meyer has great descriptive power. He can tell a narrative well. The subject in his hand glows with life; and the scenes and events in the history of his hero pass vividly before you, and are ever being used to force home on the readers some great and important principle. The volume is prettily got up, well bound, and embellished with frontispiece and illustrations."
> Baptist Messenger.

> "Exceedingly good. Not only spiritual, as everything from our brother, Mr. Meyer, would be, but also thoughtful, fresh, suggestive, and thoroughly practical."—The Sword and Trowel.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS, &c., Whitechapel, E.

Received with many thanks from H., 15s.; M. G., 2s. 6d.; Anonymous, 5s., and pair of boots.

The Infant Day Nursery. The Free Ragged Schools. Rations of Food to Hungry Children. Classes for Rough Boys. Various Industrial Classes for Boys and Lads. Various Meetings and Classes for Elder Girls and Young Women. Bible Classes for Men, for Women, and for Young People. Mothers' Meetings. Mission to Inebriate Women. Lodging House Services. Temperance Meetings. Evangelistic Services. Room to Room Visitation, and other Missionary Agencies in operation

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 66, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to GEORGE HOLLAND, The Ragged Schools, George Yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E.

THE CHURCH ARMY ANNUAL MEETING, Princes Hall, Piccadilly, Wednesday, May 2, at 3 p.m., the Lord BISHOP OF MARLBOROUGH presiding, supported by five hundred C.A. Clergy, Officer-Evangelists, and Soldiers.—At the same place, on the same evening, at 7.30, Consecration Convention. Subject: Personal Devotion to the Cause of Christ and the Evangelization of the World. The Very Rev. the DEAN OF RIPON in the chair. Funds are urgently needed. Cheques and Postal orders crossed "Barclay, Bevan & Co., account, The Church Army," should be sent to Headquarters, 128 and 130, Edgware-road, London, W., payable to the Rev. W. CARLILE, Hon. Sec.

THE BENEVOLENT OR STRANGERS' FRIEND SOCIETY.

Treasurer, Ald. Sir R. N. Fowler, Bart., M.P.
J. H. Anderson, Esq., Chairman.
Clarence Smith, Esq., J.P., Hon. Secretary.

The 102nd ANNUAL MEETING will be held at the MANSION HOUSE on Friday, April 27, at 3 o'clock.

The Right Hon. the LORD MAYOR will preside. Speakers: Major and Sheriff DAVIES; Mr. Sheriff HIGGS; the Right Hon. the EARL OF ABERDEEN; Hy. Broadhurst, Esq., M.P.; Rev. A. W. Momerie, M.A.; Ald. Sir R. N. Fowler, Bart., M.P.; W. A. McArthur, Esq., M.P.; Horace B. Marshall, Jun., Esq., B.A., and others.

Admission by ticket only, which can be obtained free of charge at the Office, 52, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.—Under the Special Patronage of H.R.H. PRINCESS CHRISTIAN, H.R.H. DUCHESS OF CONNAUGHT, and H.R.H. DUCHESS OF TECK.—The ANNUAL UNITED SALE OF WORK of the SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING FEMALE WELFARE (President, the Countess of Harrowby) will take place on Thursday and Friday, April 26 and 27, from 12 till 6 o'clock. Dr. W. Pearce, F.S.O., will give a recital on the grand organ on Thursday, at 3 o'clock. Admission Thursday, 2s. 6d., Friday, 1s., Children half-price.

STRANGERS' HOME for ASIATICS, Limehouse.—The Annual Meeting will be held (D.V.) at the Home on Wednesday, April 18, at 3 p.m. Sir R. H. Davies, K.C.S.I., in the chair. All friends of the Oriental are invited to attend.

JERUSALEM, ISRAEL, AND THE BIBLE.—Mr. and Mrs. D. C. JOSEPH, of the Evangelical Mission to Israel, Jerusalem, are (the Lord willing) returning to England for a short time. Mr. Joseph is open for Lectures on the above subject. Ministers of the Gospel, secretaries of Christian Young Men's Associations, and superintendents of Sunday-schools can communicate to Miss MORGAN, office of Messiah's Witness, 138, Clifden-road, Clapton, London. The Lectures will be on the behalf of the Mission to Israel in Jerusalem.

MAIDSTONE CHURCH DEACONESSES' HOME.—The Committee of the Church Deaconesses' Home have vacancies for resident Ladies, either as workers, or for training, on payment. Further particulars on application to the HEAD DEACONESS, Boxley-road, Maidstone.

HOME HOSPITAL, 9 and 32, Lupus-street, St. George's-square, S.W., for Ladies and Children (medical, surgical, and confinement cases). Private wards. Ladies taken as dispensing and midwifery students. The Trustees ask help for free bed.—Address LADY SUPERINTENDENT.

MISS DUDIN BROWN'S FREE HOME OF REST.—The address of this Home will in future be Restdene, Priory-road, instead of Forest-road, Kew, Surrey, as formerly; where respectable girls and women (Protestants), not invalids or very aged, are received for a fortnight free, for rest and change, if well recommended by a lady and a clergyman.—Application to be made to Miss DUDIN BROWN.

THE CANCER HOSPITAL, Free (founded 1851), Fulham-road, Brompton.—Subscriptions will be most thankfully received for this hospital, which is free. Bankers—Messrs. Coutts & Co., Strand, W.C.

W. H. HUGHES, Secretary.

WILL ANY CHRISTIAN help a poor church and congregation to retain their pastor among them. Good work doing, signs of more, but people unable to support.—A. B., care of Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street, E.C.

WOMEN'S MEDICAL MISSION, Midwifery Branch, 143, Clapham-road. Monthly Nurse, disengaged April 15 next. Appointments in town at a day's notice.

SECRETARY, M. M. Branch, as above.

DIVINE HEALING and Power for Service.—Meetings conducted by the Rev. JOHN ALLEN or his workers. Bishopsgate (32, Spital-square), Tuesdays, 7.30 p.m. Camberwell Gate (The Hall, Horsley-street). Tuesdays, 7 p.m. Hackney (Trinity Church, Triangle, Mare-street), Sundays, 3 p.m.; Mondays, 7 p.m.; on Fridays, Baptism of the Spirit, 7 p.m.

Postal address, Balclutha Lodge, Southgate, N.

NEED & REASONS FOR ASKING.

NEED.—A House with lower rooms large enough to hold meetings in—Gospel Meetings, British Women's Gospel Temperance Meetings, &c.; Class and Committee Rooms. Upstairs: Rooms for occasional Visitors, Tired Workers, &c.; and perhaps as a permanence for some whom the Lord has laid aside from active work.

REASONS FOR ASKING.—1st. Because the present Rooms to let in Bristol for these purposes are very expensive, and quite beyond most societies' funds; mostly too large or too small; very noisy, from being near to the trams. 2nd. Because two Houses are now being offered for Sale, in capital positions, with good rooms. 3rd. Because the words of the Lord Jesus to His disciples were, "Hitherto ye have asked nothing in My Name; ask, and ye shall receive" (John xvi. 24); and again, "WHATSOEVER ye shall ask the Father in My Name He will give it you" (John xvi. 23).

The Lord has indeed blessed the Work here, which makes the workers bold to claim His promise, and ask those of His servants who have been given abundance of this world's riches to help in the good work.

It is calculated the amount needed will be about £4,500; which will secure the House, with some Furniture, and enable the start to be made free of debt. Any Donations will be most gratefully received and acknowledged, as well as further particulars given, by MARGARET M. LURY, Bellevue, Upper Redland, Bristol; or may be sent to MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, London, E.C.

CONVALESCENT HOMES, at Bournemouth and Sandgate.—For particulars apply to Mr. JOHN JAMES JONES, Director of the London Samaritan Society, 98, High-street, Homerton, London, E.

ANXIETY OF SOUL. — Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear, are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

Educational.

EDUCATION.—High-class School for Young Ladies.—Principal, Mrs. HALE, A.C.P. and F.S.Sc. London, 1, Carlton-mansions, Clapham-rise, London.—Visiting masters, certificated governesses, and careful personal supervision with home comforts. Pupils prepared for any examination. Instruction made pleasant, and no overworking countenanced. French, German, Latin, drawing, class-singing, and drilling are included in the school fees, which are moderate. Highly recommended by parents of pupils, and Rev. C. H. Spurgeon. Prospectus and testimonials on application to Principal.

"Balham, May 29, 1880.

"I am very reluctant to recommend schools, because I am not always able to judge of the interior arrangements; but in this case I have the utmost pleasure in standing as reference. I can highly commend Mrs. Hale, and have the greatest confidence in her capacity, management, and character, having known her for several years."

C. H. SPURGEON.

FINISHING SCHOOL for Gentlemen's Daughters. Refined, Christian home-life. Careful moral training. High-class instruction. French and German habitually spoken. — Miss ESSER, Rockfield, Lansdowne-road, East Croydon, Surrey.

OCKBROOK MORAVIAN LADIES' SCHOOL, established eighty years. Pupils successfully prepared for the public examinations. Particularly healthy situation. Term will commence May 4.—Apply for particulars to

Miss OSBORNE, Ockbrook, Derby.

EDUCATION IN FRANCE.—Pension Protestante, highly recommended by English and French clergymen. Excellent Christian education. Good accent. Terms moderate.—For references and particulars apply, Mademoiselle MOLLARD, St. Quentin, Aisne, France.

BOURNEMOUTH EDUCATIONAL HOME FOR BOYS.—First-class masters and governesses, resident and visiting. Children from India receive special care and home comforts. A few little Girls received to educate with the Principal's own daughter. Terms and references on application to Mrs. HOLLIS, Moorlands School, Westbourne, Bournemouth.

EXETER.—Rougemont School, 5, Bradninch-place, Principal, Miss WREFORD.—Pupils prepared for Oxford, Cambridge, and Trinity College Examinations. Careful Christian training. Home comforts. Terms moderate.

MORAVIAN LADIES' SCHOOL, Bedford.—Accommodation for thirty boarders and eighteen day scholars. Pupils prepared for Cambridge Local and R.A.M. examinations.—For terms and all particulars, apply to Miss SEIFFERTH, Principal.

A LADY (Widow of an Officer), highly recommends an excellent School for the Daughters of Gentlemen, where her two daughters are completing their education. She can speak confidently and gratefully of the benefits they have received in mental culture, physical health, and sound Christian training, and will be gratified to reply to any parents seeking such information.—Mrs. H. C. C., care of Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street, E.C.

MALVERN, FONTHILL HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL FOR GIRLS. Careful training and home comforts. Resident English and foreign governesses. Visiting professors. Vacancy for a student on half terms.—Principals, the Misses GEATER.

HOME SCHOOL for Girls. Limited number of Boarders. Good education, based on Bible teaching, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness." Pupils prepared for the various Exams. Kindergarten for Juniors. Terms inclusive. Recommended by R. C. Morgan and parents of pupils.—Mrs. SILVESTER, Clarence House, Pellatt-grove, Wood Green.

BRIGHTON.—A few vacancies in a High-class School for Girls. Healthy and pleasant situation. Home comforts. Every educational advantage. Professors in attendance. Terms moderate.

Misses NORTON, Farndon House, Stanford-road

MISS FLETCHER wishes to tell her friends that she has safely returned from Africa by the Trojan, and hopes to recommence School, April 19, assisted by her Masters, T. H. Davis, Esq., M.A. Oxon; T. J. Simon, Esq. She looks forward to meeting her boys at London Bridge, on day mentioned.

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL for Girls.—Comfortable home, careful Christian training, and thorough teaching. Successful preparation for public examinations. Vacancy for Kindergarten student.

Miss BASTIN, Glebe-place, Stoke Newington, N.

A LADY WISHES to recommend an old-established School for the daughters of Gentlemen, situated in one of the healthiest suburbs in the south-west of London. Large modern house, with good garden and tennis court. The Principals, who belong to the Evangelical Church of England, take great interest in the religious and moral training of their pupils, giving them also a sound education, combined with home comforts. Resident foreign governess, visiting masters.—For prospectus, apply to

Mrs. SPENCER, 14, Beauchamp-place, Brompton.

HIGH-CLASS CHRISTIAN SCHOOL for the Daughters of Gentlemen.—Miss PENN receives a limited number of pupils. Efficient resident governesses and visiting masters. Individual Christian influence. Home comforts. Large house and garden. Entire charge taken of pupils from abroad. Languages and music specialities. Young Ladies are also received to pursue certain studies only, or to take lessons in dressmaking, cooking, &c.

St. John's de Ocklynge, Eastbourne.

LUCTON SCHOOL, HENFIELD, (near Brighton). Home School for Girls. Every educational advantage of High Class schools, based on Christian principles. Boys also received, with entirely separate supervision, under the care of Mr. E. J. H. Churcher, M.R.C.P., and F.S.Sc. London. Great experience with foreign pupils. From five guineas per term. References.—Address,

LADY PRINCIPAL.

EDUCATION.—Germany.—Count and Countess Korff highly recommend Fräulein HERMANNI'S School in Wiesbaden (formerly Hermanni and Brügelmann). Fräulein HERMANNI receives a limited number of pupils. There is a resident French governess, and best professors attend. Excellent Christian influence. Great advantages for languages, music, singing, and painting.—Fräulein HERMANNI, Dotzheimer Strasse 10.

EDUCATIONAL HOME for Girls, combining a first-class education, including languages and accomplishments, with systematic training in light domestic work and cooking. Evangelical ministry. Pupils prepared for the College of Preceptors' examinations. Inclusive fee 12 guineas a term, payable in advance.

W. S. C., 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street, E.C.

ABBOTSFORD SCHOOL, Longfleet, Dorset. — Healthy and pleasant neighbourhood. Thorough education. Certificated teachers. Terms 30 guineas. Parlour boarders received. Pupil-Governess required. Moderate terms. Every educational advantage.

Principal, Miss WHITFIELD.

MARLBOROUGH COLLEGE for Young Ladies, Larkbeare, Exeter.—Residents only. Unusual successes in the University Local Examinations (without pressure). Highest testimonials from parents of social position, Evangelical clergy, and others. Safe Christian training. Liberal diet. Healthful surroundings. Governess-Pupil required, to whom is offered exceptional advantages. Premium, 30 guineas.

CHILDREN FROM TEN TO FIFTEEN years of age will have a good education in a Deaconess' Boarding School. Terms very moderate. —Fräu OBERIN VON LÜDERITZ, Rev. Wacker, Flensberg, Germany.

RECIPROCAL TERMS. — Young Lady (19) wishes to enter a good school, conducted on sound Christian principles, where she can teach music, and receive lessons in music and singing. Passed Trinity Coll. exams. Jun. and Sen. Practical, Jun. Theory. Twelve months' good testimonial.

M. H., 17. Barn-hill, Stamford.

EDUCATION FOR LITTLE BOYS in Brighton.—The Misses ASHBY receive young Gentlemen for Board and Education, at 3, Lansdowne-road. Constant attention is paid to health and comfort, and the pleasures of home are combined with the regulations of school.

OPENING FOR GOOD SCHOOL, Boarding and Day. Much needed. Opportunity to help in Village Mission work. Three miles from station G.E.R., 25 from London. High; healthy. Great advantages offered to suitable tenant.

AGENT, Ramsden, Essex.

BOARDING HOUSE for Children in a healthy suburb of Reading. If attending schools or classes, assistance given in home work. Special arrangements made for holidays. Lessons in painting (water-colours and oils).—SOUTH, care of Miss Langley, The Library, Reading.

HASTINGS, 5, Coburg-place.—A comfortable Boarding School for young children' conducted by Mrs. Matthews, late of Highbury-New-park, London. A thorough Christian training will be given. Children may also be received during holidays, with every home comfort. Terms on application. References kindly permitted to Rev. E. A. STUART, of Holloway, and other clergymen.

CHRISTIAN PARENTS seeking School for Boys, where the Scriptures form the basis of all religious instruction, are invited to apply for prospectus of Alma House School, Wood Green, N.—Address PRINCIPAL.

BOTTENS SCHOOL (Vaud, Switzerland) to be opened in May. Director, Mons. MEYLAN, formerly Master at Monkton Combe School (Bath). For Boys 8 to 16. Healthy place; far from the temptations of the town. Much attention will be paid to physical development. As to learning, more stress will be laid upon quality than quantity. French spoken. Terms £60.—Apply to M. MEYLAN, for the present, at Edinburgh, 23, Howe-street.

HIGHBURY HOUSE SCHOOL, St. Leonards-on-Sea.—Boys received from 6 to 18 years of age. Three separate Departments. Juniors under the care of Ladies, Seniors under a staff of seven Resident Masters, thoroughly qualified to prepare for commerce, public schools, or universities. Delicate boys specially cared for. Summer term commences May 5. Cricket, athletic sports, gymnastics, sea bathing, and swimming.—For prospectus, apply to Mrs. DUFF, the Lady Principal.

EDUCATION IN HIGHGATE.—Rev. G. D. BARTLET, M.A., receives fourteen boarded pupils (from ten years) at his residence, South-grove, Highgate. Superior home, individual attention, thorough grounding, and careful Christian training. Highgate is strongly recommended by the medical profession. Reference permitted to Revs. J. M. Gibbon, Highgate, and Robert Balgarnie, 51, Crouch-hill, Crouch-end. Terms from 20 guineas per term.

MANY CHRISTIAN PARENTS, who at the present time are seeking a School at which to place their Sons, are invited to write to the undermentioned, who is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMAN'S BOARDING SCHOOL, where the constant aim of the Principal is to train those committed to his care in the fear of the Lord; and by the power of Gospel teaching maintain a Christian tone among the boys, combining this with a thorough and first-class Education.

The Premises are advantageously situated upon HIGH GROUND, NEAR and WITH VIEWS OF THE SEA, on the South Coast, a short run from London, and afford especial facilities for outdoor recreation.

Prospectus and Papers of Examinations passed and honours gained will be forwarded on application, together with a BOOK OF some of the TESTIMONIALS presented by parents of present and past scholars.

Dr. THORN, Paddington, London.

NEW COLLEGE,

Cliftonville, Margate.

Head Master: REV. G. HUGH JONES, F.A.S.

Latin, Greek, French, German, and thorough English. Preparation for Exams., public schools, and commerce. Resident foreign master. Decided Christian training. Splendid premises, close to sea. Moderate fees.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL for Little Boys, conducted by a Lady of great experience, and with high recommendations. Very comfortable home for the children of parents going abroad.

PRINCIPAL, Heath, Ilkley, Yorkshire.

THE OLD HALL SCHOOL,

WELLINGTON, SHROPSHIRE.

A High-class School for the Sons of Gentlemen. Established 1845. Principal: DR. CRANAGE, M.A.; Vice-Principal: ROBERT WESTON, Esq., B.A., T.C.D.

MOUNT RADFORD SCHOOL, Exeter. —Boys are prepared for business or professional life. Many matriculate at the various universities. During the last twelve years pupils have obtained more than two hundred certificates (many passing in honours) in the Oxford, Cambridge, College of Preceptors', and London University Examinations. Special attention paid to juniors, who are taught by a lady. The Word of God is made the sole basis of a careful moral and spiritual training, and none but Christian teachers are employed. Cricket, athletics, &c.

Head Master, E. H. VINE, M.C.P.

BRIGHTON.— EDUCATION.— Mr. ALFRED CLARK, B.A. (Lond.), receives about twenty Sons of Gentlemen, from seven to fourteen years of age. Terms from 45 guineas. Pupils are thoroughly grounded in English subjects, Latin, Greek, French, German, and mathematics, and have been successful at Cambridge Local and other Examinations. Personal care, Christian influence, and a healthy, happy home.—85, Buckingham-road, Brighton.—Referees: Mrs. W. Poole Balfern, Brighton; Rev. F. Cruse, Christ Church Vicarage, Worthing; Rev. J. B. Figgis, Brighton; Mr. and Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness, Harley House, Bow-road, London; Rev. W. Haslam, 66, Marina, St. Leonard's. Term commences May 4.

STANLEY HOUSE, Cliftonville, Margate.—The Principal (A. E. COZENS, M.C.P.), assisted by a graduate of London University, seeks by careful, individual attention, to secure the well-being of each Pupil. Drilling, dumb-bells, class-singing, Conv. French, German, &c., are included in the school course. Preparation for Exams. Terms moderate and inclusive.

YOUR BOYS will have a Christian home and sound education with Mr. and Mrs. DIXON, Middle Class School, Kingston-on-Thames. Abundant diet. Beautiful neighbourhood. 20 to 30 guineas yearly. Prospectus. Jesus only.

CLIFTON, BRISTOL.—Pupils received in residence. Home comforts. Careful personal Christian training and instruction. Locality noted for its great natural attractions and exceptional healthfulness. Open Brethren.

Mr. HOWELL, Aberdeen-road.

LONDON UNIVERSITY EXAMINATIONS.—Experienced Tutor prepares by Correspondence. Reading prescribed, questions set, answers carefully corrected, and hints given each week.—W. H. ALEXANDER, B.A., 5, Bishopsgate Without, London, E.C.

EDUCATION. — Mr. HERBERT TAYLOR would be glad to hear of one or two Sons of Gentlemen, about fifteen years of age, to educate with his own son.
Hadley Bourne, Barnet.

INWORTH HALL SCHOOL, Kelvedon, Essex. (Boys.) Thorough commercial education, 24 guineas, including French, laundress, and books. Unlimited diet, happy home, lovely grounds. No quarter's notice. No corporal punishment.
Address, PRINCIPAL.

OPENING FOR LESSONS, or Tutorship, required by Oxford Graduate (married). Some years' experience in tuition. England or Continent.
C. W., 2, Highview-road, Upper Norwood, S.E.

GENEVA.—A young English Lady, wishing to learn French, and willing to give English lessons, would be received on very advantageous terms in a small Boarding School. Christian family.—Madame ROSSET, Villa Streit, aux Acacias, à Genève.

A LADY WISHES to receive a little Girl, from 8 to 12 years old, from a Christian home, to be educated with her own daughters. Evangelical Church of England ministry.—Particulars from Mrs. S., The Chantry House, Newport, Isle of Wight.

PUPIL-TEACHER required, Ladies' School. Terms very moderate, according age, &c. Good education. Careful Christian training. Healthy situation. Preparation for College Preceptors' Exams. Ensuing term, May 4.
Miss HENSON, Petersfield.

TO SCHOOLS.—A Governess (57) would be glad, for small salary, to assist in teaching, or household duties. Conscientious and obliging. Good references.
ANNIE, 72, New Church-road, Camberwell, S.E.

MUSIC.—Lady requires re-engagement as Resident Teacher of Piano, Harmony, and Singing in good school. Two years' experience. Good testimonials.
J. P., 14, Blythe-villas, West Kensington-park, W.

A LADY DESIRES a re-engagement as Governess or Companion. Experienced in tuition. Thorough English, French, elementary Latin, music, drawing, painting, and calisthenics.
A. B., 2, Great Elm's-road, Bromley, Kent.

A TUTOR wanted, in a Preparatory School for the Sons of Gentlemen. Decided Christian. Thorough teacher and good disciplinarian.—A. B., Robinson's, Queen-street, Margate.

A LADY WISHES to recommend her Assistant Governess to a post in a school or family. Good music, French, Latin, drawing. Matriculated at London Univ. with honours.
C. S., Highbury House, St. Leonards-on-Sea.

GOVERNESS, Evangelical, experienced, cheerful teacher, seeks a re-engagement. Subjects, English, French (Paris), German (Hanover), music, water-colours. — EMS, Horn, Stationer, 2, Willow-road, Hampstead, London.

A JUNIOR GOVERNESS wanted. Requirements, English, music, and needlework. Also a Student, on half terms.
PRINCIPAL, Devonia House, St. Thomas, Exeter.

A LADY WISHES to place her Daughter, 18, accustomed to teach, in a superior Christian school, on reciprocal terms. Seaside preferred.—Mrs. W., 200, Burrage-road, Plumstead.

A LADY, experienced and certificated, wishes to give lessons in music, singing, and harmony, in return for a home.—Miss ATKINSON, care of R. Mundey, Esq., Bigby-street, Brigg, Lincolnshire.

GOVERNESS-STUDENT required in select finishing school near London. English, music, French, German, and drawing under first-class professors. Premium 18 guineas. Light duties. Home comforts.—PRINCIPAL, Clarendon College, 16, Dalmeny-rd., Tufnell-park, London, N.

COMPANION - PUPIL. — A well brought-up little Girl would be received as above, to the two youngest pupils, on very moderate terms.
PRINCIPAL, Longton College, Sydenham, S.E.

GOVERNESS REQUIRED, in a Ladies' School. Thorough English, adv. arith. Latin, singing; accustomed to school discipline, Able to take entire charge of school-room when necessary. 25 pupils.—Ravensworth, Margate.

EXPERIENCED GOVERNESS (23) desires re-engagement in family. English in all its branches, French, German, Latin, music, drawing. No objection to boys. Salary £35.
M., 2, Chatsworth-villas, Barnes, Surrey.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Wanted.

ALBERT AND FRANK RAVILIOUS having conducted Gospel Services at Tonbridge for three years, are now open for engagements, Town or country. References given.
Christian Mission, Old Town Hall, Tonbridge.

A CLERGYMAN recommends a respectable Christian Man as Attendant to an Invalid Gentleman. Can have doctor's certificate from his last place.
UN, Rev. Dr. Morgan, St. Mary's, Leamington.

TO DRAPERS.—Young Man seeks re-engagement as junior. Four years' experience in last situation.
G. COLLETT, 2, Cedar-terrace, Sevenoaks.

WANTED, BY AN ELDERLY SEAFARING MAN, age 60, who is tired of the rough life on the high seas, some employment on shore, if possible at docks, or some occupation in connection with shipping. Has held position as first officer. Salary of little account if suitable occupation and board and lodging found. First-class references.
C. H., Passmore, Stationer, Cheapside, E C.

AS COACHMAN, or Coachman and Gardener. Married. Two children. Total abstainer. Five years' good character.
R. H. LEONARD, 6, Polsham-road, Paignton.

DISPENSER (Lady) desires a situation as Assistant Dispenser, or Dispenser. Has had some experience. Terms, &c.,
F. S., 220, Marylebone-road, London, N.W.

HOUSEKEEPER.—Re-engagement required, by Lady, experienced. Could take entire charge, or assist as Companion, or Matron.—N., care of Mr. Stoner, 5, Pyrmont-grove, Lansdown-hill, West Norwood.

A MATRON requires re-engagement as Matron in a Convalescent Home, or some Institution in similar work. Abstainer. Experienced, active, and good references.—A. B., Brook Cottage, Ford End, Chelmsford, Essex.

BOARDING SCHOOLS OR HOMES.—A Worker, of experience, seeks employment in either of the above, as Superintendent, Housekeeper, or Matron. Accustomed to large numbers
A. B., Ebley Villa, near Stroud, Gloucester.

A LADY recommends an experienced Nurse for a first baby. A Christian and an abstainer. In fellowship with Open Brethren. Age 44. Wages £30.
S. S., 162, Warwick-street, London, S.W.

LADY RECOMMENDS a conscientious person, aged 27, as Attendant on Lady; or well suited for children out of arms.
K. M., 11, Sandringham-gardens, Ealing, W.

CHRISTIAN GOVERNESSES, Companions, and Lady Housekeepers of high principles, are frequently supplied to Ladies seeking such, by application to the Governess Registry, Soho Bazaar, Soho-square, London, W. Testimonials never dispensed with. Free of all expense to Parents.

A WIDOWED CHRISTIAN GENTLEWOMAN having, through bereavement, given up her house, desires a Home with an elderly or blind Lady or Gentleman, to whom she would be pleased to act as Companion and Housekeeper. Advertiser is highly educated, a good reader, amanuensis, musical, of amiable disposition, and quiet but cheerful habits.
BETA, 36, Ladbroke-grove-road, W.

AS MATRON, or Needlewoman in a Gentleman's School, by a very respectable person. Two years' reference.—E. W., care of Miss Hall, Y.W.C.A., 316, Regent-street, W.

A YOUNG LADY wishes to obtain a position as Companion. Good reader. Would not object to travel.—Miss GOULTY, 2, Sussex-square, Brighton, kindly allows her name for reference and address.

LADY having a knowledge of Nursing, desires an engagement as Companion or Matron. Good references.—No. 905, Keith & Co., Advertising Agents, Edinburgh.

A CLERGYMAN'S WIFE highly recommends a Lady as Companion. Amiable, kind, and thoughtful; well connected. Good practical housekeeper, of several years' experience.—St. John's Vicarage, 400, Commercial-road, London, E.

A LADY (28) desires an engagement as Useful Companion, invalid Nurse, or Nursery Governess to one or two children. Domesticated. Good needlewoman. Good references. Small salary.—K. P., 129, Battersea-rise, S.W.

A LADY, experienced, sincerely wishes appointment to assist generally, or control household, travel with lady or family. Worker; helpful in any way. Reliable references.
ALMA, Cherwell House, Mortimer.

AS USEFUL HELP, or Attendant on elderly Lady. Wanted by a conscientious, trustworthy person, age 38. Good reader. Highest references. — E., Messrs. Skeen Brothers, Bedford Hill-road, Balham.

A YOUNG GIRL (18), willing and obliging, desires a situation as Lady Help to a Christian Widow or single Lady.
E. HORNIBLOW, Shipton-on-Stour, Worcestershire.

NURSERY GOVERNESS or Mother's Help. Domesticated, fond of children, and Dissenter.
L. R., Longley Cottage, Summerhill-road, Dartford.

A YOUNG LADY seeks an engagement as willing Helper and Companion to a Lady engaged in Christian work. Comfortable home desired.—G., Miss Squire, Silsoe, Ampthill.

A MIDDLE-AGED LADY seeks a re-engagement as Companion or Housekeeper, or any post of trust and confidence, in a Christian family. Abstainer. Evangelical. Good references. —Miss SHOOSMITH, 7, Windsor-road, Denmark-hill, S.E.

A LADY SEEKS a re-engagement as Companion to a Lady, or invalid. Domesticated, musical. No objection to one or two pupils. Good references.
Miss F. SCOTT, 17, Cornhill, Dorchester.

A CHRISTIAN LADY (28) seeks a position as Matron or Housekeeper in Y.W.C.A., or similar institution. Comfortable home, small salary. Thoroughly domesticated.
E. N., The Laurels, Wetherden, Haughley, Suffolk.

WANTED, BY TWO SERVANTS, situations in same family, as Plain Cook and House-Parlourmaid. £18 and £14. Quiet Christian home, in London preferred (not essential).—KATE, 2, Lynwood-villas, Whittingdon-road, Bowes-park, N.

WILL ANY KIND LADY take a good Cook, who has lost one of her hands. She has been an unusually good servant, and can still cook well, and undertake a light place. Thoroughly trustworthy. Age 35.—J. B., 56, Rednall-terrace, Great Church-lane, Hammersmith.

WILL ANY LADY take a young Girl, who has fallen, but wishes to redeem her character. Full particulars given.—SECRETARY, Rescue and Preventive Society, 113, High-street, Newport, I.W.

PLACE WANTED in Christian family, for hopeful case of Girl desiring to retrieve character.—J., care of Miss Clifford, Redland-green, Bristol.

WILL ANY LADY take into her service a young Woman anxious to redeem her character. Has been lady's maid, and a good dressmaker, but willing to undertake any situation.
M. S., Wimbledon-common Post-office, S.W.

THE MATRON of Surrey Cottage, Coronation-street, Cambridge, requires situations for respectable Girls, ages from 14 to 16; also for one 18, who wishes to retrieve her character.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Vacant.

HEATHEN AT HOME AND ABROAD.—Working-men and women wanted to be trained free as Evangelists and Mission Nurses. Is this a call for you?—Apply for details, CHURCH ARMY, 130, Edgware-road, London, W.

MAN AND WIFE wanted in a Christian family. Man to attend upon a Gentleman mentally weak (must be experienced), and to assist in home or garden. Wife to act as Cook. Abstainers. Apply, stating particulars,
M. E. D., 23, Marine-parade, Worthing.

GARDENER.—Can any Gentleman or Christian Gardener recommend a thoroughly steady, conscientious Lad of about 18, to work as Under, in a small garden about 25 miles from London.—ALPHA, Pilgrim's Hatch, Brentwood.

AN ENGINEER WANTED for a Steamer on the Niger River. Member of Church of England and unmarried preferred.—Apply by letter, with testimonials, to
C. M. S., 16, Salisbury-square, E.C.

WOOLLEN MERCHANT, LONDON, requires young, competent Manager (with travelling connection preferred), able to give security. Or is open to sell his small business at two years purchase.—Write to X., care of Y.M.C.A., 186' Aldersgate-street, E.C.

LADY RESIDENT SUPERINTENDENT wanted for small Y.W.C.A. Institute at seaside place, who can give her services in return for board, &c.—Mrs. MELVILL GREEN, Worthing.

NO SALARY.—Required, a young Lady, between the ages of 24 and 28, to assist the lady of the house in household management (nothing menial), in exchange for a comfortable home. She must be a lady, possessing a good temper, obliging and willing, and a Christian, not High Church. Good references required.—Address, by letter only, with particulars, to Mrs. GAWTON, 87, Cambridge-gardens, North Kensington.

COUPLE WANTED, with experience, to manage Coffee Tavern, Hall, and Library. Abstainers. Small salary, with board.—Address, with copies of testimonials, to H., Caue's Registry Office, Southborough, Tunbridge Wells.

LADY SARAH SLADEN wishes to hear of a good Matron. A decided Christian, active, has had experience in the care and management of boys, can cut out and make clothes, and would undertake thoroughly the care of wardrobes and house-linen.—Ripple Court, near Deal.

WORKING HOUSEKEEPER or good General Servant wanted. Must be earnest Christian, and abstainer; good cook, early riser, and clean. Moderate wages. Another kept.
Mrs. B., 336, Camden-road, London, N.

LADY NURSE-COMPANION wanted, about 30, for an aged Gentleman. Requirements, hospital training, cheerfulness, perfect temper.—Mrs. W., care of C. J. Snellgrove, Stationer, Newland-terrace, Kensington.

CAN ANY LADY recommend a Christian Head Nurse, of any nationality but Irish? Chief requisites, good temper, love for children, strict truthfulness, and a good needlewoman. Wages good. No beer.—Mrs. YATES, Bisbrook Hall, Bisbrook, Uppingham, Rutland.

GOOD PLAIN COOK and House-Parlourmaid wanted, for one Lady. Only two servants kept. Between 25 and 35 years. Good servants, and kind Christian women, much desired.
7, Rosslyn-gardens, Hampstead.

MANITOBA.—To intending Emigrants.—Advertiser is open to engage, for farm and general work, a Husband and Wife. Christians, with some experience.—Apply by letter, CLELAND, Kilrock, Bridge of Allan.

SUPERIOR PERSON wanted as Head of the Kitchen. Family of four. Good cook and manager. A really trustworthy, conscientious Christian will be highly valued. All particulars by letter only, to "LEAMINGTON," care of T. H. Philpots, Esq., 25, Bedford-row, London, W.C.

CARETAKERS (married couple) wanted for a Mission Room in N.W. district. Rent, coals, and gas free, and an allowance granted for cleaning. The services of the man required only in the evenings, and on Sundays. One preferred who could occasionally take part in the meetings (evangelistic and temperance).—C. J., care of Davies & Co., Advertising Agents, Finch-lane, Cornhill.

WANTED, END OF APRIL, superior Christian Servant, about 22, as Useful Maid to young Ladies over 12. English, healthy, cheerful, and kind. Good needlewoman. Some knowledge of dressmaking and hairdressing. A little housework. Wages £22, no beer.—Apply personally, 43, Hertford-street, Mayfair, before 11 or after 5.

A GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted. Willing to assist in housework. Wages £18.
Mrs. DAY, 16, Segland-road, Lee, S.E.

STRONG GIRL wanted, aged 17 to 19, as Under-Nurse. Must have highest personal references.—Apply by letter, Mrs. JOHN PARKER, St. Peter's Chambers, Bournemouth.

CAN ANY LADY recommend a respectable General Servant of good character. Wages £14. A comfortable home.
F. B., 4, Tower-terrace, Wood-green, N.

KITCHENMAID wanted, in a quiet place. Some knowledge of dairy and baking. Experienced cook and scullerymaid kept. Church of England.—Mrs. CUNDY, Southborough-park, Long Ditton, Kingston-on-Thames.

GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, for the country. £16 to £18. No washing or baking. Also HOUSE-PARLOURMAID. £12 to £14. Only two in family. All found. No beer.—Mrs. PUGH, Shipton Cliffe Rectory, near Cheltenham.

A YOUNG PERSON wanted, about 18, as General Servant, under personal supervision. Must be clean, trustworthy, and an abstainer.—Miss MARTIN, 33, Upper Montagu-street, Montagu square, W.

GENERAL SERVANT wanted. Ten in family. Must be clean, and an early riser. Boy kept for boots and knives.—Write to M. H., Byron Lodge, Greenhill, Harrow.

GENERAL SERVANT (superior). Plain cooking. Wanted at once. Country. Two in family. Housemaid kept. No beer. Age 22 to 24. Good personal character indispensable.—Apply with full particulars, by letter only,
Mrs. TODD, Hextable Lodge, Swanley, Kent.

A GOOD GENERAL SERVANT wanted, in a small family. Comfortable home.
161, The Grove, Hammersmith.

GOOD GENERAL SERVANT wanted, on April 24, in Minister's house. Must be active and tidy, and well recommended.
J. M., 23, Part-street, Southport, Lancs.

MISS MAULDEN has numerous vacancies for Plain Cooks and good Generals. Comfortable situations. Small families. Town and country. Good wages to competent servants. —Address, Church-street, Paddington-green. Stamped envelope.

To Let, Apartments, &c.

PERCY'S HOTEL, LONDON.
40, Bedford-place, Bloomsbury-sq., W.C.

First-class Private, highly recommended by the Bishop of Algoma; Rev. M. E. Thorold, M.A., Leicester; Dr. Georgens, Ouchy, Lausanne; J. Bevan and Mrs. Braithwaite, 312, Camden-road, and many others. Terms very moderate. Tariff on application.—Mrs. LLOYD HARRIS, Proprietress.

LONDON.
WEST CENTRAL HOTEL.
(First-class Temperance), 97, 99, 101, 103, Southampton-row, Russell-square.—Highly commended by Rev. Charles Williams; Rev. John Cairns, D.D.; Rev. A. B. Grosart, D.D.; Rev. H. S. Paterson, M.D.; Rev. and Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness, F.R.G.S.; T. W. Russell, Esq., M.P.; Dr. Norman Kerr; Frederick Sherlock, Esq.; Dr. Ziemann. Plain Breakfast or Tea 1s. 3d. Beds, 1s. 6d. to 2s. 6d. A very comfortable winter residence. Printed Tariff on application to FREDERIC SMITH, Proprietor.

HENDERSON'S HOTEL, LONDON,
20, Bedford-place, Russell-sq., W.C.
This first-class Private Hotel is highly recommended by readers of THE CHRISTIAN from all parts of the world. Weekly boarders from £2 2s. Beds from 1s. 6d. Tariff on application.—Mrs. GRACE PERCY HENDERSON, Proprietress. Late of 40, Bedford-place.

(Continued on page 22.)

EXETER HALL.—Visitors to the London May Meetings can obtain "The Christian," also any other publications of Messrs. Morgan & Scott, at the Bookstall in the Vestibule, Exeter Hall.

TOUCH THE CONGREGATION

By singing to them a Hymn set as a Solo with a gentle and musical Chorus. These are provided in

SACRED QUARTETS

Issued in two vols. at 4s. each, or in numbers, 1½d. each. Staff notations with organ accompaniment, the voice parts also in Sol-fa over the Staff.

J. Curwen & Sons, 8 & 9, Warwick Lane, E.C.

Just Published, Price One Penny.

PRIMROSE DAY.

A STORY OF THREE CENTURIES AGO.

For the Present Time, and for All Parties.

April 19th, 1529—April 19th, 1888.

S. W. Partridge & Co., 9, Paternoster-row, London.

Oxford University Press.

THE

OXFORD BIBLE FOR TEACHERS

IS NOW ISSUED in Twelve Sizes, with the text arranged in each so as to correspond page for page with all the others.

Seven Sizes are printed on best Rag-made Printing Paper, and vary in price from 3s. to 45s.

Five Sizes are printed on thin opaque INDIA PAPER, and are extremely light and thin. They vary in weight from 12½ ounces to 22 ounces, and in price from 7s. to 46s., not exceeding an inch in thickness.

It contains supplementary HELPS TO THE STUDY OF THE BIBLE, including Notes Analytical, Chronological, Historical, and Geographical; a Biblical Index; Concordance; Dictionary of Scripture Proper Names; Maps; a Compendium of Scripture Natural History, &c., which have been carefully Revised and Enlarged from time to time by Dr. Stubbs, Bishop of Chester; Dr. Edwin Palmer, Archdeacon of Oxford; Dr. Angus, and other eminent scholars. The scientific information was prepared under the supervision of Professors Rolleston, Westwood, Lawson, and Earle—names of the highest authority in their several departments.

THE DEAN OF GLOUCESTER:—"They are to my mind simply perfect, whether I look at them from the standpoint of a Biblical Scholar or of a Sunday School Teacher."

THE REV. C. H. SPURGEON:—"The very best. I have carefully examined the volume, and can unreservedly recommend it."

THE REV. HUGH PRICE HUGHES:—"I have used this book for years, and can only join in the universal chorus of all students of Scripture in describing its high merits, and commending it to all."

THE SALE OF THE

OXFORD BIBLE FOR TEACHERS

ALREADY EXCEEDS

NINE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

At all Booksellers.

London: HENRY FROWDE, Oxford University Press Warehouse, Amen Corner, E.C.

BY THE LATE GEORGE BREALEY.

BLACKDOWN TRACTS.

A SERIES OF NARRATIVE TRACTS.

By GEORGE BREALEY.

Specially suited for circulation in Villages and Agricultural Districts. 64 Tracts in a Packet, 6d.; 128 Tracts, 1s.; 6s. 4d. per 1000, if ordered through a Bookseller.

If for Gratuitous Distribution, these Tracts may be had, on application direct to the Publishers, for 5s. per 1000.

FIRST SERIES. Nos. 1—16.

The Witch and the King of the Sky.
What is Faith?
"I am going Home to be Saved!"
How John Wood paid his 74 years' debt.
Swift Judgment.
"You must die in three days"
Letters from the Little Ones, and how they are Saved.
"I've left it all to Jesus."
The Two Purses.
"I didn't know I was such a Sinner."
"Saved in Five Minutes!"
The Wet Blanket and the Burning House.
"I pleaded Guilty!"
"Thank God, I'm Saved!"
"We be afeard!"
"I can't make it out!"

SECOND SERIES. Nos. 17—32.

Same prices as First Series.

Wrath Restrained.
Faith, Trial, and Triumph.
Victory through the Blood of the Lamb
"My Husband's Name."
The Prey taken from the Mighty
"Sixty for One!"
"I can dance for joy now!"
Drawn to Jesus.
"What I Gained and what I Lost."
Sorrow turned to Joy.
"Then I must be Lost!"
"Because I was Invited!"
The Drowning Child.
"I am Ready!"
The Two Hiding Places.
"This belongs to me."

"The Blackdown Tracts are most excellent for general distribution. No Christian worker is fully equipped for service without a supply of such inexpensive literature, which may be dropped or given away freely, enclosed in letters, slipped into books, and otherwise deftly scattered. These have a particular adaptation for the impenitent."—New York Advocate and Guardian

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

ARROWS SHOT AT A VENTURE.

A SERIES OF NARRATIVE TRACTS.

By GEORGE BREALEY,
Author of "The Blackdown Tracts."

Price 6d. per Packet of 12 Tracts, assorted.

Each Tract consists of Sixteen Pages, tastefully printed on tinted paper. The narratives are interesting, the application concise, and there are earnest and pointed appeals to unawakened souls.

CONTENTS.

1. The Bridge of Love.
2. A Life-belt for Sinking Souls.
3. Nanny and her Burden.
4. "Mighty to Save."
5. The Shipwreck.
6. Law and Mercy.
7. Taken at his Word.
8. The Christmas Dinner.
9. "The Door is open, Donald."
10. Old Maggie's Three Texts.
11. Received or Rejected?
12. Giving and Taking.

"A sixpenny packet, containing a dozen narrative Tracts of eight sorts, in which the Gospel is very clearly presented and illustrated by true incidents of a striking character. For general circulation they are capital, and are sure to be read."—Word and Work.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

PLAIN QUESTIONS.

A SERIES OF POINTED APPEALS
IN THE VERY WORDS OF SCRIPTURE.

Neatly Printed in Chocolate Ink, on Tinted Paper.

SUITABLE FOR GENERAL DISTRIBUTION.

And also for Enclosing in Letters.

2s. 6d. per Thousand.

The Series comprises the following Questions.

1. "WHAT THINK YE OF CHRIST?"
2. "IS IT WELL WITH THEE?"
3. "WHAT SHALL I DO WITH JESUS?"
4. "HOW SHALL WE ESCAPE?"
5. "WHAT SHALL IT PROFIT?"
6. "WHY WILL YE DIE?"
7. "WHAT HAST THOU DONE?"
8. "WHEN WILT THOU RETURN?"
9. "DOST THOU BELIEVE?"
10. "WHEN WILL YE BE WISE?"
11. "HOW SHOULD WE LIVE?"
12. "WHAT IS YOUR LIFE?"
13. "IS IT NOTHING TO YOU?"
14. "WHERE ART THOU?
15. "WHITHER GOEST THOU?"
16. "WHAT SHALL WE DO?"

⁂ These "PLAIN QUESTIONS" will be found very suitable for GIVING AWAY AS TRACTS, or for ENCLOSING IN LETTERS. As nearly the whole of each Tract is in the EXACT WORDS OF SCRIPTURE, any of the Series can be circulated with great confidence by any who desire to spread the knowledge of the Gospel. Further—the price of the Tractates is so moderate that they are within the reach of almost all who are interested in Tract Distribution or House-to-House Visitation.

Assorted Packets of 150 Tracts, 6d.;
1,000 Tracts, either assorted or of any separate Number, 2s. 6d.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

SCRIPTURE TEXTS for Walls of Mission Rooms, Hospitals, &c. A List of these Large Type Texts, printed in blue ink, size 31 inches by 20 (70 different Texts, 3d. each), will be sent on application to the Publishers, Messrs. Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS.

Compiled and Sung by IRA D. SANKEY. Containing 441 Pieces.

PRESENTATION EDITIONS.

WORDS ONLY.

MINION EDITION.
Size—4⅝ in. by 3 in. by ½ in.

		s.	d.
2C	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges	1	0
3C	Morocco, gilt edges	2	6
4C	" flexible, kid-lined	4	6

MEDIUM TYPE.
Size—6¾ in. by 4 in. by ⅝ in.

		s.	d.
3D	Cloth boards	2	0
4D	Morocco, gilt edges	4	6

EXTRA LARGE TYPE.
Size—6⅝ in. by 5 in. by ⅝ in.

		s.	d.
3E	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges	2	6
4E	Morocco, gilt edges	5	6
5E	" flexible, kid-lined	8	6

EXTRA LARGE TYPE.
Size—6 in. by 4⅜ in. by ½ in.

		s.	d.
9E	Morocco, gilt edges	4	6
10E	" flexible, kid-lined	6	6

MUSIC AND WORDS.

OLD NOTATION.
Size—8¼ in. by 5⅜ in. by ⅞ in.

		s.	d.
4F	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges	5	0
5F	Morocco, gilt edges	8	6
6F	" flexible, kid-lined	12	6
7F	Seal, yapped, kid-lined, silk sewn	21	0

OLD NOTATION.
Size—7⅜ in. by 4¾ in. by ⅝ in.

		s.	d.
3H	Cloth boards, gilt edges	2	6
4H	Morocco, gilt edges	5	6
5H	" flexible, kid-lined	8	6

TONIC SOL-FA.
Size—8¼ in. by 5⅜ in. by ⅞ in.

		s.	d.
4G	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges	5	0
5G	Morocco, gilt edges	8	6

TONIC SOL-FA.
Size—7¼ in. by 4¾ in. by ⅝ in.

		s.	d.
3R	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges	2	6
4R	Morocco, gilt edges	5	6
5R	" flexible, kid-lined	8	6

Quarto Instrumental Editions.

OLD NOTATION.

For use at the Piano, Harmonium, or Organ.

PRESENTATION EDITION.
Size—10½ in. by 8¾ in. by 1¼ in.

	s.	d.
Cloth extra, bevelled boards, gilt edges	16	6
Morocco, gilt edges	30	0

SPECIAL CHEAP EDITION.
Size—9¾ in. by 7¼ in. by 1 in.

	s.	d.
Cloth back, paper sides	5	0
Cloth boards	6	0

A complete Catalogue of the various Editions (fifty-eight in all)—prices from One Penny upwards—will be sent post free upon application to the Publishers.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

FROM THE MISSION FIELD.

We have recently received a large number of letters from missionaries in different parts of the world, acknowledging the receipt of The Christian during the past year, and expressing cordial thanks to the friends—in most cases unknown—who have had the copies posted to them week by week. The writers of the letters in many cases enlarge upon the assistance and encouragement they receive in their work by reading the paper; each number is anxiously expected, and not only whole households, but large circles of readers appreciate the instruction and intelligence thus disseminated.

THE DIFFICULTIES IN ASSAM.

Rev. Charles E. Burdette, American Baptist missionary, Gauhati, in his letter, says:—"We in Assam are in such a hodge-podge of languages that all work is difficult. At this station we preach in two languages, besides English, have school books and most religious books in a third, need a knowledge of a fourth badly, and are continually confronted by those who cannot be clearly taught in any of these tongues. Thirty-five (mostly Garos) were baptized during the past year, and the last annual report shows a membership of 541."

ROMAN CATHOLICISM IN CHINA.

Rev. James Gilmour, of the London Missionary Society in Mongolia, writes:—"I think the Roman Catholics are much more numerous in China than they say, and that they are making much more progress than people imagine. I have never yet been anywhere in North China where the Roman Catholics are not. It is quite true that they gain converts by assisting in law pleas. It is true, too, that they supply poor converts with land; but by whatever means they get their converts, they seem to be able to make sure of retaining them, and it is more difficult for a missionary to do anything with a Roman Catholic than with a heathen."

THE SOUTHERN STATES OF AMERICA.

Rev. R. W. Townend, Fayetteville, North Carolina, remarks upon the important results of the testimony borne in the Southern States by the Protestant churches ever since the Civil War. "In no country on the globe is the Gospel listened to with greater respect than in the South. Here ministers and people put the old interpretations on the Scriptures; and the new isms that afflict religious belief elsewhere are unknown. In a district of country with an area fifteen times that of England, we have never known of an infidel lecturer, nor read of an anarchist speech. In no other country are religion and politics kept so distinct, it being generally considered a stain on the sacred calling for a minister to take an active part in political affairs."

THE GOSPEL IN ATHENS.

Dr. Kalopothakes has charge of a mission station at the Piræus, as well as doing much work in Athens. Mrs. Kalopothakes writes:—"There is now no foreign mission in Greece, except a school for the poor, under the auspices of the Episcopalian Church of the United States. The Greek Evangelical Church has, since the close of 1885, carried on, independently, the evangelistic work, which for several years previously had been under the Southern Presbyterian Church. The result has proved most satisfactory, and there are now more encouraging indications than ever before. Greater numbers attend the services regularly, and a thoughtful attention is manifested. Those who remember the attack upon Dr. Somerville at his last open-air meeting here may be interested to know that the man who is said to have thrown the first stone on that occasion not long since came to our services, and expressed himself as much pleased with all he heard."

MADRAS PRESIDENCY.

Rev. William Powell, American Baptist missionary to the Telegus, says:—"I am glad to say that the Lord is blessing our work here. In a recent tour of nine weeks I had the privilege of immersing and receiving into the church 1243 professed believers in Christ; I was also obliged to decline hundreds more, because I deem it wise always to test new converts for a while."

MEDICAL MISSIONS IN TURKEY.

Dr. G. M. Dobrashian, of the Friends' Mission, Pera, writes:—"Our work is growing here; every day we feel how much there is to be done, and how little we are able to accomplish. The patients come in large numbers to the dispensary; many come as soon as it is light in the morning, and wait at the door until it is time to have the tickets and go in the waiting-room. There they are all read and talked to before any are seen in the consulting-room, and we know in many cases a blessing has been received."

Dr. N. Alexandrian writes from Scutari:—"The income of the Mission is so disappointing, that we have not been able even to pay the rent of the mission house, and we do not know how to carry on the work during the remainder of the year. It is a terrible thought for us to close the dispensary against the widows and orphans in their suffering—to refuse the tottering old, and suffering children, when they apply for treatment. The sum of £250 keeps the Mission for a whole year."

AN OPENING IN INDIA.

Mr. Frederick Nicholson, of the Anglo-Indian Evangelisation Society, Chunar, writes:—"Will you allow me a small space in your journal to recommend Chunar, North-West Provinces of India, as a good place for any intending to come out to India as missionaries unattached to any society? Let me enumerate a few of its advantages. Chunar is a cheap place; a person can live cheaper out here than in England. Houses are less rent, and servants' wages are lower here than in any place I know of in India. There is a field for sanctified workers of both sexes among the Europeans and Eurasians of Chunar, so that while the native language is being acquired, no time need be wasted. The heathen here are utterly neglected, there being no Gospel preaching in the bazaar, and no visiting among the zenana women."

◆

OUR SOLDIERS ABROAD.

Sir,—Having found that several young fellows, members of the Y.M.C.A., who take in The Christian, after reading have no further use for it, the thought occurred to me to get them to post it every week to some soldier away from Bristol who would be glad to have it. There are now just about a dozen who are doing so, and we find that not only are the soldiers and their comrades benefited by reading the paper, but the senders have now a real interest in and sympathy for the soldiers; thus by their prayers and sympathies the Lord's work among our soldiers will receive blessing.

Should any of your readers like to have the name of a soldier to whom to send The Christian, I shall be glad to hear from such.

Yours faithfully, Cecil G. Smith, Sec.
Y.M.C.A. Rooms, The Barton, Bristol.

DEACON ABRAHAM AND HIS PEOPLE.—In a letter to an English correspondent, Deacon Abraham says respecting his people: "There are trials of poverty, death, &c., and one more trial is—and I think this is the worst of all—that amongst our people there is, just now, much looking to denominations. I do not care for denominations, but for Christ, and am busy preaching Him to everyone and anywhere I can—busy in the school and at our Homes. Though we are not without severe trials, yet we are sure that the Lord is our helper. Still we need your prayers and the prayers of all friends, that we may be able to work more for Him who gave Himself for us." Deacon Abraham asks his friends in England, not only to assist him in his labours, but also to remember the orphans of the late Deacon Marcus.

THE GOSPEL IN ITALY.

There is much that is very interesting and encouraging in the seventeenth evangelisation report of the Free Christian Church in Italy. The pages of the report are embellished with wood-cut portraits of prominent workers and converts of the Church, including Rev. J. R. McDougall, Signor Gavazzi (who is now eighty years of age), Dr. Joseph Beltrami (ex-Roman Catholic priest), Father Federigo Antonio da Seregno (ex-Capuchin preacher of the order of St. Francis), Dr. Felici, and the late Signor Romualdo Bertola.

Dr. Beltrami is a convert of much promise. He has not yet reached the age of thirty. He was formerly professor of philosophy in the episcopal seminary of Brescia, and a brilliant future opened before him in the Romish Church. The task was, however, imposed upon him of studying the Bible, in order to confute from his pulpit the "errors of Protestantism"; but he was himself converted by the light of the Gospel, and he immediately gave himself up to the work of evangelisation. Father Federigo is an eloquent and persuasive preacher, having been appointed Apostolic missionary by Leo XIII., and honorary chaplain of Holy House of Loretto. He, too, by means of an Italian Bible, and of the powerful controversial treatises of the late lamented Dr. Desanctis, had his eyes opened to the truth, and is now proclaiming justification through faith in the blood of the Saviour alone.

The report was drawn up by Serafino Beruatto, and we take from it the following sentences:—"We, who have been working for twenty-five years in Italy, have never seen our churches of Florence, Milan, Bassignana, Venice, Genoa, Bologna, and Rome, better attended. The stability and zeal of our congregations can be measured by their liberality. Now they contribute at the rate of about 20 francs for each individual, and when we think that our congregations are 99 per cent. composed of pure Italians, poor, all emancipated from the Roman Church, which has never educated them to give for the spreading of the Gospel, we see that no small progress has been made. Our workers, with some rare exceptions, are all Christians of long standing, proved in a hundred battles, and by a thousand sufferings, learned enough, and, above all, orthodox in doctrine, animated by a true spirit of missionary zeal, so much so that it has been said, with good reason, of some, that they are more ready to sow than to reap. But this very thing comforts us. We can leave to others the consolation of reaping. In the meantime, for us it is enough to scatter broadcast the good seed which, in its time, will bring forth good fruit also for us."

FALMOUTH TOWN MISSION.—Thousands of free breakfasts are given every winter in connection with this Mission. A clothing club has just been formed for the benefit of poor children. The missionary carries on tent and open-air work, and the thirty-fourth annual report shows that he has been greatly blessed in his labours. Captain Phillips, R.A., is secretary of the Mission.

BIBLE SOCIETY OF SCOTLAND.—At the last monthly meeting of the Glasgow Committee, it was reported that two young men sent out to China last autumn are already actively at work, and are making good sales in the busy port of Hankow. Among other grants, one of 50 English Bibles was made to the Soldiers' Mission at Gibraltar, and one of 500 Spanish Gospels for distribution in the villages on the south coast of Spain, where no settled Protestant agency is yet to be found.

CHINA.—The wife and son of Dr. E. P. Thwing, of Brooklyn, have been doing volunteer missionary work in connection with the American Presbyterian Board at Canton, and at their own expense in various parts of Quang Tung province, travelling by boat with Rev. C. R. Hager, of the American Board at Hong Kong. Mrs. Thwing is expected to return to America shortly, but her son remains as colporteur for a year or more, and then intends to complete his studies for the work of medical missionary. His brother, a surgeon in New York, also hopes to go to China.

EVANGELISTIC MISSION.

BANK HOLIDAY MEETINGS.

The Bank Holiday Meetings usually held at Kilburn Hall, were, on Easter Monday, April 2, transferred to the Conference Hall, Eccleston-street, Pimlico, on account of the insecure state of the former building. The change of place, however, had no diminishing effect upon the attendance, which was even larger than on previous occasions. In the afternoon, after a few introductory remarks from Mr. C. Russell Hurditch, half an hour was devoted to prayer, especially on behalf of various branches of Christian work which had been previously named by representatives present.

Mr. D. M. Cameron, of Wandsworth, then gave a brief address, founded on the words in Philippians i. 21, "For me to live is Christ." Commenting upon the fact that the words were penned by Paul after a period of thirty years in the forefront of the battle, and sent forth from his prison in Rome, he dwelt chiefly on three thoughts suggested by the passage, viz., life through Christ, life from Christ, and life for Christ.

Rev. F. B. Meyer, of Regent's Park Chapel, taking up the thought of living for Christ, beautifully expanded and illustrated the subject. Froude, in his "Oceana," tells a story of a servant of Sir George Grey, who had been appointed by his master to take the historian in a boat round the coast, and point out places of interest. On being interrogated as to what he was most fond of, whether pleasure, scenery, &c., his reply was, "To be the servant of Sir George Grey." What are we proud of? Of denomination? Of ourselves? Our knowledge of the Word of God? Our attainments? Surely there is one thing of which we should be most proud, viz., to be the servants of the Lord Jesus Christ. For the first time in his life he had recently seen a slave, in Tangier. When he looked upon her, his heart leaped up, and he thought, Thank God, if she is one slave, I am another. He recalled the words of Paul: "Paul, a servant (slave) of Jesus Christ." This is the slavery that makes us free, the bondage that makes us glad. Thomas Guthrie tells a story of a criminal whom he once found in a prison, engaged in brightening his fetters. We know what that means in our case: to glory in our slavery, and to feel that from morning to night, through and through our day, we have one glorious Master to serve. Continuing in the same strain, Mr. Meyer dwelt upon the imperative necessity for entire obedience to Christ, as the foundation of all happiness, usefulness, and power.

Mr. Robert Paton, referring to some passages of Scripture which had been read at the commencement of the meeting, emphasised the words in Mal. iii. 16, "...that thought upon his name," telling a story of one who had been for years laid by in sickness, and who derived much consolation from the consideration that God had a special regard for those who thought upon his name.

At the evening meeting, Rev. W. Stott, of Abbey-road, gave a fervid address on the need of more grip in Christian work. Various passages of Scripture came to his mind. There were men of old who did cleave to their king. There was a certain godly young woman who did cleave unto her mother-in-law. In the early days of the Church there were young converts who "did cleave" unto the Lord with purpose of heart. But the instance which took most hold of his mind was the one of a young soldier in the time of David, whose sword did so cleave to his hand that when he would have put it down he could not. Either it was that the blood which flowed from his hand had fixed it there, or he had so grasped it that when he would have laid it down the muscles were unrelenting. The sword and the hand that wielded it were one. What we want in this strangely troublesome time is to get hold of the Spirit's sword like that: to hold tightly to that Word, and go to our work hewing down the Philistines of unbelief and sin. We want to love the Word, and know it as a treasury of things new and old. Many people read the Bible often, but for much the same reason as the farmer's wife put up the horse-shoe behind the door—to keep evil spirits away. We want more grip of prayer, more grip of God's promises, and more grip of the Master Himself.

Mr. R. C. Morgan, referring to some remarks of the previous speaker concerning the vital importance of doctrines relating to the blood of Christ, observed that the question was as old as Cain and Abel, and God decided it by accepting Abel and his sacrifice. God vindicated his own servants when Aaron's rod swallowed those of the magicians; and again when it budded and put forth almonds. God avenged them when the earth opened her mouth and swallowed up Korah and his company. God stood by Elijah when he challenged the 400 prophets of Baal: "The God that answereth by fire, let Him be God." Perhaps we are depending too much on ourselves in attempting to establish the truth of God. The promise is that He will avenge his people, when He seeth that their power is gone, and there is none [no human resource] shut up or left." One day such as was seen in 1859, when God went forth in power, when conviction of sin was in the air, would quickly silence Down-grade teachings.

Dr. McKilliam read the words in Heb. vi. 19, "Which hope we have as an anchor of the soul." While it was true that, if the Lord Jesus Christ is permitted to come in, everything will be right, still we who are his elect people in these days are not to be allowed to forget that the figure here brought before us means that we have to ride at anchor in stormy waters. Our blessed Father and the Lord Jesus Christ want us to know practically the meaning of those words, "Have faith in God." The people of God who have faith in Him not only can do, but actually do the things spoken of in Heb. xi. They by faith triumph over all the sophistries of sceptical science. By faith they obtain acceptance with God through the sacrifice of Christ, and by faith, like Abraham, they go forth in obedience to the command of God to do his will.

Lord Radstock (who had just arrived from Bournemouth, and was to leave shortly afterwards for Vienna) observed that if there were an intelligent entering into the purpose of God, it would be to build according to "the pattern showed in the Mount." But if we are to do this, we must be in the Mount to see the pattern. We may think we have got the pattern; we have all got a pattern, but is it the pattern? Now, in the Word of God we have no "perhapses," or "ifs"; we have the purposes of God. It is a blessed thing to come back to this purpose, and see what God is about to do. A badly trained crew, when danger arises, is full of suggestions. He did not believe in a committee of sailors in the presence of the storm. We have forgotten that Christ is Head over all things to the Church. There should be a deeper calm in the knowledge of the fact that God is working out all his purposes. The condition at Corinth was at least as difficult as anything we have now. Some men said the resurrection was past. But Paul addressed them all as saints. There was terrible moral evil, and the wicked person must be put away. But how much more anxious he was to restore him when he had repented. The Apostle of Jesus Christ was not anxious to put people out, but to keep them in. Like the Good Shepherd, his way was to go after the lost until he found it. It is easy to lecture the strong ones, but we want to bear the infirmities of the weak. Let us not miss the blessing conveyed in the message from God, "The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost, be with all them that love the Lord Jesus in sincerity."

Dr. Laseron thanked God for all the opposition that in these days is made to the Word of God. When persecution comes, then men take heed to the Word of God. It was so in ancient times. Persecutions came upon Israel, because they had idols, and because they linked themselves with the heathen, who laughed at Jehovah, the living God. Referring to God's dealings with Israel, he surveyed in general outline the destiny of the nation when restored to the favour of God, and made his missionaries to the rest of mankind.

Rev. Wm. Smith, of Bow, in a brief but hearty address, contrasted mere theoretical knowledge of truth with the certain conviction which is the result of personal experience.

Mr. Edward Wright followed with a short, sharp, earnest Gospel message to the unsaved.

BOSTON OPEN-AIR PREACHERS.

Mr. W. F. Davis, who, nearly six months ago, was sentenced to a year's imprisonment in default of paying heavy fines for preaching on Boston Common, is still in gaol, and prevented from attending to his much-loved work as an evangelist. The circumstances have caused some stir in the State of Massachusetts, and, as the term of imprisonment runs out, much more will, no doubt, be heard of the matter.

Already, as a result of agitation, the City Council has granted a public hearing on a petition for the repeal of the ordinance whereby unlicensed preachers are prohibited from proclaiming the Gospel on the public grounds. Many of the best men of the place have addressed a committee of the Council on the subject. Mr. H. L. Hastings, who is well known in England, was one of the speakers. He declared it to be the object of the City Government altogether to suppress preaching on the public grounds. Licences have, he said, been systematically refused; at first no notice was taken of an application made by him; but after trying for fourteen months, during which he was fined and imprisoned, he did manage to get a permit from the mayor. Mr. Hastings remarked, respecting the obnoxious ordinance:—We have not failed to notice a zeal in the execution of this ordinance which is lacking in the execution of all other ordinances and laws. It is stated that there has long been an ordinance forbidding smoking tobacco in the streets of Boston; but, said a man to me, as he puffed his cigar, "I can smoke in Boston, but you cannot preach!" I have, while conducting orderly religious services on one of the parks of Boston, been interrupted repeatedly by a policeman; but a man who, in plain sight, was raking hay in that park with a horse-rake on Sunday, in defiance of the State law, was neither interrupted nor interfered with. A man may rake hay with a horse-rake on Sunday on Franklin-park with impunity, but if he sings a hymn or preaches the Gospel a policeman calls him to account.

The city governors are taking alarm, owing to the extent to which the question thus raised has already affected the balance of parties in the Council Chamber. If Mr. Davis's imprisonment should lead to an abrogation of the obnoxious ordinance, or to a more reasonable administration of its provisions, there may soon be reason for rejoicing that good has come out of evil.

SCOTLAND AND INDIA.—Meetings are to be held this and next week at Inverness, Perth, Greenock, and Hawick, to protest against the legalisation of vice in India. We are glad to know that this testimony is being perpetuated, and doubt not it will help to swell the tide of public opinion that must soon sweep away this iniquitous system.

FRANCE.—Efforts are being made to evangelise the Drome Valley. Pastor Marzials is now feeble and nearly blind, and help is needed to secure the services of a good evangelist for the district of Diois, which is much neglected, the pastors being scarce or unable to do the work. At the Orphelinat Famille de Barnave, under the direction of Mrs. Marzials, young girls, principally orphans, are taken in and educated under Christian influences. The Home is established among a poor hardworking population, and depends upon external assistance for its maintenance.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.

The ninth anniversary of the Children's Scripture Union was celebrated on Thursday, last week, at Exeter Hall, under circumstances of a very encouraging character. Two meetings were held, one in the afternoon, and the other in the evening. Many friends of the cause came from various parts of the country, and in the afternoon the Lower Hall was too small to accommodate all the large body of people who assembled.

The afternoon meeting was presided over by Rev. E. A. Stuart, of Holloway, who, at the outset, took occasion to give expression to his hearty sympathy with the Mission. Mr. T. B. Bishop, honorary secretary, made a statement as to the work of the Mission. The membership cards are printed in twenty-eight different languages, and last year over half a million of them were issued. While in the West new spheres of activity are constantly opening up, in the East a really good work is being done. There are no fewer than 9500 members in Japan, and in Calcutta the friends of the cause are making praiseworthy exertions. In the public and other large schools in England a great deal is being done, and efforts are also being made to establish Unions in the high schools for girls. Several branches at home have carried on correspondence with branches abroad, with profitable results.

Mrs. Evered Poole delivered an address to Scripture Union workers, emphasising the importance of realising duty, and of aiming high in the discharge thereof. Those who organise branches should endeavour to win the members to Christ, rather than assembling them simply for purposes of entertainment. In all their efforts, also, workers should wait God's time. The meetings should always be short and bright, and it should never be forgotten that sympathetic contact with the children is essential.

The Chairman followed with some acceptable remarks on Christ's first recorded words: "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business," after which addresses were delivered by Revs. L. N. Caley, of St. Matthew's, Bayswater, and J. T. Smith, of Norwood. Many people who could not be accommodated in the hall assembled in an adjoining room, where speeches were made by several friends, as well as by the Chairman and Mrs. Poole.

Rev. F. B. Meyer presided in the evening, and, after a statement by Mr. Bishop, he delivered a very helpful address. Having spoken in high terms of the Mission and its work, he urged the great importance of children being instructed in Bible truth. Teachers must induce this by example as well as precept. Those addresses will tell the best and live longest in the memory which are most bathed in the word and spirit of the Bible. Adults as well as children need, more than ever, to read the Scriptures frequently and with earnestness. He held that the most prolific source of declension among the children of God is a neglect to study the Word of God. There are so many meetings, there is so much ephemeral religious literature, so much running about from conference to conference, and so little persistent, loving study of God's own Word, that one cannot be surprised that the temperature of many Christian homes becomes so low. He advised the avoiding of such reading as takes away the appetite for reading the Bible, and the cultivation of the habit of reading a little prayerfully rather than scanning much without an endeavour to secure spiritual profit. The present age began with a mighty outpouring of God's Holy Spirit, and he expected it to end with a similar Divine manifestation. Is not God now laying throughout the world the line, the magnetic wire, along which the Holy Spirit is going to work, until the world shall be permeated with the glorious knowledge of Christ, the crucified One? He believed this to be actually taking place, and that amongst the societies and agencies that shall be much thought of in the new age will be the Children's Special Service Mission and the Children's Scripture Union.

Messrs. G. L. Pilkington, G. A. King, and C. H. Nash gave account of work done in public and other large schools; and Messrs. H. Hutchinson, J. Stoneham, and M. J. Hall spoke of labour in different spheres. Their words were full of cheering facts and incidents. Altogether the meetings were very successful. In several cases the older workers in connection with the Special Service Mission were greatly encouraged to find in the audiences grown-up persons to whom, in the years of childhood, they had spoken of sin and salvation, with spiritual, and therefore lasting, results.

DUBLIN SOLDIERS' HOME.

Having a high object, the Dublin Soldiers' Home and Institute has been greatly blessed from its foundation. The object is to provide for soldiers a Home where they may stay and be free from those temptations which beset them in every large city, and may at the same time hear the message of God's love in the Gospel of Christ.

At the beginning of last year, the new wing having been just completed, there was a debt of about £700 on the building fund of the Home. As the result of the appeal then made several friends gave assistance, which brought the debt down to about £400. This debt is a hindrance to the efficient working of the Institute, and it is hoped that it will soon be entirely cleared off. The great need of the increased accommodation thus provided was amply shown during the recent "furlough season," when the soldiers and their families, as well as men of the Royal Irish Constabulary, showed their high appreciation of the Home by availing themselves in large numbers of its provisions and agencies. One result is seen in largely increased receipts. Nevertheless, the Home is not self-supporting, as the net profits do not cover the expenses incurred. As many as seventy or eighty beds can be supplied per night, but it still often happens that the demand exceeds the power of supply.

It need hardly be said that meetings and entertainments are held in connection with the Home. At a mission recently concluded, there was much blessing on the word preached, many confessing Christ as the Saviour. Lord Cavan was president of the Institute up to the time of his death, and at all times took a deep interest in its welfare. Captain R. Wade Thompson, Clonskeagh Castle, Dublin, is the hon. secretary.

MR. D. C. JOSEPH writes from Jerusalem:—We intend to leave Jerusalem on April 3, to visit England and meet the friends of Israel, and to consult with them about the Lord's work among Israel in Palestine. Should the Lord carry us safe there, we shall be able to tell what great things He hath done for us.

THE LATE MR. SAMUEL MORLEY'S VILLAGE.—The seventeenth series of Believers' Meetings was held last week at Leigh, near Tonbridge, Kent. The evening service partook of the nature of a farewell to Mr. John Maxted, who has been connected with the work since its commencement in 1871. In the course of the proceedings, Mr. Maxted was presented with a purse containing £100, together with a beautifully framed address. Mr. Maxted is succeeded by his son-in-law, Mr. A. C. R. Pitter.

A NEW HOSPITAL FOR MADAGASCAR.—The insanitary condition of the Mission Hospital at Antananarivo has for some years engaged the attention of the Committee of the Friends' Foreign Mission Association, and its removal to a more healthy and suitable site is now felt to be absolutely necessary. In spite of serious drawbacks, the hospital is still open, and is rendering great assistance to many suffering ones in the capital and district. It is at present the only one available in the island, and consequently is occasionally used by European traders and others needing help. An opportunity now offers for securing a more suitable site in a healthy situation on one of the little hills on the outskirts of Antananarivo, admirably adapted for the purpose, and the Committee are exceedingly anxious that no time should be lost in proceeding with the new building. Conditional promises towards the fund have already been received, amounting to more than £500, and it is desired to raise a sum of £3000 in all. Mr. Charles Linney, Hitchin, will be happy to receive donations for this object.

NOTES FROM THE NORTH.

A BIBLE CAR FOR DEMERARA.

Mr. Aitchison, of Glasgow, who has taken a great interest in the spread of the Gospel among the natives of Demerara, has forwarded a novel Bible car for mission work in that far-away place. Owing to the heat of the climate the machine has been constructed in an unique style, the framework consisting of canvas stretched on a light, though durable, frame of wood. The outside of the car is decorated with numerous Scriptural quotations.

MR. AND MRS. M'ALL IN EDINBURGH.

Rev. John McMurtrie presided at a large meeting in Edinburgh, on Wednesday evening last week held to accord a hearty welcome to Mr. and Mrs. McAll, of Paris. He pointed out that £3692 of the Mission's income came from Scotland. Principal Cairns said that among the many agencies at work in France for the elevation of the people, the McAll Mission was perhaps one of the most important. Mr. McAll, who had a most cordial reception, stated that Edinburgh was about the first city to take an interest in their Mission, and there was a kindly feeling in France towards the Scottish nation. When he spoke in Edinburgh four years and a half ago, they had 47 mission stations, but these were now greatly extended, and, with 14 opened last year, numbered 113.

THE ANGLO-INDIAN EVANGELICAL SOCIETY.

A most encouraging report of this Society was presented at the annual meeting in Edinburgh last week. Rev. J. Fordyce, secretary, stated that larger contributions had been made in India than in any former year, and that they balanced a slight decrease in the contributions from this country. Rev. G. G. Gillan, of Bengal, appealed for increased funds, and Mr. Duncan M'Laren moved a resolution embodying the claims of our countrymen in India, who were destitute of Christian ordinances. Rev. John M'Neill said he believed that the English army in India was a huge Anglo-Indian Demoralisation Society, and that it was their duty to send out no uncertain sound regarding facts which had come to their knowledge, and which had not been contradicted, because they could not be.

THE JAFFA MISSION.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the commencement of Miss Walker-Arnott's mission work at Jaffa was celebrated by a meeting of subscribers and friends in Edinburgh last week. For several years Miss Walker-Arnott carried on entirely by herself the mission school which she opened in a poor quarter of Jaffa, but that has been replaced by a commodious Tabeetha mission school, which is free of debt, and has forty-five boarders. In addition to this school there are two others, where Oriental Christian girls and Jewesses and Moslems are brought under healthy Christian influence. Dr. Alison said he believed that if the Turkish Government were to make an attempt to put down the mission it would be stoutly resisted by the population of Jaffa. In a brief address, Dr. Andrew Thomson ridiculed the idea that Mohammedanism was a grand stepping-stone to Christianity.

WEIGHTY WORDS TO STUDENTS.

The winter sessions of the Free Church Colleges in Edinburgh and Glasgow were recently closed. In addressing the students of the former, Principal Rainy made some timely remarks on the doctrine of the atonement. He said the doctrine of atonement had much to do with the right conception of the evil of sin, and so faith in the doctrine of atonement had a most practical bearing on repentance, on Christian thanksgiving, and confidence in God, and that suggested the bearing which the doctrine had on the relation of the believer to Christ. Nothing fixed the thought of the Church and the believer's union to Christ, and kept it more clear, than did this doctrine. The students of Glasgow were exhorted by Principal Douglas to remember that their ministry was not a one-man ministry, but was to be carried on in conjunction with other workers. Warmth, sympathy, and a firm adherence to the Bible were necessary for successful Christian work.

MR. DENHAM SMITH.—There has been again some little abatement in the more distressing symptoms of Mr. Denham Smith's illness. He lies at times very prostrate, but continually praising the Lord for all his tender mercies throughout these months of suffering.

Notes and Comments.

NEXT week we hope to give a portrait and sketch of the late Mr. George Brealey, of the Blackdown Hills Mission.

We have received several letters on the subject of the Church Missionary Society, from writers of equally estimable character, but who take opposite views. We have not space to enter into the details of the controversy, but we hope that calm judgment and brotherly feeling will prevail, and that the differences will be amicably settled.

The Echo, April 9, had a warmly appreciative sketch of Rev. Dr. Thain Davidson's "Monthly Address to Young Men," delivered on Sunday evening last at Colebrooke-row Presbyterian Church. There is no doubt that young men lodging and residing in the neighbourhood of the "Angel" are exposed to special temptations, and the value of Dr. Davidson's eminently practical advice and earnest endeavours on their behalf cannot be over-estimated.

Mrs. Booth, we regret to hear, is still very ill. At the meeting in St. James's Hall on Monday evening, her husband said, with considerable emotion, that "though in her general health she has apparently improved, yet the fatal malady which has fastened itself upon her shows little or no abatement." Next Monday has been set apart as a day of special fasting and prayer throughout the Salvation Army; on that day there will be earnest supplication that God will be pleased to undertake in the matter, so that Mrs. Booth's useful life may be spared.

In the course of a recent correspondence in The Times on the subject of establishing diplomatic relations with Rome between England and the Vatican, "An Irish Protestant" asserts his belief that among practical and reasonable men jealousy of Rome as a centre of moral influence has become almost extinct, and avers that "the Papacy, like every other institution in the world, has felt the modifying influence of time and change." Upon this it may be remarked, firstly, that in these days toleration is too often interpreted to mean easy-going neutrality towards what is wrong, and that politic connivance at what is bad is too often mistaken for charity. It is part of the subtle Jesuitical policy to imbue the public mind with the idea that uncompromising hostility to Romish assumptions and aims is narrow-minded bigotry; and, as the phrase goes, "out of harmony with modern ideas." Secondly, let it be remembered that, however skilfully the iron hand may be concealed beneath the silken glove, Rome's motto is Semper eadem.

In a letter replying to these and other misleading statements of "An Irish Protestant," Mr. A. H. Guinness, the secretary of the Protestant Alliance, asks the very pertinent questions, "Has Rome ever said that she has changed? Has the Pope ever said so?" and he proves from Papal utterances and writings Rome's intense desire to stamp out all religious teaching and belief which differ from her own. Thus, as regards Ireland, Mr. Guinness points out that the openly avowed hope of Roman Catholicism is "to silence the voice of Protestantism" in that country. He says further: "The recognition of the right of the Pope to interfere in the government of this kingdom is a violation of the Protestant constitution of the kingdom, established by the Bill of Rights and Act of Settlement, and the acknowledgment of the spiritual supremacy of the Pope, is contrary to the law which proclaims the supremacy of the Crown."

In a recent issue of The Pall Mall Gazette M. de Lavaleye tells an instructive, but a most unpleasant, tale about "the last old Protestant community in Flanders." This little company of believers, the descendants of men who suffered great persecution, and many of whom sealed their testimony with their blood, have excited the hatred and jealousy of the priests, because of the prosperity that has resulted from patient industry and rectitude. Says M. de Lavaleye:—

> The priests of Maria-Hoorebeke and its neighbourhood viewed this happy and prosperous group of heretics with horror; they detested to see them thus thrive in the midst of an "orthodox" population. No sooner were the clericals in power in 1884 than it was agreed that the moment had come to strike a mortal blow to all this heresy by suppressing their means of education. At the instigation of the priest the communal council took possession of the school and its revenues, in virtue of a law of 1864, which states "that all foundation for educational purposes is reputed to belong to the commune." It next closed the Protestant school, and appropriated its revenues, under pretext that one school, the Roman Catholic one, was amply sufficient. The Home Minister, M. Thonissen, himself of the clerical party, was quite indignant at this odious spoliation. He employed all possible means—admonitions, threats, and letters upon letters—but to no avail; the school remains confiscated and closed. The clergy had so ordered, hoping that, as the children would be forced to attend the Roman Catholic school, they would be brought back to the Church, or that the parents, in order to avoid persecution, would emigrate to Holland, and thus deliver the country of the heretical plague.

We have here an object lesson which is a complete answer to the specious arguments of "An Irish Protestant." M. de Lavaleye requests us not to forget that "it is a dogma of the Catholic faith that the first duty of every lawful government is to extirpate heresy." Protestants have no wish to apply to Roman Catholics their own "dogma," but it would be worse than foolish to close our eyes to the plainest facts of everyday history, and to take to our bosom the poisoned asp that is ready to sting us when a convenient moment arrives.

The tidings from the Baptist camp are more and more sad. It now seems that Mr. Spurgeon, his brother, and Mr. Greenwood, have left the London Baptist Association, in consequence of the adverse vote of the last meeting. That vote was not taken on the main subject, but on the question as to whether the Down-Grade controversy should be opened and discussed there, or relegated to the approaching Baptist Union meetings. In a vote on that question Mr. Spurgeon's party was in the minority; and the issue is his secession. Much as we love and highly as we esteem this great and honoured evangelical preacher, we quite fail to see why he should desert a noble institution, largely the child of his own creation, not on the charge of heresy, but because the majority has differed from him on a question of policy. Whether or not his example be largely followed, we shall greatly deplore an acaion which leaves the many earnest men who are left behind, without the valuable aid that Mr. Spurgeon's presence would have given towards putting and keeping these associations on an evangelical basis.

As we look on the disintegration which is now at work in the Baptist body, we are sometimes inclined to ask whether it may not be the Divine will to break it up as a body, so that the ordinance of believers' baptism should no longer be identified with any one sect, but should become the common property of the universal Church, in the same manner as the Lord's Supper has become. Doubtless, the existence of the Baptist body was necessitated by the days of intolerant persecution; and it has done a great work in attesting the rights of the individual conscience; but we have often questioned whether the baptism of believers might not have been more general if there had been no "Baptist" body at all. Many have shrunk from the rite, because they did not wish to leave their own church order for another. But why should not the time come when those who wish should be baptized as believers, in rivers, or seas, or baptisteries, and still retain their special views on matters of church order, remaining in the church system with which they have been previously identified?

There is a remarkable article by Dr. Pierson in the current number of The Missionary Review, which he partly edits, in which he refers to the movement now on foot among students, three thousand of whom have definitely pledged themselves to missionary work. And a custom seems growing amongst them, for those who may not be able to go out personally to join together in support of representatives on the foreign field. This is a grand step in the right direction. It is clear that we are in the midst of a remarkable awakening of the missionary spirit. And it is equally clear that existing societies cannot overtake the needs of the world on the one hand, any more than they can use up all the young and eager spirits who are eager to go forth, on the other. The solution of the problem, as it appears to us, is in the direction indicated above.

Why should not each family have its representative on the foreign mission field? The brothers and sisters at home supporting a sister in the zenanas of India, or a brother in the Soudan. Why should not each church, in addition to its subscriptions to the societies, maintain among the heathen an evangelist whose monthly letters would be an unfailing incentive to new missionary zeal, and whose requirements would give fresh vigour to many a working party, or Sunday-school auxiliary? If the churches of Christ do not furnish larger quotas of their members for the missionary cause, we may expect to be despised by ruder and rougher methods, which may scatter us to the furthest ends of the earth; as in the days, when having failed to fulfil the Master's last command, "there was a great persecution against the church at Jerusalem, and they were all scattered abroad."

We are told that a lecture on modern immorality by Dr. Ziemann, before a large audience of men at Frankfort, produced such a solemn impression that strong men had to be carried out fainting. Infidelity and materialism have opened a wide door to vice in the cities of Europe, and unclean spirits have been having all their own way with men and women, who have thrown from them the commandments of the Lord. The appalling consequences have never been paralleled in the history of the world, and it is becoming the most imperative and urgent of duties to speak of these things by fitting methods

A Book Depôt has been opened in the entrance corridor of Exeter Hall, where the publications of Messrs. Morgan & Scott may be obtained or ordered; subscribers' names are also received for The Christian.

We observed a short time since that The Monthly Reporter was not worthy of the Bible Society. This is no longer the case. There has been a change of appearance, of arrangement, of information, and of interest, that will place it among the most valued magazines of the period.

Those who have mourned over the unbelief of this age, which has been largely caused by scientific pretensions which have dispensed with God, will be glad to observe that the Duke of Argyll continues in this month's Good Words his papers on "Darwinism as a Philosophy." It was time that the infallibility claimed for Darwin should be assailed, and that the dogmatism which treated everyone as an ignoramus who did not accept his system of nature should be rebuked. Whatever may be said to the contrary Darwin's hypothesis is antagonistic to religion. It has been a mask of Atheism. On this account those who show its untenableness are treated with scorn. This journal has maintained all along that the reaction was sure to come. It will be true science that will lead that reaction.

Among the changes connected with the Budget is one that will be welcomed by a certain class of useful Christian workers. The abolition of the hawker's licence will relieve colporteurs of an annual burden. For a Bible carriage, drawn by a horse or donkey, the tax was £4 per annum. A colporteur, as long as he confined his sales to the Scriptures—either the whole Bible or separate parts—was free, but if he added other books to his stock he was liable. Now he will be at liberty to sell religious literature freely. We hope the change may give an impetus to such work.

It has been stated that the number of suicides due to gambling at Monte Carlo for the past three months "shows a slight decrease." As, however, in the period, no fewer than fifty persons put an end to their lives, there appears to be little room for congratulation, especially as it is said that "the receipts have been very satisfactory to the proprietors." There is, however, another account which "the proprietors" will have to render, and it may be they will not find it to be quite so pleasing. That this scandal should be permitted to continue is discreditable to all concerned.

The recent contributions by Dr. Harley, F.R.S., to The Lancet, on the subject of moderate drinking, deserve the candid attention of all who have not yet come to see that it is the privilege as well as the duty of a Christian to abstain from intoxicating drink. The figures which Dr. Harley is able to quote are painfully conclusive with respect to the terribly injurious effects of so-called moderate drinking. The habit of taking stimulants between meal times Dr. Harley designates "the most pernicious of all forms of drinking," and his comparative tables, showing the death-rate of men who so indulge, are absolutely startling. In a short paragraph, with reference to these contributions, our contemporary, The Hospital, says, parenthetically, "most city men would be the better for total abstinence." We fail, however, to see why the line is drawn at city men.

Mr. Sankey hopes to arrive in England about the beginning of July, and will then engage in evangelistic work; for a time assisting clergymen, ministers, and evangelists, as opportunity may present. All arrangements and appointments will be made after he reaches London. Dr. George F. Pentecost and his family are also expected in England about the middle of July.

Apparently the Archbishop of York does not approve of anything in the direction of medical missionaries. It has been stated in The Church Times that he has recently rejected a candidate for ordination on the ground that he had, before entering Durham University to prepare for the ministry, been a medical student for three years. If there is nothing behind the facts, as stated, it is difficult to see the reasonableness of the objection; indeed, one would be inclined to think that a knowledge of medicine is anything but a hindrance to a man whose work would largely be amongst the poor and ailing.

◆

"THE HORROR OF A CREED."

In our correspondence columns is a letter under the above title from Rev. G. Rogers. With all due respect to our aged brother, we must reply to his first sentence, that our preference of the Inspired Scriptures to a brief human summary of Divine truth is a singular and slender basis for his suspicions of our downward tendency. We object to a humanly formulated creed, because the belief of a Christian does not consist in assent to a series of articles, but is an experimental knowledge by faith of the Living God, who raised Jesus our Lord from the dead.

If men attach different meanings to the words of Scripture, they will attach different meanings to the words of a creed. So that a creed is not a better safeguard than the Bible. No man, or body of men, is competent to preserve the proportion of faith in a human summary of Divine truth. Such a summary will give prominence to some truths, while others are omitted or understated. An artist may draw every feature of a man's face, and produce a likeness which everyone would recognise; and yet if the proportion of the features be not preserved, it is not a portrait but a caricature.

Our correspondent says that "one of the most valuable and practical features of Christianity is, that the whole is virtually included in a few first principles, the belief in which implies the belief of all that is contained in them." But further on he says that "baptism may imply a creed, but it contains none, and it is the fact only that is the basis of union—a mere ritual," &c. On the contrary, baptism implies every fundamental truth of revelation—the Fall; the tri-unity of God; the incarnation, death, and resurrection of Jesus the Son of God; the personality of the Holy Spirit; the believer's connection with Christ in death and resurrection; the belief in God who raised Him from the dead; the risen Christ, the believer's righteousness; the damnation of the disbeliever; the session of Christ at the right hand of God, and the believer's session there in Him; the appearing of Him who is the believer's life, and his appearing with Him in glory. There is more positive teaching, and more correction of error implied in the baptism of a believer than in any creed that was ever formulated.

JUBILEE OF DR. HORATIUS BONAR.

This eminent preacher and "sweet singer of Israel" celebrated his ministerial jubilee on Thursday evening last week, when Grange Free Church, Edinburgh, was densely crowded with his friends and admirers. Many letters were read from divines and others living in all parts of the world, expressing regret that they could not attend and show their warm love to such a true servant of God. Lord Polwarth wrote:—"For myself, I wish to say that his lovely hymns have always been my delight, and his other writings a true help. I honour him as one who ever upholds a full Gospel unvarnished and untarnished. No modern fancies have dimmed the lustre of his Gospel teaching. He is a living proof that the revelation of our God needs no improving—that the old is ever new I am only one amongst very many who thank God for the Doctor's steadfast, holy life and teaching."

The proceedings, which were extremely interesting, were presided over by the Lord Provost. After addresses had been presented from the congregations at Grange Free Church and Kelso, over which Dr. Bonar had presided twenty-two and twenty-nine years respectively, Sir William Muir, in the name of the members of the Chalmers Memorial Free Church, and of friends throughout the world, presented Dr. Bonar with a piece of plate and a purse containing £1000. He spoke of Dr. Bonar's faithful ministry, and said that there was not a land where the English language was spoken in which his hymns were not household words. He believed that these hymns would last as long as the world endured.

In the course of a brief speech acknowledging the presentation, Dr. Bonar said he reciprocated the feelings which the several speakers had expressed. He rejoiced that there were in the midst of them so many belonging to the different denominations—some of one body and some of another, some of one land and some of another. He rejoiced in this, for the Church was one, not many; and the more they realised in all their meetings that the Church of God was one, the more would they feel knit together, not to themselves and to one another merely, but to the whole body of Christ. He rejoiced to find friends from all Churches and from all parts of the world. His strength was giving way, so he closed with this: "Brethren, let us pray more for one another."

Addresses were delivered by Rev. Professor Charteris, Rev. R. W. McAll (Paris), Mr. James E. Mathieson (London), Rev. Principal Cairns, Rev. Principal Simon, Rev. Principal Rainy, Rev. Dr. Andrew A. Bonar, and others. Some of Dr. Bonar's hymns were sung during the evening.

REQUESTS FOR PRAYER.—For blessing on a mission to be held at Glasgow, by Mr. Henry Thorne, from April 21 to May 7.——For blessing on an Evangelical Alliance meeting to be held in the Kingswood Mission-room, Warwickshire, on April 25.——For an outpouring of God's Holy Spirit on Sierra Leone, especially on the pastors and many nominal Christians, that they may be quickened to newness of life.

PADDINGTON-GREEN CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL.—In the report for 1887, a favourable account is given of the work of the Hospital and the estimation in which it is held. The additional premises just erected, providing greater accommodation for out-patients, will cost about £6000, of which the committee will be obliged to borrow £2000. Funds are needed to meet current expenses, as well as to clear off the debt on the new works.

NEW HEBRIDES.—Rev. D. Mackenzie, of Erakor, in the New Hebrides, has arrived in Sydney, bringing with him to be printed a translation into the native tongue of "The Peep of Day," the work of half-a-dozen native lads whom he has been instructing in English Mr. Mackenzie and his colleague at Havannah Harbour have revised together their translation of the New Testament and are hoping to get it printed this year.

EVANGELISING IN THE FAR WEST.

BY REV. E. P. HAMMOND.

(Concluded.)

WE are now (March 1) at Sacramento. The pastors' union, composed of all the evangelical ministers in the city but one or two, united in an invitation to me to hold a series of meetings here. They have all worked very harmoniously and earnestly during the meetings. The services are held nightly in a large pavilion, fitted up for the occasion. Sometimes between two and three thousand have been crowded into it, and great solemnity has prevailed. The building has been divided into sections, and each pastor has superintended his portion of the inquiry meetings. Meetings have been held daily during the past week at the Railroad Shops, where about 1500 men are employed.

At the noon hour many of these men have gladly gathered and listened for about forty minutes to the Gospel addresses. Frequently they have exhibited deep conviction of sin. The pastors have organised nightly street preaching, sometimes four or five taking part. The mild weather has been favourable for these out-door services. Sometimes there have been three of these meetings going on in different localities at the same time.

The influence of the work, we are told, is felt in all parts of the city. Ministers tell us that the attendance at their Sabbath morning services is increased. Surely there is need of a mighty work of God's Spirit in Sacramento, for there is one saloon for every eighteen voters. Theatres are open on Sunday night. A few years ago the Sabbath observance law was repealed by the legislature.

It has given me great pleasure that the ministers have so heartily co-operated in the children's meetings here, and have delighted in assisting to lead the little ones to Christ. I received yesterday a letter from a man in San Francisco, who was blessed in the meetings I held there thirteen years ago. I quote the following:—

"For many long years I was a prodigal, but found my master, the devil, a hard taskmaster. Many times in this period I was tempted to end my misery by ending my life. I was in this state when you came to San Francisco and opened your meetings at Union Hall. On the evening of March 28, 1872, I left my hotel to go up town with a friend of mine, with the devil's bible (a pack of cards) in my pocket, intending to spend the evening in a saloon. Getting to the corner of 3rd and Market-streets, my friend asked me if I would not go to Union Hall and hear some good singing. I replied that I would. We got to the hall just before the meeting commenced, and took the back seat. The meeting commenced with the hymn, 'Come to Jesus just now.' What misery, as I looked back over the past years, and to the loved ones in Canada and Scotland, no doubt praying for the wanderer, for I did not even write to them! When we came to the verse,

He will save you, just now, there was a brief struggle in my heart, and in a moment the consciousness of pardon settled down into my soul. So great was my joy I did not remain in the hall longer than the singing of the next hymn. I returned to my room, which I had left an hour and a half before a lost sinner, now returning a saved man, and I knew it. And by God's grace I have continued since."

SPAIN.—Pastor Lopez Rodriguez, in a recent circular-letter, gives an account of his work in and around Figueras (Gerona), Spain. He has lately received much encouragement. It is proposed to erect a hall in which to carry on the preaching, and many friends in England have already subscribed towards the sum that will be required. Rev. J. C. Stewart Mathias, of Aldringham, Saxmundham, Suffolk, is the hon. treasurer of the Mission.

FRIENDS' MISSION CONFERENCE.

ON Thursday, last week, a Conference of members of the Society of Friends was held at Devonshire House, Bishopsgate-street, to consider the state of the home and foreign missions of the body. Three separate sittings were occupied. Much interesting information was given respecting the respective missions in Syria, India, Madagascar, China, Japan, Turkey, and Africa. The missionaries were all mentioned individually and prayed for by name.

Mr. Henry E. Clark and Mr. Joseph S. Sewell, who have each laboured with much success in Madagascar, spoke of the increasing need for more missionaries in that large island. Mr. William Johnson, the senior missionary now in Antananarivo, is almost overwhelmed with the multifarious duties devolving upon him, in the absence of requisite colleagues. A hospital is also a great desideratum, in connection with the mission in that city. Mr. A. Crosfield and Dr. John Dixon, who have lately visited India, stated that in addition to the establishments in active service at Sohagpur and Hoshungabad, in Central India, it is hoped to institute a third mission in another city. The senior Indian missionary, Miss Rachel Metcalf, has been labouring for more than twenty years. Ladies are greatly needed, for the zenana work in that country, amongst their own sex.

Dr. Wilson, of the China Inland Mission, Hanchung, said that in the latter country things were very different as to women, to whom missionaries, both male and female, have full opportunities of preaching. Dr. Wilson bore testimony to the valuable medical and nursing skill of Mr. Robert J. Davidson and his wife, through whose hands many hundreds of patients have successfully passed during the year just elapsed. As to Syria and Palestine, it was shown that Mr. Theophilus Waldmeier, Dr. Beshara, and Mr. Hessenauer have been labouring very earnestly; but it was also mentioned that the Syrian people, although manifesting a great willingness to listen to sermons, or receive instruction, are not nearly so satisfactory as some other peoples in reference to ultimate practical results.

The whole of the evening sitting of the Conference was devoted to the consideration of the home needs of the Society. It was felt by many that there is a want of a further revival of spiritual life in the various meetings of the denomination throughout Great Britain. Many earnest prayers were put up for this object. One speaker, a banker, alluded to the value even of very brief intervals devoted by some men of business in the midst of each day to prayer and Scripture reading. It was also suggested that, if a revival is to be looked for, there must be more frequent and united prayers on behalf of the schools and teachers of the Society, the mothers and fathers, the young, and the ministers and other speakers in the congregations, that sound doctrine may be preserved. Mr. Joseph Braithwaite and Mr. Jonathan Grubb described their own successful labours amongst the poor, both in city and rural populations, and mentioned instances where even a hearty shake of the hand and a few friendly words to each attender at mission meetings had been very useful.

SCOTTISH EVANGELISTIC ASSOCIATION.—Dr. Moxey, having been compelled through failing health to resign the office of superintendent of the Scottish Evangelistic Association, is succeeded by Mr. A. J. Copplestone, who was formerly a missionary of the Church Missionary Society in East Africa, and associated with the late martyr-missionary, Bishop Hannington. Those who have read Rev. E. C. Dawson's biography of that heroic servant of Christ, who gave his life for Africa, will remember how it had been arranged that Mr. Copplestone should travel with the Bishop in what proved to be his last fatal journey, but the state of his health at the time prevented his going. We hope Mr. Copplestone's labours in Scotland will be much blessed.—The Christian Leader.

HARVESTING IN THE CHURCHES.

CORRESPONDENTS have from time to time sent you brief notices concerning my special missions, but it may interest many of your readers who follow me by their prayers to receive a summary of the work done during the last three months. During that time I have conducted ten missions in different parts of England, viz., Eccleston-square, Belgravia; Thornton, near Bradford; Brighouse, near Halifax; Cockermouth; Whitehaven; Victoria Park Congregational Church, Hackney; Brighton, Southampton, King's Lynn, and Saffron Walden The average duration of each mission has bee seven days: the services have been catholi in spirit, and attended by ministers of variou denominations. Neighbouring churches hav been invited to send their senior scholars t the Sunday afternoon services, and, in som instances, the Church of England, Baptist Wesleyan, Primitive, and Methodist Fre Churches responded. The great aim has been not so much to preach sermons, as to brin home to the hearts and consciences of th people the truth as it is in Jesus; but the rea work of soul-winning is not done from th pulpit or the desk, but in the vestry, which during the mission, becomes the inquiry-roo for anxious souls.

Within these three months, it has been m great privilege to meet 1129 of these, and t see many yielding themselves to the Lord What joy to pastors and Sunday-school teacher to behold the fruits of their labours, and th answer to many an anxious prayer! But wha greater joy to Him who sees in such of th travail of his soul and the recompence of hi sacrifice! And as each evening has witnesse the bringing in of the sheaves, old experience Christians have lived over again the early day of their own conversion, and received fres impulse to renewed consecration to Chris But when the visit of the missioner ends th responsibility of the churches begins, and i every case the sense of this has been shown b the higher tone of spiritual life, continuanc in prayer for the Holy Spirit, the formation o Christian bands for young converts, and th institution of catechumen classes under th pastor's care.

It has also been a joy to hear that the wor still goes on. Some of the churches have bee kind enough to forward testimonies signed b pastors, deacons, Sunday-school teachers, an hundreds of young disciples, declaring wha great things the Lord hath done, whereof the are glad. I am also bound to testify that th spiritual preparedness of the churches fills m with wonder and adoring gratitude to God. I is evident that among the churches the seed o the Word is being widely sown, and that aft long waiting for the heavenly rain, the sickl has but to be thrust in that the golden sheav may be gathered, and the harvest joy begi While the grand harvest song is ever the sam "Not unto us, but unto Thee, O Christ, be a the glory."

May I ask your readers who have hither remembered me in their prayers to continu to do so during the next quarter's wor The following is a list of my engagements f the next three months:—April 11, Stratfor Manchester; April 21 to May 4, Upton-roa Church, Forest Gate; May 13, Melbourne Ha Leicester; May 14 to 20, Hope-street Chap Hull; May 22 to 28, Whitstable; May 30 June 4, Shrewsbury; June 17, Londonderry.

(REV.) ROBERT BALGARNIE.

51, Crouch Hall-road, N.

NORTH CAMP, ALDERSHOT.—A work w begun in the Primitive Methodist Mission-roo Queen's-road, last autumn. It is carried on in t darkest corner of North Camp, in the midst of s and vice, and drunkenness. The services are attend by those who seldom enter any place of worsh There is a Band of Hope of forty children. Good Friday a public tea-meeting was held, wh a good and profitable evening was spent.

AMERICAN Y.M.C.A.'s.

y Dear Sir,—I read with much pain the rictures upon our American Associations made your correspondent in The Christian of arch 9. I want to give my testimony, and I so most joyfully to the untruthfulness of ese strictures. His sad misrepresentation of r Young Men's Institute in this city, Mr. cBurney tells me he has already explained you.

But I most desire to testify to the falsity of e accusation of "moral deterioration," which makes broadly against "the Y.M.C.A. of our merican) cities and towns," culminating in e statement that "this noble agency has llen to the plane of a decent school of physical lture."

For eighteen years it has been my duty, as neral secretary of the International Comittee, to receive, tabulate, and prepare for nual publication the reports of the American ssociations. During this period my associate cretaries of the committee and myself have pt by correspondence and visitation in close ntact with the Associations, and the Associaon movement in America. In the progress a movement so wide and extended it is ssible for a person to get entangled in an ldy of the broad current. It seems to me at this is the position of your "unhappy" rrespondent. For the spiritual movement d progress of the Associations is in a direction ecisely opposite to the one he points out. is appears in the steady growth in numbers spiritually minded secretaries taught in the ord, and teaching others. The Springfield hool for the training of secretaries, and of hich your correspondent speaks so highly, is e indication of the Association's lively eagerss in reaching out after and multiplying cretaries of this character. We never had so any such secretaries in the work as now. hey are teaching more workers' training Bibleasses than ever before, and from these workers e recruited the various Association comittees.

In observing closely the secretaries and the oup of committeemen nearest to them and ost active in the work, you place your hand oon the pulse of the Association movement, and at pulse beats now more loyally and devotedly the Lord Jesus Christ, and to the work of inging young men directly to Him and to his hurch, than ever it did before. This is shown the fact that more young men have been nverted and added to the churches, through ssociation agency, the past two years, than ring any previous period. No facts and gures concerning the work each year are more refully scrutinised in our office than those lating to spiritual growth and fruitfulness nong young men. Each year the progress is arked and steady. The devout, active, and uitful observance of the Day and Week of rayer for young men in November increases nnually, and this spiritual impulse at the benning of our working season each year is felt ore and more potentially.

Your correspondent is certainly misinformed out the sentiment of the pastors of evangelical urches. It was never more favourable to our merican Associations than now.

The American Associations have also made ogress in other directions. So far as I know ere is not a single society on our roll of which e statement of your correspondent is true, z; that it "has fallen to the plane of a ecent school of physical culture." But it is ue that many Associations contain in their ysical department excellent Christian schools physical culture, led and taught, more and ore numerously every year (thanks in part to r Springfield School) by enthusiastic Christian en eager to use their every gift and influence benefit their pupils spiritually as well as ysically. Mr. Wesley challenged the devil's ght to all the good music. He won a great ctory in wresting from him its exclusive use d in making it minister to spiritual ends. Similar victories the Associations have been and are winning in their field of work for young men to the discomfiture of the adversary and to the honour of our Master.

I deeply regret that charges against our Christian brotherhood so serious, damaging, and misleading should be also anonymous. You are at perfect liberty to use my name as well as my testimony in reply to these charges.

Very fraternally yours,

March 30. Richard C. Morse.

Our friend Mr. McBurney, the esteemed secretary of the Y.M.C.A. of the city of New York, thus replies to the criticisms of our American correspondent:—

In The Christian of March 9, your American Special Correspondent makes some statements concerning the Young Men's Christian Associations, which reveal a decided ignorance of them and of their work.

Your correspondent says he has observed with great sadness the moral deterioration of the Young Men's Christian Associations in our towns and cities. This is quite a serious statement, and I am happy to say, from a very wide knowledge of the Young Men's Christian Associations and their work in America for the past thirty-five years, that they never did anything approaching as thorough and practical a work in Bible study and in the evangelising of young men as they are doing to-day. As a rule they have ceased holding meetings for both sexes, and direct their efforts to work exclusively for young men. There is far less gush in their work, but a great deal more earnest, aggressive, common-sense methods pursued, the narration of anecdotes and personal experience giving way to a direct, clear, presentation of the Gospel.

I quite agree with that writer that he must have been in an "unhappy mood," and that he must have been looking at matters with a "jaundiced eye." He says, "many leading pastors, spiritually minded business men, prominent evangelists, and many Y.M.C.A. secretaries, assert that this noble agency, originally founded by a godly brother for high and holy purposes, has fallen to the plane of a decent school of physical culture."

Your correspondent writes anonymously, and does not give the names of any of these pastors or spiritually minded business men, prominent evangelists, and secretaries of Y.M.C.A.'s, to which he refers.

He further says that he has seen one Association where "Christian" has been dropped out, and cut upon its forefront reads the title, "Young Men's Institute." It is said that half a truth is a very dangerous thing; your correspondent has stated a half truth here which needs some explanation. The name Young Men's Institute is on a branch of the Y.M.C.A. of the city of New York, but under it are the words "of the Young Men's Christian Association of the city of New York." This is the whole truth.

It may be asked why this name, Young Men's Institute, was given to that building? We have a place on the other side of the same street, which has been known as our "Bowery" Branch for the past sixteen years. It has been our custom to call our branches either after the streets or localities in which they are situated. Our Bowery Branch has been maintained for the purpose of lodging and feeding unfortunate young men out of employment, and in destitute circumstances, and for the holding of evangelistic meetings every night of the week, and twice on Sunday. Of course, the very poorest class of young men are attracted there.

In the streets lying back of this branch there are a large number of young mechanics of foreign parentage, living in boarding and tenement houses, whom we found it impossible to reach in our Bowery Branch, we therefore erected a building on the Bowery, nearly opposite our old branch, for the special purpose of seeking to reach these young mechanics.

It was necessary to give the place some name, and Young Men's Institute of the Young Men's Christian Association of the city of New York was the most appropriate title suggested. To seek to bolster up an argument by such a statement as your correspondent makes concerning the name of this branch is, to say the least, not only decidedly weak, but it leads one to question the motive of the writer.

New York, March 26.

BETHNAL-GREEN FREE LIBRARY.—The Clothworkers' Company have sent a donation of £25 to the Bethnal-green Free Library, which brings up the total voted by the court towards the support of this institution to £91.

MISSIONARY TRIALS and TRIUMPHS.

Dear Sir,—Since I last wrote you from Rio de Janeiro, we have passed through deep waters. In July I was taken down with small-pox in its worst form. At that time they had 600 deaths per week in the city, but the Lord raised me up again. We left Rio on August 24 for this province, to recruit health. My dear wife stood by me all through, and did not take the complaint, and her babe of five months was sent away from her for thirty days. On December 3, God took our little babe from us, aged nine months.

On February 1 we had to break up our little home in the city of St. Paul, and remove here to save expense, as our Mission funds are low. But we believe the Lord's hand has guided us. We have started a work in the Ville de St. Barbara amongst the natives, and God is blessing it. Crowds come to hear every time I preach, and our Sabbath-school is well attended. We get all ages; but the great difficulty is that so few of the lower class can read. Last month the village barber, his wife and family united with the Presbyterian Church. They are bitterly persecuted and cast off by all their friends and relatives, but they stand true to Christ. He tells the people that, though they may take all his earthly goods, they can't take Christ from him. He preaches Christ to all who enter his shop. The priest here is a bitter Jesuit, and has burnt up a quantity of Bibles, Testaments, and religious books, quite recently. But he begins to see it won't do, some of the people have threatened him, and now he never leaves his house without a man with him to guard him.

The lawyer, and several of the town officials, are reading the Bible, and attending the preaching of the Gospel. On all sides God is blessing his own Word. I wish some Christians, interested in the Lord's work in Brazil, would provide the means to buy a magic lantern with which I could give illustrated lectures on the Bible. My brother would see that it is sent me. His address is, W. G. F. Soper, 13, High-street, Southampton, Hants.

E. H. Soper, Baptist Mission.
Santa Barbara, Province Sao Paulo,
Brazil, March 8.

UNION HALL MISSION.—Special holiday services were held at Union Hall on Good Friday and Easter Monday. The numbers attending were large. Much interest was manifest in the subject for consideration on Good Friday, viz., the Coming of the Lord for his People, and many friends from various gatherings in London and the provinces came together. Stirring addresses were delivered in the evenings of each day, and much power accompanied them. On Easter Monday helpful truth was brought out in connection with "The Lord's Coming to Israel."

THE LATE REV. JAMES G. SMALL.—This Presbyterian pastor, recently deceased, was one of the most esteemed and best known of modern Scotch religious poets. He was the author of the popular and much-prized hymn, "I've found a Friend, oh! such a Friend!" Except as a Christian poet, Mr. Small was not much known, even in his native land, beyond his own Presbytery (Fordoun), of which for many years he was the esteemed "clerk." The style and substance of his sermons were much appreciated by his audiences generally. A posthumous volume of poems is shortly to be published by Mr. Parlane, Paisley, N.B.

"JOSHUA, THE WARRIOR."—On Friday evening last, at the Young Men's Christian Association, Aldersgate-street, Rev. F. B. Meyer, B.A., of Regent's Park Chapel, gave the first of a series of Bible-readings on this subject. The source of the strength of the famous son of Nun was considered in a very helpful manner, with a view to indicating how Christians may be "Strong to follow fully." Weak in himself, and requiring repeated exhortations to be strong and of a good courage, Joshua yet did wonders through Divine equipment and strengthening. The remaining three readings will be on, "Through the Jordan of Death," "Victory and Defeat," and "Portioning out the Land."

METROPOLITAN MUSIC HALL.

MR. CHARLES COOK writes :—"The services at this hall were closed for the winter season on Easter Sunday, completing twelve years of labour for the Lord in this building.

"The afternoon meeting was addressed by Charles Minor, formerly a comedian, who had himself been converted in the music hall three years before; and by three other workers who had been brought to Christ.

"In the evening the building was again filled, when the closing address was given, and decision for Christ pressed upon the audience. The after-meeting telling by the numbers remaining and the many workers busy with the anxious that the Word had been with power.

"At the meeting for praise and prayer at Hyde Park Hall on the following Saturday night, a father thanked God for himself, his wife, and his son; a mother rose to praise God for her daughter, her son, and herself, and said, 'I have been attending these services for ten years, but now at last have accepted Christ.' Two sisters (from Holland) also thanked God in prayer for being led to decide last Sunday; other written requests for praise were sent in, and the hearts of our workers made glad as they saw the fruit of their labours.

"We have this year been greatly encouraged also by the willingness of the people to come to listen to the Word preached, and the fact that this large building has been filled to overflowing for twelve years, and no attraction offered save the singing of the Gospel and the preaching of God's truth. We are shortly beginning our Hyde Park services, and earnestly desire the prayers of God's people for our labours there; sixteen years have we laboured there, and seen much fruit, but we are looking to our God for more."

We have seen something of Mr. Cook's work from time to time, and have been much gratified with the success which has attended his labours. We hope that the £90 due for the rent of the music-hall will soon be forthcoming. Numbers are brought under the sound of the Gospel in this place who would not think of entering an ordinary place of worship.

EDGWARE-ROAD.—Rev. J. Gosset-Tanner has an excellent house in the Edgware-road awaiting the carpenter, painter, and decorator, to metamorphose it into "a public-house without the drink." Mr. Tanner has a considerable sum promised him, and also half the rent for three years to come, but he desires to make a good start, and needs about £200 more. His address is 50, Warrington-crescent, W.

MEXICO.—Mr. James Pascoe, who has been labouring for seventeen years in Mexico, in recent letters to this country shows that troublous times are upon him. During late years the Roman Catholic party has greatly increased in strength, and Mr. Pascoe's presence in Toluca is very unpalatable to the priests and their supporters. With sickness in his family, rumours of revolutions rife in the country, and an empty treasury, with few friends around him, Mr. Pasoce has been very much tried. Mr. John Mercer, 29, Queen's-road, Southport, will give information as to the work, and its needs.

OPEN-AIR MISSIONARY WORK.—Mr. F. H. Hallett, Bridgwater, has for many years been labouring in the Gospel and temperance cause. Of late years he has spent the summer months on the sands at Weston-super-Mare, holding two and three services daily when weather permitted. The time is drawing near for a renewal of this useful work, and it might be greatly furthered if a large caravan, which can be purchased at less than half its original cost, were secured for this purpose. If bought for missionary work it may be had for £50. It is divided into three compartments. The front would be an open platform for preaching; the back room is well adapted for a book-stall, and for prayer-meetings, or inquiry-meetings; while the centre is fitted up for living and sleeping in, so that it would become the missionary's temporary home, and he would be his own watchman, thus saving much expense. This matter is prayerfully commended to the Christian public. Further particulars from Rev. W. Bradbury, Weston-super-Mare.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

Liverpool.—On Good Friday and Easter Monday open-air meetings were held for the preaching of the Gospel amongst the thousands assembled on the sands at New Brighton, and many tracts were distributed by Mr. T. Lydiatt and other preachers connected with the Liverpool Evangelisation Society. Devout attention was paid to the story of God's love in the gift of his Son.

Mr. Ferdinand Schiverea, well known in the United States and Canada as an evangelist, recently closed four weeks' revival services in Oshawa, Ont. Meetings were held in the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches, and other denominations co-operated. About 300 made profession of faith in Christ. Mr. Schiverea here and elsewhere has been greatly owned and blessed in his work.

Douglas, Isle of Man.—Rev. J. F. T. Hallowes has completed with encouraging success an eight days' mission in the Finch Hill Congregational Church, which began on Sunday, March 25. In an address on foreign missions Mr. Hallowes showed the splendid field there is for ladies with small incomes to do a noble work. After a lecture to men only arrangements were made to organise through the Douglas Y.M.C.A. a society for the promotion of social purity.

Mr. Henry Lakin has concluded a fortnight's mission in connection with the Baptist Church, Burley-road, Leeds. The meetings were well attended, and Mr. Lakin spoke with much power. Over fifty passed through the inquiry-rooms, many of whom, there is good reason to believe, were led to trust in Christ. One encouraging feature of the mission has been the quickening of many members of the church. Mr. Lakin began a mission at Christ Church, Burton-on-Trent, on Saturday last.
W. R. GOLDING.

Mr. D. M. Drysdale has closed his winter's Sunday evening Gospel services at Hengler's Circus, Liverpool. Being the last service of the series he presented the usual statement as to expenses, from which it appeared that the total expenditure had been £317, and the receipts £81 2s. 10d., leaving about £236 which Mr. Drysdale pays himself. All the necessary arrangements had been made in order to resume the services on the first Sunday in October, and the fifteenth year of open-air meetings in Wavertree Park would commence on the first Sunday in June.

Birmingham.—A twelve days' mission, marked throughout by steady, quiet, united effort and a rich and increasing measure of spiritual power, has just been conducted at Bromsgrove by Rev. H. Graham Payn. Besides conducting the services in the chapel, Mr. Payn gave three addresses during their dinner hour to the 500 men employed at the Midland Railway Works, which services were highly appreciated by the men. Special meetings for children were held, also for men only and for women only. At the women's service the chapel was filled; at the men's it was crowded. This last was a memorable service, the fruits of which will be seen after many days.

Lavender Hill, Battersea.—An attempt to reach the artisan and labouring classes in this densely populated district is being made by the united outdoor mission bands of the various churches and chapels here. The neighbourhood is a thickly crowded one, largely inhabited by working men and their families. A very successful series of Gospel services have been conducted in Queen's-road Mission Church by Mr. George Hefford, of the Evangelisation Society. Many, it is believed, have been brought to Christ, and the blessing of God has been felt to be on the work. This is the first of a series of special Gospel efforts to be carried on this summer.

Mr. W. J. Taylor, of the Evangelisation Society, has held a fortnight's mission at the Elm-road Mission Hall, Kingston on Thames. The Gospel was preached with great power and acceptance. The closing address on "Infidelity versus Christianity" was in every way worthy of the subject, and will be long remembered by all who had the privilege of hearing it. The most interesting feature of the mission was the children's services. These were held every night before the adult services, and were attended by a large number of children and young people. Large numbers of the roughest youths in this destitute and difficult neighbourhood were attracted to the hall, and impressed with Gospel truth.

Mr. W. D. Dunn.—This faithful servant of Christ has conducted a two weeks' special mission in the Evangelistic Hall, at Maybole. There had been much prayer before he came, and God sent us a rich blessing, for which we praise Him. The attendance and interest increased every night, and we regret the time was so limited, as the work was breaking out on all hands when the meetings closed. Believers were stirred up and fed, backsliders restored, and precious souls saved. The ministers of the town were very cool towards the movement, except Mr. Lawson, of the West Church, who was at most of the meetings. T. RAMSAY.

Rev. W. Haslam's engagements are as follow:—April 11, Burton, Westmoreland; May 5, St. John's, Ryde, Isle of Wight.

Mr. Charles Inglis will conduct a special mission to young men at the Y.M.C.A., 186, Aldersgate-street, E.C., from Sunday, April 15, to Friday, April 20; commencing on Sunday at 3.30 p.m., and on each week night at 8 o'clock.

Rev. J. Compston, author of "Temperance, as taught in the Revised Bible," &c., has removed from Fivehead, Taunton, to London, for the purpose of devoting himself chiefly to evangelistic work. His address is, 25, Romberg-road, Upper Tooting, S.W.

OBITUARY.

MR. WILLIAM CLARK, J.P.

THIS gentleman, the father of Rev. J. P. Clark, of Streatham, died a few days ago at his residence, Walton Lodge, Weston-super-Mare, aged 77. A successful man of business, Mr. Clark was an unwearied servant of Christ. Preaching the Gospel was a delight to him, and the Y.M.C.A. and the Sunday-school had in him a warm supporter. Wherever he went he was an epistle of Christ, "Known and read of all men." A local newspaper says of him: "More than once Mr. Clark was invited, and even pressed, to allow himself to be nominated as Liberal candidate for Parliament but he steadily declined the honour. His great wish was to spend his remaining years more entirely in directly Christian work. But his hopes were largely disappointed; for, when staying at Nice, three years ago, he was suddenly paralysed.

LADY CHRISTIAN MAULE.

The death is announced of Lady Christian Maule which took place a few days ago at Wimbledon. Lady Christian was the sixth and youngest daughter of the late Hon. William Maule Ramsay, Lord Panmure, and his wife, Patricia Heron Gordon. At the time of her death she was eighty-two years of age. Inheriting the vigorous mind of her family, and guided by sound judgment and good sense, Lady Christian was inspired by the noblest of motives, and sustained in her conduct by the principles of true piety. She was a firm adherent of the Free Church of Scotland, with sympathies for all earnest Christian labourers. The town of Brechin will greatly miss her, for she was a friend of the poor and helpless, and did much to promote the cause of true religion in the city. Her ladyship was Honorary President of the Brechin Young Women's Christian Association towards which she gave the sum of £500 a few years ago.

DR. GRIMKÉ.

This gentleman, the husband of Mrs. Grimké whose name is so honourably associated with Christian work, entered into rest on March 3. For several months he suffered much from illness, and his friends could not but feel relief when he "yielded up his spirit." To the last Dr. Grimké witnessed an unwavering trust in the love and faithfulness of God. Ever reserved and humble, he esteemed himself as an unworthy servant, yet his work for the Master involved several Gospel addresses or Bible-classes every week, besides medical work at the Salford Mission four days per week. In the latter department of service he engaged a physician, whom he regarded as the chief, himself only assisting. Dr. Grimké requested his wife to maintain and manage the Salford Medical Mission for a year, to enable the doctor and assistants to arrange for the future, and to see what the Lord's will might be concerning it. Mrs. Grimké's Text Card Mission will also go on as usual, and the other work in Manchester.

HOME OF REST FOR WOMEN.—This useful Home at Heytesbury, Wilts, is again open for the season. Last year between forty and fifty patients from various parts of the country found in it pleasant recruiting place here, and nearly all were benefited by the change. The comfort and happiness of the inmates are especially studied. Particulars and rules may be had upon application t the Lady Superintendent at the Home.

4/9 EACH. EXTRAORDINARY OFFER 4/9 EACH

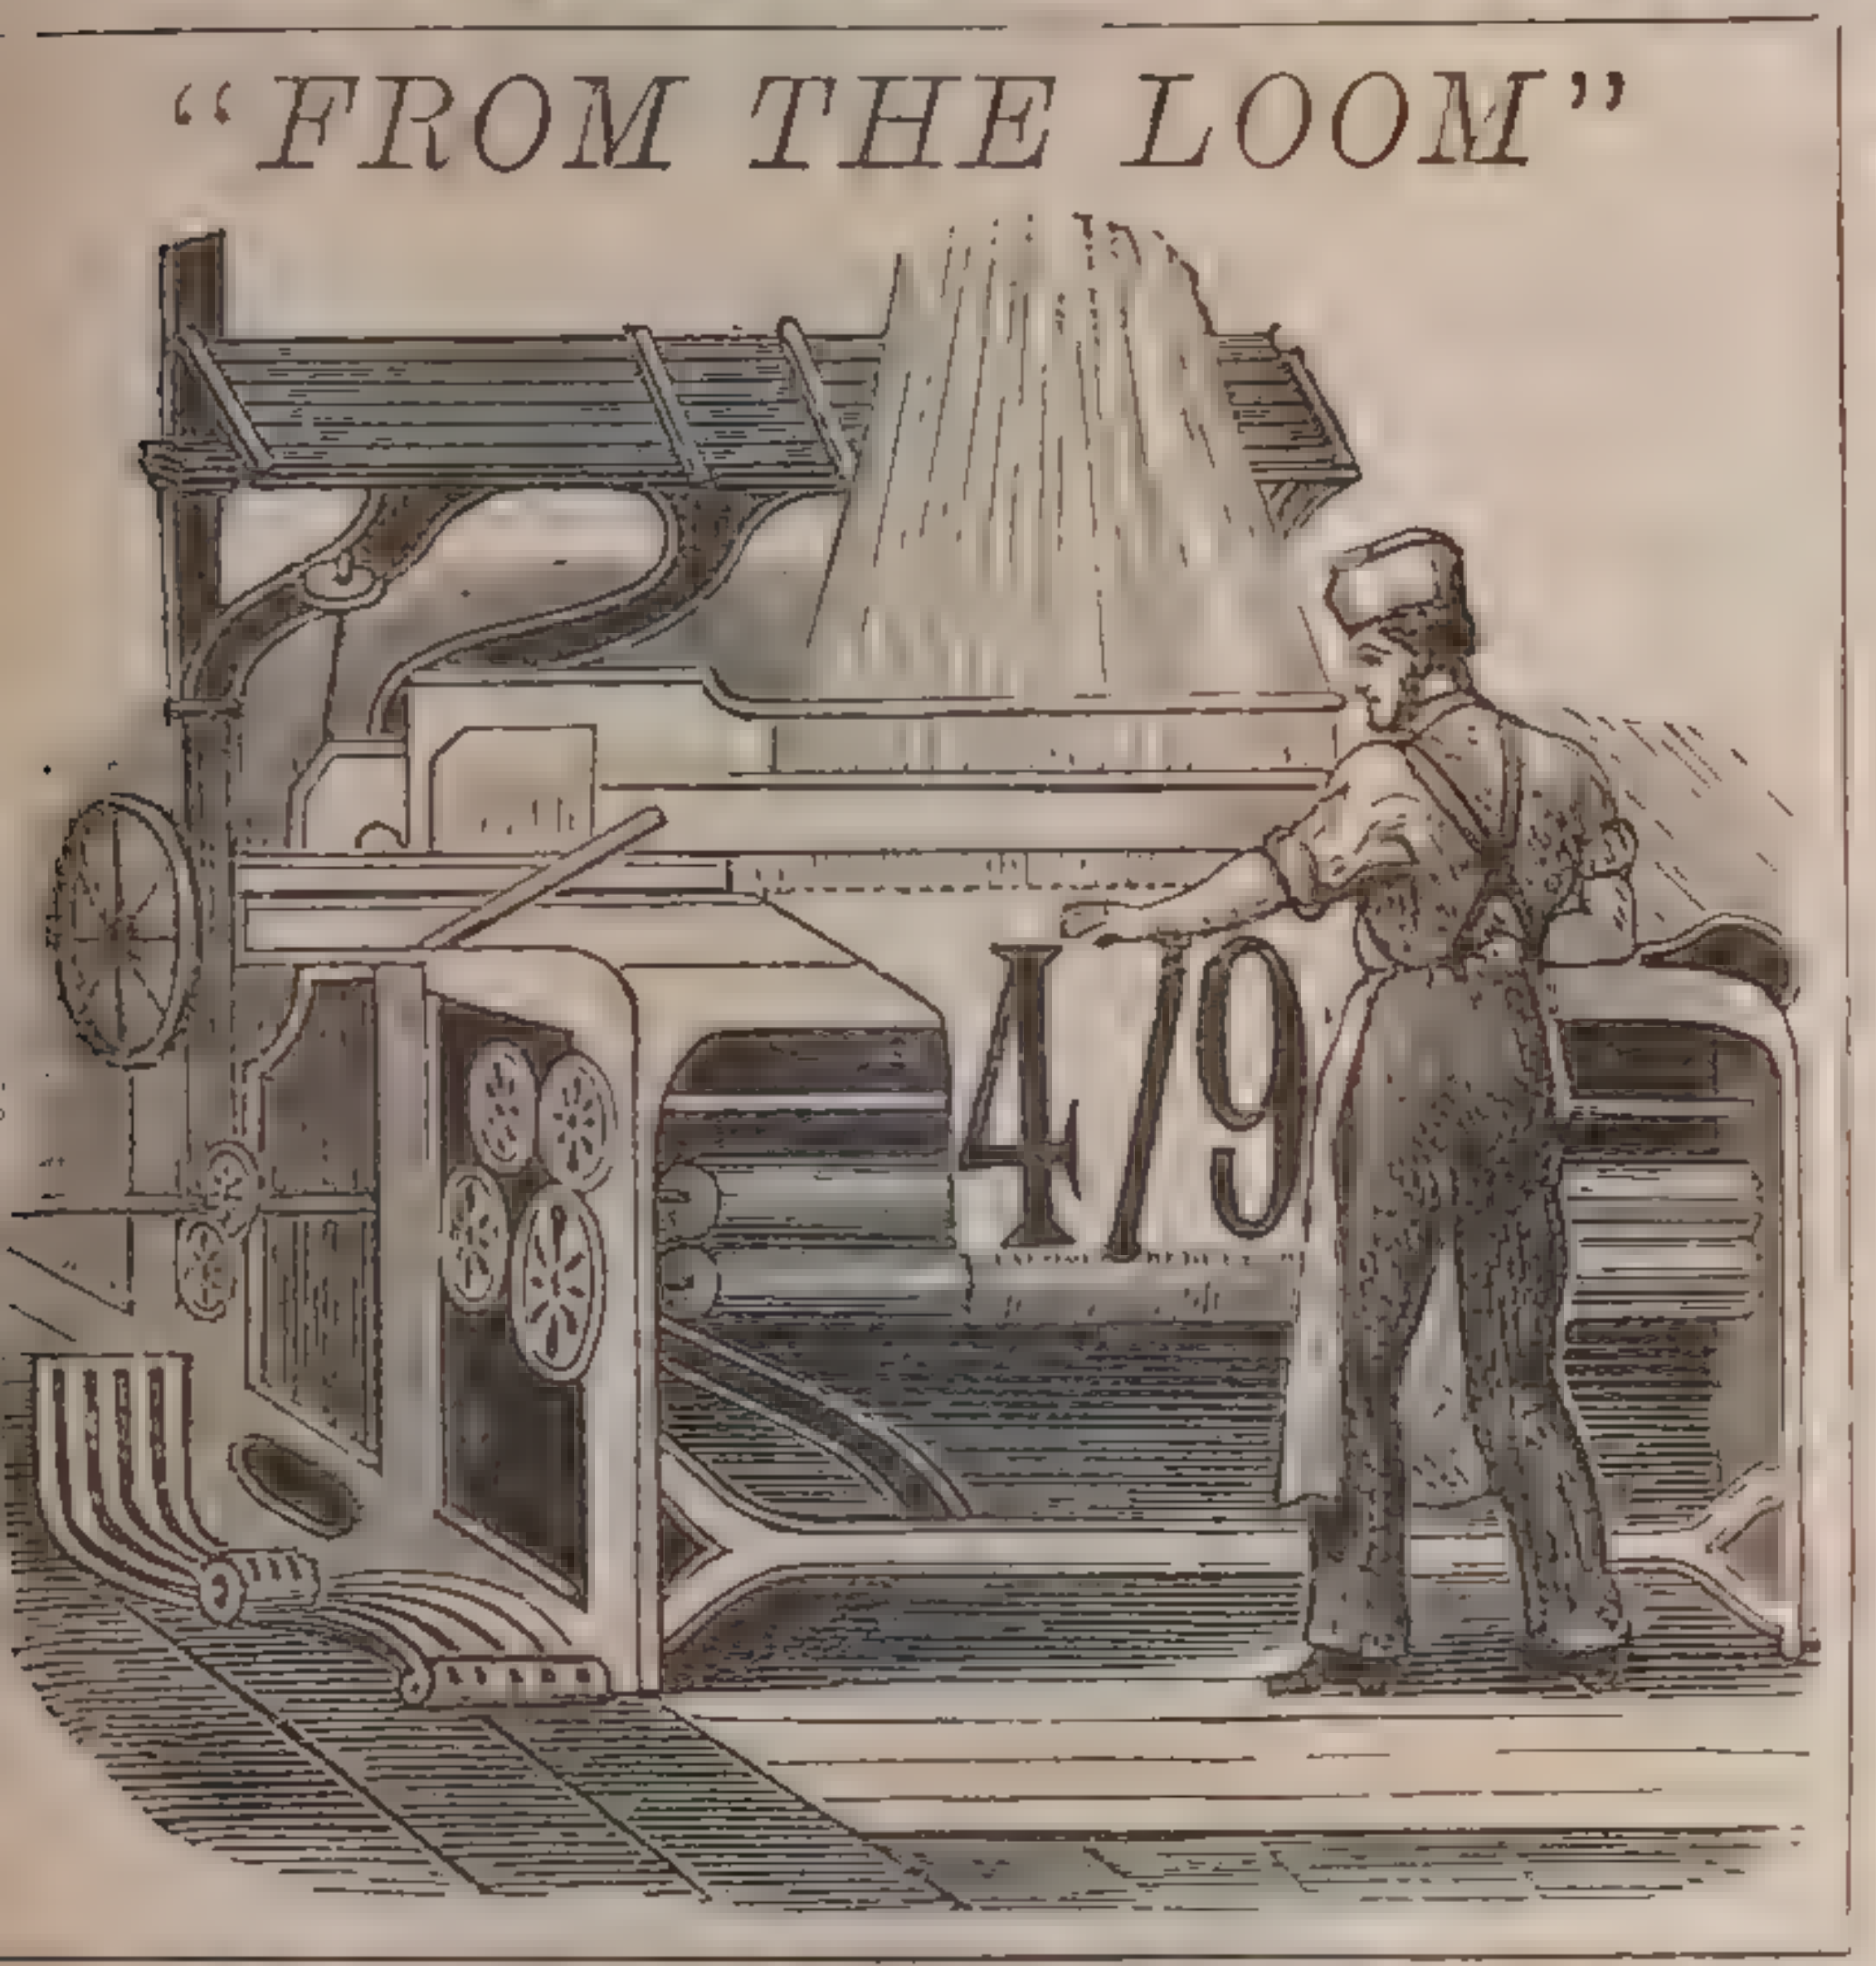
10,000 CARPETS, 4/9 each



"FROM THE LOOM"

Guaranteed Genuine Bargains.

THE BRITISH CARPET-WEAVING COMPANY will forward Direct from their Looms, to any address, on receipt of Postal Order for 4s. 9d. or 59 stamps, one of their GENUINE WOVEN, REVERSIBLE TRIUMPH CARPETS, bordered and woven in colours, to suit dining-room, drawing-room, bedroom, &c., and large enough to cover any ordinary-sized room, as an advertisement for the introduction of their goods.

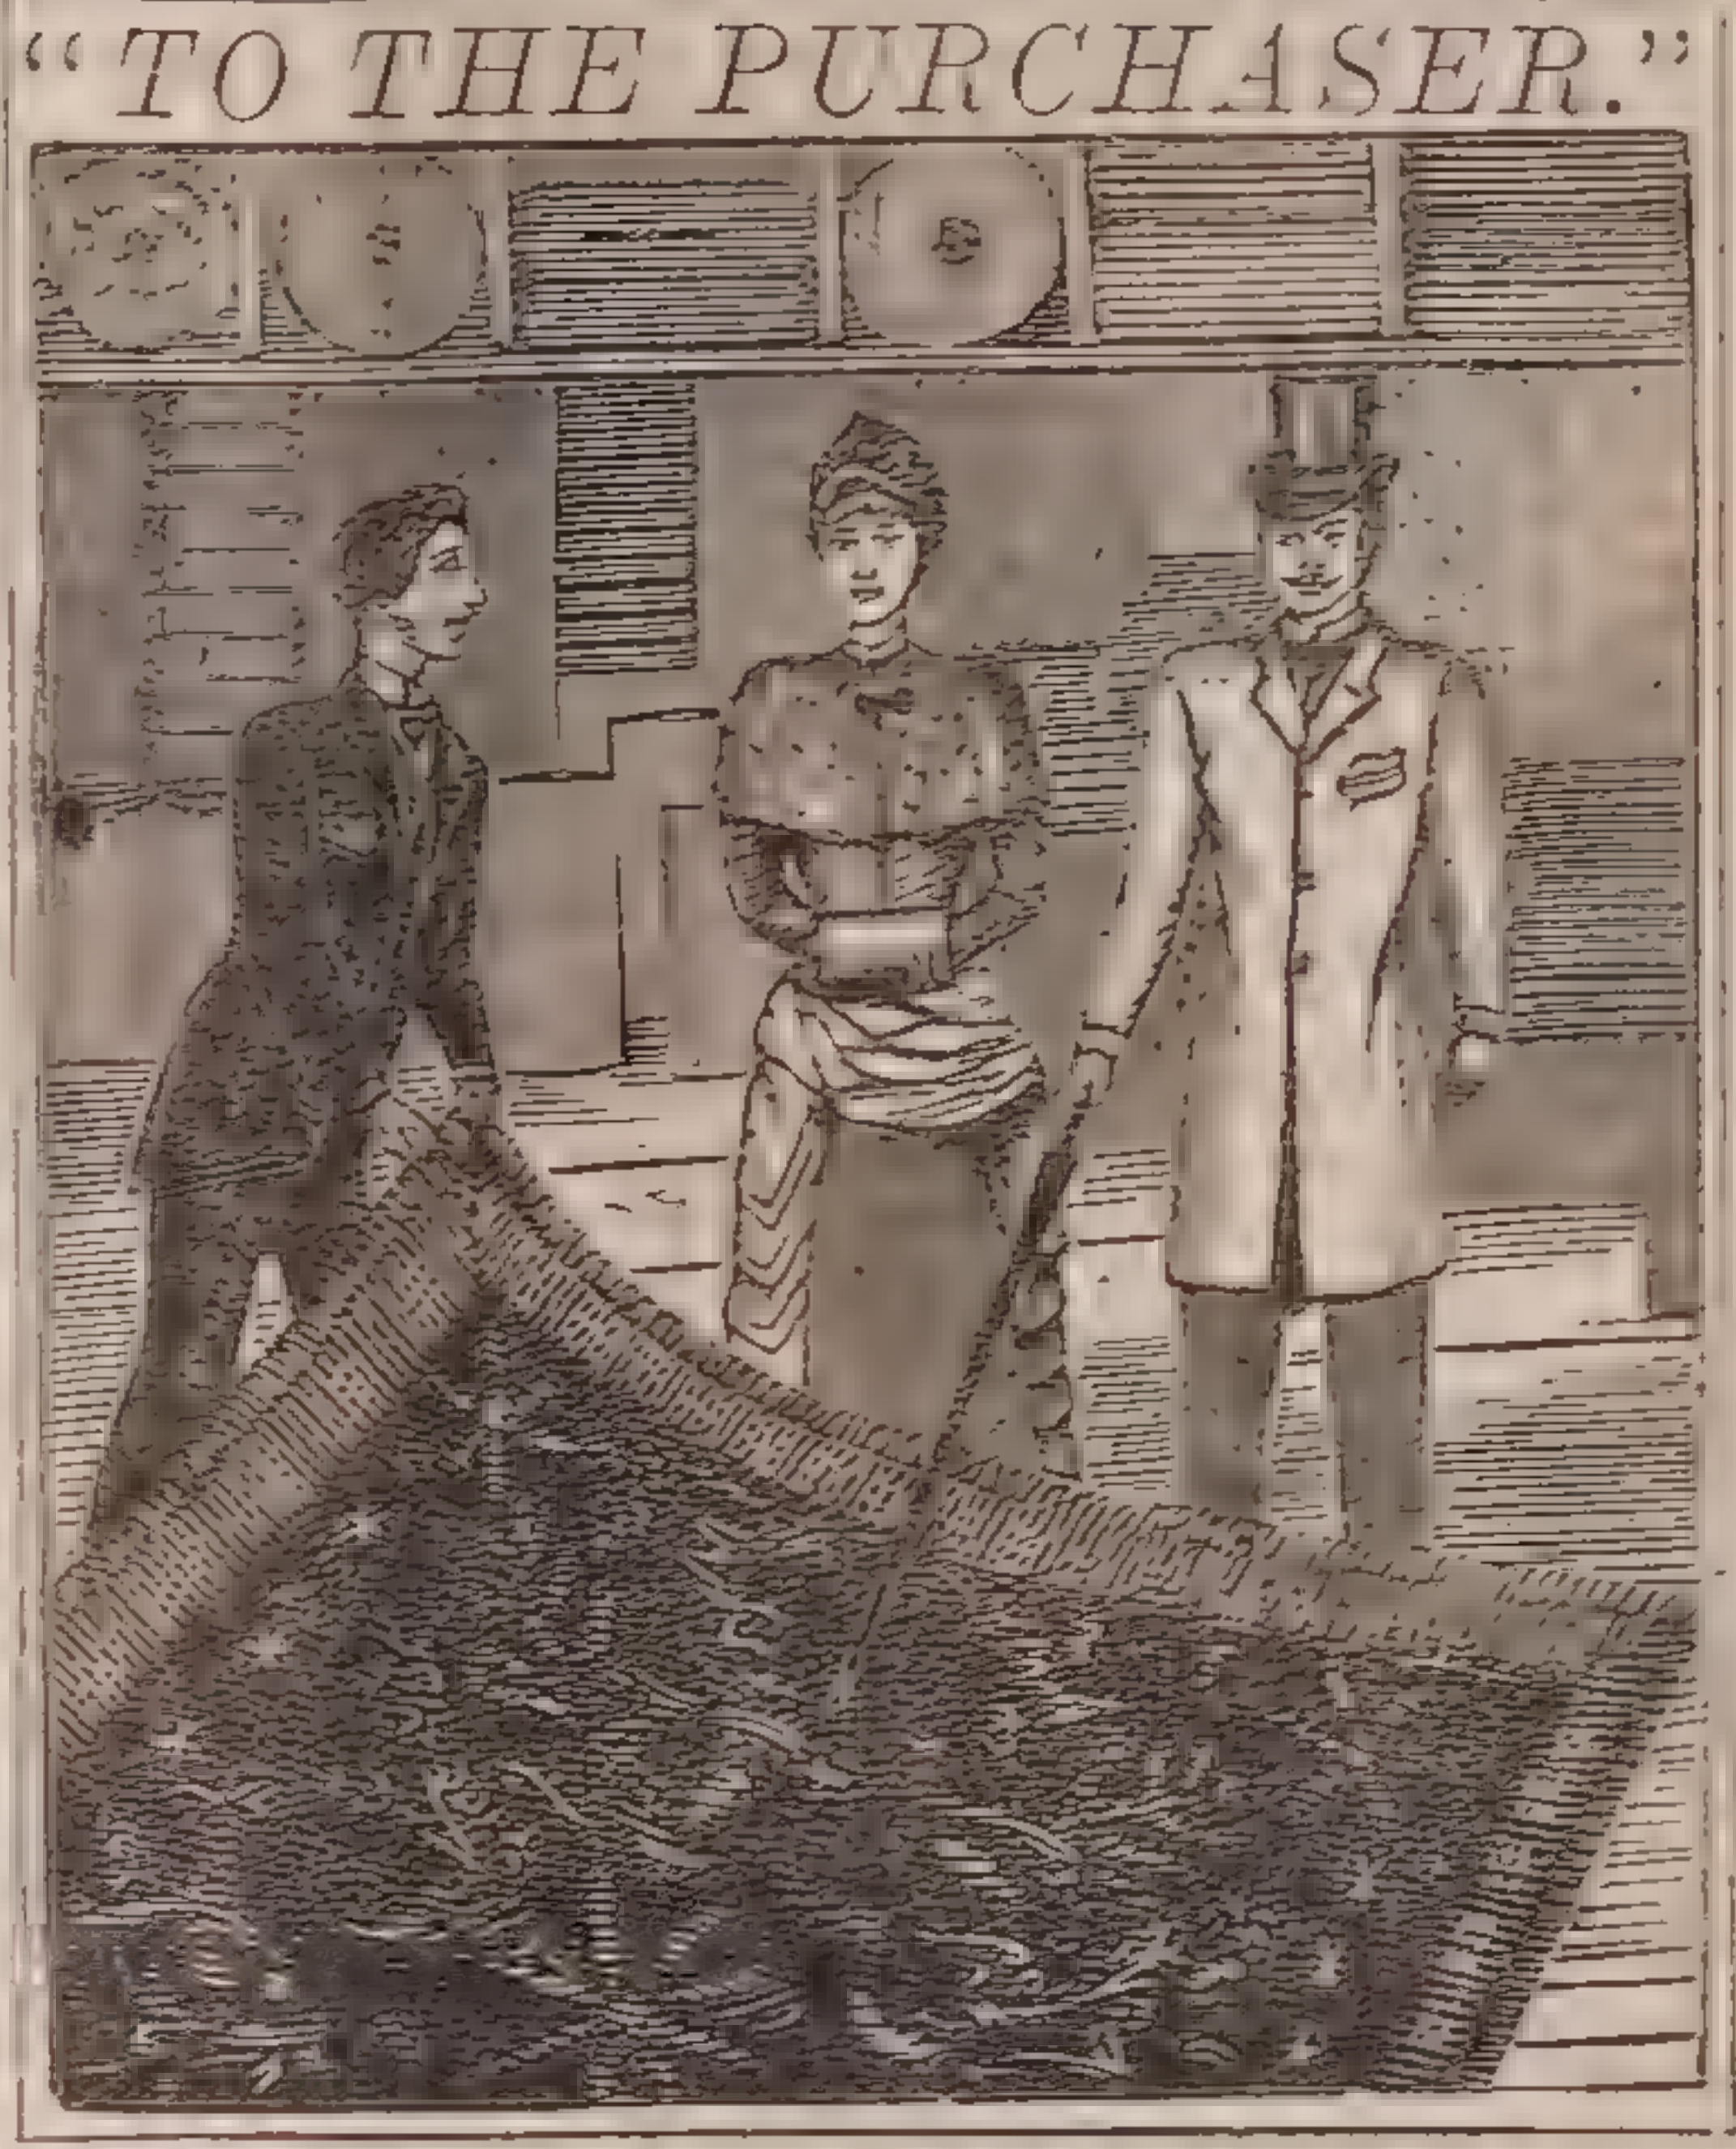
These Carpets are made of a material almost equal to wool, and, being a speciality of our own, they can only be obtained Direct from our Looms, thus saving the purchasers any middle profits. Send for sample, and if not satisfied MONEY WILL BE RETURNED IN FULL.

A RUG sent to match for 1s. 6d. extra, or TWO CARPETS and TWO RUGS for 10s. 6d. This extraordinary offer may not be repeated.

ALL ORDERS ARE EXECUTED SAME DAY AS RECEIVED.

The words "UNION BANK" should be written across all Postal Orders.

Thousands of Testimonials have been received showing what the Public think of these Carpets. Address—



"TO THE PURCHASER."

THE BRITISH CARPET-WEAVING COMPANY, 31, OLD STREET, ALDERSGATE, LONDON, E.C.

GIGANTIC SALE OF THE 'QUEEN'S ROYAL' HOUSEHOLD

HEARTHRUGS.

(Registered).

Carriage free 2/6

IN rich Turkey Patterns, measuring 6 ft. long and 3 ft. wide. These Hearthrugs have gained a world-wide reputation for magnificence, cheapness, and utility, having no equal. Registered designs, and considered works of art. Thousands of repeat orders and testimonials received, including undermentioned, giving the highest satisfaction.

SPECIAL OFFER.—Three for 7s., Six for 13s. 6d., Twelve for 26s., Carriage Free.

"Manderston, Berwickshire.
"Lady Miller wishes twelve more of the 'Queen's Royal' Household Hearthrugs to be sent her, same as already received. They ive every satisfaction."

The Countess of Haddington.
The Baroness de Linden.
The Countess of Lichfield.
The Honourable Lady Murray
Lady Evelyn Courtenay.
Lady Ormathwaite.
Lady Paxton Cooper.
Lady Trollope.
Lady Mary Feilding.
Lady Pollock.
Lady Warren.
Lady Garrock.
Lady E. St. Aubyn.
Lady Dixie.
Lady Gillespie.

"Eaton-gardens, West Brighton.
"Lady Robert Vivian has received the two large 'Queen's Royal' arpets ordered of F. Hodgson, and is very much pleased with them, nd considers them wonderfully well manufactured and very cheap."

Thousands more could be inserted from every County in the United Kingdom.

THE "QUEEN'S ROYAL" HOUSEHOLD
REVERSIBLE RICH TURKEY PATTERN

CARPETS.

(Registered).

Admittedly the Cheapest in the World.

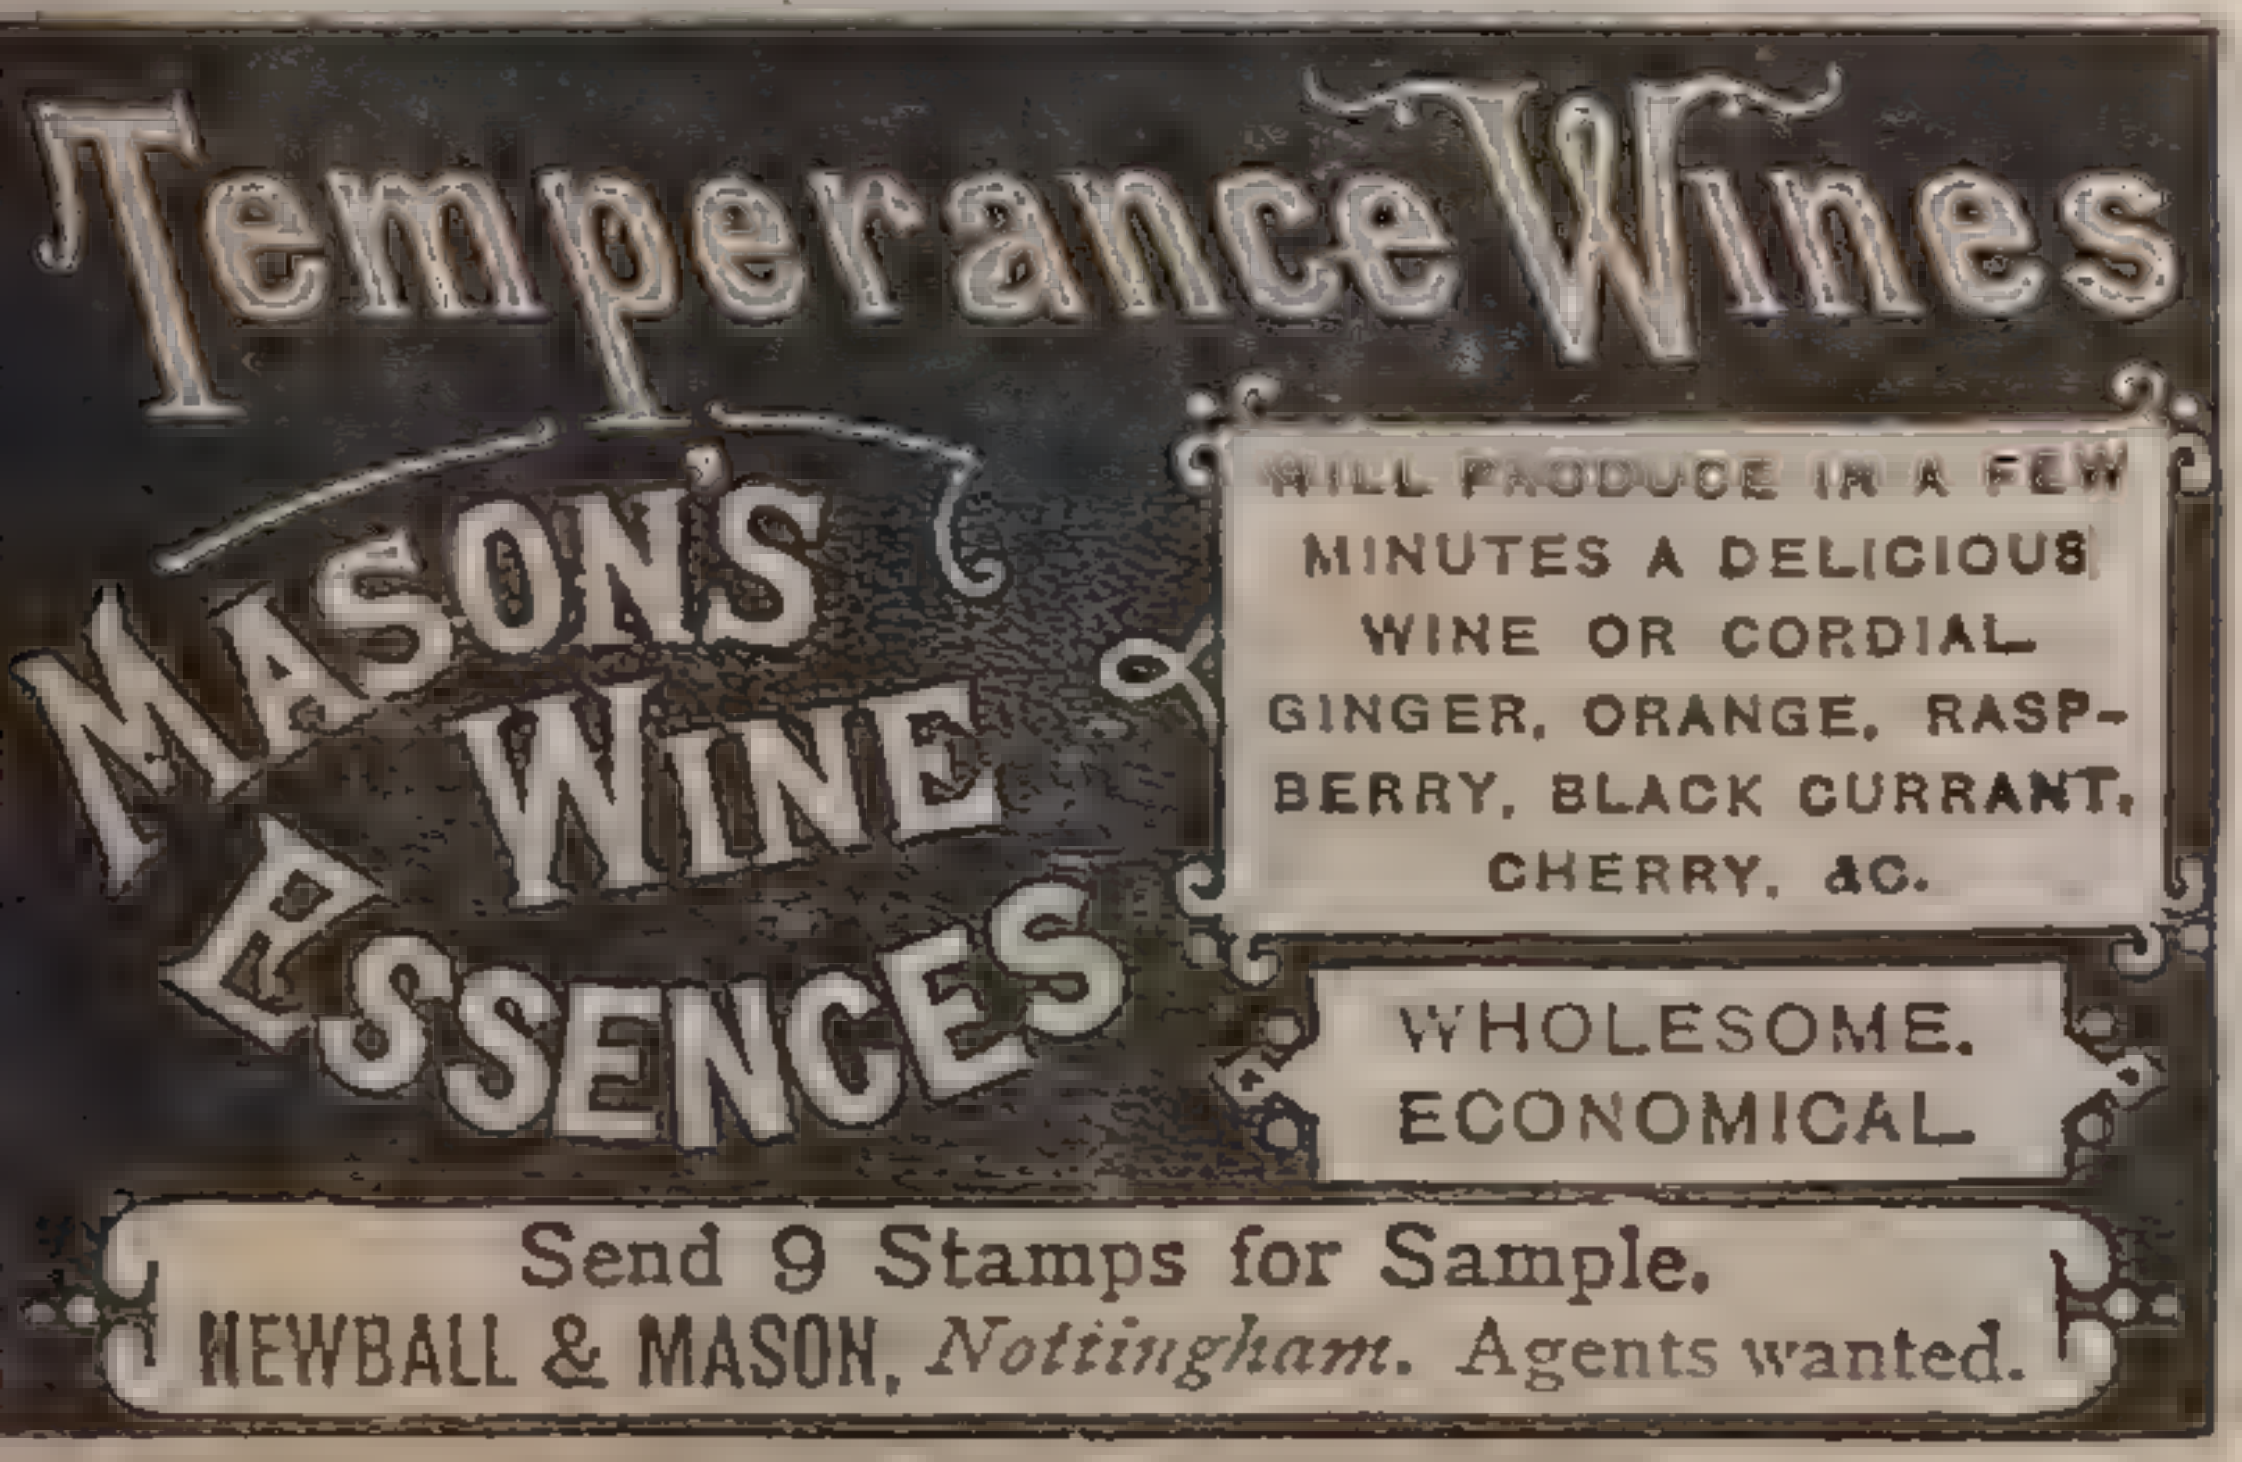
Woven without seam, superior quality, with handsome border to correspond; a marvel of excellence and beauty.

ft. by 9ft., price	11s. 9d.	10½ft. by 12ft., price	25s. 9d.
ft. by 9ft., "	12s. 6d.	9ft. by 15ft., "	27s. 9d.
ft. by 9ft., "	17s. 9d.	12ft. by 12ft., "	27s. 9d.
ft. by 10½ft., "	20s. 9d.	12ft. by 15ft., "	34s. 9d.
ft. by 12ft., "	22s. 9d.	12ft. by 18ft., "	42s. 0d.

To readers of The Christian, this month, any of the above sent arriage free to any part of the United Kingdom. Cash returned f not as described. Satisfaction guaranteed. Lists and testimonials, &c., free. Cheques and Post-office Orders payable to

F. HODGSON, Woodsley Road, LEEDS.

Please mention this Paper.



Temperance Wines
MASON'S WINE ESSENCES
WILL PRODUCE IN A FEW MINUTES A DELICIOUS WINE OR CORDIAL. GINGER, ORANGE, RASPBERRY, BLACK CURRANT, CHERRY, &C.
WHOLESOME. ECONOMICAL.
Send 9 Stamps for Sample.
NEWBALL & MASON, Nottingham. Agents wanted.

Works by D. L. Moody.

SOVEREIGN GRACE:

Its Source, its Nature, and its Effects.

Tinted Covers, 1s. Limp Cloth, 1s. 6d.
Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.

"These short and telling Gospel Addresses are just the kind of message men need. The ordinary difficulties, the hindrances, and objections, are all here met; this too in such a way as to disarm criticism and awaken sympathy."—Irish Congregational Magazine.

PREVAILING PRAYER.

A Series of Addresses on Prayer.

By D. L. MOODY.

Tinted Covers, 1s. Limp Cloth, 1s. 6d.
Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.

"This book shows partly in what Mr. Moody's power lies—his clearness, earnestness, simplicity, and faith. Would that we had a thousand such preachers! Surely they would move the world!"—Watchman.

ADDRESSES BY D. L. MOODY.

Delivered in Great Britain in 1874-75.

Tinted Covers, 1s. Limp Cloth, 1s. 6d.
Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.

ONE HUNDRED AND TENTH THOUSAND.

"Manly, clear, and pointed, they strike home to the heart."—Primitive Methodist.

BIBLE CHARACTERS.

By D. L. MOODY.

Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.;
Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

CONTENTS.

Daniel the Prophet. Lot. John the Baptist.
Enoch. Jacob. The Blind Man.
Joseph of Arimathea.

"Many valuable lessons are here drawn from the old-time stories of the Bible, and urged in plain and vigorous language upon the men and women of to-day."
Primitive Methodist.

WONDROUS LOVE.

A SERIES OF ADDRESSES.

TINTED COVERS, 1s.; Limp Cloth, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Boards, 2s.; Cloth Boards, Gilt Edges, 2s. 6d.

"I will challenge any one on the face of the earth to find any reason for not loving Christ. It is only here on earth men think they have a reason for not doing so. In heaven they know Him, and they shout 'Worthy is the Lamb that was slain!'"—EXTRACT.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

The Anchorage.

Hebrews vi. 19.

To Shelter, and give Spiritual care to, Young Women lately Fallen into Sin, whether or not about to become Mothers, with a special annexe and suitable arrangements for such as are of gentle birth.

ANYONE desiring admission for such cases to apply (by letter only) to Mrs. H. Stuart-Wortley, Rosslyn House, Grove End-road, N.W., London, also for Servants trained in the Anchorage House. Donations may be sent to Mrs. Stuart-Wortley for the Anchorage Mission, or to Messrs. Morgan & Scott.

TEETH.—Messrs. PAGET

(SURGEON-DENTISTS),

445, STRAND

(Opposite Charing Cross Station).

MESSRS. PAGET, the Old-established Surgeon-Dentists (English and American), supply their celebrated ARTIFICIAL TEETH, without pain, in one visit. Fixed either with or without plates or palates, by atmospheric pressure. Mastication, articulation, life-like appearance guaranteed.

A Tooth, 5s. Sets, 50s. Stoppings, 2s. 6d. Pamphlet (illustrated) sent gratis and post free.

Dr. Paget attends personally daily from 10 till 5. Consultations Free.

445, STRAND (opposite Charing Cross Station), LONDON.
Established over 50 years.

THE "D. L. MOODY" LIBRARY.

Containing Ten of Mr. Moody's most popular works, well-bound up in Five Vols., in a nicely made box. Similar to the "Anna Shipton" Library.

CONTENTS.

1. Sovereign Grace. / The Way to God.
2. Power from on High. / To the Work.
3. Bible Characters. / Prevailing Prayer.
4. Addresses. / Faithful Saying.
5. The Old Gospel. / Heaven.

10/6 NETT.

"Fresh, direct, pictorial, and powerful."
General Baptist Magazine.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

"THE HERALD OF MERCY," published monthly at One Halfpenny. Specimen copy sent, post free, on application to the publishers, Messrs. Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.

(Continued from page 11.)

TORQUAY.—The Mildmay Consumptive Home, to receive six Female Patients, open at Smyrna, Warberry-road, W. Terms 10s. 6d. or 7s. weekly. Application to SECRETARY. Entirely dependent on voluntary contributions. Subscriptions solicited to enlarge and maintain this work. (Matt. xxv. 40.)

ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA.—Boarding Establishment, Meliora House, 20 and 21, Carisbrooke-road. Conducted by the Widow of the late Rev. F. WAGSTAFFE and Mrs. LOCKE. Good table. Home comforts. Terms moderate. Near sea, gardens, and rail.

HEALTH RESORT FOR CHRISTIANS. Comfortable winter Home, near Stroud. Dry and sheltered. South aspect. Baths if required. Terms very moderate.—S. PYALL DIPROSE, Pitchcombe View, Stroud, Gloucester.

BRIGHTON.—Sussex House Boarding Establishment, pleasantly situated in the Old Steine, having a sea view, and the beautiful Steine Gardens in front. Near to Pavilion, Aquarium, and piers. Special terms for winter months.
Mr. & Mrs. BOX, 58, Old Steine.

ABODE OF FAITH, established 1876, to receive erring ones of gentle birth who cannot remain at home.—Letters confidential.
Mrs. DALBY, 21, Norfolk-road, St. John's Wood.
Luke xix. 10.

HIGHBURY.—Board and Residence for Christian City Gentleman. Terms moderate.—Mrs. LIEBSTEIN, 40, Highbury-hill.

ST. LEONARDS. — 88, Warrior-square.—Winter Residence. Superior boarding establishment. South-west aspect. Good cuisine. Bath-room, and every home comfort. Tennis. Terms moderate and inclusive.

INTEMPERANCE.—Private Home for six Ladies. Terms from 1½ to 3 guineas weekly. Highest professional references given, for which, with other particulars, apply to Miss PUDNEY, Buxton House, Earls Colne, Essex.

HASTINGS.—BOARD AND RESIDENCE in a Christian family. Liberal table. Home comforts. Use of piano and drawing-room. Three minutes from sea and rail.
Mrs. COMPTON, 22, Cambridge-gardens, Hastings.

HASTINGS.—Boarding Establishment, Sunnyside, Cornwallis-gardens.—Pleasantly situated. Central position. Thoroughly comfortable, and well recommended as winter residence. Hall and staircases heated. Smoking-room. Liberal table.—Proprietress, Mrs. BUTTERWORTH.

COMFORTABLE HOME FOR LADY BOARDERS and young Ladies pursuing their studies at High School. Best references.
L., 32, Lansdowne-street, Brighton.

WORTHING HOME OF REST for Christians. Close to, but not facing sea. Every comfort. Terms 25s. to 2 guineas. — LADY SUPERINTENDENT, Rutherford Lodge, Worthing.

ALL SEEKING APARTMENTS or Board (towns, suburbs, country, seaside, or anywhere) should call or write, stating wants. No charge whatever. Only fee (2s. 6d.) paid by those who let. All wishing to let rooms or obtain boarders should write for prospectus, sent free.—BROOKES' Apartments Agency, King-street, Cheapside, London. Agencies everywhere.

LADY MISSIONARIES or STUDENTS are offered a comfortable Home, near South Kensington. Instruction if desired.
M., care of Mr. B. Seeley, Essex-street, Strand.

TO BE LET OR SOLD, a charming little detached Cottage Residence in a healthy, cheery village in Bucks. Eight rooms, all tiny, but very convenient. Greenhouse, verandah with pretty creepers, half acre of garden. Rural, high-lying neighbourhood. Suit quiet professional man, or retired tradesman without family.
OWNER, Dunkeld Lodge, St. Albans, Herts.

KONIGSHEIM HOUSE OF REST, Weston-super-Mare. This Home provides a rest to English and Foreign Governesses, and Lady Christian Workers. Terms from 12s. to 21s. a week inclusive.—Address LADY SUPERINTENDENT.

CLAPHAM.—Comfortable Home, in a Christian family, for either Lady or Gentleman Boarder. Bed-room and private sitting-room. Easy access to town or City. Terms moderate.—F. BACHOFFNER, Bookseller, High-street, Clapham, S.W.

SIDCUP, KENT.—Three unfurnished Rooms, rent free, firing included, for two females, mother and daughter or sisters, in return for taking care of house used as a branch of school. Services required are of a light nature.—Apply, in first place, to S. H., 38, Queen Victoria-street, City.

BOURNEMOUTH.—To Let, furnished, sitting-room and two bed-rooms on same floor. Comfortable and convenient. Cheerful situation. Good cooking and attendance. Piano. Terms 21s. weekly.
Mrs. MATON, 54, Holdenhurst-road.

ROTHESAY, SCOTLAND.—Health Resort for Christians. Seeks to combine a congenial home, with benefits of Hydropathic. Terms from June till September, from 30s. per week.—Prospectus from COLIN CAMPBELL, Argyle Lodge.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Furnished Apartments. Central, sheltered position. South aspect. Near pier and gardens. Hot and cold water baths. Terms moderate.
Mrs. MOON, Ootacamund, St. Peter's-road.

THE SOUTH DEVON
BISHOPS TEIGNTON (Teignmouth the nearest Station.) HEALTH RESORT
All the Rooms in this Establishment are engaged until the end of April.
C. F. CARPENTER, Proprietor.

HONFLEUR.—To be Let, Furnished, a small House, containing sitting-room, three bed-rooms, and a good kitchen, in a quiet situation, commanding a fine view over the harbour and the mouth of the Seine. Direct communication by steamship from Newhaven; second-class fare for whole journey from London, 12s. Rent 25s. a week.—Further information can be obtained from J. BUSH, Esq., Honfleur.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—A Widow Lady offers a thoroughly comfortable, refined Home to two or three Ladies. An invalid, or motherless girl, would receive kind and careful attention. House beautifully situated; bath-room, &c.
Mrs. SLOMAN, Birchfield, Woodbury-park-road.

EALING (best part).—To Let, furnished, Gentleman's private Villa. Three sitting, five bed-rooms, bath-room, and good domestic offices. Select, open; overlooking park. Good garden; gravel soil. Fifteen minutes by rail of West London. Three guineas per week to small Christian family.
S., Williams' Library, Hereford-road, Bayswater.

ONSLOW GARDENS (best part of).—Lease of small, substantially built House for sale. Good investment. Three sitting, five bed-rooms. Capable of enlargement.
G., 11, Onslow-gardens, S.W.

HOME FOR CHILD, or Lady, in comfortable London Vicarage. Educational advantages.—VICAR, 26, John-street, Bedford-row, W.C.

PARTIES REQUIRING BOARD AND LODGING during the Mildmay Conferences, or any others held in the neighbourhood, can meet with all required on application to X. Y. Z., Book Depôt, 107A, Green Lanes, N.

COMFORTABLE HOME offered to Lady of weak intellect (not insane), in a quiet family, where she would receive kind treatment and every care.
M., 46, Stanmore-road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

BOARDERS RECEIVED in a godly family. Country parish in a pleasant part of North Hampshire. For terms (moderate), including occasional drives, apply,
T. S., 15, Richmond-crescent, Barnsbury, London, N.

BOARD AND RESIDENCE required.—A Lady wishes to meet with a comfortable home, in a Christian family. Upper Norwood, Croydon, S.E. or S.W. district. Terms 25s. weekly.
R. S., care of FRICKER, Stationer, Upper Norwood.

TO LADIES.—Board and Residence offered in pleasant country village, near Oxford. Large garden. Terms 18s. to £1 1s. weekly; for a permanence, £40 per annum.
S., Roman Cottage, Northleigh, Witney, Oxon.

BROMLEY, KENT.—Two well-furnished Rooms in a private house, near stations, for a Lady or Gentleman. Partial board if required. Terms moderate. References exchanged.
T., 1, Spring Hill-villa.

TO INVALIDS.—Board and Residence. Medical attendance, and trained nursing in well-appointed house in healthiest London suburb. Excellent cuisine. Inclusive terms from two guineas. Special terms for permanent case.—COMFORT, Lindley Jones & Co., Advertising Offices, 46, Watling-street, E.C.

A LADY WISHES Board and Residence for a few weeks at the West-end, with a Christian family of two or three Ladies. Terms moderate. Good references required.—Letters to L. K., May's Advertising Offices, 159, Piccadilly.

YOUNG MARRIED LADY, much alone, desiring cheerful companionship, offers comfortable Home to a Christian Lady (young) upon moderate terms.—THETA, care of Mr. Love, 6, High-street, Streatham, S.W.

A LADY of limited means, and willing to pay £2 10s. per month, would find a comfortable home in a healthy part of Torquay, with a Lady and her husband (no children.)—K., care of Mr. J. C. Chenoweth, Lower-terrace, Torquay.

FURNISHED APARTMENTS, St. Helen's Gardens, North Kensington. Drawing-room, two bed-rooms, and kitchen, with or without attendance, in a private house. A Christian Lady, for permanency, is desired.
FAITH, Mr. Hoskins, 34, Ladbroke-grove, W.

TO LET, in a pleasant suburb within five minutes' walk of the church and ten minutes of the City of Hereford, a semi-detached House, containing six rooms, kitchen, and scullery, with small productive garden. Rent £22. Evangelical ministry.—K., 51, Ross-road, Hereford.

A CLERGYMAN wishes to recommend a small but pleasantly situated, healthy Cottage in his parish. Six rooms. Rent very low. Garden. Christian worker earnestly desired and prayed for.—VICAR, Chilworth, Romsey.

RESIDENCE AND PARTIAL BOARD in a Christian family, suitable for one engaged during the day. A Lady preferred.—T. A. W., 75, Grandison-road, Clapham-common, S.W. (near Clapham Junction).

COUNTRY CHRISTIAN HOME, with every comfort, as one of the family, for Lady or Gentleman, at a superior farm residence, in healthy neighbourhood in North Hants. Phaeton, shooting, fishing.
M. G., 20, Trafalgar-road, Old Kent-road, London.

BOARD AND LODGING from 15s. inclusive; with private sitting-room, £1 per week. Addlestone, near Weybridge, Surrey. — Miss SIMPSON, 45, Gloucester-terrace, Hyde-park, London.

HOME FOR LADIES at Weston-super-Mare can be confidently recommended for its Evangelical tone and domestic comfort. Educational advantages if required. The house is large, and charmingly situated.—Miss AYERST, Ayerst Hall, Cambridge, will gladly furnish further details.

FOR SALE, very cheap, large, well-built House, containing twenty rooms, at Clevedon, Somerset. Suitable for a school, convalescent home, or private residence.—For particulars, apply to ALONZO DAWES, Clevedon.

CONVALESCENT HOME and Home of Rest for Business Women. Bracing air. 8s. and 10s. weekly.
LADY SUPERINTENDENT, Heytesbury, Wilts.

Miscellaneous.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS.—A Christian will gladly correspond with any earnest seeker after Divine truth.—EVANGELIST, Clapham, S.W.
Heb. vii. 25.

ELEGANT COUNTERPANE, Turkey Twill and White Calico. Coloured Illustration, model, and instructions, 9 stamps. Charming Cretonne Summer Counterpane, model and instructions, 9 stamps.—CLIFFORD, Newport, Mon.

IRON MISSION ROOMS, &c., erected on the most reasonable terms, by R. SAUNDERS, 127, Hungerford-road, London, N. Estimates and designs free. 25 years' practical experience. Also Churches and Schools, &c. Best workmanship.

QUALIFIED ACCOUNTANT AND AUDITOR.—Miss M. HARRIS SMITH, many years' experience, undertakes preparation of financial statements, balance-sheets, audits, &c., of societies, companies, and institutions.
33, Furnival-street, W.C.

AMERICAN ORGAN, by "Alleger." Walnut case. Seven stops. Two couplers. Humana, knee swells. Sweet, powerful tone. Warranted five years. Suit church, school, parlour. £10. IRONS, Matthias-road, Stoke Newington Green, N.

SHEETING.—Bleached Cotton Twill (pure soft finish), direct from manufacturers 2 yards wide, 1s. 2d., 2½ yards wide, 1s. 6d. per yard Pattern sent.—IMPERIAL LINEN CO., 42, Wilson-street, Finsbury, London.

100 PACKETS OF FLOWER SEEDS FOR 1s.!—Probably the most extraordinary value ever offered. Each packet different, named, and newly saved, from choice outdoor kinds. Post free 1s. 3d., 6 parcels (600 packets), 6s., free, without prepayment if good references are sent. Satisfaction guaranteed.
AMATEUR FLORIST, Liverpool-road, St. Albans.

LARGE YELLOW AFRICAN DAISY. Hardy annual. Invaluable for church or table decoration. In bloom from June to December. Seed 7d., post free. Gigantic Lemon Sunflower. Very handsome; rare. Seed 4d. Scabious, mixed colours; 2d. per packet. Grass, 2d. per packet. Also very choice Hardy Flower Seeds, for garden border, 13 varieties for 1s. Sold for a charity.
Miss W. B., Wrentham Rectory, Suffolk.

CHOICE FLOWER SEEDS, containing 16 varieties, in liberal quantities, including Aster, Balsam, Mignonette, Musk, &c., in Floral packets, with full directions for culture, post free, 1s.—G. STILLMAN, 39, Northumberland-place, Bayswater.

SHORTHAND.—Brief, legible, and as easy as ABC. The Manual, 6d., post free. Inductive Reader, 6d. Both admirably adapted for self-instruction.
REDFERN, Saxe Coburg-street, Leicester.

UMBRELLAS RE-COVERED FROM 2s. EACH.

IF YOUR UMBRELLA WANTS RE-COVERING send it by Parcels Post (with Postal Order enclosed) to STRONG BROS., Umbrella Makers, Redhill, Surrey, who will re-cover it and return it as good as new by next post, carriage paid. Good strong twill, ladies', 2s., gents', 2s. 6d.; good alpaca, ladies', 3s., gents', 3s. 6d.; strong durable silk, ladies', 4s. 6d., gents', 5s. Patterns post free. Reference kindly permitted to the Rev. W. J. Fowell, Redhill.
☞ A sample New Umbrella at wholesale price. List free.

BYWATER, TANQUERAY & CO., 79, Queen Victoria-street, London (late BYWATER, PERRY & CO.), are Agents for Residents abroad, Missionaries, Chaplains, &c., in every part of the world. Goods and Outfits supplied at Wholesale prices. Shipping and passages arranged. Banking in all its branches. Full descriptive Catalogue post free. Specially appointed Agents to seven of the leading English and American Missionary Societies. 2000 References.

COLONIES.—Immediate Openings for Pupils on good stock and grain farms, and lar estates in Canada, the United States, and Tasma Premium from £50. Pamphlet free. — FOR RATHBONE & Co., 21, Finsbury-pavement London.

DENTAL PRACTICE FOR SALE, in a country town in Scotland. Average annual income of past three years, about £400.—L. D. S. care of W. Jackson, 34, St. Andrew-square Edinburgh.

GOSPEL TENT for Sale, cheap, to hold about 200. Large letters on roof, "Good News" on one side, "God is Love" on the other.—H. J. ALLEN, Orphan Homes and Seaside Home for Children, Dover-road, Folkestone.

SPECIAL SERVICES.—"For stirring up a Church, and bringing the halting to decision, we cannot conceive of anything likely to be more effective than a week of Mr. Forbes."—Christian Leader.—Address for dates, 71, Windsor-road, Holloway, London, N.

SCIENTIFIC MASSAGE.—A Lady greatly benefited desires to recommend a skilled and careful Masseuse, who can receive patients, as boarders, or attend them at their own residence.
A. M., The Briars, Bromley, Kent.

EMIGRATION.—United States. Gentlemen's sons only. Passage paid. Permanent employment, and comfortable home with practical farmer, guaranteed for £35. Sailings 12th, 19th, and 26th of this month.—Write,
S. J. R., May's Advertising Offices, 159, Piccadilly.

WASHING WANTED, by an experienced Laundress, with every convenience Terms moderate. Good references. Good drying ground and plentiful supply of water.—Mrs. HUNT Leamington House Laundry, 21, Park-terrace, East-row, Kensal-road, Westbourne-park, W.

HIGH-CLASS FAMILY WASHING.—The Imperial Sanitary Steam Laundry, situated in one of the most delightful suburbs of London, with beautiful drying grounds and an abundant supply of water. Moderate charges. Prompt delivery.—Price list on application to MANAGER, Ingestre-road, Dartmouth-park, near Highgate, N.W.

Wholesale Prices for RETAIL Orders
FOUR-FOLD POST FREE.
4/9 per doz. IRISH LINEN
POST FREE. CASH WITH ORDER. COLLARS
DIRECT FROM IRELAND.
Quality Guaranteed. Best Materials.
All Shapes and Sizes to Order or Ready-made
WALKER BROS., Royal Avenue, Belfast

NEAVE'S
FOR INFANTS,
INVALIDS,
AND THE AGED.
FOOD.

Publications.

THE NEAR RETURN of the Lord Jesus Christ. By CHEYNE BRADY. 17th thousand Price One Penny.
S. W. PARTRIDGE & Co., 9, Paternoster-row, E.C.

60, All Different, 1d. and ½d. Leaflets; 25, 4d.

THE "MOUNTAINS OF BREAD" series of little Books and Leaflets, by the late Georgiana Thompson, are copyright. Profits for poor and suffering Christians are still supplied by addressing, Miss A. THOMPSON, care of D. Cranage, Old Hall, Wellington, Salop.

FIFTY ANSWERS TO INFIDEL OBJECTIONS.—By W. R. BRADLAUGH Price Sixpence. Post free, 7½d. London: JOH SNOW & Co., 2, Ivy-lane, Paternoster-row, E.C.

MRS. GRIMKE'S TEXT CARDS.—To be had from Mrs. GRIMKÈ, Prestwich, Manchester, who likes orders sent to her direct, or from E. KAUFMANN, 129, Cheapside; or booksellers.

NOTICE.

◆◆◆◆◆◆◆

TO facilitate the removal of ou extensive stock to new premise we shall be prepared to supply, fo one month only, for free distribution (not for sale), an assorted £ parcel, as under, for 10s., carriag not paid. Remittance to accompany order.

PARCEL A., consisting of £2 o penny and halfpenny Gospe Booklets, Leaflets for Letters, Flora Scripture Leaflets, &c., &c., for 10s

The authors of these includ Mr. Spurgeon, Mr. Everard, W Luff, Charlotte Murray, A. Weston, &c.

Orders to be sent direct to

Drummond's Tract Depot, Stirling

he original and most comprehensive.

HE QUEEN'S PRINTERS' TEACHER'S BIBLES.

welve Sizes,
Fifteen Editions,
Fifty Styles.

From 3s., at all Booksellers.

YRE & SPOTTISWOODE,
GREAT NEW ST.,
LONDON, E.C.

By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.

he Power of Silent Example.
BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per doz.; or 3s. 10½d. per 100, post free.

ome-Life Responsibilities.
howing the influence one life has upon another for od or evil, in strengthening or weakening everywhere, but most of all in our home life.
BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per doz.; or 3s. 10½d. per 100, post free.

hat Our Servants May Do.
Being instances of Good that has been done by Christian Servants; and how homes have been blessed by their influence.
BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per doz.; or 3s. 10½d. per 100, post free.

hildren's Parties.
A Few Friendly Words suitable for the Present Season.
BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per doz.; or 3s. 10½d. per 100, post free.

vening Parties.
Being instances of Harm arising from the Practice of Wine-drinking at Parties.
BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per doz.; or 3s. 10½d. per 100, post free.

hat We Gain and What We Lose.
o we Gain or Lose Influence by the position we ake in regard to the total Abstinence Question?
BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per doz.; or 3s. 10½d. per 100, post free.

eeds Weightier than Words.
Earnest Thoughts on the Temperance Question.
BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per doz.; or 3s. 10½d. per 100, post free.

ur Christian Mothers and Sisters.
Showing the effect of Home Influence.
BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per doz.; or 3s. 10½d. per 100, post free.

hat Ties the Tongue.
Showing the Importance of Christian Total Abstinence.
BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per doz.; or 3s. 10½d. per 100, post free.

acts Stronger than Theories.
A Series of Narratives showing what one glass often leads to.
BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per doz.; or 3s. 10½d. per 100, post free.

he Worth of Common Sense.
"Pity it is that Christian sympathy without hristian common sense often misleads, misguides, nd hinders. How jealous should the servants of he Master be to follow to the fullest His example ho went about 'doing good.'"—EXTRACT.
BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per doz.; or 3s. 10½d. per 100, post free.

he Cruelties of Hospitality.
Plain Words to Christians.
BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per doz.; or 3s. 10½d. per 100, post free.

OUR HOMES.

BY MRS. REANEY.
A Series of 12 Small Books on Christian Temperance described above.
Assorted Packet containing one of each sort, price 6d.

ondon: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-bldgs.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

READY EARLY IN APRIL.

THE COMPREHENSIVE TEACHERS' BIBLE.

With Entirely New Aids and New Concordance on an Improved Plan.

"It would be difficult to suggest a more comprehensive and compact mass of information. . . . Nothing short of an exhaustive apparatus criticus is placed in the hand of the instructor."—Bookseller.

This Book will contain, in addition to the NEW HELPS and CONCORDANCE, the COMPLETE BAGSTER BIBLE, and an INDEXED ATLAS.

SAMUEL BAGSTER & SONS, LIMITED, 15, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

DAINTREE & CO., DYERS, LONDON.

The LARGEST WORKS IN LONDON.
for Dyeing and Cleaning in every Branch.
98, Mount-street, Grosvenor-square, W.; 365, Southwark-park-road, S.E.; 44, Leicester-square, W.C.

Carts Collect and Deliver to all parts.—PRICE LISTS BY POST.

JUST PUBLISHED.

WHITHER ARE WE DRIFTING? OR, The Progress of England Rome-wards.

By the Right Hon. LORD ROBERT MONTAGU,

Author of "Recent Events—and a Clue to Their Solution;" "Reasons for Leaving the Romish Church;" &c., &c.

Price 2d. 12 copies sent post free for 2s.

CONTENTS.

- The Present Attitude of the English Church.
- A Personal Retrospect.
- The Dæmones.
- Tombs or Shrines.
- Reverence of Relics.
- Worship of Images.
- Pagan Rites and Worship.
- Lighted Candles.
- Holy Water.
- On Fastings.
- The Early Christians and Paganism.
- The Adulteration of Christianity.
- The "Pontifex Maximus."
- Closing Words.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Cloth Boards, 7s. 6d.; Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges, 9s. 6d.; Morocco, 17s. 6d.

Songs and Solos and Christian Choir

BOUND TOGETHER IN ONE VOLUME.

Containing 520 Pieces—WORDS and MUSIC.

SIZE, 9½ inches by 7½ inches. THICKNESS, 1½ inches.

Good-sized Type, suitable for use at the Instrument.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Songs and Solos and Christian Choir.

WORDS ONLY.

Cloth Limp 0 6
Cloth Boards 0 9

Songs and Solos and Christian Choir.

WORDS ONLY.

LARGE PRINT. Cloth Limp .. 2 6
Cloth Bds., gilt edges 3 0

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

THE CHRISTIAN CHOIR.

An Attractive Quarto Volume of Music and Words.

By IRA D. SANKEY and JAMES McGRANAHAN.

May be had either in OLD NOTATION or in TONIC SOL-FA.

"It is as fine a collection of Sacred Airs as can anywhere be found. All the Hymns and the Tunes are beautiful, impressive, gracious; and the rendering of them, and the hearing them sung in private or public alike, have led many to change their whole course of life."—Oldham Chronicle.

"Of this Sacred Song Book it is scarcely needful for us to say a word. Thousands have listened and thousands have sung them, and will retain their good impressions when all the mists have rolled away."—Baptist Messenger.

WORDS ONLY—LARGE TYPE.
Price Sixpence, in Tinted Covers.
Price Ninepence, in Limp Cloth.
Price One Shilling, in Cloth Bds., gilt edges.

WORDS ONLY.
Price One Penny, Tinted Covers.
Price Twopence, in Cloth.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WORDS of GRACE and TRUTH.

A New Series of Leaflets, each containing a Selection of Striking Passages of Scripture, tastefully printed in two colours on toned paper.

1. "Who is on the Lord's side."
2. "Turn ye! Turn ye!"
3. "See the Salvation of God."
4. "Mighty to Save!"
5. "Why will ye Die?"
6. "It is Finished!"
7. "God Commendeth His Love."
8. "I Come Quickly."
9. "Now is the Accepted Time."
10. "Look and Live."
11. "How shall we Escape?"
12. "Reconciliation."
13. "All Gone Aside!"
14. "All have Sinned."
15. "Not by Works."
16. "Christ is All."

Packet containing Eighty Leaflets, assorted. Price 6d. If for free distribution, 5s. per 1,000; per post, 5s. 6d. per 1,000.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

REST and REAPING:

A Record of Christian Work and Workers.

Edited by CHARLOTTE MASON.

Monthly. Price One Penny.

April No. contains a Serial Article by the Editor on "The Origin and Development of the House of Rest." "The Witness of the Holy Spirit," by Rev. F. B. Meyer, M.A. "Ready for Either," by Mrs. Evered Poole. "Unto Me" (Poetry), by William Luff; &c., &c.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-bldgs.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

NEW SHIRTS FOR OLD ONES.

Old Shirts Refitted with Irish Linen Fronts and Cuffs.
Good quality, 2/6 each. Specially fine Linen, 3/- each.
Shirts made to Pattern or Order.

GEORGE O'BRIEN & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS, BELFAST.

Price 6d. per dozen, or 3s. 6d. per 100.

"BLESSINGS ON THE BEES!"

A Story of Systematic Giving.

BY S. J. HUMPHREY,

Author of "For His Sake."

"After we have our homes paid for, and are in comfortable circumstances, all we can make surely belongs to the Lord. It would only burden us to keep it; but if given back to Him it is a source of great happiness ever after. It must yield in the conversion of souls more than compound interest."
Extract.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-bldgs.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Price 6d. per dozen, or 3s. 6d. per 100.

FOR HIS SAKE.

A Deeply-Interesting Narrative.

BY S. J. HUMPHREY,

Author of "Blessings on the Bees."

"A year ago this winter our house took fire. It was in the middle of the night, and we were all asleep. The flames were first discovered by a poor neighbour, who at once gave the alarm, and then burst in the door. . . . It seems almost a miracle that we were got out alive. We were dazed and suffocated, and it was only the heroic courage and great strength of our neighbour that brought us down the blazing stairway into the open air; but it nearly cost him his life."—Extract.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-bldgs.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Price One Penny, 1s. per dozen.

A GLANCE AT THE GREAT WORK.

An Incident of Messrs. Moody and Sankey's Meetings in London.

BY LADY HOPE.

(Reprinted from THE CHRISTIAN.)

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-bldgs.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

AMUSEMENTS

From the Christian Point of View.

By JAMES CULROSS, A.M., D.D.

Price One Penny; 1s. per dozen, post free.

"Carry your religion into your recreations. Let them be penetrated by a Christian spirit, unselfishness, consideration for others, heart purity, and the recognition of the Divine Presence and oversight. 'Whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God.'"
Extract.

MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Terms for Advertisements "The Christian"

(PREPAID)

Miscellaneous Advertisements in small type are charged at the following rates:—

Not exceeding 30 Words	....	3	0
" 39 "	....	3	9
" 48 "	....	4	6

And 9d. for every additional line of nine words or under, the address being in all cases charged for.

STANDARD LIFE OFFICE

Pays HALF A MILLION ANNUALLY in Death Claims.

Its INVESTED FUNDS exceed 6½ MILLIONS, increasing yearly, and the New Business for the last Bonus period exceeded the amount transacted by any of the Scottish Life Offices.

83, King William Street, E.C.

SAML. PEACH & SONS
NOTTINGHAM
LACE CURTAINS

Direct from the Looms at Manufacturer's Prices.

Extraordinary Value. Lot No. 121.

21/ POPULAR PARCEL 21/
Sent Carriage Paid for

Containing one pair of magnificent Drawing-room Curtains, 4 yds. long, and nearly 2 wide, taped edges. One pair handsome Dining-room Curtains, 3½ yds. long, ornamental design, taped edges. One pair Sitting-room Curtains, 3 yds. long, effective floral pattern. One pair pretty Bed-room Curtains. One large-sized Antimacassar. One Lace Cover for fancy table. Twelve yds. Trimming lace. Two Lace D'Oylys. The Curtains can be had in either White or Ecru.

A Black Spanish Silk Lace FICHU given away to every Purchaser of the above parcel

"The quality and design of these Special Parcels are excellent, and are the best value ever offered."

MONEY RETURNED IF NOT APPROVED.

P.O.O.'s and Cheques made payable to SAMUEL PEACH & SON, CASTLEGATE, NOTTINGHAM. NEW PRICE LIST POST FREE.

FOGS!
AND DAMP AIR PRODUCE
Catarrh, Coughs, Hoarseness.
The FINEST REMEDY for COLDS, COUGHS, ETC.,
IS CONGREVE'S
BALSAMIC ELIXIR

In Bottles, 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d.

Prepared by G. T. CONGREVE, Coombe Lodge, Peckham.

SOLD BY ALL MEDICINE HOUSES.

FIVE GOLD MEDALS AWARDED.

Goddard's Plate Powder

NON-MERCURIAL.

FOR NEARLY HALF A CENTURY this Powder has sustained an unrivalled reputation throughout the United Kingdom and Colonies as the BEST and SAFEST Article for Cleaning Silver and Electro Plate. Sold in Boxes 1s., 2s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. each, by Grocers, Chemists, Ironmongers, &c.

Now Published in one
HANDSOME SHILLING VOLUME,
Post Free.

"MR. GEO. THOS. CONGREVE on
CONSUMPTION
AND ITS SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT.
Showing that direful disease to be Curable in all its Stages; with observations on ASTHMA, CHRONIC BRONCHITIS," AND THE NEW APPENDIX
TO THE
WORK on CONSUMPTION,
CONTAINING
226 MOST INTERESTING AND AUTHENTIC CASES
That have appeared in the Weekly Journals and Monthly Magazines from 1881 to the present time, with NOTES APPENDED TO MANY
SHOWING THE
PERMANENCE of CURE.

N.B.—The work "ON CONSUMPTION," by itself (in paper covers), may be had for SIXPENCE (post free) from the Author, Coombe Lodge, Peckham, S.E., or from the Publisher, Elliot Stock, 62, Paternoster-row, E.C.

The Two Books, bound in ONE VOLUME (cloth), for One Shilling, post free from the Author.

The Twenty-Fifth Series of Weekly Cases is now publishing.

NOTICE TO THE READERS OF "THE CHRISTIAN"
Who may be personally or relatively
INTERESTED in THIS MATTER.

MR. CONGREVE will give ONE RECENT CASE, NOT PUBLISHED in this Journal BEFORE, EVERY WEEK.

CASE FOR THIS WEEK.
"NOTHING SHORT OF A MIRACLE."
CASE of ADVANCED DISEASE in BOTH LUNGS of a LADY in SCOTLAND.

The patient, MRS. K——, had been told by one of the first physicians in Edinburgh, as well as by the family medical attendant, that "the lower lobes of both lungs were gone, and the upper parts badly diseased." This condition had followed an acute attack of pleurisy and congestion of the lungs which had happened four months before. The cough at this time was continuous; expectoration very copious and mixed with blood; the breathing very bad, and chest constantly appetite had failed; she was worn and wasted ("thin to a degree").

The sister of Mrs. K., writing me in the summer before last (after stating the particulars above mentioned), says: "Although hope has been given up, she has been urged by so many friends to write to you that I cannot refrain."

I advised the patient fully, assuring her that although I could pronounce no positive opinion as to recovery, it would be well for her to commence at once with a resolution to persevere, and not be discouraged should there not be immediate apparent benefit, for if anything in the world would stop the progress of disease and restore her, this (under God) would be the means.

In less than two months she was "able to go out for a drive." On examination the report was, "disease less active," and in [illegible] month that "the lungs were healing." In October she was "gaining flesh fast." I advised her (in reply to a query) not to go to the South of France for the winter, especially as the place in Scotland where she could stay was "dry and mild, and well wooded with fir;" and she did not go.

On the 29th of last July I received a letter, which states: "Mrs. K. can now take walks of between four and five miles without fatigue, and go up hills with ease. She has got fat, and has a good appetite, though a little cough remains, such as she had for five or six years before her illness. She owes you her life. We take every opportunity of mentioning this."

My correspondence with Mrs. K., or with her sister on her behalf, lasted, on the whole, for twelve months. PATIENT PERSEVERANCE in this case was well rewarded.

In November last, Mrs. K. says: "I am happy to say I am keeping very well. I am quite as strong now as I was before my illness." Shortly after this a severe attack of erysipelas came on, but the "chest in no way suffered."

The last time I heard of her was in a letter from her sister, dated March 23, 1888, in which she says: "In looking over the cases in your new book (the Appendix mentioned), I see none more remarkable than that of Mrs. K. When I think of her state before commencing your treatment, her recovery seems nothing short of a miracle. Emaciated to a shadow, so weak as scarcely to be able to turn in bed, with an incessant cough, breathlessness, and racking pains in chest and sides. Dr. ——, as well as her own family doctor, said, "She may pass away at any time." I am thankful to say she keeps very well. A short time ago, when on a visit at Stirling, she climbed the Castle Hill with little difficulty. Her doctor called on her after her return, and said there was no need to sound her, for to look at her was enough."

I have reason to think that this lady would not like her name published, but I am prepared to show the correspondence, or to refer to her privately.

NOTE.—Days of Consultation.—TUESDAY, THURSDAY, and SATURDAY Mornings ONLY, at Coombe Lodge, Peckham. Patients from any long distance should choose either of the two former days. Everyone is expected to have seen the book first.

SEND FOR A BOX OF PATTERNS
REPRESENTING A STOCK OF £75,000 0 0

Post Free
TO ANY PART OF THE UNITED KINGDOM.

Messrs. BAINBRIDGE & Co. (The largest Wholesale and Retail Drapery Warehousemen in the English Provinces).

will send a Box containing 1000 Patterns of

Black & Coloured Silks
Dress Materials
Zephyrs, Ginghams, Prints

Household Linens
Calicoes, Shirtings
Flannels

Mantle Cloths
Laces & Embroideries
Handkerchiefs, &c.

Send a Post Card. All Parcels carriage paid.

"The Parcels Post obliterates distance, and brings those living in the most remote country districts into direct contact with the best sources of supply."

20, 31, 33, 35, & 37, Market St., Newcastle-on-Tyne.

ESTABLISHED
TRADE MARK
ROYAL WELLINGTON WOOLLEN COMPANY

TO HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN & H.R.H. PRINCESS OF WALES.

Haddon's PURE DRESS FABRICS

ARE WORN BY LADIES OF THE MOST CULTURED TASTE THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

SPRING PATTERNS NOW READY.

"Most attractive fabrics."—The Queen. "Delightful materials. Of surprising value."—The Lady. "Remarkable for refined elegance."—Court Journal. "Novelties to our heart's content."—Myra.

Patterns on approval free. Carriage paid on orders exceeding 20s.

HADDON'S ROYAL WOOLLEN COMPANY, WELLINGTON, SOM.

Fry's Cocoa

·Pure· ·Concentrated· ·Cocoa·

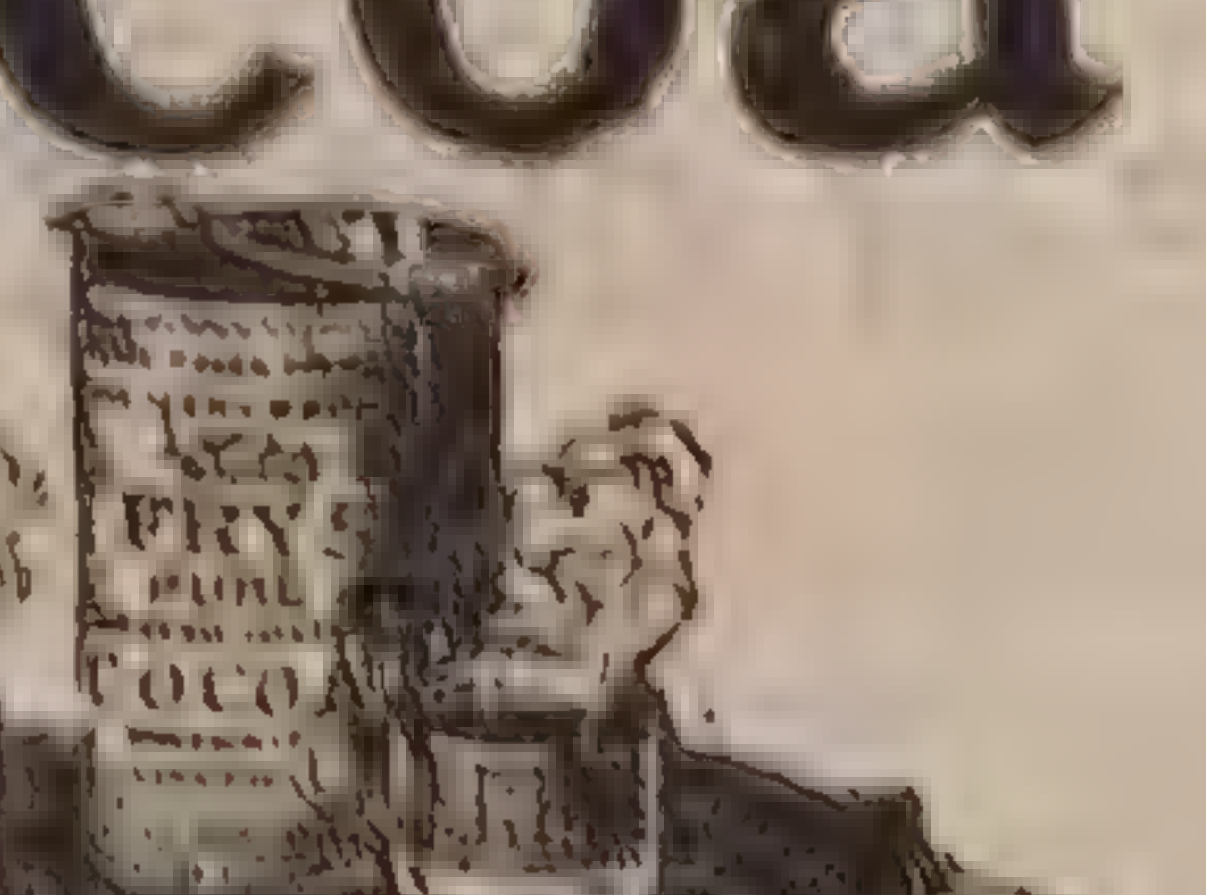
33 PRIZE MEDALS
awarded to the Firm



ASK YOUR GROCER FOR A SAMPLE & TESTIMONIALS

J. S. FRY & SONS, BRISTOL, LONDON, and SYDNEY, N.S.W.,
Makers to the Queen and Prince of Wales.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

Whatever else may be said about the Salvation Army, it is a passenger which goes right on its way, undeterred and unattracted by the many voices in the Church and in the world. While others are discussing doctrines, this Army is discoursing of deeds done. And truly the best answer to those who examine us is that "something accomplished, something done," is the result of our endeavour.

Seven years ago Catherine Booth, at St. James's Hall, bade farewell to England, and departed as an evangelist to France. On Monday she again appeared on the same platform, and the record of the intervening seven years is one of the most wonderful stories of evangelistic zeal, endurance, and success.

There has been enough to criticise, no doubt, though less than in the work of the Army elsewhere; but, after all, the residuum of actual result is almost without parallel. Is it not time for us to listen to the question, "Who art thou that judgest the servant of another?" and to be at least as eager to see what is good as what is faulty in the purposes and methods of our fellow-servants?

General Booth's opening address was a series of startling facts, and upon these were based unanswerable appeals as to the claims of the heathen world upon the property and person of every Christian—appeals answerable only by absolute devotedness to Christ.

Commissioner Tucker and his Indian band were the sensation of the morning, and yet not mere sensation. The testimony of a converted captain of thieves, in his own language, interpreted by an educated and cultured fellow-countryman, is indescribable; but those who heard it, and laughed and cried under it, will not soon forget India and its people.

On Monday evening and Tuesday, the meetings were continued in St. James's Hall, and in the Congress Hall, Clapton, in connection with the marriage of Commissioner Tucker and Miss Booth, in order to bring under consideration the claims of the cause of God and the heathen world upon every follower of Christ. Several prominent officers in the Army addressed the meetings, and volunteers for work in foreign lands were called for on each day. It was shown with much force that "the harvest truly is great, and the labourers are few," and fervent prayer was offered to the Lord of the harvest to send more labourers forth into the foreign field.

H.R.H. PRINCESS CHRISTIAN will formally open the new Lecture Hall of the Working Lads' Institute, Whitechapel, on Saturday, April 21. Tickets may be had of Mr. Henry Hill, hon. sec., 38, Bow-lane, E.C.

MARGATE Y.M.C.A.—An Easter mission, lasting from March 29 to April 3, was conducted here by the Mission Band from Whittington-avenue (London) Y.M.C.A. The effort was fruitful in blessing. Some were brought to the Lord, but more were blessed in the increase of spiritual life. This has come out in the noon prayer-meeting, conducted by the Secretary each day since. It is felt that a great impetus has been received by the little circle of labourers holding the fort at this place. This is the second visit made to Margate by the same workers.

DR. BARNARDO'S HOMES.—Several new blocks of buildings have for some time past been in course of erection in extension of this institution. The new buildings are three in number; the principal building, which has just been completed, is a large one of four floors, and occupies an area of 135 ft. in length and 60 ft. in width. What is known as the Old Home, on the opposite side of the Causeway, has likewise been materially increased in height by the addition of another story, consisting mainly of a dormitory containing 100 beds. In addition to these buildings, a new infirmary, in connection with the Home, is in course of erection on the eastern side of Stepney Causeway, in the Commercial-road. This building, which is near completion, will cost £8500, and the estimated outlay for the three buildings is upwards of £20,000.

RAILWAY MEN IN SCOTLAND.

Last Saturday the representatives of the Railway Mission in Scotland met in Glasgow for their annual conference. In the afternoon, under the genial presidency of Mr. D. Spencer, the General Secretary, reports were given by delegates as to the progress of the work during the year. In one or two cases that progress appeared to have been in a backward direction, but as a rule a tone of hopefulness and good cheer pervaded the statements of the delegates. These brethren were from Aberdeen, Ayr, Boness, Coatbridge, Dundee, Dumfries, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Greenock, Hamilton, Perth, &c. The principal agencies are Bible-classes, Gospel meetings, kitchen or cottage meetings, and visitation by ladies of the railway-men's families. It was most interesting to hear from so many lips how the gatherings for prayer and for the study of the Bible are enjoyed, and found to be a source of strength to the workers.

Mr. Spencer had a very encouraging tale to tell of the general aspect of the Mission. There seems to be progress "all along the line," as the favourite phrase goes. The troubles in Ireland are not preventing the extension of the Mission there. Mr. Spencer had good news to communicate also with respect to the prospects of the work in India, South Africa, Australia, &c. On the Continent of Europe doors of entrance are opening up, so that the outlook as a whole is a stimulating one. In the course of the afternoon meeting, Mr. Johnston, District Secretary for Scotland, gave some interesting details as to the opening of new branches at Stirling, Airdrie, Coatbridge, Paisley, &c. It was stated that the labours of Mr. Steedman, the railway evangelist, had proved very acceptable, and had been much blessed in the reviving of spiritual life in the places he has visited during the year. He now gives his whole time to the prosecution of the work.

A large company assembled for tea in the Christian Institute, in the early evening, when a very pleasant season of social intercourse was enjoyed. Tea meetings of this kind are quite an institution in Scotland: as one friend facetiously, if somewhat maliciously, observed, the announcement of a tea-meeting, especially if conjoined with "no collection," never fails to bring out a bumper house. The evening meeting was certainly a full one in respect of numbers, and full of genuine interest too. The Lord Provost of the city, Sir James King, presided, and performed the duties of the chair in admirable fashion. He spoke very sensibly and sympathetically of the importance of the field occupied by the Mission, and gave it his heartiest approval. It is a great thing for a city like Glasgow to have at the head of its municipal life, if only for a year, a man like Sir James King, whose heart is in the right place with respect to that which fosters and promotes the true well-being of a community, and whose voice is so clearly heard in its advocacy.

Mr. Spencer repeated with amplifications his secretarial statement of the afternoon, and announced, amid general cheers, that Glasgow had that very day furnished the Mission with a special agent to be sent to South Africa, to develop the work among the railway-men of that important colony. Some reports followed from Glasgow and Edinburgh, and then Mr. Henderson, of Dundee, gave his brethren most excellent advice as to the need of cultivating a spirit of unity in their work, and of guarding against the entrance of petty jealousies. Mr. Johnston and Mr. Turner (the assistant secretary in London) added their quota of exhortation, and the interesting proceedings closed with a hearty vote of thanks to Sir James King, who said, in reply, that he had seldom attended a more enjoyable meeting. We must not omit to add that a choir of ladies brightened the evening with their sweet song, and that frequent references were made during the day to the important help ladies are rendering in connection with the Mission generally.

◆

A NEW POLYTECHNIC.

Hitherto the many and varied advantages of the famous Christian Institute in Upper Regent-street, known as the Polytechnic, have been confined to the sterner sex. This inequality has now been redressed by the opening of a new institute, adjoining the other, in which young working women will find a wonderful variety of helps and contrivances for ennobling and beautifying their somewhat sombre lives. For some time Mr. Quinton Hogg, the munificent founder and friend of the older institution, has been contemplating this step, and he invited some 150 young women to tea last Monday evening to celebrate the formal opening of the added branch. These young people (who were only an instalment of the 600 applicants for membership) must have been hard to please if they did not spend a happy evening; but, indeed, there was no room left for doubt on that score.

After tea, they assembled in one of the rooms, where Mr. Hogg explained to them, in a homely and delightful way, the objects of the Institution, and the methods by which these are to be attained. First of all, he spoke some touching and tender words as to the spirit of love and compassion in which he desired them to deal with any of their sisters who might come within the scope of the Institute, and whose past lives had been marked by failure or wrong. If they felt towards the erring something of the same Divine pity which Christ showed in his dealings with sinners, they might do a blessed work of uplifting many who had been hard pressed in the battle of life. As to the methods of the new Institute, Mr. Hogg said they would be designed and carried out to meet all the manifold needs of their complex nature. There will be Bible-classes conducted by Mrs. Hogg and others, and it is believed that these will be channels of great blessing. Among the other advantages are a refreshment-room, reading-room, and lending library, social parlour, recreation room, sick club, swimming-bath, rambling club, and classes for teaching cookery, dressmaking, and other branches of useful knowledge relating to practical daily life. In brief, the aim of the Institute would be to make their lives bright and happy and useful; how far this purpose would be attained would depend largely on themselves. Mr. Hogg was listened to with the most eager interest, and was frequently applauded as he unfolded his generous programme. And well he might, for the truth of the matter is, he has provided in this Institute, at a very small cost, all the benefits of a well-appointed club, for a class which greatly needs them.

Another speech came from Mr. W. T. Paton, in which pleasantry and pathetic appeal were mingled in a singularly charming and effective way. There was also sacred song from Mme. Reichelman and Mrs. J. E. K. Studd. Mr. and Mrs. Studd are to take an active part in the new effort, which is likely to prove an unspeakable boon to hundreds of young women in London.

MISS MACPHERSON'S HOMES.—On Sunday last considerable anxiety was felt owing to the fact that no tidings had come to hand of the safe arrival of the vessel in which a hundred lads recently sailed for Canada. When it was realised that the little company had been thirteen days on the water, and that in ordinary circumstances they should have reached the New World several days, many prayers went up to God to bring the vessel, with its precious freight, to the desired haven. At the noon prayer-meeting at Aldersgate-street on Monday, Mr. R. Paton announced that a telegram had just been received stating that the lads had landed safely in Canada. Thanks were offered to the Father of mercies for his great goodness in this matter.

Letters to the Editor

THE HEBREW OLD TESTAMENT.

SIR,—I lately read, with much pleasure, the article on "The Hebrew Old Testament" in your issue of March 30. And as one who, in common, I am sure, with many students of the Word, take a great interest in such matters, may I, through you, reach Dr. Ginsburg with the hope that in any revised Hebrew Text which he may bring out, he will not only clearly mark all differences of reading from the ordinary printed Hebrew Bibles, but very clearly also the authority on which such various readings rest, furnishing us with some help in our endeavours to weigh the respective values of such critical authorities.—Yours faithfully,

J. G. HALLIDAY.

[We are informed that it is Dr. Ginsburg's purpose fully to satisfy such demands as these. Of course those variations which have arisen from clerical error will not be noticed. All essential variations, however, will be indicated, and their authorities plainly stated. Readings also which have but small support from manuscripts or external evidence, will be noticed when they bear marks of genuineness upon their face, or when there is internal evidence in their favour.—ED.]

THE HORROR OF A CREED.

SIR,—I have taken your periodical for many years, because I have considered it to be not merely almost Christian, but entirely so. I must confess, however, that I have had some suspicions of late of a downward tendency, which have been confirmed by your observations in the last issue upon the imposition, or proposal, as it should have been called, of a creed in the forthcoming meeting of the Baptist Union. Why any should object to a written statement of their belief, if they have any, and especially upon the things that belong to our peace in prospect of a future life, I am at a loss to conceive. I have a creed to which I have adhered, and endeavoured to preach to others, for upwards of 70 years, being now within a few weeks of my 90th year; I cannot understand, therefore, how a Christian minister can be without one, and not glad to embrace every opportunity of making it known.

You say, "The difficulty of a creed is in this: It enumerates certain things as essential, but it leaves out many more," implying, I suppose, more that are essential. Better some essentials than none at all; but one of the most valuable and practical features of Christianity is, that the whole is virtually included in a few first principles, the belief in which implies the belief of all that is contained in them. If it were not so, it would be incapable of immediate belief, and especially when its need is most felt by the afflicted and dying.

You ask, "Which of us has any right to accentuate certain truths, as necessary to be believed, whilst we pass by others?" We claim no such right, but merely to give the same prominence to certain truths that is given to them in the Scriptures. You ask, "Are not all truths binding on us alike?" We reply, No! By no means! or we should be alike bound to believe that Jacob kissed Rachel, as that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners. You ask, "Does not the imposition of a creed substitute that as the rallying-point of Christians in the place of that spiritual union which is pre-eminently the union of life?" We reply, No. For then the rallying-point would be subjective, and not objective; in ourselves, but not in the Word of God. "Is there not considerable danger," it is again asked, "in making a creed for which we have neither warrant nor example in the Word of God?" We have as much warrant, it may be replied, to make a creed, as a sermon or a book, or any statement of Bible truths in our own words.

We have no creed but the Bible, say some. What Bible? we ask. The Bible itself, or the truths contained in it? If the Bible itself, or the words of the Bible, it must be its own inspired words. If the truths of the Bible, they may be contained in other words. All translations are Bible truths in uninspired words, and are equally to be believed as far as they are contained in them.

So far, therefore, as the truths of the Bible are contained in creeds, they are entitled to the same belief; since they are not words, but the truths contained in them, that are the objects of saving faith. The Baptist Union at present has no creed in words inspired or uninspired. The fact of adult baptism by immersion may imply a creed, but it contains none, and it is the fact only that is the basis of union. A mere ritual is the only denominational distinction, by which they become more exclusively ritualistic than any other denomination to which they are opposed.

Surely the Baptist Union will be too jealous of its own honour, and too conscientious, to resist an appeal for some definite and open profession of what it really is. It is not a question in relation to Mr. Spurgeon which it has to decide, but in relation to itself, and to the whole interests of the Church and the world. Let them not say, "There is a lion in the way." Let them face and form a creed, if it be only to show before all men what they really are. "All things which are reproved are made manifest by the light; for whatsoever doth make manifest is light."

South Norwood. G. ROGERS.

The Book World.

⁂ Publishers will greatly oblige by always marking prices in books which they send us for review.

Life of William Carey.

LIFE OF WILLIAM CAREY, D.D. By George Smith, LL.D. This interesting biography of the poor cobbler who turned missionary, and, by God's grace, wrought wonders in India, has reached a second edition. The many excellencies of the book need not be reiterated, but it may be said that the portraits and illustrations give it a special value. It is to be hoped that in these days of missionary effort, God may use this work to excite the love and enthusiasm of some of his servants, so that Carey may find brave imitators at the present time. (Murray.)

Charles and A. A. Hodge.

PRINCETONIANA: CHARLES AND A. A. HODGE, WITH CLASS AND TABLE TALK OF HODGE THE YOUNGER.—This is the title of a very readable book, by "A Scottish Princetonian," Rev. C. A. Salmond, M.A. As the title suggests, the work is in two parts. In the first, the character and life of the father and son are delineated; in the second, some impressions are conveyed of that singularly gifted teacher, Hodge the younger, transcribed from Mr. Salmond's old Princeton note-book. The compiler of this work puts the many admirers of the Hodges under a distinct obligation to him. Among the portraits is an excellent one of James McCosh. (Hamilton, Adams & Co.)

The Story of the Goths.

THE GOTHS. By Henry Bradley. 5s. T. Fisher Unwin. In this volume of the very useful "Story of the Nations" series, the Goths are traced from their earliest times to the end of the Gothic dominion in Spain. In conclusion, the author well says: "Though the Goths have passed away, leaving behind them so little to show what once they were, their memory can never die. History cannot forget the people, whose valour shook the decaying Roman empire to its fall, and prepared the way for the rise of a worthier civilisation on the ruins of the old. In their work of destruction they succeeded; whenever they tried to build up they failed. But it is something to have attempted nobly; and, for all the sadness of its ending, the history is not wholly inglorious that records the saintly heroism of Wulfila, the chivalrous magnanimity of Totila, and the wise and beneficent statesmanship of Theodoric." The story is well told, and several illustrations are given.

The Physical Aspect of Intemperance.

INEBRIETY: ITS ETIOLOGY, PATHOLOGY, TREATMENT, AND JURISPRUDENCE. By Norman Kerr, M.D. The physical aspect of intemperance is fully dealt with in this valuable work. The author maintains that no disease is more common than inebriety, although it is so seldom recognised. Not that all drunkards are subjects of disease. There are some in whom, at any rate at the outset of their alcoholic career (though in them the habit may ultimately develop into a disease), the closest scrutiny can detect only moral weakness and obliquity. This book treats of the cases of persons in whom either the habit of drinking, or some inherited or other cause, has set up the diseased condition designated inebriety, "which may be defined as an overpowering impulse to indulge in intoxication at all risks." Assigning inebriety to the group of diseases of the nervous system, with insanity as its nearest ally, Dr. Kerr writes with much clearness on the several phases of his important subject. Students of the drink question will, of course, read this work, which may be warmly recommended to the notice of persons who have the care of those who have fallen victims to alcoholism. (H. Lewis.)

The Second Advent.

THE LORD'S RETURN, AND KINDRED TRUTH. By L. W. Munhall. There is much prophetic truth set forth in this book, and in a very forcible manner. The author's object, as expressed in the preface, has been to point out "the prominent features of unfulfilled prophecy" to such Christians as "have neither the time nor capacity for extensive exegetical study." An appendix contains excellent letters on prophecy from the pens of Canon Fausset, of York, and Professor Volck, of Dorpat, Russia. (F. H. Revell, 150, Madison-street, Chicago.)

TEN SERMONS ON THE SECOND ADVENT. Preached at Oxford, by Rev. E. W. Bullinger, D.D. God's glorious purpose, as outlined in revelation, is here presented alongside his goodness and mercy, as shown in redemption. The Divine Government is considered in relation to the Jews, the Gentiles, and the Church of God, and always on the lines of plainly revealed truth. Not only are these sermons very instructive, they are also spiritually edifying in a high degree. There is an appendix on "The Signs of the Times." (3s. The Author, St. Stephen's Vicarage, Walthamstow.)

MISCELLANEOUS.

MUSIC.—"When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." A devotional and effective rendering of Dr. Watts' beautiful hymn has been composed by Churchill Sibley. The music is of easy compass, and is almost sure to become popular. (2s. net. Ambrose & Co., 16, Argyle-street, W.)

MORE THAN HE BARGAINED FOR. 5s. T. Fisher Unwin. A sensational novel, which deals with phases of Indian life that are by general consent omitted in records intended for home reading. These are true to life. But it is not a book which will be generally useful in the Purity Crusade, as the incidents in question are more fitted to adorn (!) a tale than point a moral.

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH: ITS WORLD-WIDE HISTORY AND EXTENT. By Rev. J. Moir Porteous, D.D. 2s. 6d. Nisbet & Co. Anyone desiring to know what the Presbytery is, and what can be said in its favour as a system of Church Government, should read this book. Principles are ably expounded, and the most recent statistics as to peoples and churches are presented. The book is a very readable chapter of ecclesiastical history, written by one who well knows his subject. It will surprise many to find how truly "world-wide" the Presbyterian form of Church Government is.

PRESENT DAY TRACTS. "The Authenticity of the Four Principal Epistles of St. Paul," by Dr. F. Godet, is one of the excellent series issued by the Religious Tract Society. 4d. In days when so many acute minds spend their energies in seeking to remove the foundations of trust in the Bible and its Author, every believer ought to know how firm and deep those foundations are. These four Epistles may be called a Christian Quadrilateral—for even resolute sceptics like De Wette, Baur, and Renan, assert their antiquity and authenticity. By comparison with the Acts, by historical and moral considerations, Mr. Godet convinces readers that these four Epistles were the work of Paul the Apostle and none other.

HALF HOURS WITH THE APOSTOLIC FATHERS By Rev. H. C. Leonard. 3s. 6d. Elliot Stock. Thi book is far more interesting than might be expecte from the title. In the form of dialogues the write gives the views of well-known writers, such a Clement of Rome, and Polycarp, as well as thos of less known primitive writers on Church Government, the Sacraments, &c. Mr. Leonard writes i a quiet, judicial style, and his appendices are o special value. It is interesting to learn fron authorities more ancient than Justin Martyr tha bishops and presbyters were once synonymous, an that infant baptism was not the practice till th third century, and then not universal.

LEEDS RAILWAY MISSION.—The readers THE CHRISTIAN are heartily thanked for their kin co-operation in this work. Any who are prevente from engaging in other active service are invited t join in sending railway-men at Leeds monthly an Gospel papers, and tracts, also a letter when co venient. Mrs. Cambie, care of The Railway Mi sion, 18, New Bridge-street, London, E.C., wi forward names, with further particulars.

otes on Daily Readings.

SUNDAY, APRIL 15.—ZECHARIAH II.

ɪᴇ first vision had shown that, notwith- anding the quiet of the nations, the Lord's oughts towards Israel were still of peace and t of evil. The second gave promise that the ır horns that had shattered Israel should in ne be "frayed" by "smiths" raised up for e purpose. The third now gives definite pro- ise of a rebuilt, very populous, and glorified rusalem, the Lord Himself "the glory in the idst of her."

4.—Run, speak to this young man.—"I.e., the an with the measuring-line, to whom it is timated that it is needless to measure Jeru- lem, because it was destined to be inhabited towns without walls."—S.C.

6.—Ho, ho, come forth, &c.—"An invitation the Jews to return to Jerusalem."—S.C.

8.—After the glory hath He sent me.—After e glory spoken of in ver. 5, that of the Lord imself dwelling in Jerusalem, in other words, Millennial days.

12.—His portion in the holy land.—"The rm 'holy land' is found only in this single ssage."—C. H. Wright.

13.—Be silent, O all flesh, before the Lord.— An admonition to wait in reverential silence the coming of the Lord to judgment (Hab. 20)."—Keil.

MONDAY, APRIL 16.—ZECHARIAH III.

1.—Joshua, the high priest, standing before angel of the Lord.—Joshua, as the existing gh priest, appears as the representative of rael, but his very name (Jesus in Greek, so XX.) is suggestive of our great High Priest.

3.—Now Joshua was clothed with filthy gar- nts.—Not as at first seen, for the Hebrew plies that he became so. It might almost rendered "became clothed with filthy gar- ents." The fulfilment of the type was at lvary (Isa. liii. 6; 2 Cor. v. 21).

4.—I will clothe thee with change of raiment. The Lord deputes to others to "take away e filthy garments from him," and then says, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from ee, and I will clothe thee with change of iment." So to Satan and his agents, the wish priests and Roman soldiers, was Jesus delivered by the determinate counsel and eknowledge of God" to effect by his death e putting away of sin; but the justification, nctification, and final redemption of his ople is the Lord's own doing.

5.—I said, Let them set a fair mitre upon his ad.—The high priest's mitre was that upon ich was engraved, "Holiness to the Lord" x. xxviii. 36, 37).

7.—I will give thee places to walk.—Better .V.) "I will give thee a place of access." The high priest would also receive a free cess to God, which had not yet been con- rred upon him by his office."—Keil. For the lfilment, see Heb. iv. 14; and for our privi- ge thereby, see Heb. x. 19, and Eph. iii. 12.

9.—Upon one stone shall be seven eyes.—See v. v. 6. As Joshua, the high priest, was a pe of Christ "passed into the heavens," so the stone (see Gen. xlix. 24; Isa. xxviii. 16) Christ, the foundation of all earthly blessing Israel.

TUESDAY, APRIL 17.—ZECHARIAH IV.

The work of the Spirit is the subject of this, e fifth vision, as the work of Christ was the bject of the previous one.

2.—A candlestick all of gold, with a bowl upon top of it.—"Unquestionably a figurative presentation of the seven-branched golden ndlestick, differing only in three additions: a bowl at the top of it; (2) seven pipes for nveying the oil from the bowl to the lamps robably seven to each lamp); (3) olive trees the right and left of the bowl."—Keil.

6.—Not by might, nor by power, but by my irit.—This is the moral of the vision.

7.—Who art thou, O great mountain?—Before m who is both David's Son and David's Lord (whom Zerubbabel then represented as Prince of David's line) all difficulties in the way of the spiritual temple shall vanish. As to the shoutings, "Grace, grace unto it," with which the headstone is brought forth, see 1 Pet. i. 13.

14.—These are the two anointed ones.—Amidst many explanations the most satisfactory seems to be that which regards Haggai and Zechariah, the two prophets of the day (Ezra v. 1, vi. 14), as primarily intended, but only as representatives of God's inspired prophets at all times, who speak to us in the Old and New Testaments, the "prophetic Scriptures" (Rom. xvi. 26).

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 18.—ZECHARIAH V.

"The flying roll and the woman in the ephah are so closely cennected that they are to be taken as one vision."—Keil.

2.—I see a flying roll; the length thereof is twenty cubits.—The word for "roll" is used of Scripture in Ps. xl. 7, and of a portion of Scripture in Jer. xxxvi. Rom. xvi. 26 and Rev. xiv. 6—11 are suggestive parallels. The dimensions (20 by 10 cubits) correspond with those of the holy place in the Tabernacle. "With this measure would all sinners be measured that they might be cut off from the congregation of the Lord which appeared before God in the holy place."—Keil.

3.—This is the curse that goeth forth over the face of the whole earth.—Not that the roll was the curse, but it brought with it the curse of excision for all sinners, who, tested by the measure of the sanctuary, were to be cut off. So the Gospel is "a savour of death unto death" to those to whom it is not "a savour of life unto life" (2 Cor. ii. 16). See also Matt. xxv. 41 and 1 Cor. xvi. 22.

5.—What is this that goeth forth.—These words link together the two parts of the vision. Of the flying roll, the Lord says (4), "I will cause it to go forth" (R.V.). The prophet now sees it in a different phase: "This is the ephah that goeth forth." This is to show "the further fate of the sinners who have been separated from the congregation of the saints."—Keil. The "ephah" was the largest dry measure known to the Hebrews. The word "measure" (Matt. xiii. 33) in three of which the woman hid the leaven, is one that represents "the third part of an ephah."—Alford. Probably our Lord intended to refer to this vision in the parable of the leaven.

7.—This is a woman.—Lit., "one woman." "The sinners brought into a unity, appearing as one living personality."—Keil.

8.—This is wickedness.—The LXX. render this by the Greek word used 2 Thess. ii. 7 in "the mystery of iniquity."

9.—Two women...they had wings like the wings of a stork.—The stork's wings symbolise the influences of natural piety, which, when wrongly directed, degenerate into superstition.

11.—To build it a house in the land of Shinar.—"Ungodliness carried away out of the sphere of the people of God will have its permanent settlement in the sphere of the imperial power that is hostile to God."—Keil. Rev. xvii. and xviii. give the New Testament parallel, and Church history shows the fulfilment.

THURSDAY, APRIL 19.—ZECHARIAH VI.

"This last vision of the four chariots is more obscure than any of the preceding ones."—S.C. The traditional interpretation of the vision sees a reference to the four empires of Daniel. The chariot with red horses, the Babylonian; that with black, the Medo-Persian; that with white, the Grecian; that with "grisled strong" (there is no "and"), the Roman. The addition of "strong" recalls Dan. ii. 40.

8.—Have quieted my spirit in the north country.—The "north country" (ii. 6) is that of Babylon. The "black horses" represent the Medo-Persian empire, which was at that very time carrying out God's judgment, and so quieting his spirit (or anger) for their treatment of Israel. They would be followed in time by the "white horses" (the Grecian empire), who would both defeat them and complete the subjugation of Babylon.

9.—The word of the Lord came unto me, saying.—The seven visions being over, we have here a supplemental symbolic action, the crowning of the high priest, to signify typically the union of the priesthood and kingship in the person of Christ, whose future building of the (spiritual) temple of the Lord, and his priestly and kingly enthronement are the subject of a distinct prophecy (12, 13).

13.—The counsel of peace shall be between them both.—Many take "them both" to mean the priestly and kingly offices, but as these are to be united in one person the language would be inappropriate. Better is the view of Jerome, Vitringa, Pusey, Wright, and others, that Jehovah and the Messiah are the two persons spoken of, and this accords with Ps. cx. 1.

FRIDAY, APRIL 20.—ZECHARIAH VII.

Keil's summary of this and the next chapter is: "In reply to a question addressed to the priests and prophets in Jerusalem by the messengers of Bethel, whether the day of the destruction of Jerusalem by the Chaldeans (2 Kings xxv. 8) was still to be kept as a day of mourning and fasting, the Lord declares through Zechariah that He does not look upon fasting as a service well pleasing to Him, but that He desires obedience to his Word (4—7), that owing to failure in this Israel has been scattered among the nations (8—14); but that He will again turn to Zion with love and blessing (viii. 1—17), will turn their fasts to joy and gladness, and lead other nations to come and worship Him there (viii. 18—23)."

2.—When they had sent unto the house of God.—Better in R.V., "they of Bethel had sent." "'Bethel' (translated 'house of God,' A.V.) is never used to signify the Temple of God, but must be regarded as the proper name of the well-known city."—Wright.

3.—In the fifth month, separating myself.—I.e., from food. "Better 'abstaining.'"—S.C. As to the fifth month, see Jer. lii. 12—14.

5.—Did ye at all fast unto Me, even to Me?—A fast that has not direct reference to the Lord Himself, either as commanded by Him (as the fast on the Day of Atonement alone was, Lev. xvi. 29), or as a humiliation of oneself before Him (Joel ii. 12), is valueless.

12.—The words which the Lord of hosts had sent by his Spirit by the hand of the former prophets (R.V.).—As this seems to refer to the written Word, it is an important declaration of the inspiration of Scripture.

SATURDAY, APRIL 21.—ZECHARIAH VIII.

2.—I was jealous for Zion.—Better (R.V.), "I am jealous." "The perfect is used prophetically of what God had resolved to do, and was about to accomplish."—Keil.

3.—I am returned unto Zion, and will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem.—It should be "I return." The promise is prophetic and still future in its fulfilment. Comp. ver. 4 with Isa. lxv. 20, where "extreme old age is one of the blessings of Messianic times."—Keil. Ver. 8 also points to future Jewish restoration on the new covenant basis (comp. Jer. xxxi. 31—34), though present blessing was still offered to "the remnant of this people" if only (ver. 16) they would obey God's voice.

19.—The fast of the fourth month, &c.—The four fasts mentioned here were in commemoration of (1) the capture of Jerusalem in Nebuchadnezzar's ninth year (Jer. xxxix. 2, lii. 6, 7); (2) the destruction of the Temple under Nebuzaradan in Nebuchadnezzar's nineteenth year (Jer. lii. 12); (3) the fast of the seventh month was probably on account of Gedaliah's death (2 Kings xxv. 25); (4) the fast of the tenth "was a memorial of the commencement of the siege of Jerusalem" (Jer. xxxix. 1).—S.C.

23.—Ten men shall take hold.—"Used for an indefinite number, Gen. xxxi. 7, Lev. xxvi. 26, Num. xiv. 22, and in the New Testament parables of ten virgins and ten talents."—S.C. See the ten toes of Daniel's image as meaning (Dan. ii. 41) a divided condition of the fourth empire. Comp. as to the significance of the metaphor Is. iv. 1. Pusey sees in "Him that is a Jew" an allusion to Christ. Whether this is intended or not, the faith of Gentiles is well illustrated by such a use of the passage.

Y.M.C.A. Bible Lessons.

OUTLINES PREPARED BY HENRY THORNE.

Sunday Afternoon, April 22.

THE ENEMIES OF THE MESSIAH.—PSALM ii.; ACTS iv. 23—31.

SIMEON spoke of Christ as "a sign that should be spoken against" (Luke ii. 34). In this prophecy we have the substance of many Old Testament predictions, and an anticipation of many New Testament narratives. The human heart being what it is, we need not be surprised to find the Christ of God the subject of its bitter enmity. In our lesson we see

(1) ENMITY PREDICTED (Ps. ii.)—The prediction in the second Psalm was regarded by the Apostles as a declaration made by God Himself (Acts iv. 25). Comp. other statements as to the inspiration of the Psalms (John x. 35; Acts xiii. 35, i. 16; Heb. iii. 7, iv. 3). The prediction in Ps. ii. shows the enmity of the opponents of Christ to be: (a) Unreasonable.—("Why?" ver. 1). Comp. the "Why?" of Christ (John xviii. 23). (b) Violent ("rage"). See what is said of fighting with God in Acts v. 39 and xxiii. 9. The bitterest language, the sharpest weapons, and the most diabolical methods have been used by the enemies of Christ. Note the woe pronounced against the doers of such folly (Isa. xlv. 9). (c) Futile.—"A vain thing." No opposition to Christ can be ultimately successful. Comp. Isa. liii. 10 and liv. 17. See how the power of the enemy is limited (John xix. 11). Comp. "behold their threatenings" (Act iv. 29). One look from the Lord would have been enough to scatter all the forces of evil. Comp. Ps. x. 14. In spite of all opposition, the Lord Jesus was exalted. Herod failed to prevent this (Matt. ii. 20). Pontius Pilate was instrumental in bringing it about (Phil. ii. 8, 9). The waves of human passion roll in vain against the throne of Jesus. See "Set my King," Ps. ii. 6. Comp. "He must reign" (1 Cor. xv. 25).

(2) ENMITY CONFRONTED.—The malice of foes was met by the exercise of prayer (Acts iv. 23—30). There is in the prayer (a) A spirit of unity.—The hounds of persecution drove the sheep close together. Those present were, moreover, of "one accord." When the forces of the enemy "take counsel together" for evil purposes, it is well for believers to meet together for prayer. (b) A spirit of earnestness ("lifted up their voice," ver. 24).—The fear of God delivered them from the fear of man. Comp. prayers and praises of Paul and Silas (Acts xvi. 25). (c) A recognition of the power of God (ver. 24).—They will care little for the rage of men who rest upon the omnipotence of God. See here the greatness of God recognised in connection with a desire for blessing. (d) A plea that would touch the heart of the Father ("thy holy Child," ver. 27). (e) An acknowledgment of the Divine sovereignty (ver. 28.)—Comp. Ezek. xxxi. 15. (f) A desire for blessing.—They ask not that the enemies may be destroyed, but that they may have power to heal and to preach. See here the spirit of Christ (Luke xxiii. 34; Matt. xxviii. 18—20). In the answer we see the power of God manifested ("place was shaken"), the disciples filled with the Spirit, and the word preached.

BOURNEMOUTH Y.M.C.A.—Handsome and complete premises were formally opened a few days ago by the Bishop of Winchester. The building includes two halls, a hundred bed-rooms, and ample apartments for other purposes. In the course of his address, the Bishop said that he believed it to be certain that unless £2000, which had been borrowed, was paid back in three years' time, the house would have to be closed.

ALNWICK-ROAD MISSION (Custom House, E.)—We desire to thank God for the blessing manifested in our midst of late. Not only have several of the roughest youths of our neighbourhood been turned to the Lord, but God has graciously extended this blessing to some in my own family. As God has used Mr. John Waite as the instrument to bring about this blessed change, we have requested him to take the entire charge and responsibility of the Mission, which he has kindly consented to do. He is also giving a portion of his time to labour among the thousands of dock labourers in the Royal Albert and Victoria Docks. He has been enabled to feed and clothe some of the many unemployed dock labourers and their children Communications may be addressed to Mr. J. Waite, 27, Woodstock-street, Canning-town, London, E.

T. S.

International S. S. Lesson.

Sunday Afternoon, April 22.

THE TEN VIRGINS.

MATT. xxv. 1—13. Golden Text: Matt. xxv. 10.

Ten.—According to Jewish ideas, ten, nothing less, made a company. Ten signified "practical completeness, as seven signified ideal perfection." Virgins.—Professing Christians, generally; all, whether true and sincere, or self-deceived; all who have come out openly, avowing their faith in Jesus Christ, and taking their stand with his people. Went forth to meet the bridegroom.—In the East marriages take place at night, and processions, bearing lamps or torches, form a most important feature of the proceedings. First, the bridegroom, accompanied by "the friends of the bridegroom" (John iii. 29), went to the house of the bride, and led her with pomp and gladness to his own house. She, as she leaves her father's home, is accompanied by her companions (Ps. xlv. 15); while other of her young friends, the virgins of the parable, wait for her coming at some point of the road between her old and her new home, join her procession, and pass in to the wedding feast. According to some, the marriage feast sometimes took place at the bride's old home. In that case the virgins waited literally "for the bridegroom," not for the bridegroom and the bride.

And five of them were wise, &c.—No stress should be laid on the numbers of the two companies. Took their lamps, and took no oil with them.—The lamps are filled and burning when they start. If only the bridegroom had not tarried, as they thought He would not, their oil would have held out. They made no provision for maintaining the light, thinking, no doubt, that such would not be needed. Oil flasks would be awkward and unpleasant to carry, especially with a holiday dress. By these foolish virgins are meant—not the Godless or careless, nor self-conscious deceivers, or hypocrites, but self-deceived professors of Christianity. They are the stony-ground hearers—destitute, not of grace, but of saving grace. They have deep desires and feelings towards a better life, and a general determination to live better, just as the virgins had some oil, and their lamps burnt for a season. But as virgins had no reserve supply, so these have no resort beyond themselves, not being joined to Christ by real trust and love. They have not been "born again," only moved upon and awakened. Their trust in self and feelings, &c., not in Jesus.

The wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps.—Oil—Holy Spirit and his work. Those who yield all to Jesus, body, soul, and spirit, receive the Spirit, and so have in themselves the source of life, plenty of oil. Their profession lasts, being no mere surface feeling, or passing resolve, but the outcome of an inward life, of Christ the Life dwelling within.

They all slumbered and slept—i.e., nodded and slept.—We are not to suppose this sleep was sinful. "It intimates the necessity that lies on all of going down into the ordinary affairs of life. We cannot be occupied always and only with the expectation of our Lord's appearing." "Observe the implication: if the Christian has grace in his heart, he is always ready, though asleep; if not, he is unready, though he were wakeful and seemingly watchful. Not what death finds us doing, but how death finds us furnished, is the important question."—Abbott.

Then all those virgins arose.—No carelessness or false security now. True and false are alike startled. Every lamp burns dim, needing trimming and feeding. The wise trim and feed theirs, but, alas, for the others! They have no oil, and their lamps are going out. They used to think these wise virgins "too strict, too careful." How they wish they had been as careful! In the day of the Lord nothing will serve but reality; real love towards Christ, real spiritual life.

Give us of your oil, &c.—"How fondly the empty lean on the full!" "They betake themselves, if they are Catholics, to the dead saints; if Protestants, to the living. Dying sinners often place a wild hope in some godly neighbour, as though he could save; but a sinner saved is not himself a saviour. All the saints in heaven can do nothing for the man who has rejected Jesus.

The wise answered, Not so, &c.—This is not a selfish answer, for they had only just enough to fill their own lamps. The lesson behind is that spiritual character and life cannot be given by one to another. Each has only enough for himself, and Jesus Christ is the only source. Teachers should urge this—that each must have life in himself, and not hang upon another. In that day we must stand alone: then we must live now independently and alone, rooted and grounded in Christ.

And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came.– We are very seldom fit to meet the great crises o life unless we have made diligent preparation long before. The lad who has worked hard, and quietl prepared himself for a higher post, is the one wh comes to the front when emergency arises. Of al times the death-bed is the worst for repentance Oil was plentiful enough in the shops: 'twas easy enough to buy only yesterday, this morning, this afternoon, but now too late! And the door was shut.—Awful words, indeed, coming from such lips! Sooner or later, rejected mercy will be lost mercy. The infinite boon of salvation, despised to-day, may be beyond reach to-morrow. Oh! that shut door! Beware! Make haste!

I know you not.—"Oh, it is sad to be so near heaven, and yet to be lost; to be almost saved, and yet altogether lost."

LESSONS.

(1) The necessity of a changed heart.—The foolish had some oil, i.e., grace—good desires, religious thoughts, and comforts, but not Christ. They did not love Him first and best, and trust Him really and steadily. Leaned on their own good feelings and doings, not on Him. They had, therefore, no constant supply of grace. Press home the question Is Jesus your Saviour? Do you live looking to Him to love and help you as a real friend? Is prayer real? This is the great lesson of the parable.

(2) The folly of leaving this question of our ow salvation till the last hours of life.

(3) In this question each must act for himself. Teachers and loving friends may help, but they cannot give us life. Therefore, let "Christ for me" be our motto.

ILLUSTRATION.

Late repentances.—An American physician state that he had known a hundred or more instance in his practice of persons who, in prospect o death, had been hopefully converted, but ha afterwards recovered. Of all these he knew onl of three who devoted themselves to the service o Christ when they got well. An English docto once told that he had known three hundred sic people profess repentance and faith when the thought they were dying, but who afterwards re covered. Only ten of these gave evidence of realit by a change of life.

◆

MR. J. C. RAINEY IN SOUTH DEVON

TO many readers of this journal Mr. J. C. Raine is well known. Both through his Gospel booklet —"You, Me, or Anybody Else," "The Three Legged Stool," "The Officer's Defeat," &c.- and his evangelistic labours he has come muc under notice, more especially during the past te years in the county of Devon, where he has worke in the Gospel, summer by summer, with his larg marquee. God has greatly and graciously blesse these endeavours. Owing to increasing family r sponsibility, he is unable to itinerate so much a formerly.

For the past four years he has occupied the sea side town of Paignton, South Devon. During th "season" he has especially sought, by services o the sands, to foster the good seed already sown b godly parents, and Sunday-school teachers an pastors, in the hearts of the bright young peop who come to the sea-side for "the holidays." H has been warmly supported in his efforts by man Christian people in the town and neighbourhood.

Mr. Rainey's desire now is to strengthen his bas of operations, as the neighbourhood is so increasin in population. He has been hampered in his wor from the want of a suitable hall to carry on th meetings. Friends are now subscribing to erect Free Mission Hall for this purpose. More tha half the cost has been generously contributed, bu the remainder is needed at once, as their presen place will be left at Midsummer. Mr. Edward Blenheim, Paignton, is the treasurer of this unde taking.

This month Mr. Rainey is labouring in Dubli at the Merrion Hall and elsewhere. He has tho of kindred spirit who bravely sustain the work his many absences from home on evangelist tours.

NORTH AMERICAN INDIANS.—Mr. and Mr T. H. Tibbles are now in London, jointly addressi meetings on the work among the Indian tribes North America, in which they have been for som years engaged.

Among the Churches.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

Captain Clayton, of the Church Army, commenced work in Wrexham a month ago, since which some fifty persons have professed conversion, including some of the lowest class of people.

The Queen of Sweden and Norway has forwarded £60 to the building fund of St. Stephen's Church, Bournemouth, at the same time expressing thanks for the way in which the arrangements were carried out on the occasion of Prince Oscar's wedding.

BAPTIST.

Rev. J. T. Wigner, of New Cross, is to be officially nominated as president of the Baptist Union in succession to Dr. Clifford.

It has been decided to invite Rev. C. B. Sawday, of Vernon Chapel, King's Cross, to the pastorate of the church at Melbourne Hall, Leicester.

The church at Newport-road, Middlesborough, under the pastorate of Rev. J. Fleming Shearer, has 350 members, with 750 scholars in the Sunday-school. A mission station is sustained at North Ormesby. Through the liberality of one of its members the church has been able to appoint a missionary to labour in the district.

For the past few days Rev. C. H. Spurgeon has been suffering from considerable bodily weakness. In the course of Sunday morning's service at the Metropolitan Tabernacle, he asked his congregation to excuse him for not being able during the week to attend to all the duties that devolve upon him. He felt so broken down that some rest was absolutely necessary.

A three days' bazaar, in aid of the fund for the support of the missionaries sent out to India and China by the congregation of the West London Tabernacle and also in aid of the other branches of the benevolent work in connection with the Tabernacle, was held last week. A portion of the money realised by the sale will be sent to sustain the two missionaries in China and the lady missionary in India, all three of whom were sent out from this place of worship.

CONGREGATIONAL.

Rev. R. Gloag has resigned his charge of the church at Handsworth Woodhouse, and will shortly enter upon special mission work in Canada.

Rev. J. B. Aitken has brought to a close at Milton Church, Rochdale, the fourth series of Sunday evening popular services. The local Observer says: "From their very beginning their success has been unique, and has inspired other men to go and do likewise."

Rev. Samuel Macfarlane, LL.D., late of New Guinea, has recently delivered his lecture, entitled, "The Club and the Cross; or, Cannibalism and Christianity in New Guinea," at several churches in the provinces, and has created much interest in missionary work in the island.

The debt remaining on Tabernacle Chapel, Stockport, has recently been cleared off. In little more than two years the membership of the church has been doubled, and the congregation has largely increased, while every department of church and school is in a condition of great prosperity.

Rev. Samuel Pearson, of Liverpool, has accepted a call to the church at Highbury Quadrant, which has been without a minister since Dr. Bevan left for Melbourne some two years ago. Mr. Pearson has been pastor of Great George Chapel, Liverpool, for nearly nineteen years, and his removal will be much felt by the congregation there.

The annual meeting of the London Congregational Union, the object of which is to plant churches in the Metropolis where they do not already exist, and to foster their growth with all available resources, was held last week. In the report, which showed a satisfactory financial status, it was stated that £12,615 has been raised by the Union for the "Outcast London" Fund during the past four years.

Lecturing on Church reform in the City Temple last week, Dr. Parker spoke strongly on the misuse of creeds. In his judgment, scientific theology has been the greatest hindrance to the universal spread of Christianity. The pulpit should sustain a more sympathetic relation to the people. Dr. Parker strongly criticised the preparation through which many young men went in view of the ministry. It was monastic, narrow, archaic, and fantastic.

Rev. Robert Mackay, on resigning the pastorate of Pownall-road Church, Dalston, has received gratifying testimony as to the value of his ministrations and personal sympathy and kindness during the term of his pastorate. In addition to his ordinary ministerial and pastoral work, Mr. Mackay is well known as the secretary of the Self-Help Emigration Society, which during the past two years has been instrumental in benefiting nearly 1500 persons.

The congregation of the church at Portslade-by-Sea, near Brighton, under the pastorate of Rev. John Thornberry, is at present worshipping in an iron church at Fishersgate, which has been in use for more than thirty years, and is now rapidly going to decay, so that a new building is absolutely necessary. There is a population in the vicinity of about 5000 persons, chiefly working people, who cannot give much to aid the proposed building; the cost of which is estimated at about £1200.

Rev. John Jones, who was expelled by the French Government from the island of Maré, one of the Loyalty group, South Pacific, in December last, after over thirty years labour as a missionary there, will be one of the speakers at the annual meeting of the London Missionary Society in Exeter Hall, on Thursday, May 10. Mr. Jones will have an interesting story to tell of the persecutions which the native Christians of Maré have had to undergo at the hands of the Roman Catholics for many years past.

The first anniversary of Albany Chapel, Camberwell, erected as the result of Rev. J. Bryant French's "sandwich" walks, which saved a working church, of over fifty years standing, from being dispersed, was celebrated on Friday week. The report shows that during the first year a new schoolroom was added to the chapel, and good mission work done in it.

METHODIST.

A firm of merchants at Taku, China, have made an offer to the Methodist New Connexion Mission to support an additional medical missionary.

Archdeacon Farrar will preside at a lecture on "Robert Blake," to be given at City-road Wesleyan Chapel, by Rev. W. J. Dawson, on Wednesday, May 9.

Revs. G. Stringer Rowe (London), W. L. Watkinson (Harrogate), and F. Kellett (Bradford), have been nominated for the governorship of Headingley College. vacant by the death of Rev. B. Hellier.

A Convention took place at Bolton on Good Friday, in which all the Methodist bodies of the district took part. The ministers and delegated laymen of each section delivered addresses. The largest Wesleyan Chapel in the town was crowded at the three meetings held during the day.

The Methodist Sisterhood is succeeding in West London. No vows are imposed, the only request made of those who join being that they give three months' notice of any intention to withdraw, so that the work may not suffer. Mr. Clegg, of Halifax, has started a home for the education of earnest young women as evangelists and missionaries.

Rev. T. Champness is greatly encouraged by the news he is receiving almost every week from the two evangelists he has sent to South Africa. One of them—Mr. David Pilgrim—has just sent tidings of twenty conversions which he was permitted to rejoice over on a recent Sunday at a service he conducted, and both of them write in the most hopeful spirit.

PRESBYTERIAN.

The recently formed congregation at Highgate have given a unanimous call to Rev. John M'Neill, of Edinburgh.

The Dutch Reformed Church in South Africa is about to unite in labour with the Free Church missionaries at Livingstonia.

The family of the late Rev. William Fraser, of Brighton, have presented 100 of his most valuable books to the college liberary in London.

Some members of the Presbyterian Church of England have petitioned the Presbytery of London, to give an expression of opinion on the legalised traffic in vice in India.

Dr. Walter Smith, of Edinburgh, is about to pay a visit to America. His congregation have presented him with a well-filled purse for the defrayment of his expenses.

Rev. Andrew Moody, Free Church missionary to Jews at Buda-Pesth, has been seriously ill, but is now convalescent, and it is expected that he will be present at the Inverness Assembly.

Dr. Lindsay, Free Church Home Mission Convener, is about to proceed as one of a missionary deputation to India. Rev. R. W. Barbour will perform the professional duties in Dr. Lindsay's absence.

The name of Dr. William Shoolbred, of Ajmere, Rajpootana, is suggested for the Moderatorship of the forthcoming United Presbyterian Synod. He has long occupied a prominent position in the Indian mission field, and will be in Scotland this year.

At a private Conference of Dundee Free Presbytery discussion took place on the "Confession," and while most of the members were of opinion that a simplification of the formula was desirable, it was suggested that the question should not be raised at the present time.

Under the will of the late Mr. James Simpson, the Established and United Presbyterian Presbyteries of Edinburgh have each received bequests of between £8000 and £9000 for the establishment of bursaries for students intending to become ministers or missionaries.

Wellpark Free Church, Glasgow continues to prosper under the ministry of Rev. Hugh Mair. 125 members have been added during the year, and there are now 851 names on the roll. The pastor's Bible-class numbers 300 and there are 707 scholars, junior and senior, under the care of an efficient band of teachers.

Dr. Marcus Dod's church at Glasgow, reports a membership of 626 and an income of £2529. At the congregational meeting Mr. W. Ness spoke of the harmony which had existed in the congregation all through Dr. Dod's ministry and expressed a hope that they all might be spared to celebrate his semi-jubilee next year.

Arrangements are rapidly progressing for the meeting in London, on July 3, of the fourth triennial Pan-Presbyterian Council. It will be attended by 300 delegates, representing over seven millions of communicants, and many times that number of adherents. The conference, which will be held in Exeter Hall, is to extend over ten days.

Dr. Dykes, addressing his congregation on his nomination for the Principalship of the Presbyterian College in London, said he had not stopped the proposal, but this was not because he was tired of his congregation, or that he undervalued the high position of the pastorate of that church. At the same time he had had growing upon him the feeling that he had not been able to do the work that ought to be done for the prosperity of the congregation. The congregation have drawn up an address.

SALVATION ARMY.

Seven more Salvationists have gone to prison at Torquay.

817 cafés and 587 houses were visited last week in Paris by the cadets of the Paris Training Home.

The Army has now 2342 corps at home and abroad, and 6075 officers. Fifty new officers were commissioned last week.

The town of Odense, in Denmark, has been visited, and a number of persons professed conversion at the opening meetings.

Dodandowa is the latest Cingalese town in which the Army work has been commenced. Twelve Buddhists and one Tamil found salvation the first night.

Half a dozen people have offered to give either land or buildings to the Army in Jamaica. The open-air meetings are attended by thousands, and crowds are being converted.

Another Food and Shelter Home for the starving poor is to be started shortly. St. Giles's will probably be the neighbourhood, and the sleeping accommodation will be for women only.

On Monday evening, in St. James's Hall, General Booth announced, with regret, the death of Mr. Buller, who had benefited the Salvation Army to the extent of thousands of pounds. Mr. Buller's wife is a devoted soldier, and his son a cadet in the Army.

The Army, says the Bombay Methodist Recorder, has commenced its work in Bombay in real earnest. The Swedish Contingent has arrived, and may be seen day after day going its rounds of the native city. We are devoutly thankful for this added force in the great work of converting the Bombay heathen to Christ.

Altogether thirty members of the Salvation Army have been in Exeter gaol for contravening a district Improvement Act by processioning the streets with instrumental music on Sundays. On Monday evening, at St. James's Hall, General Booth said that the Army was not going to be beaten. When all the Devonshire volunteers had gone to prison, soldiers from London would go down, and the authorities would see that it was no use for them to think of success in their efforts to take away the liberties of the people.

Colonel Booth-Clibborn has been giving addresses on the work of the Army in France and Switzerland in several towns in Scotland recently. At a meeting in Edinburgh he said the services of the Army in Paris are attended by large numbers of Catholics, and the work among them is wonderfully successful. At Glasgow Colonel Booth-Clibborn told his hearers that a new series of popular appeals to the people upon salvation, written after the style of the novel, have been issued, and 140,000 of these were printed last year.

NOTES FROM IRELAND.

The Wesleyan missionary anniversaries are being held at present in Ireland. The meetings take place in about two hundred centres.

United evangelistic services were recently held in Waterford, in which the Methodist and Presbyterian Churches joined; much good is believed to have been done.

The Claremont Institution for the education of the deaf and dumb is doing an excellent work for Dublin and the South of Ireland. During the year the German or oral system of teaching has been adopted in the Institution, with satisfactory results.

"FALLEN ON SLEEP."

Rev. John Harvard, a prominent minister of the Wesleyan body, and formerly for four years Governor of Wesley College, Sheffield.—Mr. William Cubitt, a well-known member of the Baptist body, and prominently connected with the Baptist Commission in the county of Oxford.—Rev. Daniel Trinder, vicar of St. Michael's, Highgate, N.—Rev. George Butt, vicar of Chesterfield.—Rev. D. N. Jordan, pastor of the Congregational Church, Charlestown.—Rev. D. G. Edwards, United Methodist Free Church minister, of Aberystwith.—Mr. Michael Hammond, of Ballintra, co. Donegal, aged seventy-six years, a devout and attached member of the Methodist Church.—Mrs. Hunter, of Sligo, a godly Christian worker, in the 70th year of her age.

SCOTCH CHURCH, SAN REMO.—On the afternoon of Sunday, April 1, Rev. H. Grattan Guinness gave an address in the Scotch Church, San Remo, Rev. Alex. Robertson, the pastor, presiding. At the Communion Service in the morning Mr. Robertson was assisted by Rev. Alex. Rodger; of Free Dalry Church, Edinburgh, who has been wintering at San Remo.

THE EVANGELICAL MILITARY CHURCH in Rome, founded by Signor Capellini in 1872, is not only one of the most interesting, but most efficacious Evangelical Missions in Italy. It embraces men from all parts of the Peninsula, and brings them to a knowledge of the Gospel. The very persecutions they suffer from their comrades, and, alas! too often from their superior officers, when it is discovered they have become Protestants, strengthen their character and faith, so that, when their time of service has expired, these tried soldiers of Christ return to their homes, north, south, east, and west of Italy, prepared not only to carry the good tidings of the Gospel, but to have the courage of their opinions and show by their lives the power of the Holy Spirit on the hearts of men who take Christ for their Master and only Saviour. In spite of difficulties and opposition Signor Capellini is indefatigable in his work, both in barracks and camp, and is sanguine that in God's good time the money will be forthcoming to build a church for the soldiers, with an institute, attached, where meetings of all kinds could be held. Over £1,350 have been already contributed, but, owing chiefly to the cost of ground in a central position in Rome, over £8,000 are required to buy the ground and raise a suitable building.—Record.

MAY MEETINGS, 1888.

Date.	Hour.	Institution.	Place of Meeting.	Chairman or Preacher.
APRIL.
Friday, 13	4 p.m.	Widows' Friend Society............	m Mansion House, E.C.	The Lord Mayor.
Sat., 14	7 p.m.	Bible-class Union	m Exeter Hall	Mr. George Williams.
Monday, 16	7 p m.	Pastors' College........................	m Metropolitan Tabernacle	Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.
Tuesday, 17	All day.	Y.W.C.A.	m Morley Halls, 316, Regent-st. .	....
"	7 p.m.	Baptist Y.M. Missionary Assn...	m 19, Furnival-street, Holborn...	Mr. H. M. Bompas, Q.C.
Wed., 18	All day.	Y.W.C.A.	m Morley Halls, 316, Regent-st. .	....
"	3 p.m.	Strangers' Home for Asiatics, &c.	m Home, West India Dock-road	Sir R. H. Davies.
"	8.30 p.m.	Y.W.C.A.	m Exeter Hall..........................	Lord Kinnaird.
Thurs., 19	10.30 a.m.	Baptist Missionary Society	m 19, Furnival-street, Holborn...	Rev. J. T. Wigner.
"	6.30 p.m.	Pastors' College.........................	m Metropolitan Tabernacle	Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.
"	7 p.m.	Baptist Building Fund	m 19, Furnival-street, Holborn...	Mr. A. T. Bowser.
"	7.30 p.m.	Gospel Temperance Movement.	m Exeter Hall..........................	Mr. W. I. Palmer, J.P.
Friday, 20	1 p.m.	British & Foreign School Society	m Exeter Hall..........................	Mr. A. J. Mundella, M.P.
"	7 p.m.	L.M.S. Young Men's Missy. Band	m 14, Blomfield-street, E.C.	Mr. A. J. Shepheard.
"	7 p.m.	Baptist Brit. & Irish Home Mission	s Regent's Park Chapel..........	Rev. Mark Guy Pearse.
Sat., 21	3 p.m.	C. of E. Temp. Society (Young.).	m Town Hall, Westminster	Canon D. Kelly.
"	8 p.m.	Baptist Missionary Soc. (Welsh)	m Castle-st. Chapel, Oxford Mrkt.	....
Sunday, 22	8 p.m.	C. of E. Temperance Society ...	Sermons in various Churches	....
"	8 p.m.	Baptist Missionary Society	Sermons in various Chapels...	....
"	11 a.m.	Open-air Mission	s Park Chapel, Chelsea...........	Rev. John Bennett, D.D.
Monday, 23	11 a.m.	Baptist Union	m City Temple, Holborn-viaduct	Rev. John Clifford, D.D.
"	3 p.m.	Midnight Meeting Movement ...	m Exeter Hall	Mr. R. C. Morgan.
"	6.30 p.m.	U. Meth. Free Churches Mssns.	m Exeter Hall	Mr. James Macinder.
"	6.30 p.m.	Midnight Meeting Movement ...	m Exeter Hall	Mr. George Williams.
"	7.30 p.m.	C. of E. Temperance Society ...	s St. Paul's Cathedral	Dean of Armagh.

m.—Meeting; s.—Sermon.

Forthcoming Meetings.

THE EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, and Wales on due notice. Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, W.C.

THE IRISH EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

THE CHURCH ARMY will send evangelists (working-men) to any clergymen on due notice, for short or long missions. Hon. Sec., 123 & 130, Edgware-road, W.

THE METROPOLITAN TABERNACLE EVANGELISTS' ASSOCIATION will send lay preachers and evangelists to any chapel or hall of any evangelical denomination in London. Hon. Sec., 121, Camberwell New-road, S.E.

THE COUNTRY TOWNS MISSION supplies qualified missionaries for work in the country. Apply to Secretary, 18, New Bridge-street, Ludgate-circus, E.C.

Y.M.C.A., NEW METAL EXCHANGE, Whittington-avenue, E.C.—Daily prayer-meeting, St. Peter's Vestry, Cornhill, 1.15 to 2 p.m. (Sat. excepted). Workers' Bible-class, Mondays, 6.30 p.m. Mission work each evening.

CONFERENCE HALL AND Y.M.C.A., Stratford, E.—Sundays in April, 3 and 7 p.m., Mr. C. Russell Hurditch. Bible-readings, Sundays, 3 p.m.; Tuesdays, 8.15 p.m.: Wednesdays, 8.15 p.m.

GERMAN Y.M.C.A., 28, Finsbury-square, E.C.—Annual members' meeting, Tuesday, April 24, 7.30 p.m.; Mr. W.H. Seagram in the chair. Thursday, April 26, annual public meeting, Conference Hall, Mildmay, N., 8 p.m.; Mr. James E. Mathieson in the chair.

Y.M.C.A., 186, ALDERSGATE-STREET, E.C.—Friday, April 13, 8 p.m., Bible-reading, by Rev. F. B. Meyer; subject—"Through the Jordan of Death." Special mission to young men, by Mr. Charles Inglis, Sunday, April 15, to Friday, April 20. Sunday, 3.30 p.m., and each week-day, 8 p.m.

CONFERENCE HALL, Mildmay-park, N.—Sunday, April 15, 3.30 p.m., Mr. P. S. Badenoch; 7 p.m., Mr. James L. Stanley. Monday, April 16, 7.30 p.m., address on "Mission to Lepers in India," by Mr. W. C. Bailey; chairman, Mr. R. C. Morgan. Wednesday, April 18, 7.30 p.m., Bible-reading, by Rev. H. E. Brooke; subject—"The Flesh."

KILBURN TOWN HALL, N.W.—Sunday evening services are held by the Evangelistic Mission every Sunday at 7 p.m. Preacher for April, Mr. A. M. Kyd.

WESLEYAN WEST CENTRAL MISSION.—St. James's Hall: Fridays, at 12 noon, Rev. Mark Guy Pearse; 7.30 p.m., Rev. Hugh Price Hughes. Sundays, 11 a.m., Rev. Mark Guy Pearse; 3.30 and 7 p.m., Rev. Hugh Price Hughes. Wardour Hall: Mondays, 8 p.m., Rev. Mark Guy Pearse; daily prayer-meeting from 1.30 to 2 p.m. All seats always free.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Regent-street.—Sundays in April, Dr. McKilliam, at 11 and 7.

BURLINGTON HALL, Savile-row.—Wednesday evenings in April, Dr. McKilliam, at 8.

CHRISTIAN WORKERS' REUNION for Bible study and prayer, 186, Aldersgate-street, every Thursday, at 3.30.

GREAT ASSEMBLY HALL, Mile End-road, E.—Sunday, 11 a.m., and 6.30 p.m., Mr. William Nobbs.

MERCHANTS' LECTURE, Finsbury Chapel, Moorfields, E.C.—Tuesdays in April, 12 noon, Rev. Edward White.

CLAPTON HALL, Upper Clapton.—Mr. T. Shuldham Henry during April, Sundays, 6.30 p.m.; Fridays, 7.30 p.m.

HOME OF INDUSTRY, 29, Bethnal Green-road, E.—Monthly meeting for Christian workers, Wednesday, April 18. Tea at 6; meeting at 7. Rev. J. Hudson Taylor will give the address. Dr. and Mrs. Wilson and Mr. George B. Studd, lately returned from China, will take part in the meeting.

HOUSE OF REST, 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn, N.W.—Friday, April 13, 7 p.m., "The Gospel Wherein We Stand"; tea at 6.

PASTORS' COLLEGE EVANGELICAL ASSOCIATION.—Inaugural meetings, Powis Hall, Talbot-road, Bayswater, Wednesday, April 18, 8 p.m. Addresses by Pastors W. J. Mayers, of Bristol, and Arthur Graham, of Tewkesbury.

EVANGELISTIC MISSION, Portman Rooms (late Mme. Tussaud's), Baker-street, W.—Special Sunday evening services, by Mr. Abraham Wallis, during April, at 7.

DEEPENING OF THE SPIRITUAL LIFE.—Meeting at Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road, W., every Friday, 3.30 p.m. Friday, April 20, Mr. R. C. Morgan. April 27, Rev. J. Hudson Taylor.

WOMEN'S MISSION HOUSE AT JERUSALEM.—Prayer-meeting for the above, No. 2 Room, Eccleston Hall, every Saturday, 4.15 p.m.

DUBLIN BELIEVERS' MEETINGS, May 29, 30, 31, and June 1.

BEDFORD.—CONVENTION FOR THE DEEPENING OF SPIRITUAL LIFE, May 2, 3, and 4. Speakers—Revs. Dr. Elder Cumming, Evan Hopkins, E. W. Moore, H. C. G. Moule, and others. Hon. Sec., Colonel Corry Smith, Bedford, to whom all inquiries as to accommodation, &c., may be addressed.

SOUTHSEA CONFERENCE, May 22, 23, and 24. To be followed by ten days' special mission, conducted by Rev. F. S. Webster.

NEWPORT (ISLE OF WIGHT) CONFERENCE, May 16, 17, and 18; subject—"The Resurrection and Exaltation of Our Blessed Lord." Speakers—Revs. D. B. Hankin, Dr. S. C. Morgan, H. Foster Pegg, W. T. Storrs, E. N. Thwaites, and others. Meetings in the Legh Richmond Hall, Newport. For further information apply to Rev. H. G. Thwaites, Newport, Isle of Wight.

LONDON YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.—Annual meeting, Exeter Hall, Wednesday, April 18, 8.30 p.m., Lord Kinnaird presiding. Speakers—Mr. W. T. Paton, "The Progress of the Association"; Rev. M. Rainsford, Jun., "The Power of Union"; Rev. F. B. Meyer, "The Possibilities of a Girl's Life." Admission by ticket, to be had from the Secretary, London Office, 17, Old Cavendish-street, W.

Notices.

COMMUNICATIONS RECEIVED WITH THANKS.—A.M.F. J.G.W. L.S.O. C.G.S. A.U. A.M.S. A.P. W.H. J.R.M. H.M.W. A.R. M.H. E.A.W. M.B. M.A.F. A.H. W.W. T.R. S.H.C. A.O.W. E.A.H. A.L. H.T. C.W.S. N.B.S. A.J.B. H.H. J.D. E.T.H. C.S.H. H.N.T. C.H. G.B. A.A. H.P. S.V. A.S.H. W.R.N. M.C. W.C. A.V.S. R B. S.L.H. S.A.B. J.R. W.T. C.S.R. F.N.C. J.P. A.J.C. G.F.H. W.D. A.M.E. T.L. E.S.H. H.E.B. G.L. C.R.H. J.M. E.G H. E.R. S.T. R.R. J.W. J.M.P. C.E.M.S. G.P. R.C.M. D.McL. G.R. J.L.S. E.D. J.C. W.A. W.S. C.A.C. W.R.G. E.W.H. W.W.C. C.J.S. A.E.G. C.C.G. H.G.T. A.J.B.

APPLICANTS FOR TRACTS.—J. S. Rowe, 31, Jubilee-street, Commercial-road, London, E.; H. Bass, 3, Covel's-row, Margate; F. J. Arthur, 1, Avenue-road, North Finchley, N.; Mrs. J. Brenton, Dodbrooke, Kingsbridge, Devon (temperance); J. Stones, 33, Bourne-street, Hull; A. Ellis, 57, Duke-road, Chiswick, London; Mrs. Male, Helston, Camelford, Cornwall; J. Sleeman, Pengelley, Medrose, Camelford, Cornwall; R. Barrett, care of Mrs. Sutton, 50, Clapton-common, N.; E. Tyler, 4, Leverett-street, Chelsea, S.W.; Miss Owen, Clifford Cottage, 8, Rice-lane, Egremont, Cheshire.

GEORGE LEGGATT, front hall porter, Queen's Hotel Hastings, writes to say that he could make good use of small books and text cards. He is working among nearly eighty souls, to whom he is trying to commend the Gospel of Christ, but his efforts are circumscribed by his inability to buy tracts and cards.

SOMERSET LAUNDRY AND WORKING GIRLS' CLUB.—Mrs. E. H. DELLING, 4, Glaucus-street, Devon-road, Bow, says that she requires £5 to just get into the house. Work has been promised, and four young girls can be taken in, while eight outsiders may be provided with employment. A needlework class will also be held.

Subscriptions received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott to Monday, April 9, 1888.

 We would respectfully urge all our friends, when remitting to us, to make Cheques, Money Orders, or Postal Orders payable to Morgan & Scott, and to cross them "City Bank;" this will effectually prevent loss of same.

	£	s.	d.
Children's Free Dinners, &c.—E.R.T. 3s; J.D.M. 10s ...	0	13	0
Home of Industry—D.A. 2s 6d; A.J.T. £50; Mrs. J.C.F. 10s; X.A. £25 ...	75	12	6
Sailors' Rest, Smyrna (Miss Grimstone)—Collected at Ardfert ...	1	7	6
St. Giles' Christian Mission—J.B., Jun., 2s 3d; T.B.W. 5s; Collected, Mrs. A.G.T. 9s 6d; Mrs. B. 5s; Miss H. £10 ...	11	1	9
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—J.B., Jun., 2s 3d; M.M.B. £1; O'C. £3; E.V. £1; S.C. & E.S. 2s 6d; F.L. 10s; Mrs. B. £2; Mrs. C.E. 9s; T.B.W. 10s; J.H. £1; Wm. B.G. 10s; E.F. £1; F.C.S. 5s; Emigration Fund—M.M.B. £1 ...	12	8	9
Mr. Fegan's Boys' Home—Boys, Old Hall School, 6s 11d; O'C. £3; E.F. 10s; F.C.S. 2s ...	3	18	11
Gratuitous Circulation of THE CHRISTIAN—Collected, Mrs. A.G.T....	0	2	6
Monthly Tract Society—T.R.F. ...	0	10	0
Bible Stand, Crystal Palace—T.R.F. ...	0	10	0
Church Missionary Society—R. ...	10	0	0
London City Mission—R. £5; M.M.B. £1; Mrs. B. 5s ...	6	5	0
Suppression Opium Traffic with China (Lecturing & Travelling Agent)—Mrs. A.O. £1; Mrs. L. £1; Mr. J.E. £1; Mr. A.C. 10s 6d; Mr. J.G. 10s; Miss B. 10s; Mr. W.T. £1 1s; Miss S. 5s; Mr. S.U.P. £1; Mrs. E. 5s; X. 1s 6d; H.D. £1; J.B. 10s; M.W. 1s 3d; D.H. 11s 3d; W.S. £1 1s; Mr. F. 2s 6d ...	10	9	0
Mr. Orsman's Work—R. £7 10s; S.C. & E.S. 2s 6d	7	12	6
Mr. A. G. Brown's Work (Orphans)—R. £5; S.C. & E.S. 5s ...	5	5	0
Mildmay Missions—R. ...	7	10	0
Congo Mission (Rev. H. G. Guinness)—Mrs. B....	0	5	0
East London Training Institute (Rev. H. G. Guinness)—R. £5; P.A.F. 10s; Lia, £2 10s; Foreign Missions—Lia, £2 10s ...	10	10	0
Free Church of Scotland (Jewish Missions)—R...	5	0	0
Church Pastoral Aid Society—M.M.B. ...	1	0	0
N.E. London Gospel Mission—Lia, £5; E.F. 10s; Dock Labourers—M.M.B. 10s; Factory Girls—Lia, £2 ...	8	0	0
Distress S.E. London—M.M.B. 10s; C.P., Clifton, 5s; E.V. £1; E.F. 10s ...	2	5	0
Mrs. Meredith's Prison Gate Mission—Bristol, 1s; E.F. 10s ...	0	11	0
China Inland Mission—Miss W. 3s. 6d; A.H. 5s; Malvern, 2s 6d; A.P.F. & E.L.F. £1 10s; Mrs. B. 5s; Canadian Family, £2 ...	4	6	0
Sermon-lane Mission—C.P., Clifton ...	0	5	0
Widow of late Robert Craig—C.P., Clifton...	0	3	0
Gospel in France (Rev. W. Gibson)—C.P., Clifton	0	5	0
New Mission Hall (Mr. Hurditch)—C.P., Clifton..	0	5	0
Work at Jaffna, Ceylon (Miss Leitch)—M.McJ...	0	10	0
Children's Penny Dinners—O'C. ...	2	0	0
Relief London Poor—O'C. £2; H.L. £2 ...	4	0	0
Friendless & Fallen—Gloucester, £1; H.L. £2...	3	0	0
British Syrian Schools—M.B....	5	0	0
Medical Work, Scutaria (Dr. Alexandrian)—S.P.	1	1	0
Mission Deep Sea Fishermen—F.L. £2 10s; H.L. £2; E.F. 10s ...	5	0	0
George-yard Ragged Schools—F.L... ...	2	0	0
Latymer-road Mission—H.L. £2; E.F. 10s...	2	10	0
Homes of Hope, Regent-square—H.L. ...	2	0	0
Dinners to Sick Children—H.L. £1; J.D.M. 10s; M.L.B. 2s 6d ...	1	12	6
Anchorage Mission—H.L....	1	0	0
Gray's-yard Ragged Church & Schools—H.L. ...	0	10	0
Miss Daniell's Work, Aldershot—Mrs. B. ...	0	5	0
Bristol Orphan Houses—Mrs. B. 5s; C.L.M.T. £1	1	5	0
National Temperance League—Mrs. B... ...	0	5	0
Miss Weston's Work, Royal Navy—Mrs. B. 5s; Devonport—X.A. £10 ...	10	5	0
London Bible Women's Mission—Mrs. B. ...	0	5	0
Miss Robinson's Work, Portsmouth—Mrs. B. 5s; X.A. £5 ...	5	5	0
Thames Church Mission—Mrs. B. ...	0	5	0
Miss Whately's Work, Cairo—C.L.M.T. ...	1	0	0
Haggerston Mission—M.S... ...	0	10	0
Royal Alfred Aged Merchant Seamen's Inst.—M.S.	1	1	0
Dock Labourers' Mission (Mr. Coleman)—M.K. 10s; Mrs. W. 10s ...	1	0	0
Working Men's Mission, New Cut—Lia ...	2	0	0
Society Prevention Cruelty to Children—Lia ...	1	0	0
Children's Farthing Dinners—Lia... ...	0	8	0
E. London Nursing Society—E.F.... ...	0	10	0
Compton-street Mission Hall, King's Cross—E.F.	0	10	0
Tower Hamlets Mission (Emigration Fund)—X.A.	25	0	0
London Society for Promoting Christianity among Jews—X.A. ...	10	0	0
Miss Leigh's Work, Paris—X.A. ...	5	0	0
	£281	18	11

[ADVERTISEMENTS.]

Widow of late Robert Craig—Mr. W. R. Nicoll acknowledges with hearty thanks the following amounts:—J.E.M. £5; A.M.P. £1; Sheffield Friends, £1; G.W.H. £1; Reader of THE CHRISTIAN, 5s; C.G. 10s; P.G.A. 5s; Reader of THE CHRISTIAN, 5s; H.C.N. £3; Believer in Christ, £1.

Mrs. Fisher's Work—"Easter Monday," 10s.

St. Giles' Christian Mission—H.W. 5s.

London Samaritan Society (Free Meals)—Mr. J.R.H. £1 Mrs. M. 5s; Miss E.S.M. 5s; Miss S. 2s 6d.

Mr. Fegan's Homes—Castleton, 2s 6d.

DUBLIN CITY MISSION

THIS Mission (properly speaking, the old City Mission) employs men, truly Christian, to ead the Bible amongst the people, with prayer and nstruction. There are over One Hundred poor Proestant Families visited daily, who otherwise would be wallowed up in the surrounding mass of Romanism hrough mixed marriages; whilst Roman Catholics, when opportunity offers, are also included. Mothers' Meetings, and also Meetings for Gospel and Prayer, eld weekly.

UNDS ARE GREATLY NEEDED to employ more gents, in consequence of the doors for Missionaries being more open than heretofore.

Donations received at the Office, 9, Anglesea-street; r by T. P. Law, Esq., Q.C., 48, Stephen's-green, Dublin; r at the Office of "The Christian." The Annual Report, hich contains interesting particulars of the work, will e forwarded to any address on application.

he WORKING LADS' INSTITUTE,

WHITECHAPEL.

THE NEW LECTURE HALL will (D.V.) be opened by

HER ROYAL HIGHNESS

THE PRINCESS CHRISTIAN

On SATURDAY, April 21, 1888, at 4 p.m.

HE RT. HON. THE LORD MAYOR and LADY AYORESS, supported by the Sheriffs of London and Middlesex, will attend in state.

Doors Open at 3 o'clock.

Tickets: Front and Reserved Seats, 10s. 6d.; Central, 5s.; Gallery, 2s. 6d., to be obtained of HENRY HILL, Hon. Sec., 38, Bow-lane, E.C.; r at the Institute.

ARIS MISS DE BROEN

WILL (D.V.) HAVE

A STALL

or her Work in BELLEVILLE, 3, RUE CLAVEL, PARIS, at the

UNITED SALE OF WORK,

n Thursday and Friday, April 26 and 27, 1888, in

Royal Albert Hall.

Fancy Work and Useful Articles, or Money, much olicited. To be sent to MISS DE BROEN, c/o Mrs. obertson, 1, Campden-houses, Peel-st., Campden-hill, W

A WONDERFUL OFFER.

100,000 CARPETS

5/- EACH. 5/- EACH.

The Largest Carpet ever Sold at the price.

Messrs. HARGREAVES & CO.,

CARPET WEAVERS,

Will forward direct from their looms to any address, on receipt of Postal Order for Five Shillings, a genuine suitable for drawing-room, dining-room, bed-room, &c., bordered and woven in colours, size 3 yards by 2 yards, as an advertisement for their goods, and thus saving any middle profit. Remember, these are woven, not printed, and are made of a material almost equal to wool. Thousands of these Carpets and Rugs have been already sold at almost double these prices.

WOVEN REVERSIBLE CARPET,

A RUG SENT WITH CARPET FOR 2s. EXTRA.

Satisfaction guaranteed or money returned.

DO NOT MISS THIS OPPORTUNITY.

Cheques, &c., should be crossed "Union Bank."

Address—

G. W. HARGREAVES & CO.,

11 & 12, SOUTHAMPTON BUILDINGS, CHANCERY LANE, LONDON.

MORELLA MARMALADE.—The most delicious of all preserves. Also the strictly on-alcoholic wine MORELLA, still and sparkng. Products of the famous Kent Morella Cherry. an be bought of, or through, any grocer, and of e Makers—Thomas Grant & Sons, Maidstone, nd 46, Gresham Street, London.

A CENTENARY of PROTESTANT MISSIONS.

GENERAL CONFERENCE on FOREIGN MISSIONS

TO BE HELD IN

EXETER HALL, LONDON,

FROM THE

9th to the 19th of JUNE, 1888.

President: The Right Hon. THE EARL OF ABERDEEN.

Some of the Chairmen at Public Meetings:

The Right Hon. the EARL of NORTHBROOK, G.C.S.I., D.C.L.
The Right Hon. LORD KINNAIRD.
The Right Hon. LORD POLWARTH.
The Right Hon. LORD RADSTOCK.
SIR JOHN H. KENNAWAY, Bart., M.P.

SIR MONIER MONIER-WILLIAMS, K.C.S.I., LL.D,
SIR WILLIAM MUIR, K.C.S.I., D.C.L., &c.
ALEXANDER McARTHUR, Esq., M.P.
JAMES A. CAMPBELL, Esq., M.P., LL.D.
GEORGE WILLIAMS, Esq.

Chairman of Committee: EDWARD B. UNDERHILL, Esq., LL.D.

Honorary Secretaries:

Rev. S. G. GREEN, D.D. | HUGH M. MATHESON, Esq. | HENRY MORRIS, Esq. | Rev. J. SHARP, M.A.

Honorary Treasurer: J. HERBERT TRITTON, Esq. | Secretary: Rev. JAMES JOHNSTON, F.S.S.

FIFTY Societies in England, Scotland, and Ireland, directly connected with Foreign Missions, are represented on the Committee in London.

MORE THAN FIFTY Societies are represented on the Committee in New York.

The best evidence of the unanimity and universality of this movement is, that, while the entire revenue of all the Protestant Missions of the world does not amount to 2½ millions per annum, the Societies taking part in the Conference have an aggregate income of more than 2 millions per annum.

MEETINGS OF THE CONFERENCE.

TWENTY-ONE Meetings in Sections composed of Members of Conference, for the frank and full discussion of subjects, of which the less important will be considered by Committees appointed for the purpose. FIVE Afternoon Meetings of Conference. SEVEN Public Meetings in Exeter Hall. SEVEN Public Meetings: Description of Missionary Work in all parts of the Heathen World.

On SUNDAY, the 17th of June, Sermons or Missionary Addresses by many Delegates from America and the Continent of Europe, and by Missionaries and others, will be delivered in different parts of London.

The Committee earnestly desire that much private, as well as public, prayer may be offered up for a blessing on this great Conference of the Missions and Churches, which may well be called Ecumenical or Universal.

Offices: 24, Exeter Hall.

A CRY FOR HELP FROM SOUTH LONDON.

LAMBETH RAGGED SCHOOLS, Newport-street, Lambeth Walk, are in a most destitute district. The Committee are compelled to leave unattempted most urgent work for want of Funds. A Thousand Halfpenny Dinners and Free Porridge Breakfasts supplied weekly during winter (by aid of Rev. A. Mearn's Fund for "Outcast London") to Hungry and very Needy Children. Many good Agencies in operation for Old and Young, and 1,500 benefited weekly. Ninety Voluntary Workers. All subscriptions go without deduction to help the Poor, and all cases carefully investigated.

"Bear ye one another's burdens." WHO WILL HELP?

Contributions thankfully received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott; or at 106, Leuthwaite-road, Clapham-common, S.W., by EDWIN NICHOLLS, Hon. Sec.

President: HON. LIONEL ASHLEY.

GRAY'S YARD RAGGED CHURCH & SCHOOLS,

JAMES STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

President—F. A. BEVAN, ESQ., 54, Lombard Street, E.C.

Funds are Urgently Needed to meet the current Expenses of this Institution. From 500 to 700 Casuals and Tramps are here supplied with Bread and Coffee every Sunday, after Gospel Services. Nearly £3 per week required for Food alone.

Contributions will be thankfully received and acknowledged by George Hanbury, Esq., Treasurer, 21, Portman-square, W.; Philip Gough, Esq., Hon. Sub-Treasurer, 33, Cambridge-street, Hyde-park, W.; or by Messrs. Morgan & Scott.

NEW AND CHEAPER EDITION.

SEARCHING THE SCRIPTURES

In order to Abiding Communion with God. Also, Suggestions for Bible Reading and Study, and a Plan for Consecutive Daily Reading.

BY

DR. J. ANDERSON,

Graduate of King's College, Aberdeen, and Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London.

TINTED COVERS - - - -	1s. 6d.
CLOTH LIMP - - - -	2s. 0d.
CLOTH BOARDS - - - -	2s. 6d.
PRESENTATION EDITION.
CLOTH, BEVD. BDS., GILT EDGES	3s. 6d.

"'Searching the Scriptures' is a scholarly, accurate, suggestive, and wise work on the study of the Books of the Bible: how best to get at their teaching; and how best to turn their teaching to practical account. Preachers and teachers will find it a treasury of thought; beautiful expositions; and fruitful suggestions."

Oldham Chronicle.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

NEW BOOK BY ANNA SHIPTON.

"THE LORD WAS THERE."

Incidents from my Journal.

Presentation Edition:

Cloth, gilt edges, 2s. (Cloth, 1s. 6d.)

CONTENTS.

The Walk to Emmaus.
The Shepherd's Voice.
A Strength to the Needy.
The Master's Message.
The Shadow of a Great Rock.
The Pavilion of Jehovah.
A Friend that Loveth at all Times.

"THIS volume is rich in devout meditations, and such narratives of experience as cannot fail to strengthen the faith of believers, and lead them to greater trustfulness in the love of their Heavenly Father. It is a book for quiet hours, and will leave a blessing with every reader.

Primitive Methodist.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

This food should be tried, wherever other nourishment has not proved entirely satisfactory. It is already Cooked -Requires neither boiling nor straining—Is made in a minute.

ALLEN & HANBURYS'
Infants' FOOD

A nutriment peculiarly adapted to the digestive organs of Young Children, supplying all that is required for the formation of firm flesh and bone. Surprisingly beneficial results have attended the use of this Food, which needs only to be tried to be permanently adopted.

Medical Testimony and full directions accompany each Tin.

Price—6d., 1s., 2s., 5s., and 10s., everywhere.

IMPORTANT CAUTION.—As a protection against Counterfeits, see that each Tin bears ALLEN & HANBURYS' Name.

BIRD'S CUSTARD POWDER

DINNER AND SUPPER DAINTIES.

CLEVER RECIPES are GIVEN AWAY!

With Every Packet of Bird's Custard Powder.

This admirable substitute for Eggs is most enjoyable with Tinned and Preserved Fruits, and provides an Endless Variety of Choice Dishes.

A GREAT LUXURY.

Sold Everywhere, in 6d. Boxes, sufficient for 3 Pints; 1s. Boxes, for 7 pints.

"PASTRY AND SWEETS," GRATIS.

The new and enlarged edition of this valuable little work, containing Practical Hints and Original Recipes for Tasty Dishes for the Dinner and Supper Table, will be sent, post-free, on receipt of Address, by ALFRED BIRD & SONS, Birmingham.

N.B.—Grocers can have copies for distribution among their customers on application.

PUBLIC CAUTION.

Refuse Imitations of BIRD'S Choice, Delicious CUSTARD POWDER.

See that you always get

JAMES' DOME BLACK LEAD

Used in the Royal Household.

E. JAMES & SONS, Sole Makers, PLYMOUTH.

SAMPLES FREE, WHICH MAY BE KEPT.

LADIES can now buy THE BEST

KNITTING WOOLS

And the BEST SILKS for Embroidery, Fancy Work, &c., at much Less than Shop Prices, Straight from the Mills, saving 3d. and more in each Shilling's worth. Full Weight. Fast Colours.

THE LATEST NOVELTY IN WOOLS.

REAL INDIAN KASHMYR,

Kept in 3 Qualities. Beautifully Soft and Warm.

Any Quantity Sold. Write for the Free Samples, naming this paper, to the PROVIDENCE MILLS SPINNING Co., Bradford, Yorkshire, England.

Tonga

The SPECIFIC

FOR NEURALGIA.

"Tonga maintains its reputation in the treatment of Neuralgia."
Lancet.

"Invaluable in facial Neuralgia. Has proved effective in all those cases in which we have prescribed it."—Medical Press.

2/9, 4/6, & 11/. Of all Chemists.

USED BY HER MAJESTY'S SERVANTS.

Gold Medals and Diplomas of Merit at all Exhibitions.

Needham's Polishing Paste

Dazzling Mirror Finish.

The reputation of nearly a century as the most reliable preparation for Cleaning and Brilliantly Polishing BRASS, COPPER, TIN, BRITANNIA METAL, PLATINOID, &c. Can be obtained Retail everywhere, in 6d. and 1s. Pots, 2d. and 1d. Tins, and 1d. Cardboard Boxes. Inventors and Sole Manufacturers—

JOSEPH PICKERING & SONS, SHEFFIELD.

LONDON OFFICE: St. George's House, Eastcheap, E.C.

CADBURY'S

Guaranteed PURE.

COCOA

Guaranteed SOLUBLE.

(REGISTERED.)

CADBURY BROS. Caution the Public against those Dutch Cocoas and their English imitations, sold as pure Cocoa, to which about 4 per cent. of Alkali and other agents are added, to give apparent strength to the liquor, by making it a dark colour. This addition may be detected by the scent when a tin is freshly opened. No Cocoa can be stronger than Cadbury's, which is guaranteed ABSOLUTELY PURE.

PEARS' SOAP

Fair White Hands.

Bright Clear Complexion.

Soft Healthful Skin.

The Christian:

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

A Weekly Record of Christian Life, Christian Testimony, Christian Work and Missionary Enterprise.

No. 951.] LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS, E.C. FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 1888. REGISTERED AT THE G.P.O. AS A NEWSPAPER. [ONE PENNY. POST FREE, 1½d.

THE LATE MR. GEORGE BREALEY,

Blackdown Hills Mission.

EVERY observant student of the history of God's dealings with men must be struck with the fact that He has ever shown Himself sovereign in his choice of instruments for the accomplishment of his purposes, and the prosecution of his work. The principle is the same whether we search for it in the records of the Old or New Testament, or right down the centuries of the Christian era until our own times are reached.

A Joseph from the pit and the prison; a Moses from the river, the royal court, and the desert; a Joshua from the servant's place; a David from the sheepfold; Nehemiah, a cup-bearer; Daniel, a captive; Amos, a herdsman; Matthew, a tax-gatherer; Luke, a physician; Peter, John, and others, fishermen; Saul from the feet of Gamaliel, and a persecutor—God has magnified his grace in them, and made them, each in his own department, "vessels meet for his use."

To say nothing of intervening times since apostolic days, the past quarter of a century has furnished illustrations, many and varied, of the exercise of the same "Divine right," and men from every walk of life—from the peasant to the peer—have first themselves been saved, and then been called out by the Lord of the vineyard to serve where and how He has been pleased to direct. We would recognise his good hand in this, and glorify Him in every true servant.

Prominent amongst a very army of Gospel labourers raised up by God for special work in these revival times stands the name of GEORGE BREALEY. He was born September 4, 1823, in North Tawton, Devonshire. His father was for many years foreman in a blanket factory. He was blessed with a godly mother, who, Hannah-like, sought to devote her son to the Lord, praying that in due time Christ might be revealed in him, and he be used to preach Him to others.

At the early age of six we find young George taking the first prize, a Bible, from the Sunday-school Bible-class for repeating, before a large assemblage, the whole of John's Gospel, he being the only one who could perform the feat. Thus the youthful mind was early stored with Scripture truth, like fuel, only "waiting for the fire."

(From a Photograph by Mr. W. Bradnee, Torquay

When about twenty years old he was brought under the saving power of the Gospel through the preaching of Sir Alexander Campbell, and, some time afterwards, was baptized in the city of Exeter by the late John Offord. An interesting coincidence in connection with this event lay in the fact that a Miss Gibbings made a public confession of Christ on the same occasion, the one then unknown to the other. They two were, however, destined to be bound together by ties that only death should sever. Heirs together of the grace of life, they were to share the same joys and sorrows of the path leading to its full fruition.

For the first ten years after George Brealey's conversion his Christian life was one of a too common type. His own salvation secured through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, he was doing much less than he might have done for the salvation of others. By a startling circumstance he was aroused to a sense of his responsibility with regard to the eternal welfare of those around him. A neighbour one day came rushing to his door, knocking loudly and calling out, "Old Evans is dead; he's hanged himself!" He hastened to the scene, and, in the presence of this dead infidel suspended before him, he reproached himself for never having spoken to the man about his soul; now it was too late! There and then he resolved, by God's help, to live for Him and for souls. He at once began preaching the word in every street, lane, and alley of Exeter, pushing his way into public-houses and dens of infamy, speaking "as the Lord's messenger in the Lord's message" (Hag. i. 13). Thus, while others might be discussing the problem, "How to reach the Masses," George Brealey was solving it by going to them.

It would be contrary to all experience that such penetrating testimony should be allowed to proceed without opposition, and it soon received this seal of its being of God. There was not only the "wide door and effectual," but also "many adversaries." Besides other ways of giving vent to his antipathy, Satan on three occasions stirred up his hosts to stone through the Exeter streets this true apostolic successor, who, like Cowper's Christian patriot,

Lived unknown,
Till persecution dragged him into fame,
And (would have) chased him up to heaven.

A remarkable occurrence was made the means of completely quelling the opposition, and turning the tide in the evangelist's favour. At the risk of his own life, when all others stood as if paralysed with fear, he rushed in and gallantly rescued two helpless children from a burning building. Thenceforth he got the respect and attention of those who before had been most antagonistic to him and his work.

The late Mr. W. H. Soltau, at whose feet as a teacher of the Word Mr. Brealey sat with deep and lasting profit, was stimulated by the example of the latter to take to the open air—there, in different parts of Exeter, and elsewhere—to "do the work of an evangelist, sounding out the word of the Lord."

Through listening to the earnest appeals of the late Mr. Leonard Strong on behalf of the coloured people of Demerara, where he himself had long served the Lord, George Brealey felt constrained, should the way be opened up, to go forth and tell to them the story of redeeming love; while some friends, seeing him so used at home, were doubtful as to the wisdom of the proposed step.

At this time (the autumn of 1862) he paid a visit to friends at Wellington, Somerset, and while there a deputation waited on him from the Blackdown Hills, begging him to go out and preach to the neglected people there. To this Macedonian cry he readily and gladly responded. From the standpoint of the first summit reached there were stretching out before him in far distances scenes of great natural beauty, which, alas, strangely contrasted with the moral degradation, gross superstition, and heathen blindness in which the major part of the inhabitants were steeped. Dwellers in more civilised parts cherished such a dread (not without reason) of the locality, that an excursion into the hill-country with a safe return was regarded as a feat long to be remembered and talked of. The remains of three huts may still be seen, within a mile and a half of Clayhidon, and a gunshot of each other, which were dens of well-known highwaymen. The remains of another house are also there, which was inhabited by a notorious sheep-stealer and his wife. The former had been twice transported, but on his return on ticket-of-leave the second time he and his wife were converted. Both lived for nearly twenty years after, to bear witness, by a godly, consistent walk, to the reality of the change. Six miles further to the east there stands yet another building, which also was the abode of certain who betook themselves to "the highways and hedges" as a means of livelihood; but which, however, has been for many years one of the four principal preaching stations of the Mission.

These references will suffice to give some idea of the make-up of George Brealey's first meeting among the Blackdown Hills. Unacquainted with any other, he told out, from the fulness of his heart, the old Gospel, which for the past 1800 years God has made his power unto the salvation of all believing it, and the Lord so manifested his presence on that first occasion—the whole audience being broken down—that another meeting was announced, and so on for several evenings. The news spread, the people flocked in, and God worked most graciously in the conversion of numbers.

At last the time came when he felt he must bid them "farewell," saying that he should see them no more, as he was "going to preach to the blacks."

"No, no, Maister," exclaimed an old woman, "we be the blacks, we've got black hearts; God hath sent you to us!"

Like Paul and his companions essaying "to go to Bithynia; but the Spirit suffered them not," so our friend still "essayed" to go to Demerara, but the Master made known to his servant his mind in the matter in a way that could not be mistaken. Mr. Brealey had given up his boot-making business, packed his goods and outfit, all but taken his passage in a vessel sailing from Bristol; but a few pounds were wanted to make up the amount of passage money, and while waiting for this the vessel set sail without him.

After about twelve months' evangelistic work in Exeter and neighbourhood, visiting race-courses, &c., for Gospel preaching and tract distribution, he was led to re-visit the Blackdown Hills, and, with a repetition of his first happy experiences amongst those poor people before him, he "assuredly gathered that the Lord had called him for to preach the Gospel unto them." Accordingly in 1863 he moved with his wife and family to the Hills, pitched his tent at Clayhidon, which in the providence of God was to be his base of operations, until at the end of his "brief work day" he should be called to rest in the presence of his Lord "far up the everlasting hills."

It is impossible within the narrow limits of our space to convey any adequate idea of what God has wrought during these five-and-twenty years through the labours of his servant, and those associated with him. A volume is needed for this, and much must remain untold until "the day" declares it. Six mission-rooms, besides cottage meetings, have been regularly worked all the year round; the Gospel has also been preached during the summer months in two tents, for several years, among the Militia encamping on the Hills, and in various parts of the counties of Devon, Somerset, and Dorset, resulting in wonderful blessing. At Clayhidon alone, since the commencement of the work, 600 believers have been baptized, and gathered into Church fellowship in the primitive simplicity of New Testament worship; 1600 or 1700 children have passed through the four day and Sunday-schools, large numbers of whom have been converted to God; and many of these are now at work for Him, as missionaries, "evangelists, pastors, and teachers."

The following, which appeared in our columns after a visit paid to the Hills in 1874, gives a comprehensive summary of the work. It can be corroborated and emphasised by all whose privilege it has been to witness on the spot something of what has been accomplished after fourteen more years have been added:—

I spent a few days on the Blackdown Hills, and I had hardly left them before a friend, who had heard of the work from others, asked me whether Mr. Brealey's reports did not require to be severely discounted. To these and to all such inquiries I reply emphatically, "No; far from it; the half has not been told." Because you cannot express with ink and pen the invisible work of the quickening Spirit. "As thou knowest not the way of the Spirit, nor how the bones do grow in the womb of her that is with child: even so thou knowest not the works of God who maketh all." We have been charged a hundred times with exaggeration during our literary lifetime: and doubtless much seed has seemed to bear fruit which has proved to be the rootless growth of stony places, and under the scorching sun of temptation it has withered away; but much more has remained unseen and unrecorded; and while we have lamented over disappointed expectations, there has been joy in the presence of the angels of God over fruit unknown of men.

The result of eleven years of labour in the Gospel on these hills has been very greatly to elevate the character of a population scattered over 400 square miles; to turn hundreds of parents and children to God; to produce scores of preachers of the Gospel; to raise the rate of wages by helping many families to migrate to other parts of Great Britain, or to emigrate to countries beyond the sea; to establish schools through a district having a circumference of sixty miles; to abolish a wretched method of truck, under which many farmers kept their labourers, paying them in kind, and not in coin; and, indeed, to accomplish a moral, social, and religious revolution, whereby the rising generation of labourers is raised higher, in every real sense of the word, than the past generation of their employers, and thereby to create the necessity, if the latter would retain their relative position, of a proportionate elevation on their part.

I was as much surprised as delighted to meet at a Bible-reading, among men who, a few years ago, were sunk in sin and wretchedness, an intelligence with regard to Scripture, and an apprehension of the deep things of God, which would have been noteworthy anywhere. Working men are maintaining preaching-stations all over these hills; mission-rooms and schools are continually springing up in new localities; and in Canada, California, Australia, and other distant places, a banner is displayed because of the truth by men who, on these hills, were turned from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan to God.

Mr. Brealey's son and two daughters have about a hundred children in their schools, which are partly sustained by Mr. Müller, of Bristol, and which have never been vexed with the "religious difficulty," but in which the children of cottagers and labourers make progress in the three R.'s, which would bear comparison with any school in the kingdom; and similar schools are springing up at all the Mission-stations. R. C. Morgan.

While Mr. Brealey had much power as a preacher of the Gospel, his special forte seemed to be personal dealing with souls, and in the early days of this latter work on the Hills, it became necessary for him to "add to his faith courage," having had his life repeatedly threatened by wicked men if he would dare to speak to them again. The Lord, however, stood by him, and so he went on, all undaunted, "instant in season and out of season," preaching and speaking the word of God.

As our readers were made aware at the time, Mr. Brealey was last autumn struck down with facial paralysis, from which he had just sufficiently recovered to be able to take a little part in his much-loved work. In February he went to Weston-super-Mare for a few weeks' change, and was there suddenly laid low by an apoplectic seizure. There was sufficient consciousness during the first part of his few days' illness for him to be able to assure his loved ones gathered round his couch that all was well—he was going home to the Lord. His remains now rest in the Western Cemetery, with many other precious saints of God, who with him were waiting for "the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and our gathering together unto Him," when "the recompense of the reward," to which he, too, "had respect," will be given.

Mr. Walter Brealey (son of the deceased, who has for eighteen years been closely associated with his father in the work) purposes, as the Lord enables him, to carry out his father's desire, and will continue to conduct the Mission as hitherto. Feeling his special need of grace and fitness for the added work and the increased responsibility, he seeks the prayers of our readers, that the Lord may continue to bless the efforts put forth in that needy corner of his great vineyard.

◆

THE SPIRIT OF MAN.—2.

By Rev. JAMES DOUGLAS.

In a former article we endeavoured to expound the presence of spirit in man from the side of intellect: how that presence is shown in man's ability to generalise; to rise, from the particular, to truths universal and necessary; in a word, to deal not only with what is but with what must be. It remains to indicate this distinctive enduement from the side of consciousness and moral sense.

And here we first of all note the clearly defined sense of personality there is in man. He is not only conscious, but he is self-conscious. His consciousness is not only occupied with varying successive states of thought, will, and emotion, but, over and above that, running through it all, is the consciousness of a self, a responsible self, in whom all these states inhere. It is attention to this subject which imparts such wonderful interest to the unfolding life of the child. For a time the child is just like the parrot. It hears itself addressed in the third person, and for a time knows no better than to do the same. During this period the spirit is not properly awake; the higher nature of the child slumbers. But after a while the child and the parrot part company. "Pretty Poll" still describes herself as Pretty Poll, but the child has awakened to the fact that it is a self, and begins the use of the personal pronoun, "I." In this, we apprehend, is seen another clear evidence of the presence and quality of spirit in man.

Looking now more directly at the moral side of man, we are confronted by a mysterious "ought" in the human breast to which we cannot give too much heed. "Two things," says Kant, "there are which the oftener and more stedfastly we consider them, fill the mind with an ever new, an ever rising admiration and reverence: the starry heaven above, the moral law within... In the former, the first view of a countless multitude of worlds annihilates my importance as an animal product;...the other, on the contrary, elevates my worth as an intelligence even without limit, and this through my personality, in which the moral law reveals a faculty of life independent of my animal nature—nay, of the whole material world." Whether we are prepared to subscribe to all this or not, we cannot but feel that to have that in our nature which binds us to the consideration of what ought to be, is a deeply significant fact. Whence comes it—this feeling of responsibility? To what origin or spring is it to be referred? Can we explain it on any other hypothesis than that man, being created in the image of God, being gifted with spirit, is thereby placed, by the tie of moral sense, in responsible relation to his Maker? To us the conclusion seems just. Conscience—that mysterious voice which says, "Thou shalt," "Thou shalt not,"—cannot possibly be resolved into that which is beneath. Mere animal organisation cannot explain it. The moral sense is too big a thing for the mere utilitarian in morals to deal with. He is baffled by it. Conscience proclaims that man is meant for God; that his misery and crime is to be on wrong relations with Him; that man is not animated matter merely, but that enshrined in him is spirit.

For how suggestive to note, let man fall as he may, he can never quite bury the spirit in the flesh. Though he may drug his conscience and falsely indoctrinate it, still he cannot exorcise the mysterious "ought" from his breast; he cannot altogether paralyse the delicate cord that quivers in the presence of the unseen and obligatory. Is not the reason this—that he cannot quite dehumanise himself?—that there is that operative in him which tells that he is possessed of something more than a merely animal soul, and that he is designed for something more than a merely animal destiny. Surely it is so! Surely an embryonic hell or heaven is distinctly to be traced in the very constitution of man! Let the voice of the late sage of Chelsea for a moment be heard:—

> I were but a vain dreamer to say that even then (in my childhood) my felicity was perfect. I had once for all come down from heaven to the earth. Among the rainbow colours that glowed upon my horizon lay even in childhood a dark ring of care, as yet no thicker than a thread, and often quite overshone; yet always it reappeared, nay, ever waxing broader and broader; till in after years it almost overshadowed my canopy and threatened to engulf me in final night. It was the ring of necessity whereby all are begirt; happy he for whom a kind heavenly sun brightens it into a ring of duty, and plays around it with beautiful prismatic diffractions, yet ever as base and as bourne for our whole being it is there.

It remains briefly to point out how the very desires and appetites of man's soul betray the informing presence and activity of spirit. Inordinate desire is not strictly an animal property. Howbeit, in this thing lies man's most besetting temptation. "Enough" is a word incapable of definition. "He that loveth silver shall not be satisfied with silver; nor he that loveth abundance, with increase" (Eccles. v. 10). The appetites grow as they feed, and become the more insatiable with every fresh gratification. When can human lust say "Now I am satisfied"? Poor fallen man lusts and desires to have, and cannot obtain. He wearies himself in hewing out broken cisterns, and spends his life in a sigh. Oh that those who knew the secret of blessing would keep to their text! Man's desires informed by spirit have only one true correlative—the Son of God. "If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink, thou wouldest have asked of Him and He would have given thee living water" (John iv. 10).

We conclude this brief analysis of the Spirit of Man in the words of Henry Suso:—

To Thee, Lord, my heart unfoldeth
As the rose to the golden sun—
To Thee mine arms are clinging
The eternal joy begun.
For ever, through endless ages,
Thy cross and Thy sorrow shall be
The glory, the song, and the sweetness,
That make heaven heaven to me.

Let one in his innocence glory,
Another in works he has done;
Thy blood is my claim and my title,
Beside it, O Lord, I have none.
The Scorned, the Despised, the Rejected,
Thou hast come to this heart of mine;
In Thy robes of eternal glory
Thou welcomest me to Thine.

THE THEATRICAL MISSION.—This work is prospering greatly, and the Institute is much appreciated by the many who avail themselves of its advantages. 13,602 young people have used the Institute during the past two months.

THE CATACOMBS.

I have lately visited the Catacombs of St. Agnes. They are very extensive, and are full of Christian remains, including those of the martyrs. These and the inscriptions have been preserved unchanged from the earliest times.

Here in these narrow cells, in darkness deep,
These sufferers, long since, laid them down to sleep;
Abhorred of earth, beloved of heaven were they,
Exiles of night, though children of the day.
They would not worship senseless wood and stone,
To them the unseen God was God alone;
For such as these the world could find no room,
Their dreary dwelling was the silent tomb.
Here in these winding passages they trod
A way apart from men, and walked with God;
Found strength in weakness, courage in distress,
And where to pour their tears of bitterness.
They loved the Crucified; they graved his name
In deathless symbols, everywhere the same—
Jesus the Christ, the Son of God, is He,
The First, the Last, who saves eternally.
O sweet and sacred faith of early time,
In spirit so unearthly and sublime,
The link that bound these exiles to the skies,
From these remembrancers thy witness cries!
They are not here; among the holy blest
In years to us remote, God gave them rest;
But still their silent dust before us lies,
The words they uttered meet our wondering eyes;
Their love to Jesus leaves a sweet perfume,
The only odour lingering in their tomb.
Such faith be mine! O never from my heart
Let this pure, early, martyr faith depart;
Jesus their glory, mine for ever be,
The all to them, the all in all to me.

Rome. H. Grattan Guinness.

◆

FRIENDS' SYRIAN MISSION.

This Mission is situated at Brumana, on the heights of Mount Lebanon, overlooking Beyrout, and is under the joint management of the Society of Friends in Great Britain, Ireland, and the United States. There is a Training Home for boys, with thirty inmates, and for girls with twenty, and a well-ordered hospital with fifteen beds, besides dispensary, open five days a week. The Mission has the charge of various day schools for both sexes in several surrounding villages, in which more than 300 children are under instruction; it also employs a colporteur and several Bible-women. There are also two mothers' meetings, which in earlier days had sometimes to be shortened because of fights among the women, but which now are composed of large numbers who delight to learn texts of Scripture, and be read to, rather than give vent to evil passion.

All these agencies have been productive of much good in the district, and even over a wider area. Many of the pupils of the Training Homes have gone to their various villages imbued with true Christian principles, and several boys have taken influential positions. In the medical department also, the work has been much blessed, firstly in largely disarming opposition from priest and prince, which was very bitter at the commencement of the Mission, and also in the opportunity which it affords the doctor and his helpers to refer to the needs of the soul while attending to those of the body, and giving access to places otherwise closed against mission effort. A new meeting-house has recently been erected to hold 300 persons, and the message of life and salvation through the Lord Jesus Christ is faithfully preached to an attentive congregation, which usually fills the building. There are twenty-six persons working in connection with the Mission, seven of whom are Europeans.

At Ramallah, near Jerusalem, the Friends have another mission, which is doing a good work among the inhabitants of that dark region.

P.

"WHERE IS THEIR GOD?"

ONE of the chief proofs of their inspiration is the unity of thought which runs through the Scriptures, Old and New. Moses says, in Deut. xxxii. 36:—

> "The Lord shall judge his people, and repent Himself for his servants, when He seeth that their power is gone, and that there is none shut up, or left."

Daniel says (xii. 6, 7):—

> "One said to the man clothed in linen...'How long shall it be to the end of these wonders?' And he held up his right hand and his left hand to heaven, and sware by Him that liveth for ever, that it shall be for a time, times, and a half; and when He shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished."

John says (Rev. x. 5, 6, xi. 15):—

> "And the angel which I saw stand upon the sea and upon the earth lifted up his hand to heaven, and sware by Him that liveth for ever and ever, who created heaven, and the things that therein are, and the earth, and the things that therein are, and the sea, and the things which are therein, that there should be time no longer....And the seventh angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and He shall reign for ever and ever."

The self-same lesson is taught by the history of Job; by the thirty-eight years wandering from Kadesh-Barnea to the brook Zered, until all the generation of the men of war were wasted out from among the host (Deut. ii. 14); and, again, by the story of the impotent man, who lay for the same period of thirty-eight years by the pool of Bethesda, until there was no man to help him, and while he was trying to get into the pool himself, another stepped down before him (John v.). The like truth is taught in various ways throughout the historic and prophetic books, viz., that when man's power and resources are exhausted, God's time has come to interpose Himself. The reiteration of this principle throughout the Bible is a proof of the oneness of its authorship; and if it have one Author He can be no other than the Eternal Spirit of the Truth.

This great lesson is worth our deepest consideration: for it would seem to teach that God's greatest difficulty is to bring his people to an end of themselves, and of their own power and resources; to scatter the power of the holy people. When He has accomplished this He will avenge them; the end of the wonders which so astonished Daniel will have come; the mystery of God will be finished; the seventh trumpet will have sounded; and the Christ will take his great power, and will reign.

The declaration of this fundamental and universal truth is as necessary now as ever. We are full of human resources for doing the work of God. We assume that the work is ours, and that God will help us; instead of understanding that it is God's work, and that He is pleased to use us in doing it. Like Saul, we regard the battle as our own, that we may be avenged on our enemies (1 Sam. xiv. 24), instead of saying with David, "Who is this uncircumcised Philistine, that he should defy the armies of the living God?" Like Joshua, we ask, "Art thou for us, or for our adversaries?" and we forget the answer, "Nay, but as Captain of the host of THE LORD am I now come... Loose the shoe from off thy foot; for the place whereon thou standest is holy."

Church fairs, bazaars, and raffles; musical instruments, as various as those on the plain of Dura (Dan. iv.); concerts, sacred and secular; sermons with titles from playbills; sensational lectures instead of Gospel-preaching with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven—are not all these (and must we not even add the endeavour to secure orthodoxy by subscription to a man-made creed?)—proofs that our human power is not gone; that there are still resources shut up and left in our self-sufficient hearts; that God has not yet accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people; that the last of the seven trumpets which sound the knell of human effort, expedient, and resource, has not yet been blown; and that the Christ is not invited to take his power and to reign?

There is no uniting power in our human resources and expediencies. Pentecost came after ten days of united prayer in an upper room, as near to heaven as they could get, and as far as they could rise above earthly devices for doing heaven's work.

The great need of the Church and of the world during these eighteen hundred years has been GOD. He is our great need to-day. "Wherefore should they say among the heathen, where is their God?" Ten men will take hold of the skirts of one, and will go with him, when they see that GOD is with him. When from the four winds comes the Breath and breathes upon these slain, they will live and become an exceeding great army. Let us cry to God, and wait for God, and meanwhile seek to recognise all there is of God and Christ in one another.

There is a uniting force in this endeavour, as there is a disintegrating and separating force in a habit of censorious criticism. If our brethren and fellow-servants see and acknowledge whatever good there may be in us, it makes us love them, draw toward them, and assimilate ourselves to them; but if they are always finding out and accentuating our faults it irritates us and makes us avoid them. It is essential to contend earnestly for the faith once for all delivered to the saints, but let it be in the spirit of meekness, remembering "how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity ...for there the LORD commanded the blessing, even life for evermore."

◆

YOUNG MEN IN BOHEMIA.

DEAR SIR,—The Y.M.C.A. in Prague was founded in March, 1886, and has at the present time 76 active members. It is the only Association of the kind among the Bohemians. Prague is a large city of more than 250,000 inhabitants, of whom there are only 3000 to 4000 Protestants. The city is very corrupt, thousands of young men perishing in sin; so we founded, in the name of God, the Y.M.C.A., of which Rev. A. W. Clark, missionary of the American Board, is the President.

Last year we had many trials. A Romish paper attacked us, and the priests are very busy in their endeavours to make backsliders of the Roman Catholic members coming to our meetings. But God has blessed us. To make progress we need to have our own house. Would your readers please pray for us and help us.—Respectfully yours, ALOIS ADLOF,

Secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

Tischlergasse 27, Prague.

SOUTH TRAVANCORE.—In April last year, on Mrs. Thomson coming to England for change and rest, Mrs. A. C. Fry was left in charge of the important zenana and school work in Neyoor, South Travancore, in connection with the London Missionary Society. During the year much good work was done. There are six schools, with an average daily attendance of 196. The Medical Mission, under the superintendence of Dr. E. S. Fry, has extended its operations, and the workers see encouraging fruits of their labours.

ABRAHAM: GOD'S FRIEND.

By Rev. F. B. MEYER, B.A., Regent's Park Chapel.

VII.—THE TWO PATHS.

ABRAHAM and Lot stood together on the heights of Bethel. The land of promise spread out before them as a map. On three sides at least there was not much to attract a shepherd's gaze. The eye wandered over the outlines of the hills which hid from view the fertile valleys, nestling within their embrace. There was, however, an exception to this monotony of hill, towards the south-east, where the waters of the Jordan spread out in a broad valley, before they entered the Great Sea of the Plain.

Even from that distance the two men could discern the rich luxuriance, which recalled to them traditions of that garden once planted by the Lord God in Eden, and reminded them of scenes which they had lately visited together in the valley of the Nile. This specially struck the eye of Lot, eager to do the best for himself, and determined to make the fullest use of the opportunity, which the unexpected magnanimity of his uncle had thrown in his way. Did he count his relative a fool for surrendering the right of choice? Did he vow that he must allow no false feelings of delicacy to interfere with his doing what he could for himself? Did he feel strong in the keenness of his sight, and the quickness of his judgment? Perhaps so. For he had little sympathy with the pilgrim spirit. But the time would come when he would bitterly rue his choice, and owe everything to the man of whom he was now prepared to take advantage.

"Lot lifted up his eyes, and beheld all the plain of Jordan, that it was well watered everywhere, as the garden of the Lord. Then Lot chose him all the plain of Jordan." He did not ask what God had chosen for him. He did not consider the prejudicial effect which the morals of the place might exert upon his children and himself. His choice was entirely determined by the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life. For the men of Sodom were "sinners before the Lord exceedingly."

How many have stood upon these Bethel-heights, intent on the same errand as took Lot thither? Age after age has poured forth its crowds of young hearts, to stand upon an exceeding high mountain, whilst before them have been spread all the kingdoms of this world, and the glory of them; the tempter whispering, that for one act of obeisance all shall be theirs. In assurance and self-confidence; eager to do the very best for themselves; prepared to consider the moralities only in so far as they did not interfere with what they held to be the main chance of life; thus have succeeding generations looked towards the plains of Sodom from afar. And, alas! like Lot, they have tried to make stones into bread; they have cast themselves down from the mountain side, for angels to catch; they have knelt before the tempter, to find his promise broken, the vision of power an illusion, and the soul beggared for ever, whilst the tempter, with hollow laugh, disappears, leaving his dupe standing alone in the midst of a desolate wilderness.

Let us not condemn Lot too much because he chose without reference to the moral and religious conditions of the case; lest, in judging him, we pronounce sentence on ourselves. Lot did nothing more than is done by scores of professing Christians every day.

A Christian man asks you to go over and see the place which he is about taking in the country. It is certainly a charming place; the house is spacious and well-situated, the air balmy, the garden and paddock large, the views enchanting. When you have gone over it, you ask how he will fare on Sunday. You put the question, not from feelings of curiosity, but because you know that he needs strong religious influences to counteract the effect of absorbing business cares, from Monday morning till Saturday night; and because you know that his children are beginning to evince a deepening interest in the things of God. "Well," says he, "I really have never thought of it." Or perhaps he answers, "I believe there is nothing here, but a very High Church; but one cannot have everything; and they say that the society here is extremely good." Is not this the spirit of Lot, who bartered the altar of Abraham's camp for the plains of Sodom, because the grass looked green and plentiful?

Have mothers, professing Christians, never gone into society where evangelical religion is held in contempt, for no other reason than to make a good match for their daughters, so far, at least, as this world is concerned? Ah, the world is full of breaking hearts and wrecked happiness, because so many persist in lifting up their eyes to choose for themselves, and with sole reference to the most sordid considerations.

If Abraham had remonstrated with him, suggesting the mistake he was making, do you not suppose that he would have answered petulantly: "Do you not think that we are as eager as you are to serve the Lord; Sodom needs just that witness which we shall be able to give; is it not befitting that the light should shine in the darkness; and that the salt should be scattered where there is putrefaction?" Abraham might not be able to contest these assertions, and yet he would have an inner conviction that these were not the considerations which were determining his nephew's choice. Of course, if God sends a man to Sodom, He will keep him there, as Daniel in Babylon; and nothing shall by any means hurt him. He shall be kept as the eye is kept, in its bony socket from violence, and with its delicate veil of eyelid from dust. But if God does not clearly send you to Sodom, it is a blunder, a crime, a peril to go.

Mark how Lot was swiftly swept into the vortex! First he saw, then he chose, then he separated himself from Abraham, then he journeyed east, then he pitched his tent toward Sodom, then he dwelt there, then he became an alderman of the place, and sat in the gate. His daughters married two of the men of Sodom, and they probably ranked among the most genteel and influential families of the neighbourhood. But his power of witness-bearing was gone. Or if he lifted up his voice in protest against deeds of shameless vice, he was laughed at for his pains, or threatened with violence. His righteous soul might vex itself, but it met with no sympathy. He was carried captive by Chedorlaomer. His property was destroyed in the overthrow of the cities. His wife was turned into a pillar of salt. And the blight of Sodom left but too evident a brand upon his daughters. Wretched, indeed, must have been the last days of that hapless man, cowering in a cave, stripped of everything, face to face with the results of his own shameful sin.

It is, indeed, a terrible picture; and yet some such retribution is in store for everyone whose choice of home, and friends, and surroundings is dictated by the lust of worldly gain, or fashion, or pleasure, rather than by the will of God. If such are saved at all, they will be saved as Lot was, so as by fire. Now, let us turn to a more inviting theme, and consider the dealings of the Almighty God with this man who was being educated to hold fellowship with Himself as a friend.

(1) God always comes near to his Separated Ones.—"And the Lord said unto Abram, after that Lot was separated from him." It may be that Abraham was feeling very lonely. Lot and he had been constant and close companions, and when the last of the encampment had moved off, and Lot had disappeared into the long distance, a cold chill may have enveloped him, as a November fog does the man who has arisen before the dawn to see his friend away by the early mail. Then it was that God spake to him.

We all dread to be separated from companions and friends. It is hard to see them stand aloof, and drop away one by one; and to be compelled to take a course by oneself. The young girl finds it hard to refuse the evening at the theatre, and to stay alone at home when her gay companions have gone off in high spirits. The young city clerk finds it hard to refuse to join in the "sweepstake," which is being got up on the occasion of some annual race. The merchant finds it hard to withdraw from the club or society with which he has long been identified, because there are practices creeping in which his conscience refuses to sanction. The Christian teacher finds it hard to adopt a course which isolates him from brethren with whom he has had sweet fellowship, but against whose views he is obliged to protest.

And yet, if we really wish to be only for God, it is inevitable that there should be many a link which must be snapped, many a companionship which must be forsaken, many a habit and conventionalism which must be dropped off; just as a savage must gradually but necessarily abjure most of his past, ere he can be admitted into the society and friendship of his European teacher.

But let us not stand looking on this aspect of it—the dark side of the cloud. Let us rather catch a glimpse of the other side, illuminated by the rainbow promise of God. And let this be understood, that, when once the spirit has dared to take up that life of consecration to the will of God to which we are called, there break upon it visions, voices, comfortable words, of which the heart could have formed no idea. For brass He brings gold, and for iron silver, and for wood brass, and for stones iron. Violence is no more heard of, nor wasting, nor destruction. The sun is no more needed for the day, nor the moon for the night. Because the Lord has become the everlasting light of the surrendered and separated heart, and the days of its mourning have passed away for ever.

"Come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing, and I will receive you, and will be a Father unto you. Having, therefore, these promises, dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit."

(2) God will do Better for Those who trust Him than They could do for Themselves.—Twice here in the context we meet the phrase about "lifting up the eyes." But how great the contrast. Lot lifted up his eyes, at the dictate of worldly prudence, to spy out his own advantage. Abraham lifted up his eyes, not to discern what would best make for his material interests, but to behold what God had prepared for him. How much better it is to keep the eye steadfastly fastened on God till He says to us, "Lift up now thine eyes, and look northward, and southward, and eastward, and westward: for all the land which thou seest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed for ever."

God honours them that honour Him. He withholds no good thing from them that walk uprightly. He meets him that rejoices and works righteousness. If only we will go on doing what is right, giving up the best to our neighbour, considering God's interests first, and our own last, expending ourselves for the coming and glory of the kingdom of heaven, we shall find that God will charge Himself with our interests. And he will do infinitely better for us than we could. Lot had to ask the men of Sodom if he might sojourn among them, and he had no hold on the land; but it was all given to Abraham, including that verdant circle on which Lot set his heart. "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth."

It is difficult to read these glowing words, northward, and southward, and eastward, and westward, without being reminded of "the length, and breadth, and depth, and height, of the love of Christ, that passeth knowledge." Much of the land of Canaan was hidden behind the ramparts of the hills; but enough was seen to ravish that faithful spirit. Similarly, we may not be able to comprehend the love of God in Christ, but the higher we climb the more we behold. The upper cliffs of the separated life command the fullest view of that measureless expanse.

God's promises are ever on the ascending scale. One leads up to another fuller and more blessed than itself. In Mesopotamia, God said, "I will show thee the land." At Bethel, "this is the land." Here, "I will give thee all the land, and children innumerable as the grains of dust." And we shall find even these eclipsed. It is thus that God allures us to saintliness. Not giving anything till we have dared to act, that He may test us. Not giving everything at first, that He may not overwhelm us. And always keeping in hand an infinite reserve of blessing. Oh, the unexplored remainders of God! Who ever saw his last star?

(3) God bids us Appropriate his Gifts.—"Arise, walk through the land in the length of it and in the breadth of it." This surely means that God wished Abraham to feel as free in the land as if the title-deeds were actually in his hands. He was to enjoy it, to travel through it, to look upon it as his. By faith he was to act towards it as if he were already in absolute possession.

There is a deep lesson here, as to the appropriation of faith. "Be strong and very courageous" was addressed six several times to Joshua. "Be strong" refers to the strength of the wrists to grasp. "Be very courageous" refers to the tenacity of the ankle-joints to hold their ground. May our faith be strong in each of these particulars. Strong to lay hold, and strong to keep.

We need not be surprised to learn that Abraham removed to Hebron (which signifies fellowship), and built there an altar to the Lord. New mercies call us to deeper fellowship with our Almighty Friend, who never leaves or forsakes his own. And, as the result of his dealings with us, let us build fresh altars, and make a new dedication of ourselves and all we have to his blessed service.

Leaves from my Note-Book.

By Rev. W. HASLAM, M.A.

Author of "From Death into Life."

3.—"I HOPE SO."

Some years ago, when I was in Norfolk, as my two churches were small, I held meetings for evangelistic purposes in a large barn on my glebe. Having much encouragement in this effort, I went by invitation to other barns in various parts of the county, for the same object.

One gentleman remarked, "Aha! I never knew before what my grandfather built this great barn for. I see now!" With a large farm waggon for a pulpit, blocks of timber and planks across for seats, it made an excellent place for preaching.

At some of these meetings we had people of all classes; for many of the gentry from the neighbourhood favoured us with their presence.

One evening a lady of title from London came, and evinced a lively interest in the proceedings. When the address was over, according to London custom (at least at that time) she rose up to go away. She did not understand then about "after-meetings," or their object. At the end of the barn a young farmer, who had recently been converted to God, stood at the door, giving away tracts, and speaking to the people now and again, as he was led. Amongst other persons so addressed, he said to this lady from London, "Take a tract." She took it graciously, whereupon he asked, in his abrupt manner, "Are you saved?" She answered, "I hope so." "Haven't you got further than that?" was the reply.

The young man then went on distributing the remainder of his tracts, and speaking to others who were thronging by him.

The lady could not stop to make any remark, for she was in the stream of people flowing out. But she thought to herself, "I have been a Christian for forty years, and yet I have not satisfied that young man! I must go back."

She at once stepped aside, until the people had passed out, watching her opportunity to speak to the young man when he was at leisure. Then she went up to him and said, "You asked me a question just now, young man, and I did not satisfy you with my answer."

"What was the question, madam?" inquired the farmer politely.

"You asked me whether I was saved."

"Well," he added, "and what was your answer?"

"I said," rejoined the lady, "I hope so."

"Haven't you got further than that?" repeated the young man.

"Yes, indeed, I have," said the lady; "I have been a Christian for forty years!"

"Then, why did you not say so? You should have said that."

"Now, suppose," continued the lady, "I ask you the question, Are you saved? what would your answer be?"

"Ah, yes, thank God I am," replied the young man, with a happy face.

"I understand now what you mean," said the lady, and, bidding the young man good evening, walked thoughtfully away.

Afterwards, when this lady met me, she said, "I know now what to say when I am challenged by you or any of your people, about my salvation—not, 'I hope so,' but, 'Yes, thank the Lord!'"

Notwithstanding this little banter, she not only ever after gave this answer for herself, but never let any one pass who said, "I hope so." She became proverbial for this, and never let the hoping kind escape.

Many people say, "I hope so," when they really mean, "I believe." Hoping has to do with something in the future—believing, with that which is present. We do not hope for a thing we have. "I hope I shall" implies that I have not yet obtained possession of the thing I desire. It also implies that the Holy Ghost, who is the Author of all good desires, has been striving with me, and that I have not accepted his offer. But "I hope I shall" means nothing, and is not only vague, but dangerous.

I know many persons who, I really believe, have accepted Christ as their salvation, but who nevertheless continue to say, "I hope so." This does not produce any happy result in their own minds, nor tend to confirm their confidence. It is neither well for themselves nor for their usefulness. On the other hand, I have known believers who used to say, "I hope so," but who, when roused from this bad habit, became clear and decided as to their own standing; and, besides this, they have gone on to be earnest and accurate in their testimony and work for the Lord.

It is not well to say, "I hope I am saved," nor is it well to pass those who do say so. When people are saved, it is by the Spirit of the Lord; therefore they need not be modest about acknowledging it, as if they had saved themselves. If the Lord has done it, the least they can do is to thank Him, and acknowledge his goodness. Who is to make known his praises to the world, if those whom He has saved do not? How is the Lord to be glorified, if those who have received his blessing are too retiring to speak about it?

True humility consists in being as nothing rather than being taken up with our own views, thoughts, and proprieties. True humility says, "I am but a poor sinner, but God has had mercy on me.

Well may my glowing heart rejoice,
And tell its raptures all abroad."

Our friend, the lady from London, on her return to the Metropolis, immediately opened her drawing-room for Gospel addresses. She was very pointed in her questions after the address, and was not content with people who came merely to patronise the Gospel; neither was she satisfied for them to receive the invitation to come to Jesus, and go away without accepting it, or, at any rate, being urged to do so.

When a soldier on parade is commanded to turn "right about face," he does not smile, nod assent, and say, "It is all right, I know what you mean. I can do it," or "I hope I shall"; but promptly he puts his feet into position, and with one turn of his body he is looking the other way, standing like a soldier! So, when the command is given, "Come unto Me," the answer should be, "Just as I am, I come; I have no other plea, but that the blood of Jesus was shed for me."

"I will do so," "I can do so," or "I may, or must do so," are beside the mark; "I do come as Thou hast bidden me, Lord," is the only true surrender. There is a sure welcome for everyone who comes in this way; and there should be a distinct testimony from those who have thus come.

BOMBAY Y.M.C.A.—At the annual meeting held recently, it was shown that the Association is in a condition affording much ground of encouragement. Mr. Conder, president, expressed a hope that a period of increased activity had now been entered upon. The Association has 250 members, some of whom are very earnest in good work.

CONFERENCE HALL AND Y.M.C.A., Stratford.—This institution is a power for great good in Stratford and district. The report for last year shows that the large number of agencies of which it is the home and centre are in active operation, and that there are many significant tokens of the Divine blessing on the efforts put forth. Among old and young, indoors and out-of-doors, at hand and in distant parts, the influence of the Conference Hall is felt; and by public meetings, classes, temperance bands, and benevolent organisations, the Gospel is commended to thousands of people in real loving earnestness. The finances remain in a satisfactory condition, the income having last year kept pace with the expenditure. The main anxiety at present is one relating to the debt on the original building, which, with the cost of fitting up the iron hall, that was erected last year, amounts to £1445. Mr. E. Fox Butlin is the general secretary of the institution.

PASTORS AND EVANGELISTS.

Rev. James Stalker, of St. Matthew's Free Church, Glasgow, took for the subject of his sermon as retiring Moderator of the Glasgow and Ayr Synod last week, "Ministers and Evangelists." The text selected was Eph. iv. 11, 12, and Mr. Stalker remarked that the passage described both the work and the workers in the building of the temple of God. Five different kinds of labourers are indicated. The first two, apostles and prophets, may have been peculiar to the first ages of the Church; the other three, evangelists, and pastors, and teachers, are permanent agencies in the Church, and are indispensable to its progress. In apostolic times the functions of these three workers appear to have been distributed among different persons. One had a gift for evangelising, another had a gift for the pastoral office, and a third had a gift for teaching. But under our present system the ordained pastor is expected to discharge all three functions. To do this a minister would need to be many men rolled into one, and so a system of helps has been devised, and we have elders, visitors, Sunday-school teachers, &c., to aid in the work of the Church.

Our age is remarkable for the multiplication of these agencies. Only forty years ago Robert McCheyne expressed the opinion that none but ordained ministers should take part even in prayer-meetings. Our age has been specially remarkable for the rise of the class of men known as evangelists. In employing evangelists, ministers have great difficulties to face in opposite directions. Some members of their congregations disapprove of the excitement of evangelistic meetings, and others say that they think it is little to a minister's credit that he has to bring a stranger in to do his work. But it is no more derogatory to ministers to accept help in doing their evangelistic work than it is to accept help in doing their work of teaching. It is no dishonour to them to confess that their work as evangelists needs supplementing, for the gifts of the evangelist are somewhat sparsely distributed. It would be well, perhaps, if, in the case of evangelists, some kind of legitimisation could be introduced from the headquarters of the church to which they belong, but it would always be possible to go too far in that direction.

Mr. Stalker said that he had sometimes thought an evangelist's power may be said to lie in the very limitation of his theological knowledge. In mathematics the whole is greater than the part; but in art the part is often greater than the whole, and thus it happens that the few truths which the evangelist wields are often more effective than the more extensive knowledge of the fully equipped minister. It would be well for a congregation to be visited every two or three years by an evangelist. It is unfortunately true that ministers and evangelists do not understand each other so well as they ought to do. They of the Free Church did not wield any thunder of sacerdotalism, but believed that every man was his brother's keeper, and that everyone who had been brought to the Lord ought to be a missionary to his fellows. They believed that it was vastly more important that the people should be evangelised than that the ecclesiastical edicts of any church should be obeyed. The evangelist's work is done suddenly, but it is not to be forgotten that it could not be done at all but for the antecedent work of ministers. Mr. Stalker brought his sermon to a close by pointing out the value of duly organised churches, remarking that character without the directing influence of the church would come short of what it ought to be.

HOPE LODGE, BALLARAT.—This is a private, unsectarian institution for the rescue of inebriates, founded in 1886 by Rev. W. L. Morton, pastor of Ebenezer Presbyterian Church. It is supported by voluntary contributions, and since its inauguration 101 men have been received.

THE LORD'S-DAY OBLIGATION.

The Archbishop of York presided over a meeting held in Exeter Hall, on Wednesday, last week, under the auspices of the Central Association for Stopping the Sale of Intoxicating Liquors on Sunday. The proceedings were signalised by several of the speakers not only arguing strongly in favour of legal prohibition of the drink traffic on Sunday, but in favour of the right of all men to a seventh day of rest being legally recognised and protected.

In opening the meeting, the Archbishop maintained that from the beginning of Church history, Sunday, or the Lord's Day, has been admitted by all parties and schools of thought to be a day sacred to two objects—bodily repose and refreshment, and spiritual welfare and sanctification. It was not by anything like a decree that the obligations of the Saturday, or Sabbath day of the Jews, were transferred to the Sunday; the process was gradual, and so it appears that just at first there was, no doubt, hesitation as to the precise obligation of Sunday. But as early as the second century, from 140 to 150 A.D., as we find from Justin Martyr, the people gathered together on the Sunday for prayer, for exposition, and for the collection of alms. Doubtless, they returned afterwards to their various duties, but that was probably owing to the fact that Sunday had not yet fully taken the place of the Jewish Sabbath. In the days of Constantine, in 321 A.D. all needless labour was forbidden on the Lord's Day, and at the council of Orleans, in the sixth century, the rule grew in strictness. In the eight century it was very strict, but in the middle ages it relaxed. With growing irreligion, the Lord's Day then became less rigidly observed; the Church rule was not modified, but rather it was defeated by the prevailing laxity. When, therefore, he asserted that the Lord's Day was the right of the whole people for rest of the body and sanctification of the soul, he was neither a Puritan nor a sectarian of any kind, but was simply observing what has been the law of the Church from the first, and defending what has been the charter of the whole of the people, and especially of the working classes.

Proceeding, the Archbishop contended that, as Sunday rest is the right of every man, its recognition ought not to be regarded as belonging to the sphere of local option; but, on the contrary, as belonging to imperial duty. The subject is not even a question between the Jewish Sabbath and the Christian Sunday; for Mr. George Smith found a reference to the keeping of a day of rest in an early Assyrio-Chaldaic inscription, wherein it was shown that, 3800 years ago, in the days of Sargon, the people were forbidden to work, and the king even was forbidden to speak in public, ride in chariots, or perform civil or military duties. So, for a good long time, kings and people have been under obligation not to engage on the rest day in things which occupy other days. It is a kind of law of nature, it having always been found necessary to set apart a day for rest and worship. The object of the Association for Stopping the Sale of Intoxicating Liquors on Sunday is to safeguard these two rights of the people. An easy test of what is permissible to be done on Sunday is found in the right of our brother man; anything which calls upon others to surrender their rights should not be done on the day of rest.

In the course of further remarks, the Archbishop held that the question of closing of public-houses on Sundays should not be left to county boards, but should be recognised as an imperial obligation. It was, he said, his firm belief that the passing of the Sunday Closing Bill would have the effect of diminishing by one-fifth, if not by more than that, the enormous drink bill, which is a scandal and a disgrace to our country. He thought that the outlook was encouraging to the friends of the movement, and he was certain that success would crown their efforts. He referred with pleasure to what had been done in Scotland, Ireland, and Wales, and called upon all who accept the Bible and its teaching to make it known that they want all the people to be so free that they may not be hindered from enjoying the advantages of the Lord's Day for their highest welfare—bodily rest and approach to God.

Canon Stowell having addressed the meeting on the claims of the Society, Rev. Thomas Whitehead moved a resolution in favour of Sunday closing. This was seconded by Mr. T. W. Russell, M.P., who bore a strong testimony to the beneficial operation of Sunday closing in Ireland. Canon Fleming, in a powerful speech, moved a resolution urging Her Majesty's Ministers to give special facilities for the passing of Mr. Stevenson's Bill. This was seconded by Mr. Theodore Fry, M.P. Both resolutions were carried unanimously. Messrs. J. H. Raper, H. Wiggan, and E. Whitwell also spoke.

◆

WITHIN TWELVE HOURS of LONDON.

The season will soon be approaching when many will be thinking of where they can get a little change, combining good air, cheap fares, and a place where they can do service for the Master. Havre combines all these requisites, and also has the recommendation of being a part of God's vineyard, where both foreign and English work can be found in abundance. The port is the second largest in France, and every nationality is to be found there, it may almost be said in abundance. Among the seamen the Mission to Seamen has a missionary, who visits the English steamers coming into port; and the Scandinavian ships are well visited by the Norwegian pastor. Nothing is done at present for the thousands of French, German, Spanish, and other foreign sailors who come in every week. A German emigrant ship comes in every week all the year round, on board of which are to be found about 800 emigrants, chiefly Poles, Hungarians, Russians, and Germans. This ship has been visited occasionally from the Sailors' Home, and a free distribution made of tracts and portions of Scripture in their several languages. The eager way in which they are received is most touching, and the difficulty is to get a sufficient supply of tracts each week to meet the great demand on board this ship.

A work is also much needed to be commenced in visiting the cafés in almost every street in the sailors' quarters, which are the resort of hundreds of seamen of all nations. Five or six of these houses may be found adjoining one another. The keepers of some of the cafés are chiefly responsible for the immense evil done to our poor sailors. They are often boarding-house masters, as well as keepers of the brandy-house, and are ever on the look-out for sailors who are paid off in the port. Knowing that they have wages coming to them, varying in sums from £5 to £80, and in some cases nearly £100, they use every effort to entrap them.

As the seamen in Havre have not the protection secured by the Board of Trade in England, their ships can be boarded at the mouth of the harbour by shoals of men, who give a bottle of rum free to each sailor, knowing that if they take it (and, alas! how often they accept the deadly poison) they will be in a state of helpless intoxication before the ship is brought up to the quay. Meanwhile the crimp undertakes to do Jack's work in heaving the vessel into her moorings; and when brought up he has got the sailor so entirely drugged that he can drag him into his house, which Jack seldom leaves till he has been thoroughly cleaned out of all his hard-earned wages. In some cases £80 has disappeared in about a fortnight, and, instead of going home to enjoy his earnings with his family, as he had looked forward to do, before he fell into the crimp's hands, the sailor finds himself compelled to go out to sea again, often in a more destitute state than before he received his wages.

A Sailors' Home has been established in the Rue Dauphine, and during the last four years has, through God's blessing, done a good work: 1260 men passed through the Home last year, and nearly £8000 of their wages were sent home. Many are the letters which have been received from sailors, expressing gratitude to God for his good hand, which led them to a Christian Home in the midst of such abounding iniquity. The work is beset with difficulties, but God has manifested his love and power in overcoming obstacles that seemed to human eyes almost insurmountable. Large relief has to be given to destitute seamen, in order to prevent them from getting deeper down into misery. If not helped, they would certainly become a prey to the villainy of those who watch for their ruin. Havre is admitted by all sailors to be the wickedest port in the world; compared with it, London, they say, is a paradise. This additional expense of taking in destitute seamen is not incurred by Sailors' Homes in England, there being so many other ways in which they can be helped. Should any reader be disposed to help the work by money, books, or old clothes for the destitute and shipwrecked sailors, these gifts will be gratefully received either by Mr. Fred. Simson, treasurer, 154, Rue Victor Hugo, or the Hon. Lady Beauchamp, 3, Cromwell road, London, S.W.

During the summer months last year, when there were not many English ships coming, the mission-room, in the Sailors' Home, was lent on Sunday and Wednesday evenings for a meeting of Bretons (of whom there are 25,000 in Havre), to hear the Gospel preached in their own language, by a Breton evangelist. Without any outward attraction, the meetings have steadily increased. The mission-hall is filled twice a week with about 120 attentive hearers. Similar meetings have been asked for in other parts of Havre, and in a suburb called Leure a dance-room has been hired in a Breton café, as the only place large enough to contain the many comers. Last week, though snow was falling heavily, they numbered over 150. Two Sunday-schools have been started for the Breton children, who are taught by the evangelist and a French lady, and five meetings are held weekly. Should funds be forthcoming, a simple iron room will be erected for the use of the Bretons exclusively.

Besides these openings among the Bretons, there has been much encouragement lately in the work carried on by Rev. G. Whelpton and Mr. Gray among the French, in connection with the Wesleyans. This work is much crippled by want of helpers, free to give themselves for the needs of the young men and women's classes. Another field for work, which hitherto has been untouched, is the English girls who are employed in cafés and music-halls. May God incline many of his children to come over to Havre, where it can be truly said "the labourers are few." Cannot some be spared from Christian England? Hundreds are going to far distant lands, but are there none who will take the shorter journey of twelve hours, and help their English and French neighbours in a town numbering 110,000. Rouen, too, within half an hour of Havre, has an enormous population of priest-ridden souls, who are waiting to hear the Gospel if any will go and help the tiny band already at work, and whose cry with the workers at Havre is, "Come over and help us."

Any information required in reference to these needs will gladly be supplied by Hon. Lady Beauchamp, 3, Cromwell-road, S.W.

READING FOR THE POOR.—Mr. A. Hickey, Y.M.C.A. Mission Hall, Melior-street, Bermondsey, S.E., writes:—We have a library for lending books to the inmates of the local workhouse, which we are allowed to visit through the kindness of the guardians. Would your readers kindly send to us any books they can spare from their libraries for this purpose. Tracts, Gospel leaflets, or magazines would also be gratefully received for workhouse and hospital distribution.

For the Young.

OUTCASTS IN INDIA.

You will be glad to hear that the Gospel of Jesus Christ is winning its way to the hearts of the people who are looked upon in India as the most polluted and degraded of all. I send you a photo of a group of Pariahs* who came to us beseeching Christian teachers for themselves and their children. I have sent them a teacher for the children, and an evangelist goes weekly to hold a service for them. A small shed has been put up to serve as school and chapel, and when I went there a few weeks ago the children had made good progress towards learning to read, a very difficult thing in Malayalam, and could nearly repeat by heart the Lord's Prayer.

The word "pariah" has obtained a place in the English language, but I do not think your readers can have any adequate idea of what it is to be a pariah here. They earn a precarious living by any kind of work they can get in the field, by making mats and baskets, and by the practice of witchcraft. They eat rice when they can get it, but have mostly to be content with jungle roots, and yam and tapioca roots. Without going into details, they will eat anything in the way of meat, no matter from what cause it died. Of course all this results often enough in frightful disease. You may be sure it is a great joy to us to be the bringers of the glad news of the Saviour and his wondrous work of mercy and love into their dwellings.

I send you also a photo of a group of Vedar women and children, amongst whom the Gospel is finding an entrance. These people are, I believe, the aborigines of the country, but have been driven in course of time away to the hills. They wear strings of beads, made from small shells, of which they are proud, and two of them have their reaping hooks in their hair. The children are sharp and bright enough. There were at least 200 of these people in the place where I took the photo, not one of whom had ever heard that there was a Saviour for them and all men. Up to now I have not been able to send a teacher there, only to have it visited occasionally by the catechists from other places. It would rejoice us to have the means of doing so, and also to send them some medical help.

Photograph No. 3 is a group of Kuravers, amongst whom we have many good and earnest Christians. These work in the rice fields, and are a hardier and more intelligent set of people than the Pariahs or Vedars. The photograph will give you an idea of our mission chapels, with their mud walls and grass-thatched roofs. You will see from this that the Gospel of Jesus Christ is adapted, not only to the rich and intelligent, but to the poor and ignorant; and that it only needs to be presented aright to the hearts of the most degraded and downtrodden (for all these people are to this day called "slaves," though now legally free) to find a ready entrance, and often a hearty acceptance.

The readers of The Christian may be interested to know something of the religious beliefs of these people. They are devil, or rather demon, worshippers. Some profess devil dancing, and deceive the people by professing to cast out devils. These are called Urallies, and, when they become Christians, tell us that it was all lies and pretence, helped on by spirit drinking and furious dancing. But they pretend to have many demons to wait upon them, and to have power to send them wherever and into whomsoever they please. Indeed, there is a regular sale of demons amongst the headmen. But they all unite to deceive the people, and the people believe them to have such powers. I cannot yet find out exactly what the demons are supposed to be, but am told that they are the spirits and shades of tigers and wild animals, also of people who have died of smallpox, those who have committed suicide by drowning or hanging themselves, women who have died in child-birth, unmarried girls, murderers, robbers, thieves, and also that all their ancestors are now such spirits.

They think these demons are the cause of diseases, especially paralysis, and epilepsy; that accidents from fire, water, and falling from trees and deaths by snake-bite are caused by them. Indeed everything amiss is attributed to the demons, and I have seen instances where the people were apparently terror-stricken, and were trembling most violently from supposed demon possession. Of hell, their idea seems to be a place filled with reptiles and poisonous insects. Of heaven they seem to have no idea.

My native Christian teachers tell me that the people do not appear to realise that they have souls until they are taught, they look upon themselves as like the oxen used for ploughing. When they die they are buried away anywhere in the jungle. They look upon the sun and moon as the visible gods, i.e., as far as they think about them at all. To the demons of their ancestors and the other demons, they offer food, rice, plantains, toddy (a native spirituous liquor), putting them on the ground and calling on the demons, after which they eat the things offered. On one occasion I lost, for a time, a congregation of about seventy people, because the headman was bitten by a snake, and the people thought this was because they had come to the chapel.

Under Christian teaching they improve rapidly, both in intelligence and appearance. They leave off stealing, drinking, and the use of bad language; and, more than this, in numbers of cases, they prove earnest and pious Christians. The children read the Bible in the house. There is family prayer, Christian songs and conversation. Their masters and neighbours bear witness to the change which has taken place in them; they show themselves anxious, both for their own salvation and the salvation of others, and give us great cause for rejoicing at being the means of leading them to the Saviour.

In the Quilon district there are fourteen regular congregations, and four just beginning. At the end of last year the number of Christian adherents was 588 men, 547 women, and 612 children; of these 775 have been baptized, and 202 are admitted to the Lord's Supper as church members. Of the adults 262 are now able to read, and by means of the mission schools many of the children are able to read the New Testament and Psalms, and thus the Word of Life is being brought into their homes. For the work the directors have doubled, redoubled, and redoubled again our grants, and several friends have given us generous help. At the same time, we cannot half meet the requests which come to us for Christian teachers. Yours very sincerely,

J. Knowles.

L.M.S., Quilon, Travancore, S. India.

---

* We are sorry not to be able to reproduce the photographs which Mr. Knowles has sent to us.

CHRIST CHURCH, KENSINGTON, LIVERPOOL.

Mr. Hutchinson, Organising Secretary of the Children's Special Service Mission, conducted a mission for children and young people in connection with the above church, from April 8 to 13. The evening meetings were held in the Mission Hall, and were all crowded, and the results most blessed.

One of the chief and encouraging features was that out of 100 who professed to decide for Christ, 70 were members of the Scripture Union. It seemed as if their hearts were first prepared by the reading of God's Word to receive the blessing. And the message spoken so faithfully by Mr. Hutchinson came with great power.

There were three drawing-room meetings, at which there was an average attendance of about 80. Many were found who were members of the Scripture Union, having joined at the seaside. An effort will now be made to gather them together and form a drawing-room branch, with a monthly meeting. The workers, too, have been much blessed and encouraged by the work of this mission.

THE CHILD AND BIBLE.

I have a little Bible,
  My mother gave it me;
And every day I take it out,
  And read it at her knee.
It is a holy Bible,
  It tells me what to do:
To love the Lord with all my heart,
  And also to love you;
To be obedient, gentle, kind,
  The truth to speak alway;
And to remember, when I speak,
  That God hears all I say.
Then I'll love my Bible, I'll read my Bible,
I'll love my Bible, 'tis God's own gift to me.

It is a precious Bible,
  Of Jesus Christ it tells;
And that He loves to look on me,
  Although in heaven He dwells.
It tells me how He died for me.
  So wondrous was his love;
And if I love Him, when I die
  He'll take me up above.
Then I will prize my Bible,
  'Tis God's own gift to me;
And every day I'll read it too,
  Beside my mother's knee.
Then I'll keep my Bible, I'll read my Bible,
I'll love my Bible, 'tis God's owngift to me.

M. H. M.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—The following are the portions for the ensuing week:—Sunday, April 22, Isaiah lviii. 1—14; Monday, April 23, Isaiah lix. 1—13; Tuesday, April 24, Isaiah lix. 14—21; Wednesday, April 25, Isaiah lx. 1—12; Thursday, April 26, Isaiah lx. 13—22; Friday, April 27, Isaiah lxi. 1—11; Saturday, April 28, Isaiah lxiii. 1—12.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.

Mr. Martin J. Hall, Hamond-square, Hoxton, April 16—20. Mr. E. Arrowsmith, on Continent for two months. Messrs. Lidstone and Hutchinson, Ipswich, April 17—19. Mr. T. Lewes Sayer, Kilburn, April 16—20; Stockwell Orphanage, April 23—26; Romford, April 29 to May 4. Mr. Josiah Spiers, Wakefield, April 24 to May 5 Park Chapel, Camden Town, May 7—19; Assembly Rooms, Malvern, June 3—15; Skating Rink, Croydon, July 2—13. Mr. George Banaster, Dorking, April 21—30.

MR. J. P. COHEN.—Ill-health has compelled this honoured servant of the Lord to relinquish his work of faith and labour of love among his brethren according to the flesh. In a recent letter he says: "For the past forty-five years I have been engaged in making known to the Jews the Saviour's love. In looking back to these many happy years of service for the Lord, my heart is cheered when I think how graciously He has been pleased to own and bless my humble efforts in the conversion of many Jews and Jewesses, of whom Miss Lydia Montefiore, the aunt of the late Sir Moses Montefiore, was one." Mr. Cohen's doctors have advised him change of scene and society, and for the past twelve months he has been compelled, at great expense, to keep on the move. He intimates that his means are limited, and that assistance would be very acceptable. Mr. Cohen's present address is—House of Rest, 20, Devonshire-road, Hastings.

ST. JOHN'S SERVANTS' SCHOOL, Great Western-road, Westbourne-park, W., is an institution wherein young girls are trained for service and other honourable openings in life. During last year there were 107 girls in the house, and 33 were sent out. Every endeavour is made to implant sound principles in the minds, and to commend the Gospel to the hearts of the children, so that they may go into the world fortified to resist temptation, and equipped for the service of God. As the girls leave the school, they are invited to join the St. John's branch of the Y.W.C.A., and the monthly letter is sent to them. Since the branch was formed, five years ago, 158 girls have joined, and 136 still remain members. These measures do not by any means exhaust the loving efforts made for the good of those who come under the care of the managers of the school, of which the Dowager Lady Kinnaird is President, and Lord Kinnaird honorary treasurer.

The Christian.

April 20, 1888.

CONTENTS.

The Late Mr. George Brealey 1
The Spirit of Man 3
The Catacombs 3
"Where is their God?" 4
Abraham: God's Friend 4
"I hope so" 6
Pastors and Evangelists 6
The Lord's-Day Obligation 7
Within Twelve Hours of London .. 7
Outcasts in India 8
London's Young Men 13
The Salvation Army in India 14
The State of Madagascar........14
The McAll Mission 14
"Lengthening the Cords" 15
New Zealand Notes 15
Special Mission in India 15
Notes and Comments 16
Miss Booth's Marriage..........18
Ambassadors of Christ..........18
Factory Girls in Spitalfields 19
The New Home of Industry 19
Notes from the North 25
News of the Churches 29

HODDER & STOUGHTON'S LIST.

NOW READY, IN 8vo., PRICE 7s. 6d.

THE DIVINE PROGRAMME OF THE WORLD'S HISTORY.

By Mr. and Mrs. H. GRATTAN GUINNESS,

BY THE SAME AUTHORS.

Light for the Last Days. A Study, Historical and Prophetical. With Diagrams. Crown 8vo., 7s. 6d.

The Approaching End of the Age, Viewed in the Light of History, Prophecy, and Science. Tenth Edition. Enlarged and revised. With Three Diagrams. Crown 8vo., 7s. 6d.

Romanism and the Reformation, from the Standpoint of Prophecy. By Rev. H. Grattan Guinness. Crown 8vo., 5s.

NEW VOLUME OF DR. PARKER'S PEOPLE'S BIBLE.

Now Ready, Vol. VIII., price 8s.

I. KINGS XV.—I. CHRONICLES IX. Discourses on Holy Scripture. By Joseph Parker, D.D., Minister of the City Temple.

Vol. I. The Book of Genesis. 8s.
Vol. II. The Book of Exodus. 8s.
Vol. III. Leviticus—Numbers xxvi. 8s.
Vol. IV. Numbers xxvii.—Deuteronomy. 8s.
Vol. V. Joshua—Judges v. 8s.
Vol. VI. Judges vi.—1 Samuel xviii. 8s.
Vol. VII. 1 Samuel xviii.—1 Kings xiii. 8s.

"No one can peruse this work without being struck by the admirable blending in it of the popular and the thoughtful. . . The book teems with subtle and profound thinking, and throbs with vitality."—The Christian.

NEW WORK BY DR. PENTECOST.—Price 1s. 6d., cloth.

A SOUTH WINDOW; or, "Keep Yourselves in the Love of God." By George F. Pentecost, D.D., Author of "The Angel in the Marble," &c.

MR. NEWBERRY'S NEW BOOK—In Royal 8vo., price 3s. 6d, cloth.

COMPANION TO THE ENGLISHMAN'S BIBLE. By Thomas Newberry, Author of "Notes on the Book of Revelation," &c.

Crown 8vo., price 6s.

THE INSPIRED WORD. A Series of Papers, Edited by A. T. Pierson, D.D.

London: HODDER & STOUGHTON, 27, Paternoster Row, E.C.

A BOOK FOR YOUNG MEN.

JAMES SCOTT: A Labourer for God.

By REV. ANDREW A. BONAR, D.D.,

Author of "Memoir of Rev. R. M. McCheyne," "A Commentary on Leviticus," &c., &c.

With PORTRAIT and two other ILLUSTRATIONS.

In Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.

CONTENTS.

A Century of Revival Work in Glasgow.
How a Special Instrument was Prepared.
The Labourer in the Midst of His Work.
The Work Going on.
The Labourer Called Aside.
The Labourer in the sunset of his short day.
Appendix.

"From Messrs. Morgan & Scott we have a touching tribute to one who filled up a short life with bright and blessed service. The volume is entitled, 'James Scott, a Labourer for God,' and is from the loving pen of Dr. Andrew Bonar. Mr. Scott was converted through the instrumentality of a devoted 'elder,' Mr. John Muir, of Glasgow, who visited him as a 'seat-holder,' and unfolded to him the way of life. A rich encouragement this to the 'elders of the church' to use their office well! Who shall tell how many James Scotts are just ripe for such influence as theirs?"

British Messenger.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings;
Edinburgh and Glasgow: J. MENZIES & CO.; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

JUST READY.

By the REV. J. A. WYLIE, LL.D.,

Author of "The History of Protestantism;" "The Papacy: its History, Dogmas, Genius, and Prospects," &c., &c.

WHICH SOVEREIGN: QUEEN VICTORIA, or THE POPE?

Abridged Edition of 100,000 Copies. Price Threepence, or 2s. 8d. per Dozen.

Special Terms for Large Quantities, for Distribution, on Application.

This telling Treatise by the veteran Protestant writer, Dr. Wylie, could not have appeared more opportunely than in the present year (1888)—when we are about to commemorate the TER-CENTENARY, or the three-hundredth Anniversary, of the defeat of the attempted Invasion of our country by the Spanish Armada; and the BI-CENTENARY, or two-hundredth Anniversary, of the Accession in 1688 of the Protestant dynasty to the throne of the United Kingdom.

ALSO BY REV. J. A. WYLIE, LL D.

THE SPANISH ARMADA: 1588.

Being an Account of the Events preceding, and a concise Narrative of the Defeat of the Spanish Armada.

Reprinted from the Author's "History of Protestantism," by permission of Messrs. Cassell & Co.

32 pages, Demy 8vo. Price 1d.

This will be found a most interesting, striking, and accurate narrative of the attempted invasion of England in 1588.

THE REVOLUTION of 1688.

A Retrospect

From John Wycliffe to William of Orange.

Being an Historical Account of the events preceding the Revolution—events so strikingly paralleled by the state of England at the present time.

32 pages Demy 8vo. Price 1d.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

JUST PUBLISHED.

WHITHER ARE WE DRIFTING? or, The Progress of England Rome-wards.

By the Right Hon. LORD ROBERT MONTAGU,

Author of "Recent Events—and a Clue to Their Solution;" "Reasons for Leaving the Romish Church;" &c., &c.

Price 2d. 12 copies sent post free for 2s.

CONTENTS.

The Present Attitude of the English Church.
A Personal Retrospect.
The Dæmones.
Tombs or Shrines.
Reverence of Relics.
Worship of Images.
Pagan Rites and Worship.
Lighted Candles.
Holy Water.
On Fastings.
The Early Christians and Paganism.
The Adulteration of Christianity.
The "Pontifex Maximus."
Closing Words.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

THE CHRISTIAN CHOIR.

An Attractive Quarto Volume of Music and Words.

By IRA D. SANKEY and JAMES McGRANAHAN.

May be had either in OLD NOTATION or in TONIC SOL-FA.

"It is as fine a collection of Sacred Airs as can anywhere be found. All the Hymns and the Tunes are beautiful, impressive, gracious; and the rendering of them, and the hearing them sung in private or public alike, have led many to change their whole course of life."—Oldham Chronicle.

"Of this Sacred Song Book it is scarcely needful for us to say a word. Thousands have listened and thousands have sung them, and will retain their good impressions when all the mists have rolled away."—Baptist Messenger.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE CHRISTIAN CHOIR.

WORDS ONLY—LARGE TYPE.

Price Sixpence, in Tinted Covers.
Price Ninepence, in Limp Cloth.
Price One Shilling, in Cloth Bds., gilt edges.

THE CHRISTIAN CHOIR.

WORDS ONLY.

Price One Penny, Tinted Covers.
Price Twopence, in Cloth.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS, &c., Whitechapel, E.

Received with much thankfulness from E. N. M., £1; Anonymous, Clothing.

S.S.—About 350 children attend the Free Ragged Day Schools. Our plan is to get rid of the rags as soon as possible, and our poor scholars looking neat and clean.

The Infant Day Nursery. The Free Ragged Schools. Rations of Food to Hungry Children. Temporary Shelter for Poor Children. Industrial Classes for Boys. Meetings and Classes for Rough Boys. Meetings, Classes, Tea-room, Library, &c., for Elder Girls and Young Women. Mothers' Meetings. Mission to Inebriate Women. Room to Room Visitation, by Missionary, Bible-woman, and Nurse. Evangelistic Services and other Agencies in operation.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 65, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to GEORGE HOLLAND, The Ragged Schools, George Yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E.

THE BENEVOLENT OR STRANGERS' FRIEND SOCIETY.

Treasurer, Ald. Sir R. N. Fowler, Bart., M.P.
J. H. Anderson, Esq., Chairman.
Clarence Smith, Esq., J.P., Hon. Secretary

The 102nd ANNUAL MEETING will be held at the MANSION HOUSE on Friday, April 27, at 3 o'clock.

The Right Hon. the LORD MAYOR will preside. Speakers: Major and Sheriff DAVIES; Mr. Sheriff HIGGS; the Right Hon. the EARL OF ABERDEEN; Hy. Broadhurst, Esq., M.P.; Rev. A. W. Momerie, M.A.; Ald. Sir R. N. Fowler, Bart., M.P.; W. A. McArthur, Esq., M.P.; Horace B. Marshall, Jun., Esq., B.A., and others.

Admission by ticket only, which can be obtained free of charge at the Office, 52, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

THE CHURCH ARMY ANNUAL MEETING, Princes Hall, Piccadilly, Wednesday, May 2, at 3 p.m., the Lord BISHOP OF MARLBOROUGH presiding, supported by five hundred C.A. Clergy, Officer-Evangelists, and Soldiers.—At the same place, on the same evening, at 7.30, Consecration Convention. Subject: Personal Devotion to the Cause of Christ and the Evangelization of the World. The Very Rev. the DEAN OF RIPON in the chair. Funds are urgently needed. Cheques and Postal orders crossed "Barclay, Bevan & Co., account, The Church Army," should be sent to Headquarters, 128 and 130, Edgware-road, London, W., payable to the Rev. W. CARLILE, Hon. Sec.

JERUSALEM, ISRAEL, AND THE BIBLE.—Mr. and Mrs. D. C. JOSEPH, of the Evangelical Mission to Israel, Jerusalem, are (the Lord willing) returning to England for a short time. Mr. Joseph is open for Lectures on the above subject. Ministers of the Gospel, secretaries of Christian Young Men's Associations, and superintendents of Sunday-schools can communicate to Miss MORGAN, office of Messiah's Witness, 138, Clifden-road, Clapton, London. The Lectures will be on the behalf of the Mission to Israel in Jerusalem.

WOMEN'S MEDICAL MISSION, Midwifery Branch, 143, Clapham-road. Monthly Nurse, disengaged April 15 next. Appointments in town at a day's notice.
SECRETARY, M. M. Branch, as above.

CONVALESCENT HOMES, at Bournemouth and Sandgate.—For particulars apply to Mr. JOHN JAMES JONES, Director of the London Samaritan Society, 93, High-street, Homerton, London, E.

ANXIETY OF SOUL. — Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear, are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

REV. J. W. ATKINSON, 308, Old Ford-road, London, E., Urgently Appeals for Help for Aged and Sick East London Destitute but Honest Poor, to whom the Spring days bring little comfort. Also Free Meals for poor little helpless Children. Every gift promptly acknowledged.

DIVINE HEALING and Power for Service.—Meetings conducted by the Rev. JOHN ALLEN or his workers. Bishopsgate (32, Spital-square), Tuesdays, 7.30 p.m. Camberwell Gate (The Hall, Horsley-street), Tuesdays, 7 p.m. Hackney (Trinity Church, Triangle, Mare-street), Sundays, 3 p.m.; Mondays, 7 p.m.; on Fridays, Baptism of the Spirit, 7 p.m.
Postal address, Balclutha Lodge, Southgate, N.

ZENANA MEDICAL COLLEGE, 58, St. George's-road, S.W. The Committee plead for funds on behalf of a Distressed Protestant Irish Lady, who earnestly desires to devote herself to Zenana Missionary work. Miss Neale, £5.
Hon. Sec., Dr. GRIFFITH.

NOT YOURS, BUT YOU.

The Women's C.E. Missionary Association desires to increase the number of its members. Work at home and abroad needs many more labourers.

Who will help in the Lord's harvest field?

The Jerusalem Mission will take away several workers from service here.

Who will fill their places?

Who will go abroad?

Who is ready to say, "Here am I, send me, anywhere"?

Contributions are received by the Hon. Treasurer, Rev. H. PELHAM-STOKES, Wareham Vicarage, Dorset; Miss M. A. LLOYD, Hon. Secretary, 143, Clapham-road, S.W., to whom inquiries should be addressed.

Educational.

MORAVIAN LADIES' SCHOOL, Bedford.—Accommodation for thirty boarders and eighteen day scholars. Pupils prepared for Cambridge Local and R.A.M. examinations.—For terms and all particulars, apply to Miss SKIPPERTH

BRITISH and FOREIGN SAILORS' SOCIETY.

LEGACIES RECEIVED for the VICTORIA and ALBERT MEMORIAL FUND, to assist our aged Missionaries (themselves chiefly sailors). Already upwards of £4,000 (equivalent) given and promised.

Patron—H.R.H. PRINCE ALBERT VICTOR.

LORD BRASSEY (President) "pleads with increased confidence."

LORD BISHOP OF LONDON (Vice-President), presiding at the Mansion House Meeting, "wished the Society's operations better success, and hoped the fund of £10,000 would be completed this Jubilee Year."

Contributions may be sent to the Treasurer, THOMSON HANKEY, Esq., Bank of England; or to the Secretary, EDWARD W. MATTHEWS, Sailors' Institute, London, E.

EDUCATION.—High-class School for Young Ladies.—Principal, Mrs. HALE, A.C.P. and F.S.Sc. London, 1, Carlton-mansions, Clapham-rise, London.—Visiting masters, certificated governesses; and careful personal supervision with home comforts. Pupils prepared for any examination. Instruction made pleasant, and no overworking countenanced. French, German, Latin, drawing, class-singing, and drilling are included in the school fees, which are moderate. Highly recommended by parents of pupils, and Rev. C. H. Spurgeon. Prospectus and testimonials on application to Principal.

"Balham, May 29, 1880.

"I am very reluctant to recommend schools, because I am not always able to judge of the interior arrangements; but in this case I have the utmost pleasure in standing as reference. I can highly commend Mrs. Hale, and have the greatest confidence in her capacity, management, and character, having known her for several years."
C. H. SPURGEON.

FINISHING SCHOOL for Gentlemen's Daughters. Refined, Christian home-life. Careful moral training. High-class instruction. French and German habitually spoken. — Miss ESSER, Rockfield, Lansdowne-road, East Croydon, Surrey.

OCKBROOK MORAVIAN LADIES' SCHOOL, established eighty years. Pupils successfully prepared for the public examinations. Particularly healthy situation. Term will commence May 4.—Apply for particulars to Miss OSBORNE, Ockbrook, Derby.

EXETER.—Rougemont School, 5, Bradninch-place, Principal, Miss WREFORD.—Pupils prepared for Oxford, Cambridge, and Trinity College Examinations. Careful Christian training. Home comforts. Terms moderate.

MALVERN, FONTHILL HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL FOR GIRLS. Careful training and home comforts. Resident English and foreign governesses. Visiting professors. Vacancy for a student on half terms.—Principals, the Misses GEATER.

HOME SCHOOL for Girls. Limited number of Boarders. Good education, based on Bible teaching, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness." Pupils prepared for the various Exams. Kindergarten for Juniors. Terms inclusive. Recommended by R. C. Morgan and parents of pupils.—Mrs. SILVESTER, Clarence House, Pellatt-grove, Wood Green.

BRIGHTON.—A few vacancies in a High-class School for Girls. Healthy and pleasant situation. Home comforts. Every educational advantage. Professors in attendance. Terms moderate.
Misses NORTON, Farndon House, Stanford-road

MISS FLETCHER wishes to tell her friends that she has safely returned from Africa by the Trojan, and hopes to recommence School, April 19, assisted by her Masters, T. H. Davis, Esq., M.A. Oxon; T. J. Simon, Esq. She looks forward to meeting her boys at London Bridge, on day mentioned.

HEALTH AND EDUCATION among the Surrey hills. Christian home life, with carefully superintended studies.—Misses SHRIMPTON & GERDS, Chertsey House, Redhill.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—Comfortable Home. Good education for little Boys and Girls, with mother's care. Moderate terms. Can remain during holidays. Reference, Rev. H. W. Childs, Southend.
PRINCIPAL, Belle Vue House, Stanley-road.

GERMAN PASTOR receives one or two sons of Gentlemen. Personal care. Christian influence. Happy home. Healthy situation. Terms moderate. Highest references, in London.
PASTOR FÜRER, Cassel, Prussia, Germany.

A LADY WISHES to recommend an old-established School for the daughters of Gentlemen, situated in one of the healthiest suburbs in the south-west of London. Large modern house, with good garden and tennis court. The Principals, who belong to the Evangelical Church of England, take great interest in the religious and moral training of their pupils, giving them also a sound education, combined with home comforts. Resident foreign governess, visiting masters.—For prospectus, apply to
Mrs. SPENCER, 14, Beauchamp-place, Brompton.

HIGH-CLASS CHRISTIAN SCHOOL for the Daughters of Gentlemen.—Miss PENN receives a limited number of pupils. Efficient resident governesses and visiting masters. Individual Christian influence. Home comforts. Large house and garden. Entire charge taken of pupils from abroad. Languages and music specialities. Young Ladies are also received to pursue certain studies only, or to take lessons in dressmaking, cooking, &c.
St. John's de Ocklynge, Eastbourne.

LUOTON SCHOOL, HENFIELD, (near Brighton). Home School for Girls. Every educational advantage of High Class schools, based on Christian principles. Boys also received, with entirely separate supervision, under the care of Mr. E. J. H. Churcher, M.R.C.P., and F.S.Sc. London. Great experience with foreign pupils. From five guineas per term. References.—Address,
LADY PRINCIPAL.

RECIPROCAL TERMS. — Young Lady (19) wishes to enter a good school, conducted on sound Christian principles, where she can teach music, and receive lessons in music and singing. Passed Trinity Coll. exams. Jun. and Sen. Practical, Jun. Theory. Twelve months' good testimonial.
M. H., 17, Barn-hill, Stamford.

EDUCATION FOR LITTLE BOYS in Brighton.—The Misses ASHBY receive young Gentlemen for Board and Education, at 3, Lansdowne-road. Constant attention is paid to health and comfort, and the pleasures of home are combined with the regulations of school.

EDUCATIONAL HOME for Girls, combining a first-class education, including languages and accomplishments, with systematic training in light domestic work and cooking. Evangelical ministry. Pupils prepared for the College of Preceptors' examinations. Inclusive fee 12 guineas a term, payable in advance.
W. S. C., 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street, E.C.

HASTINGS, 5, Coburg-place.— A comfortable Boarding School for young children, conducted by Mrs. Matthews, late of Highbury-New-park, London. A thorough Christian training will be given. Children may also be received during holidays, with every home comfort. Terms on application. References kindly permitted to Rev. E. A. STUART, of Holloway, and other clergymen.

HIGH-CLASS CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.—School situated in one of the healthiest suburbs of S.W. London. A small number of young ladies, resident pupils only. Refined and Christian influence. Careful mental and moral culture. University Professors attend. Special advantages for modern languages and accomplishments. Preparation for Local examinations when desired. Entire charge of pupils from abroad.—PRINCIPAL, care of Marshall Brothers, 10, Paternoster-row, E.C.

EDUCATION. — Choice of 100 Schools and Families (gratis) in England, France, Germany, &c. Parents seeking really good schools, governesses, High school teachers, or companions, should apply for prospectuses and reliable information to Mrs. EDWIN HOOPER, Governess Institute and Home, Compton-terrace, London, N. Established several years.

DUSSELDORF ON THE RHINE.—In a highly educated German family, a few Ladies will find comfortable home, pleasant society, best opportunity to study Conserv. music, painting, and German. Terms £5 a month. Highest English references.
Mrs. HAAG, Marschallstrasse 4.

SEASIDE EDUCATION. — High-class Home School for a few Girls. Thorough teaching; Christian training. Highly recommended by parents of pupils. One vacancy on reduced terms.
The Misses ROBINSON, 5, Sussex-place, Southsea.

SOUTH COAST.—A Christian Home with Superior Education is offered for Girls by a Lady resuming scholastic work. Terms on application. References to former patrons and parents of pupils.—E., care of Miss Lance, 70, Tranquil Vale, Blackheath.

HIGH-SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Clevedon, Somerset. — Head Mistresses, The Misses THOMAS and SALMON. Boarders received. Referees, Joseph Storrs Fry, Esq.; Rev. J. Victor; James Wright, Esq., Co-Director Ashley Down Orphan Houses.

CHRISTIAN PARENTS seeking School for Boys, where the Scriptures form the basis of all religious instruction, are invited to apply for prospectus of Alma House School, Wood Green, N.—Address PRINCIPAL.

INWORTH HALL SCHOOL, Kelvedon, Essex. (Boys.) Thorough commercial education, 24 guineas, including French, laundress, and books. Unlimited diet, happy home, lovely grounds. No quarter's notice. No corporal punishment.
Address, PRINCIPAL.

OPENING FOR LESSONS, or Tutorship, required by Oxford Graduate (married). Some years' experience in tuition. England or Continent.
C. W., 2, Highview-road, Upper Norwood, S.E.

LONDON UNIVERSITY EXAMINATIONS.—Experienced Tutor prepares by Correspondence. Reading prescribed, questions set, answers carefully corrected, and hints given each week.—W. H. ALEXANDER, B.A., 5, Bishopsgate Without, London, E.C.

CHRISTIAN TRAINING HOME for Governesses, to spread Evangelical Scriptural Truths, with sound, improved Secular Knowledge, and situations provided. Terms nominal. Age 15 to 25. Kind, healthy home.—DIRECTRESS, 74, Marquess-road, Canonbury, London, N.

TO PARENTS.—A Lady educating a few children with her own, can receive one or two as Boarders. A thoroughly happy Christian home.
F., care of Mr. Nunn, Stacpool-road, Bristol.

AS GOVERNESS to Children under 12. Acquirements, English, French, music, and drawing. References given and required.
Miss E. M. B., Rutherford Lodge, Worthing, Sussex.

HIGHBURY HOUSE SCHOOL, St. Leonards-on-Sea.—Boys received from 6 to 18 years of age. Three separate Departments. Juniors under the care of Ladies, Seniors under a staff of seven Resident Masters, thoroughly qualified to prepare for commerce, public schools, or universities. Delicate boys specially cared for. Summer term commences May 5. Cricket, athletic sports, gymnastics, sea bathing, and swimming.—For prospectus, apply to Mrs. DUFF, the Lady Principal.

EDUCATION IN HIGHGATE.—Rev. G. D. BARTLET, M.A., receives fourteen boarded pupils (from ten years) at his residence, South-grove, Highgate. Superior home, individual attention, thorough grounding, and careful Christian training. Highgate is strongly recommended by the medical profession. Reference permitted to Revs. J. M. Gibbon, Highgate, and Robert Balgarnie, 51, Crouch-hill, Crouch-end. Terms from 20 guineas per term.

MANY CHRISTIAN PARENTS, who at the present time are seeking a School at which to place their Sons, are invited to write to the undermentioned, who is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMAN'S BOARDING SCHOOL, where the constant aim of the Principal is to train those committed to his care in the fear of the Lord; and by the power of Gospel teaching maintain a Christian tone among the boys, combining this with a thorough and first-class Education.

The Premises are advantageously situated upon HIGH GROUND, NEAR and WITH VIEWS OF THE SEA, on the South Coast, a short run from London, and afford especial facilities for outdoor recreation.

Prospectus and Papers of Examinations passed and honours gained will be forwarded on application, together with a BOOK OF some of the TESTIMONIALS presented by parents of present and past scholars.
Dr. THORN, Paddington, London.

NEW COLLEGE,

Cliftonville, Margate.

Head Master: REV. G. HUGH JONES, F.A.S.

Latin, Greek, French, German, and thorough English. Preparation for Exams., public schools, and commerce. Resident foreign master. Decided Christian training. Splendid premises, close to sea. Moderate fees.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL for Little Boys, conducted by a Lady of great experience, and with high recommendations. Very comfortable home for the children of parents going abroad.
PRINCIPAL, Heath, Ilkley, Yorkshire.

THE OLD HALL SCHOOL,

WELLINGTON, SHROPSHIRE.

A High-class School for the Sons of Gentlemen. Established 1845. Principal: DR. CRANAGE, M.A.; Vice-Principal: ROBERT WESTON, Esq., B.A., T.C.D.

MOUNT RADFORD SCHOOL, Exeter. —Boys are prepared for business or professional life. Many matriculate at the various universities. During the last twelve years pupils have obtained more than two hundred certificates (many passing in honours) in the Oxford, Cambridge, College of Preceptors', and London University Examinations. Special attention paid to juniors, who are taught by a lady. The Word of God is made the sole basis of a careful moral and spiritual training, and none but Christian teachers are employed. Cricket, athletics, &c.
Head Master, E. H. VINE, M.C.P.

BRIGHTON.—EDUCATION.— Mr. ALFRED CLARK, B.A. (Lond.), receives about twenty Sons of Gentlemen, from seven to fourteen years of age. Terms from 45 guineas. Pupils are thoroughly grounded in English subjects, Latin, Greek, French, German, and mathematics, and have been successful at Cambridge Local and other Examinations. Personal care, Christian influence, and a healthy, happy home.—85, Buckingham-road, Brighton.—Referees: Mrs. W. Poole Balfern, Brighton; Rev. F. Cruse, Christ Church Vicarage, Worthing; Rev. J. B. Figgis, Brighton; Mr. and Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness, Harley House, Bow-road, London; Rev. W. Haslam, 66, Marina, St. Leonard's. Term commences May 4.

STANLEY HOUSE, Cliftonville, Margate.—The Principal (A. E. COZENS, M.C.P.), assisted by a graduate of London University, seeks by careful, individual attention, to secure the well-being of each Pupil. Drilling, dumb-bells, class-singing, Conv. French, German, &c., are included in the school course. Preparation for Exams. Terms moderate and inclusive.

YOUR BOYS will have a Christian home and sound education with Mr. and Mrs. DIXON, Middle Class School, Kingston-on-Thames. Abundant diet. Beautiful neighbourhood. 20 to 30 guineas yearly. Prospectus. Jesus only.

CLIFTON, BRISTOL.—Pupils received in residence. Home comforts. Careful personal Christian training and instruction. Locality noted for its great natural attractions and exceptional healthfulness. Open Brethren.
Mr. HOWELL, Aberdeen-road.

EAST CLIFF SCHOOL, Wootton-gardens, Bournemouth. Head Master, Mr. J. H. Tuckwell (Intermediate London University).—The course of instruction is adapted to prepare pupils for commercial or professional life. Comfortable Christian home. Terms moderate. References kindly permitted to the Rev. J. ANGUS, D.D., The College, Regent's-park, London.

A LADY HELP wanted (Evangelical). Will have to assist in education of two girls, aged over twelve years. Must be over 25, highly accomplished, and pleasant in manners. Salary £35. Advertiser Nonconformist.—Apply, stating previous engagements, &c., to A. B., care of Messrs. Arnott & Co., 73, Pilgrim-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

AN EXPERIENCED MUSIC GOVERNESS required in Ladies' College. Must have passed pupils for the Trinity College or Royal Academy of Music, and be competent to teach solo and class-singing.—Write, stating salary required and full particulars, to PRINCIPALS, Ashby House, 19, Wickham-road, St. John's, S.E.

COMPANION-PUPIL (finishing).—Summer term. A Christian Lady would receive a Gentleman's Daughter as above, on easy terms. Superior advantages. Healthy situation. Highest references.—PRINCIPAL, Westhill House, Newmarket-road, Norwich.

NURSERY GOVERNESS required, in a clergyman's family, to take entire charge of two boys, aged 8 and 6. Clergyman's daughter preferred, and one accustomed to and fond of boys. English, rudiments of Latin, and music.
Mrs. DRIFFIELD, Wold Rectory, Northampton.

DAILY GOVERNESS, to instruct three little girls in good English, elementary French, and music, and to help with younger child. Earnest Christian desired.
Mrs. WHITLOCK, 4, Kensal-place, Kensal-green.

A LADY DESIRES a re-engagement as Governess or Companion, in a Christian family. Thorough English; conversational French, elementary Latin, music. Willing to assist in parish or domestic work. Seven years' experience. Salary £40.—B., Glenwood, Westcombe-park, Blackheath.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Wanted.

ALBERT AND FRANK RAVILIOUS having conducted Gospel Services at Tonbridge for three years, are now open for engagements, Town or country. References given.
Christian Mission, Old Town Hall, Tonbridge.

MAN AND WIFE (without children), middle-aged, converted, and abstainers, seek care of Mission-hall. Can take services, or take management of Temperance Coffee-house with Mission work, or any place of trust. Willing to be useful. Can give highest references.—W. H. B., Little Heath, Fog-lane, Burnage, near Manchester.

YOUNG MAN, experienced. House to house visitation, and other missionary work; or could act as Clerk, Bookkeeper, Collector, any position of trust, giving other services voluntarily. Country town preferred.—THEOPHILUS, Box P., 2534, Smith's Agency, 132, Fleet-street, E.C.

GENTLEMAN can highly recommend his late Coachman. Steady, trustworthy Christian. Abstainer. Married. Two children. Age 36. 9½ years' character. Left through giving up carriage.
W., 9, Victoria-place, Duppas-hill, Croydon.

CLERGYMAN wishes to recommend a young Man (Christian) as Porter, Timekeeper, or in any position where thoroughly conscientious service would be appreciated. Most deserving case.
VICAR, 48, Rosebery-road, Brixton.

WILL ANYONE TAKE a smart, energetic young Man, age 24, as Barman in a Coffee-palace. Been used to public-house and business. Not a Christian, but anxious. Good references.—OLIPHANT, care of H. Ling, Bookseller, Dorchester.

WANTED, BY YOUNG MAN (28), situation in warehouse, place of trust, or otherwise. Many years' good character. Christian, and total abstainer.—R. D., 25, Brill-street, Somers' Town.

AS UNDER-GARDENER.—A Lady would be glad to recommend a respectable Youth, aged 20. Understands green-houses, &c. Can have six years' good character. An abstainer.—Miss GARRETT, Blacklands Hall, Cavendish, Suffolk.

THE REV. A. B. VALPY is anxious to find a place for a handy Boy, aged 15, either for indoors, or out-of-door work.
Stanford Rectory, Reading.

A MATRON requires re-engagement in Orphanage or similar institution. 5½ years with Miss Sharman.
M. B., 2, North-road, Clapham-park.

BIBLE-WOMAN.—An energetic Christian. Nonconformist. In or near London. References kindly allowed to Minister.
Miss CARPENTER, 65, Lewisham-road, S.E.

AS MATRON in Girls' Training Home or Orphanage. Experienced in training children. Wanted by Christian Woman (40). Nonconformist. Good needlewoman. Good references.—M. BOND, Vine Cottage, Brasted, Kent.

PLACE OF TRUST wanted by a useful young Man (married), in America or Canada, where he would have opportunity of assisting in Mission work.
H. W., 35, Clarmont-road, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

A LADY WISHES to recommend a young Woman, educated, well-trained, and domesticated. Would be very valuable as Mother's Help, or Companion Attendant to elderly and invalids. Would make herself generally useful. Salary not under £16. Age about 20.
Mrs. FRY, Woodburn, Darlington.

HOUSEKEEPER OR USEFUL HELP.—Re-engagement desired. Careful manager. Would assist a Lady with her family, or wait upon an invalid. Small salary.—A. R., care of Mr. Austen, Burgate-street, Canterbury.

HOUSEKEEPER, COMPANION, or any position of trust. A person of 33 years of age seeks an engagement. Understands nursing sick. Highest references.—A. E. H., 8, Rochampton-street, Vauxhall-bridge-road, S.W.

A LADY (35), domesticated and fond of housekeeping, wishes to assist a Lady with the care of her home, a school, or institution, in return for comfortable Christian home.—ALPHA, care of Lady Superintendent, Y.W.C.A., 3, Lower-Moira-place, Southampton.

HOUSEKEEPER to Gentleman, or any position of trust. Thoroughly domesticated. Good needlewoman. Middle-aged. Could read aloud, or act as amanuensis. Good references.—Miss L., care of Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street, E.C.

A MASSEUSE AND ELECTRICIAN (Hospital trained) desires engagement, resident or daily, or as COMPANION, combining Massage treatment. Town or country. No objection to travel.
Miss LAMBERT, 316, Regent-street, London.

A SUPERIOR PERSON seeks a situation where she could take charge of one child, and act as Maid to a Christian Lady. Good needlewoman. State wages.
E., 7, Egremont-place, Brighton.

A LADY WISHES to recommend for any position of trust in a Home or Institution a true Christian, who has had experience in dealing with girls. Age 50.—For further information, apply to Miss ALVEY, 193, Wilford-road, Nottingham.

AS LADY'S MAID, or Lady's Companion. A Christian. Aged 28. Trained needlewoman.—E. O., care of Rev. Dr. Mahan, 55, Grand Parade, Eastbourne.

AS NURSE or Housekeeper.—A Christian person seeks a situation as Assistant Matron; or Matron in a small Home; or Housekeeper to an elderly couple, widow, or widower; or Nurse to an invalid Lady; or any place of trust. Accustomed to children of all ages. A Dissenter. Age 30.—A. LUXFORD, 7, Egerton-mansions, Brompton-road, London, S.W.

EXPERIENCED LADY'S MAID, age 36, seeks situation with one Lady. Three years' character. London or Brighton preferred. Christian Lady wished for.
S. DALE, 30, Brunswick-square, Brighton.

MRS. GREGORY, Brighton, recommends a trustworthy person as Attendant on an invalid Lady, or as useful Maid. Excellent needlewoman. A quiet Christian home appreciated.
H. H., 323, Vauxhall Bridge-road, London, S.W.

WANTED, BY AN ELDERLY SEAFARING MAN, age 60, who is tired of the rough life on the high seas, some employment on shore, if possible at docks, or some occupation in connection with shipping. Has held position as first officer. Salary of little account if suitable occupation and board and lodging found. First-class references.
C. H., Passmore, Stationer, Cheapside, E.C.

BOARDING SCHOOLS OR HOMES.—A Worker, of experience, seeks employment in either of the above, as Superintendent, Housekeeper, or Matron. Accustomed to large numbers.
A. B., Ebley Villa, near Stroud, Gloucester.

A YOUNG LADY wishes to obtain a position as Companion. Good reader. Would not object to travel.—Miss GOULTY, 2, Sussex-square, Brighton, kindly allows her name for reference and address.

A LADY, experienced, sincere, wishes appointment to assist generally, control household, or travel with Lady or family. Worker; helpful in any way. Reliable references.
ALMA, Cherwell House, Mortimer-crescent, N.W.

MRS. PRICE HUGHES wishes to find a situation for a thoroughly trustworthy, respectable, middle-aged Woman. Excellent needlewoman. Could take any situation for light housework and needlework; or as Attendant upon invalid.—8, Taviton-street, Gordon-square, W.C.

THE FRIENDS of a young Lady, aged 18, wish to place her in a clergyman's family, where she may be trained in domestic and parish work.—A. Z., care of Mrs. Tyler, Hyde Park-corner, Cambridge.

A YOUNG LADY seeks a situation (first place) as Useful Ladies' or Mother's Help in a Christian family. Fond of children. Cheerful and musical. Small salary. Comfortable, refined home essential.—Miss EDWARDS, Wytheford Magna, Shawbury, Salop.

THOROUGHLY DOMESTICATED PERSON seeks situation, as Useful Help. Good cook and manager. Christian home valued. Abstainer. Please state particulars. Good references.—D. D., care of Mr. Wilson, Stationer, 40, Evering-road, Stoke Newington.

LADY OF EXPERIENCE in domestic management, seeks responsible position in Christian household or institution. Middle-aged, active, systematic, accustomed to young people. Remuneration moderate.—L., 24, Ross-road, Wallington.

THE MATRON OF NORTH PARADE HOUSE, Winchcomb-street, Cheltenham, would be glad to hear of situations for three Girls who have regained their character in a home. Address as above.

THE COMMITTEE of an Industrial Home wish to place out several Girls, whom they can recommend for house, kitchen, scullery work, and laundry-maids. They will be glad to hear of any Lady willing to give them a trial.—Apply to the LADY SUPERINTENDENT, The late Mrs. Walsham How's Industrial Home, Hoe-street, Walthamstow, E.

SERVANTS' AGENCY, Soho Bazaar. Unexceptionable references required. Testimonials of religious character fully appreciated. Male and female servants are in daily attendance from 11 to 2. On Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays the number is very large. Entrances: Soho-square, and 77, Oxford-street, London, W.

AS COOK.—A Lady wishes to meet with a very quiet situation for an elderly Woman (63), whom she can highly recommend. She has always lived in good families, and is a good plain Cook. She requires assistance. She would be very suitable for ladies in a flat. Church of England.—Miss HEAD, 13, Craven-hill-gardens, W.

A LADY WISHES to recommend a Girl, who is nearly 17, as Under-Housemaid or Nurserymaid.—A. B., The Manor House, Stanmore.

AS UPPER-HOUSEMAID in a Christian family. South Kensington preferred. Five years' character.—C. R., 7, Cale-street, Chelsea.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Vacant.

HEATHEN AT HOME AND ABROAD.—Working-men and women wanted to be trained free as Evangelists and Mission Nurses. Is this a call for you?—Apply for details, CHURCH ARMY, 130, Edgware-road, London, W.

MAN AND WIFE wanted, without family, abstainers, to take charge of small hall and reading-room, in London. Good references.—Apply by letter,
O., 22, Chichester-road, Paddington, London, W.

A CHRISTIAN COUPLE wanted, wife as General Servant, and husband to help with out-of-door work. Wages £18 a year, and all found.—Address, stating ages, experience, and capabilities, H. R., Stamp Office, Abergavenny.

CLERK.—Good writing, accurate accounts, orderly habits. Decided Christian principles essential. Shorthand desirable. Commencing salary, £75 to £80. Letter only, with copies of three testimonials, to Christian Evidence Society, Buckingham-street, Strand, W.C.

AN UNDER-MATRON wanted for small Rescue Home in Birkenhead. Age about 30. Salary £14. Total abstainer.
Miss FRIPP, 40, Balls-road, Birkenhead.

NO SALARY.—Will any Lady give herself for educational work in a C.M.S. Girls' School in North Japan. Voyage expenses found.—For particulars, apply to W. A., Cannanore House, Boulevard, Weston-super-Mare.

GOOD CHRISTIAN WOMAN wanted, as Wash-house Matron, in a Home for fallen women. Must be experienced, and a good disciplinarian.—LADY SUPERINTENDENT, Albion Hill Home, Brighton.

EARNEST CHRISTIAN WOMAN, as Police Court Missionary, wanted by Women's Christian Temperance Association, in a large Yorkshire town. Salary about £40.—Apply by letter, giving full particulars, to E. N. N., care of Mrs. Parker, 60, Campo-lane, Sheffield.

CHRISTIAN LADY, about 30 or 40, wanted end of May, to give Companionship. Intelligent, conversational. Evangelical church. If musical preferred. No salary or personal expenses, but refined, cheerful home. No post-cards.
X., care of Mrs. Woodhouse, Penn, Bucks.

A LADY WANTED to assist the invalid wife of a Clergyman in her household, and to teach two little girls. Entire charge. No accomplishments required. Evangelical Churchwoman. Over 30. £20, all found.—Address first, with testimonials and photograph,
Mrs. R., Bryn Golen, Llanfairfechan.

NO SALARY.—Required, a young Lady, between the ages of 24 and 28, to assist the lady of the house in household management (nothing menial), in exchange for a comfortable home. She must be a lady, possessing a good temper, obliging and willing, and a Christian, not High Church. Good references required.—Address, by letter only, with particulars, to Mrs. GAWTON, 87, Cambridge-gardens, North Kensington.

HAMPSTEAD HOME HOSPITAL and Nursing Institute.—Two Probationers wanted at once. Fee £10 10s. Age from 22 to 28. Height not less than 5ft. 3in.—Apply before 1 o'clock to the SISTER-SUPERINTENDENT, at the Hospital, Parliament Hill-road, Hampstead.

A DISTRICT NURSE wanted at once, for holiday engagement (three months).—Apply to the TREASURER, Sick Nursing Society, Perth.

A CHRISTIAN NURSE wanted, for young children, who understands her duties.
Mrs. POUNCY, Holme, Wareham, Dorset.

NURSE WANTED, about end of May, to take first baby from the month. Must be good needlewoman and abstainer. State age and wages. Personal interview and character.—P., care of Mr. Wilkes, 2, Sarah Ann-villas, Eglinton-road, Woolwich.

NURSE WANTED.—Can a Lady recommend an experienced young person as Nurse. Small Christian family. Must be thoroughly truthful, clean, quick, and good-tempered.
Mrs. BREWERTON, Fern Bank, Finchley.

A NURSE wanted, with some experience, to assist a trained nurse in care of invalid Lady. Middle-aged. Strong, for lifting, and willing to take a share of housework.
Miss CROWLEY, Normandy House, Alton, Hants.

BATH PENITENTIARY.—Kitchen Matron, to instruct inmates. Willing; early riser. Abstainer. Good references. Previous experience in similar Institutions. Salary £17, all found.
Mrs. G., 4, Lansdown-crescent, Bath.

MOTHER'S HELP (good needlewoman) and GENERAL SERVANT wanted. Decided Christians. Private house; very small family. Comfortable home.
Mrs. BRAWN, Meads, Loughton, Essex.

NURSEMAID.—Wanted, Christian Girl, strong and willing, for nursery work. Wages £6.—H., 2, The Terrace, Clapham-common.

A NURSE AND A HOUSEMAID (Church of England) wanted, in a Clergyman's family.—Address, stating age and salary required, to Mrs. TUGWELL, 19, Charlotte-street, Bloomsbury; or application personally, between 10 and 11 a.m.

PLAIN COOK WANTED. Good personal character. Wages £18, all found. Age 23 to 33. Gardener cleans boots, &c. Three servants kept. Quiet situation.—A. B., care of Mrs. Woolfall, Stationer, Wimbledon-hill, S.W.

GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted in a Gentleman's family in the country. A comfortable home for a trustworthy servant. Address full particulars to Mr. STRANGE, Pine Bank, Bonchurch, I. W.

A GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, comfortable home, in a small Christian family. Help given. Wages £25. All found. No beer. Careful cooking required.
B., Lime-tree Cottage, Reigate.

COOK WANTED. Housemaid kept. Four in family.—Apply, stating age and wages, to Mrs. C., Redlynch, Sunnyside-road, Hornsey-lane.

TRUSTWORTHY, CAPABLE PERSON wanted. Good plain cook and needlewoman. Able to undertake the management of Inmates of a small Rescue Home, under the direction of the resident Lady Superintendent. One of high Christian principle, and total abstainer.—Rev. M. WASHINGTON, 35, St. Bartholomew-road, Camden-road, N.

A YOUNG GIRL wanted, to assist in housework and waiting, and be generally useful in small family (clergyman's). From country preferred.—Apply by letter,
W., 1, Mountfort-terrace, Barnsbury, N.

MRS. ALLEN, late of Eveley, Liphook, is anxious to obtain the services of a middle-aged person as General Servant. A young girl kept. A godly person valued.—Warsash, Fareham.

A THOROUGHLY STEADY, superior young person wanted, as Servant in a small, Christian family. One only kept. Quiet, comfortable home. Plain cooking required. Dissenter.
S., Grove End Lodge, Highgate-road, N.W.

HOUSE-PARLOURMAID WANTED, in a small, quiet family, who thoroughly understands her duties. Under-housemaid kept. Churchwoman and abstainer. State wages and references.
Mrs. NEWTON, Newlands, Beckenham, Kent.

HOUSE-PARLOURMAID wanted. Strong, active girl. Must be an early riser. £16 to £18, all found. No beer.—Mrs. McGREGOR, Glenisla, Vermont-road, Upper Norwood.

CAN ANY LADY recommend a Housemaid for a small ladies' school, where cook-housekeeper, general servant, and page are kept. Christian principles. Abstainer. Country servant preferred.
HOLLAND, 1, Abbeville-road South, Balham.

GOOD GENERAL SERVANT wanted in a Medical man's family. Country girl preferred. Must be an early riser, and do plain cooking nicely. Wages £15 a year. Apply by letter,
A. L., 3, Brecknock-road, N.

TWO RESPECTABLE YOUNG GIRLS wanted as Housemaid and General. Comfortable Christian home.—11, Wolseley-road, Crouch End, N.

GOOD GENERAL SERVANT wanted, May 1. Able to do good plain cooking. Clean, and an early riser. Wages £14 to £16.—Mrs. G., 2, St Alban's-villas, Highgate-road, London.

A GIRL wanted, about 17 or 18, as General Servant in a small family. Cooking not required. Must be clean.
60, Longton-grove, Sydenham.

MISS MAULDEN has several nice Women on her books whom she can recommend, as Wardrobe-keepers, Linen-Maids, or Matrons of Institutions. She has vacancies also for Cooks, House-Parlourmaids, and good Generals. Small families. Good wages.—Address, Church-street, Paddington-green.

To Let, Apartments, &c.

PERCY'S HOTEL, LONDON.

40, Bedford-place, Bloomsbury-sq., W.C.

First-class Private, highly recommended by the Bishop of Algoma; Rev. M. E. Thorold, M.A., Leicester; Dr. Georgens, Ouchy, Lausanne; J. Bevan and Mrs. Braithwaite, 312, Camden-road, and many others. Terms very moderate. Tariff on application.—Mrs. LLOYD HARRIS, Proprietress.

(Continued on page 22.)

By ANNA SHIPTON.

THE "ANNA SHIPTON" LIBRARY.

Containing Eleven of Anna Shipton's favourite Works, handsomely bound in Six Volumes: in a neat box.

CONTENTS.

1st Vol.	Tell Jesus. Footsteps of the Flock.
2nd Vol.	The Secret of the Lord. Wayside Service.
3rd Vol.	Precious Gems. Gathered Herbs.
4th Vol.	The Watch Tower in The Wilderness. The Promise and the Promiser.
5th Vol.	The Sure Mercies of David.
6th Vol.	Asked of God. God's Messengers.

10/6 NET.

"Tell Jesus:"

Recollections of Emily Gosse.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, gilt edges, 2s.

"Presents us with notices of a life spent in loving, intimate, and uninterrupted communion with a present Lord."—Christian Times.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 6d.; Cloth, 1s. 6d.

Footsteps of the Flock.

A Series of Narratives in Christian Life.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"These 'FOOTSTEPS' are true to life, and abound with practical illustrations."—Methodist Recorder.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth, 1s. 6d.

The Secret of the Lord.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"The aim of the writer is to show the connection between communion with God and a useful, happy life."—The Freeman.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth neat, 1s. 6d.

Wayside Service:

Or, The Day of Small Things.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"This book has greatly refreshed us. It is interesting from its many proofs of prayer heard and blessing bestowed; but more from its deep piety, and the manifest fellowship of the writer with her God."—The Sword and Trowel.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth, 1s. 6d.

Precious Gems

For the Saviour's Diadem.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"Seven Narratives simply and beautifully written, and radiant with devotion and spirituality."—The Christian World.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth, 1s. 6d.

Gathered Herbs.

A Series of Eight Narratives.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth, 1s. 6d.

The Watch Tower in the Wilderness.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"I will stand upon my watch, and set me upon the tower, and will watch to see what He will say unto me."—Hab. ii. 1.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth, 1s. 6d.

The Promise and the Promiser:

Or, The Power and Presence of the Lord with His People.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"The young will read it to great advantage, and the more matured will find it interesting and helpful. Its perusal cannot fail to do good."—Oldham Chronicle.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth, 1s. 6d.

The Sure Mercies of David:

Or, God's Dealings in the Sanctuary.

Cloth neat, 2s. 6d.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 4s. 6d.

"We rise from the perusal of Mrs. Shipton's volume refreshed and strengthened; and with the determination still to plead for, and still to prove, 'THE SURE MERCIES OF DAVID.'"—The Christian.

God's Messengers:

Or, The Lost Blessing.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"The various chapters are mines of richest experience."
The Sword and Trowel.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth, 1s. 6d.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

By the late GEORGE BREALEY.

BLACKDOWN TRACTS.

A SERIES OF NARRATIVE TRACTS.

Specially suited for circulation in Villages and Agricultural Districts. 64 Tracts in a Packet, 6d.; 128 Tracts, 1s.; 6s. 4d. per 1000, if ordered through a Bookseller.

If for Gratuitous Distribution, these Tracts may be had, on application direct to the Publishers, for 5s. per 1000.

FIRST SERIES. Nos. 1—16.

The Witch and the King of the Sky.
What is Faith?
"I am going Home to be Saved!"
How John Wood paid his 74 years' debt.
Swift Judgment.
"You must die in three days."
Letters from the Little Ones, and how they are Saved.
"I've left it all to Jesus."
The Two Purses.
"I didn't know I was such a Sinner."
"Saved in Five Minutes!"
The Wet Blanket and the Burning House.
"I pleaded Guilty!"
"Thank God, I'm Saved!"
"We be afeard!"
"I can't make it out!"

SECOND SERIES. Nos. 17—32.

Same prices as First Series.

Wrath Restrained.
Faith, Trial, and Triumph.
Victory through the Blood of the Lamb
"My Husband's Name."
The Prey taken from the Mighty
"Sixty for One!"
"I can dance for joy now!"
Drawn to Jesus.
"What I Gained and what I Lost."
Sorrow turned to Joy.
"Then I must be Lost!"
"Because I was Invited!"
The Drowning Child.
"I am Ready!"
The Two Hiding Places.
"This belongs to me."

"The Blackdown Tracts are most excellent for general distribution. No Christian worker is fully equipped for service without a supply of such inexpensive literature, which may be dropped or given away freely, enclosed in letters, slipped into books, and otherwise deftly scattered. These have a particular adaptation for the impenitent."—New York Advocate and Guardian.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

By the late GEORGE BREALEY.

ARROWS SHOT AT A VENTURE.

A SERIES OF NARRATIVE TRACTS.

Price 6d. per Packet of 12 Tracts, assorted.

Each Tract consists of Sixteen Pages, tastefully printed on tinted paper. The narratives are interesting, the application concise, and there are earnest and pointed appeals to unawakened souls.

CONTENTS.

1. The Bridge of Love.
2. A Life-belt for Sinking Souls.
3. Nanny and her Burden.
4. "Mighty to Save."
5. The Shipwreck.
6. Law and Mercy.
7. Taken at his Word.
8. The Christmas Dinner.
9. "The Door is open, Donald."
10. Old Maggie's Three Texts.
11. Received or Rejected?
12. Giving and Taking.

"A sixpenny packet, containing a dozen narrative Tracts of eight sorts, in which the Gospel is very clearly presented and illustrated by true incidents of a striking character. For general circulation they are capital, and are sure to be read."—Word and Work.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Price ONE SHILLING, post free.

THE

"WONDROUS LOVE"

PACKET OF

ASSORTED ADDRESSES

BY

D. L. MOODY.

Each Small Book has a neat Tinted Cover.

Contents of Packet.

Christ's Boundless Compassion.
The Blood. 2 Addresses.
Heaven. 2 Addresses.
"Son, Remember!"
Naaman, the Syrian.
One Word—"Gospel."
The Way of Salvation.
Eight "I Wills" of Christ.
The Master's Parting Commission.
The Right Kind of Faith.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

A PROPHETIC CONFERENCE,

At which various Ministers and Laymen well versed in Prophecy, will speak upon the Approaching Great Events of Prophecy, will be held in the Lower Hall of Exeter Hall, Strand, London,

On MONDAY, April 30, at 11 a.m., 3 p.m., and 7 p.m. And in the Council Hall of Exeter Hall,

On May 1, at 11 a.m.; May 2, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., and May 3, at 11 a.m., 3 p.m., and 7 p.m. Questions and Remarks invited after the Addresses. Chair to be taken by Rev. M. BAXTER.

ADDITIONAL

SACRED SONGS & SOLOS.

COMPILED AND SUNG BY

IRA D. SANKEY.

Consisting of a Choice Assortment of New Pieces, with an approved Selection of Standard Hymns.

ADDITIONAL

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS.

309 Hymns and Tunes; in One Volume.

ADDITIONAL

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS.

This volume of "Additional Songs and Solos" will be published Separately in several editions both of Words and Music; particulars of which will be shortly announced.

The Music will be issued both in Old Notation and in Tonic Sol-fa.

ADDITIONAL

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS.

The Demy 8vo. Edition, in Old Notation.

TINTED COVERS ... ... 2s.

ADDITIONAL

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS.

The Demy 8vo. Edition, in Old Notation.

CLOTH LIMP ... ... 2s. 6d.

ADDITIONAL

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS.

The Demy 8vo. Edition, in Old Notation.

CLOTH BOARDS ... ... 3s.

ADDITIONAL

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS.

The Demy 8vo. Edition, in Old Notation.

CLOTH Bevd. Bds., Gilt Edges ... 3s. 6d.

ADDITIONAL

SACRED SONGS & SOLOS.

NOW READY. Book of Words.

Tinted Covers, 1d.; Cloth, 2d.

This Book is not intended to interfere in any way with the publication of "SACRED SONGS & SOLOS" (441 Hymns); which will be on Sale as heretofore.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

NEW BOOK BY ANNA SHIPTON.

"THE LORD WAS THERE."

Incidents from my Journal.

Cloth, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, gilt edges, 2s.

CONTENTS.

The Walk to Emmaus.
The Shepherd's Voice.
A Strength to the Needy.
The Master's Message.
The Shadow of a Great Rock.
The Pavilion of Jehovah.
A Friend that Loveth at all Times.

> "THIS volume is rich in devout meditations, and such narratives of experience as cannot fail to strengthen the faith of believers, and lead them to greater trustfulness in the love of their Heavenly Father. It is a book for quiet hours, and will leave a blessing with every reader.
>
> Primitive Methodist.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

London's Young Men.

THE PRIORY, ISLINGTON.

ONE of the greatest treats of the spring anniversary season is to hear Mr. ATKINSON'S report at the annual meeting of his "Priory" branch of the Y.M.C.A. That report is always so hopeful, so big-hearted, so full of soul, and so far removed from the dry-as-dust statistical document with which the listening public are too often favoured, that it comes like a green spot in an arid desert of words and figures. Here, for instance, is a paragraph from our friend's story as it was told at the anniversary gathering in Myddelton Hall last week:—

> Wednesday evenings are set apart by your Secretary to receive and give counsel to young men bewildered in this great city, and who in hours of depression and perplexity require the brotherly sympathy of one who can bear their sorrows and failings with love and no upbraiding; after tenderly eliciting the truth, and securing the confidence of the young stranger, we take him in sympathy by prayer to the Geat Burden Bearer, and enable him to cast his burden upon Him who knoweth our frame, who remembereth that we are but human, and who will give that rest and peace which the world can neither give nor take away.

The secrets of these hallowed interviews Mr. Atkinson does not unveil, but our readers may believe that "the brotherly sympathy" and "counsel" of which he speaks are fruitful, by the blessing of God, in shaping the life-course of many a young man in its most plastic and susceptible stages of development. Or take this other paragraph:—

> The Tract Mission is one that of itself speaks its worth. Our own childhood recalls to us the value of these little silent messengers, when, apart from human eyes, we would eagerly read every word, because they came to us so simply, and without ostentation. And it is the same to-day; the tract given at the Priory gates by some young stranger to his stranger friend is often carried home to the lonely lodging, and in the quiet room read with a tear and a blush, and a resolve that is witnessed by no one but the Spirit of God, to bring forth its fruit in months, ay, in years after, when some intense sorrow has driven the young man to seek consolation nothing earthly could give him. Take heart, tract distributor! your work is as Divine as that of any department of Christian labour.

There are many departments of effort sustained at the Priory, and these paragraphs indicate the spirit in which the work is carried on. We heard with much regret of a balance of £120 on the wrong side. That fact gives point to the touching appeal with which the report closes:—

> Shoals, storms, dangers, surround our young men on every hand; and only as they keep near to God by prayer, and Christian companionship, will they fortify themselves with strength to say "No," when the tempter comes in like a flood. Help, then, dear friend! You who are on the border-land of heaven, who cannot take your gold over the nearing Jordan, let this Branch have a dying proof of your sympathy. You will be soon beyond all east winds and fogs of earth, happy in the joy of everlasting safety. And then your wealth, placed in the hands of the Divine Banker, will be bringing forth interest. n the salvation of young men, who will be stars on this earth, and rise to shine with you, in everlasting glory.

Mr. Atkinson is generally happy in his selection of speakers on these occasions, and so he was last week. Canon FLEMING, with his silvery tones and easy flow of limpid speech, held the audience while he pleaded the cause of London's young men at the most critical period of their life. He counselled patience and sympathy in dealing with them, remembering our own weakness and failure. During his remarks, the Canon lodged a strong protest against the betting madness of the times, which, said he, is one of the biggest banes of our country. An earnest appeal to the young men themselves for Christian decision, rounded off a happy utterance. Rev. HENRY SIMON, of Harecourt Chapel, in addressing some words of comfort to the workers, excited no small interest by his "modernised" description of the difficulties that beset the path of Zerubbabel when he was rebuilding the Temple. At first that faithful patriot was inclined to be discouraged; he looked too much at his own weakness, and too little at God's strength. Zechariah's message, however, taught him to place God in the forefront and self to the rear; then the shadows of depression fled away, and the work was done. Mr. Simon's application of the old story will be apparent.

A remarkably warm reception awaited Rev. F. B. MEYER, who seems to be as nearly as possible ubiquitous, but is ever fresh and practical and suggestive. He told his young friends of Islington how he graduated in a city counting house, and there gained an experience that had proved to be priceless in his ministerial work. Since then, the young men of London had grown far richer in their opportunities of self-improvement, and help in right thinking and doing. Mr. Meyer's specific for the treatment of the numerous "doxies" of the time is somewhat novel and original. Sojourning once in a clockmaker's house, he said, he was never so puzzled to know the correct hour. So he hit upon the expedient of striking the mean average between all the chronometers, and taking that as the time of day. So, in looking at the evangelical denominations, some might be considered too fast and others too slow; but he thought it would be found that in the great average golden truths of Christ's incarnation, life, death, resurrection, and session at God's right hand, they were all in glorious unity. Mr. Meyer had some excellent things to say about not accepting inconsistent professors of Christianity as true specimens of the real thing; and also about carrying religion into every detail of business life. No warmer-hearted or more thorough-paced chairman could be desired than Sir ALBERT ROLLIT, M.P., who praised the efforts of the Association, and told of the great personal interest he felt in work among young men.

ALDERSGATE-STREET.

During the past year the Aldersgate-street branch of the Y.M.C. Association has put forth noble and persistent efforts for the highest good of those coming within the range of its operations. The agencies are numerous, and everything possible is done by their means to benefit the young men of the City—spiritually, intellectually, physically, and socially. Though the public recognition of the Association's work is not all that could be desired, it is gratifying to know that the income and expenditure last year more nearly reached a balance than in any previous year.

The forty-fourth annual meeting was held on Thursday, last week. Lord KINNAIRD presided. Extracts from the annual report having been read by Mr. R. BURN, the excellent secretary of the Association, the chairman referred to the importance of the work of the Y.M.C.A. Looking at the development of the movement in other countries, he was of opinion that England has yet a great deal of leeway to make up. Having expressed himself pleased with the variety of the Association's work, wherein bodily health is considered as well as spiritual need, his lordship spoke approvingly of the efforts made by the Association to assist young men in studies such as will help them in commercial life. The thing wanted to-day is thoroughness in everything, and he hoped that God would raise up men who would do much to make the good influence of the Association felt throughout the world.

Rev. W. R. MOWLL spoke in favour of largely increased activity. If a great work is to be done by the Association, agents must be appointed to do it, and for that purpose money would be required. The wealth of the country is ever on the increase, but still, such institutions as that were supported by the few rather than the many. He thought that another £1000 a year was required if the Association was to do its work properly. Real Christian activity is, Mr. Mowll continued, more and more necessary in London. The moral tone of the city is certainly worse than it was. I get my information from a police-court magistrate with whom I was talking the other day. He said, "I have been on the bench for years, and I never thought the young people would have degenerated in the way they have. What we are coming to I cannot say." Mr. Mowll also expressed special pleasure that the Association does its best to turn out manly Christians, by providing for athletic exercises.

Mr. G. WILLIAMS spoke of the work of the Association under three aspects. It helps to diffuse light, spiritual and intellectual; to produce sweetness, both in life and action; and to promote strength, alike of body and soul. Captain ROBERTSON, R.H.A., delivered a brief address on words in Prov. xi. 30: "He that winneth souls is wise." He maintained that though there is a great deal of Christian activity at present, not enough faith is exercised by the workers.

Mr. L. D. WISHARD, of New York, who had come from Paris on purpose to attend the meeting, made a very acceptable speech on the extension of the operations of the Y.M.C.A. throughout the world. He held that the time had come for the young men of England and America to rise and organise a great work among their fellow young men everywhere. In America, when associations are promoted, four arguments are generally urged—first, the large number of young men; second, the awful temptations which beset young men; third, the mighty power which is exerted by young men; and, fourth, that it is almost invariably the case that the crisis of a man's destiny is when he is a young man. These arguments apply to all parts of the world, while in some countries in the East young men are subject to temptations of which young men in the West know nothing whatever. Young men must be reached by young men, and the Y.M.C.A. has demonstrated its adaptability to carry on the very work that is so greatly needed. Mr. Wishard went on to sketch the spread of the Y.M.C.A. in England, America, Germany, Scandinavia, Switzerland, Holland, Turkey, Egypt, India, Ceylon, Persia, Japan, and China. In some of these countries surprising enthusiasm is being manifested. In Germany the late Kaiser spoke well of the Association; the next international conference is to be held at Stockholm, in Sweden. In Russia branches have been formed with the sanction of the Czar; in Palestine, there are associations at Jerusalem, Joppa, and among other places Nazareth, where the Saviour lived as a young man. Mr. Wishard proceeded to describe the important movement among college students in America, and said that in other countries this form of activity is taking shape with considerable vigour. There never was a time when there were such opportunities as at present for evangelising the world, and the Y.M.C.A. must not ignore its responsibility, nor let its opportunity slip by. In conclusion, he urged young men to realise their privilege and duty to spread the knowledge of Christ by means of the Association and its many agencies.

CLIFFORD COTTAGE MISSION, EGREMONT.—A ten days' mission has just been held, with results at once cheering to the workers and blessed to some who have hitherto been strangers to the peace which passeth all understanding. The third anniversary of the Mission was celebrated last month, when it was shown that the several agencies are meeting with appreciative recognition by those whom they are designed to benefit. Addresses were delivered by Miss Owen, and Messrs. E. W. Elam, T. Dennis, and T. Kirkman.

EARLSWOOD ASYLUM FOR IDIOTS.—At the forty-first anniversary festival dinner in aid of the funds of this valuable Institution, held last week, Alderman J. Whittaker Ellis, M.P., who presided, justly spoke in praise of that philanthropy which provides for the comfort of persons suffering from idiocy. He said that on visiting the Asylum, he could not but admire the simple-minded, honest, Christian desire of the board of management to benefit those from whom the world would too quickly and willingly turn aside. The educational results achieved at the asylum are very remarkable, and life is rendered as enjoyable as possible to the 580 unfortunate inmates. There is accommodation for more patients, and there are still 150 applicants seeking admission. The committee has a debt which it would be glad to wipe off. It is gratifying to know that the Earlswood Asylum, now forty years old, has served as a model for many similar institutions in all parts of the world.

THE SALVATION ARMY IN INDIA.

Fakir Singh, otherwise Commissioner Tucker, of the Salvation Army, called at this office a few days ago, and engaged one of our staff in a brief conversation upon work in India. "I am more than ever convinced," he said, "that we are on the right lines in our work. We offer the people no inducement to accept Christianity; if they do accept it, then it is for its own sake. Indeed, instead of getting anything from us, they have to support us, and to the poor natives that means something."

"Do you speak from real experience?" was asked. "Yes," was the reply. "I have been at this work nearly six years, living among the people as a native, and I know the difference between living as a European and living as a native. To begin with, it was a case of 'Fiat experimentum in corpore vili,' but now the experiment has been made. I said, 'Let me cut out a new path, for a slow job is being made by some workers. If the plan should prove a failure, then I can give it up.' As a fact we are receiving great encourgement. The natives are listening to us, and not only confessing the Saviour, but are being carried through persecution, suffering, and sacrifice for Christ's sake."

"At the end of these six years," continued the Commissioner, "I am more than satisfied that we are right, and may hope to convert not merely one or two, but the whole of the heathen nations. Anyone ignorant of India can hardly conceive the prejudice of the people and their intense hatred of European customs—food, dress, and habits. We have broken through that prejudice, and conform to the native customs. The success of our methods may be judged from the fact that Hindus, Buddhists, and Mohammedans have all imitated the Salvation Army. But the imitations all break down, as neither of the three native religious systems allows of a sustained interest. While they last, the native armies have drums and banners, and for songs they take our salvation hymns! We, however, are able to keep up the interest, and crowds come around us at all times. The missionaries admit that the heathen do not attend their churches, and that the churches are built specially for the native Christians. The Hindu temples, too, are exclusively used by Hindus, the Mohammedan mosques by Mohammedans, and the Buddhist temples by Buddhists. But Hindus, Mohammedans, Buddhists and Christians alike all flock round the Salvation Army. In fact, four-fifths of our congregations consist of poor heathen. It is not novelty that draws them, for we have been in the country six years, and our best congregations are where we have been the longest, where we are best known."

"What is your attitude to the Europeans?" was interrogated. In reply, Commissioner Tucker said, "They get saved at our meetings, but we do not hide from them the fact that we work for the natives, and not for the Europeans. At first so many Europeans came to our meetings that the natives were frightened away. We have had to request the Europeans not to come, in order that the natives might have their chance. A great work is going on among the women just now, and that is because the meetings are all but confined to natives. You see the Eurasian population is a flotsam and jetsam; the natives, on the contrary, are a settled population. At the very first I saw that if we got at the natives, we should have a stronger hold on the Europeans, and now the Europeans are actually coming to us, and saying, 'Have we not got souls too?'"

"How goes the work?" "Well, there is not only much present encouragement, but there is a good prospect. We do not go in for simple evangelisation. We settle down in a place, and when we find people coming around us and professing Christ, we set them to work in a steady way. The results are more solid than they would be if we merely travelled about the country. From two to three thousand are saved every year—men and women who have come right out from heathenism. We attract the people in large numbers, and they do not get tired of our meetings. Finances are, of course, an important element in the work, but we do a great deal for a very little. Most of the natives cannot read or write, and therefore they must be reached through preaching. For the 250 millions of people we should have at least a million agents.

"The small sum of £5 a year is sufficient to pay all the ordinary expenses of an agent, for the natives will give all workers food. Natives are now saying to us, 'Send us officers; we will support them.' And so they do; I have been for months together without money, and have wanted nothing in the way of support. When the people learn that we will eat their food, they supply our needs willingly. So, at a comparatively small expense, we may have a very large force in India."

Before leaving, Commissioner Tucker expressed a hope that Christian zeal would send forward the work in which he is engaged.

THE STATE OF MADAGASCAR.

Rev. T. T. Matthews, of the London Missionary Society, in the report for the year 1887 of the Ambàtonakànga church and district, Madagascar, says that all departments of the work are being carried on much as in former years, both in the city and in the country around. He says:—

"We have lost by death several 'old disciples' whom we could ill spare; but it is a source of the greatest satisfaction that so many of the earnest and intelligent young men connected with the congregation are coming to the front, year by year, to fill up the gaps made by the departure of those who have been called to their rest and their reward. For we greatly need the energies of all, young and old, to help in stemming the tide of iniquity and corruption, drunkenness and uncleanness, that is rising and rolling around us, especially in the capital now, penetrating into every crevice and corner of the social, political, and religious life of the people; and not only threatening all true life and godliness with utter extinction, but menacing the national life of the people, and imperilling their very existence as a nation. For the late increase in the number of foreign residents here, and of others high in rank and experience in the service of sin, has added greatly to the strength of the elements of wickedness at work in the capital; and increased its already existing temptations a thousand fold; and thus added greatly to our difficulties in trying to lead the people to a higher and purer life. Rum and religion, whisky-shops and Christian churches can never go well together, and as the number of such places increase they must of necessity add to our work, and increase the difficulties of all who are labouring for the highest good of this people. Every means is being made use of to debauch our young people of both sexes, and thus many of whom we had hoped better things, led by Europeans and others, are returning like the dog to his vomit, and the sow that was washed to her wallowing in the mire.

"At the same time, there cannot be the shadow of a doubt in the mind of anyone who understands this people, or their present state, that there is 'a power which is making for righteousness' at work in the land."

FREE BREAKFASTS FOR THE DUBLIN POOR.—The report of the Christian workers who superintend the Free Breakfasts agency of the Dublin United Services, shows that during last year many thousands of poor people heard the Gospel preached after partaking of a free breakfast on Sunday mornings. Treats were also given at certain seasons, and soup dinners during the cold weather. The secretary is Mr. Robert Cotter, Christian Union Buildings, Lower Abbey-street, Dublin.

THE McALL MISSION.

The sixteenth annual report of the Evangelistic Mission in France, known as the McAll Mission, is a record of much good work done by a devoted band of missionaries in various parts of the country. During the year 1887, no fewer than 17,022 religious meetings were held, with an attendance of 1,114,233. Domiciliary visits were made to the number of 21,567, and 468,277 Bibles or portions, with tracts or illustrated papers, were circulated. The year's income amounted to £15,746.

Among the interesting matters discussed in the report is the ingathering of the converts. We make the following extract:—"Deep attention has been given by us, during years past, to the question of more fully ingathering those converted through the Mission in Christian fellowship. Many anxious and prayerful consultations have been held among our own colleagues, and with French pastors and others. A mode of action has recently shaped itself in our thought, which we regard with great hope. It has already met the approval of several experienced pastors and friends; but, as its programme has not yet been fully considered, it would be premature to put it forward. Suffice it to say, that two of the features aimed at are to preserve inviolate the undenominational character of our evangelistic work, and to strengthen the cordial relations which have for so many years existed between us and the French evangelical pastors and community. Notwithstanding our utmost efforts to encourage our converts to seek out and join the surrounding churches, we find that only a minority of them take courage to do so. Hence we greatly long to discover what may be called the 'missing link.' We ask the prayers of our readers that we may be guided aright on this delicate but vitally important subject. Meanwhile the Synods of the Reformed Church and of the Free Church have undertaken seriously to study the question."

There are many incidents of an encouraging character given in the report. Dr. D. E. Anderson reports progress in connection with the Medical Mission. He says:—"We have prescribed during the last year for over 7500 patients; half of these are chronic cases—i.e., those who come back more than once—but we reckon that 3000 different individuals have been seen, and that nearly 1000 of these persons had never heard the Gospel before they came to the dispensaries; the rest are either patients of the year before, or attendants at the evening meetings."

SUNDAY POSTAGE.—One of the recommendations of the Select Committee which recently sat on Sunday postal labour was that the despatch and delivery on Sunday of books, circulars, and printed matter, other than newspapers, should be discontinued. The Postmaster-General has decided, as an experiment to give effect to the Committee's recommendation at Bristol, Nottingham, and Wolverhampton. Accordingly, on and from Sunday, the 22nd inst., the despatch and delivery of articles sent through the post at book rates of postage will be discontinued in these towns and the subordinate rural districts.

MORAL EFFECTS OF THE "TRUCK SYSTEM."—A Christian worker in Newfoundland writes:—"The sole industry of these islands is in fish. A long-continued adherence to the iniquitous truck system has thrown everyone into debt, from which they can never be released by their own efforts. Consequently, they are charged four or five times original cost for very inferior goods (the only kind to be had here), and are thus the bond-slaves of the traders. This system re-acts, however, by making the people indifferent about work, unscrupulous in promise-breaking, and in ruining the traders by bad debts. Many of the people never see a coin from one year's end to another, and consequently live on indebtedness for food and clothing. They look on charity as their right; they never beg, but they borrow with no purpose of repaying."

"LENGTHENING THE CORDS."

Our readers know Miss Daniell's work in the army, so that we need offer no description or recommendation of her labours before referring to her present needs for the erection of a new Soldiers' Home for London.

Few people realise how many thousands of troops are engaged in garrisoning our great city. They are almost lost among the five millions of civilians, unseen in their ordinary gatherings, untouched by their general evangelistic efforts. But were these soldiers quartered in some average-sized town or city, they would soon appear as a very considerable body. For these four or five thousand men, isolated as they are by their peculiar life and habits, no better Soldiers' Home has hitherto existed than a very small hired house, most unsuitable for the purpose. The committee of officers who have sustained the work for some years have long been anxious to place it in the hand of one whose name seems a guarantee, under God, of success and blessing. Miss Daniell has felt the call to be so distinctly from God that, overwhelmed though she is already, she dared not refuse, and has accepted the charge from her Master's hand.

It seems a "token for good" that a piece of freehold land should have offered, just at this very time, and in the very spot best suited for a Soldiers' Home. It is within a stone's-throw of one of the principal barracks, with their married quarters at its very elbow; within ten minutes' walk of other married quarters and three hospitals; about a quarter of an hours' walk from a second barracks, and perhaps about half an hour's walk from a third. It is close to a station of the underground railway, by which the guards and others at the Tower could make an easy journey for special occasions and great functions. Upon this capital site Miss Daniell hopes that her friends, and the friends of our soldiers will enable her to build one of the Soldiers' Homes which have been so largely blessed of God. It will of course possess the usual accommodation—refreshment-bar, reading-room, game-room, hall for meetings, baths, sleeping quarters for men on furlough, and rooms for the staff and for the ladies who freely give their services. Miss Daniell and her fellow-workers give their time and strength and means, their very lives, to the work of the Lord and to the interest of the army. But, although they and their personal friends contribute and collect largely, and one Home, at least, was mainly given by one of the workers, for such an undertaking as the purchase of a site in London and the erection of a new Home they must seek the help of a wider circle.

The price of the site will probably be nearer £4000 than £3000. The building will cost at least as much more. It seems an immense outlay when viewed in the balances of earth, but what when placed in the balances of eternity? More than a year has been expended in fruitless waiting and negotiating about other sites, and the voice of God seems now to say, "Arise and build." Is it too much to pray that some one will lay up treasure in heaven by giving either the ground or the building as his own or another's memorial? Meantime, will all who read this take a share in the work—at least an inch of the ground, or a stone in the building? If this should have to be raised by smaller sums, perhaps some would like to give or collect the £15 which is needed for a separate cubicle in the sleeping quarters, as has been done in Miss Daniell's Home at Chatham, where each cubicle is inscribed in memory of some loved one. Names, however, should be sent in for this without delay, as there will be but a limited number.

Miss Daniell, who can be addressed at the "Mission Hall and Soldiers' Home, Aldershot," will be glad to supply collecting-cards, circulars, reports, or little books, and to hear from any clergyman or minister who would give her an offertory or collection, or from ladies who would allow the use of their drawing-rooms for meetings, or undertake to get up a sale of work. Whilst she looks and prays for large contributions, she values no less help of every kind, and to any amount, however small. May the gracious Lord Himself, who sits over against the treasury, render back a hundredfold the gifts of his people.

NEW ZEALAND NOTES.

It must be confessed that the Salvation Army, notwithstanding its defects, has stirred up all denominations a little. The Presbyterians, who are generally sound and solid, have reaped, I fancy, most good by the movement. It is worth while stirring up a fire that is full of embers, and has also plenty of unburned fuel upon it. If the Presbyterians had all as much life as solidity, they would be a great power. The Wesleyans have not profited so much. Some of their ministers have been drawn into the circle of Episcopacy by fine dresses and Ritualism that requires no study and no spiritual power. Some of us expected the Wesleyans would be provoked into great power when the Army came, but we have been disappointed.

Episcopalian preachers are rarely evangelical men in this colony. There are blessed exceptions to the rule, and a young evangelical clergyman has sometimes joined us in evangelistic work; but Ritualism and baptismal regeneration seem to drag the majority terribly down, and they are not high in the spiritual scale. Some of the bishops actually forbid their clergy even in country districts and remote places to show any sympathy with Wesleyans or Presbyterians.

Independents and Baptists are few and far between, and not moving with any power, if we except Mr. Spurgeon's son at Auckland. He is making his mark in the North, and the Presbyterians there will be provoked to bolder and more earnest work, it is hoped. The brunt of the battle will be borne by Presbyterians and Baptists there. I am not a Presbyterian myself, and yet I must confess that the heavy ploughing and solid work must fall upon them in this colony, and evangelical Episcopalians will assuredly be driven among them; signs and symptoms appear to tell us that Rome and High-churchism are steadily approaching each other. Rome is complimentary and polite to High Church priests, and High Church priests are cringing and copying Rome. It is a mere question of time, their being folded under some Cardinal's wing; they are most willing and obedient.

Gordon Forlong.

CRAYFORD MEN'S NIGHT SCHOOL.—Sir Arthur Blackwood presided over the meeting, wherewith the twelfth winter session closed a few days ago. Several of the scholars related their spiritual experience, making confession of Christ in terms which rejoiced the hearts of those who had sought their good. Sir Arthur Blackwood gave a book to each, and delivered an earnest address.

BRITISH WOMEN'S TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATION.—Mrs. Bright Lucas presided over a meeting held in the Victoria Hall, Waterloo-road, on Friday last, when a resolution was passed condemning those clauses in the Local Government Bill which recognise the right of licensed victuallers to compensation in cases where licences may be withdrawn. The Association has been at work close upon twelve years, and has at the present time a membership of 30,000. Among the speakers at the meeting was Mrs. T. H. Tibbles ("Bright Eyes"), who said that until she came among the white people she never saw a drunken person. The Indians of the Omaha tribe, in which she was brought up, had drink introduced among them some years ago, and some members of the tribe took it and degraded themselves. The whole tribe was called together, however, and not only was drink prohibited, but a law was passed that if ever an Indian got drunk he should be flogged.

SPECIAL MISSION IN INDIA.

Very encouraging accounts continue to come from India, of the work of the gentlemen who are conducting the Special Winter Mission of the Church Missionary Society. Much seed has been sown, and there are many indications of the soil being in such a condition that good fruit may be expected. The native teachers have been strengthened in the faith, and those who had given no heed to the word of the Gospel as previously preached have in many cases listened to the kindly voice of Christian instruction.

At Burdwan, in Bengal, great eagerness was shown by the natives to obtain information as to the Christian faith. On one occasion, after preaching, Mr. Sulivan began distributing tracts on the inspiration of the Holy Scriptures. There were, however, more applicants than tracts, and there was consequently such a scramble for the books that Mr. Sulivan found it impossible to distribute them in anything like order. Many were, in fact, wrung out of his hands. The eagerness of the people astonished Mr. Sulivan, and pleased him, and he requested them to procure tracts from the Calcutta Bible Society.

In Santalia some really good meetings were held, Mr. Sulivan being accompanied by Mr. Clifford. At Chuchi magic lantern scenes from the life of our Lord were exhibited twice, to the great delight of the Paharis and Santalis who attended. A happy feature of the meetings was that several women offered prayers. Those who know the low estate of women among the heathen, and the backward position of many of them even as Christians, will realise how strange it seemed to hear female natives pray in the congregation. Five princesses were present, gorgeous in apparel and jewels, and listened with great eagerness. On the last day of the mission, those who had received good were asked to hold up their hands. Quite a number did so, and then, one by one, many of them said how they had been helped, and their different testimonies were contained in the following characteristic expressions: (1) "As the dry and withered grass is refreshed by rain, so it has been with my soul." (2) "As the rice, dry and dead, burnt up by the sun, so it was with me, but now my soul has been quickened and refreshed." (3) "My faith has been greatly increased." (4) "I came up with a great sorrow, but God has now filled me with great joy." (5) "My soul is full of joy." (6) "My husband and son are a great sorrow to me, but now Christ has given me joy." (7) "As the deer pants after the brook, so now longs my soul for God."

Mr. Grubb and Colonel Oldham were greatly cheered at what they saw and heard in Western India. Messrs. Fox and Hurrell held many meetings in the Ellore and Bezwada districts of Madras, and there were large Telegu audiences. Mr. Fox says of his work at Masulipatam:—"I am giving an early morning address each day to the boys of the Noble College, many are rather men than boys. It is an intensely interesting work, and I feel it is impossible to exaggerate its responsibility. Oh, if God would be pleased to bring out some of these bright young Indian aristocrats; for though many are very poor, they are mostly of high caste. They know enough to be saved, but their hearts seem as cold as ice. They have listened, however, with the greatest attention, and I have had most interesting conversations. One Brahmin especially pleased me. He tried for a long time to justify himself in his religion, of which he knew very little, but when I spoke of the joy of being at peace with God, and the spiritual experience of a Christian, he seemed melted, could say very little, and went away very thoughtfully. I know he is thinking much, but whether he will come out on the right side I can hardly conjecture."

Notes and Comments.

NEXT week we hope to give a portrait of Mr. T. H. Tibbles, and sketch of his work among North American Indians.

Messrs. B. Broomhall, H. Morris, and J. E. Mathieson have been charged with the duty of seeking to arrange for the hospitable reception of the American and foreign delegates to the Missionary Conference to be held at Exeter Hall in June next. The visitors are expected to be in London from about the 6th to the 20th of June, and Christian friends are being asked to take a share in the duty defined in 1 Pet. iv. 9. Communications should be addressed to Mr. J. E. Mathieson, Garden House, Newington Green-road, N.

A few months ago Mr. Caine, M.P., wrote some severe strictures upon Christian missions in the Straits Settlements, on which we commented. A letter signed "Wykehamist" recently appeared in The Times from a resident of nearly a quarter of a century at Singapore, in which he controverts the statements of Mr. Caine, who is said to have spent only one day at Singapore. With respect to the assertion that there were 7000 Eurasians in the Straits Settlements, the offspring of Christian fathers, the writer of this letter says:—

> As long back as three hundred years ago in Malacca, and later in Bencoolen and other places, the Portuguese, and after them the Dutch, inhabited these countries; and their present descendants are no more to be styled as Mr. Caine styles them than the present descendants of some of the oldest families in England can be so described. There are exceptions, but Mr. Caine's sweeping assertion classes them all together, and casts a most unjust reflection upon a large and upright section of the community.

As regards the alleged recriminations between the missionaries and the merchants, "Wykehamist" says that, so far from this being the case, the former are respected, and their work generally appreciated. The Roman Catholics, it is also stated, have much landed property and large endowments there, and are, therefore, able to employ a much larger staff of workers than the Protestants. Still, after making all possible allowances for superficial statements and hasty generalisation, there is too much reason to fear that in the Malay Peninsula, as in other heathen lands, the habits and the example of the "governing and merchant classes" constitute a standing hindrance to the efforts of Christian missionaries.

Whilst Christians are divided against Christians, the great world of men seems plunging ever deeper into the pursuit of mere animalism. The hoardings are covered with the advertisements of rival music-halls, offering sensational attractions and spicy fare; or with suggestive pictures. The photographs of actresses and dancers that fill the shop windows are not fit for decent people to look at. And brutal sports, prize-fights, and other manifestations of a depraved animalism are rife. And all this in spite of the boasts of education. Is it not an incontrovertible evidence of the futility of education, apart from the power and sanctions of religion, to elevate and save our race? Let us never forget that the age of Rome's rarest culture was also that of her brutal gladiatorial shows. If the Church were to be again filled with the Holy Spirit, she could as easily overcome this sensuous tendency of our times as in other days. But if the Church does not rise to the call of the age, alas for her and it!

The recent conversion of several large brewing businesses into limited liability companies by enlarging the number of those who are directly interested in the "traffic," has done not a little to retard the progress of temperance. The latest recorded profits for twelve months, of three of these companies, amount to £996,000. The division of this huge sum amongst the shareholders implies and involves another division, which perhaps not many of them venture to think about, that of the responsibility for poverty, and sorrow, and crime, which one shudders to contemplate. There is, however, no shirking that pendant to the large percentage which is so eagerly sought after by those who do not reflect, or who care not, how their dividends are obtained.

We have frequently had occasion to comment upon the defects and costliness of the Poor Law System. A remarkable illustration of the latter is afforded by the figures given in a Parliamentary return just issued. For the half-year ended March 25, 1887, the expenditure in Ireland was £428,665, and of this amount no less than £133,886 was spent in the maintenance of the staff at the workhouses and the cost of administration. This is about equivalent to stating that out of each pound about six shillings had to be deducted for the cost of expending the balance.

In a recent issue of The Midland Free Press the dark side of Leicester club life was realistically illustrated in a sketch entitled, "Sunday Morning in the 'Flea Pit.'" The details show sadly that buildings which have been consecrated by high and holy uses may sometimes come to be employed for base and unholy purposes. It seems that a place in Leicester which was at one time a Baptist chapel is now devoted to the degrading uses of a low club-house. The worship of God has given place to the service of Bacchus. On Sunday mornings in the building in question entertainments, consisting of silly and questionable songs and dances, are given, while from a bar situated in a room just behind where the pulpit once stood, men and youths are supplied with intoxicating drinks. The picture is very disgusting. Is it not possible for the people of Leicester to cleanse the "Flea Pit," and secure it for worthy and spiritual purposes?

At the luncheon, on the occasion of his daughter's marriage with Commissioner Tucker, General Booth announced that he had proposed to the Government to appoint officers to undertake the services in all the workhouses throughout the country. We do not know whether he is sanguine of success, but we would advise him to prepare his mind for a negative. There is a work, however, to which we would advise him to turn his attention. Attached to every workhouse there is a tramp-ward, in which a number of tramps are locked up throughout the whole of Sunday: young and old, working men in search of work and old professionals, the destitute and the criminal, have to spend the day in company, sometimes without seats to sit on, or a fragment of wholesome literature, or generally without a visit from any Christian minister. Guardians would not, as a rule, object to anyone taking an interest in these degraded outcasts, who would, generally gladly welcome any innovation upon the dreary monotony of the present system. Surely the Saviour would have spent some of the days of his earthly ministry amongst these tramps, becoming a tramp to win them.

The House of Commons has declined to consider a Bill submitted to it for extending the powers of the police in dealing with the outward manifestations of vice in London streets. It was argued that the existing powers would be amply sufficient for the purpose if the authorities were backed up by the public. Mrs. Josephine Butler has published a pamphlet, showing that "government by police" has not in past times conduced to social liberty or good morals. No doubt the inevitable tendency is that unrestricted authority should degenerate either into excess or connivance with evil. The cure for this is popular supervision and control. By that method the Glasgow community have succeeded to a large extent in purging their streets from open vice, and we cannot see why London should not do the same thing.

We greatly sympathise with Rev. W. H. Peploe in his protest against the new reredos in St. Paul's Cathedral, one prominent feature in which is the Madonna and Child. Dr. Temple has forbidden discussion on the subject, but surely the matter cannot be allowed to rest there. All Englishmen have a stake in St. Paul's Cathedral, and it is manifestly unfair to introduce into it any considerable alteration at the dictation of one section of the National Church. Surely we need Hugh Latimer back again to denounce in scathing terms this fresh advance towards Rome! But the matter is still more urgent in relation to the evangelical party of the Church. Are they never to be allowed to speak their minds? Must they always be silenced like a number of children? Where is the limit to all these modern inroads of the Papal Church through the covered subway of Anglicanism? It is surely a time for good men to abandon quarrels on minor matters, and to stand shoulder to shoulder to preserve the heritage which our fathers bought by their blood.

It has recently been stated that the Duke of Sutherland possesses no fewer than 1,385,000 acres of land, a property larger than the two counties of Rutland and Lancashire; that twelve persons own one-fourth of Scotland. We are quite aware that the questions affecting land are among the most difficult problems of the day, but in the face of figures such as these, and of the painful facts in regard to overcrowding in our large centres of population, the question forcibly arises, "Cannot some of this land be more profitably employed than it is at present?"

Special attention has been called to the painful fact that in the city of Dublin, where the death-rate generally is higher than that of any other large city in the United Kingdom, the death-rate of the female assistants in drapers and other shops is higher than that of any other class. In referring to the matter, a Dublin contemporary has asserted that the question is one, to a great extent, of "the cruelty of long hours," and that, therefore, it is one in the solution of which the public can render very great assistance "without any pressure upon employers." It certainly is true that, in one sense, the public are the employers, and in this question, as in that of "cruel cheapness," the application of the golden rule would at once put an end to a state of things which certainly is discreditable to our Christianity.

It is gratifying to find that the evidence given by the Inspector General of the Royal Irish Constabulary before the Select Committee of the House of Commons upon the working of the Sunday Closing Acts was strongly in favour of the good effects which have followed the legislation, and in support of the proposal that the Bills should be re-enacted and made permanent. Mr. Reid, whose opinion certainly is entitled to respect, strongly expressed his opinion that public-houses and spirit grocers' establishments should be closed at nine o'clock on Saturday nights.

In a recent conversation with a girl employed in a West-end confectioner's establishment, we learnt that her hours were from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m., and that after 11 p.m. she had to make her way home, some miles distant; and it is stated that in many such shops the hours are thirteen or fourteen per day, and on Saturdays fifteen and a half. If this is not what the inspired prophet designates "selling the poor for a pair of shoes," what can be?

The recently issued Factory Report for 1887, besides dealing fully with the wages and social condition of the workers under the sweating system in the eastern and central districts, contains some valuable facts and figures compiled by the senior Metropolitan inspector as to the profits made by the employers. From a general view of these, it appears that, notwithstanding all the slave-driving of the crowded workshops, the average "sweater's" profits are but small, nor can the best of them depend upon more than nine months' work in the year, while the lower grade employer is without occupation half his time. It is this latter class of small would-be masters—for the "big sweaters," whose experienced workers seem to be fairly remunerated, are comparatively few—which, according to Mr. Lakeman, intensifies the evil of the system, and prolongs the misery of the whole army of these toilers, "because they catch at work which has been refused by others on account of price, and will work all night to be up to time."

The precise details given in this report of the overcrowded and horribly insanitary condition of the foul dens—especially those in which fur capes are made—where the poor inmates work fourteen or sixteen hours a day, emphasise the need of a remedy which has been more than once urged in these columns, viz., that increased powers should be conferred upon factory inspectors; in the present state of the law they "have no authority whatever over the sanitary arrangements." The supervision and regulation of these places devolve by the Factory Acts upon the vestries and other local authorities; but too many of these bodies often from motives of self-interest (of which we gave an instance in a recent issue) pursue a policy of "masterly inactivity," which is little short of criminal, and it is largely owing to the neglect of their duties and responsibilities in this respect that the present disgraceful condition of many of these dens is due.

"It is heartrending and humiliating to us, as a civilised nation, to have, at the end of the nineteenth century, scores of thousands of men, women, and children, tramping the country, not able to tell a plain letter three inches deep." So writes Mr. George Smith, of Coalville, in a letter detailing some of his recent experiences amongst the neglected gipsies and van-dwellers, for whom he has so unweariedly worked. How much longer are these poor children to remain in ignorance, wretchedness, and sin, hard by the very doors of schools which they may not enter? Will no Christian members of Parliament take up their cause, and use their best endeavours to prevent Mr. Smith's simple plans for their relief from being once more swamped by the flood of talk? Are the cries from the vans and tents to go unheeded?

Professor Agar Beet is writing a series of articles in The British Weekly in advocacy of Infant Baptism, to be followed by a similar series from another writer in assertion of Believers' Baptism. The discussion is a highly important one, and we shall follow it with interest. But apart from its immediate subject we cannot but express our profound regret that the Professor lends himself to a method which renders it possible to prove anything. He says:—

> The absence of any express reference in the New Testament compels us to seek for the significance of Infant Baptism in the broad principles of the New Covenant, viewed in the light of all that we know about the spiritual position of the children of Christian parents.

Give Archimedes a fulcrum for his lever, and he will uplift the earth. Give a theologian or an infidel authority "to seek the significance of [anything] in the broad principles of the New Covenant viewed in the light of all that we know about" God and man, notwithstanding "the absence of any express reference in the New Testament" to the thing he wishes to demonstrate, and what is there that he cannot prove? Future probation, universal salvation of fallen men and fallen spirits, and any other doctrines, readily yield themselves as the result of a process in which "wit and wisdom" do not fail, and "the judge that ends the strife" is not the Spirit of truth in the inspired Word, but the ingenuity of an expositor to arrive at a foregone conclusion.

Some of our present dissensions are very grievous in these days of unbelief, secularism, and worldliness. Thoughtful persons have, however, long foreseen that they must come. On the one side there has been a vast growth in England of Ritualism, and on the other of Rationalism. These have not formed distinct and sharply defined schools in the midst of church systems, but have branched off in pervasive lines among all ecclesiastical orders. It was inevitable that decided Protestants and firmly orthodox evangelicals would one day rise in protest. Such is the crisis that is now upon us.

But let us not be disheartened. If truth and error, like the tares and the wheat of the most far-reaching of the parables, have so grown and intertwined as to make their separation very difficult in an ecclesiastical sense, there is a demand, which the Spirit is pressing upon the faithful, that every man should watch very jealously his individual fidelity to the supreme revelation of God. This is the imperative lesson which the providence of the Spirit is now forcing upon our attention. We must no longer lean on others, but recall the words of the Chief Pastor, "Everyone that is of the truth heareth my voice."

In relation to the Baptist Union, whose discussions will begin on Monday next, may a suggestion be made by a not unfriendly outsider? This journal has expressed its doubts whether the imposition of a creed would meet the complaint which some of the best of men make. But, to avoid the entrance into the controversy of mere partizanship, and of grave consequences to religion itself, might not the Assembly nominate a few of its wisest members to meet at the first for private deliberation and prayer? Acts xv. tells us how a spirit of conciliation, with insistence upon necessary things, prevented a breach in the primitive Church.

The nadir of unwisdom in the formulation of a Church Creed has surely been reached by the Richmond, Indiana, Friends' Conference, last September. Two of the things which these estimable brethren deem to be among the fundamentals of the Christian religion, will it be believed, are non-submission to water baptism and non-observance of the Lord's Supper. We do not wonder that Mr. G. H. Braithwaite writes at length in The Friend protesting against the imposition of such a man-made creed on his fellow members in the Society:—

> Whilst I substantially agree with the doctrines contained in the "Declaration," except as regards the wording of some of them, and fully admire the genuine piety and sincerity of many who assisted in drawing it up, I am impelled to the conclusion that its formal adoption by the Society at large as a permanent embodiment of our "faith" would be a serious mistake, and initiate a state of things destructive alike to peace and spiritual progress. For whilst it would bind together (and are they not already sufficiently united?) those who favour its adoption, it would inevitably separate more widely apart from them those who are opposed. As a Church we need to be watchful lest by "ordinances" of our own institution we become guilty of "making void" the Divine law, which constitutes the charter of freedom granted to every child of God, and which is termed by the Holy Spirit the "perfect law of liberty."

These are the words of Christian statesmanship, and they well deserve the consideration of all Church parliaments.

According to The Standard, which laments the lack of good average preaching in Church of England pulpits, "it is now perfectly allowable for any members of the congregation who please to leave the church before the sermon begins." We are sorry to hear it, for it proves that the majority of preachers fail to reach the intellects and touch the hearts of their hearers. Where there is honey, thither the bees will collect and stay. And the custom referred to, which on most grounds should be reprobated, will have a good effect if it shall stimulate preachers in Church of England and Nonconformist pulpits to use their vast opportunities better. There is a sad lack of clear, strong exposition of what is in the Bible itself. There is no book so much talked about, but so little known as the Word of God. And there is no book so full of all that would interest and touch men. Yet preachers will speak of anything else than of those vital topics which throng the sacred pages, and possess lasting interest for men of every time. That man is sure of an audience who will open up Scripture systematically, sympathetically, and beneath the power of the Holy Spirit.

BARCELONA PROTESTANT COTTAGE HOSPITAL.—All foreign postage stamps collected for the benefit of this hospital should be sent to Miss Mielecka, whose present address is 15, Grosvenor-square, W.

AMBASSADORS OF CHRIST.

If two ambassadors were sent by a Government to a province in revolt, with an offer of free pardon to all who should unconditionally surrender, but of condign punishment to all who continued in rebellion, the plain duty of those ambassadors would be to proclaim the message in its integrity, without exaggeration or diminution. If, instead of this, they assumed to read between the lines some modification of the message, and told the rebels that their Most Gracious Sovereign could not possibly carry out in its strictness so harsh a proclamation, those ambassadors would themselves be guilty of rebellion against the Government, which they would be bringing into contempt. And if they undertook to defend the character of that Government from the charge of cruelty implied by those who believed that the Proclamation would inevitably be carried out, they would be adding insult to rebellion.

If one of these two ambassadors were faithful to his trust, and the other acted in the way above supposed, it would be the duty of the faithful one to separate from the unfaithful, and to repudiate his companion's commentary on the text of the Proclamation.

Every preacher of the Gospel is an ambassador of Christ. His orders are to "Preach the Word"—"Jesus and the Resurrection." "Ye must be born again." "God so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; he that believeth not shall be damned.' "Behold, ye despisers, and wonder, and perish." "He that is filthy, let him be filthy still; he that is righteous, let him be righteous still." Such is the preaching of Christ and his Apostles. There is no hint given by Him, or them, of any escape, if we neglect so great salvation. Those who profess to read between the lines of Scripture, and suggest to rebellious sinners that there may be hope, even for those who do not obey the proclamation, are not faithful ambassadors, but rebels against the Divine Government. And those who assume to clear God's character of cruelty, by explaining away the terrors of his proclamation, insult the Majesty of Heaven. From such all true ambassadors must withdraw themselves, in faithfulness to God who commissioned them, and to the sinners to whom they are sent.

There are men who use the words we use, but in another sense; who say that our Gospel is not their Gospel; nor our God their God. "How can two walk together except they be agreed?" This is the character of the present distress, and it must be courageously and faithfully met. It is not enough to ask subscription to a number of articles, some of them the relics of past controversies; others incoherently or even erroneously expressed; and others, which ought to be found in any adequate embodiment of Christian truth, conspicuous by their absence. The actual present evil must be squarely met, and if any such vital differences exist as we have sketched above (and it is asserted on the one hand, and admitted on the other), then any declaration which is framed should have the single purpose of asserting the obligation laid upon every Gospel preacher to preach the word in its integrity. Men will think, will speculate, will make deductions, and we are forbidden to judge the doubtful thoughts even of those who are weak in the faith; but the man who suffers his doubtful thoughts to grow up unchecked by the plain words of God, and who dilutes the Gospel with his own fancies, is thereby disqualified as an ambassador of Christ. There are some men who are so far gone in this direction that they are and ought to be discredited, as perverters of the Gospel which they profess to preach. But we must not cast out true men. There is great need of prayer and conference, but chiefly prayer for guidance, that all action may be calmly taken in the fear of God.

MISS BOOTH'S MARRIAGE.

Space would entirely fail us were we to attempt to describe the enthusiastic proceedings at the marriage of Commissioner Tucker to Miss Booth. A full account will doubtless be found in the War Cry.

The most touching feature of the day was the presence of Mrs. Booth, on account of whose failing health the marriage had been hastened. It is an open secret that her malady is cancer in the breast, and unless it be the will of God to prolong for further service the life of one who has been, to the extreme limit of her power, a single-eyed and faithful servant, there is no human hope of her recovery. This painful fact lent pathos to her words, which were listened to with earnest and attentive sympathy. She said that in her closet, when she was only fifteen, God had taught her the principles on which a true Christian life must be built up: "Whether ye eat or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God." She had embraced that idea as early as that, and by his grace, through many failures, in all great crises of her life she had been enabled to carry out that consecration, and to seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness. In one of those crises God had given her a promise by one of those illuminated texts which light up the soul, in moments when we stand in his presence and hear his voice. The Lord said to her, "I will make thee a mother of nations," and He has proved his faithfulness. "Oh, mothers and fathers, young men and women, this is the way to be had in everlasting remembrance, to give yourselves up to God for the highest and grandest of all purposes—the saving of the lost, for whom Jesus died. When the contemplation of this marriage came to me, I thought there was more of the mother than of the soldier in me. This child had been to me more than a daughter—my comforter and counsellor. My first impulse was to resist, but I had given up all, and could not draw back." Speaking of the Salvation Army, Mrs. Booth said the particular work which God had given them was to be saviours of men, to enlighten them as to God's claims upon them, and to show them what He can and will do in them and by them.

Gen. Booth conducted the proceedings, and performed the ceremony, and the bridegroom and the bride each gave a short address. An interesting sketch of Mr. and Mrs. Tucker, under the title of "Life-Links," is published by the Salvation Army. The Commissioner has made a very wise choice, and we doubt not that Mrs. Tucker will make as distinct a mark in India as her sister, Mrs. Booth-Clibborn, has on the Continent.

At the banquet several friends gave brief congratulatory addresses, notably Mr. F. W. Cressley, of Manchester, and Mr. Reginald Radcliffe. The latter said that he had no apology to make for the Salvation Army: if it had never done anything in Great Britain, it was a great missionary agency, which was winning souls in all parts of the world.

Mr. T. A. Denny, the fast friend of the Army, was conspicuous by his much regretted absence on account of indisposition.

The £5000 asked for as a marriage present—not for themselves, but for the work—was made up, one sum of £1000 being given by "a friend of India."

We devoutly trust that the prayer specially offered on Monday for the recovery of Mrs. Booth, in which many outside the Army united, may be answered in the prolongation of her devoted life.

We are requested to announce that during the past few weeks the donations of friends have been directed chiefly into the purse for the foreign field, with the result that the home work is suffering for lack of funds.

FRIENDLESS GIRLS OF LIMEHOUSE.

It is now two years since Miss Forsaith began her work among friendless girls in Limehouse. There have been many encouragements as well as some sad disappointments, but neither the former nor the latter has hindered the persevering exertions of Miss Forsaith on behalf of those whose welfare she has so much at heart.

On Monday last a meeting was held at Limehouse Rectory, in order that friends of the fallen and helpless girls of the district might be made acquainted with the progress of the work at Mitre House, 8, Three Colt-street. The chair was occupied by Bishop How, who spoke in high terms of Miss Forsaith's work. He said also that on the previous evening he learned that an effort had just been made to get two young girls into a Rescue Institution, but inquiry resulted in the sad realisation that all the Church Homes about London are full, and that promises had been made respecting impending vacancies.

Miss Aukland asked ladies not only to support rescue work, but to use their influence against the drink traffic, which is one of the great sources of sin. She explained that Miss Forsaith closes her doors upon no one, and she appealed to those present to send cast-off clothes, which might be made up for use by the inmates of the Home.

Miss Forsaith also delivered a brief address. During the past twelve months seventy-seven girls came under her care, but most of them only for a short time, as casuals. Those who had stayed in the Home will, it is hoped, turn out respectable and useful members of society. It is very desirable that the casuals should not be brought into contact with those girls who are in permanent training, and she hoped that it would soon be in her power to have a Shelter fitted up specially for receiving midnight and other casual inmates. Miss Forsaith acknowledged the goodness of God in all her experiences; throughout the year the Home had had no wants which had not been amply supplied. Some of the stories she told of reformation of life were very remarkable.

OPEN-AIR MISSION.—Dear Sir.—Permit me a corner to ask your readers for tracts for our work, or for the means with which to procure them. With 1000 members our opportunities are all but boundless. Last year we laboured in 794 towns and villages, and visited 750 races, fairs, and other special gatherings, distributing altogether 969,080 tracts, books, cards, and periodicals. The total number given during the 35 years of the Mission's existence is 20,577,775.—Yours faithfully, Gawin Kirkham, Sec.

14, Duke-street, Adelphi, London, W.C.

REQUESTS FOR PRAYER.—For blessing on a meeting to be held in the Union Tabernacle, Wandsworth-road, S.W., on Monday, May 7, at four o'clock, to pray for a revival.——For blessing on evangelistic labour at Gainsboro', Lincolnshire.——For George Robert Cairns, Victoria, British Columbia. Praise God for great blessing in the States in recent meetings. Pray for two months' evangelisation in Oregon and Washington Territory.——For John McAuliffe, at Wonersh, near Guildford, April 16 to 26.——For H. Grattan Guinness, at Y.M.C.A., Liverpool, April 14 to 24.——For John Elliott, at Kingskerswell, Devon, April 15 to 29.——For Henry Thorne, at Glasgow Y.M.C.A., April 21 to May 6.——For a fortnight's mission in the Bible Christian Chapel, South Molton.

FACTORY GIRLS IN SPITALFIELDS.

Columns upon columns in The Daily Telegraph have recently been filled by letters suggesting various ways of providing for "Our Daughters." The great majority of the writers were of opinion that all young women in the middle ranks of life ought to be taught some skilled and useful occupation, by which they could, if necessary, make provision for themselves. In that great hive of industry, the East of London, the problem seems to solve itself. Girls, as well as boys, have to carve their own way as soon as they reach a working age—ay, many a time before that age can be said to be reached. The factory appears to be the natural outlet of these candidates for labour. So we find that thousands of young women who—if born in Belgravia, would be petted and pampered till they come of age, being born in Bethnal-green or Spitalfields, have to earn their bread by the toil of hands and feet from a very early period of their lives.

These young working sisters deserve our deepest sympathy. They toil and moil from morning to night to gain a scanty pittance. They have few mental resources at command, and in too many cases, by the very necessities of their lot, their homes are not the most attractive places in the world. All this leaves them open to the allurements of dancing-saloon, music-hall, or to the rougher humours of the street. To cater for the true wants of this class, and to throw some rays of real sunshine into their lives, is a mission that an archangel might envy. Most glad are we to know that, throughout London, many ladies, themselves born to comfort and freedom from carking care, are spending life and strength in doing this very thing, and are finding in it a genuine source of joy.

These reflections have come to us from a recent visit to the Old Home of Industry in Commercial-street, Spitalfields, where a very hopeful work on behalf of factory girls is carried on under the charge of a Canadian lady, Miss Turner. Her heart seems thoroughly in her work, and she has succeeded in gaining the hearts of her hard-working sisters, so that the difficulty often experienced of securing quietude and order appears in her case to have been reduced to vanishing point. "They are as good as gold," said Miss Turner to us with pardonable enthusiasm, "they are always as quiet as you see them now." As we saw them they were enjoying a refreshing cup of tea at the close of the day's work, and the conversation, though lively enough, was certainly more subdued that we should have expected from a bevy of girls full of the life and the overflow of spirits that are the dower of youth. After tea they passed out of the little cozy parlour into the larger room, where, two evenings a week, the sewing class is held. There they ply the needle for a couple of hours or so, under the sisterly supervision of the lady workers. At nine o'clock the thimbles and garments are put aside, and for half an hour there are singing and some homely Gospel talk by the workers or by some visitor. On the evening we called the speaker was to be Mr. G. Studd, who has lately come from China, and who has for the present attached himself to Miss Macpherson's working staff.

During the day Miss Turner and other ladies visit the girls in the factories in the dinner hour while at work, and talk or read to them. A quiet work of grace is going on among the girls. On Easter Monday the Old Home of Industry was thrown open for a little recreation at that holiday season, and during a Bible-reading, at the close, several were constrained to make open confession of trust in the Saviour. And so, mingled with the sowing, there is a blessed reaping, which, of course, gives greater heart to the workers, and encourages them in this good work.

We want to pass on to our readers one or two modest suggestions that came from Miss Turner during conversation with her. We have spoken of the homes of the girls. Some of these homes are a single room which has to accommodate a household. Think of that, ye favoured daughters of fortune, who are able probably to occupy a different apartment every evening in the week. Miss Turner is very anxious to make these sewing class evenings as bright and happy as possible, and to this end she greatly covets the possession of a piano for the little parlour she has set in order for her working friends. We sincerely wish we knew the address of the well-to-do household of which we lately heard, that boasts of three pianos with only one pair of hands to use them. We should send a deputation to it, right away, and beseech the Lady Bountiful of that house to share of her superfluity with those lasses of Spitalfields to whom the gift would bring untold delights of the purest kind.

Then there are those bright summer Saturday afternoons now close upon us. After the dreary winter time we have had, how we all long for the half-holiday rambles in forest dressed in living green, or through sweet-scented country lanes, and by merry babbling brooks. For the poorly paid working girl in East London, such visions, however, do but tantalise, though she, as much as anyone, has an eye for the beautiful. What well constituted girl has not? Miss Turner's idea is that some of the many friends in the suburbs of London who have a large garden or a field might grant to her protégées the use of these on Saturday afternoons, when they could have a downright good hearty, healthy romp, a cup of tea, and plenty of pure air. We have a notion that the idea is a splendid one, and that there will not be wanting those who will give it shape. Finally, in her solicitude for the comfort of her factory friends, Miss Turner asked us to mention a somewhat curious request—raspberry (or other) jam for the tea she provides on the sewing-class evenings. We have not the heart to refuse, and hope jars upon jars of the succulent relish will find their way to 60, Commercial-street, Spitalfields, E.

BIBLE-READING ASSOCIATION.

This International Association, represented in England by the Sunday-school Union, has for its object the promotion of daily Bible-reading on the topical system, each day's selection having reference to the International Sunday-school lesson for the following Sunday. The annual meeting of branch secretaries and members was held in the Lecture Hall, 56, Old Bailey, on Tuesday 10th inst., when the chair was taken by Mr. George Williams, vice-president of the Union.

From a report which was read by Mr. C. Waters, the hon. sec., it appears that upwards of 192,000 English-speaking members have been enrolled during the present year, an increase of 44,000 over the same date in 1887. Upwards of 2000 branches have been formed in the United Kingdom, and others in America, Asia, Africa, Australasia, and the islands of the sea. Cards in French, German, and Swedish have also been issued to Sunday-schools in countries using those languages. The Committee have been much encouraged by numerous letters of approval, and especially by the knowledge that teachers have been helped in their work, scholars induced to take a more intelligent interest in the lessons, and, best of all, that young hearts have been won for the Lord. The Chairman expressed his gratification at the success of the Association, and spoke of the Bible as the source of comfort and strength for all times and everybody.

THE PILGRIM'S PROGRESS.—During the past month Mr. Adam Chambers, of New York, has given his lecture on the "Pilgrim's Progress" in four of the halls of the Evangelistic Mission. The audiences were delighted and profited. The lecture is illustrated by a series of large panoramic views, specially painted by Mr. Chambers to illustrate the subject. They serve to bring out in a very vivid manner many of the principal points of the wonderful allegory, while Mr. Chambers' graphic and earnest discourse constitutes a thorough Gospel sermon.

WIDOWS' FRIEND SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of the friends and subscribers of this excellent Society was held on Friday last at the Mansion House, Major and Sheriff Davies in the chair. Generally speaking, the operations of the Society are confined within a radius of three miles from St. Paul's. Besides help given to widows in the form of sewing machines, mangles, irons, and so forth, a number of money grants are made; and during last year the twelve pensions of £5 each to aged Christian widows were maintained. The expenditure last year fell very little short of the total income. The work of the Society is eminently practical, and capable of very great extension; therefore it is hoped that continued and increased support will be accorded, especially as there is so much need for such help as it renders to the poor and afflicted.

Addresses commending the work of the Society were delivered by the Chairman, Revs. P. C. Smith, J. Berger, W. Winn, H. E. Simpson, and others.

THE NEW HOME OF INDUSTRY,

29, BETHNAL GREEN ROAD.

The electric flash has brought to us from the distant shore the words "Safe and well," telling us of our precious family of one hundred boys. Sea and land journeys all passed by, our hearts are now up unto God that, after a little home life, our nephews will have the wisdom to place the boys each in the right home, and that, with a Father's blessing, they will become good and true citizens in the Dominion of Canada.

Since their departure, we have had a prolonged cold winter time, and our poor aged, unemployed, struggling young mothers have been our peculiar care. Last week we had a thousand of them in to spend an evening with us, 200 at a time, giving each a meat tea. All received this with grateful hearts.

After each meal Mr. Charles Inglis, with touching power, presented the Gospel message in such clear and forcible language that many stayed behind and professed decision for the Lord Jesus Christ. Mr. Inglis brought his apt and pointed illustrations from an experience of twenty years of active evangelistic work in many lands, and from among varied classes—from the negroes in South America and the aborigines of Australia. We are all refreshed and filled with praise, seeing Jews and Gentiles, old and young, costers, dock labourers, factory girls, witnessed to in a very clear and definite way. Most of them were spoken personally with as to their state before God.

We thank heartily all those who labour with us to clothe the naked and feed the hungry. Every shilling has been most economically laid out. Our winter has been the happiest and fullest of spiritual blessing, since, as a band of workers, we have laboured together.

Mr. and Mrs. Merry will leave us on the morning of May 17 with over one hundred young girls. Many of these have given us great joy; our chief desire is that they should go into the homes of our personal friends in Canada. We rejoice the more that they will be henceforth sheltered from the temptations from which they have been gathered. A boys' and girls' party is forming to sail (D.V.) in July, under our own charge.

We ask a continuance of the prayers of all our co-labourers.

Annie Macpherson.

THE GERMAN BAPTIST MISSION.—The "Quarterly Reporter" of this Mission, founded by Pastor Oncken, Hamburg, states that the biennial conference of the churches will be held this year at Königsberg, East Prussia, commencing on July 19. Any friends who may think of visiting Königsberg at the time of this interesting conference may obtain all needful information from Rev. Martin H. Wilkin, Hampstead, N.W.

SOCIAL WORSHIP.

Matt. xviii. 20.

O Gracious Father, here we meet
In union at thy mercy-seat;
Deign Thou to bend a listening ear,
Send loving answers to our prayer.

Help us in weakness to draw near,
And worship in thy Holy fear;
Our past transgressions, Lord, forgive,
And pure and spotless may we live.

Thy ways are righteous, just, and true,
"Thy mercies every morning new;"
We would with gratitude adore,
And strive to love Thee more and more.

Blest Saviour, who for us hast died,
And washed us from our guilt and pride,
To Thee, who saved us from the fall,
We yield our souls, our life, our all.

May we be precious in thy sight,
"And walk as children of the light,"
And may our conduct ever prove
That we are ransomed by thy love.

R. J. C.

MR. DENHAM SMITH.—Again we are enabled to report an improvement in Mr. Denham Smith's condition. He has this week been more free from some of the more serious expressions of his malady than for some time past, and this has been accompanied with a corresponding rally in his strength.

BOURNEMOUTH.—The first annual meeting of the Y.M.C.A. at Westbourne was held last week. Under the direction of a very efficient hon. secretary it has more than justified its existence. Good evangelistic work has been done, and not a few souls have been led to Christ through its tent and other meetings.

REV. W. HAY AITKEN.—At the unanimous invitation of the clergy of Belfast, Mr. Aitken, accompanied by Rev. A. W. D'Arcy, is about to begin a prolonged series of mission services in that town. God willing, he will commence on Sunday next. Earnest prayer is desired on behalf of this important effort.

A CONFERENCE of BIBLE CARRIAGE WORKERS and those interested in colportage work will be held at the Gospel Hall, St. Nicholas-road, Bristol, April 24 and 25, at eleven, three, and seven each day. Any who purpose attending, and need accommodation, should communicate with Mr. James Vicary, Ebenezer House, Dalrymple-road, Bristol; or Mr. A. G. West, Warkwood, Redland, Bristol.

SICILY.—In the ninth annual report on evangelisation in Italy, by Signors Varnier and Scuderi, it is stated that in September last, when the island fell under the scourge of cholera, the Gospel message was proclaimed with much acceptance and remarkable results. The annual receipts on behalf of this interesting Mission are still below the amount required. Mr. D. Matheson, 120, Queen's Gate, S.W., is hon. secretary to the committee.

LAMBETH RAGGED SCHOOLS SOCIETY.—The operations of this Society are varied and beneficent. The ragged schools were established over forty years ago, and they were never more highly appreciated than now, the average attendance on Sunday afternoons being 1070. Religious, educational, and social meetings are organised by the Society, the welfare of adults being considered as well as that of children. Distress is relieved, children are sent into the country for a holiday, and in many other ways great good is done. Mr. E. Nicholls, 106, Leathwaite-road, Clapham Common, S.W., is hon. sec. of the Society.

PARIS Y.M.C.A.—The Secretary writes:—We have been much refreshed during the past week by a visit from Mr. William Noble, of London, who was passing through Paris, and who kindly visited our rooms at our song service, when his earnest words reached many hearts. The room was filled with young men. The following evening he spoke to a large gathering in one of the McAll Mission rooms, and the following day had an English Bible-reading in the drawing-room of Rev. S. R. Brown. On Sunday evening he again spoke to a large French audience. He has thus had a capital "rest" in Paris, and we all hope he will return to London strengthened for the work. On Sunday Mr. Noble spoke at Miss De Broen's Mission at Belville, and arrived home on Tuesday morning ready for a summer's campaign.

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

HOME.

The Baptist Church at Ayr, N.B., has a total of 118 members, all abstainers.

In Scotland and Ireland, notably in the former, illicit distillation is increasing.

Dr. Cameron has brought in a Bill to amend the Habitual Drunkards Act.

The landlords of 180 parishes in Scotland prohibit the sale of intoxicants on their land.

At Glasgow the applications for licences exceeded by 55 the number at the same term last year.

By a recent decision at Wincanton "cider if intoxicating" cannot legally be given in lieu of wages.

The Law Times says the Government is considering the question of the sale of intoxicants in clubs.

Resolutions in favour of the direct veto and against compensation to publicans are being passed all over the country.

In the columns of The Band of Hope Chronicle a discussion is going on as to the use of unfermented wine at the Lord's Supper.

The Army Division of the C.E.T.S. appears to be worked with vigour and success both on the home and foreign stations.

Lady Henry Somerset says that "out of a list of 150,000 unemployed that came before a board last year only two were abstainers."

A police temperance society was formed lately at Brighton. Chief Inspector Gibbs set the example, and 30 of the men signed the pledge.

The Bond of Union, hearing that a brewer has been asked to preside at a Baptist missionary meeting, earnestly protests against such an anomaly.

Professor Thorold Rogers says as to compensation, "A public house does not exist for me, and I don't see why the owner of it should be paid out at my cost."

At a large meeting of working men in St. George's Hall, Belfast, recently, resolutions in favour of the Sunday Closing (Ireland) Bill were carried by acclamation.

Mr. John Morley, one of the leaders of the Liberal party, has declared himself as in favour of the principle of local option, tempered by a proportionate majority.

The Band of Hope Chronicle for April publishes a number of communications from ministers of various churches in favour of the use of unfermented wine at the Communion.

The Wesleyan Conference Temperance Committee have decided that it is desirable to have a Connexional Travelling Temperance Secretary, if sufficient funds be guaranteed for at least three years.

Sir Roper Lethbridge, M.P., has written The Time urging that "respect for what is best in native Indian public opinion should force us to make a real and honest inquiry into the working of our excise policy in the various provinces."

Mr. Henry Tennant, General Manager of the North Eastern Railway, says that if the money annually spent on drink in our country were laid in sovereigns side by side, there would be sufficient to cover four lines of rails between London and Edinburgh.

The Liverpool clergy of all denominations, headed by Bishop Ryle, have by memorial thanked Mr. Justice Grantham for his remarks at the recent assizes on the drink traffic. In his reply the judge says the abuse he has received makes him feel he has "touched a weak point."

In a recent address Rev. M. G. Pearse said:—"What is the use of being a teetotaller if you are ashamed to let people know it? Your great power to help people is by letting them know what you are. If I can help a man by wearing a blue ribbon I will wear one in every button-hole I have."

The closing festival of the twenty-sixth series of the Lambeth Baths meetings was held on Saturday evening. The attendance during the year reached 100,000. Resolutions declaring the necessity for means of relaxation and recreation for the working poor, and for the check by the ratepayers over the issue of licences for the sale of intoxicating liquors, were passed.

In a scathing article on the proposed Liquor legislation Rev. H. Price Hughes says:—"For the first time in English history it is proposed to give the liquor-sellers fixity of tenure, and to defend them against all assaults by enormous financial compensation. Englishmen have long grovelled before the beer-barrel, but never so abjectly as this. If the Liquor clauses of the Local Government Bill pass, our enemies are right: the mental and moral decadence of England has begun."

FOREIGN.

An influential meeting was held lately at Sierra Leone to protest against the drink traffic with native races.

Mrs. Burnell, wife of the Chaplain of Missions to Seamen, Bilbao, writes that during the year 222 sailors have signed the pledge there.

At the Massachusetts Home for Intemperate Women, 66 per cent. of the cost of working the establishment is earned by the inmates at laundry and needlework.

Neal Dow has been defeated as candidate for the mayoralty of Portland, Maine, U.S.A. It is said that large sums were sent by the liquor interest to assist the opposition to his election.

The Supreme Court of Hawaii has rendered a decision giving the king a veto power. As he is strongly opposed to all reform movements, all hope of legislation favourable to temperance during his administration has been dispelled.

CONTINENTAL & FOREIGN NOTES.

PRUSSIA.—The Kirchlicher Anzeiger compares the large sums spent last year by the Government on Theatres and other places of amusement, with the small amount used for churches and institutions for the moral elevation of the people.

DEAN BOOMER, of the Diocese of Huron, died on March 4 last, from the effects of a paralytic attack sustained some years ago. He was rector of Trinity Church, Galt, for 32 years, and for the last sixteen years was Dean of Huron, and Principal and Professor of Divinity in Huron College. He was very deeply respected by all denominations.

TANGIER.—Evangelistic services in English were recently held in the large room of the American Consulate, Tangier. Addresses were delivered by Captain Armstrong, of the Soldiers' Home at Gibraltar, and Mr. John Anderson, of Ardrossan. After one of the meetings a tea was given by friends to a number of the sailors of the U.S. frigate Enterprise.—Times of Morocco.

INDIANS OF PARAGUAY.—An appeal has been issued by the Committee of the South American Missionary Society for £1000, to enable them to send out a missionary party to the Indians of the Paraguayan Chaco. In the event of this sum being raised, Mr. Henriksen, who has been appointed head of the Mission, will, in company with two helpers, sail from England about May 16.

A CHINESE WEEKLY PAPER, called The Chinese Evangelist, has been started in New York. Since The Chinese American was discontinued, the million Chinese in the United States have had no newspaper to represent them in their aims, needs, and frequent wrongs. Its publication is chiefly for the purpose of assisting in their labours teachers in the hundred or more Chinese Sunday-schools throughout the country.

FRANCE.—The suppression by Government of the Paris and Montauban Faculty of Theology is greatly exercising the Reformed Churches and those of the Augsburg Confession. According to their rules, no man can be one of their pastors who is not qualified by a degree of Bachelor of Theology. The Paris Signal thinks that good will be the result; the churches will of necessity become more independent and self-supporting.

SAN REMO.—News has been received at San Remo that Father Luke Rivington, who was the preacher this season at All Saints' High Church, San Remo, has gone over to the Church of Rome. The news has created a very painful impression, as his preaching was orthodox, and in one sermon he condemned Mariolatry. At the same time, as he was a member of the Cowley Fatherhood, wore a monk's dress, and was extremely Romanist in his ritual, many think he has simply reached the goal to which he was not only travelling himself but leading others. Father Rivington was formerly preacher at Cannes, and there the news has created a sensation such as has been caused here at San Remo.

EVANGELISATION OF ISRAEL.—A circular addressed to the pastors and members of the various Evangelical Churches of France has been issued by the president, committee, and members, of the recently formed Society in Paris for the Evangelisation of Israel, inviting their co-operation. Three groups of facts are urged as encouragements to seeking the conversion of the 130,000 Jews in France and Algeria—viz., (1) The revival of the anti-Semitic hatred of Gentiles against Jews; (2) the remarkable movement towards Christianity among the Jews of Eastern Europe; and (3) the formation in so many countries of societies which meet the requirements of those students who desire to study the Jewish question.

DR. BARNARDO'S HOMES.—The Prince and Princess Oscar of Sweden spent some hours on Monday afternoon in visiting several of Dr. Barnardo's Homes in the East of London. The Prince minutely inspected the internal arrangements of the different institutions, and manifested great interest in the various trades and industries carried on by the boys.

TORQUAY CONFERENCE.—Much local interest was manifested in the three days' Conference at Torquay last week. Resident Christian workers cordially supported the visitors in their able testimony to the unchangeableness of Christ in his loving relations to the Church. Among the speakers were Revs. Colin Campbell, E. N. Thwaites, and J. Wilkinson.

THE METROPOLITAN DESTITUTE WORKMEN'S AID SOCIETY, under Royal patronage, supplies the deserving poor with free meals and lodgings, during sickness and slack trade. The work is carried out by a system of tickets, which are purchased and distributed by benevolent persons. Many practical philanthropists are in active sympathy with the Society, the head office of which is at 5, Westminster-chambers, Victoria-street, S.W.

⁂ In our last issue there appeared an advertisement for a nurse "of any nationality but Irish." We regret very much that such a sentence appeared, and need hardly say that it would not have been inserted if our attention had been called to it before printing.

TRINITARIAN BIBLE SOCIETY

r the Circulation of Uncorrupted Versions of the Word of God.

HE FIFTY-SEVENTH ANNUAL MEETING

WILL (D.V.) BE HELD AT

EXETER HALL on TUESDAY, APRIL 24.

The Chair will be taken at 6.45 p.m., by

COLONEL PUGET.

The Meeting will be addressed by the Rev. James rmiston (Rector of St. Mary le Port, Bristol), the Rev. ohn Wilkinson (Director of the Mildmay Mission to he Jews), the Rev. Walter J. Mayers (City-road hapel, Bristol), and it is hoped Pasteur Dardier (Secreary of the Société Evangélique de Genève).

Tickets may be had at the Office of the Society, 7, St. aul's Churchyard, E.C.

All persons who believe that the Holy Scriptures hould be circulated only in their uncorrupted integrity re respectfully invited to attend.

BUNYAN'S Pilgrim's Progress

Pocket Edition. Size $5\frac{7}{8} \times 4\frac{1}{8} \times \frac{3}{4}$ inches.

Neatly Bound in Roxburgh Style, 1s.

Handsomely Bound in Cloth Boards, Gilt Edges (suitable for Presentation), 1s. 6d.

HIRTEEN ORIGINAL ILLUSTRATIONS, PORTRAIT OF JOHN BUNYAN, and FAC-SIMILE OF HIS HANDWRITING.

Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress.

Tinted Covers, 6d.

WITH THIRTEEN ORIGINAL ILLUSTRATIONS
Specially Drawn for this Work.

Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress.

Fancy Boards, Cloth Back, 1s.

WITH THIRTEEN ORIGINAL ILLUSTRATIONS
Specially Drawn for this Work.

Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress.

Superior Edition.

Cloth Boards (suitable for Presentation), 1s. 6d.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

NEW AND CHEAPER EDITION.

SEARCHING THE SCRIPTURES

In order to Abiding Communion with God. Also, Suggestions for Bible Reading and Study, and a Plan for Consecutive Daily Reading.

BY

DR. J. ANDERSON,

Graduate of King's College, Aberdeen, and Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London.

TINTED COVERS - - - -	1s. 6d.
CLOTH LIMP - - - -	2s. 0d.
CLOTH BOARDS - - - -	2s. 6d.
PRESENTATION EDITION.
CLOTH, BEVD. BDS., GILT EDGES	3s. 6d.

"'Searching the Scriptures' is a scholarly, accurate, suggestive, and wise work on the study of the Books of the Bible: how best to get at their teaching; and how best to turn their teaching to practical account. Preachers and teachers will find it a treasury of thought; beautiful expositions; and fruitful suggestions."
Oldham Chronicle.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE "D. L. MOODY" LIBRARY.

Containing Ten of Mr. Moody's most popular works, well-bound up in Five Vols., in a nicely made box. Similar to the "Anna Shipton" Library.

CONTENTS.

1. Sovereign Grace. / The Way to God.
2. Power from on High. / To the Work.
3. Bible Characters. / Prevailing Prayer.
4. Addresses. / Faithful Saying.
5. The Old Gospel. / Heaven.

10/6 NETT.

"Fresh, direct, pictorial, and powerful."
General Baptist Magazine.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Works by D. L. Moody.

SOVEREIGN GRACE:

Its Source, its Nature, and its Effects.

Tinted Covers, 1s. Limp Cloth, 1s. 6d.
Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.

"These short and telling Gospel Addresses are just the kind of message men need. The ordinary difficulties, the hindrances, and objections, are all here met; this too in such a way as to disarm criticism and awaken sympathy."—Irish Congregational Magazine.

PREVAILING PRAYER.

A Series of Addresses on Prayer.

By D. L. MOODY.

Tinted Covers, 1s. Limp Cloth, 1s. 6d.
Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.

"This book shows partly in what Mr. Moody's power lies—his clearness, earnestness, simplicity, and faith. Would that we had a thousand such preachers! Surely they would move the world!"—Watchman.

BIBLE CHARACTERS.

By D. L. MOODY.

Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.;
Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

CONTENTS.

Daniel the Prophet. Lot. John the Baptist.
Enoch. Jacob. The Blind Man.
Joseph of Arimathea.

"Many valuable lessons are here drawn from the old-time stories of the Bible, and urged in plain and vigorous language upon the men and women of to-day."
Primitive Methodist.

WONDROUS LOVE.

A SERIES OF ADDRESSES.

TINTED COVERS, 1s.; Limp Cloth, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Boards, 2s.; Cloth Boards, Gilt Edges, 2s. 6d.

"I will challenge any one on the face of the earth to find any reason for not loving Christ. It is only here on earth men think they have a reason for not doing so. In heaven they know Him, and they shout 'Worthy is the Lamb that was slain!'"—EXTRACT.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

By the REV. F. B. MEYER, B.A.

(OF REGENT'S PARK CHAPEL).

ELIJAH: And the Secret of His Power.

WITH NINE ILLUSTRATIONS

Specially Engraved for this Work.

CONTENTS.

The Source of Elijah's Strength.
Beside the Drying Brook.
Ordered to Zarephath.
"The Spirit and Power of Elias."
The Test of the Home Life.
Obadiah—A Contrast.
The Plan of Campaign.
The Conflict on the Heights of Rain at Last. [Carmel.
How the Mighty Fell.
Loving-kindness Better than Life.
The "Still Small Voice."
"Go, Return!"
Naboth's Vineyard.
The Old Courage Again.
Evensong.
The Translation.
A Double Portion of Elijah's
The Transfiguration. [Spirit.
"Filled with the Holy Ghost."

Attractively Bound in Cloth ... ... 2s. 6d.

PRESENTATION EDITION:

Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges... ... 3s. 6d.

"We have read this volume with great care, and have been amply repaid by its contents. The varied events in the life of the Prophet are lucidly and graphically portrayed, and his character is admirably delineated. The doctrine is throughout consistently scriptural. Elijah's strong faith and temporary failure are powerfully reproduced. What we like much in the work is not only the happy use of Scriptural language, but likewise the practical lessons deduced from that old-world story and from the experiences of the Prophet for our own times and for ourselves individually. We cordially advise our readers to lose no time in putting themselves in possession of this really valuable little volume."
The Christian Treasury.

ISRAEL: A Prince with God.

THE STORY OF JACOB RE-TOLD.

CONTENTS.

First Impressions.
The Sale of the Birthright.
The Stolen Blessing.
The Angel-Ladder.
The Noble Resolve.
The Education of Home.
The Mid-Passage of Life.
The Stirring-Up of the Nest.
The Midnight Wrestle.
Failure.
Back to Bethel.
The School of Sorrow.
Glimpses of the Israel-Nature.
Rest and the Rest-Giver.
Home: at Last!
The God of Jacob.

With FULL-PAGE ILLUSTRATIONS of
THE RIVER JORDAN and JACOB'S WELL.

Attractively Bound in Cloth ... ... 2s. 6d.

PRESENTATION EDITION:

Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges... ... 3s. 6d.

"We have had considerable pleasure in reading this book on the Life of Jacob. Mr. Meyer has great descriptive power. He can tell a narrative well. The subject in his hand glows with life; and the scenes and events in the history of his hero pass vividly before you, and are ever being used to force home on the readers some great and important principle. The volume is prettily got up, well bound, and embellished with frontispiece and illustrations."
Baptist Messenger.

"Exceedingly good. Not only spiritual, as everything from our brother, Mr. Meyer, would be, but also thoughtful, fresh, suggestive, and thoroughly practical."—The Sword and Trowel.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

(Continued from page [illegible].)

LONDON.

WEST CENTRAL HOTEL. [illegible] Temperance), [illegible] Southampton-row, Russell-square.—Highly commended [illegible]

HENDERSON'S HOTEL, LONDON,
20, Bedford-place, Russell-sq., W.C.

This first-class Private Hotel is highly recommended by readers of THE CHRISTIAN [illegible] Proprietor. [illegible] Bedford-place.

ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA.—Boarding Establishment, Mellors House, 20 and 21 [illegible]-road. Conducted by the Widow of the late Rev. T. [illegible] and Mrs. [illegible]. Good table. Home comforts. Terms moderate. Near sea, gardens, and rail.

HEALTH RESORT FOR CHRISTIANS. Comfortable winter Home near Stroud. Dry and sheltered. [illegible]

BRIGHTON.—Sussex House Boarding Establishment, [illegible] special terms for winter months.
Mr. & Mrs. BOX, 53, Old Steine.

ABODE OF FAITH, established 1878, to receive [illegible]
Mrs. [illegible], [illegible]-road, St. John's Wood. [illegible]

HIGHBURY.—Board and Residence for Christian City Gentlemen. Terms moderate.—[illegible]

ST. LEONARDS.—88, Warrior-square.—Winter Residence. Superior boarding establishment. South-west aspect. [illegible] Bath-room, and every home comfort. [illegible] Terms moderate and inclusive.

INTEMPERANCE.—Private Home for [illegible]

HASTINGS.—BOARD AND RESIDENCE in a Christian family [illegible]

HASTINGS.—Boarding Establishment [illegible]

COMFORTABLE HOME FOR LADY BOARDERS [illegible]

WORTHING HOME OF REST for Christians. [illegible] Terms [illegible] SUPERINTENDENT [illegible]

ALL SEEKING APARTMENTS or Board [illegible]

ROTHESAY, SCOTLAND.—Health Resort for Christians. [illegible]
COLIN CAMPBELL, Argyle Lodge.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Furnished Apartments. Central, sheltered position. South aspect. Near pier and gardens. Hot and cold water baths. Terms moderate.
Mrs. [illegible], [illegible], St. Peter's-road.

TO INVALIDS.—Board and Residence. Medical [illegible]

TO BE LET OR SOLD, a charming [illegible]

GOOD FAMILY RESIDENCE, furnished or unfurnished, in a small market town in [illegible], containing nine bed-rooms, two reception, [illegible]-room; large garden, orchard, coach-house and stable. Good opening for a Christian [illegible].—For further particulars address A. B. H., [illegible], London, E.C.

BEDFORD HOTEL, London.—93 and 95, Southampton-row, Russell-square.—Quiet family Hotel; central. Bed-rooms from 1s. 6d.; plain breakfast or tea, 1s. 3d. Other charges equally moderate.
THOMAS HENRY WALDUCK, Proprietor.

TO LET, in a pleasant suburb within five minutes' walk of the church and ten minutes of the City of Hereford, a semi-detached House, containing six rooms, kitchen, and scullery, with small productive garden. Rent £[illegible]. Evangelical ministry.—K., 51, Ross-road, Hereford.

COUNTRY CHRISTIAN HOME, with every comfort as one of the family, for Lady or Gentleman, at a superior farm residence, in healthy neighbourhood in North Hants. Phaeton, shooting, fishing.
M. G., [illegible], Trafalgar-road, Old Kent-road, London.

HOME FOR LADIES at Weston-super-Mare can be confidently recommended for its Evangelical tone and domestic comfort. Educational advantages if required. The house is large, and charmingly situated.—Miss AYERST, Ayerst Hall, Cambridge, will gladly furnish further details.

MRS. WILBRAHAM TAYLOR wishes to recommend a comfortable Home for little Girls from two to seven years of age. A very healthy locality.—Hadley Hurst, Barnet.

COMFORTABLE HOME offered to middle-aged Christian Woman with female manager of village coffee-room. Inclusive terms 5s. a week.
Miss SANDLE, Great Bardfield, Braintree, Essex.

BLACKHEATH.—Home with Board offered by the Widow of a Medical man, to Ladies, or to children needing motherly care. Terms moderate. References, Dr. Kidd, Blackheath; [illegible] Belmont-park, Lee, S.E.
E. F., 8, Bennett-park, Blackheath, S.E.

KONIGSHEIM HOUSE OF REST, Weston-super-Mare. This Home provides a rest to English and Foreign Governesses, and Lady Christian Workers. Terms from 12s. to 21s. a week inclusive.—Address LADY SUPERINTENDENT.

BOURNEMOUTH.—A Lady receives a few Boarders. Home comforts. Good position, dry and sheltered, with sunny aspect. Terms moderate. References.
M. H., Leigh Wood, Cambridge-road, Bournemouth.

A LADY SEEKS a permanent Home with [illegible] Church. [illegible] preferred. Box-room essential. Moderate terms.
HOME, Hickson's Library, Finsbury-park, N.

BRIGHTON.—A comfortable [illegible] Situated near the sea and pavilion. Terms from 25s.
Mrs. B., 64, Grand Parade.

LAUSANNE ROAD, PECKHAM.—Bed-room, [illegible] with or without [illegible] offered in a Christian family to either [illegible]. Near to rail or tram to any part. Terms moderate.
[illegible], Lausanne-road, Peckham.

A HOME OFFERED to one Gentleman, in a quiet cheerful private family [illegible]
E. M., [illegible]

MENTAL.—Bishopstone House, Bedford, [illegible]

PARIS.—Intending visitors wishing comfortable Home [illegible]

TO BE LET for six months, six-roomed House Furnished. [illegible]

CHRISTIAN PERSON desired, to share comfortable Home [illegible]
[illegible], Watford, Herts.

JERSEY.—Comfortable, quiet Home offered to a Lady in private family [illegible]. Close to sea and [illegible]. [illegible] weekly. References exchanged.—[illegible] Library, St. Helier's, Jersey.

LAUSANNE.—The President, Con[illegible] Y.M.C.A. [illegible] HENRIQUET, widow of a devoted French Pastor. It commands fine view of Lake and Alps. Five to seven francs a day. Mlle. HENRIQUET gives lessons in French and singing when desired. Baths (hot or cold).

FOR SALE.—Small Photographic Business. Fashionable watering place, South coast. [illegible] thoroughfare. Proprietor retiring, will teach business if necessary.
[illegible], St. Leonard's-on-Sea.

PARKSTONE, three miles from Bournemouth. To Let, furnished, detached Residence, containing three reception, six bed-rooms, dressing-room, with other accommodation. Coach house, stabling for three horses, lawn, good garden. It commands a splendid view of Poole Harbour, the Purbeck Hills, and surrounding country. The climate is mild, yet bracing, soil exceptionally dry. Within ten minutes' walk of three churches and station.—Apply to Windholm, Parkstone, Dorset.

COMFORTABLE CHRISTIAN HOME offered to two or three Ladies, for permanence, or a shorter period. Charmingly situated at Eastbourne. Terms moderate.
M. P., St. John's Rehoboth, Selwyn-road, Upperton.

FOLKESTONE.—To Let, for three or six months, a well-furnished House, containing [illegible]-room, two sitting-rooms, five bed-rooms, and the usual offices. Linen and plate if required. Terms moderate.—Apply to the LANDLADY, 12, [illegible]

AN ELDERLY LADY seeks quiet residence, with attendance, in a Christian home. The central part of Brighton. Plenty of air indispensable.—L., Friends' Meeting House, Ship-street, Brighton.

BRIGHTON.—BOARD & RESIDENCE in a comfortable Christian home. Close to the sea and West Pier. Terms from one to two guineas per week.
Mrs. JOHNSTON, 11, Cannon-place, Brighton.

WIDOW LADY offers Board and Residence to Lady who would be companionable, helpful, and pay twelve shillings weekly. Good reference required.—K. B., Norfolk House, Gild[illegible]

SEASIDE LODGINGS.—Mrs. [illegible] furnished Rooms to Let. [illegible]

A LADY OR GENTLEMAN desiring Residence by the seaside, temporary or permanent, would find every comfort in the home of small Christian family. No children.
MAJOR, Pomona, Sandown, I.W.

CLEVEDON, SOMERSET.—House for sale very cheap; well built, twenty rooms. Suitable for school, convalescent home, or private residence.—For particulars apply,
ALONZO DAWES, Clevedon.

Miscellaneous.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS.—A Christian will gladly correspond with any earnest seeker after Divine truth.—EVANGELIST, Clapham, S.W. [illegible]

ELEGANT COUNTERPANE, Turkey Twill and White Calico. Coloured Illustration, model, and instructions, 9 stamps. Charming Cretonne Summer Counterpane, model and instructions, 9 stamps.—CLIFFORD, Newport, Mon.

AMERICAN ORGAN, by "Alleger." Walnut case. Seven stops. Two couplers. Humana, knee swells. Sweet, powerful tone. Warranted five years. Suit church, school, parlour. £10. [illegible]-road, Stoke Newington Green, N.

GALVANISM AND MASSAGE.—[illegible] of St. [illegible] Mitchell system of Massage. Thoroughly understood and carried out by certificated Masseuses.

NEEDLEWORK FOR LADIES, for Pleasure and Profit. Directions for new Art Work, lovely things in Knitting and Crochet. Useful articles and wearable things. Saleable Bazaar articles. How to dispose of Work, and List of Work Societies. Third edition, 194 pages. Price 1s. 6d. post free.—Ringrose, Malvern Link.

UMBRELLAS RE-COVERED FROM 2S. EACH.

IF YOUR UMBRELLA WANTS RE-COVERING send it by Parcels Post (with Postal Order enclosed) to STRONG BROS., Umbrella Makers, Redhill, Surrey, who will re-cover it and return it [illegible] post carriage paid. [illegible] Patterns post free. Reference [illegible] to the Rev. W. J. Powell, Redhill. [illegible] New Umbrellas at wholesale price. [illegible]

BYWATER, TANQUERAY & CO., [illegible], London (late BYWATER, [illegible]), are Agents for Residents abroad, Missionaries (Chaplains, &c., in every part of the world. Goods and Outfits supplied at Wholesale prices. Shipping and passages arranged. Banking in all its branches. Full descriptive Catalogue post free. Specially appointed Agents to seven of the leading English and American Missionary Societies. [illegible]

THE SOUTH DEVON HEALTH RESORT
BISHOPS TEIGNTON (Teignmouth the nearest Station.)
All the Rooms in this Establishment are engaged until the end of April.
C. F. CARPENTER, Proprietor.

INSTITUTIONS, &c.—Fine, stron
Granular Tea [illegible] per 20 lb. caddy. Carri paid in suburbs; country (England), 6d. [illegible]
References to leading caterers.—SELECT CEY
TEA AGENCY, 33, Lime-street, London.

SHORTHAND.—Brief, legible, a as easy as ABC. The Manual, 6d., post free. ductive Reader, 6d. Both admirably adapted self-instruction.
REDFERN, Saxe Coburg-street, Leicest

LARGE YELLOW AFRICAN DAIS
[illegible] Invaluable for church or t
[illegible] In bloom from June to Decem
[illegible] post free. Gigantic Lemon Sunflo
Very handsome; rare. Seed 4d. Scabious, mi colours; 2d. per packet. Grass, 3d. per pac
Also very choice Hardy Flower Seeds, for gar border, [illegible] for 1s. Sold for a charity.
Miss W. B., Wrentham Rectory, Suffol

CHOICE FLOWER SEEDS, contai
ing 12 varieties, in liberal quantities, includ
Aster, Balsam, Mignonette, Musk, &c., in Fl
[illegible] with full directions for culture, post f
1s.—G. STILLMAN, 32, Northumberland-pl
Bayswater.

COLONIES.—Immediate Openin for [illegible] on good stock and grain farms, and l
[illegible] the United States, and Tasma
Premium from £50. Pamphlet free.—F
[illegible] & CO., 21, Finsbury-pavem
London.

HIGH-CLASS FAMILY WASHING.
The Imperial Sanitary Steam Laundry, situate one of the most delightful suburbs of London, beautiful drying grounds and an abundant su of water. [illegible] charges. Prompt deliver Price list on application to MANAGER, [illegible] road, Dartmouth-park, near Highgate, N.W.

WASHING WANTED by an expe
[illegible] Laundress, with every convenience. T
[illegible] Highest references. Good drying gro and [illegible] supply of water.—Mrs. HUNT, L
[illegible] Laundry, 21, Park-terrace, East-
[illegible], Westbourne-park.

MARQUEES AND TENTS of eve
description on sale or hire. Good second-h
Tents for sale cheap.

BELL'S CELEBRATED AMERIC
ORGAN (new), 12 stops, including grand or [illegible] Very powerful. Maker's warr
[illegible] Any reasonable offer. On appro
[illegible]
[illegible], Wynford-road, Islington, Londo

INFANTS' FIRST SHIRTS, bea
[illegible] fine Cambric, trimmed, six for 5s 6d., u
[illegible] A few of the same material left [illegible] Approval. A Lady would be grateful for orders.—M. M., 27, Margaret-st [illegible], London, W.

BIBLE-CARRIAGE for sale. G with one horse or a pair. Light and conv[illegible]
[illegible] all railway bridges. Carries fo [illegible] besides driver, with ease, and ample space for a large quantity of books, &
Apply by letter only to Colonel W., 30, Grove [illegible], London, N.W. Carriage can be seen appointment.

FIFTH APPLICATION.—Natio
Benevolent Institution, 65, Southampton-
Bloomsbury, W.C. The favour of your Votes
Interest is earnestly solicited on behalf of JU
AUSTIN, aged 63 years, the Daughter of a Surve who died in 1854. She has since gained her li as Governess, helping also to support her mo until the death of the latter in 1868. Her adva age now prevents her obtaining any permane remunerative employment, and she is conseque dependent on the kindness of friends, having income or pension. The case is strongly re mend by: *Rev. [illegible], Coddington Rect
Chester; Rev. G. K. Thornton, St. Barnabas V
[illegible] Allison-road, Kensington; *A. Dobito,
[illegible] Islington; *A. Fra[illegible]
[illegible] Sinclair-road, West Kensington-park
[illegible] 36, Harcourt-terrace, South K
[illegible] Mrs. Waller, 33, St. Mary Abbott's-ter
Kensington. Proxies will be thankfully rece by those marked thus*.

Death.

STURGE.—April 14, at Wo
thorpe, Sydenham, GEORGE STURGE, aged
Friends kindly accept this intimation.

NOTICE.

TO facilitate the removal of extensive stock to new premi
we shall be prepared to supply, three weeks only, for free distri tion (not for sale), an assorted parcel, as under, for 10s., carri not paid. Remittance to acc pany order.

PARCEL A., consisting of £2
penny and halfpenny Gos
Booklets, Leaflets for Letters, Fl
Scripture Leaflets, &c., &c., for 1

The authors of these inc
Mr. Spurgeon, Mr. Everard,
Luff, Charlotte Murray, A.
Weston, &c.

Orders to be sent direct to
Drummond's Tract Depot, Stirl

MISS E. LEWIS, 5, Cadogan-uare, S.W., seeks a light place as Nursemaid or eneral Servant for a Girl (24). Respectable, clean, entle, and obliging, but not strong, nor bright. nows her work. Small wages.

Publications.

THE NEAR RETURN of the Lord esus Christ. By CHEYNE BRADY. 17th thousand. rice One Penny.
W. PARTRIDGE & Co., 9, Paternoster-row, E.C.

60, All Different, 1d. and ½d. Leaflets; 2s. 4d.
THE "MOUNTAINS OF BREAD"
ries of little Books and Leaflets, by the late eorgiana Thompson, are copyright. Profits for oor and suffering Christians are still supplied by ldressing, Miss A. THOMPSON, care of Dr. ranage, Old Hall, Wellington, Salop.

MRS. GRIMKE'S TEXT CARDS.—o be had from Mrs. GRIMKE, Prestwich, Manester, who likes orders sent to her direct, or from KAUFMANN, 129, Cheapside; or booksellers.

GOSPEL DIALOGUES.

distinguishing feature of Mr. Moody's later meetings in London consisted of Dialogues and Conversations between Mr. D. L. Moody and eminent Preachers on points of Fundamental Truth.

1. What it is to be a Child of God.
AND
On Coming to Christ.
Dialogue between Mr. D. L. MOODY and Rev. MARCUS RAINSFORD.
Price 1s. per doz.; 7s. per 100.

2. How to become a Christian.
Dialogue between Mr. D. L. MOODY and Rev. MARCUS RAINSFORD.
Price 1s. per doz.; 7s. per 100.

3. What it is to be Converted.
Dialogue between Mr. D. L. MOODY and LORD RADSTOCK.
Price 6d. per doz.; 3s. 6d. per 100.

ondon: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-bldgs.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Price 2s. 6d. per 100; post free.
rinted on Tinted Paper, suitable for enclosing in the modern
THE square envelope

DOWN GRADE ENGINE.

Reprinted from "The Christian."

This Booklet should be widely distributed at the present time.

Price One Penny, 1s. per dozen.

A GLANCE AT THE GREAT WORK.

n Incident of Messrs. Moody and Sankey's Meetings in London.

BY LADY HOPE.
(Reprinted from THE CHRISTIAN.)

ondon: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-bldgs.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

To ADVERTISERS.

Advertisements must arrive not ater than FIRST POST MONDAY o be inserted in the following ssue.

Terms for Advertisements

"The Christian"
(PREPAID)

liscellaneous Advertisements in small type are charged at the following rates:—

Not exceeding 30 Words	....	3	0
" 39 "	....	3	9
" 48 "	....	4	6

nd 9d. for every additional line of nine words or nder, the address being in all cases charged for.

The Publishers cannot undertake to receive and orward Replies to Advertisements.

To prevent disappointment, it is necessary to say hat in no case must Letters be addressed to a Postffice, unless permission be previously obtained at uch Post-office.

Advertisements sent by Post must be accompanied y Post-office Order, not by Stamps, as the risk in [illegible] considerable.

Cloth Boards, 7s. 6d.; Cloth, Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges, 9s. 6d.; Morocco, 17s. 6d.

Songs and Solos and Christian Choir

BOUND TOGETHER IN ONE VOLUME.

Containing 520 Pieces—WORDS and MUSIC.

SIZE, 9½ inches by 7¼ inches. THICKNESS, 1¼ inches.

Good-sized Type, suitable for use at the Instrument.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Songs and Solos and Christian Choir.

WORDS ONLY.

Cloth Limp	0	6
Cloth Boards	0	9

Songs and Solos and Christian Choir.

WORDS ONLY.

LARGE PRINT.

Cloth Limp ..	2	6
Cloth Bds., gilt edges	3	0

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WORDS of GRACE and TRUTH.

A New Series of Leaflets, each containing a Selection of Striking Passages of Scripture, tastefully printed in two colours on toned paper.

1. "Who is on the Lord's side."
2. "Turn ye! Turn ye!"
3. "See the Salvation of God."
4. "Mighty to Save!"
5. "Why will ye Die?"
6. "It is Finished!"
7. "God Commendeth His Love."
8. "I Come Quickly."
9. "Now is the Accepted Time."
10. "Look and Live."
11. "How shall we Escape?"
12. "Reconciliation."
13. "All Gone Aside!"
14. "All have Sinned."
15. "Not by Works."
16. "Christ is All."

Packet containing Eighty Leaflets, assorted. Price 6d. If for free distribution, 5s. per 1,000; per post, 5s. 6d. per 1,000.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE COMPREHENSIVE TEACHERS' BIBLE.

With Entirely New Aids and New Concordance on an Improved Plan.

"It would be difficult to suggest a more comprehensive and compact mass of information. . . . Nothing short of an exhaustive apparatus criticus is placed in the hand of the instructor."—Bookseller.

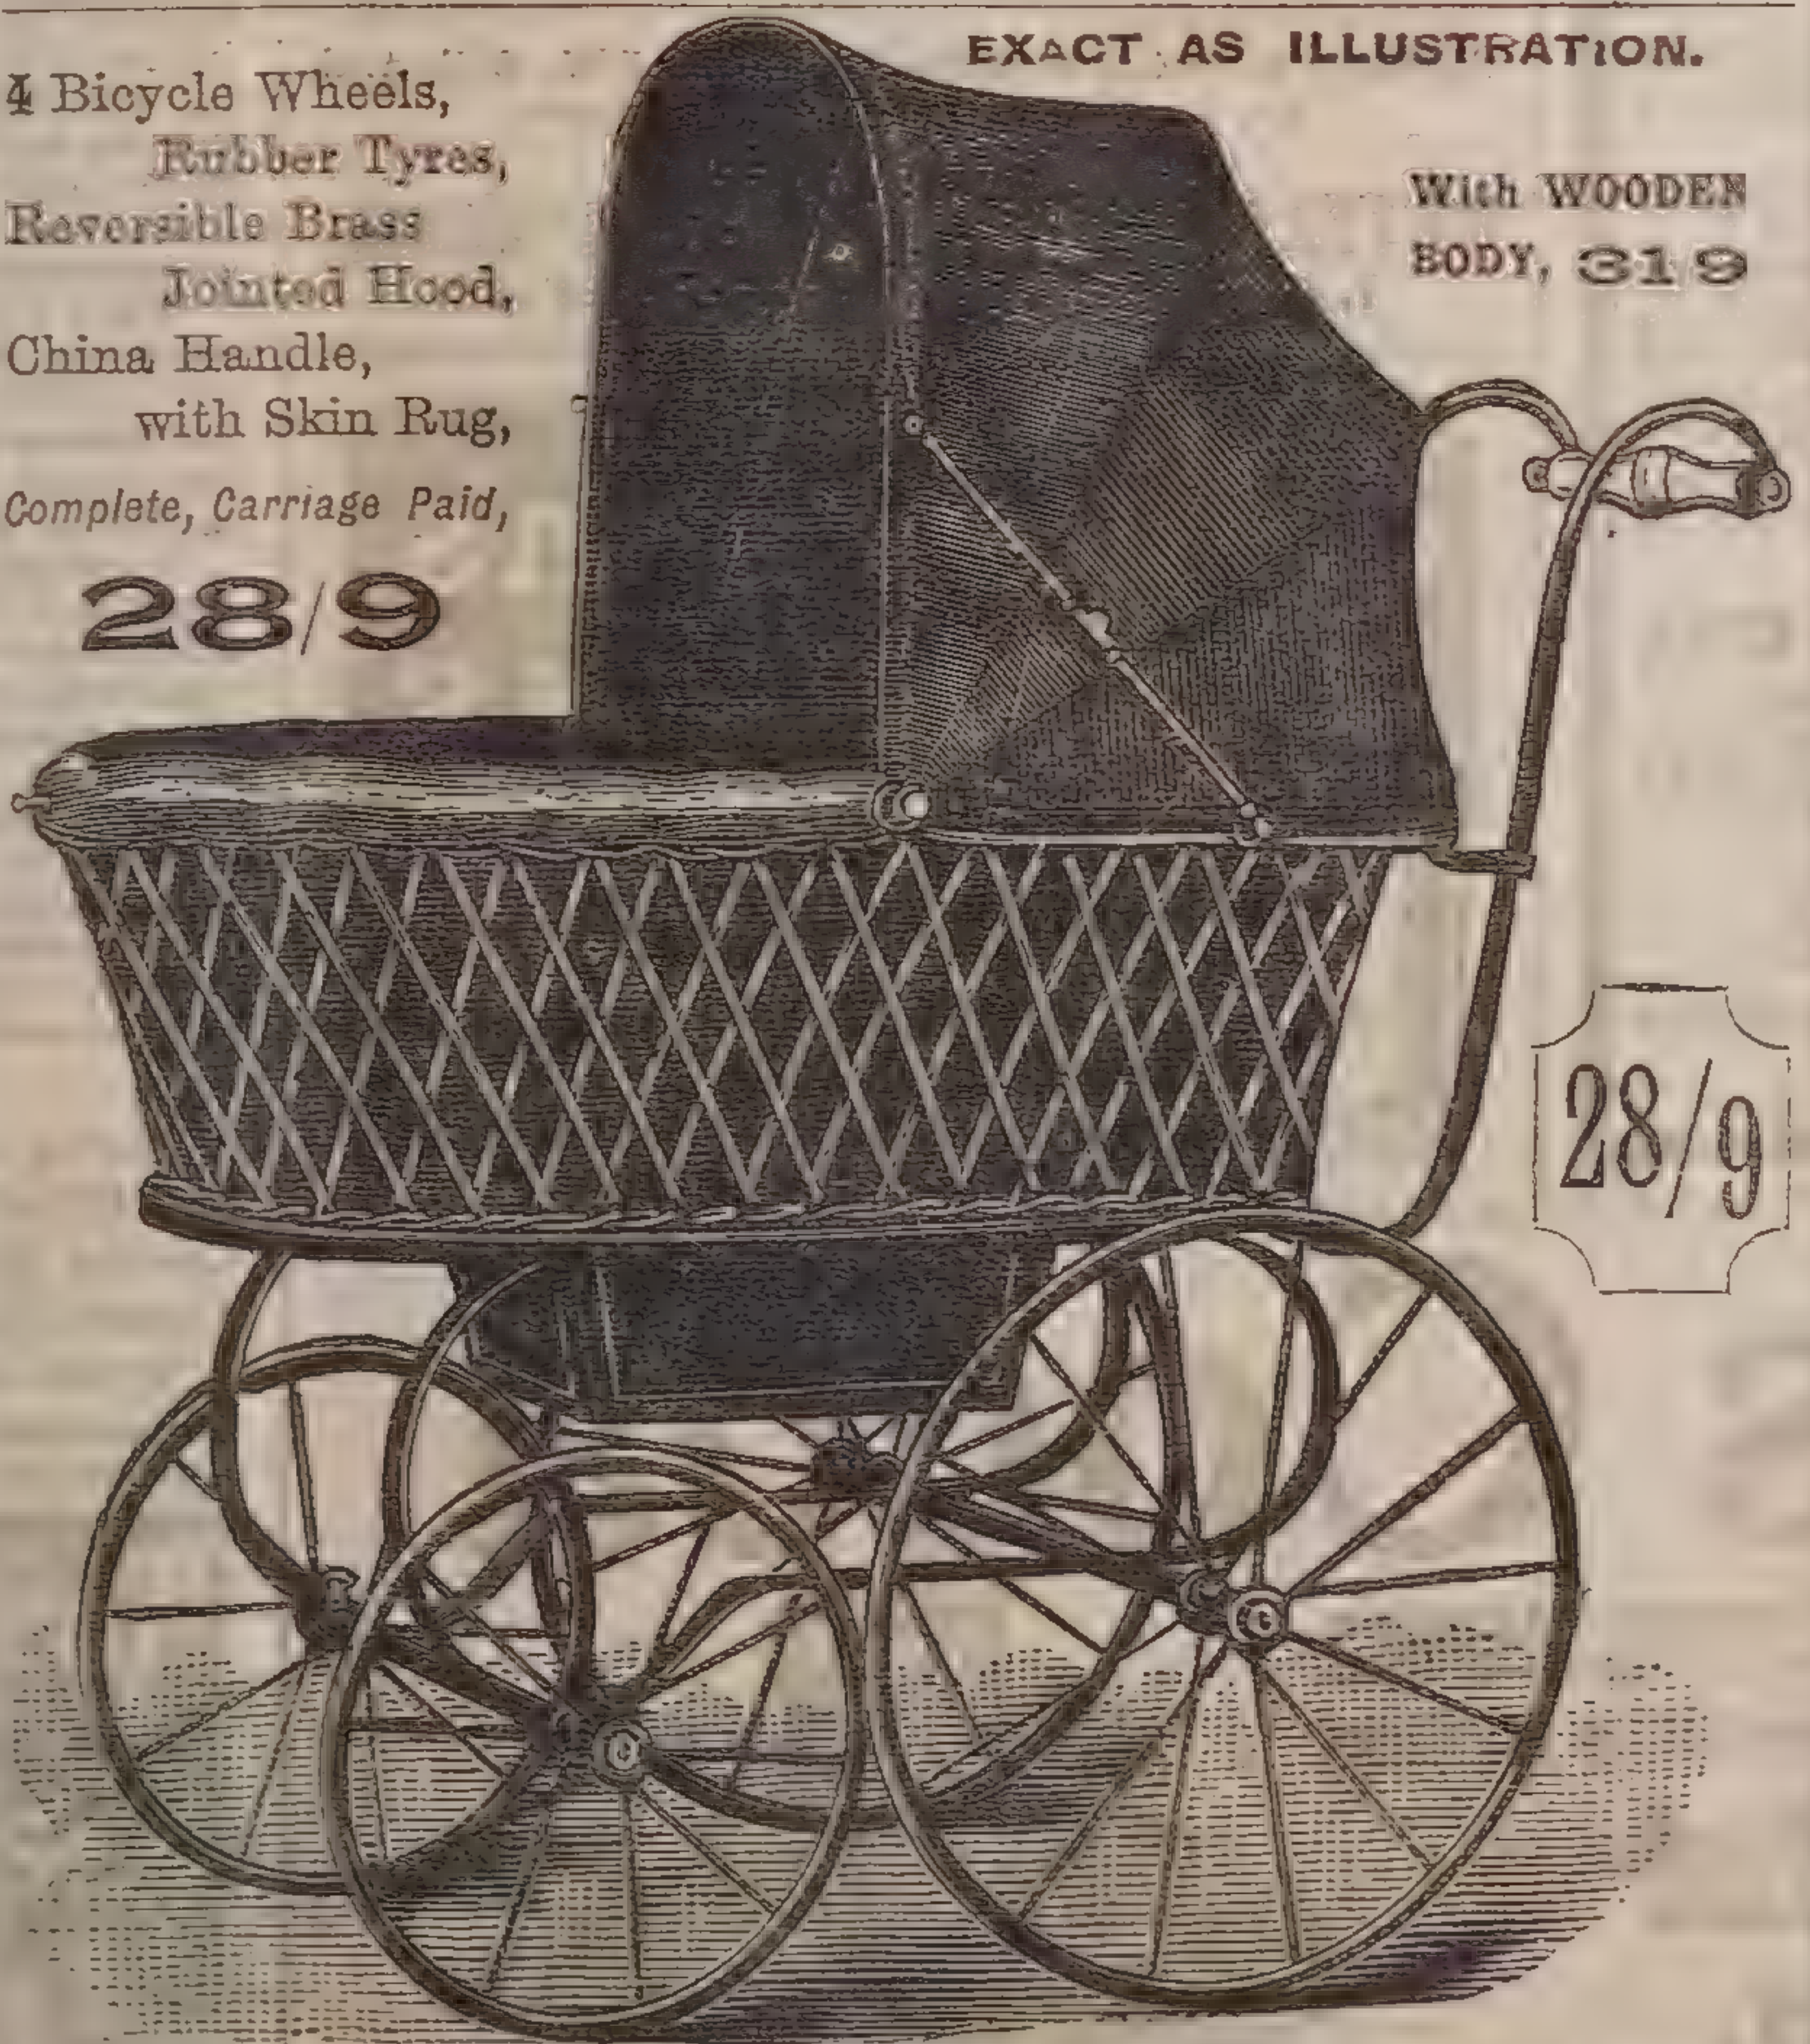
This Book will contain, in addition to the NEW HELPS and CONCORDANCE, the COMPLETE BAGSTER BIBLE, and an INDEXED ATLAS.

SAMUEL BAGSTER & SONS, LIMITED, 15, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

DAINTREE & CO., DYERS, LONDON.

The LARGEST WORKS IN LONDON.
for Dyeing and Cleaning in every Branch.
98, Mount-street, Grosvenor-square, W.; 365, Southwark-park-road, S.E.; 44, Leicester-square, W.C.

Carts Collect and Deliver to all parts.—PRICE LISTS BY POST.



EXACT AS ILLUSTRATION.

4 Bicycle Wheels,
Rubber Tyres,
Reversible Brass
Jointed Hood,
China Handle,
with Skin Rug,
Complete, Carriage Paid,
28/9

With WOODEN BODY, 31/9

28/9

CHARLES L. YOUNG, 21, High Street,
KINGSLAND, LONDON, N.
Referee—MR GAWIN KIRKHAM,
OPEN-AIR MISSION, DUKE STREET, ADELPHI, W.C.

S. A. BLACKWOOD'S ADDRESSES.

Tinted Covers, 1d.; 1s. per dozen, post free.
THE SERVICE OF CHRIST.
"I am to serve Him in my daily calling; as much at my house or at my business as anywhere else."
Extract.

Tinted Covers, 1d.; 1s. per dozen, post free.
THE JUDGMENT-SEAT OF CHRIST.
"We must all appear before the Judgment-seat of Christ."—2 Cor. v. 10.

Tinted Covers, 1d.; 1s. per dozen, post free.
CHRIST OUR PASSOVER.
"Christ, the Lamb of God, hath 'suffered for sins the Just for the unjust, and that whosoever believeth in Him shall not come into condemnation.' 'Christ our Passover is sacrificed for us.'"
Extract.

Tinted Covers, 1d.; 1s. per dozen, post free.
ASSURANCE OF SALVATION.
"These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; that ye may know that ye have eternal life."—John v. 13.

Tinted Covers, 1d.; 1s. per dozen, post free.
GOD'S COMMAND.
"God commands you to repent lest you perish; lest you sink into the bottomless pit when Jesus comes; lest you be for ever banished from the presence."—Extract.

Tinted Covers, 1d.; 1s. per dozen, post free.
FORGIVENESS OF SINS.
"I know that many will tell you that it is presumption to say you know that you are forgiven; but they know not of what they speak. Presumption lies, not in believing, but in doubting what God hath said."—Extract.

Tinted Covers, 1d.; 1s. per dozen, post free.
LIVING WATERS.
"If you want satisfaction, it is not to be obtained by drinking at an earthly cup, which is soon emptied, but by receiving the Spirit, by drinking the Living Water."—Extract.

Tinted Covers, 1d.; 1s. per dozen, post free.
CHRIST AND THE MAN IN THE TOMBS.
"Here is the picture of a man under the power of Satan, living among tombs, loving the dead more than the living, and that is where the unconverted man and woman is—living with those who are 'dead in trespasses and sins.'"—Extract.

Tinted Covers 1d.; 1s. per dozen, post free.
ALIVE FROM THE DEAD.
"JESUS cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth. The voice sounded down into the deepest recesses of the grave, 'and he that was dead came forth.'"—Extract.

Tinted Covers, 1d.; 1s. per dozen, post free.
ETERNAL LIFE.
"Now, whoever you may be that are reading these pages, let me again ask you most solemnly, as before God, who trieth the hearts, Have you eternal life?"
Extract.

Tinted Covers, 1d.; 1s. per dozen, post free.
THE MERITS OF JESUS CHRIST.
"It will be my object in this little book to show briefly, from Scriptural Evidence, first, what our own merits are; then, what the merits of our Lord Jesus Christ are; and lastly, what is the result of really trusting in those merits."—Extract.

Tinted Covers, 1d.; 1s. per dozen, post free.
REPENT AND BE CONVERTED.
"Perhaps there are those who say, 'What has this to do with me?' I desire to tell you this day from God—that you are guilty of the very crime that Peter charged on the consciences of the Jews."
Extract.

The above 12 Books may be had in neat packet, price One Shilling.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-bldgs.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

NEAVE'S

FOR INFANTS,
INVALIDS,
AND THE AGED.

FOOD.

Tonga

"Tonga maintains its reputation in the treatment of Neuralgia."
Lancet.

"Invaluable in facial Neuralgia. Has proved effective in all those cases in which we have prescribed it."
Medical Press.

2/9, 4/6, & 11/- Of all Chemists.

TEETH.—Messrs. PAGET

(SURGEON DENTISTS),

445, STRAND

(Opposite Charing Cross Station)

MESSRS. PAGET, the Old-established Surgeon Dentists (English and American), supply their celebrated ARTIFICIAL TEETH, without pain, at one visit. Fixed either with or without plates or [illegible] appearance guaranteed.

A Tooth, 5s. Sets, 35s. Stoppings, 2s. 6d. Pamphlet (Illustrated) sent gratis and post free.

Dr. Paget attends personally daily from 10 till 5. Consultations free.

445, STRAND (opposite Charing Cross Station), LONDON.
Established over 30 years.

SAML. PEACH & SONS
NOTTINGHAM
LACE CURTAINS

Direct from the Looms at Manufacturer's Prices.

Extraordinary Value. Lot No. 121.

21/ POPULAR PARCEL 21/
Sent Carriage Paid for

Containing one pair of magnificent Drawing-room Curtains, 4 yds. long, and nearly 2 wide, taped edges. One pair handsome Dining-room Curtains, 3½ yds. long, ornamental design, taped edges. One pair [illegible] One Lace Cover for fancy table. Twelve yds. Trimming Lace. Two Lace D'Oyleys. The Curtains can be had in either White or Ecru.

A Black Spanish Silk Lace FICHU given away to every Purchaser of the above parcel.

"The quality and design of these Special Parcels are excellent, and are the best value ever offered."

MONEY RETURNED IF NOT APPROVED.

P.O.O.'s and Cheques made payable to SAMUEL PEACH & SON, CASTLEGATE, NOTTINGHAM. NEW PRICE LIST POST FREE.

A WONDERFUL OFFER.
100,000 CARPETS

5/- EACH. 5/- EACH.

The Largest Carpet ever Sold at the price.

Messrs. HARGREAVES & CO.,
CARPET WEAVERS,

Will forward direct from their looms to any address, on receipt of Postal Order for Five Shillings, a genuine suitable for drawing-room, dining-room, bed-room, &c., bordered and woven in colours, size 3 yards by 2 yards, as an advertisement for their goods, and thus saving any middle profit. Remember, these are woven, not printed, and are made of a material almost equal to wool. Thousands of these Carpets and Rugs have been already sold at almost double these prices.

WOVEN REVERSIBLE CARPET,

A RUG SENT WITH CARPET FOR 2s. EXTRA.

Satisfaction guaranteed or money returned.

DO NOT MISS THIS OPPORTUNITY.

Cheques, &c., should be crossed "Union Bank."

Address—
G. W. HARGREAVES & CO.,
11 & 12, SOUTHAMPTON BUILDINGS, CHANCERY LANE, LONDON.

THAT VOLUNTARY is an OLD ONE is often said by congregations in listening to a time-worn piece from their organist. Every organist should therefore lay in a fresh stock of

ORGAN AND HARMONIUM MUSIC

From the ample catalogue of J. CURWEN & SONS, which will be forwarded gratis and post-free to any address.

J. CURWEN & SONS, 8 & 9, WARWICK LANE, LONDON, E.C.

MORELLA MARMALADE.—The most delicious of all preserves. Also the strictly non-alcoholic wine MORELLA, still and sparkling. Products of the famous Kent Morella Cherry. Can be bought of, or through, any grocer, and of the Makers—THOMAS GRANT & SONS, Maidstone, and 46, Gresham Street, London.

FOGS!
AND DAMP AIR PRODUCE
Catarrh, Coughs, Hoarseness.
The FINEST REMEDY for COLDS, COUGHS, ETC.,
is
CONGREVE'S
BALSAMIC ELIXIR

In Bottles, 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d.

Prepared by G. T. CONGREVE, Coombe Lodge, Peckham.

SOLD BY ALL MEDICINE HOUSES.

Gold Medal Awarded, Health Exhibition, London.

Benger's Food

For INFANTS, CHILDREN, INVALIDS, and DYSPEPTICS.

EXTRACT FROM PRIVATE LETTER.

"The infant was very delicate; our medical adviser ordered your Food. The result in a short time was wonderful; the little fellow grew strong and fat, and is now in a thriving [illegible] 'the flower of the flock.'"

BENGER'S FOOD is Sold in Tins at 1/6, 2/6, and 5/-, by Chemists, &c., Everywhere, or Free by Parcels Post, from
MOTTERSHEAD & CO., (S. PAINE and F. B. BENGER.)
7, EXCHANGE STREET, MANCHESTER.

John Heath's PENS

SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES.

SIDE VIEW—Showing Form & Turned-up Point.

The beautiful Double Action Pen, No. 5779.
Writes like a quill. All Stationers. Sample Box [illegible] stamps. BIRMINGHAM.

Now Published in one
HANDSOME SHILLING VOLUM
Post Free.
"MR. GEO. THOS. CONGREVE on
CONSUMPTIO
AND ITS SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT.
Showing that direful disease to be Curable in its Stages: with observations on ASTHMA, CHRONIC BRONCHITIS," AND THE NEW APPENDIX
TO THE
WORK on CONSUMPTIO
CONTAINING
226 MOST INTERESTING
AND AUTHENTIC CASE
That have appeared in the Weekly Journal and Monthly Magazines from 1881 to the prese time, with
NOTES APPENDED TO MANY
SHOWING THE
PERMANENCE of CURE

N.B.—The work "ON CONSUMPTION," by its
(in paper covers), may be had for SIXPEN
(post free) from the Author, Coombe Lodg
Peckham, S.E., or from the Publisher, Elli
Stock, 62, Paternoster-row, E.C.

The Twenty-Fifth Series of Week
Cases is now publishing.

NOTICE TO THE READERS OF "THE CHRISTIAN
Who may be personally or relatively
INTERESTED in THIS MATTE

MR. CONGREVE will give ONE RECEN
CASE, NOT PUBLISHED in this Journ
BEFORE, EVERY WEEK.

CASE FOR THIS WEEK.

"HOPELESS CASE" of CONSUMPTION
WESTON COLVILLE, WEST WRATTIN (CAMBS.).

Although the patient referred to (THOMAS COLLI applied first to me two years ago last August, I induced to publish the case now for this reason—t his wife called upon me recently to express her grate thanks, and desire that her husband's recovery shou be published. I am glad to do so as one example (if s more were wanted beyond the many in my "APPENDI of permanence of cure.

When I first heard of this patient he was very ill w every symptom of the last stage of consumption. He w very reduced; dropsical swellings had set in; and doctors had given him up. In response to the appeal the rector of the parish, I supplied him with wh medicine was needful at a reduced charge.

In two months all his symptoms had improved.
fluctuated a little, through taking fresh colds (probab from want of due care). Unknown to me, he was so time without medicine. But after resuming it again the end of the year, he was able to walk out a li every day.

When first his wife applied to me he was unable walk across the room. He returned to work in the f lowing summer; had regained flesh and strength, all his symptoms had disappeared.

The patient has been well since, and able to do regular work, and walk to it four miles and a half eve day.

NOTE. — Days of Consultation. — TUESDA
THURSDAY, and SATURDAY Mornings ONLY,
Coombe Lodge, Peckham. Patients from any lo distance should choose either of the two former da
Everyone is expected to have seen the book first.

Temperance Wines
MASON'S WINE ESSENCES

WILL PRODUCE IN A FEW MINUTES A DELICIOUS WINE OR CORDIAL. GINGER, ORANGE, RASP-BERRY, BLACK CURRANT, CHERRY, &c.

WHOLESOME. ECONOMICAL.

Send 9 Stamps for Sample.
NEWBALL & MASON, Nottingham. Agents wanted.

Fry's Cocoa

·Pure·
·Concentrated· ·Cocoa·

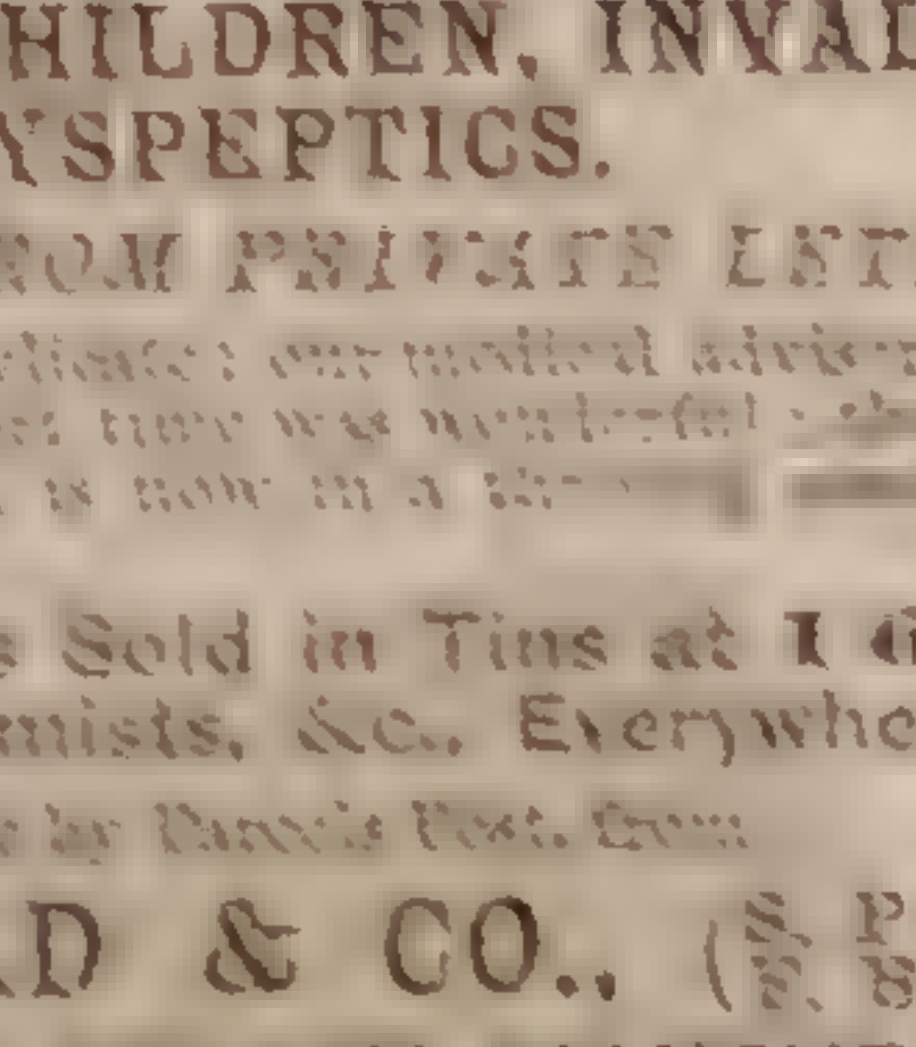
33 PRIZE MEDALS
awarded to the Firm



ASK YOUR GROCER FOR A SAMPLE & TESTIMONIALS

J. S. FRY & SONS, BRISTOL, LONDON, and SYDNEY, N.S.W.,
Makers to the Queen and Prince of Wales.

Letters to the Editor.

CONSECRATED HOMES.

DEAR SIR,—In these days when the burden and orrows of a girl's life in our cities is pressing on nany hearts, I would call the attention of Chrisian women, both mistresses and servants, to the rgent need for households where, "for Christ's ake," a factory or other untrained girl over fteen will be received and borne with till she be tted to go out as a fairly trained servant.

To most women in all classes the rest and comort of a well-managed home are especially dear; nany are willing to work hard outside of it and to leny themselves much for Christ's sake, but into his haven of peace they see no call to bring the ncared-for poor girl, whose only experience of "home" is the squalid room or rooms, when the laily struggle for a sufficiency of food and clothes nas left no time or strength for aught else. Yet for these girls Christ died, and if we women do not ielp them, who can? and many of them with warm oving hearts appreciate kindness, and would gladly urn to domestic service, and leave the hand-to-nouth struggle for work, with its so-called freedom, f only "someone would have them."

Naturally people hesitate to try a girl of seveneen or eighteen, and prefer to take a younger one who has had the great advantage of a good mother, nd may have less to unlearn; but there are many nomes in England which could receive the others, vere but eyes and hearts opened to the need.

Here I would especially appeal to Christian ervants, for without the help of her servants, no nistress, however willing, can really help one of hese girls. The very sight of a clean bright kitchen and a well-ordered house is a revelation to hem, and I would press the thought on my sisters n Christ of all ranks, whether our homes are not, ike all else, given to us as a talent to be used for our Lord and Master.

Oxford. C. S.

FREEDMEN IN THE STATES.

DEAR SIR,—I have been receiving your paper for a number of years, and appreciate it very much. Though not always endorsing all it says, yet in the main I have been in hearty sympathy with it. I regret to be obliged now to enter my emphatic protest against a paragraph in your issue of March 9. It refers to an article on "The Negro Question in the U.S.," by George W. Cable. Of Mr. Cable's paper, you say:—"It is an able and exhaustive paper, and its recommendations morally, socially, and politically, are sound and wise."

That is a great deal more than the people in Mr. Cable's own State can say for his production. The Springfield Republican (Mass.) stigmatises it as "the most remarkable specimen of superficial writing on Southern affairs that has appeared for some time." The New York Evening Post, says:—"Mr. Cable shows an ignorance alike of past developments in the North, and of present tendencies at the South, which unfits a writer for intelligent and candid treatment of the subject. He talks as though on the one hand the negro everywhere in the North receives as fair treatment as the white man, and as though on the other hand no progress in the right direction were anywhere making in the South. Both of these theories are fallacious. Mr. Cable is unduly depressed." If such things had been said by Southern papers many people would have shrugged their shoulders and asked, "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" But even the Northern papers, who might be supposed to sympathise with Mr. Cable's unhappy utterances against the South, come to conclusions exactly the opposite to what you do, when you style his paper "sound and wise."

But what follows in your paragraph is a great deal worse: "As long as ministers and churches treat Christ with contempt in the persons of their coloured brethren, it cannot be expected that others will treat them righteously. At all events the present attitude of Christians in the Southern States is inexcusable." "Ministers and churches treat Christ with contempt in the person of their coloured brethren!" I have been nine years in the ministry in the Southern States and have seen nothing to justify the statements of the paragraph in question, and much to contradict it. You have given us good ground for complaint in making such sweeping charges on the ipse dixit of a popular novel writer.—Yours truly,

DAVID LEITH, Pastor.

Methodist Episcopal Church South,
Trenton, Tennessee, U.S.A.

BAPTIZED THOUGH NOT A BAPTIST.

DEAR SIR,—Your last issue contains a very weighty note which I transcribe as follows:—"But why should not the time come when those who wish should be baptised as believers...and still retain their special views in matters of church order, remaining in the church system with which they have been previously identified?"

Permit me to say that the suggestion finds illustration and fulfilment as an accomplished fact in my own person, and, I have good reason to believe, in that of many others.

More than a decade past, being then (as now), a member of the Church of England, I sought the rite of baptism at the hands of Rev. C. H. Spurgeon. From the absence, alas! of all but the name and outward forms of religion in my father's household, I knew that infant baptism was, in my case at least, the outcome of decorous, conventional usage—nothing more. I desired reality, and with such purpose addressed Mr. Spurgeon.

When explaining an object founded on sentient, intelligent, individual apprehension of Scripture, leading, by the grace of God, to consecration of life, I asked whether I might retain my position as a member of the Church of my forefathers. A kind and courteous response came. I was informed that under circumstances precisely analogous members of my own and of other denominations frequently applied and were admitted to baptism.

I now look back to the event—most momentous and happiest of my life—as a work of the Holy Spirit, and a never-ceasing cause for praise to the Triune Jehovah, until "when the thanks of earth shall end, the thanks of heaven begin."

Very faithfully yours, M. D.

◆

Dr. Barnardo's Young Emigrants.

THE 205 boys who left England in the Polynesian on March 29 had a remarkably fine passage, and arrived safely at Halifax on Saturday, April 7. A cablegram has already been received from Mr. A. B. Owen, who is in chief charge of the party, stating that the whole of the boys have been immediately engaged by farmers, and that so great has been the demand for these excellently trained lads that he could at once have disposed of twice as many in first-rate situations if only he had had them. Under these circumstances an earnest effort is being made to prepare a second party for emigration with as little delay as possible. Dr. Barnardo hopes that 250 trained lads who have been thoroughly tested in the various Industrial Homes under his care will (D.V.) leave England for Canada on May 30 next.

Dr. Barnardo hopes that of this party of 250 at least 50 youths from the Labour House will be selected for his Industrial Farm in Manitoba.

MR. EOLL, of Port Said, is about to leave for Germany and England, hoping, with the Lord's blessing, to regain his former strength, so as to be able to continue his labour for the Lord in Port Said. The mission rooms will be closed until his return. His address till the end of May will be: Care of Mr. F. Albrecht, surveyor, Moeckmühl, Wurttemberg, Germany; and afterwards: Care of Mr. Edward Groves, 11, Greenway-road, Redland, Bristol.

MOTHERLESS GIRLS.—The Home for Motherless Little Girls, Hurst-road, Eastbourne, is a well-conducted institution, and doing a very good work. Of the girls who shared the Home and its benefits last year five have returned to their relatives, whose circumstances have improved sufficiently to enable them to maintain their children. During 1886 and 1887, five left for domestic service, and they are giving every satisfaction to their employers. At present there are ten vacancies, for which there are many applicants; the lack of funds, however, stands in the way of the Home being full. Last year was an anxious one on the score of finances.

THRIFT.—At a meeting in Birmingham, on Thursday week, Mr. Alderman William White alluded to the importance of this subject, which, he said, was closely connected with the great temperance movement. Thrift did not merely mean saving, but it meant wise spending, the careful expenditure of time, and the encouragement of habits which would add to their comforts and enjoyments in life. Applying the subject to the ladies present, he said they had many opportunities of exercising thrift in their family arrangements, and he thought that English housewives had yet a great lesson to learn from their Continental neighbours in cooking and domestic economy.

NOTES FROM THE NORTH.

WORK IN PARIS.

THOSE who were present at the Glasgow noonday prayer-meeting on Monday week heard a very interesting and encouraging account of Christian labour in Paris from Rev. W. Gibson, who began mission work in that city twenty-five years ago. They have seven mission stations in Paris and it neighbourhood, which are kept separate from stations occupied by Mr. McAll, with whom they work in the greatest harmony. Indeed, he never undertook any work without consulting Mr. McAll. In Paris there is a longing and thirsting for the Word of God, although in no city are there so many people who virtually say, "There is no God." Even professed atheists attend the meetings, and it is enough to say that an evangelistic address is to be delivered to fill any hall or theatre.

A NOTABLE TEMPERANCE CONFERENCE.

Representatives of temperance societies from all parts of Scotland assembled in the Waterloo Rooms, Glasgow, last week, to protest against the licensing clauses of the Local Government Bill as inadequate, retrograde, pernicious, and unrighteous. In a vigorous address, Sir William Collins said the clauses complained of in no respect reflect the strong and advanced sentiment of the country on the subject of temperance legislation. He pointed out the fallacy of the cry for compensation, and declared amid loud cheers that the publicans' only services have been those of demoralising and impoverishing the community. A lengthy protest against the clauses was read by Rev. A. Johnston, on behalf of Scottish temperance reformers. The statement was unanimously approved, and is to be published. Mrs. Blair charged the county magistrates with granting licences to their retired butlers, although they took good care that no public-houses should be placed near the gates of their own mansions. The meeting unanimously resolved to petition Parliament in the matter, and a resolution was also carried declaring that no measure will be acceptable to the people of Scotland which does not include the ratepayers' direct veto.

SUPPRESSION OF OPIUM TRAFFIC.

Last Friday afternoon Sir William Collins presided over the annual meeting of the Glasgow Auxiliary for the suppression of the opium traffic. The honorary secretary, Mr. W. C. Maughan, said he had addressed many meetings during the year on the subject, and various efforts were being made to diffuse information and overcome the supineness which unhappily prevails. Mr. Bruce, who laboured with Dr. Duff in Calcutta for some years, incidentally mentioned that in India the English nation are making 100 drunkards for one convert. Sir John N. Cuthbertson earnestly advocated the making of a strong effort to raise such an amount of public opinion in this country as shall cause the Government to move in the matter. Rev. W. Campbell, of China, said that missionaries in that land are constantly interrupted when preaching to the people, with a question like this—"Are not you the people who are introducing opium into China?" Principal Douglas, of the Free Church College, said their great grief was the apathy which existed in this country concerning the traffic. The evil was far away now but we should soon have it at our doors if we did not bestir ourselves. Mr. Henry Soltau, of Burmah, delivered an interesting address, and charged the English Government with having its fingers marked with the dark stain of opium. The people in China declared that if the English Government stopped sending opium into their country they could put an end to its cultivation in their midst.

OUR SOLDIERS.—Mr. A. J. Bridges, army schoolmaster, The Barracks, Pontefract, writes, desiring to thank those friends who sent papers to him when attached to the Inniskilling Dragoons. He has left that regiment and is now at Pontefract, where he hopes to do some work for the Master.

NORWICH CHRISTIAN CONVENTION.—The meetings of this Convention, on the 11th and 12th inst., were well attended, and believed to be spiritually profitable. The principal speakers were Revs. M. Rainsford, F. H. White, F. A. C. Lillingston, and C. Graham. The subjects covered a wide range, chiefly illustrating Christian life in different phases, as follows:—The Christian in daily duties; his motive and aim; his temptations and difficulties. The Christian in suffering; his attitude and conduct; his helps and hopes.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

Mr. George King has been holding services at Norman-road Hall, South Wimbledon, with tokens of blessing amongst young and old.

Rev. Walter Bradbury concluded last Sunday a ten days' mission at Coln Rogers, Gloucestershire. People crowded into the services from other parishes. The Church Army captain was here only a few months, but the good effect continues.

Framlingham, Suffolk. — Mr. John M. McAuliffe has concluded a series of Gospel services in the villages of Earl Soham, and Brandiston, near here. There have been very encouraging attendances at all the meetings, and much spiritual blessing has followed the simple, plain addresses of the evangelist. On Sunday, April 8 and 15, he held services at the public hall, Wickham Market.

Belfast.—Well attended Gospel services have been held held in the Circus, Great Victoria-street, by Messrs. L. Weaver and Groves, with blessed results. On Sunday evening last the large hall, estimated to hold over 3000, was filled to overflowing. A large proportion of those present remained to the after-meeting, when encouraging testimonies were given by several who have recently been converted. Many anxious ones were dealt with. The meetings will continue for some time longer, and prayer for the spread of the truth is heartily desired.

Brighton.—Mr. George Weller, of the Evangelisation Society, London, has just concluded a successful eight days' mission at the Pelham Institute, Upper Bedford-street, Brighton. A band of about forty workers held an open-air meeting before each service, and the hall, seating over 300, was well filled each night, an overflow meeting being held in another room on Sundays. The clear, simple, and earnest preaching of the glorious Gospel by Mr. Weller has been the means of arousing the Christians, and many weary hearts have found rest and peace in believing.

Reaching Young People. — At the noon prayer-meeting, Aldersgate-street, on Monday, Mr. M. H. Hodder brought under notice a very interesting and promising work at present progressing in Kent. Some active Christians in Bromley, Beckenham, and other places have got up a series of Sunday-afternoon services in the upper circles of society. There has been quite a competition among the residents as to who shall throw open their drawing-rooms, and over an area of two or three miles a number of excellent meetings have been held, from fifty to a hundred, and in some cases more than a hundred young people, moving in the better positions of life, having assembled and listened to the preaching of a definite Gospel. Mr. Hodder remarked that one reason why he drew attention to the matter was that a similar method of reaching young people might be adopted in other districts.

Buckie.—During the past few weeks, says The Glasgow Mail, there has been a great revival on religious matters amongst the fishing population in Buckie, and the excitement in connection therewith has extended to other villages on the Banffshire coast. In some instances there has been a renewal of the leaping and dancing which were a leading feature in a similar movement some 18 or 20 years ago. At Buckie the various churches have in turns been used for the preliminary services, and have nightly been crowded to overflowing, hundreds of people on several occasions being unable to gain admittance. At the conclusion of these meetings there is an adjournment to the Fishermen's Hall, where the services are renewed till an advanced hour in the morning. At an adjacent village these services were continued for fully 11 hours with much fervour and excitement, breaking up at seven o'clock on the morning of the following day. The movement has no connection with the Salvation Army.

Church Parochial Mission Society.—The following missions have been arranged for the month of April, 1888, it is hoped they will be made a subject of prayer by our readers:—Rev. W. Hay Aitken, April 22 to May 5, Belfast; Revs. C. I. Atherton and W. E. Cleworth, April 22 to 27, Molland; Rev. C. I. Atherton, April 26 to May 3, Knowstone; Rev. R. Catterall, April 23 to 30, St. Paul's, Accrington; Rev. A. R. D'Arcy, April 22 to 27, Mariners' Church, April 29 to May 5, All Saints', Belfast; Rev. W. Haslam, April 21 to 30, St. John's, Ryde; Rev. J. H. Haslam, April 21 to 30, Purley; Rev. W. Hayton, to April 25, St. Pinnock, Liskeard; Rev. R. D. Monro, to April 25, Babcarry, Somerton; Rev. Dr. Morris, April 22 to May 2, Bressington, Diss, Norfolk; Rev. F. S. Webster, to April 24, Christ Church, Oldbury.

The Book World.

⁂ Publishers will greatly oblige by always marking prices in books which they send us for review.

A Book with a Purpose.

"UNE DETTE D'HONNEUR" is a sound and healthy book, full of dramatic interest, written with a moral purpose, to which all mothers of families and young men will do well to give heed. Among those who can read French, we hope it will have a very wide circulation. The leading characters are a rich brewer's daughter, and a man of position, whose sins are visited upon him with great severity, although he becomes a "new creature" in Christ Jesus. "Une Dette d'Honneur" may be procured from the author, at 2, High View-road, Upper Norwood.

The Gospel Story.

THE LIFE, TEACHING, AND WORKS OF THE LORD JESUS CHRIST, arranged as a continuous narrative of the Four Gospels, according to the Revised Version. By George Wyld, M.D. This little work has reached a second edition, in which the preface and index have been improved, and an attempt has been made to indicate the subject-matter of the paragraphs by means of black letter headings. In future editions all three of these features of the book may be made still more perfect and therefore more useful. Though each of the Gospels has its peculiar purpose as well as its distinctive characteristics, it cannot but be profitable to study them in the semi-consolidated form in which Dr. Wyld has here presented them. (2s. H. Frowde.)

Church Polity.

ESSENTIAL POLITY OF THE CHURCH MILITANT By a Barrister-at-Law. Alexander & Shepheard. 1s. 6d. This book is obviously the production of an earnest Christian mind. In the preface the author tells us that he has written under three impressions:—(1) That the present rate of progress of the Church in the world does not justify any feeling approaching to satisfaction on the part of its members; (2) that it is possible to accelerate the progress of the Church by the adoption of certain means and methods by her members; and (3) that those means or methods are capable of ascertainment and expression. What is written in this book is especially addressed to the Church of Christ throughout the world. That which is unsatisfactory in religious life and action is pointed out in all sincerity, and the suggestions which the author makes are uniformly advanced in a kindly spirit, and with a desire to promoting the glory of God. A high religious tone pervades the book, in the pages of which wide-awake Christian people will discover much that deserves their serious attention.

THE INVASION OF 1588. This is a well-written "letter from a Scottish Protestant." (1d. Protestant National Alliance.)

No. 54 of the "New Biographical Series" (1d. Religious Tract Society) is devoted to John Newton, of Olney. It is from the facile pen of Dr. Macaulay.

CHRISTIAN WARFARE AND PURITY and KEEP STEADFAST TO THE STANDARD OF FAITH are the most recent tracts of "Mercator's" poetical series. 6d. per dozen. Partridge.

THE SPANISH ARMADA, 1588, and THE REVOLUTION OF 1688, are two penny pamphlets by Rev. Dr. Wylie, which ought to be widely read in this year of commemoration. (Morgan & Scott.)

Messrs. J. S. Virtue & Co. have published a little book entitled ONE HUNDRED AND ONE METHODS OF COOKING POULTRY. By Aunt Chloe. 1s. Housewives and others will find it useful.

THE DISTRICT RAILWAY GUIDE TO LONDON (6d.) is a very useful publication, and admirably serves its purpose as a cheap and popular guide to the Metropolis. (Alfred Boot & Son, 24, Old Bailey, E.C.)

OUT OF BARRACKS. In a little book bearing this title, Mrs. Hornibrook tells the story of the Soldiers' Home, Cork, founded by Miss Sandes. It is a story of loving labour, attended by encouraging success. (6d. Nisbet.)

A temperance sketch in rhyme, for recitations by two characters, and entitled "A Band of Hope Debate," has been written by Mr. G. Budd, and is published at the Temperance Depôt, 337, Strand. 1d. It will furnish excellent material for Band of Hope meetings.

A recent issue of The Graphic contains a double-page engraving of seven drawings by Mr. C. J. Staniland, R.I., admirably depicting various instances of heroism by Deep Sea Fishermen. The artist has selected his subjects from Mr. E. J. Mather's popular book, "Nor'ard of the Dogger."

A HAPPY LIFE. 1d. Metchim & Son, 20, Parliament-st., S.W. A touching little story of a young lady who was faithful unto death, with an appendix of subjects prepared by her for her Bible-class of young ladies. (The proceeds of the booklet will be given to the Church Missionary Society.)

PEACE versus WAR. 6d. E. Stock. This is an anonymous "Appeal to England," setting forth "the principle and precedent of combination." The author urges the formation of an international league for the prevention of aggression. Concluding his argument, he says:—"A league of peace is an instrument of war, but it is a sword that time will beat into a 'plough-share.' Where is another like it to be found?"

Mr. Alfred Alsop, of the Boys' Home, Deansgate, Manchester, is issuing "Penny Stories for the Million." They are sold in Manchester and district by boys from the Home, and on the covers Mr. Alsop corresponds with the friends and supporters of the Institution. The tales are wholesome. Messrs. Partridge also are publishing some excellent "Popular Editions" at one penny. Recent issues are ST. MARY'S CONVENT, HOW PAUL'S PENNY BECAME A POUND, and TEMPERANCE STORIES FOR THE YOUNG.

Among recent issues of "The City Pulpit" (Kensit) are: THE OBSERVANCE OF THE LORD'S DAY, by Rev. D. B. Hankin; THE TRIUMPHS OF THE CROSS, by Rev. E. A. Stuart; THE LORD OUR RIGHTEOUSNESS, by Rev. H. C. G. Moule; and THE CONSEQUENCES OF SIN, by Rev. H. W. Webb-Peploe. The last-named is the address delivered last month in Kensington Town Hall, and reported in THE CHRISTIAN of March 23. The reprint contains no intimation, however, as to the source from which the full report of the address was taken.

THE HOME SONGSTER, compiled by Rev. Charles Bullock. 6d. "Home Words" Office. Good songs, good print, and good pictures, just as we might expect from the genial editor of Home Words and his warm Fireside. Mr. Bullock hopes to encourage home songs and cottage harmoniums by this little stimulator. That he may be successful is our fervent wish. Songs pervaded by a pure, patriotic spirit, with a sprinkling of innocent humour cannot of course produce godliness, but they raise the tone of young minds, and drive away much that is injurious and debasing.

THE LONDON MISSIONARY SOCIETY IN SOUTH AFRICA. By John Mackenzie. This is a retrospective sketch by one who has served his God, his country, and humanity, during many years in Bechuanaland. It shows, in an interesting manner that the labours of the London Missionary Society have there effected much good in many ways. "The New Testament," he says, "is the charter of human freedom. Education, and an open Bible turn chattels into men, and slave-owners into brethren in the common Lord. These results flow from Christianity, as daylight follows the rising of the sun." Mr. Mackenzie pleads for extended efforts, and urges the claims of missions upon all Christian men. (2d. John Snow & Co.)

OUR JURY SYSTEM A SCANDAL. By J. F. H. Woodward. The law of England and Ireland requires that in trials by jury the verdict shall be the unanimous finding of the jurymen. This is undoubtedly a great impediment to the administration of justice, and by it many jurymen are morally compelled to do violence to their consciences, if not to commit perjury. Mr. Woodward says: "If the vote of the majority decides who shall be our parliamentary representatives and municipal counsellors, why should not the majority be competent to give the verdict in the jury box? It is so in Scotland." Some cogent reasons are given in this pamphlet for this important reform, and other modifications of the jury system are also advocated. (3d. Carr & Co., 26, Paternoster-square.)

BOOKS RECEIVED.

Messrs. T. & T. Clark, Edinburgh:—Volumes xxxiii. and xxxiv. of the new series of Clark's Foreign Theological Library: Old and New Testament Theology, by Heinrich Ewald; An Explanatory Commentary on Esther, by Professor Cassel, D.D., Berlin.

Messrs. Hodder & Stoughton:—A South Window, by Rev. George F. Pentecost, D.D. 1s. 6d.—The People's Bible. Vol. viii. 1 Kings xv. to 1 Chron. ix., by Rev. Joseph Parker, D.D. 8s.—The Early Years of Christianity, by E. de Pressensé, D.D. (to be published in twenty-five fortnightly parts). Vol. i., The Apostolic Age. 6d.

⁂ SIR ARTHUR BLACKWOOD desires to acknowledge with many thanks receipt of suggested series of "Sevens."

THE BLIND.—The thirty-second anniversary of the Day of Special Prayer and Thanksgiving on behalf of the Blind, observed by those friends who take an interest in Dr. Moon's system of embossed reading, will take place on the first Sunday in May.

SERVANTS' MISSION.—There is much that is gratifying in the report, just published, of the twenty-first year's work in connection with the Servants' Mission, Christian Association, and Homes for Men and Women Servants, 14, Sloane-terrace, Chelsea, and 162, Warwick-street, Pimlico. The aims are high and the methods praiseworthy. The Homes are under the care of Mr. J. Goodchild and Miss R. Freeman respectively, who will be glad to answer inquiries.

BIBLE-CLASS UNION.—A meeting of this Union (which comprises the Bible-classes held in the large retail drapery houses throughout London) was held in the Lower Exeter Hall, on Saturday last. Mr. George Williams, president, took the chair, and gave a hearty introductory speech. The hall was filled with young men and young women members and friends. Addresses were given by Rev. F. B. Meyer, who received quite an ovation, and by Mr. Robert Burn. A few encouraging words were spoken at the close by some of the employers interested in the movement. Mr. Meyer's address was encouraging to the workers "to live Christ," and to help the new arrivals and their weaker brethren.

otes on Daily Readings.

SUNDAY, APRIL 22.—ZECHARIAH IX.

ııs and the next chapter are put together by eil under the heading, "Fall of the Heathen orld, and Deliverance and Glorification of on."

1.—In the land of Hadrach.—It is much dis-ıted what this name is. Keil regards it as a symbolical epithet (strong-weak) of the edo-Persian empire." "The prophet forells in 1—7 the humiliation of the bordering ıtions (Syrians, Phœnicians, Philistines), and eir incorporation as feudatories into the re-ored kingdom of Israel."—S.C.

9.—Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion, &c.—
That by 'thy King' the Messiah is intended admitted, with very few exceptions, by all e Jewish and Christian commentators."—
C. The words "having salvation" are in ebrew (as in R.V., margin) "saved" (or "to saved"), and seem to imply that, righteous imself, the Messiah, as the sin-bearer, was imself to experience salvation on behalf of s people. "The riding of the King upon an s is the symbol of lowliness, as the Talmud-ts themselves interpret it."—Keil.

11.—As for thee also, by the blood of thy venant.—Addressed by Jehovah to the daugh-
r of Zion, and fulfilled in the resurrection
Heb. xiii. 20). Thy prisoners.—Those "who,
rough fear of death, were all their lifetime
ıbject to bondage" (Heb. ii. 15).

12.—Turn you to the strong hold, ye prisoners hope.—The Lord Himself, the "stronghold" his people (Micah iv. 8; Nahum i. 7; see
Pet. i. 21.

13.—When I have bent Judah for me, filled e bow with Ephraim.—Or, rather, "filled, as bow, Ephraim." Generally supposed to be prophecy of the victory of the Jews under e Maccabees over the Syrian-Greek kingdom the day, but it seems more applicable to the rst going forth of the Gospel, ministered by ews. What follows is a picture of apostolic mes (Rev. vi. 2; Ps. xlv. 5). See especially ark xvi. 20; 2 Cor. x. 4.

MONDAY, APRIL 23.—ZECHARIAH X.

1.—Ask ye of the Lord rain in the time of the tter rain.—"This chapter connects itself ith the preceding one, so that they should roperly form but one chapter."—S.C. The romise is obviously spiritual. The "ask" (as e latter part of the verse shows) implies, and it shall be given unto you."

3.—I punished the goats.—Meaning "rulers," s in Isa. xiv. 9, where the same word is ren-ered "chief ones."

4.—Out of him came forth the corner.—Better
R.V., "From him shall come forth the orner-stone." The reference is to the Messiah Ps. cxviii. 22; Isa. xxviii. 16) as "sprung out of udah." Out of him the nail.—This refers to well-known prophecy of the Messiah as the ail in a sure place (Isa. xxii. 23). The battle ow.—"This stands for military power."—Keil.
very oppressor.—"Rather 'every leader.'"—
C. (R.V., margin, "ruler.")

10.—I will bring them again also out of the nd of Egypt.—"The typical significance of his is placed beyond all doubt by the next erse."—Keil. Place shall not be found for hem.—"Rather, 'and it shall not be enough or them.'"—S.C.

11.—And he shall pass through the sea with ffliction.—Better R.V., "the sea of affliction."
he subject is Jehovah. He goes, as once He ent in the pillar of cloud as the angel of the ord, through the sea of affliction."—Keil.
iewed thus it seems to point to Christ's death.
ee Ps. xlii. 7, and Luke xii. 50. Mark, too, he significance of "He shall smite the waves
n the sea." Moses did this from the shore Exod. xiv. 16), by stretching out his hand "over he sea." But Jesus fulfilled the type by going own Himself into the sea, and there smiting he waves, and causing them to "dry up" for is redeemed to pass over. Thus was "the ride of Assyria" and "the sceptre of Egypt," e., the power of the kingdom of this world, detroyed. See Heb. ii. 14.

12.—They shall walk up and down in his name.—See Micah iv. 5. "'They shall live their lives in his name' (Col. iii. 17)."—S.C.

TUESDAY, APRIL 24.—ZECHARIAH XI.

1.—Open thy doors, O Lebanon, &c.—The devastation of Lebanon is a figurative representation of the destruction of the Israelitish kingdom, or of the dissolution of the political existence of the ancient covenant nation. This judgment was executed upon the land and people of Israel by the imperial power of Rome. This historical reference is evident from the description of the facts by which the catastrophe is brought to pass."—Keil.

4.—Feed the flock of slaughter.—I.e., destined for, or exposed to, slaughter. Comp. Jer. xxv. 38; Ps. xliv. 22, quoted Rom. viii. 36. "This section contains a symbolical act. The prophet assumes the office of a shepherd, and feeds the flock until he is compelled by its ingratitude to break his shepherd's staff, and give up the flock to destruction."—Keil. He thus represents Christ typically.

7.—Two staves; the one I called Beauty, and the other I called Bands.—"The word 'Beauty' refers to Ps. xxvii. 4 and Ps. xc. 17. It indicates the relation of the Lord to his nation. 'Bands' represents the brotherly union existing in the nation."—Hengstenberg.

8.—Three shepherds also I cut off in one month.—The three classes of shepherds existing in the theocracy, kings or civil rulers, priests, and prophets. In our Lord's time "the place of the prophets was occupied by the scribes," so that "the three constituent elements of the Jewish Sanhedrim, chief priests, scribes, and elders (Matt. xxvi. 3), answer to these three shepherds."—Hengstenberg.

12.—Thirty pieces of silver.—The prophetic bearing of this is explained Matt. xxvii. 3—10. In Exod. xxi. 32, thirty pieces of silver is the compensation for having killed a servant.

13.—A goodly price.—"'A magnificent price,' spoken ironically."—S.C.

15.—A foolish shepherd.—Generally supposed to refer to Antichrist. "If the Good Shepherd (4—14) is no other than Jehovah, the foolish shepherd raised up in the place of the despised and rejected Good Shepherd can only be the possessor of the imperial power into whose hand the nation is delivered, i.e., the Roman Empire."—Keil. See Rev. xiii.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 25.—ZECHARIAH XII.

God's dealings with Jerusalem in the latter day.

3.—Though all the people of the earth be gathered together against it.—See xiv. 2. Some great political combination of the nations against Jerusalem seems foretold.

8.—The Lord shall defend the inhabitants of Jerusalem.—A remarkable interposition of the Lord on behalf of his people Israel.

9.—I will seek to destroy all the nations that come against Jerusalem.—This is, as it were, the preface of the section that follows to the close of the book, in which this destruction of the nations that come against Jerusalem is more fully explained. The New Testament parallel is Rev. xix. 19, where the "making war against Him that sat on the horse" seems best explained by their attacking (as here) the city which He comes to defend.

10.—They shall look upon Me whom they have pierced.—The speaker is Jehovah, who is thus identified with the Lord Jesus, in whom John xix. 37 and Rev. i. 7 tell us that this Scripture is fulfilled.

11.—As the mourning of Hadadrimmon.—This is "the mourning for the calamity which befel Israel at Hadadrimmon (2 Chron. xxxv. 24) in the death of the good King Josiah, who was mortally wounded in the valley of Megiddo."—Keil. The mourning for this most pious of all the kings of Judah is thus illustrative of Israel's future mourning for the Messiah, whom they "slew and hanged on a tree."

14.—Every family apart.—Not a mere national, but, as wrought by the Spirit, a personal, humiliation before God. The family humiliation may have reference to the family guilt contracted when they said, "His blood be on us and on our children."

THURSDAY, APRIL 26.—ZECHARIAH XIII.

This chapter contains much prophetic testimony to Christ. For repentant Israel there has been opened "a fountain for sin and uncleanness" (see 1 John i. 7, Heb. ix. 13, 14). Then the circumstances which led to Christ's death are described. The Jews were cured of idolatry in its grosser form by the Babylonish captivity (2), and the unclean spirit was so far driven out of the land, but only to return, as our Lord (with clear allusion to this passage) puts it (Matt. xii. 43) with sevenfold power to the swept and garnished house of Judaism, bringing in "the more refined idolatry of Pharisaic self-righteousness."—Keil. At the same time the false prophets, who had by their lies deceived the people, brought about so violent a reaction that "when any shall prophesy" (it does not say "falsely") his own nearest relations would "thrust him through" (3). The rejected prophet is then described (5) as using these remarkable words (R.V.): "I am no prophet, I am a tiller of the ground (see Gen. iii. 23, describing Adam's curse), for I have been made a bondman from my youth," or, as the Hebrew might be rendered, "Adam sold me from my youth." The Messiah thus takes the sinner's place (2 Cor. v. 21; Gal. iii. 13), and explains the wounds in his hands (or "between" his hands, thus including the side and the feet), as what He had received in the house of his friends (pointing back to his rejection by "his own," ver. 3). So far the human aspect of Christ's death. Now the Divine (7). The sword of God's justice is called to smite the shepherd (John x. 15, 18; Heb. xiii. 20), who is also Jehovah's "fellow," and though the sheep are thereby scattered, the Shepherd's care over his flock in resurrection is at once seen. "To turn the hand upon (or over) a person is to make him the object of active care once more."—Keil. See Matt. xxvi. 31, 32, where "I will go before you into Galilee" is the commencement of "I will turn my hand upon the little ones." Two parts of the nation are then cut off, and the third brought through refining trial to say, "The Lord is my God."

FRIDAY, APRIL 27.—ZECHARIAH XIV.

The final siege of Jerusalem, and the Lord's second coming and Millennial reign.

1.—The day of the Lord cometh.—A rapid transition from the commencement to the close of the dispensation.

4.—His feet shall stand on the Mount of Olives.—On this mount (Acts i. 11) was it said, "This same Jesus shall so come in like manner as ye have seen Him go into heaven." The personal coming of Christ seems clearly stated. The Mount of Olives shall cleave in the midst.—"This verse seems to indicate some natural convulsion which should alter the physical character of the region to the east of Jerusalem."—S.C.

5.—All the saints with thee.—"All the holy ones" (R.V.) Either the saints or the angels, or probably both (Matt. xxv. 31).

6.—The light shall not be clear, nor dark.—Better in R.V. margin, "There shall not be light, the bright ones shall contract themselves." Comp. Joel ii. 10, of the same event, "The stars shall withdraw their shining" (Matt. xxiv. 29; Rev. vi. 12).

10.—It shall be lifted up.—I.e., Jerusalem. "The whole land will be lowered, that Jerusalem alone may be high."—Keil.

20.—Upon the bells of the horses, Holiness unto the Lord.—What of old had been inscribed upon the high priest's mitre shall, in Millennial days, be written upon the very horses' bells, so thorough a change from sin to holiness will have come over the earth. This will be contemporaneous with the cessation of all trafficking (marg. R.V.) in Divine things. "'Canaanite' has the meaning of 'trafficker' and may be so rendered here."—S.C.

[The notes for Saturday, April 28, will be included in next week's instalment, which will be the closing one, the end of the Old Testament then being reached.]

Y.M.C.A. Bible Lessons.

OUTLINES PREPARED BY HENRY THORNE.

Sunday Afternoon, April 29.

The Holy Scriptures.—Proverbs vi. 20—23.

In the time of Joshua, the "book of the law" appears to have comprised the five books of Moses (Josh. i. 8, viii. 31). More than four hundred years afterwards, we find David commending this same book to the attention of his son Solomon (1 Kings ii. 3). Solomon had respect to this book of the law (2 Chron. v. 10, vi. 11, 16), and he seems to have regarded the commandments given to his father David as being of equal authority (2 Chron. vi. 8—10). The writings of David are certainly quoted in the New Testament as being a part of the law (John xv. 25; comp. Ps. lxix. 4), and as being the utterances of the Holy Ghost (Mark xii. 36; Acts i. 16). The books of the law and the Psalms of David made up Solomon's Bible, and it is to this section of the Scriptures he refers so frequently in the book of Proverbs. We may apply much that he said with equal propriety to the whole of the Scriptures as we have them to-day. Note in our lesson.

(1) The Authority of the Scriptures.—We read (ver. 20) of a "commandment" and of "law." God's Word is law, and his precepts are commands. As the Creator, He has a right to make regulations for the control of his creatures. The authority of the law of God results from the character of the Lawgiver. Comp. "God spake all these words" (Exodus xx. 7). The Gospel has in it all the authority of law. Comp. "commandeth" (Acts xvii. 30). See also 1 John iii. 23. Those who hear the testimony of Scripture hear the voice of God. Comp. "Thus saith the Lord" (Obadiah i. 1, &c.)

(2) The Commendation of the Scriptures.—The Word of God is commended by Solomon to his son. We have here the commendation of (a) A father.—Did any father ever have reason to regret that his son loved the Bible? (b) A king.—Note the prayer of David: "Give the king thy judgments" (Ps. lxxii. 1). (c) A wise man.—Some who profess to be wise are otherwise. The wisdom of Solomon was a reality, but he commended the Scriptures. The highest wisdom is associated with the knowledge of God's will (Col. i. 11). The Word of God is here commended to a son. It is well when youth is strengthened by a knowledge of the Scriptures (Ps. cxix. 9).

(3) The Unity of the Scriptures.—Comp. "them" (ver. 21), and "it" (ver. 22). The Book of God is one. It has one Author, and one end. Comp. "the Word of God," Mark vii. 13, and "cannot be broken," John x. 35.

(4) The Value of the Scriptures (vv. 22, 23).—See here: (a) Guidance.—"Lead." See how the Lord Jesus was guided by the Word of God, as to conduct (Matt. iv. 7), and as to what He said (John xvii. 4). Comp. 1 Pet. iv. 11. See how Paul was led by "It is written" (1 Cor. ix. 9; Gal. iii. 13). (b) Protection.—He sleeps in safety, whose heart has rested on the truth of God (Prov. iii. 24). (c) Communion.—"Talk." The Bible speaks to the heart, for God speaks through it (Heb. i. 1). (d) Correction.—"Reproofs." Comp. chap. i. 23, 25, 30. (e) Life.—"The way of life." Man is by nature in the way of death (Prov. xiv. 12), and, therefore, needs correction. The Bible does not only point out the wrong, it also reveals the right. It reveals Christ, and in Him is "the way of life" (John vi. 63). "The Bible," says Jeremy Taylor, "teaches all truth, commands all holiness, and promises all happiness."

BARBICAN MISSION TO THE JEWS.—Rev. P. I. J. Warschawski, who for twenty-three years has been testifying to Jews that Jesus is the Christ, has issued the eighth annual report of his labours in connection with the Barbican Mission. Though not without evidences of good fruit resulting from his efforts, he is content to prayerfully bear and commend the Gospel message, knowing that God's word will accomplish that whereunto it is sent. Mr. Warschawski says of his kindred: "I feel sure that many who have not made public confession by baptism are yet believers in the Messiahship of the Lord Jesus. Such are to be found among men and women." Mr. Warschawski's address is: Barbican House, 11, Torriano-avenue, Camden-road, London, N.W.

International S. S. Lesson.

Sunday Afternoon, April 29.

Matt. xxv. 14—30. Golden Text: Rev. ii. 10.

Introduction.—Compare this parable with that of the Virgins. That spoke of waiting, this of working, for Christ; that dealt with the inward spiritual life, this with the outward activity; that warned against decline of life in the heart, this warns against slothfulness in active work; there the foolish virgins failed through thinking too lightly of their calling, here the slothful fails, because he thinks it too hard.

In ancient times slaves were often men of ability and learning—artizans, business men, artists, and authors—who carried on businesses and professions for their masters, whose property they were. These "servants," then, were slaves, but slaves enjoying a freedom of action and a responsibility unknown among the slaves of our day.

His own servants.—Everyone who professes to follow Jesus. The fancied right of the ancient slave-owner to entire possession of his slave is but a poor symbol of Christ's right to every service we can pay. We are his by creation, redemption, and voluntary self-dedication. And delivered unto them his goods.—"The interests of Christ on earth are entrusted to his people. He has distributed among us all that He values upon earth." Talents.—"Everything over and above natural ability by which man can advance the interests of the kingdom—position, opportunities, and especially the means of grace given to every man."

To every man according to his several ability.—"The natural gifts are as the vessel, which may be large or small, and which receives according to its capacity; but which is, or may be, filled."—Trench.

Then he that had received the five talents, went, &c.—"Then," i.e., straightway, losing no time. This teaches urgency and promptitude. "The King's business requireth haste." The work of the kingdom is very pressing.

But he that had received one...hid his lord's money.—Why is the man with one talent represented as unfaithful, and not him with five or two? Unfaithfulness is as common among men with larger gifts. Because (1) Christ would have us know that the question considered by Him is not the value of his property, but the faithfulness of his servant; and also because (2) we are often apt to think that small talents carry little or no responsibility. When we see how terribly the neglecter of only one talent is condemned, we learn how really we are responsible, no one excepted.

LESSONS.

(1) That we are all servants in charge.—Should any say, "We are not servants, for we make no profession of Christianity," they ought to be servants, but are rebels.

(2) That each is individually responsible to his Lord alone for the use of every power and opportunity.—The reckoning may be delayed ("after a long time"), but how sure it is! Oh, to have "boldness in the day of judgment" as the faithful servants had!

(3) The responsibility is very great.—Even one talent—£2000, probably more, a very large sum. Who can value the power for good entrusted even to the weakest?

(4) The great requirement is faithfulness.—He who hands only four talents to his lord called "good and faithful," as heartily as he who comes with his ten.

(5) The splendid reward.—Threefold. (1) The commendation. It will be worth a lifetime of toil and suffering to get that welcome, that "Well done!" (2) The enlargement of power, usefulness, responsibility, and honour. "Faithful over a few," made "ruler over many." Contrast not only the "few" with the "many," but also the servant's state with that of the ruler. (3) Entering the master's joy. An allusion, doubtless, to great festivals in honour of his home-coming, and so to the marriage supper of the Lamb.

(6) Unfaithfulness—its root.—"I know thee that thou art an hard man." Hard thoughts of God must lead to evil lives. Till we know Him so that we love and trust Him, we can never serve Him aright.

(7) Unfaithfulness—its nature.—The man is condemned, not for doing ill, but only for not doing good. It will not serve us to ask, "What harm have I done?" God measures by the good undone as much as by the actual wrong committed. S here the great sin of slothfulness.

(8) Unfaithfulness—its doom.—(1) Condemnati
"Thou wicked and slothful servant." How aw if Christ spoke such words to me! (2) Taler lost. (3) Exclusion from the Master's joy—t glorious feast at the marriage supper of the Laml

ILLUSTRATIONS.

(1) Parable of Slothfulness.—"Among the d
ciples of Hillel, the wise teacher of the sons
Israel, was one named Saboth, who gave himself to idleness. Hillel was grieved, and resolved cure him of his fault. He took him to the vall of Hinnom, by Jerusalem, where was a standi pool, full of snakes and vermin, and covered w muddy weeds. 'Here,' said Hillel, 'let us re
'Not here,' said Saboth. 'Dost thou not percei what poisonous vapours it exhales?' 'Thou right, my son; this bog is like the soul of a sloth man.' Hillel then took the youth to a waste fie producing thorns and thistles. 'This,' he said, 'l good soil to produce all that is good and pleasar but it is forgotten and neglected. A little wh ago thou didst see the soul; now, behold the life an idle man.' Saboth was so impressed that began to lead a new life. Then Hillel took h into a fertile valley, by the side of a clear bro which flowed meandering between fruitful tre flowery meadows, and shady shrubberies, a said: 'This is a picture of thy new industric life. Nature, which warned thee, will now rewa thee."—Krummacher.

(2) Talents unused are taken from us.—This is great law of nature. Dr. Basnell reminds us th in the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, where river runs underground, in total darkness, fo great distance, fish are to be found that are qu blind. They are of exactly the same kind as th that swarm in the stream outside the cave in the li which have good eyesight. Those inside, having use for their eyes, gradually lost power of sig till they became actually blind. Again, "if one the arms be kept in free use, from childhood ward, while the other is drawn up over the he and made rigid there by long and violent detent
—a feat of religious austerity which the idolaters
the East often practise—the free arm and shoul will grow to full size, and the other will gradua shrink and perish." So, if we restrain any power, body, mind, or heart, or simply suffer its disuse, gradually lose it.

(3) Faithfulness.—A man gave his two infa children in charge of a negro slave, who was take them to a distant port. The ship by wh they journeyed was wrecked, and the passeng and crew crowded into the boats. These were full that the poor slave was obliged to cho between leaving the two children and stay behind himself. He chose the latter. He kis them, committed them to the sailors, and bade th tell his master that he had been faithful to trust. The boats went their way, and soon the s went down, carrying him with her.

LONDON Y.W.C.A.—In connection with City branch, a number of educational classes ha been organised on elementary subjects, dre cutting, shorthand, arithmetic, book-keeping, the pianoforte. Classes in other subjects may a be arranged. Particulars may be had on appli tion to Miss Baldwin, resident superintendent, the Institute, 14, Finsbury-square, E.C.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.—Miss Kelly wri that there seems to be little Christian life in Pe
Speaking of a Mission with which she is connect she says: "It is the only one in the colony.
Salvation Army has no one here. This place see to be forgotten by the Lord's people. I trust Lord will put it into the hearts of some of people to send me some tracts." Miss Kel address is: Care of Mrs. R. Cooke, St. Georg terrace, Perth, Western Australia.

REV. J. KNOWLES, L.M.S., Quilon, T vancore, South India, writes:—"Kindly allow to thank the friend who has sent me regularly so long a copy of The Christian. It is alw read with interest and profit by ourselves and few of our native Christians who read English. have had the numbers carefully kept, and at end of the year they are bound and put into Mission agent's library. I am in hopes before l of being able to build a reading-room on land
the Bazaar, alongside the Mission girls' school,
I shall be glad to have here the volumes of T
Christian, and also to receive any books suita for a mission reading-room, particularly illustra works." In our page for the young will be fo an interesting letter from Mr. Knowles.

Among the Churches.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

Good accounts have been received of the Church Army work in Calcutta and Amritsar; three more officers are wanted in Calcutta.

The Liverpool Cathedral Committee have decided to abandon the proposal to build a cathedral for the diocese, the promised subscriptions not being sufficient to justify proceeding with the scheme.

Rev. Dr. Doudney, the venerable vicar of St. Luke's, Bedminster, Bristol, who is now in his 79th year, has been compelled by advancing years and his recent illness, to relinquish the personal oversight of the parish.

A new church, at Broughton Mills, near Manchester, erected mainly by the generosity of Viscount Cross and a local landowner, has been opened. The church is the outcome of a mission conducted by Rev. W. Hay Aitken.

Rev. Dr. Bennett is shortly leaving Park Chapel, Chelsea, for Worthing. There is some prospect, however, that ere long he may return to London (should health permit) as incumbent of an important West-end church.

From High Lane, near Stockport, the Captain of the Church Army records fifty bright conversions and sixty pledges. A few days ago he held a meeting down a coal pit at 5.30 in the morning, and had 150 men gathered round him attentively.

The Goldsmiths' Company have given £100 to the fund for the purchase of John Wesley's chapel in West-street, Seven-dials. The chapel was re-opened on Easter Sunday under the license of the Bishop of London, and is now in regular use as a mission church connected with the London Diocesan Home Mission.

Dr. C. A. Smythies, Missionary Bishop of Central Africa, arrived in England last week. His experience during the four years of his work in the Dark Continent has been large and varied, and, next to Mr. H. M. Stanley, it is said that he has journeyed further into the interior of Africa than any other traveller.

There is probably no church in Brighton, says The English Churchman, where the fundamental truths of the Christian religion are more plainly and persistently preached than by Rev. J. G. Gregory, incumbent of Emmanuel Church, Hove. The services are of the plain, old-fashioned, and thoroughly congregational character.

The mail from Eastern Equatorial Africa, which arrived last week, brought no direct intelligence from Rev. E. C. Gordon, who is in Uganda, but Mr. Mackay seems to have received news to the effect that most of the Uganda converts come to Mr. Gordon, notwithstanding the danger in which such an attitude places them. Bishop Parker and most of his clergy have been meeting for a fortnight's conference at Wusambiro, the place where Mr. Mackay hopes to build his new boat. Rev. J. Blackburn and Mr. Hooper have gone over to start a new station at Nasa, on the south side of Speke Gulf. All is reported quiet at Mpwapwa.

PRESBYTERIAN.

The Dutch and German Reformed Churches held a great Conference in Philadelphia recently to promote a closer union between the two denominations.

Rev. Dr. A. T. Pierson has resigned the charge of Bethany Church, Philadelphia. His services are in great demand in many ways outside of the work of any local church.

The new building erected at Inverness for the forthcoming meetings of the Free Church Assembly was formally opened on Sunday last by a Gospel service, conducted by Dr. J. Black.

The congregation of St. Paul's Established Church, Leith, under the energetic ministry of Rev. Thomas Millar, is flourishing; 126 were added to the membership during the first three months of Mr. Millar's ministry, and the total membership is now over 1000.

Rev. George Smith, the senior missionary of the English Synod in China, arrived in England last week, with his family. It is more than thirty years since he went to China, and he has worked on in Swatow until a native church has grown up around him. He will be one of the speakers at the meetings of the Synod at Newcastle.

At the annual soirée of Trinity Free Church, Glasgow, it was reported that 155 members had been added during the year. During the three and a half years of Mr. Mackay's ministry 455 have been added. The increase has mainly been through God's blessing on the aggressive work of the congregation. Not a week passes without conversions.

A Presbyterian church has been erected at Montreux, Switzerland, for those who find it needful for health to visit or reside in that delightful resort. The ministers who have officiated could remain only for limited periods, and a strong desire has for years existed that one could be obtained who could reside permanently in place, and fulfil to those who attend the church all the duties of a Christian pastor.

Although the latest letters from Rev. D. Clement Scott, of the Church of Scotland Mission, Livingstonia, are of a reassuring character, so far as the immediate future of the Mission is concerned, an impression appears to have been created among the Arabs and Portuguese that Great Britain has abandoned her people in East Africa, and they are hastening to strangle the missions by closing against them the river Zambesi, which was opened thirty years ago, at an expense to British taxpayers of over £30,000.

SOCIETY OF FRIENDS.

Caroline E. Talbot, well known in England, is still actively at work. She has just been in Washington, Baltimore, yearly meeting, and Philadelphia.

Munster Quarterly Meeting, held in Cork from the 7th to the 9th inst., was favoured with the company of Wm. and Susan Thompson, of New England, and Elwood Scott, of Indiana, who rendered effective help.

During the last two years the membership of the Indiana yearly meeting, and the three yearly meetings that are its off-shoots, has increased from 48,698 to 51,969, viz., a growth of 3271, and this has resulted from evangelistic and pastoral work. Yet the room, and the need for more work and workers are immeasurable.

The quarterly meeting of Leinster was held at Mount Mellick on March 25, and following days, and was a time of favour. Elwood Scott, U.S.A.; Isaac Sharp, England; and Rebecca Grubb, of Carrick-on-Suir; were present and had important and interesting services. Children's and temperance meetings were acceptably held by local ministers.

CONGREGATIONAL.

Special sermons on behalf of Miss Sharman's Orphan Homes are to be preached at Harecourt Chapel, St. Paul's-road, Canonbury, N., by Rev. Henry Simon, on Sunday next.

Rev. E. J. Dukes, of Bridgwater, for some years missionary in the Fuh-kein province in connection with the London Missionary Society, has been invited to return to China to undertake the pastorate of the Union Church at Shanghai, and there is some likelihood of his accepting it.

The annual meetings of the Kent Association were held last week at Margate. There was a large attendance. An extra meeting was called on the morning of the 12th to consider the subject of "Modern Theology and the Pulpit." Rev. E. H. Higgins introduced the topic by an able paper, which indicated that among Nonconformists, as much as others, men had read the New Testament under the impression that certain human characteristics must be found there. Rev R. Tuck showed that a danger was setting in of magnifying an ethical theology to the neglect of primary truths, and Rev. Wm. Guest pleaded vigorously for a preaching that clearly started with pardon through atonement, but went on to the demand for a perfected salvation through union with a living Christ. The sentiments of the assembly as to orthodoxy were very manifest.

SALVATION ARMY.

Two hundred persons have professed to find salvation in two months at St. John's, Newfoundland.

In Christiania, Norway, fifty-three souls came to the penitent form on the night of Sunday week last.

Twenty or thirty of the Canadian officers were once Roman Catholics, and one who is now engaged at the Toronto headquarters was formerly a priest.

Between thirty and forty Salvation soldiers at Gorleston are about forming a naval brigade to carry on Salvation work amongst the men with whom they spend their lives, whilst engaged in their occupation as fishermen on the North Sea fisheries.

The proprietor and publisher of a local newspaper in Jamaica has given up his business, presented his printing plant to the Army, and will in future with the assistance of his wife set up the type for the Jamaica War Cry. The governor of the island is expected to open a new barracks there.

A telegram just sent from Bombay, by Colonel Weerisooriye, states: "Great excitement in Bombay on account of the grog-shops being attacked by Salvation Army. A theatre has been taken for Sundays. Amongst others a Parsee, an Armenian, a Hindoo, a Mohammedan, and an Afghan chief have been converted. In Ceylon and South India five large towns are to be opened immediately."

METHODIST.

Mr. William Sampson, the Cornish evangelist, commences a ten days' special mission in Brunswick Chapel, Balcombe-street, Dorset-square, N.W., on Sunday next.

In connection with special services held at Clapton, by Rev. Thomas Waugh a good work has been going on. Over two hundred adults and a number of young people sought salvation in the inquiry-rooms.

Rev. Ebenezer E. Jenkins, one of the secretaries of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, announces that he is physically too feeble to remain in his present office, and will therefore resign at next Conference.

Rev. Shirley Baker and his family have left Tonga, and taken up their abode in Auckland, New Zealand. He intends to submit his case to the General Wesleyan Conference to be held in Melbourne in May.

A special mission at Victoria Chapel, Clifton, conducted by Rev. Thomas Cook, has been much blessed. More than two hundred adults and fifty children went into the inquiry-rooms, and very many found the Saviour.

In connection with the Manchester Mission a vigorous effort is being made to arrange for open-air work during the summer. This department will be pushed with great zeal, and much fruit is expected. Gipsy Smith has recently held special services here with encouraging results.

At the Edgeworth Wesleyan Chapel, near Bolton, a memorial tablet has been erected to the late Mr. James Barlow, J.P., the founder of Dr. Stephenson's Children's Home at Edgeworth. The memorial at the Home will be a model dairy, and a series of workshops, for which over £2000 has been subscribed.

Rev. Hugh Price Hughes relates with grateful joy how a young girl was brought to herself and her Saviour, who turned into St. James's Hall on a recent Sunday evening, while on her way to Westminster Bridge to throw herself into the Thames. One of the latest features of the West-end Mission is a factory girls' club, to be open every evening, except Saturday.

BAPTIST.

Rev. Thomas Spurgeon, son of Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, and president elect of the New Zealand Baptist Union, has recently been married to Miss Lila Rutherford, of Auckland.

Since the settlement of Rev. W. Rowton-Parker at Crowle, Doncaster, a mission has been commenced at "Peat Moss Villas," a populated neighbourhood on the outskirts of the town, and very encouraging success has, so far, attended the work.

Rev. C. B. Sawday, says a contemporary, is not unlikely to accept the invitation he has received to succeed Rev. F. B. Meyer, in the pastorate at Melbourne Hall, Leicester. Mr. Sawday's ministry at Pentonville has extended to a quarter of a century, and his removal would be deeply regretted.

The Rev. W. J. Scott, pastor of the Baptist Church at Westbourne, preached his farewell sermons on Sunday last, and a public meeting was held on Monday previous to his sailing for America. He is a good man and preaches the truth in Jesus. We hope he and his helpful wife will find a congenial sphere of usefulness on the other side.

Rev. P. Williams, secretary of the Baptist Union of Jamaica, in a recent letter says:—"Our missionary work is in a very satisfactory and hopeful condition. Several new fields are opening all around us, and we are praying for men to occupy them. We hope to get additional men for Cuba and Hayti, and to commence work in Costa Rica and Corn Island during this year."

NOTES FROM IRELAND.

The Annual General Synod of the Protestant Episcopal Church has been in session in Dublin during the past week.

A most encouraging Gospel mission accompanied by much blessing has been held at Kilkenny by Rev. Chas. Inwood, Methodist Conference evangelist. Mr. J. Townsend Trench, J.P., has held similar missions in the Methodist Churches at Clones and Portadown.

"FALLEN ON SLEEP."

Miss Lucy Ann Wilson, eldest daughter of the late Rev. Daniel Wilson, vicar of Islington, and an earnest Christian worker.—Rev. Philip Kent, an aged clergyman, for twenty-five years one of the district secretaries of the Bible Society.—At Shanghai, on March 17, Rev. Dr. Matthew T. Yates, a celebrated American Baptist missionary; he went from America to China forty-five years ago, and had been there ever since. Dr. Yates had translated the New Testament into Chinese, and was revising the proofs for the press, when death overtook him.—Mr. Alderman Snape, J.P., of Darwen, a member of the Baptist Church, and an earnest Christian worker and philanthropist.—Mr. Jeremiah Irwin, for many years a zealous Methodist class-leader, on the Dungannon Circuit, in the eighty-sixth year of his age.

Notices.

COMMUNICATIONS RECEIVED WITH THANKS.—G.H.A D.L. A.H. A.T. J.E.H. T.M. J.T.H. J.L. J.T.T. A.F G.F.S.D. H.E.B. E.A.A. N.H. N.A. S.B. A.E. W.H.B W.F. N.P. A.M.B. J.P.C. R.B. W.A. H.T. J.B.D. W.M H.E. C.W.M. A.E.S. A.F. E.J.M. A.G.W. W.J. C.B.S C.L.A. R.D.F. F.B.M. A.M. R C. R.A. G.T. A.M.H. W.H. G.F.O. W.B. J.H.K. H.C.W. A.J.B. E.C.D. W.S. J.W. A.M. T.B.G. C.W.G. G.K. A.C.C. W.H.A. N.L.B. D.O. A.S.D. G.F.D. A.V.M. W.J.H.B. D.M. G.B.F. W.H. M.D. J.G.C. F.S.Y. T.J.B. J.B. S.S.J. R.T. J M.W. T.P. S.L. H.J.P. J.M.M. H.H. L.M.H. P.H.S. A.W.B. W.B. E.S. G.K. G.N.P. M.McL. E.M.A.C. E.G. F.A.B. F.P. E.L.G. A.S.B.C. M.C.S. W.H. W.E.H. J.R.M. J.P. B.H.G. M.B. H.J. E.C. W.J.C. A.B.M. W.D.D.

APPLICANTS FOR TRACTS.—J. Smith, Bible Depôt, Aylesbury, Bucks; T. Pearce, Gospel Hall, East Ferry-road, Cubitt Town, E.; L. Ormrod, Wood Cottages, Woodley, near Stockport; W. Pode, Launceston, Cornwall; Mr. Paige, Camelford, Cornwall; R. Roberts, Cripplegate Hotel, Whitecross-street, E.C.; J. L. Tyson, 113, Palmerston-street, South Shields; G. H. Griffiths, 21, Etherington-street, Gainsboro', Lincolnshire; G. F. Dumbarton, 41, Commercial-street, Whitechapel, E.; H. Cooper, Bardon Hillston, near Leicester; J. W. Waddell, Choppington R.S.O., Northumberland; H. Ellis, 174, High-street, Poplar, E.

[As it is found that infidels and others send tracts to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most desirable that all books and papers received should be carefully read before being given away.]

COLLEGES AND MISSIONS.—The students of the two colleges of Rutgers and New Brunswick, New Jersey, have appointed a missionary to India, for whose support they have raised one thousand dollars.

AN EXAMPLE FROM JAPAN.—One of the latest tokens of Christian unity at Tokio, in Japan, was a social meeting of all the theological students in the city. It took place in the central park, the popular resort of all classes of people. At a recent Gospel Conference, under the auspices of the Episcopal Mission, over which Bishop Bickersteth presided, addresses were given by Methodist and Independent pastors. As the Bishop was unable to speak in Japanese, his remarks were interpreted by a Presbyterian missionary. There was an attendance of upwards of a thousand Christians of all denominations. At a similar service recently held in Nagoya, the speakers represented the Episcopal, Methodist, Reformed, and Presbyterian Churches. The influence of such unity is most beneficial to all, and demonstrates to the heathen that there is a strong power in Christianity binding together all who truly love and try to serve our Lord.—Christian Leader.

"MAY MEETINGS," 1888.

Date.	Hour.	Institution.	Place of Meeting.	Chairman or Preacher.
APRIL. Fri. 20	1 p.m.	British & Foreign School Society	m Exeter Hall	Mr. Mundella, M.P.
"	7 p.m.	L.M.S. Young Men's Missy. Band..	m 14, Blomfield-street, E.C.	Mr. A. J. Shepheard.
"	7 p.m.	Bapt. Brit. & Irish Home Mission...	s Regent's Park Chapel, N.W...	Rev. Mark Guy Pearse.
Sat. 21	3 p.m.	Ch. of Eng. Temp. Soc. (Young)...	m Town Hall, Westminster, S.W.	Canon D. Kelly.
"	3 p.m.	Religious Services in Theatres	m 83, Lancaster-gate, W.	Lord Robert Montagu.
"	3 p.m.	Working Lads' Inst., Whitechapel	m The Institute, Whitechapel...	Princess Christian.
"	8 p.m.	Baptist Missionary Soc. (Welsh)...	m Castle-st. Chapel, Oxford Mkt.	....
Sun. 22	......	Ch. of Eng. Temperance Society..	Sermons in various Churches	....
"	......	Baptist Missionary Society	Sermons in various Chapels...	....
"	11 a.m.	Open-air Mission	s Park Chapel, Chelsea, S.W.	Rev. Dr. Bennett.
"	11 a.m.	Religious Tract Society	s St. Michael's, Chester-sq., S.W.	Rev. Dr. H. M. Butler.
Mon. 23	11 a.m.	Baptist Union	m City Temple, Holborn-viaduct	Rev. Dr. Clifford.
"	3 p.m.	Midnight Meeting Movement	m Exeter Hall	Mr. R. Cope Morgan.
"	3 p.m.	Bishop of Bedford's Fund	m Mansion House, E.C.	Bishop of Bedford.
"	6.30 p.m.	U. Meth. Free Churches Mssns.	m Exeter Hall	Mr. James Macinder.
"	6.30 p.m.	Midnight Meeting Movement	m Exeter Hall	Mr. George Williams.
"	7.30 p.m.	Ch. of Eng. Temperance Society..	s St. Paul's Cathedral	Dean of Armagh.
Tues. 24	10.30 a.m.	Baptist Missionary Society	m 19, Furnival-street, Holborn..	Mr. Charles Townsend.
"	3 p.m.	Reformatory and Refuge Union..	m St. James's Hall	Earl of Aberdeen.
"	3.30 p.m.	Ch. of Eng. Temperance Society..	m Library, Lambeth Palace, S.W.	Lord Coleridge.
"	3.30 p.m.	Baptist Total Abstinence Asson...	m 19, Furnival-street, Holborn..	Mr. W. S. Caine, M.P.
"	5.30 p.m.	British & Foreign Sailors' Society	m Stafford Rms., Titchborne-st.	Earl of Aberdeen.
"	6.45 p.m.	Trinitarian Bible Society	m Exeter Hall	Colonel Puget.
"	7 p.m.	Baptist Missionary Society	m Freemasons' Hall, Gt. Queen-st.	Mr. Edward Rawlings.
Wed. 25	8.30 a.m.	Baptist Zenana Mission	m Cannon-street Hotel, E.C.	Mr. J. H. Tritton.
"	12 noon.	Baptist Missionary Society	s Bloomsbury Chapel, W.C. ...	Rev. Dr. Monro Gibson.
"	2.30 p.m.	Ch. of Eng. Temp. Soc. (Women)	m Exeter Hall	Rev. Canon Ellison.
"	3 p.m.	Ch. of Eng. Scrip. Rdrs. Asson...	m Prince's Hall, Piccadilly	Earl of Strafford.
"	3.30 p.m.	Baptist Union	m City Temple, Holborn-viaduct	Rev. Dr. Clifford.
"	5 p.m.	Young Abstainers' Union	m Exeter Hall	Sir Arthur Blackwood.
"	6.30 p.m.	Baptist Total Abstinence Asson...	m Metropolitan Tabernacle	Sir Wilfrid Lawson.
"	6.30 p.m.	Bible Translation Society	m Bloomsbury Baptist Chapel...	Rev. Dr. Edw. Parker.
"	7 p.m.	Wesleyan Missionary Society	s City-road Chapel, E.C.	Rev. Mark Guy Pearse.
"	7 p.m.	Country Towns Mission	m Exeter Hall	Mr. S. G. Sheppard.
"	7 p.m.	Ch. of Eng. Temperance Society..	m Exeter Hall	Bishop of London.
"	7.30 p.m.	Missionary Leaves Association ...	s Christ Church, Hampstead ...	....
"	7.30 p.m.	Freedmen's Missions' Aid Soc	m Clapham Presbyterian Ch.	Rev. Dr. MacEwan.
"	7.30 p.m.	Ch. of Eng. Young Men's Society.	s St. Bride's Ch., Fleet-street...	Archbishop of York.
"	8 p.m.	Indian Female Normal Sch. Soc.	s All Souls' Ch., Langham pl...	Rev. Dr. Flavel Cook.
Thurs. 26	11 a.m.	Wesleyan Missionary Society	s Centenary Hall, E.C.	Rev. John Walton.
"	11 a.m.	Baptist Union	m Bloomsbury Chapel, W.C. ...	Rev. Dr. Clifford.
"	3 p.m.	Ch. of Eng. Temp. Soc. (Women)..	m Grosvenor House, S.W.	Bishop of Sodor & Man.
"	4.30 p.m.	Christian Colportage Association..	m Exeter Hall	Lord Kinnaird.
"	6 p.m.	Baptist Missionary Society	m Exeter Hall	Mr. Hugh M. Matheson.
"	8 p.m.	Ch. of Eng. Young Men's Society.	m Sion College, E.C.	Lord Halsbury.
Fri. 27	9 a.m.	Baptist Missionary Society	m Exeter Hall	Mr. W. R. Rickett.
"	11 a.m.	Wesleyan Missionary Society	s Great Queen-street Chapel ...	Rev. Dr. Mackennal.
"	3 p.m.	Strangers' Friend Society	m Mansion House, E.C.	The Lord Mayor.
"	3 p.m.	Indian Female Normal Sch. Soc..	m Morley Halls, 316, Regent-st.	Lord Kinnaird.
"	3 p.m.	South American Missionary Soc...	m Exeter Hall	Archbishop of York.
"	7 p.m.	Sunday School Union	m 56, Old Bailey, E.C.	Alderman Saunders.
"	7 p.m.	Baptist Missionary Soc. (Young)..	m Exeter Hall	Alderman Belsey.
Sat. 28	9 a.m.	Wesleyan Missionary Society	m Exeter Hall	Mr. Samuel Osborne.
Sun. 29	10 a.m.	British & Foreign Bible Society...	s Westminster Abbey	Rev. Canon T. H. Cross.
"	10.30 a.m.	British & Foreign Sailors' Society	s St. Edmund's, Lombard-st. ...	Rev. William Benham.
"	......	Wesleyan Missionary Society	Sermons in various churches	....
"	11 a.m.	Religious Tract Society	s Clapham Congregational Ch..	Rev. J. G. Rogers.
"	3 p.m.	National Temperance League	s Metropolitan Tabernacle	Rev. Dr. Monro Gibson.
"	7 p.m.	British & Foreign Sailors' Society	s St. Edmund's, Lombard-st. ...	Rev. William Benham.
"	7 p.m.	National Temperance League	s Westminster Abbey	Bishop of Marlboro'.

m.—Meeting; s.—Sermon.

Forthcoming Meetings.

THE EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, and Wales on due notice. Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, W.C.

THE IRISH EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

THE CHURCH ARMY will send evangelists (working-men) to any clergymen on due notice, for short or long missions. Hon. Sec., 128 & 130, Edgware-road, W.

THE METROPOLITAN TABERNACLE EVANGELISTS' ASSOCIATION will send lay preachers and evangelists to any chapel or hall of any evangelical denomination in London. Hon. Sec., 121, Camberwell New-road, S.E.

THE COUNTRY TOWNS MISSION supplies qualified missionaries for work in the country. Apply to Secretary, 18, New Bridge-street, Ludgate-circus, E.C.

Y.M.C.A., NEW METAL EXCHANGE, Whittington-avenue, E.C.—First anniversary of the City Y.M.C.A. Mission Band, Monday next, 6.30 p.m., chairman, Mr. W. H. Seagram. Addresses by Rev. F. C. Stuart and others.

CONFERENCE HALL AND Y.M.C.A., Stratford, E.—Sundays in April, 3 and 7 p.m., Mr. C. Russell Hurditch. Bible-readings, Sundays, 3 p.m.; Tuesdays, 8.15 p.m.: Wednesdays, 8.15 p.m.

Y.M.C.A., BURLINGTON HALL, 23, Savile-row, W.—Friday, April 20, at 8.45, lecture by Rev. W. J. Brown, "The Day of Queen Elizabeth."

Y.M.C.A., 186, ALDERSGATE-STREET, E.C.—Friday, April 20, 8 p.m., special mission to young men, by Mr. Charles Inglis. Monday, April 23, 8 p.m., lecture by Professor Stokes, on "Memory."

Y.M.C.A., THE PRIORY, 198, Upper-street, N.—Thursday, April 19, address, by Rev. J. Evans. Wednesday, 6 to 10 p.m., anxious inquirers and strangers.

CONFERENCE HALL, Mildmay-park, N.—Sunday. 3.30 p.m., Mr. P. S. Badenoch; 7 p.m., Mr. James L. Stanley. Wednesday, 7.30 p.m., Bible-reading, by Rev. H. E. Brooke; subject—"More than Conquerors through Him that Loved Us." Thursday, 7.30 p.m., annual meeting of German Y.M.C.A.

KILBURN TOWN HALL, N.W.—Sunday evening services are held by the Evangelistic Mission every Sunday at 7 p.m. Preacher for April, Mr. A. M. Kyd.

WESLEYAN WEST CENTRAL MISSION.—St. James's Hall: Fridays, at 12 noon, Rev. Mark Guy Pearse; 7.30 p.m., Rev. Hugh Price Hughes. Sundays, 11 a.m., Rev. Mark Guy Pearse; 3.30 and 7 p.m., Rev. Hugh Price Hughes. Wardour Hall: Mondays, 8 p.m., Rev. Mark Guy Pearse; daily prayer-meeting from 1.30 to 2 p.m. All seats always free.

CHRISTIAN WORKERS' REUNION for Bible study and prayer, 186, Aldersgate-street, every Thursday, at 3.30.

GREAT ASSEMBLY HALL, Mile End-road, E.—Sunday, April 22, 11 a.m., and 6.30 p.m., Messrs. Fullerton and Smith.

MERCHANTS' LECTURE, Finsbury Chapel, Moorfields, E.C.—Tuesdays in April, 12 noon, Rev. Edward White.

HOUSE OF REST, 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn, N.W.—Friday, April 20, 7 p.m., "Degeneracy and Regeneration." Tea at 6.

NORTH AFRICA MISSION.—Meeting, Powis Hall, Talbot-road, Bayswater, W., Thursday, April 26, at 7.30. Rev. J. A. Stephens, and others.

UNION TABERNACLE, Wandsworth-road, S.W.—Monday, May 7, meetings, at 4 and 7 p.m., to pray for revival of God's work.

REGENT'S PARK CHAPEL, N.W.—Rev. F. B. Meyer, address, Thursday mornings, 11.30, for Christian workers. Sunday, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

HYDE PARK HALL, Stourcliffe-street, Edgware-road.—Mr. W. H. Seagram, Sunday, April 22, at 3 and 7; Tuesday, 24, at 8. Hyde Park opening service, Sunday, May 6.

EDINBURGH CASTLE, Limehouse, E.—Sunday 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Mr. J. B. Wookey; 3 p.m., Rev. Henry Bright.

DEEPENING OF THE SPIRITUAL LIFE.—Meeting at Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road, W., every Friday, 3.30 p.m. Friday, April 20, Mr. R. C. Morgan. April 27, Rev. J. Hudson Taylor.

PECKHAM AND EAST DULWICH VIGILANCE ASSOCIATION.—Annual meeting, Friday evening, April 20, Peckham Public Hall, Rye-lane. Mr. John Taylor, President of the Association, will occupy the chair; and Messrs. W. A. Coote and R. C. Morgan will give addresses.

DUBLIN BELIEVERS' MEETINGS, May 29, 30, 31, and June 1.

BEDFORD.—CONVENTION FOR THE DEEPENING OF SPIRITUAL LIFE, May 2, 3, and 4.

SOUTHSEA CONFERENCE, May 22, 23, and 24. To be preceded by ten days' special mission, commencing May 13, conducted by Rev. F. S. Webster.

Subscriptions received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott to Monday, April 16, 1888.

 We would respectfully urge all our friends, when remitting to us, to make Cheques, Money Orders, or Postal Orders payable to Morgan & Scott, and to cross them "City Bank;" this will effectually prevent loss of same.

	£	s.	d.
H.M.A.S.—Please send address of "Ratcliff Band of Hope."
St. Giles' Christian Mission—S.D....	0	5	0
Mr. A. G. Brown's Work—S.D. 2s 6d; J.C.C. 10s	0	12	6
Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen—S.D. 2s 6d; E.W.F. 5s...	0	7	6
Mr. Fegan's Boys' Home—S.D. 2s; M.E.B. £1; E.J.M. 3s...	1	5	0
Madame Rodriguez's New Hall in Figueras—G.H.S...	5	0	0
Railway Mission—G.H.S. £5; J.W. & K.A. £5..	10	0	0
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—Christian Mother, 7s 10d; M. 10s; M.E.B. £1; E.J.M. 3s; E.W.F. £1; Dear Old Women—C.H.M. £5 ...	8	0	10
Relief of Jews (Mrs. Finn)—C.H.M. ...	5	0	0
Irish Society—C.H.M. ...	10	0	0
Mildmay Mission to Jews—K....	0	10	6
Salvation Army—A.F.C., Bayswater ...	0	5	0
Christian Community—P.S. ...	0	4	6
Deacon Abraham's Orphanage—P.S. ...	0	4	6
China Inland Mission—Theodora, 3s; Owe, £1; E.E.S. 10s; E.W.F. 5s; F.C.P. 5s; C.K.S. £1; Inundation Relief Fund—Santry, £1 0s 5d	4	3	5
Children's Free Breakfasts (Rev. A. Mearns)—Rev. J. & Mrs. B. ...	0	5	0
Miss de Broen's Work, Paris—Miss W...	1	0	0
London City Mission—E.C. ...	0	5	0
Dinners for Sick Children—E.C. ...	0	5	0
British & Foreign Bible Society—E.C...	0	5	0
British Society for Propagation of Gospel among the Jews—E.C....	0	5	0
Sec., G.W.R. (Widow & Orphans Fund)—M.E.B.	1	0	0
Syrian Missions (Mrs. Yates)—M.E.B....	0	10	0
Bible Stand, Crystal Palace—M.E.B....	0	10	0
Homes of Hope, Regent-square—M.E.B. ...	0	5	0
Drury-lane Mission (Mr. Hambleton)—M.E.B....	0	5	0
Midnight Meeting Movement—M.E.B....	0	10	0
Special Religious Services in Theatres—M.E.B...	0	10	0
Bloomsbury Refuges (Mr. Williams)—M.E.B. ...	0	5	0
Friendless & Fallen—M.E.B. 5s; Negavit, 3s 6d; E.E.S. 10s...	0	18	6
Female Orphans' Home, Hampton—M.E.B...	0	7	6
Miss H. Mason's Home, Little Oddyns—M.S. ...	1	1	0
Ladies' Mission, Jerusalem—H.A....	0	7	6
Home of Industry—E.J.M. ...	0	3	0
George-yard Ragged Schools—E.J.M. 3s; Bristol, £25 ...	25	3	0
Gray's-yard Ragged Schools—E.J.M. ...	0	3	0
London Samaritan Society, &c.—E.J.M. ...	0	3	0
Evangelistic Mission—E.J.M. 2s 1d; New Hall—An Orphan, 4s...	0	6	1
Gratuitous Circulation of THE CHRISTIAN—E.J.M...	0	2	0
Trinitarian Bible Society—J.W. & K.A. ...	10	10	0
Sunday School Union—J.W. & K.A. ...	5	0	0
Children's Special Service Mission—J.W. & K.A. £5; Continental Work—J.W. & K.A. £5...	10	0
School for Missionaries' Daughters—J.W. & K.A.	5	0
Book Society, Paternoster-row—J.W. & K.A. ...	3	0
Jewish Converts' Institute—J.W. & K.A. ...	4	0
Y.W.C.A., Pentonville—J.W. & K.A. ...	3	0
Gospel Tent Mission, Wellington—J.W. & K.A...	3	0
Blackdown Hills Mission—J.W. & K.A. ...	5	0
Miss Whately's Medical Mission, Cairo—J.W. & K.A. ...	4	0
Hospital for Paralysed Children, 73, Welbeck-st.—J.W. & K.A....	3	0
Royal Alfred Aged Merchant Seamen's Institute—J.W. & K.A. ...	5	0
Freedmen's Missions' Aid Society—J.W. & K.A.	5	0
Y. W. Institute, Ireland (Mrs. Jones, Dublin)—J.W. & K.A. ...	5	0
Soldiers' Institute, Brighton—J.W. & K.A. ...	4	0
Soldiers' Institute, Sandgate—J.W. & K.A. ...	4	0
Soldiers' Institute, Portsmouth—J.W. & K.A. ...	4	0
Soldiers' Institute, Winchester—J.W. & K.A. ...	4	0
Soldiers' Institute, Woolwich—J.W. & K.A. ...	4	0
Soldiers' Institute, Gibraltar—J.W. & K.A. ...	4	0
Soldiers' Institute, Cape (Mrs. Osborn)—J.W. & K.A. ...	4	0
Thames Church Mission—E.E.S. ...	0	10
Miss Mittendorff's Orphan Homes—E.W.F...	1	0
Opium Refuges in Shansi, China—G.J...	0	2
Bridge of Hope Shelter, Ratcliff—Bristol ...	15	0
Lambeth Ragged Schools—T.B. ...	0	1
Widow of late Robert Craig—C.K.S. ...	0	10
London Female Penitentiary—M.S. ...	1	1
Cavan Memorial Hall, Walmer—R.G.W. ...	2	2
	£199	9

[ADVERTISEMENTS.]

Deep Sea Fishermen.—E.V., A Few Things and £1.

Bridge of Hope—Z.E.A. £1.

Bethnal Green Free Library (towards £1000)—R.M. £ Mr. F. A. BEVAN, Treasurer, 54, Lombard-street, E.C

London Samaritan Society (Free Meals)—Mr. J.J.W. £1 1 Mrs. G. £1 1s; Mrs. M. 5s; Mrs. D. 2s 3d.

Kilburn Hall Building Fund (per Mr. C.R.H.)—A Lady £2; Miss M. 5s; Mrs. R. 6d.

Widow of late Robert Craig (Mr. W. R. Nicoll)—T.R. 10s; Supplied, 10s; Anon., 1s.

Indian Female Normal School and Instruction Society,

OR

Zenana Bible and Medical Mission.

In co-operation with the B. and F. B. S., C. M. S., and other Evangelical Societies working in India.

Founded 1852.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

WILL BE HELD (D.V.) AT

MORLEY HALL, 316, Regent St., W.,

On FRIDAY, APRIL 27, 1888,

At 3 p.m.

CHAIRMAN: THE LORD KINNAIRD (TREASURER).

Speakers:	Subjects:
The Rev. F. E. WIGRAM.	"Gleanings from the Mission Field."
Sir THOS. CRAWFORD, K.C.B., M.D., LL.D., Director-General, Army Medical Staff.	"Medical Missions."
The Rev. F. B. MEYER.	"The Claims of India's Women, and of Christ."

Tickets can be obtained from the SECRETARY,
2, Adelphi-terrace, W.C.

Sermons to be Preached.

8 p.m. WEDNESDAY, April 25, at All Souls, Langham-place, W., by the Rev. FLAVEL COOK, D.D.

8 p.m. WEDNESDAY, May 2, at the Presbyterian Church, Marlborough-place, St. John's Wood, N.W., by the Rev. R. H. LOVELL (of Bromley).

International Bible-Reading Association.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS, &c., at home and abroad are invited to form Branches. Subscription from countries in the Postal Union, One Penny; others, Three-Halfpence each member. The daily portions are short, and illustrate the Lesson for the next Sunday. Circular letters and monthly hints on the readings sent free. Nearly 200,000 members. Address C. C. WATERS, Sunday School Union, 56, Old Bailey, London, E.C.

CHRISTIAN COMMUNITY.

ALL-NIGHT RESCUE WORK.

ALREADY 12,000 poor Homeless and Starving Men have been gathered from the streets in the dead of night, Sheltered, Fed, and otherwise assisted, with most gratifying results.

This season has commenced with more than usual severity. Hundreds of poor men have been gathered in, and their need supplied, while scores have been turned away, for want of room, in the most destitute condition.

The continuance of this much-needed work must depend upon the liberality of those having the means to support it. Contributions will be gratefully received by the SECRETARY; or Treasurer, F. A. BEVAN, Esq., 54, Lombard-street, E.C.; or by the EDITORS OF "THE CHRISTIAN."

JAMES ATKINSON, Secretary.
28, Enfield Road, Kingsland, N.

By D. L. MOODY.

HEAVEN.

ITS HOPES, ITS INHABITANTS, ITS RICHES, ITS REWARDS.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"Mr. Moody presents to the mind a real and Scriptural heaven—the heaven of the apostle John."—The Baptist.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.;
Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.

THE FAITHFUL SAYING.

A SERIES OF GOSPEL ADDRESSES.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"These Addresses are admirable examples of the readiest way to reach the hearts of men with the truths of Christ."—General Baptist Magazine.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.;
Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.

THE WAY TO GOD.

A SERIES OF ADDRESSES ON THE WAY OF SALVATION.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"These new discourses from Mr. Moody's pen are plain, anecdotal, and full of the glorious gospel of salvation."—The King's Highway.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.;
Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

GRAY'S YARD RAGGED CHURCH & SCHOOLS,

JAMES STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

President—F. A. BEVAN, ESQ., 54, LOMBARD STREET, E.C.

Funds are Urgently Needed to meet the current Expenses of this Institution. From 500 to 700 Casuals and Tramps are here supplied with Bread and Coffee every Sunday, after Gospel Services. Nearly £3 per week required for Food alone.

Contributions will be thankfully received and acknowledged by GEORGE HANBURY, Esq., Treasurer, 21, Portman-square, W.; PHILIP GOUGH, Esq., Hon. Sub-Treasurer, 33, Cambridge-street, Hyde-park, W.; or by Messrs. MORGAN & SCOTT.

COUNTRY TOWNS MISSION.

The Annual Meeting

WILL BE HELD AT

EXETER HALL, on WEDNESDAY, APRIL 25.

S. GURNEY SHEPPARD, Esq.,

IN THE CHAIR.

H. C. NISBET, ESQ.,

WILL ADDRESS THE MEETING,

And the Society's Missionaries from the following places will give accounts of their work: NEWPORT (Salop), PAILTON (Warwickshire), ONGAR (Essex), and Bath.

To Commence at Seven o'clock.

H. C. NISBET, Treasurer. G. H. MAWER, Secretary.
Offices, 18, New Bridge-street, Ludgate-circus E.C.

PARIS MISS DE BROEN

WILL (D.V.) HAVE

A STALL

For her Work in BELLEVILLE, 3, RUE CLAVEL, PARIS, at the

UNITED SALE OF WORK,

On THURSDAY and FRIDAY, APRIL 26 and 27, 1888, in

Royal Albert Hall.

Fancy Work and Useful Articles, or Money, much solicited. To be sent to MISS DE BROEN, c/o Mrs. ROBERTSON, 1, Campden-houses, Peel-st., Campden-hill, W.

REGENT'S PARK CHAPEL, Park Square East

(Near Portland Road Station).

REV. W. LANDELS, D.D., will preach next Sunday, April 22, in the morning at 11.

REV. F. B. MEYER, B.A., in the evening at 7.

Collections after both services for the Baptist Missionary Society.

MEETINGS FOR MEN, conducted by Rev. F. B. Meyer. Every Sunday afternoon at 3.15.

THURSDAY MORNINGS. Service weekly at 11.30. Conducted by Rev. F. B. Meyer. Christian workers specially invited.

Visitors welcomed to all parts of the building; gallery seats free.

NATIONAL TEMPERANCE LEAGUE.—The ANNUAL SERMON at the METROPOLITAN TABERNACLE will be preached on SUNDAY, APRIL 29, by the REV. J. MONRO-GIBSON, D.D., of St. John's Wood. Service to commence at Three o'clock.

NATIONAL TEMPERANCE LEAGUE.—The ANNUAL MEETING of the League will be held in EXETER HALL, STRAND, on MONDAY, APRIL 30, at 7 p.m.

The Right Rev. the LORD BISHOP OF LONDON, President of the League, will preside; and the Meeting will be addressed by the Right Rev. the LORD BISHOP OF SODOR and MAN; Rev. F. B. MEYER, B.A.; Rev. W. J. WOODS, B.A.; G. P. DEEPING, Esq., L.R.C.P. Lond.; W. S. CAINE, Esq., M.P.; and JOSHUA ROWNTREE, Esq., M.P.

The TEMPERANCE CHORAL SOCIETY (Conductor, Mr. JAMES A. BIRCH), assisted by other Choirs, will give a short Concert prior to the chair being taken, commencing at 6.30 p.m.; and will sing at intervals during the evening.

ADMISSION FREE. Tickets for Reserved Seats, 1s. each, may be obtained at the Offices of the League, 337, Strand.

LONDON CITY MISSION.

THE

FIFTY-THIRD ANNUAL MEETING

WILL BE HELD (D.V.) IN

EXETER HALL,

On THURSDAY, MAY 3, 1888.

The Chair to be taken at 10.30 a.m.
by F. A. BEVAN, Esq.

SPEAKERS.—EARL COMPTON; Rev. Sir EMILIUS LAURIE, Bart., Vicar of St. John's, Oxford Square; Rev. JOHN BOND; Rev. G. F. HEAD, Vicar of Christ Church, Hampstead.

Tickets may be had at the Mission House, 3, Bridewell-place, E.C., or at Exeter Hall.

A CRY FOR HELP FROM SOUTH LONDON.

LAMBETH RAGGED SCHOOLS, Newport-street, Lambeth Walk, are in a most destitute district. The Committee are compelled to leave unattempted most urgent work for want of Funds. A Thousand Halfpenny Dinners and Free Porridge Breakfasts supplied weekly during winter (by aid of Rev. A. Mearn's Fund for "Outcast London") to Hungry and very Needy Children. Many good Agencies in operation for Old and Young, and 1,500 benefited weekly. Ninety Voluntary Workers. All subscriptions go without deduction to help the Poor, and all cases carefully investigated.

"Bear ye one another's burdens." WHO WILL HELP?

Contributions thankfully received by Messrs. MORGAN & SCOTT; or at 106, Leuthwaite-road, Clapham-common, S.W., by EDWIN NICHOLLS, Hon. Sec.

President: HON. LIONEL ASHLEY.

WINTER STORMS AT SEA.

Thousands of Fishermen are engaged all the year round in providing OUR TABLES with fish. These men, who FOR US hazard their lives and toil through furious blasts and sleety storm, may rightly claim some small share in the privileges we so richly enjoy. THIS THEY CAN ONLY HAVE THROUGH THE PRESENCE OF THE MISSION VESSELS, carrying to the Fishermen the message of Divine mercy and love, affording relief in sickness, and cheering dull lives by their presence.

MISSION TO DEEP-SEA FISHERMEN.

PATRON: HER MAJESTY QUEEN VICTORIA.

Treasurer and Chairman of General Council: THOMAS B. MILLER, Esq.
Chairman of Finance Committee: THOMAS GRAY, Esq., C.B.
Bankers: Messrs. LLOYDS, BARNETTS, & BOSANQUETS (Limited), Lombard Street, E.C.
Offices: BRIDGE HOUSE, BLACKFRIARS BRIDGE, LONDON, E.C.
Founder and Director: E. J. MATHER, Esq.

EIGHT MISSION SMACKS cruise in the North Sea, serving as CHURCH, DISPENSARY, TEMPERANCE HALL, and CLUB. A Fund is being raised to Build and Equip a NEW HOSPITAL MISSION VESSEL, to be called the "Queen Victoria." Her Majesty has kindly contributed £50. Who will help to conclude a work so well begun? During the year 1887, the cases of Sickness and Accident successfully treated in the Dispensary on the Mission Vessels numbered 3,902.

MANUFACTURERS to HER MAJESTY the QUEEN.

Wm. Polson's CORN FLOUR.

The Original and First Manufactured in Great Britain.

UNRIVALLED FOOD OF HEALTH, for Children and Invalids; THE BEST KNOWN MATERIAL for PUDDINGS, CUSTARDS, CAKES, BLANCMANGE, and a variety of delicious Preparations for the Table.

Every Packet is Warranted Pure, and its genuine qualities are certified by the highest medical authorities in the kingdom.

The Lancet affirms:—"It is preferable to most descriptions of Arrowroot, on account of its sweeter flavour." Dr. Lankester, Superintendent of Government Food Collection at Kensington, in a note to the Manufacturers said:—". . . I am so well satisfied with our Corn Flour that I have given directions for its use in my own family."

Wm. Polson & Co., Paisley and London.

BALDWIN & WALKER'S KNITTING AND FANCY WOOLS

TRADE-MARK.
Registered

HIGHLAND WOOLS
FINGERING WOOLS
MERINO WOOLS
SHETLAND WOOLS
In Great Variety

Special makes for Machine Knitters

SOLD BY ALL LEADING DRAPERS & HOSIERS.
If any difficulty is found in obtaining, apply to Manufacturers, who will gladly send address of nearest Retailer.

ESTABLISHED 1836 WEST CROFT MILLS, Halifax, Yorkshire.

GOLD MEDAL LIVERPOOL, 1886.

BY SPECIAL ROYAL AND IMPERIAL WARRANT!

Under the direct Patronage of HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN and the Royal Families of Europe.

Egerton Burnett's Royal Serges

REGISTERED. REGISTERED.

FASHIONABLE DRESS MATERIALS

For Ladies, Children, and Gentlemen.

Unsurpassed for Beauty, Novelty, and Sterling Value.

Prices for Ladies—from 10½d. to 5s. 6d. per yd.

PATTERNS POST FREE.

NEW PATTERNS FOR SPRING, 1888.

Any Length of Material Sold.

Carriage Paid on Orders of £1 in value to any Railway Station in the United Kingdom.

Goods Packed for Exportation.

CAUTION—NO AGENTS. NO REPRESENTATIVES. NO BRANCHES.

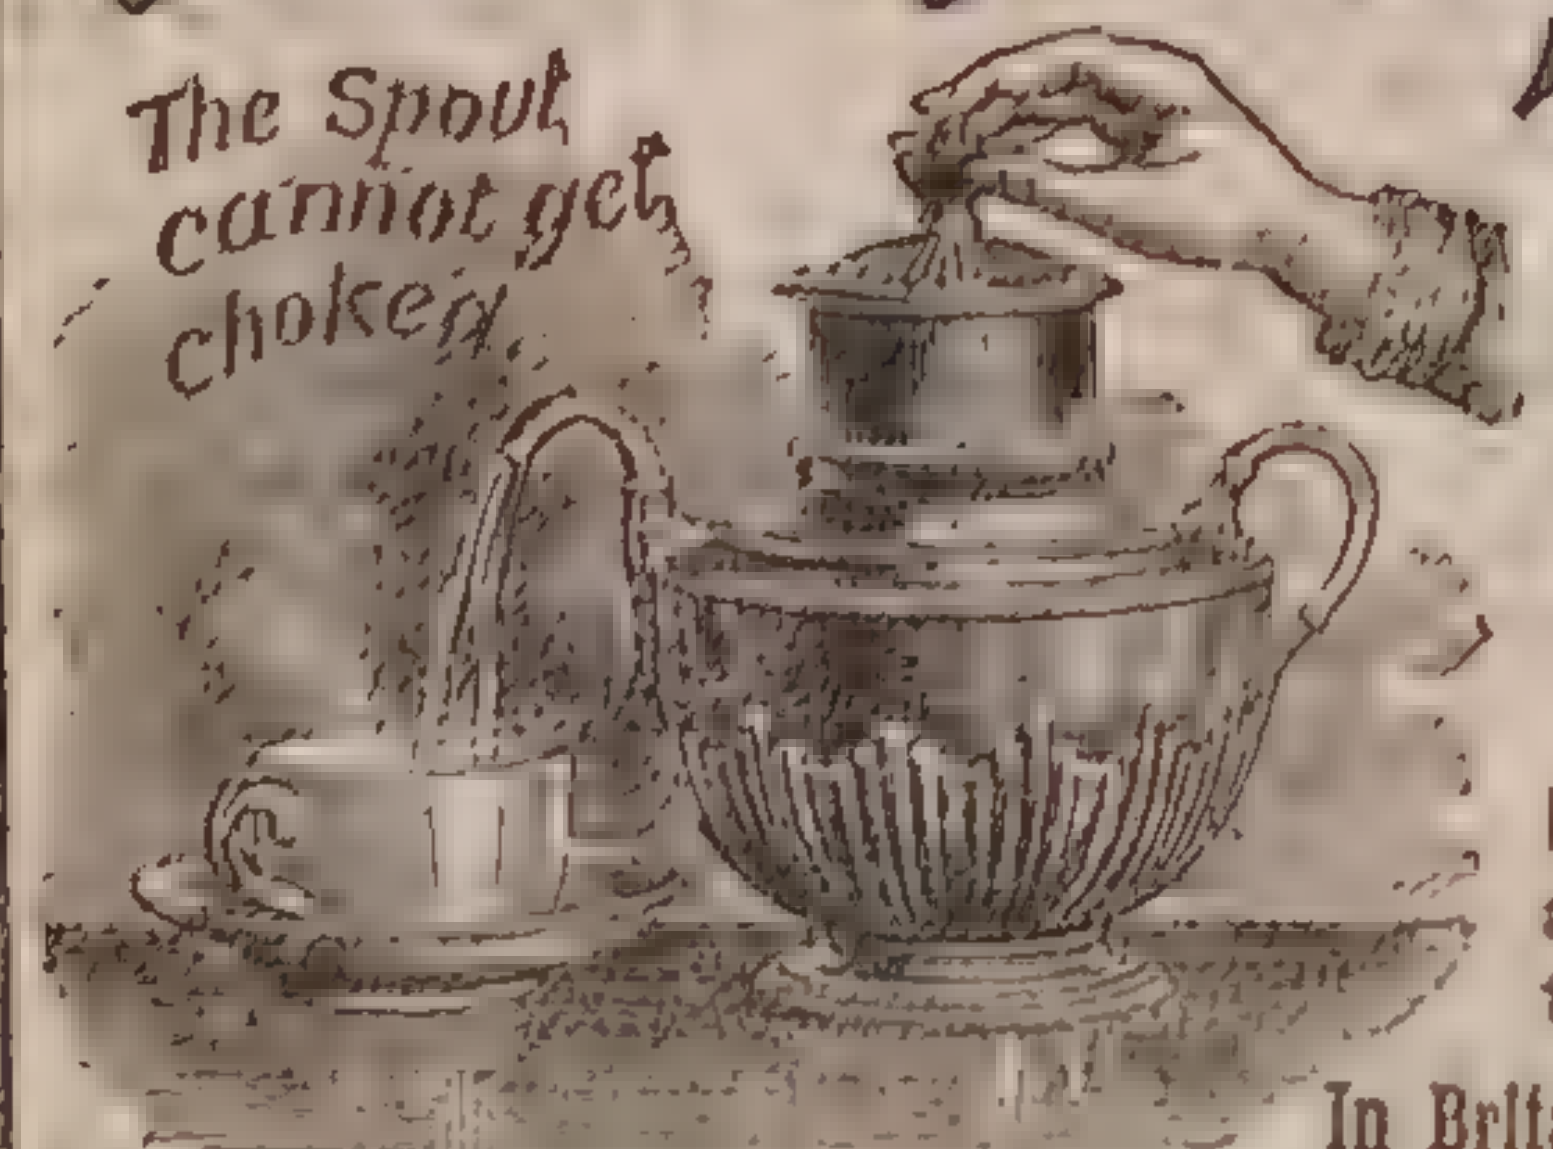
Address—EGERTON BURNETT, Serge Warehouse, WELLINGTON, SOMERSET.

ROYLE'S PATENT Self-Pouring CAFETIÈRES & KETTLES Teapots

NEARLY 10,000 SOLD DURING FIRST YEAR OF THE PATENT.



The Spout cannot get choked.

NO MORE ACHING ARMS, AS THE TEAPOT HAS NOT TO BE LIFTED

Pours out the Tea by simply pressing the lid as illustrated. Secures the whole strength and flavour of the Tea, as the water is driven through the leaves. Saving 25% of Tea.

In Britannia Metal, Electro Plate, and Doulton Ware, from 8/6.

Illustrated Price List post free, with Name of Nearest Agent, from the Patentee.

JOHN J. ROYLE, 27, King Street West, MANCHESTER.

INDIAN MUSLIN.

Pure Cream-coloured Muslin (25 inches wide). Washes well. Useful for

DRESSES,
CURTAINS,
BLINDS,
DRAPERIES,
SHADING, &c.

45 Yards for 6s. 6d. Free per post on receipt of Postal Order.

90 Yards for 12s. 6d. Free per post on receipt of Postal Order.

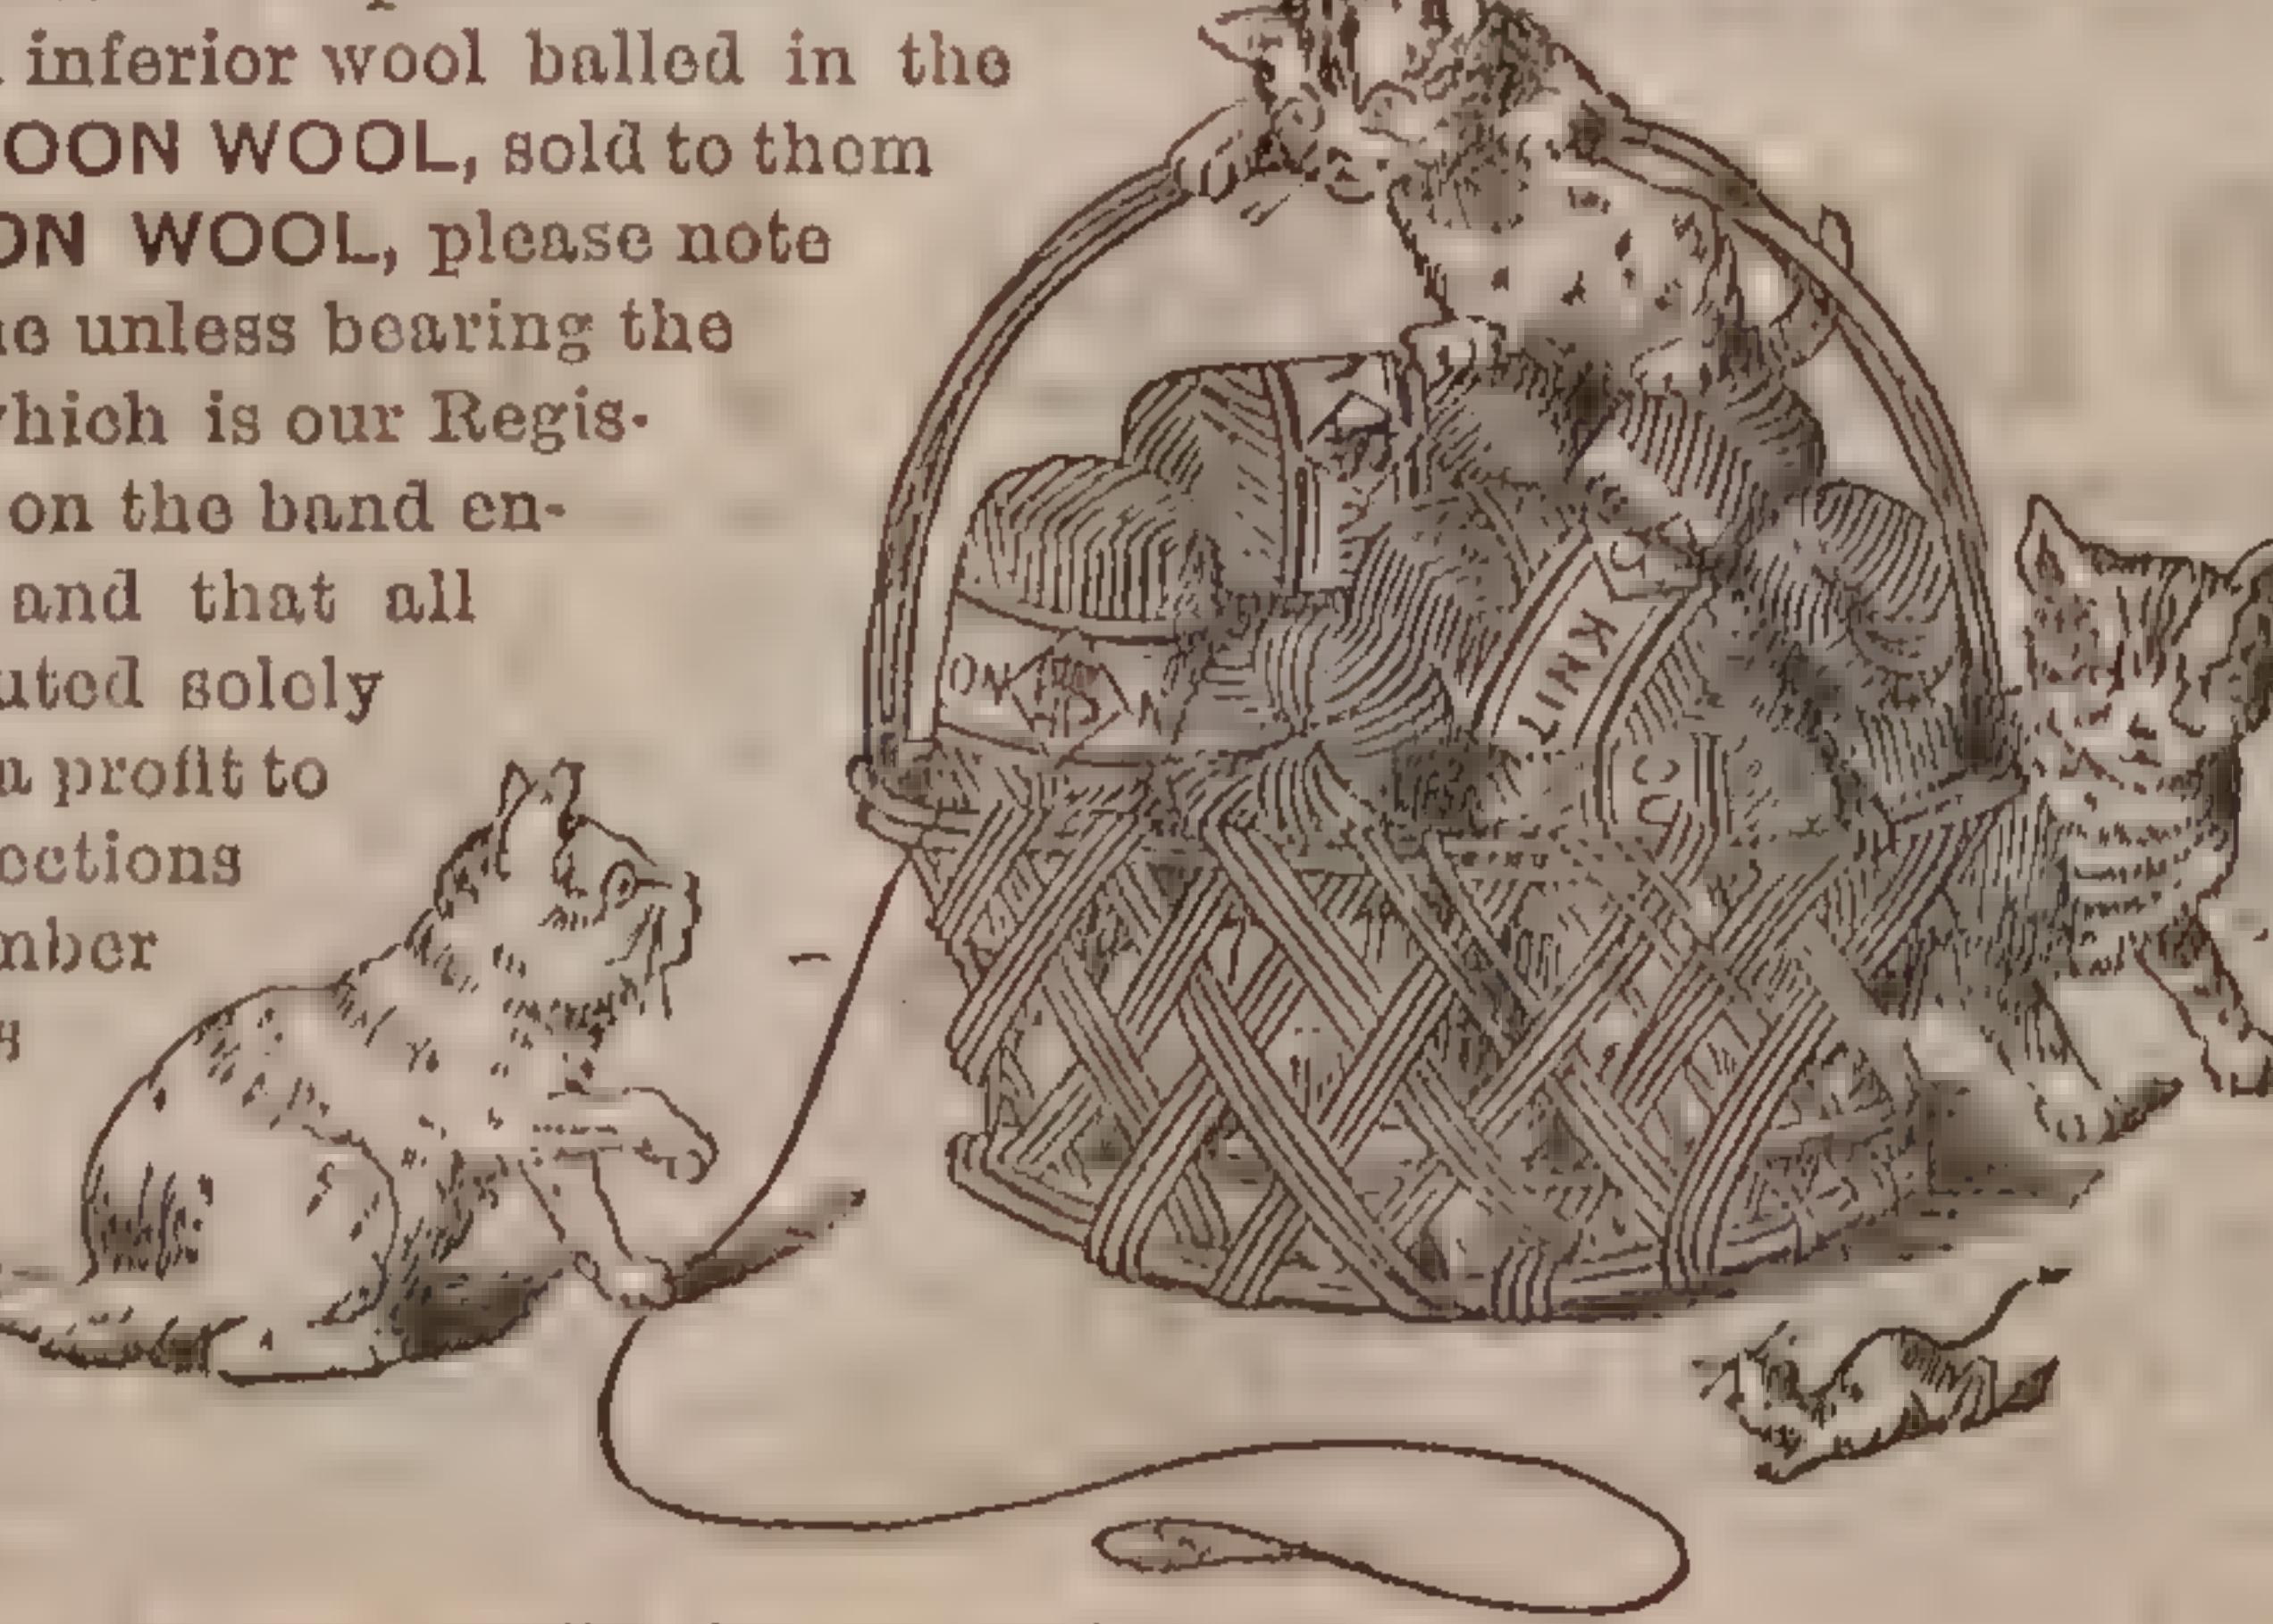
And in Colours. Much used for Decoration, Bazaars, Entertainments, &c. Beautiful Effects at a Small Cost. Novelties also in Useful and Fancy Fabrics for Dresses and Draperies.

Patterns and Prices Post Free.

JOHN KAY AND SONS, BURNLEY WOOD MILLS, BURNLEY.

"COCOON" Knitting Wool.

Having had numerous complaints from Ladies that they have had inferior wool balled in the same style as COCOON WOOL, sold to them as genuine COCOON WOOL, please note that none is genuine unless bearing the word COCOON, which is our Registered Trade Mark, on the band encircling the ball, and that all others are substituted solely for the sake of extra profit to the retailer. Directions for knitting a number of useful articles free of charge on receipt of stamped and addressed envelope, mentioning name of this paper.



"The fastest possible dyes are used for Cocoon Wool."

WOOD & BURTT, SPINNERS, HOLMFIRTH.

LINEN FITTED SHIRTS

UNDRESSED FROM THE FACTORY.

2s/3d

A Clergyman in Banff says "I am well pleased with the Shirts and will call upon you again."

A Gentleman in Aberglo says "I am very much pleased with the Shirt sent. It is without exception the cheapest I ever saw."

A Medical Man in Perth says "The sample Shirt gives every satisfaction, a perfect fit. Please send me a similar ½ dozen."

No1. Quality 2/3d each, 3 for 6/6d, 6 for 13/-.
No2. Extra Heavy 2/11d each, 3 for 8/6, 6 for 17/-.
By Post 3d Extra For 1, 4d for 2, 6d for 3, 9d for 6.

HENRY BLYTH 19 & 24 Earl Grey St EDINBURGH

The Christian:

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

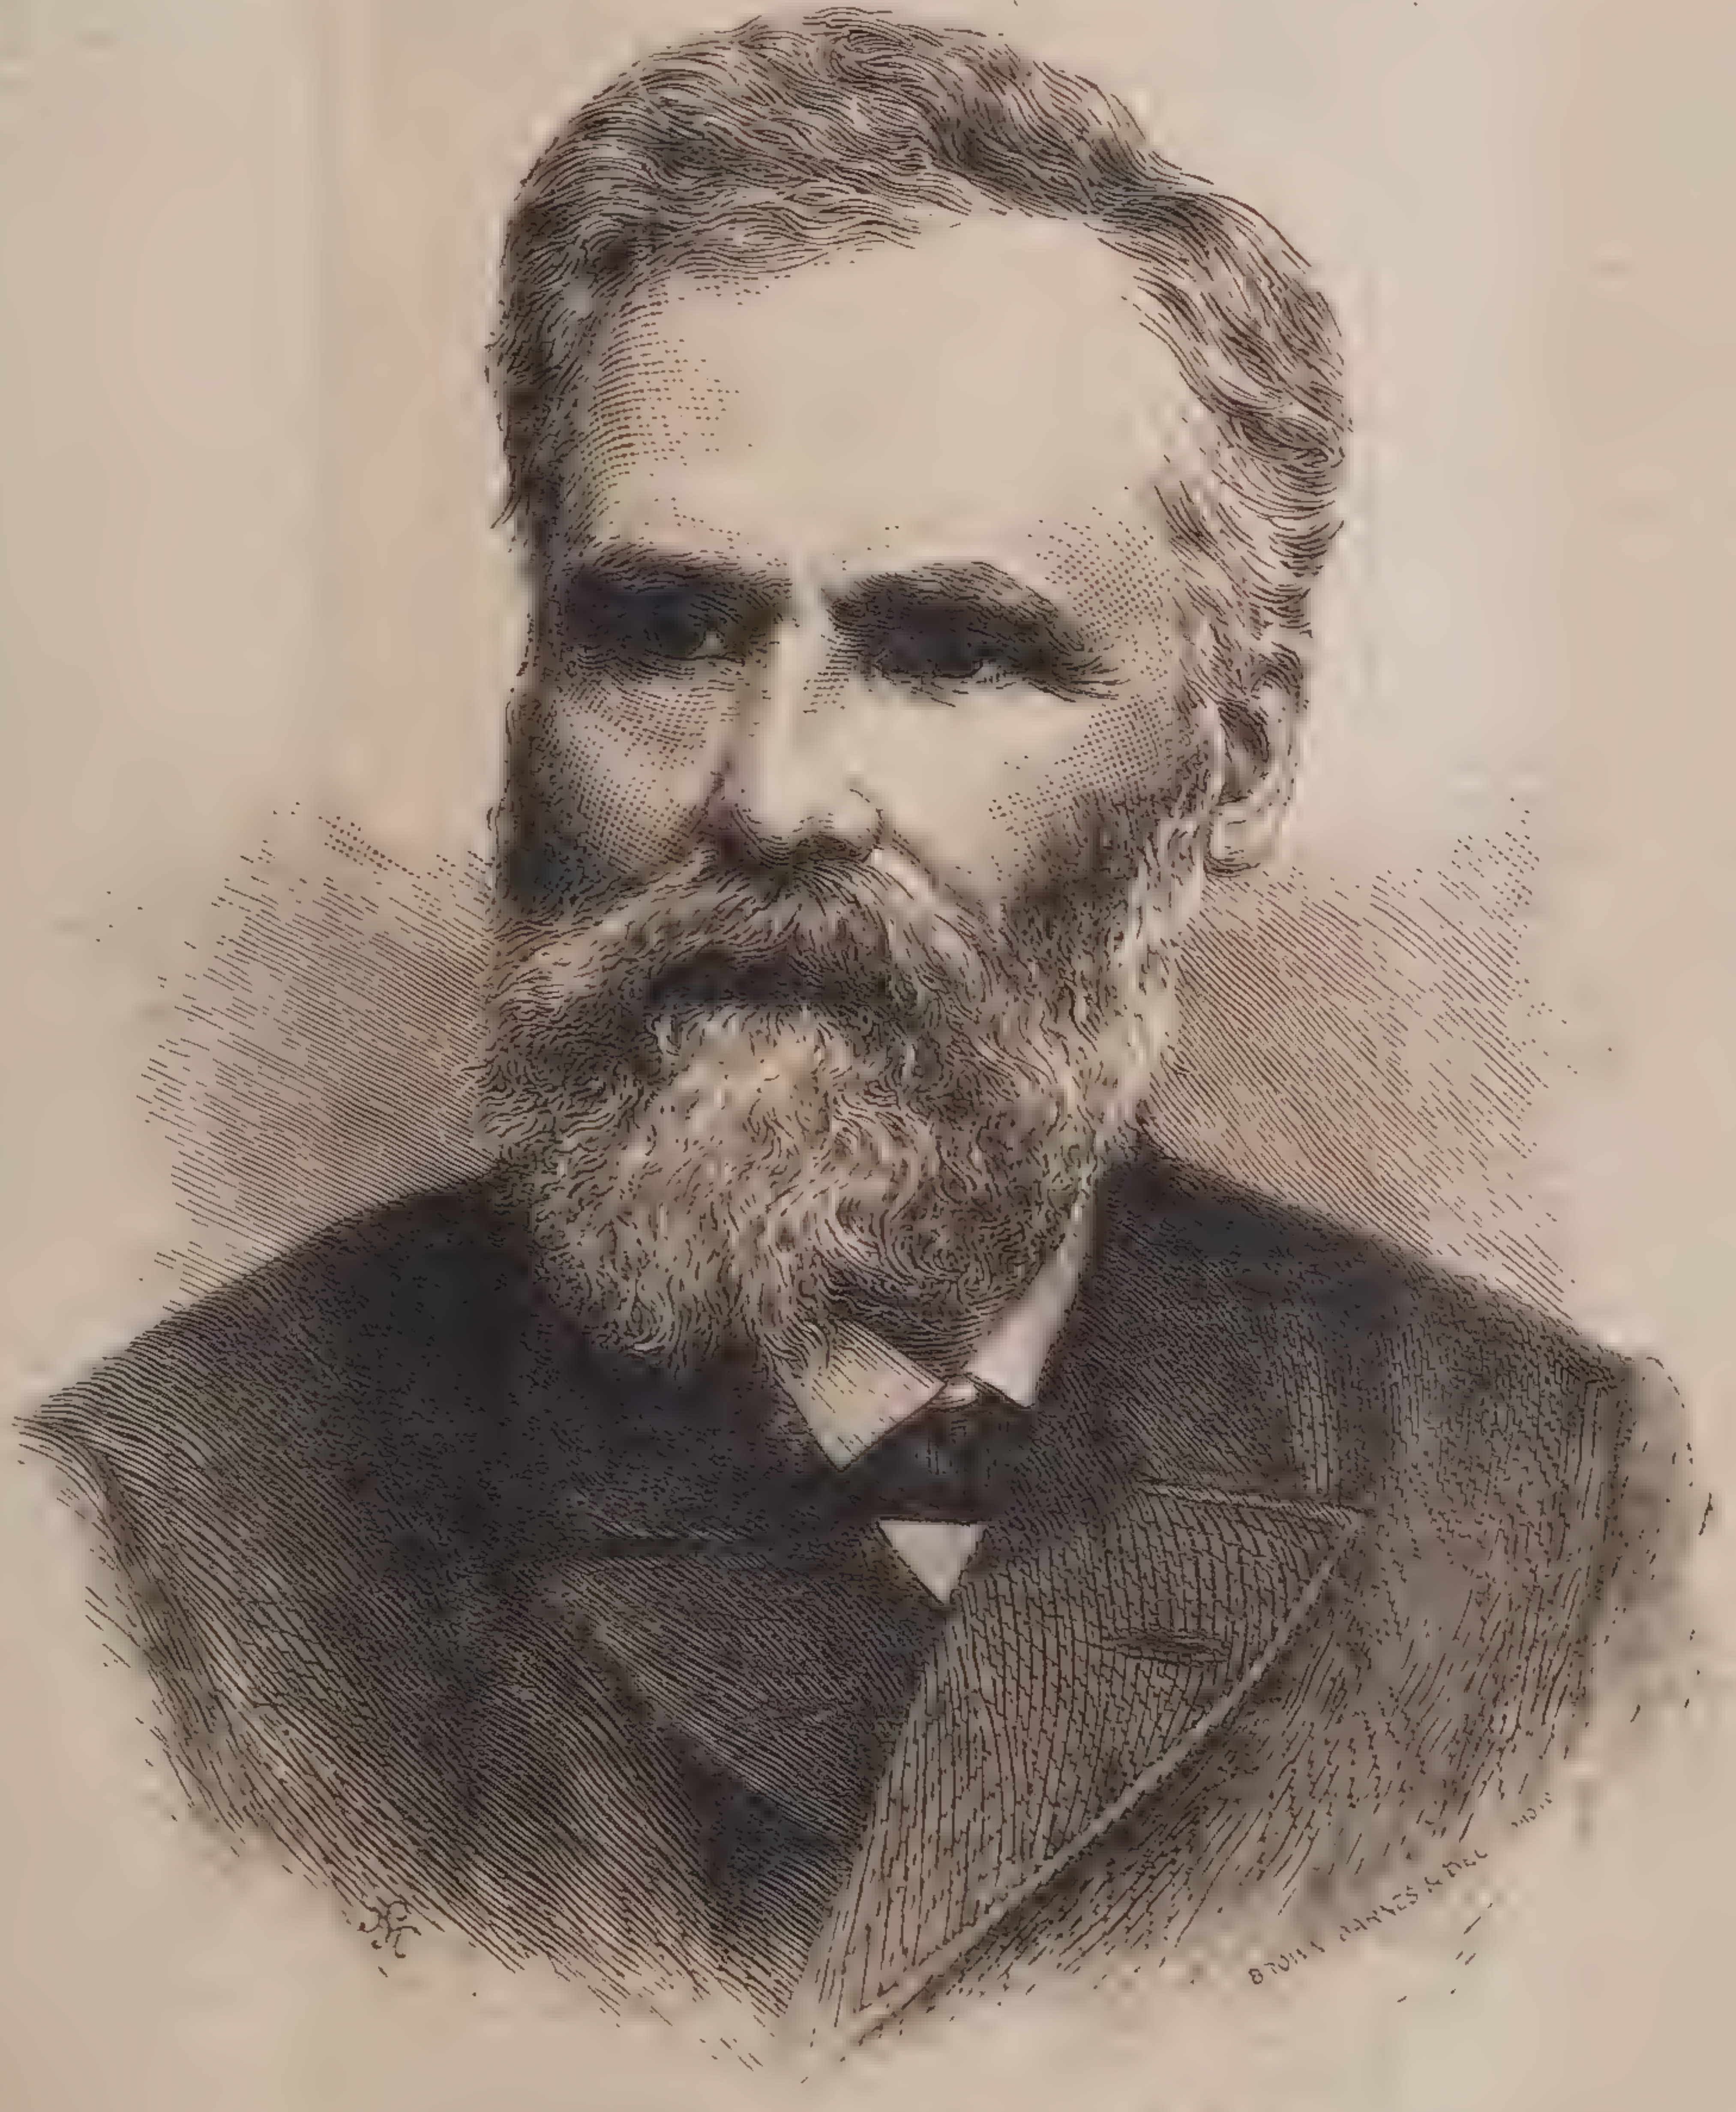
A Weekly Record of Christian Life, Christian Testimony, Christian Work and Missionary Enterprise.

No. 952.] London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C. FRIDAY, APRIL 27, 1888. Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper. [One Penny. Post Free, 1½d.

REV: THOMAS HENRY TIBBLES.

ONCE it was said that America had no poets or artists native to the soil. This may have been true, but there is a species of poetry, the romance of real life, of which America has ever produced many examples. We, in our old civilisation, seem to be pressed in and surrounded by circumstances over which we have little or no control. In America, on the contrary, the young life has had free development; and more scope has been given to individual proclivities. Of late years the published memoirs of some of America's great sons and daughters have afforded many examples of this, and the subject of our present sketch is another instance of the same kind. The life-work of Mr. T. H. Tibbles seems to have been a struggle to let the oppressed go free, first with sword and musket in the interest of the negro slave, and now with pen and voice in the interest of the Red Indian.

If coming events cast their shadows before, then the shadow of Mr. Tibbles' great and enduring work for the Indians may be traced away back to the childhood of his father. Mr. Tibbles' grandfather had immigrated from England, and was then living in the state of Ohio. A tribe of Indians carried off one of his children, a boy of five years of age. The Indians had gone off north, and were supposed to have carried the child into Canada. No trace was ever found of him, but years after a lad of about eighteen appeared in the neighbourhood. He could only speak an Indian dialect and a little French. He stated that he had made his escape from an Indian tribe in Canada, by whom he had been carried away when a child, and he had wandered south till he had arrived at that place. A kind Samaritan gave him house-room, and commenced to teach him English. News of this arrival reached the ears of the lost child's father, who lived but a few miles away. He came and saw the lad, and ultimately had no doubt but that he was his long-lost son. The wanderer settled in the same locality, and married a young lady who had undertaken to educate him, and Mr. T. H. Tibbles is the sixth child of a family of nine.



(From a Photograph by Messrs. Brown, Barnes, & Bell.)

When he was nine years old his father died, he being the oldest child left at home. With characteristic courage, he took a farm for the support of his mother and two younger brothers, but according to the prevailing custom, the State took charge of the widow and younger children, and Thomas was apprenticed, till he should be twenty years old, to a man who proved to be both cruel and unreasonable. The boy would not endure the ill-usage, and ran away after being with him for nine months.

One incident among many which occurred to the runaway made a lasting impression on his mind. He had arrived at a wharf on the Mississippi, intending to take steamer. The night was cold and dark, the boat was not expected to arrive till midnight, so the friendless boy had to wait at the riverside. A lady noticed him, and finding out his forlorn condition, invited him to her house. He was treated to a good meal, and then told to lie down on the sofa and rest. The woman's heart was drawn out to the homeless lad; she read some words out of the Bible, and prayed, and spoke to him as a mother would to her son who was going away alone into the wide, strange world; words the echo of which still linger in the memory of the grown man. Toward midnight his kind hostess took him again to the wharf, the steamer soon carried him away, and he never saw or heard of her more. He did not think of asking her name, and when he passed the place in after years the house was tenanted by another, and he was unable to find out who the lady was.

When the Abolition War was going on in Kansas, Mr. Tibbles, then a lad of sixteen, enlisted into the famous John Brown's company. Here he was actively engaged during the years 1855-56 in the contests waged between the abolitionists and the slave-holders, and rose to the rank of captain. He was once captured by the enemy, tried by court-martial, and sentenced to be hanged as being an abolitionist, but he was released by the Free State men.

John Brown asked Mr. Tibbles to join him in the Harper's Ferry Expedition, but the latter pointed out the folly and crime of the undertaking. It proved the last wild struggle of that noble hero of freedom for man.

At the close of the Free State conflict in Kansas he returned to the East to finish his education. The Civil War broke out in April, 1861, and his educational course would have been finished in June, but the first blast of the trumpets drew the student from his books, and he offered his services to Government. During the four long years of the war's continuance he was an active participant in many of the actions which have now passed into history. At the close of this Civil War Mr. Tibbles betook himself to journalism and missionary work, the first to supply his temporal wants, the other in obedience to a strong spiritual impulse. He sought in some measure to supply the spiritual wants of districts desolated by the late war, and supplied himself with a large tent for preaching in. He travelled many miles over the trackless prairies to minister to the rough settlers in the outlying districts, and gather in the neglected and still heathen Indians to speak to them of a Saviour's love. These were months of hard toil, exposure, and even danger. There was safety among the so-called savage Indians; but among the white population there was a set of ruffians called bush-whackers, who had cast aside all the restraints of law and order to work their own cruel will. When any of these men appeared in the tent, the preacher held his revolver in one hand as a necessary precaution, and his Bible in the other. Even these men, however, were sometimes moved by the Gospel story, and one of the worst of them became a sincere Christian. On one occasion a body of these desperadoes made Mr. Tibbles' sleep-tent, in which his wife and infant child were lying, a target for their rifles, but the inmates escaped unhurt.

In 1861 Mr. Tibbles married an English lady, the grand-daughter of Sir John Owen, of Bristol. She was a refined and highly-educated lady, but accompanied her husband in his tours, and she was imbued with a true missionary spirit, and frequently displayed great courage under trying circumstances. She died in 1878, leaving two daughters.

Mr. Tibbles considers his labour in behalf of the political freedom and religious life of the Indian nations, or rather of the few remnants of tribes that are left, the great work of his life. He has now been engaged in it for nine years, and it was when prosecuting this work that he first met Inshta Theamba (Bright Eyes), who had been called from private life to advocate the interests of her people. They were married in 1881.

Mr. Tibbles for many years previously had been taking an active interest in the Indians, and when the incident happened which first involved him in the Indian dispute, he characteristically took up their cause with the same ardour with which he had rushed into the war of freedom; and although the only liquid spilt has been ink, and the only weapon wielded a steel pen, it has required as much courage and far more endurance to fight the bloodless Indian battle, than ever was required in the sanguinary contests between North and South.

The Civil War seems to have been God's means of fashioning the instrument that was to benefit this remnant of an oppressed people. The work to be accomplished was quite enough to appal the stoutest heart, as it was one man (at first) against the Government of the United States.

The peculiarity of the Indian question lies in this, that an Indian is neither a citizen nor an alien, but, through a legal fiction, a ward—i.e., a person incapable in law of regulating his own property, or of knowing what is good for himself; consequently a special Bureau had been created, with an official at its head, called the Secretary of the Interior, whose sole duty is to take care of the Indians.

In Great Britain, our wards, who are either "infants" or imbeciles, are looked after by the Court of Chancery. Now, what would be said if our Court took possession of the property of one of its wards, which act had recently been confirmed by the Vice-Chancellor, and bestowed it upon another person, not because he had any legal claim to it, but simply because he wished to possess it; and then relegated his ward to, say, a hay-field in a neighbouring county, setting a policeman over him with orders to take him into custody if he dared to climb over the fence, or to shoot him if he offered resistance. Be it remembered that the ward can make no appeal, as he has no legal existence in any court. This is a rough illustration of the manner in which the Indians in the United States of America have been treated by the Secretaries of the Interior; and the contention of the Indian Citizenship Society has been to demand for them the rights and privileges of citizenship and the constitutional acknowledgment that the Indian stands on an equality before the law with all other men born on the soil of the United States.

Mr. Tibbles was employed as assistant editor of The Omaha Daily Herald when a company of thirty Ponca Indians arrived as prisoners in the neighbourhood of the City of Omaha. This tribe had been deprived of their lands in Dacotah by so-called agents of the Government; their implements and goods taken from them; and they were then driven away to a distant section of the country called the Indian Territory, and there left by their escort without supplies, without money, without tools or implements, to get on the best way they could. The country was unhealthy, and many of them died miserably; as one of them said, "My son died, my sister died, and my brother there was near dying; we had nothing to do but to sit still, be sick, starve, and die." Out of 710 persons, 158 had died within a year.

With a feeling of desperation, and to save themselves from utter extinction, a remnant of the tribe, under the leadership of Ma-chu-na-zah (Standing Bear), made their way to their friends, the Omahas, in Nebraska, who received them kindly, and gave them implements with which to till the ground, which also was bestowed on them by the Omahas.

The Poncas were engaged in peaceful occupations, when they were seized by the officers of the civilised Democratic Government of the United States for daring to escape from misery and starvation, and enter the sacred confines of law and liberty. The Poncas were taken away from their friends, the Omahas, among whom they would have been content to live, and were being hurried away to be again interned in the wilderness.

Mr. Tibbles was sitting at his editorial desk at 11 p.m. on March 29, 1879, when word was brought to him of the arrival of the Poncas. He did not get to rest till 4.30 a.m., but was up again at 7 a.m., when he started for Fort Omaha, four miles distant, where the Indians were guarded as prisoners. He held a council at their camp, heard them tell their story, returned to Omaha in time to speak on the subject in several of the churches (it was Sunday), went to his office, wrote out an account of the council, and at twenty minutes past five next morning retired to rest. He was up again at seven o'clock to attend a council of the Indians with General Crook. Thus commenced the struggle which has been going on ever since. As many of the best men and women in the States are now thoroughly roused, and impressed with its importance and justice, it will never be allowed to die down till thorough justice has been done to all the Indian tribes living within the bounds of the United States.

During the whole contest Mr. Tibbles has never lost sight of the spiritual aspect of the question, as he is impressed with the idea that the acquisition of civil rights alone will not suffice; that if these are not combined with Christianity, the Indians may be saved from extinction, but will certainly sink down into moral and social degradation.

The question of civil rights is holding such a prominent place just now, that he can draw but little attention to the matter which lies nearest his heart—the religious welfare of his own tribe, the Omahas, and he fears that if they are left much longer in their present spiritually and educationally neglected condition an irreparable damage may be done. It was with a sort of feeling of despair, that he thought of coming over to this country and appealing to the Christian public of Great Britain. It is in the interest of the Omahas alone that he is now pleading, although this question is no less important to all the tribes; and there are still in existence 110 different tribes, speaking seventy-five dialects. Of these there are sixty tribes who have never yet heard the Gospel. Their old superstitions and tribal arrangements, which to the Indians were religion, law, and order, have been rudely overthrown, and unless something better is supplied they may lapse into a mere gipsy licentiousness of life and manners.

Mr. and Mrs. Tibbles cannot remain long in this country. During the last nine years he has given his time and strength, and sacrificed his own worldly interests to those of the Indians. He desires to return to his home in the West for much-needed rest, and some care for necessary provision for his wife and family. He hopes again to return to the contest, if life and strength are spared; but it would greatly cheer their hearts, and they think give much weight to the religious aspect of the question, if a church and school could be built by funds collected here. It would be a tangible proof of the Christian sympathy of the British people for the long and sadly-oppressed Red Indians. He has gathered almost enough to build a church on the Eastern side of the Reserve, and wishes to complete that and the sum necessary to build a church and schoolhouse on the Western end, near where he himself lives.

THE BAPTIST UNION.

BY ONE OF THE MINISTERS.

Rarely, we should think, is the holding capacity of the City Temple more severely taxed than it was on Monday last, in connection with the Spring gathering of the Baptist Union. But there was a reason for the exceptionally large concourse of ministers and delegates this Spring-tide. For months the storm-clouds of controversy had been gathering, and the day is fixed when burst they must, and declare their character. Dr. Culross does not tremble for the Ark of the Lord; but, understanding by that ark the Baptist Union, there are many who do. No one doubts that a grave crisis has come; and though rumours of peace are in the air, still it cannot be denied that solicitude is regnant. Meanwhile Dr. Clifford is to deliver his address, which, knowing the man somewhat, everyone anticipates will be elaborate, brilliant, ornate, though perhaps inflated. On this occasion Dr. Clifford is certainly himself. His treatment of "The Great Forty Years; or, The Primitive Christian Faith," has all the characteristic merits and faults of his well-known rhetorical style. If I may venture to say so, the delivery was weakened by frequent shoutings and undue emphasis. There was too great a straining at effect. Nor do I think that Dr. Clifford is to be congratulated on his exposition of the Gospel, "the real, old Gospel," as he called it. Had it been less scientific in form, it would have been more welcome in spirit.

Still, the glowing diction, the fervour, the imaginative sparkle of the speaker, compel admiration and elicit repeated applause. At times some subtle thought is thundered forth, as if only a tempest of voice could gain for it due recognition; as when the learned President said, "As soon as a truth is uttered polemically, it is falsely uttered." Judging from the response, no one save Mr. Glover, of Bristol, could instantly perceive the perfect accuracy of that observation.

I may not dwell longer on Dr. Clifford's address. Doubtless it was great, but it would have been greater had it been simpler; it would have been more helpful had it been more homely.

But what shall I say of the drama in the afternoon of the eventful day? Why this, that the sentiments of most might be fitly expressed in the words of England's great dramatist, "All's well that ends well." The historic day is over, and the great cleavage in the Baptist Union has not taken place. At the eleventh hour—as late as Friday and Saturday of last week—a truce was proclaimed; and negociations with a view to peace were entered upon by the leaders of both sides. The consequence has been that the opposing armies have met to fraternise, not to fight; and instead of disruption, we are called upon to behold the dwelling together of brethren in unity.

Still one cannot regard the scene with unmingled satisfaction. There is a unity of a kind, but there is no proper ground of mutual understanding. This is evident by a comparison of the speeches of Rev. Charles Williams and Rev. James Spurgeon. The former in submitting the resolution ultimately arrived at in the interests of peace, and the latter in seconding it, showed plainly enough how widely parted in sentiment they were. "I second," said Mr. Jas. Spurgeon, "Mr. Williams's motion, but not his speech." And the reason is obvious enough. Mr. Williams used his opportunity to cover with the shield of his protection the very class of men whose existence within the Union, and within the Council itself, had constrained Mr. C. H. Spurgeon to take the extreme step of withdrawment from the Union altogether. Quoting from Tennyson, Mr. Williams laboured to show that the larger hope did not amount to a dogmatic utterance, but was a mere infant's cry; and, waxing warm, he denounced the uncharitableness of excluding from fellowship those who entertained the larger hope hypothesis.

In my judgment, a union compacted on such a basis contains in itself the sentence of death. It was evident that the proposer of the resolution placed the seconder in an awkward position. By his initial disclaimer he showed with what repugnance he regarded the construction and latitude put by Mr. Williams on the resolution before the meeting. But, instead of causing rupture, which in the circumstances could not have been wondered at, Mr. James Spurgeon preferred to dwell on the concessions made in the line of his views in the resolution before the meeting. And these concessions are considerable. A comparison of his amendment adopted by the Council at the eleventh hour in place of their own of February last, shows this. Still, if Mr. Williams is to be believed, the practical result is nil. Fellowship is still to go on with the men of the larger hope, &c. The Baptist Union is not to be purged. It is a tree that admits of no pruning. True, the words of our Lord in Matt. xxv. 46 are now embodied in the resolution passed, and that is an important point gained. But when that is affirmed, I have stated the utmost benefit that accrues. As there have been those in the Baptist Union and Council who have denied "the common interpretation of these words of our Lord," and as their nest has not been disturbed hitherto, so the like immunity from distress is assured them in the future.

It may be that a peace so arranged may be lasting, but one is not sanguine that it will be remedial. There is no denying, however, its general acceptability. The attempt made by one or two brethren to indicate the weak spot in the whole affair was met by loud cries of "Vote! Vote!" There was really no discussion. The great gathering wanted peace—not peace at any price—yet peace, if need be, at no small cost. And so it came to pass that the resolution was carried, seven only dissenting, and a few not voting. Whereupon the Doxology was sung with loud acclaim.

BY ANOTHER BAPTIST MINISTER.

The meeting of the Baptist Union, which was anticipated with so much misgiving, has had a most unexpected termination in a compact of goodwill and union between the two parties, which seemed on the point of drifting into positions of irreconcilable estrangement. From the outset it was clear that any attempt to impose a creed was doomed to fail. Each point in Dr. Clifford's address which told against imprisoning a living faith in "the coffin of a creed" was cheered to the echo. There might be a historical declaration of what had been; but it was abundantly evident that the imposition of any additional safeguard in the admission of members to the Union would be resented.

It then appeared that a compromise had been arrived at between the leaders on either side. On the one hand, the Council withdrew the assertions that the beliefs of the Union were determined by the constituent churches of the Union. On the other hand, Mr. James Spurgeon secured the distinct reprobation of the dogmas of Purgatory and Universalism in a foot-note to the declaration of belief. And with these alterations the declaration of belief was carried.

For the information of your readers, I reproduce this declaration as it now stands, premising only that it is understood to be rather a history of the past than a creed for the future.

Whilst expressly disavowing and disallowing any power to control belief or to restrict inquiry, yet, in view of the uneasiness produced in the Churches by recent discussions, and to show our agreement with one another and with our fellow-Christians on the great truths of the Gospel, the Council deem it right to say that—

(a) Baptized into the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, we have avowed repentance towards God and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ—the very elements of a new life; as in the Supper we avow our union with one another, while partaking of the symbol of the body of our Lord, broken for us, and of the blood shed for the remission of sins. The Union, therefore, is an association of Churches and Ministers professing not only to believe the facts and doctrines of the Gospel, but to have undergone the spiritual change expressed or implied in them. This change is the fundamental principle of our Church life.

(b) The following facts and doctrines are commonly believed by the Churches of the Union:—

(1) The Divine Inspiration and Authority of the Holy Scripture as the supreme and sufficient rule of our faith and practice; and the right and duty of individual judgment in the interpretation of it.

(2) The fallen and sinful state of man.

(3) The Deity, the Incarnation, the Resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ, and his Sacrificial and Mediatorial work.

(4) Justification by faith—a faith that works by love and produces holiness.

(5) The work of the Holy Spirit in the conversion of sinners, and in the sanctification of all who believe.

(6) The Resurrection; the Judgment at the last day, according to the words of our Lord in Matt. xxv. 46.*

But the most remarkable results of the discussion are as follow:—

(1) There is a distinction made between the larger hope and the dogma of Universalism. It appears that whilst those who hold the latter are ineligible for membership with the Union, yet those who cherish the larger hope itself are eligible. I confess to a feeling of considerable difficulty in distinguishing between the two. I should have supposed that the logical outcome of the larger hope was Universalism. However I content myself with noting the distinction clearly accentuated in the speech of Rev. Charles Williams and in the drift of the discussion.

(2) It is agreed that the fact of the holding of either the larger hope or the ultimate annihilation of the wicked is not counted a disqualification for membership in the Baptist Union. Again I refrain from passing an opinion, but I confess to a bewildered feeling of amazement at these positions being so undoubtedly advanced and accepted. It surely indicates a very wonderful change of front, which has been quietly taking place in these last few years.

(3) More has been done in this single meeting towards placing the larger hope among the articles of the unwritten creeds of the Free Churches than has been secured by years of controversy. Henceforth the ministers of the Baptist Union may claim the tacit sanction of the Union itself when they teach their people to indulge "the

---

* It should be stated, as an historical fact, that there have been brethren in the Union, working cordially with it, who, while reverently bowing to the authority of Holy Scripture, and rejecting the dogmas of Purgatory and Universalism, have not held the common interpretation of the words of our Lord.

larger hope." Surely Mr. Spurgeon's contention had more reasonableness than at first appeared. What are we to expect next?

[EDITORIAL.]

We feel it to be a cause of devout gratitude to God that this controversy should have been ended. It had not been wisely conducted on either side. For years it had been allowed to drift, and when it came to a point the main issue was soon obscured by personal and denominational feeling. We hope therefore it is buried to have no resurrection.

With regard to the speculations as to the annihilation of fallen spirits and impenitent men on the one hand, and their final salvation on the other, we think they have to some extent been kept alive by the methods adopted to stamp them out. Now that (so far as the Baptist Union is concerned) these views are to be recognised as not disqualifying men for fellowship in Christian work, we shall watch with interest what the result will be. We remark that if either of these mutually destructive alternatives were light from heaven, we might have expected that God would have set his seal upon it, and honoured its advocates with marked and evident success in winning souls. But it has not been so; and even where evangelists who have held either of these views have been much used in leading men to Christ, it has not been because they have proclaimed such views, but because they have been silent about them.

REPORT OF MONDAY'S MEETINGS.

The Annual Assembly of the Baptist Union of Great Britain and Ireland held its first session on Monday, in the City Temple, Holborn Viaduct. The morning meeting was preceded by a devotional service. In the course of some remarks before leaving the chair, Rev. Dr. Culross said of Rev. Dr. Clifford, the new President: "This I wish to say, I am anxious to say, that in giving place to Dr. Clifford I give place to a personal friend of long standing and tried worth; and the intercourse that I have had with him during the last twelve months, closer than ever, has shown me more of Dr. Clifford's worth than I knew before."

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The subject of the President's address was: "The Great Forty Years; or, The Primitive Christian Faith: its real Substance and best Defence." Its object was to show that, in order to discover "the real old Gospel," we must go back to the Apostolic days—the Great Forty Years of original Christianity.

After some introductory remarks on the present controversy, many of which were pungent and memorable, Dr. Clifford defined the method by which we are to ascertain what the original Christianity really was. It is the method of Luther, who turned the eyes of men from Rome to Jerusalem, and appealed to the historical facts of the first century. Quoting Dr. Hatch as a high authority on ecclesiastical history, the speaker said:—"Christianity has had a past, and it is not given to each succeeding generation to start afresh with new interpretations and a new superstructure."

Pursuing this method three cases were quoted. The confession of Peter, "Thou art the Christ the Son of the living God." The exclamation of Thomas, "My Lord and my God!" And Paul's summing up of Christianity in the brief and compact teaching of Rom. x. 8—13: "The word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth and in thy heart: that is, the word of faith, which we preach; that if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thy heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved."

In each of these three declarations we have FACTS, FORCES, and IDEAS. In this last one are "the facts exemplified in and crowned by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead; the forces bringing righteousness to the heart; and the all-comprehensive ideas of the saving sovereignty of Jesus Christ over souls."

> In the mouth of three witnesses, Peter, John, and Paul, it is indisputably established that the primitive Christian faith, the real old Gospel religion given once for all in those pre-eminently creative years, consisted, first, of a body of sensible, verifiable facts, centring in a life of captivating beauty and grace, matchless purity, and love, and Divinity; secondly, of a mass of spiritual forces, inherent in and inseparable from that Personality; and, thirdly, a set of formative ideas, contained in his life, and words, and work. On Herder's tombstone, at Weimar, are the words, "Life, Love, Light." In the Christianity of the Forty Years, and constituting its real substance, are the facts of the Eternal Life, the forces of the Eternal Love, and the ideas of the Eternal Light.

The facts were then very briefly reviewed, and this division of the address closed with these words:—

> Not more surely does geology rest on the solid strata of this globe, and astronomy on suns and stars and satellites, than the new religion of Christ on the unique and creative facts centring in Jesus, the Christ, the Son of the living God!

The new spiritual forces are first, the Holy Spirit, "Ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you."

> A new Epoch has dawned. A new society starts into conquering life; a new and quickening speech, creative of a new literature, is heard in Jerusalem and Rome, in Corinth and Philippi. A new type of manhood appears. A new spirit is abroad softening the hearts of men, cleansing the imagination, inspiring reverence and trust and self-sacrifice; singing to the sorrowful and heavy laden the sweet song of Divine love in tones of tenderness; laying its hands of companionship on the head of the lonely, bidding the weary to hope, and the despairing to be of good cheer, in sight of the day of deliverance and glory now at hand.

The ideas are, in the words of Dr. Rabbi Duncan, "God, Law, Sin, Grace, Jesus, and again Law." Dr. Clifford then summarised the Gospel of original Christianity thus:—

> In a brief sentence that only hints the essential fact, it seems to me, he shows the moral God victoriously dealing with immoral, sinful men. Jesus, the Son of God, on the cross gives the Christian conception of God in its most luminous, universal, human, and satisfying form. "We preach," said the most speculatively-minded, myriad-thoughted and fine-spirited of the saints who received "the faith." "We preach Christ crucified, the wisdom of God, and the power of God"—i.e., the philosophy of God, the revelation of his nature, the key to his administration of man's life, and the rule of souls. We preach Christ crucified; the Messiah, but crucified; the Son of Man, but crucified; the Son of God, but crucified; the Holiest of the Holy, but crucified; God in Christ, but in Christ crucified, humiliated, marred, broken, slain in his war against sin, giving Himself to an escapable doom, choosing it in his love for men, giving Himself for our sins, not for his own, that He might deliver us by his sacrifice from this present evil age, with all its awful tyrannies of sin and of the devil. God in his Son; his beloved Son: in Christ. His essential Self making atonement, reconciling the world unto Himself; restoring its ideal harmony, getting rid both of the love of sin and the guilt of it; identifying Himself with man in his saddest plight and sorest need; sorrowing and suffering for his wrong, and so cleansing and making him anew; revealing his possibilities of righteousness and service. That is the beating heart of the "faith" of the great Forty Years.
>
> That faith has held, and been held by, the saints of all ages. In it they have lived and suffered, fought and served. The Cross has been the rallying point of the vast brotherhood of God, the magnetic centre of the Christian host....And what is it we hear in the latter ages but the glad and exultant cry of faith in the same Saviour and Sacrifice! That is the everlasting experience, and, therefore, the everlasting faith.
>
> And are we changed? Have we lost our centre? Are Carey, and Fuller, and Foster no longer represented? Have we given up the Cross? Have we moved from the substance of the faith of our fathers? Do we not stand on the Facts, and Forces, and Ideas of the Great Forty Years? Then, if we do not, God forgive us. We are lost, and our labour is a folly, an irritation, and a menace. Given up? A thousand times, No!

It was then asked—

> And now may we go to the same prolific field for guidance as to the best methods for securing the acceptance of Christ by all men, and the enthronement of his religion as the religion of mankind?—Yes.

Emphatic words of encouragement and appeal to young men followed, and the address, which had frequently been enthusiastically applauded, was thus concluded:—"Called to be workers together with God in Christ, may all our churches, pastors, teachers, and officers, rise to the height of this Divine vocation, steadfastly resting on the facts, joyously experiencing the forces, clearly teaching and powerfully embodying the ideas of the great Forty Years of the Christianity of Jesus Christ."

THE AFTERNOON SITTING.

(BY OUR OWN REPORTER.)

At last the great event had come which the evangelical world had, for months past, so eagerly anticipated. The City Temple presented to the eye of the spectator a stirring scene. The spacious area was packed with delegates, who overflowed into the galleries, leaving little room for the visitors who had been fortunate enough to secure tickets. Every nook and cranny had its occupant, and the great building was one heaving mass of animated humanity. The unique character of the occasion could have been inferred from the presence of many representative men of other denominations who are not usually present at these assemblies. Dr. Parker, the pastor of the Temple, had secured a "coign of vantage" in the gallery, and side by side with him sat Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, the militant Methodist. Near by there was the equally combative Congregationalist, Rev. J. Guinness Rogers; while the snow-white head of Dr. Allon, of Islington, was prominent on the opposite side of the pulpit. Dr. Hannay, secretary of the Congregational Union, sat on the platform, which was well filled with Baptist celebrities. Another index of the popular interest attaching to the event was the strong muster of pressmen, who were crowded into the two front seats of the area. One journal, The Christian World, had a staff of half-a-dozen, in view of its special daily issue. Before the proceedings commenced, a loud buzz of eager conversation pervaded the place, and everyone seemed on the tiptoe of expectation. It had been whispered about early in the day that some compromise had been effected between the Council and Mr. Spurgeon's friends, but this did not appear in any way to lessen the interest felt in the approaching debate that was expected to leave its mark on the history of the Baptist Churches of the three kingdoms.

In due course Dr. Clifford, the President, took his place, with Rev. J. A. Spurgeon on his right hand, and Dr. Booth, the secretary, on his left. A hymn was sung, and then Rev. W. Stott led the assembly in earnest prayer that the spirit of wisdom and of brotherly love might be granted to those who should speak. The President having briefly counselled orderliness of discussion, called on Rev. Charles Williams, of Accrington, to move the first resolution.

Ascending to the pulpit, in response to loud calls to that effect, Mr. Williams said he trusted the resolution he had to move would command the unanimous suffrage of the assembly. This remark evoked a solitary negative, but when he went on to express his gratitude to God that the resolution would be seconded by Mr. James Spurgeon, a burst of applause, both loud and long, rang through the house, indicating the prevalent feeling of rejoicing that a friendly settlement of the Down-Grade controversy was imminent. The resolution which Mr. Williams submitted ran as follows:—

> That the report of the Council, with the exception of Clauses 1 and 2 of the Declaration of the Council, be adopted, and that in reference to so much of it as relates to recent discussions respecting the evangelical character of the Union, the Assembly places on record its judgment that there has been sufficient vindication by the Declaration of the Council and otherwise of the evangelical character of the churches of the Union, and of their pastors, and that additional tests of membership are unnecessary, inasmuch as the Council and the Assembly have ample power under the constitution to determine all questions of membership, and therefore can deal with the case of any church or person that may not hold evangelical sentiments.

It will be needful to a proper understanding of the matter to give also the two clauses of the Declaration referred to which have been yielded up by the Council, and the omission of which appears to have satisfied Mr. James Spurgeon, acting on behalf of himself and others. The rejected paragraphs are :—

> (1) That the doctrinal beliefs of the Union are, and must be, determined by the doctrinal beliefs of the Churches and Associations of which the Union is composed.
>
> (2) That the Council of the Union, therefore, disclaim altogether any authority to formulate a new and additional standard of theological belief as a bond of union to which assent shall be required.

In supporting the resolution, Mr. Williams proceeded to state the circumstances under which the agreement had been arrived at. Even among the members of the Council there had not been complete agreement as to the first of these excepted clauses; and as it only embodied the expression of an opinion not vital to truth and righteousness, it would have been a thing unworthy of Christian men to have allowed it to interfere with reunion and lasting peace. The second clause was based on the first, and, of course, fell with it; but its substance was to be found in the resolution he had to submit. The adoption of that resolution, while not implying any claim to infallibility or freedom from error on the part of the Council, would be an endorsement of its action as a whole, and of the contention that the evangelical character of the churches and pastors in the Union had been sufficiently vindicated. Every word spoken against the Council would be forgotten in the fact that their opposing friends had come in the fulness of brotherly confidence and love, and said, "Let the past be buried." He would add, let it be buried beyond the possibility of a resurrection. Mr. Williams, in proceeding, asked the indulgence of his audience because of the difficulty he felt, after preparing a fighting speech, in having at an hour's notice to change its character altogether. It was clearly understood that Mr. Spurgeon and his friends did not now desire to interfere with the membership in the Union of any brother in their fellowship holding "conditional immortality" views, or what is known as "the larger hope." The historical "foot-note" had been altered so as to meet the views of their friends on this latter point. The doctrines of purgatory and universalism had been objected to. He would have thought it impossible to conceive of any Baptist believing in purgatory. As to universalism, he knew of none of their ministers who held dogmatic views about it. He quoted the following passage from Tennyson that has furnished the phrase, "the larger hope," and contended that he could not find even the suspicion of dogmatism in it; it was only the expression of a "faint trust."

Behold, we know not anything.
  I can but trust that good shall fall
  At last, far off at last, to all,
And every winter change to spring.

So runs my dream, but what am I?
  An infant crying in the night,
  An infant crying for the light,
And with no language but a cry.

I falter where I firmly stood,
  And falling with my weight of cares
  Upon the world's great altar stairs
That slope through darkness up to God.

I stretch lame hands of faith, and grope,
  And gather dust and chaff, and call
  To what I feel is Lord of all,
And faintly trust the larger hope.

He could not cherish "the larger hope," but he would leave the Baptist Union, and have a millstone hung about his neck, and be cast into the sea, rather than refuse fellowship to any man, simply because he shared in this "hope." With deep emotion Mr. Williams declared that he knew of such men whose lives proved them to be men of God, full of faith, and the very mirror of truthfulness and honour. He also held that as a Union they needed no further creed test of membership. He believed in every man having a well-defined creed, but he objected to have another man's formulated creed imposed on him. An effective quotation was made from some recent utterances of Mr. Spurgeon that seemed to him to back up this position. He for one would never be a party to the formulating of any creed as a test of membership in any church. The Thirty-nine Articles of the Church of England had not secured uniformity of belief; neither had the Westminster Confession of Faith added to the Shorter and Longer Catechisms. The Baptist Union intend to maintain their evangelical character, and they possess sufficient means of doing so.

On entering the pulpit, Mr. James Spurgeon was greeted with an ovation of applause. Speaking in calm and measured tones, he said, at the outset, that while he seconded the resolution, he did not second Mr. Williams' speech; he would not be responsible for what anyone else said. Only about a quarter of an hour had elapsed since he really understood what the position was. If he had given the speech he had prepared, it was probable that their brotherly union and concord would have been lost; he felt he should be better employed in trying to heal rather than to destroy. In the previous brotherly exchange of thought he considered he had been generous, but not at the expense of truth or fidelity to their Master. The concessions of the Council had left no contention before them as to questions of principle, and he felt that they should be prepared to sacrifice matters of detail for the sake of brotherhood and unity. He, too, was willing to let the past be buried. As to "the larger hope," he had never been able to ascertain what it really was. Tennyson, in speaking of it, had said he knew nothing, and was but a child crying in the dark, with no language but a cry. If it be so—well, so be it. He would not divide the Baptist Union on that. He would not run the risk of further disagreement by discussing their agreement, and so he gladly seconded the resolution as it now stood.

Speeches followed from Rev. J. T. Brown, of Northampton, and Dr. Landels, of Edinburgh. Both these gentlemen, while indicating that they had come prepared to uphold the action of the Baptist Union Council, expressed their hearty thankfulness to God that the differences had been settled amicably, and urged that they should now devote their combined energies to the prosecution of their important work, as a church and a denomination.

The President having asked if any brethren desired further to speak to the resolution, Rev. E. McLean wished to know if the arrangement would place the Union exactly where it was six months ago. Dr. Clifford replied that no answer was needed to the question; the resolution was simply a historical statement as to the evangelical sentiments they had held from the beginning. Many in the assembly, even before this stage in the discussion was reached, appeared to think that nothing more should be said, for they had greeted Dr. Landels with cries of "Vote! Vote!" The cries were repeated in larger volume when Rev. Jas. Douglas, of Brixton, took the platform, and in a few calm, courageous words entered his individual protest against the Union retaining in its ranks those who held "the larger hope," or any theory of post-mortem salvation. We think that, under the circumstances, Mr. Douglas deserved to be listened to patiently within the brief limits he proposed, and we cannot congratulate the delegates on the unmannerly and unchristian fashion in which they howled down this dissentient brother. A somewhat better reception awaited Rev. H. D. Brown, of Dublin, who tabled a like protest. Rev. W. Cuff insisted that the resolution committed them to nothing that could be construed as favouring "the larger hope," and he entreated his friends to vote straight for its adoption. The resolution was read over by the President, and put to the vote, with the result that a perfect forest of hands went up in its favour, while only seven were raised against it. Dr. Clifford called for the singing of the Doxology, which was heartily responded to. Then Dr. Culross, Rev. R. Glover, and Rev. Jas. Spurgeon prayed in succession, thanking God for the issue of their deliberations, and seeking strength for continued fidelity to his revealed truth. Mr. Glover offered some touching petitions for a blessing on Mr. C. H. Spurgeon and his work.

Rev. J. T. Wigner, of New Cross, having been unanimously elected Vice-President, a warm vote of thanks was accorded to Dr. Parker and his deacons for the use of the City Temple. In briefly responding, Dr. Parker said he could not do so in terms that would express the emotions he felt at the moment. He had been a delighted listener, and what had just taken place would constitute a very vivid and remarkable memory for many a day. He felt only one regret—that he had not had the honour and joy of meeting on the platform Mr. C. H. Spurgeon. Either Mr. Spurgeon or his brother would be welcome to the pulpit of the City Temple so long as he was associated with the church. It would require a very microscopic eye to discover any differences among them worth noticing. They were one at the Cross, one in their homage of the Bible, and one in the true genius of Christian brotherhood. Let them all endeavour to magnify the excellencies of their brethren, and not to observe critically what might appear to be their faults.

THE COLLEGE OF COLLEGES.

Dear Sir,—Last year you were kind enough to insert a letter from me in reference to English undergraduates visiting American students at Northfield. May I again trespass on your space for a similar object?

Mr. L. D. Wishard, the secretary of the University Christian Associations in America, is now in England, and desires, in the name of Mr. D. L. Moody, and the students of America, personally to invite the English, Scotch, and Irish undergraduates to be their guests at the "Conference of University men," to be held this summer at Northfield, Mass. The Conference, which has aptly been called "The College of Colleges," will open on June 30, and will close on July 12, and will be conducted by Mr. D. L. Moody. The expense of the journey to and from America will, it is hoped, be brought well within the means of the average undergraduate.

Arrangements are now being made for Mr. Wishard to visit Cambridge on Sunday, May 6, and he has consented to devote the remaining Sundays of May and June to those Universities of our country which invite him to visit them.

Mr. Wishard is making his home with me during his stay in England; all letters for him should, therefore, be sent to the address given below.

May I, in conclusion, express a hope that many of our Universities will benefit by Mr. Wishard's visit, as I know few men who have more influence with college men in America than Mr. Wishard.—Yours truly,

J. E. K. Studd.

2, Cavendish-place, London, W.

OUR OPIUM TRADE WITH CHINA.—Conferences and meetings have recently been held at Clifton, Bristol, and Cardiff. The Christian ministers of the district have shown an active interest in the subject, and on each occasion addresses have been delivered by Rev. Goodeve Mabbs. In Clifton and Cardiff committees were appointed to co-operate with "The Movement for Education and stirring up Public Opinion against our National Opium Trade."

CROUCH END COTTAGE HOME.—It is now a year since the little girls belonging to the Bridge of Hope Mission were conveyed from the overcrowded neighbourhood of the East-end of London to Crouch End, N. The change has been in every way a beneficial one. A portion of the money required for the support of the Home has been sent by Miss Steer from the Bridge of Hope Mission, but as the Mission needs more than all its own funds, it is hoped that in future the Home will be entirely supported by special contributions obtained locally. Mrs. J. J. Corbin, 34, Haringey-park, Crouch End, is the superintendent.

ABRAHAM: GOD'S FRIEND.

By Rev. F. B. MEYER, B.A., Regent s Park Chapel.

VIII.—REFRESHMENT BETWEEN THE BATTLES.

—GENESIS xiv.

THIS was no border foray. It was an expedition for chastisement and conquest. Chedorlaomer was the Attila, the Napoleon of his age. His capital city, Susa, lay across the desert, beyond the Tigris, in Elam. Years before Abraham had entered Canaan as a peaceful emigrant, this dreaded conqueror had swept southwards, subduing the towns which lay in the Jordan Valley, and thus possessing himself of the master-key to the road between Damascus and Memphis. When Lot took up his residence there, they were paying tribute to this mighty monarch.

At last the men of Sodom got weary of his yoke and rebelled, and Chedorlaomer was compelled to undertake a second expedition to chastise their revolt and regain his power. Combining his own forces with those of three vassal and friendly rulers in the Euphrates Valley, which lay in his way, he swept across the desert, and fell upon the wild tribes that harboured in the mountains of Bashan and Moab. His plan was evidently to ravage the whole country contiguous to those Jordan towns before actually investing them.

At last the allied forces concentrated in the neighbourhood of Sodom, where they encountered fierce resistance. Encouraged by the pitchy nature of the soil, in which horsemen and chariots would move with difficulty, the townsfolk risked an engagement in the open. In spite, however, of the bitumen pits, the day went against the effeminate and dissolute men of the plain, in whose case, as in many others, social corruption proved itself the harbinger of political overthrow. The defeat of the troops was followed by the capture and sack of those wealthy towns, and all who could not escape were manacled as slaves, and carried off in the train of the victorious army.

Sated at length with their success, their attention engrossed by their rich booty and their vast hosts of captives, the foreign host began slowly to return along the Jordan valley on its homeward march. "And they took Lot, Abram's brother's son, who dwelt in Sodom, and his goods, and departed." Then one of the survivors of that fatal day climbed the hills, and made for Abraham's encampment, which he may have known in earlier days, when, as one of Lot's many servants, he lived there. "And when Abram heard that his brother was taken captive, he armed his trained servants, and divided himself against them."

(1) HERE IS THE UNSELFISH AND SUCCESSFUL INTERPOSITION OF A SEPARATED MAN, ON THE BEHALF OF OTHERS.—Hidden in the configuration of the country, and confederate with his friends, Abraham had watched the movements of the devastators from afar. "But they had not come nigh him; only with his eyes had he beheld and seen the reward of the wicked." Common prudence would have urged him not to embroil himself. "Be thankful that you have escaped, and do not meddle further in the business, lest you make these mighty kings your foes."

But true separation never argues thus. Granted that it is set apart for God, yet it is set apart that it may re-act more efficiently on the great world over which God yearns, and to which He has entertained great purposes of mercy, in the election of the few. Genuine separation, an unattachedness to the things of time and sense, because of an ardent devotion to the unseen and eternal, is the result of faith, which always works by love; and this love tenderly yearns for those who are entangled in the meshes of worldliness and sin. Faith makes us independent, but not indifferent. It is enough for it to hear that its brother is taken captive, and it will arm instantly and go in pursuit.

Ah! brothers and sisters, have there never come to you the tidings that your brothers are taken captive? How, then, is it that you have not started off long ago for their deliverance? Is this separation genuine, which stands unconcernedly by whilst there is such urgent need for immediate and unselfish action.

But Abraham's interposition was as successful as it was unselfish and prompt. The force with which he set out was a very slender one, but his raw recruits moved quickly, and thus in four or five days they overtook the self-reliant and encumbered host amid the hills where the Jordan takes its rise. Adopting the tactics of a night attack, he fell suddenly on the unsuspecting host, and chased them in headlong panic, as far as the ancient city of Damascus. "And he brought back all the goods, and also brought again his brother Lot, and his goods, and the women also, and the people."

Is it not always so? The men who live the life of separation and devotion towards God, are they who act with most promptness and success when the time for action comes. Lot being in Sodom could neither elevate its morals, nor save it from attack. Abraham living among the hills is alone able to cope successfully with the might of the tyrant king. Oh, do not listen to those who say that you must live on the level, and in the midst of worldly men, in order to elevate and save them; and advise you to go to the theatre, the ball-room, the public-house, in order to give them a higher tone. Did Lot save Sodom? Nor will a better fate than his befall any man, who, unbidden by God, settles down in the world for his own whim and pleasure. If you would lift me, you must stand above me. If Archimedes is to move the world, he must rest his lever on a point far enough outside the earth itself.

(2) THE TIME OF A GREAT SUCCESS IS OFTEN THE SIGNAL FOR A GREAT TEMPTATION.—The King of Sodom had not been amongst the prisoners. He had probably saved himself by a timely flight from the field of battle to the hills. When therefore he received tidings of the patriarch's gallant and successful expedition, he set out to meet and welcome him. He would ascend from the Jordan plain by one of the gorges in the hills, and would come out on the great central road, by which Abraham and his confederates were marching back to Hebron.

The two met at the King's Dale, a place to become memorable as the years went on; and situated near the city of Salem, which was destined to develop into the word Jerusalem. A memorable meeting that; between the representatives of two races, the one destined to grow weaker and weaker still, until it was dispossessed by the children of that very man, whose sword now saved it from utter extinction.

But more memorable than the place, is the record of the spiritual encounter that took place there. Grateful for Abraham's succour and deliverance, the King of Sodom proposed to him to surrender only the persons of the captives, whilst he kept all the spoils to himself and his allies.

It must have been a very tempting offer. No slight matter for a shepherd to have the chance of appropriating all the spoils of settled townships, so large and opulent; especially when he seemed to have some claim on them.

But he would not hear of it for a moment. Indeed, he seems to have already undergone some exercise of soul on the matter, for, speaking as of a past transaction, he said, "I have lift up mine hand unto the Lord, the Most High God, the Possessor of heaven and earth, that I will not take from a thread even to a shoelatchet, and that I will not take anything that is thine, lest thou shouldst say, 'I have made Abram rich.' What a magnificent contempt of the specious offer! What a glorious outburst of the independence of a living faith!

There is a close parallel between this suggestion of the King of Sodom and the temptation of our Lord in the wilderness, when Satan offered Him all the kingdoms of the world for one act of obeisance. And does not this temptation assail us all? Are we not all tempted to take the gilded wage of the world, which is so eager to lay us under obligation to itself, and to feel that we are in its pay and power? The world is aware that, if only we will accept its subsidies, we have surrendered our position of independence, and have stepped down to its level, no longer able to witness against it, shorn of the locks of our strength, and become weak as other men.

In theory it may be argued that we can turn to good account the wealth which has been ill-gotten. But, practically, we shall not find it so. The wealth of Sodom will scorch the hand that handles it, and will blight every godly enterprise to which it may be put. Besides, what right have we to depend on the revenues of the world, we, who are heirs to the Possessor of heaven and earth, the children of the Great King, to whom, in giving us his Son, He has also pledged to give us all things? Better a thousand times be poor, until He make us rich with the gold that has passed through his cleansing furnace. Happy they who prefer to be pensioners on the daily providence of God to being dependent on the gold of Sodom—the wages of iniquity.

(3) THE PREVENIENT GRACE OF GOD.—It may be that Abraham would not have come off so grandly in the second conflict if he had not been prepared for it by the wondrous encounter with a greater king than either we have named. After his defeat of Chedorlaomer, and before the advent of the King of Sodom, the Hebrew had met Melchizedek, the Priest-King of Salem.

We may not stay to speak now of all the interest that gathers around this sacred figure, sacred as the type of our blessed Lord. Of that more anon. We shall be satisfied to notice now that he brought bread and wine, and blessed the weary conqueror, and coined in his hearing a new name for God. For the first time God received the title, Possessor of heaven and earth—one which seems to have made a deep impression upon Abraham, for we find him using it in his encounter with the King of Sodom, and it was the talisman of victory. Why should he need to take aught from man, when this new revelation of God had just fallen upon his ear, and enriched his heart for ever?

Is not this the work of the Lord Jesus still? He comes to us when wearily returning from the fight. He comes to us when He knows we are on the eve of a great temptation. He not only prays for us, as for Peter; but He prepares us for the conflict. Some new revelation; some fresh glimpse into his character; some holy thought—these are given to fill the memory and heart against the advent of the foe. Oh, matchless mercy! He forewarns and forearms us. He prevents us with the blessings of his goodness.

We have not unfrequently been made sweet and strong, or have passed through some marked spiritual experience, for no other object than to fit us for coming peril. Let us avail ourselves of such occasions, whenever they occur, and let us ever be grateful to our Lord for victualling his castles before they are attacked, and for giving us his own new name, by which we may overcome all the wiles of men and devils.

Oh, King of loyal hearts, may we meet Thee more often on life's highway, and bending beneath thy blessing, be prepared by the communications of thy grace for all Thou hast prepared for us in the unknown future.

THE GREAT WORLD COUNCIL.

By Rev. Dr. A. T. PIERSON.

There are those on both sides of the sea who look forward to the coming month of June as the time for the convening of a Council second in practical importance to none that has ever met since the Day of Pentecost. A general Missionary Conference is then to be held in Exeter Hall, London, from June 9 to 19, which will embrace representatives of all the great missionary societies and Christian denominations. Missionary workers, native converts and helpers from every part of the mission field will be present and participate; information of the most comprehensive and accurate sort will be furnished as to the world-wide work and field, and the practical questions to be covered in the discussions and addresses are of supreme importance to the prosecution of the great missionary campaign and conquest.

For example, the matter of missionary comity. There is a great deal of work that overlaps. While some fields are wholly destitute, others are comparatively over-supplied. The time has fully come for a mutual understanding between Christian denominations and their societies and representatives as to the limits of their respective fields, interchange of workers, transfer of converts, &c. We need to have it determined what is to be regarded as preoccupation and what as intrusion. Certain principles need to be agreed upon as to the policy to be pursued in dealing with such questions as Chinese ancestral worship and East Indian caste. There ought to be a consistent plan for developing a native ministry, and making native churches self-governing, self-supporting, self-propagating. A common scale of salaries for native helpers would remove the temptation of a mercenary motive in seeking larger wages, &c. A hundred questions that now present practical perplexities would be no longer embarrassing could Christian disciples agree upon a standard for the conduct of the work.

The place of education in the work of missions needs to be determined. The need and value of schools, the scope of their educational schemes, co-education of the sexes, the language in which teaching should be conducted, the character of the teachers to be employed, the question of co-partnership of different societies in college work, the importance of higher education, and especially theological training, the shortening of preparatory courses for those who cannot spend the full period of preparation ordinarily required—how many and vast are the problems of education demanding solution!

Then the whole position of the native agencies needs definition and determination. How to secure a large efficient body of capable native workers, how to fit them for service and set them at work and support them in the work, how broad to make the basis of their training without raising them unduly above the people for whom they labour, how ample to make their pecuniary support without putting before them the temptation of avarice or elevating them to a false level—here is a whole continent of thought needing exploration.

The methods of mission work demand adjustment and agreement. The qualifications of missionaries, physical, mental, and spiritual; their course of training, the question of a medical education for the ordinary worker, the establishment of missionary professorships and lectureships at home and abroad, itinerant and local evangelism, industrial and medical missions, adaptation to existing usages and customs, and the attitude of the missionary toward the Governmentand society at large—these are matters vital to a large success.

Then the creation and dissemination of a Christian literature; the power of the press and its utilisation; Bible translation and distribution, and the multiplication of tracts and books; the newspaper, apologetic literature, children's papers and periodicals; and last, but not least, the way to get and keep before Christians the facts of modern missions through a cheap, comprehensive, and frequent form of printed statement—here again the Conference might busy itself for the ten days of its sessions.

Consider again all the intricate matters that concern the development of the Church at home. Missionary conventions, simultaneous meetings; the increase of gifts, but, above all, of prayer; the education of children in knowledge, and love, and systematic giving; woman's work, its range, its opportunity, its grand utility; the consecration of wealth, and the organisation of the mites into millions—behold here another class of questions engaging the best thought of our day.

There will be many who will regard this council, now called to meet in June, as the answer to many fervent prayers. For one, the writer of this article looks forward to this meeting as surpassed in importance and possible results by no other ever held. In fact, it may be doubted whether it be not the first of its kind. When before have Christians of every name and land met, without regard to any denominational lines or limits, to represent on the one hand the entire body of Christendom and on the other hand the entire field of missions, pagan and papal, Mohammedan and heathen? This will be an ecumenical council in fact. And think for what a purpose they meet who gather there and then! To map out the world—for Christ's war of the ages! To cover every district of earth's surface with the network of missionary effort; to plant the cross in every valley and on every hill; to put the Bible in every hamlet and hut; to prevent all waste of men and material and means; to distribute work equally and equitably; to accelerate the progress of missions so that in the shortest time the witness may be borne to all people and to every soul! Is there any purpose on which the whole Christian Church could so heartily and confidently invoke and implore God's blessing?

There is one outcome of this Council for which we look with greater confidence and hopefulness than for all other results combined. How heavy has our heart often been over the wide-spread apathy and lethargy of the Church itself in respect to missions! Even where missionary effort is found, how often are its methods excessively conservative, stereotyped and often even secular. Dependence is frequently placed on mere organisation. A transient enthusiasm is awakened that is like the morning cloud or early dew, that passes as quickly away. How little avidity in welcoming news from the field! How little prayerful solicitude for the progress of missions! How slow and spasmodic the inflow into the Lord's treasury!

What the Church needs just now above all else is a baptism of prayer. The world has invaded the Church with its secular spirit and its sceptical spirit. Confidence in the supernatural is practically undermined. "A life of faith" is often sneered at as fanaticism, and "dependence solely on prayer" is regarded as a mere pretence or an indirect mode of advertising and appealing. Men show the grade of their own piety and spirituality by their construction of the motives and methods of other disciples. A Christian who sneers at George Müller, Francke, or Dorothea Trudel, and who speaks in depreciation if not deprecation of J. Hudson Taylor and the heroic African bishop, William Taylor; he who will embark in no enterprise where he has not a human security, has the flavour and savour of the natural man and does not perceive, or certainly receive the things of the Spirit of God. The Christian Church needs to pray and pray in faith, believing and expecting great results. Mathematics and measuring lines cannot compass God's power. There is a supernatural sphere and an omnipotent energy at work in that sphere. The God of Pentecost is not dead. The Holy Ghost can "demonstrate" what no argument can prove to a soul whose spiritual perceptions are dulled and deadened. There is a logic of moral conviction that God only can wield. He who takes up the isles as a very little thing knows how to raise a continent to a higher level; He who can say "Let light be" can flood a world with glory. Where is the faith in prayer that made the place where primitive disciples assembled to shake with the presence of God; that caused Peter's chains to be riven and his prison doors to open of their own accord; that made the palace of the Cæsars a vestibule of heaven, and turned infidel Thessalonica into a pulpit of evangelism?

If that Conference in London shall not issue in a new baptism of prayer, the highest result will not be attained. We believe that from the first that great gathering in which all disciples forget their differences and join hands and touch hearts in a common purpose to promote God's glory will prove a new Pentecost. Let the whole Christian Church unite in one mighty and moving entreaty, that in these latter days it may come to pass that God shall pour out his Spirit upon all flesh and Joel's prophecy shall at last find its grandly complete fulfilment.—Missionary Review of the World.

THE LATE MR. EDWARD BOUSTED, of Clapham-park, by his will bequeathed £5000 to Mr. Spurgeon; £5000 to the Stockwell Orphanage; £3000 to the Metropolitan Tabernacle Colportage Association; £3000 to the East-end Juvenile Mission, under the direction of Dr. Barnardo; and £1000 to Mr. Carden, secretary of the Metropolitan Tabernacle Corportage Association.

INDUSTRIAL SETTLEMENTS.—An interesting Conference respecting this plan of dealing with the unemployed was held last week at Mrs. Leatham Bright's residence, Queen's Mansions, Victoria-street, S.W. Rev. Herbert Mills, hon. secretary and treasurer of the Society, explained its projects, and left the impression that in time the Home Colonisation scheme might supersede our poor-law system altogether. In reply to criticisms, he admitted that in a self-contained, industrial settlement the cost of production would be higher than outside, so that it would be more economical to buy and sell; but it must be remembered that what was proposed was to employ the unemployed. Clerks might soon learn a simple trade, like weaving. An allotment of land to each family might satisfy the spirit of independence, especially if a few shillings could be earned by keeping fowls. If happiness and comfort prevailed, he did not believe there would be much fluctuation of population. Eminent political economists were in favour of a trial of the scheme.

Leaves from my Note-Book.

By Rev. W. HASLAM, M.A.

Author of "From Death into Life."

IV.—THE YOUNG JOCKEY.

Sitting in my vestry one morning to receive any person who desired to call upon me for conversation or inquiry, I heard a knock at the door. "Come in," I said. Who should appear but a young man whom I had observed for several Sundays in the congregation. I bade him enter, take a seat, and tell me his business.

"If you please, sir," he said, "I should like to become a communicant."

"Very well," I replied; "tell me something about yourself. I have seen you in church several times; and I think I heard you singing heartily."

"Yes, sir," he answered, "I am fond of singing, and now I love to sing the praises of God."

"That is right. 'It is a good thing to give thanks, and to sing praises to our God.' Were you always fond of such kind of singing?"

"Oh, no, sir, I am sorry to say, not by any means. I used to sing jocular, comic songs, and keep people in roars of laughter."

"Where was it that you used to sing like this?" I inquired.

"Oh, in the 'servants' hall,' sir, in different places; sometimes at the hotels, you know, and at the bar."

"What made you change from that?" I asked.

"I will tell you, sir. I got thrown from a horse, you know, and broke my leg very bad. I am a light weight," looking at his own slim figure, "and my master, Lord ——, said I was bold and likely, so he got me to ride his horses at races in different parts of the country. I have often had bad falls, but last time I came down a reg'lar cropper. They thought I was dead; but when I came to, they found it was only my leg that was broken. I was much hurt inside as well. They did all they could for me; and at last brought me to the hospital. Master was very sorry, and came to see me more than once there.

"After lying for six weeks, sometimes suffering a good deal, I began to get better, at least I thought so, and the doctor said so too. Still I had strains, and every now and then severe pains inside. The doctor did not take much account of this; but I couldn't help a-thinking that perhaps I should die in that hospital.

"One night the chaplain came to my bedside at nine o'clock, and talked very kindly to me. He wanted me to take the communion; but I was afraid to do that! 'My poor fellow,' he said, 'I am sorry to have to tell you, that you will die to-night. The doctor has sent me to break this solemn news to you. May God have mercy upon your soul!

"I was struck all of a heap; my worst fears were come to pass. The pain in my poor chest was so bad, too. I was in the greatest distress. Then the nurse came, and put a screen round my bed. I thought, 'It is all up with me!' Dear me! it makes me feel quite bad again, even to tell it. What a night I had of it! The hours passed very slowly, and every time I heard the clock strike, I thought to myself, 'Is this the last time I shall ever hear it? Then I shall lie down in the ground, and the clock will go on striking, and I never hear it!'

"How I did long to send for mother. What a bad, wicked boy I had been! She gave me good advice, and I never followed it. I knew better than I was doing. I knew that I was going wrong, and that my master was going wrong too.

"When the daylight began to show at the hospital window, I looked about, and over the the top of the screen I could see a text. When there was light enough, I read, 'Come unto Me, all ye that labour and are heavy-laden, and I will give you rest.'

"'Ah, I said to myself, 'I used to know and say that text. Oh, if I had come to Jesus when I was young!' Then the pain came back again very bad indeed. I said, 'O Lord, don't take me away to die. I will come to Thee. Do have mercy upon my soul, and spare me a little longer. Thou didst shed thy blood for me.' I went on something like this, till at last my burden and sorrow went away. I felt happy. I felt as if I did not care now if the Lord did take me away to die; I should be with Him.

"Soon after the nurse came, and felt my pulse; then she looked at me and said, 'Well, I don't think you want this screen. You are better!'

"'I am,' I said, 'I am better; my soul is better, anyhow.' Then the doctor came round, and there was a whispering with the nurse. 'Oh, no,' I heard the doctor say. 'It is quite a mistake. I meant the poor man upstairs; he died at three this morning.'

"After this he stepped up to the bedside and examined me. He said, 'I think we will get you up to-day. You must be careful, you know, about that leg; mind you don't break it again.'

"I inquired, 'Did the chaplain make a mistake, then?'

"Yes, he said it was not me at all, who was to die that night, it was another man. But the fright the chaplain put me in was the saving of my soul, praise the Lord.

"The next time the chaplain came round the ward, he told me how sorry he was. 'Don't say a word about it,' I said, 'for the terrible fright you gave me was the means of my salvation. I don't mind having the communion now.' But he did not care to talk with me."

Having heard his story, I said to him, "So you would like to come to the communion next Sunday?"

"Yes, sir," was his reply, "if you please."

"It is the Father's table for his children," I continued; "I am his servant, and shall rejoice to see you there. Where are you living now?"

"Oh," he replied, "I am with the same master still. I told his lordship the story about the dying, you know, and told him I was a changed man since then, and could not go out racing any more."

"No, no," he answered, "and I have done with that too. His lordship has been to church, sir, for two Sundays; and oh, I do pray for him. Will you pray for him, sir?"

Having previously noticed that this young man had a good voice for singing, I said to him "Would you like to join the choir? I want living souls to sing there."

"Oh yes, sir," he said, "I should like that very much, if you would let me come and practise a little."

My happy jockey friend from this time became a good and efficient help in the choir, and, more than that, he was a regular and consistent communicant. While I had the pleasure of ministering to him, he remained an earnest worker for Christ; and I have not the least doubt he is still holding on his way. His interesting story, and remarkable conversion, won for him a ready hearing. He was a bold witness for the Master, and as happy as he was bold.

SERMON DISTRIBUTION IN BERLIN.—A correspondent writes describing a branch of mission work inaugurated and carried on in Berlin by Court Preacher Stöcker. Realising that many thousands of people in the city could not attend church on Sundays, Stöcker began in 1881 to publish weekly sermons, accompanied by passages of Scripture, prayer, and hymns; these were sold at eight copies a penny to any who would distribute them, and were gratefully received by the people in the streets of Berlin. Since then the work has spread, and the demand for tracts greatly increased; they are taken to hospitals, railway stations and trains, boats, omnibuses, and the houses of the poor, and others. There is evidence of much good having resulted from this novel dissemination of Gospel truth. The sermons are sometimes by Stöcker himself, and sometimes selected. Some of the men who now support the movement trace their conversion to a timely word read in a Sunday sermon tract.

NOTES FROM THE NORTH.

SCHOOL BOARDS AND PRAYER.

At the first meeting of the newly-elected Perth School Board, a rather unseemly discussion took place as to whether the monthly meetings should be opened with prayer. Rev. A. Fleming said the members were there as representatives of a Christian community, and it was highly proper that they should commence their business in the exercise of prayer. Several members of the Board opposed Mr. Fleming, on the ground that the Board was an entirely secular body, but a majority resolved that the monthly meeting should be commenced with devotion.

EDINBURGH SABBATH FREE BREAKFASTS.

On Monday afternoon, last week, Sir William Muir presided at the annual meeting, in Edinburgh, of this Mission, and said that these breakfasts were a means to an end in reclaiming the people. Rev. Thomas Nichol and Mr. R. R. Simpson made appeals for help to allow of the new missionary building in Old Fishmarket-close being completed free of debt. Principal Cairns said he had been struck with the improved appearance of the people who frequented the breakfasts. Captain Christie, Governor of Edinburgh Prison, while bearing testimony to the good influences of the Mission, alluded to the effect on the lowest classes of Mr. D. L. Moody's visit to Scotland.

GLASGOW NOONDAY PRAYER MEETING.

Interesting addresses were delivered at this prayer-meeting in Monday week. Mr. Quarrier stated that homes had been provided for the 120 boys sent to Canada at the end of last month; he was prepared to receive 200 children before September. The Romanists are again threatening him with legal proceedings. Referring to addresses by two Jewish missionaries, Principal Brown remarked on the little interest taken in work among the Jews, and said it was very seldom prayers were heard in the pulpit for their conversion. Mr. Oatts thanked the friends for the interest they had manifested in him during his recent illness. He announced that Mr. Henry Thorne would conduct a fortnight's evangelistic meetings in Glasgow, for young men.

BIBLE TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATION.

There was a large gathering at the first meeting of the newly-formed Edinburgh Auxiliary of this Association last week. Mr. John Leckie said the object of the Association was to direct the strong light of Scriptural truth on the liquor traffic, so as to render the trade a disreputable one. The committees of Presbyterians and Synods ought to become more pronounced on this subject, and the heathenish practice of health-drinking at ordinations given up. Mr. Peter Chalmers initiated a discussion on "The Church and the Drink Traffic," and declared that drink hampered the financial resources of the Church, produced moral deterioration and spiritual ruin among her members, and was the great obstacle to the progress of the Gospel. It was impossible to fathom the reasoning of those who maintained that they were striving to keep the Ten Commandments, and were at the same time supporting strong drink, the great cause of the breach of every one of them.

WOMEN AND INTERNATIONAL ARBITRATION.—A Conference, convened by the Women's Committee of the International Arbitration and Peace Association, has been held at Queen's Mansions, Queen Victoria-street, S.W. The following subject was discussed: "By what methods can women best promote the cause of international concord?" Mrs. Oscar Wilde pointed out the great influence which women might exercise for the attainment of that object. She also deprecated the use of military toys in the training of children, and contended that young people should be taught to study international questions in public schools. Miss Balgarnie remarked that in that morning's paper she read no less than nine rumours of wars, attributed this bellicose state of things to the governing classes, the military class, and the Press. Mrs. Stewart Downing defended the union of women in that Association in the cause of peace. Mrs. Mallet thought it was only through the gradual growth of moral as opposed to physical force that the object could be secured; Miss Bowles (United States) contrasted the scarcity of soldiers in the streets of her country with their conspicuousness in our own, as showing what might be realised in England; Mrs. Costello advocated the extension of philanthropy in various forms as a means of suppressing war.

A DAY IN A MOROCCO "SOKE."

We are en route from Tangier to Fez, travelling slowly, and tarrying wherever we find an open door. The scene of to-day's labours has been a large weekly "soke," or native market, where ten thousand people usually gather for trade; but the heavy rains greatly thinned the number on this occasion. As I reflect on the stormy morning through which we passed in that "soke" (stormy in a double sense), my conviction deepened as to the fallacy and misleading character of many of the arguments and statements advanced in favour of Mohammedanism in the recent controversy provoked by Canon Taylor's paper on that subject.

Could you have looked on as we spoke to one crowd after another, you would have been encouraged by the evident interest of some, but would also have had a glimpse of Islam's hateful and intolerant spirit. One of their learned men asked to see an Arabic copy of John's Gospel, which I handed him. As soon as it was in his hand he dashed it to the ground with contempt. In every group we were much opposed, and rudely jostled. Some of the more fanatical were bent on stoning us. We were struck several times. But the number of people about us shielded us from real violence. At this point we thought it desirable to leave the market. A number visited us in our tiny tent. The more earnest and interested returned at night, under cover of darkness, for further conversation. The common people hear us gladly. Opposition comes rarely, save from the learned men and religious leaders.

The awful deceitfulness of this iniquitous system may be perceived, if I reproduce a few sentences from a conversation I just had with a group of villagers. It is a typical one.

"How is it, if your religion is from God, that this land is so full of sin, and your lives so dark and wretched?"

"Our religion is a broad and easy one. We can sin as we like. We can steal, and commit adultery; we can commit highway robbery and murder; we can lie, and yet get to heaven."

"But God tells us in his Book that those who do such things shall be turned into hell. Our Lord Jesus changes our inclinations by giving us a new life. We no longer love such evil ways. You cannot do this, and ever reach heaven."

"But our foukies, who know the Koran, tell us we can sin as we like, and in the last day our Lord Mohammed will intercede for us, and get us into heaven. Therefore, as our way is broad and easy, it is better than yours."

"It is true yours is a broad way. Our Lord Jesus said there were two ways, one broad, and one narrow and difficult, and that the broad one ends in destruction, and the narrow one only in life. Ours is the narrow one: yours is the broad one."

Not long since two devoted lady workers, in a little Moorish town here of only two thousand inhabitants, gave a dinner to some of the divorced women of the town, those who were poor and unprovided for. Sixty responded. This answers Canon Taylor's assertion that where Islam comes every women receives a protector. Another fact I will name, to meet the twin statement that the coming of Islam brings virtue to the tribes that embrace it. In the kheeanis or movable villages of tents in Southern Morocco, which, last spring, we visited, the women would unblushingly confess that they were everyone adulteresses and harlots. Of course this would not apply to the virtually imprisoned women of the wealthy Moors in the cities. Islam is a dark blight, a withering curse, an awful delusion, an unmitigated evil.

My travelling companion and fellow-labourer on this trip is an earnest young Scotch brother of sterling qualities and much promise, Mr. Summers. He is of the staff of the North African Mission, and one of their best workers. As recently announced in your columns, I have now no relationship with that Mission, being an independent worker, although still one in sympathy and love with the beloved brethren who compose its council at home and its staff here in the field.

I beg for a redoubling of your prayers on behalf of this dark land, and of the work I am seeking to do. Address—P.O., Tangier, Morocco. E. F. Baldwin, Missionary.

◆

For the Young.

A STREET INCIDENT.

A reporter called to a little bootblack near the City Hall to give him a shine, the other day. The little fellow came rather slowly for one of that lively guild, and planted his box down under the reporter's foot. Before he could get his brushes out, another large boy ran up, and calmly pushing the little one aside, said—

"Here, you go sit down, Jimmy."

The reporter at once became indignant at what he took to be a piece of outrageous bullying, and sharply told the new-comer to clear out.

"O dat's all right, boss," was the reply; "I'm only going to do it fur him. You see he's been sick in the hospital for mor'n a month, and can't do much work yet, so us boys all turn in and give him a lift when we can. Savy?"

"Is that so, Jimmy?" asked the reporter, turning to the smaller boy.

"Yes, sir," wearily replied the boy; and, as he looked up, the pallid, pinched face could be discerned even through the grime that covered it. "He does it fur me, if you'll let him."

"Certainly, go ahead!" and as the bootblack plied the brush, the reporter plied him with questions.

"You say all the boys help him in this way?"

"Yes, sir. When they ain't got no job themselves, and Jimmy gets one, they turns in and helps him, 'cause he ain't very strong yet, ye see."

"What percentage do you charge him on a job?"

"Hey?" queried the youngster. "I don't know what you mean."

"I mean, what part of the money do you give Jimmy, and how much do you keep out of it?"

"You bet your life I don't keep none. I ain't no such sneak as that."

"So you give it all to him, do you?"

"Yes, I do. All the boys give up what they gets on his job. I'd like to catch any feller sneaking it on a sick boy—I would."

The shine being completed, the reporter handed the urchin a quarter, saying—

"I guess you're a pretty good fellow, so you keep ten cents, and give the rest to Jimmy there."

"Can't do it, sir; it's his customer. Here, Jim!"

He threw him the coin, and was off like a shot after a customer for himself, a veritable rough diamond. In this big city there are many such lads, with warm and generous hearts under their ragged coats.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.

Mr. E. Arrowsmith, on Continent for two months. Mr. T. Lewes Sayer, Stockwell Orphanage, April 23—26; Romford, April 29 to May 4. Mr. Josiah Spiers, Wakefield, April 24 to May 5; Park Chapel, Camden Town, May 7—19; Assembly Rooms, Malvern, June 3—15; Skating Rink, Croydon, July 2—13. Mr. George Banaster, Dorking, April 21—30. Mr. E. T. M. Dennes, Chingford, April 30 to May 4. Mr. Hutchinson, Raleigh Memorial Schools, Stoke Newington, April 30 to May 4.

JESUS ONLY.

By our sins so great and sore,
Deeply still do we transgress;
But the blessed Son of God
Is all grace and righteousness.
Let us then to Jesus go:
He will take away our sin;
He will make us pure and good,
He will give us peace within.

We are false, and mean, and low,
Sinking even to the dust,
But the chosen One of God
Is the True, the Good, the Just.

We are sometimes vain and proud,
Haughty words we often speak;
But "the High and Lofty One"
Here on earth was poor and meek.

We are changeable and weak,
Prone to every fitful frame;
But our Saviour Jesus Christ
Evermore is still the same.

We are tired, and faint, and sad,
Oft dismayed, and much oppressed;
He doth call the weary ones,
He alone can give us rest.

Loveless, cold, and erring ones,
Death had been our just reward;
But on the atoning Lamb
All the wrath hath been outpoured.

We are dying day by day;
Our brief life will soon be o'er;
But the glorious risen Lord
Is "alive for evermore."
Let us then to Jesus go;
He will take away our sin;
He will make us pure and good,
He will give us peace within.

Caroline Tickner.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—The following are the portions for the ensuing week:—Sunday, April 29, Isaiah lxv. 17—25; Monday, April 30, Psalm lxxvii. 1—20; Tuesday, May 1, Ruth i. 1—9; Wednesday, May 2, Ruth i. 10—22; Thursday, May 3, Ruth ii. 1—12; Friday, May 4, Ruth ii. 13—23; Saturday, May 5, Ruth iii. 1—18.

BELIEVERS' MEETING FOR BIBLE STUDY.—The time for holding this most important gathering has been fixed for June 18—25. The place, of course, will be Niagara, Ont. There will be three hours of study daily, and thus far the subjects before the Committee for incorporation into the programme are:—(1) The Holy Spirit; (2) the Person and Sacrificial Work of Christ; (3) the Personal and pre-Millennial Coming of Christ. The sessions of the Conference are likely to prove of deep interest. There are good grounds for expecting the presence of Rev. J. Hudson Taylor, the founder of the China Inland Mission. It is his intention to go to China by way of America, at the close of the great Missionary Conference to be held in London in June, and he will take in Niagara en route.—Faithful Witness.

CHARITABLE AGENCIES FOR GIRLS AND WOMEN.—For some time past the want has been felt of a carefully compiled and complete list of orphanages, schools, girls' lodging-houses, boarding-houses, and industrial and rescue homes, the number of which has very largely increased during recent years. Wise discrimination in the choice of a Home often makes all the difference between success and failure; hence the importance of a complete list of such institutions. A detailed and trustworthy list has, with the co-operation of many workers, been prepared under the title, "A Guide to Homes, Schools, and Refuges for Girls and Women." It is proposed to sell it at 2s. a copy, and to publish it in a few months. Before publication, however, it is necessary to ensure the sale of 1000 copies; at present orders for only 500 have been received. Appeal is made for the names of subscribers; also, all persons engaged in work among girls are asked to supply the names and addresses of any schools or Homes which have been recently opened. Communications to be addressed to the Hon. Mrs. Fraser, or Miss Robarts, Hon. Secs. "Guide to Homes, Schools, and Refuges for Women and Girls," 15, Buckingham-street, Strand, W.C.

Notes and Comments.

NEXT week we hope to give portrait and sketch of Dr. McCosh, of Princeton University.

The Notes on Daily Readings will now be discontinued. They commenced with the New Testament, and have thus dealt with the entire Bible, chapter by chapter.

Volume viii. of Dr. Parker's "People's Bible" deals with the portion 1 Kings xv.; 1 Chronicles ix. The many excellencies of the previous volumes are well represented, and the performance may be briefly described as suggestive, graphic, and picturesque. (8s. Hazell, Watson & Viney.)

In their new book, "The Divine Programme of the World's History," Mr. and Mrs. Grattan Guinness place Bible students under another great debt of obligation to them. If it be true that "prophecy is history written in advance," and that "the history of the world is none other than the history of man's redemption," what intelligent Christian can fail to be interested in a work in which prophecy is lucidly exhibited as a whole? The evidential value of this book is great, and we hope it will be widely read. (7s. 6d. Hodder & Stoughton.)

A remarkable sign of the times is found in the recent publication of a "Ceremonial of the Altar: a Guide to Low Mass," evidently intended for the use of clergymen of the Establishment. Whatever value may be placed upon the compilation by those for whom the singular volume has been prepared, our Roman Catholic contemporaries do not appear to think much of it, for one of them refers to it as "this strange and all but ludicrous book," and bases upon it an article under the striking heading of "Mass in Masquerade."

In the same article a comparison is drawn between the teaching of the Rubric, with its statement that the Sacramental Bread and Wine "may not be adored (for that were idolatry to be abhorred of all faithful Christians)," and the directions given in the Guide to Low Mass, "Having adored, he elevates the Host," &c., "He replaces the Chalice, covers it, and again adores," &c. There is something almost grotesque in the fact that this is a Roman Catholic journal teaching the ministers of a Protestant Church some points of Protestant doctrine; but the background is an ominous one, and it seems as though it must necessarily become darker before there is a return to the light.

We are glad to notice that a further protest has been made on the subject of the Papal reredos in St. Paul's. A strongly worded statement has been presented to the Bishop of London, signed by a large number of leading Churchmen. They fearlessly call things by their right names, and say that "a large crucifix and an image of the Madonna" have been set up over the communion table in St. Paul's, and ask that a judicial decision should be obtained on the conduct of the Dean and Chapter. They go so far as to suggest that the latter have acted illegally. We can only hope that it may prove so. And yet, though the outward symbol is removed, who shall stay the working of that evil virus which Rome has contrived to instil into the life-blood of England? One may constantly find people on their knees on the Cathedral pavement devoutly crossing themselves; and who, on being questioned, will deny that they are Roman Catholics, but do not hesitate to affirm that they are Anglican Catholics.

A retired and much esteemed minister writes to us:—

> I have no idea of preachers as an official class, and it is certain from Paul's words (Gal. ii. 10) that the Apostles were very anxious about care for the poor. I confess to a very high thought of the wisdom given to those who were the companions of Jesus, and who witnessed His habits of retirement and prayer. When modern ministers occupy the six days of the week in secular concerns about money, committee work, bank management, and act as secretaries (as we are told) to all manner of societies, they cannot, and do not get time to be alone with God in the communion of the Word and prayer. The principle of the Apostles was that others should be called to their aid when demands left them no adequate time for this indispensable communion. Nothing whatever in my judgment is so weakening to preachers, be they lay or otherwise, as the incessant occupations that leave them no time for "standing in the counsel of the Lord" (Jer. xxiii. 22), and making the truth their own by meditation upon it. During forty years' ministry I often felt this to be the most serious temptation from Satan that assailed me.

We have looked into the volumes entitled "Robert Elsmere," which have been written with a strong rationalistic bias, and are intended to present a contemporary picture of English unbelief. The faith of an eager young rector is shattered by his squire: a man who is a cynic, and learned in German neological literature. This squire, who professes to have a verifying faculty which can test the value of historical testimony, has found that Christianity cannot stand before his acumen. But it comes out that the squire is not able to estimate the value of the testimony of his own land agent. At the expense of many lives he mistakes and blunders in respect to his own estate and his tenants. The authoress does not apparently feel the meshes of inconsistency with which she wraps herself. It would say little for English society if such a work should be permitted to strengthen religious doubt.

The obituary notice of Matthew Arnold in The Standard combined with its eulogy much that was timely. The positiveness of the critic that "miracles do not happen" has had its effects on many young men in Great Britain and America, and when a sceptic leaves his work behind him, indiscriminating praise is unhealthy, however eminent he may have been. The writer in The Standard pronounces Mr. Arnold to have been a sophist in theological criticism. He took away and left nothing in exchange. In his latitudinarian determination to belong to no camp, and to exclude no opinion, he finally satisfied himself (?) with a form of theology which was mere verbal mist and vapour. There is an amazing amount of this unsubstantial vapour, that passes as culture and higher thought.

The late correspondence on London sermons in the columns of The Standard ought not to pass out of mind without its lesson; and this applies not to one but to all religious bodies. Ministers of religion would make a mistake if they thought their congregations did not appreciate their labours for the poor; their hard work, early and late; and their unceasing sacrifices of personal ease every day of the week. But somehow sermons do not seem spoken as subjects of personal possession and intense conviction. The people know that the truths of the Gospel are matters of life or death, and they do not feel that they are interpreted to them in this vital aspect. It is preaching that does not move outside, but gets at the very heart of the truth of Christ, which congregations desire.

The Salvation Army has for some time past been under the harrows of adversity in the town of Torquay. It seems that in 1886, while securing an Act of Parliament enabling them to purchase and maintain the town harbour, the Torquay Local Board obtained certain exceptional powers, whereby, to the surprise of the ratepayers, new crimes have been constituted, and penalties attached. The Act included a clause prohibiting processions in the streets on Sundays accompanied by instrumental music, and from the first there has been too much reason to suspect that the provision was aimed directly at the Salvation Army, whose operations in the town, it need hardly be said, had not met with universal support or approval. There is no town in the kingdom, however, where the Salvation Army may not do what they are denied the privilege of doing in Torquay. It is specially regrettable to find that a law which needlessly interferes with the liberties of the subject is being administered in what appears to be a harsh and unreasonable manner.

That there is reason for the charge of intolerance is much to be deplored. Without first ascertaining whether it could legally do so, the Local Board of Torquay handed over its powers to the police of the town; and the police were so eager to act on their new authority, that they even took proceedings against the local leaders of the Salvation Army before the official copies of the Act of Parliament were printed! Subsequent prosecutions excited great indignation, and, on several men being committed to prison, the legality of the entire proceedings was challenged in the Court of Appeal. The result was that it was held by the judges that the Act could only be administered by the Local Board, and more recently members of the Salvation Army have been sent to gaol on prosecutions directly instituted by the elected representatives of the ratepayers.

By an election which recently took place, that party on the Local Board which has no sympathy with the Salvation Army and its work, has, through the now antiquated system of cumulative voting, been reinforced, and, consequently, there seems little reason to expect a speedy adjustment of the difficulty. Meanwhile, those who value their civil rights may be trusted to watch the conduct of those Local Board members who seem to be trifling with, rather than guarding, civil liberties; and the friends of religion who hold dear the privilege of outdoor preaching and procession should not hesitate by lawful agitation to seek the repeal of the obnoxious clause.

At the Mansion House, on the 17th inst., a deputation waited on the Lord Mayor to invite his co-operation in the forthcoming Tercentenary Commemoration of the Defeat of the Spanish Armada, which is to take place at Plymouth, on July 19. At this interview Sir J. Puleston was careful to explain to the Mayor that Catholics as well as Protestants were participating in it, and that in no sense did it partake of a spirit of religious intolerance. There is certainly a grim humour in the fact that Catholics should join in such a celebration. The Lord Mayor, in responding, was particular to remark that the celebration "had no religious meaning in it." Yet one part of the plan, as stated by the Organising Secretary, consists of a proposal to place a memorial window in St. Margaret's Church, Westminster. Another part, is a proposal to erect a memorial on Plymouth Hoe, the inscription on which is to be, "He blew with his wind, and they were scattered."

No "religious" character! If the dispatch and defeat of the Armada had no religious (or irreligious) character, then, surely, it had very little character at all. But if the event itself had a religious character, yet in the estimation of some the celebration need not have any. It can be treated in a purely national manner, and then Catholics can join in it much in the same way as Catholic boys would enjoy a display of fireworks on November 5. It is not difficult, of course, to see the drift of all this. England is truckling to the Papal throne: we are afraid to offend the Pope. So, therefore, that which ought to be a great and sincere national thanksgiving, is to degenerate into a mere theatrical farce.

It is satisfactory to know that the long contention between the Wesleyans and the Earl of Harewood has been settled by the withdrawal of the restrictions hitherto imposed upon the Wesleyan body in the village of Harewood. These were that services should not be held during church hours; that there should be no Sunday-school, but only a Bible-class (out of church hours); and that the rites of Baptism and the Lord's Supper should not be administered. A rent of five pounds a year, however, is for the future to be paid for the building in the place of the hitherto nominal payment of five shillings. That such prohibitions as the above should ever have been imposed argues a spirit of intolerance worthy of the days of the Conventicle Act. It is to be hoped that the concessions for which the Wesleyans are now asking with respect to another village will be granted by the Earl with a better grace.

We cannot adequately express our sense of the splendid service that Mr. Alfred S. Dyer is rendering to the British nation and to the Indian Empire by his faithful and unsparing exposure of the hidden things of darkness that are being perpetrated in India under the ægis and protection and in the name of the State. The statements contained in his letter, which we publish to-day, ought to make the heart's blood of every British Christian boil with a holy indignation, and should rouse him to an indomitable resolve that these atrocities shall no longer be permitted to darken the fame of his country.

If our gracious Queen has any real power, under our Constitution, of influencing high affairs of State, it appears to us that these revelations of infamy supply the occasion and demand for its exercise. We hope some one who can gain the ear of Her Majesty will make the needful representations to her. At any rate, no Christian elector who has a knowledge of the black and damning facts can be said to have cleared his conscience, until he has brought every possible pressure to bear on his representative in Parliament towards the instant repeal of such diabolical enactments.

The Local Government Bill contains a provision which, if passed, may prove very beneficial, enabling the local authorities to render substantial assistance to intending emigrants. It may not, however, be generally known that boards of guardians, apparently, already have the power, with the sanction of the Local Government Board, to make grants to assist the emigration of poor adults, whether in receipt of parish relief or not. The vast and continual growth of the population, however, the increasing difficulty of providing food and employment, and the large area over which operations must extend, render it impossible for any private body successfully to grapple with the question. It is time for the State to take the matter up. But two precautions should be rigidly observed: first, proper provision should be made for the reception, supervision, and disposal of the emigrants on their arrival; secondly, only those willing to work hard should be sent out, otherwise it will merely be the transferring of a useless burden from one country to another.

It is impossible to read the daily bulletins on the health of the German Emperor, without being profoundly moved by his noble bearing, and touched by the position of the royal lady who left our shores some thirty years ago to become his wife. She has had to bear much sorrow lately. We need to pray that she too may be sustained, and that this terrible ordeal may promote her lasting welfare. Meanwhile we gladly note certain symptoms that popular feeling is turning somewhat in her favour.

At a recent meeting of an important provincial Auxiliary of the Church Missionary Society, the three chief speakers, the chairman, the local secretary, and the representative of the Society, pleaded earnestly for confidence in the parent committee. This fect reveals a prevailing state of distrust. While we regret it, two things seem to many to explain that distrust. A golden opportunity was given to the Society to bear witness to English Protestantism by refusing to hold a service in St. Paul's Cathedral until the large image of the Madonna which had been set up was removed. That opportunity was lost. It can never come back. The protest would have been most valuable; for the setting up of the image grossly violates national, as well as Episcopalian, sentiment. The second ground of distrust arises from the vindication on the part of the committee of the Society, which is found in the following words:—

> They do not consider it to be part of their duties as the Directors of a Missionary Society to take any corporate action at home with regard to any erroneous doctrines or practices which may trouble the Church, unless it should become absolutely necessary to do so in order to preserve their own proper work from interference.

"Corporate action" against error at home is one thing; acquiescence in it is another. We confess to a conviction that if the Directors of the London Missionary Society should, spite of remonstrances, resolve to hold a service in a chapel where anti-Protestant doctrine was openly taught, the concession would be a scandal. We imagine the C.M.S. has made a mistake. This was hinted at by the chairman of the meeting above referred to. Would it not be better to say so?

For the sake of the fair name of Brazil and its enlightened Emperor, it is much to be hoped that there is no truth in the shocking report that was published in The Times a few days ago. That report, from a correspondent in Rio Janeiro, states that some thousands of Indians have been massacred, in circumstances of horrible cruelty, by "persons employed by the authorities." The statement is to the effect that Señor J. Bueno, with about seventy men under him, recently attacked an Indian village and put the natives to flight. The wells were then poisoned with strychnine, and on the withdrawal of the treacherous "conquerors," the Indians returned, but only to die in misery from poisoning, which carried off 3000 of them. Some days afterwards Bueno attacked and destroyed another village, the water, wine, and provisions of which he also poisoned with sublimated mercury, with the result that some 800 Indians died shortly after returning to their ruined huts. When the report was sent off, further terrors, affecting 5000 persons, were said to be imminent. The entire story has been contradicted, but not satisfactorily so far. It is devoutly to be hoped that, after official investigation, it will be possible to declare the report altogether untrue, or as very greatly exaggerated.

We are glad to give publicity to the following extract from a private letter written to us by an esteemed correspondent, in reference to a recent note on acreage owned in Scotland:—

> Of all living landowners none has done more to convert barren rock and moor into arable land than the Duke of Sutherland, employing numbers of men to do so, and to make railroads, at a vast unremunerative cost to himself. Several hundred thousand of the acres you refer to are desolate mountain sides, which will not even feed sheep, much less support men.

The latest news from the explorations in Egypt is of special interest, if only as showing the vitality of traditions. Nothing has really been known about the Pharaoh under whom Joseph flourished, save that it is generally agreed that he was one of the Hyksos, but the Arabs have always said that his name was Reiyán, the son of El Welid. For the existence, however, of a Pharaoh with such a name there has been no evidence. But now a monument has been found giving "the name and titles of an absolutely unknown king, who, judging from the work, must belong to the Hyksos period, or, at all events, to one of the obscure dynasties preceding the Hyksos invasion." Part cannot be read, but part gives the name "Ian-Ra" or "Ra-ian." The inference of Egyptologists is that it is a monument of the very Reiyán referred to by the Arabs, and hence very possibly of the Pharaoh of Joseph's time.

A SALE OF WORK AT ALBERT HALL is being held this week (Thursday and Friday) from noon till 6.30 on behalf of the Society for Promoting Female Welfare. Stalls are erected on behalf of the work of Miss de Broen in Paris, and of Pastor Rodriguez at Figueras, at which the ladies in charge will gladly give accounts of the work carried on.

REQUESTS FOR PRAYER.—For blessing on special services for young women, to be conducted by Mr. Wm. Thomson, of Glasgow, in the Y.W.C.A., Newcastle-on-Tyne, from April 28 to May 11.——For blessing upon a mission, to be conducted by Mr. G. Hucklesby from May 1 to 6, and Mr. C. Inglis from 7 to 11, in "The New Hall," Rudmore, Landport.

CANADA AND CHINA.

At Miss Macpherson's workers' meeting last week the interest mainly oscillated between these two lands. During the tea hour the visitors were much attracted and interested by the band of healthy, happy-looking lasses, many of them just rescued from London slums, who are being transformed and trained for the Dominion across the Atlantic. Their young hearts are being won for Christ, and they will leave our shores in a few weeks under very hopeful circumstances. Extracts from Canadian letters were read by Miss Macpherson, telling of the joy of the workers over there in hearing of decisions for Christ among those settled in country homes, and of many encouragements, as well as some anxieties in connection with the work. Mr. and Mrs. Merry will accompany the next party, sailing on May 17.

The greater part of the evening was given up to China. Dr. Wilson, who, with his wife, has lately returned on furlough, gave an interesting realistic sketch of actual missionary life in China. Travelling up some great river for months together, one may preach the Gospel all along the route to kaleidoscopic congregations of people, very few of whom have ever heard the joyful sound. Having been resident for some years in Han-chung-fuh as a medical missionary, Dr. Wilson described the modus operandi of the daily work—simultaneous healing and preaching. The people come from far and near, and to all the message of salvation is delivered, in some form or other. The magic lantern is of great service in bringing the people within the influence of the mission. Some striking cases of conversion were related. Mrs. Wilson (well known to many as Miss Kate Goodman) added some encouraging particulars as to the work among women of different classes.

Everybody was deeply touched by Mr. G. B. Studd's simple and heartfelt recital of the circumstances (told in these columns some months since) of his visit to China when on a pleasure tour round the world, and how God met him there, leading him into full consecration of self and substance to Christian service. Previous plans as to professional advancement have all been pushed out of view, and Mr. Studd is now gaining experience in work at home, waiting Divine guidance as to his future field of service.

We are sorry not to have space for any detailed report of Mr. Hudson Taylor's suggestive exposition of the connection between Numbers vi. and vii. He said he used to consider the latter chapter (a very long one, full of repetitions) somewhat unprofitable reading; but, coming to it in regular course one day in Inland China, God caused it to be a good day's meditation; he found it was about the endless love of God. In comparing the two chapters, we find God's order of service—first consecration, then blessing coming on the fully consecrated one, and than acceptable service. The law with respect to the Nazarite, and his separation from all that would hinder communion with God, speak to us of full consecration. Then comes the familiar blessing at the close of chapter vi., given in threefold form, as if setting forth the work of the Father, the Son, and the Spirit. Then, when the name of God is thus upon the people, we read of their gifts to Him for his worship and service. So the believer must first fully yield himself up to God that His blessing may be received, and then dispensed to others.

During the evening earnest prayer was made on behalf of Miss Lowe, who is in hospital, undergoing treatment for her eyes; and for the Queen of Sweden, who has lately been sick.

CHELTENHAM.—Dr. Grattan Guinness has held a five days' mission conducted here in connection with the Y.M.C.A. With great power he has borne witness to the truth, which God has blessed in the conversion of sinners and the quickening of believers.

MIDNIGHT MEETING MOVEMENT.

A conference and public meeting in connection with this important movement were held on Monday last, at Exeter Hall. The Conference, which was held in the afternoon, was presided over by Mr. R. C. Morgan. A paper having been read by Mr. R. B. Williams, there was a useful discussion on work and methods. The annual meeting in the evening was presided over by Mr. George Williams. The report was read by Mr. J. H. L. Christien, organising superintendent. It stated that 111 meetings had been held, attended by over 5000 women, and the result had been the rescue and ultimate reformation of a great number. The total income was only £1066, the expenditure having been kept slightly below that sum.

Mr. Christien referred particularly to efforts to reclaim the foreign women of London, and called attention to the fact that there is no Home in England for such women. It is hoped, however, that German workers will soon provide a Home for girls of their nationality, and that French ladies will follow in the effort.

Addresses full of sympathy with the movement were delivered by Revs. W. H. Barlow, G. W. McCree, J. Jackson, Newman Hall, and Mr. G. W. Thomas. There was also some profitable conversation on rescue work.

◆

DR. GUINNESS in LIVERPOOL.

Dr. Guinness commenced a fortnight's evangelistic mission in Liverpool on April 14, held in the hall of the Y.M.C.A., Mount Pleasant, excepting four appointments (two Saturday and two Sunday evenings) in Hengler's Circus. The meetings have been crowded from the first, and there is a decidedly growing interest. Many persons not being able to obtain seats, it has been decided during the closing days of the mission to admit by special tickets to reserved seats young men who, as yet, have not made profession of faith in Jesus Christ. Two addresses on the Saturday evenings were given as medical lectures to men only, the place being packed. In connection with these lectures a healthy public opinion is aimed at, and the Gospel is faithfully proclaimed. At the first meeting hundreds of stout-hearted men stood to their feet, signifying thereby their desire to accept Christ as their Saviour, and hitherto there has not been a meeting without very evident signs of God's presence and blessing.

Mrs. Grattan Guinness, sen., also has given deeply interesting lectures each afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. hall this week, except Saturday, on current events in the light of prophecy; about 500 or more persons were present on each occasion. Mrs. Guinness will continue these Bible lectures for a few more days, having special reference to missionary work. The mission is certainly stirring the hearts of Liverpolitans; it will probably close on the 26th inst. Dr. Guinness conducted the noon meeting for prayer each day during the past week. The mission was preceded by much prayer, both at the Y.M.C.A., and by friends at a distance. Thomas Jameson, Sec.

Liverpool, April 21.

HOPE, NORTH WALES.—A successful nine days' mission has been held at Cymmau Iron Church. Powerful addresses were delivered by Captain Howell, C.A. (Buckley), who conducted the mission. Although he had a very hard class of people to deal with, a number decided to accept Jesus as their Saviour. R. R.

CALLANDER.—Gospel meetings have been held here during the last three weeks, under the auspices of the local Y.M.C.A., by Mr. D. M. Pittendrigh. Several young people have professed conversion. Young men were specially aimed at, but the audiences have mainly consisted of young women, and the conversions, so far as known, with one exception, have been entirely among the latter class. Numerous impressions were made, but difficulty was experienced in bringing those impressed to decision. Christians have been greatly stirred up, especially the younger members of the Y.M.C.A.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

Rev. E. P. Hammond has been holding services at San Francisco with many signs of blessing.

"A Jubilee Mission" has been held at Rev. E. A. Stuart's Church, St. James's, Holloway, by Rev. Canon McCormick. Meetings in the mornings for Christians, in the afternoons for women, servants, and children, and in the evenings for general audiences, were characterised by manifestations of Divine power amongst young and old.

Cambridge.—Rev. A. E. Barnes-Lawrence, of Liverpool, has recently conducted a special mission to young townsmen here with very good results. The evening meetings were crowded with young men, brought in by the active and loving agency of the workers, and from the first the presence and blessing of the Holy Spirit were manifest.

Rev. W. Braimbridge, who has had considerable experience in conducting missions, and whose labour has been attended with great blessing, having now given up a fixed pastorate, is free for evangelistic work, either in connection with Congregational churches or in other spheres. Mr. Braimbridge has been especially used in bringing the halting to decision. His present address is 47, Cecile-park, Crouch-end, N.

Malta.—Sir,—We have just had a three-weeks' visit from Miss Herdman, who has been giving special addresses at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Homes, and in various parts of this garrison. The meetings have been crowded and hearty. God has sent instruction and encouragement to his people by the lips of his devoted servant, and about thirty soldiers and sailors have professed conversion.—I am, yours, &c., J. Laverack, Wesleyan Min.

Mr. Henry Thorne.—This evangelist has held a most successful mission at the Bristol Y.M.C.A. He spoke with great power, and was used of God in bringing many to Christ. Backsliders also were brought back to the fold. Since the new general secretary, Mr. F. J. Rayner, came to Bristol, a considerable impetus has been given to the evangelist work of the Association, and Mr. Thorne's mission has greatly helped in this direction. T. S.

Mr. George C. Needham has closed a series of special services at Hope Church, Springfield, Mass. They have been of unusual interest and profit. The Bible lectures and preaching have stimulated Bible study, and many have been converted. The work among the young people has been especially marked, and it is expected that many who are now very thoughtful will come out on the Lord's side during the next few weeks. Mr. Needham is now at work in Boston with Dr. A. J. Gordon.

The Hon. Granville Waldegrave is conducting evangelistic meetings in Tain, N.B. They are held in the Free Church, and are very largely attended. Believers have been much refreshed, and much anxiety and concern aroused amongst those who are still without. The preacher has won, in a high degree, the sympathies and co-operation of Christians, and the people hear him gladly. Several cases of conversion have occurred, and a great blessing is expected. The meeting on the evening of Sunday week was attended by 1200 people, many of whom seemed deeply impressed. J. M.

Woodford. — An eight-days' mission, conducted in the Raylodge-road Congregational Church, by the pastor, Rev. George H. Giddins, has been brought to a successful termination, nearly forty persons having professed to receive definite blessing. Mr. Giddins, who has received the heartiest sympathy of all the ministers of every denomination in the neighbourhood during the two years of his ministry here, was ably seconded by the valuable co-operation of Revs. E. T. Egg, W. E. Anderton, G. Atchison, and the large-hearted Vicar of Woodford Bridge, Rev. C. B. Valler, M.A.

Great Thurlow, Suffolk.—Two years ago the Congregational County Union obtained the services of Mr. Barker, colporteur, through the Metropolitan Colportage Association. In addition to the colportage work, Mr. Barker conducts services every Sunday, and sometimes in the week, at the Congregational Chapel. In the last four months showers of blessing have come upon the congregation. The Sunday-school has increased fourfold; the congregations have doubled in size; many have been renewed in heart and life,—some of these were notorious for evil,—while the few Christians remaining have been greatly revived. Great joy prevails, and the outlook is most cheering.

British-Indian Government in agreement with Hell.

Infidel Government in India.

When, as recorded in Ezekiel viii., the Lord had shown the prophet great iniquities, He said: "But turn thee yet again, and thou shalt see greater abominations."

That has been my experience while investigating the iniquitous and God-defying system of licensed sin in India. The farther I have proceeded, the more awful have been the facts which the Lord has brought to my knowledge. I say advisedly that the Lord has brought these facts to my knowledge, for secret official papers have fallen into my hands in a manner that has been truly miraculous; illustrating how easily, in his own time, for purposes of judgment, God can bring to light the hidden things of darkness. While the administrators of this crowning sin against God in the midst of a heathen population, numbering one-sixth of the human race, have been saying in effect (Ezek. viii. 12), "The Lord seeth us not; the Lord hath forsaken the earth," He who yet sitteth upon the throne of the heavens and executeth righteousness and judgment for all that are oppressed, has said again and again to me, when I thought I had fathomed the deepest depths, "Turn thee yet again, and thou shalt see greater abominations that they do."

In reply to a question in the House of Commons in regard to statements in my letter to the Christian press of Great Britain, written at Umballa, India, Sir J. Gorst, Under Secretary of State for India, said (Times report, February 24): "The official information which is so far in possession of the Secretary of State is at variance with the statements upon which the question appears to be founded. The statements are contained in a report which has been published and circulated in this country, dated Umballa, January 14, 1888, and signed Alfred S. Dyer. The Secretary of State will send this document to the Government of India, and request a detailed report on the various allegations therein contained."

In order to place my statements beyond controversy, permit me to supply you, and through you the Christian public of Great Britain, with quotations from Indian official documents, which are not likely to see the light at the hands of the high official persons whom they so seriously compromise.

On June 17, 1886, a "Circular Memorandum" was addressed by Major-General E. F. Chapman, Quartermaster-General in India, to "General Officers commanding Divisions and Districts." It states in its second paragraph that it was written by order of General Sir Frederick Roberts, the Commander-in-Chief in India, who "desires me to give prominence to the following points, which appear to be specially deserving of consideration by the military and medical authorities in every command." Some of the points referred to are unfit for publication. As it is important, however, that the editors of the Christian press, upon whom God has imposed the responsibility of being his watchmen, should not be ignorant of the astounding degradation which exists in official circles in India, I enclose an appendix for editorial information only.

The ninth paragraph of the "Circular Memorandum" under consideration says: "In the regimental bazaars it is necessary to have a sufficient number of women; to take care that they are sufficiently attractive; and to provide them with proper houses."

The women here alluded to are to follow the calling of a harlot under Government licence. They are heathen women. But are they not among those for whom Christ died, and for whose salvation missionaries labour? Bodies and souls that might become the sanctuaries of the Holy Spirit are thus condemned by authority, in cold blood, to damnation, and the more imperiously so because these hapless victims of British cruelty are young and comely.

In furtherance of the instructions of the "Circular Memorandum" above quoted, the officer commanding the Cheshire Regiment at Solon caused the following application to be sent to the Cantonment Magistrate, Umballa:—

2nd CHESHIRE REGIMENT.

Requisition for extra attractive women for Regimental Bazaar (Soldiers'), in accordance with Cir. Memo. No. 21a, Office of the Qr.-Mr.-General in India, dated Simla, 17th June, 1886.

Station.	Strength of N.-C. Officers and Men.	No. of women present.	No. of extra women now required.	Remarks.
Solon 9 July 1886	400	6	6	These women's fares by ekkas* from Umballa to Solon will be paid by the Cheshire Regt. on arrival. Please send young and attractive women, as laid down in Qr.-Mr.-General's Cir. No. 21a, dated Simla, 17/6/86.

* Ekkas are one-horse conveyances.

In remitting to the Assistant Quartermaster-General, on August 6, 1886, a copy of the foregoing requisition, the officer commanding the Cheshire Regiment wrote: "Some of the women now with the headquarters of the 2nd Batt. Cheshire Regiment are not very attractive, and application has been made to the Cantonment Magistrate, Umballa, for others, but up to date none have arrived; therefore it is presumed a great difficulty exists in procuring the class of young women asked for."

The officer commanding the R. Battery, 2nd Brigade, Field Artillery, Jullunder, wrote on July 24, 1886: "There are not enough women, and they are not attractive. More and younger women are required, and their houses should be improved."

The officer commanding the Connaught Rangers, at Jullunder, wrote to the Assistant Quartermaster-General on July 9, 1886: "The Cantonment Magistrate has already, on more than one occasion, been requested to obtain a number of younger and more attractive women, but with little or no success—he will be again appealed to...The Cantonment Committee will be asked to improve the [harlots'] houses *... and as there is no lack of money in the Cantonment funds, much might be done to improve the outward status of this class of women... The Major-General commanding should invoke the aid of the Local Government by instructing the Cantonment Magistrates whom they appoint that they give all possible aid to commanding officers in procuring a sufficient number of young, attractive, and healthy women."

The officer commanding at Jutogh wrote to the Assistant Quarter-Master-General on July 28, 1886: "I have ordered the number of prostitutes to be increased to twelve, and have given special instructions as to the four additional women being young and of attractive appearance."

In two of the foregoing quotations, the respective commanding officers use words which indicate that young and attractive women are not so ready as the British authorities expect them to be, to devote themselves to ministering to the sins of British soldiers. Indian women, it seems, have views and preferences, crude though they may be, regarding the liberty of the subject, even under British rule, and their right over their own persons. But where the demands of European infamy are concerned, especially the demands of commissioned officers, Britain rules in India with a rod of iron. Subordinates receive their instructions, and are expected to carry them out. Let two witnesses describe what happened.

A medical officer, in a private communication, says that respectable girls are forced into lives of prostitution by the Government system of licensed sin. The poorer class of natives are in great awe of persons in authority. Officials go out into the villages and say it is the order of the Government that so many girls should go and be registered as prostitutes. The poor people are afraid to refuse or resist; their daughters are delivered up, and thus virtuous girls are consigned to lives of infamy, "drawn unto death" (Prov. xxiv. 11), enslaved under the British flag, and the rule of Queen Victoria; having practically, like the former slaves of the Southern States, according to the well-known axiom of the pro-slavery faction, "no rights which a white man is bound to respect."

The second witness on the modern British system of slave-hunting in India is also a gentleman in an exceptionally favourable position for knowing what goes on in the darkness of official action. Under date of February 20, 1888, he wrote to me from a large Indian military station: "I have seen letters from commanding officers, recommending that the dhai, or nurse, in charge of the bazaar [of licensed women] should be furnished with authority to visit the neighbouring villages, and procure young girls of attractive appearance and tender age, bring them into the station, and place them in the prostitutes' quarters for the use of the British soldiers; and the officers have further recommended that the dhai should receive a commission on every girl she might be able to induce to leave her native village and become a prostitute, and that the girl's earnings from the pursuit of the disgraceful life to which she was to be initiated, should also be taxed for a certain time, so that the dhai should be well paid, and find that it was to her pecuniary benefit constantly to bring young girls hitherto of pure life into the bazaar, for the sake of the commission to be paid to her for such disgraceful practices. In my opinion, the Government of India has a mighty load of sin to answer for, and the sooner such shameful doings are put a stop to, the sooner the natives will be able to profit by the example of the 'Christians.'"

There is another description of woman-hunt practised under the system of authorised sin. According to the standard set up by the British Government in India, prostitution itself is not sinful. It is only sinful in a woman when she is not licensed and certificated as fit for the market; and it is only sinful in a British soldier when he consorts with an unlicensed woman. Hence female spies and policemen, and sometimes other officials, are employed to detect women guilty of the crime of being immoral without a licence. Soldiers are also utilised for this purpose.

The annual report of the Government Brothel

---

*The omitted words cannot be quoted.

Hospital at Naushera, printed at the Government Press at Lahore, but not published, says, after alluding to the employment of two female spies at that place, that in May of last year "the police, being urged to greater exertions, arrested ten women; three of those escaped... Many more women, whose names were in the hands of the police, fled." The next paragraph in that report speaks of the arrest of twelve women in the earlier months of the year for "illicit prostitution."

In the unpublished report of the Mooltan Brothel Hospital (printed at the Government Press, Lahore), "G. H. Peevor, surgeon, 25th Punjab Infantry, in medical charge of Lock Hospital" (vide signature to the report), says that when a soldier is admitted into the Soldiers' Hospital with a certain disease, "the medical officer in charge asks him where he contracted it, and then sends me a report... As soon as possible afterwards I send for the woman. In a large majority of instances I have found the woman quite free from disease." Other reports show that especial pressure is put upon soldiers to point out unlicensed women; and a circular, issued by order of the Commander-in-Chief in India, dated November 26, 1883, says: "Soldiers who have been diseased by registered prostitutes have been frequently known to attribute it to women met in their walks outside the bazaar."

Such official admissions illustrate the dreadful facility that exists in this seething circle of corruption for false charges to be made against women by both soldiers and policemen, for reasons which are better understood than explained.

Thus, in one way and another, as the immediate and inevitable result of State licensed sin in India, poor but respectable women are drawn into the whirlpool of vice, and, like drowning persons throwing up their hands in helplessness and despair as they abandon hope, are sucked down to rise no more.

In quoting from unpublished and confidential official documents, my difficulty is to know where to stop. Perhaps the foregoing will be sufficient to establish the fact that British authority in India has made a covenant with death and an agreement with hell.

In the remainder of this letter it may be well to inquire whether the Government of India intends to continue in its course of rebellion against God, and shameless violation of his law, or whether there is a disposition to repent and arrest the judgment of Him who is no uninterested spectator of its deeds. In ancient times, in warning the children of Israel against sins of impurity, God said: "Ye shall therefore keep my statutes and my judgments, and shall not commit any of these abominations;...that the land spue not you out also, when ye defile it, as it spued out the nations that were before you." There is nothing in contemporary history more important to the churches of Great Britain than to know if the course of events in India is tending towards a time when God will cause its people to spue out British authority, because of its worse than heathen vileness. The Bombay Guardian, the principal Christian newspaper of Western India, faithfully says (March 17): "Our hands are tied. Our Master is crucified afresh. His holy religion is associated in the minds of thousands of the natives with a depth of graduated and degreed depravity inconceivable to heathen thought."

Two months after the Bill for the repeal of the State regulation of vice in certain military towns in Great Britain had received the royal assent, the Quarter-Master-General in India wrote by order of the Commander-in-Chief in India (vide Circular Memorandum, June 17, 1886) explaining to general officers that in the event of the machinery of licensed sin not being authorised, the system could be carried out "regimentally." This design to carry out this system by fraud, and to misappropriate public funds in arranging "for the effective inspection of prostitutes attached to regimental bazaars, whether in cantonments or on the line of march," and "the isolation of women found diseased, and their maintenance while under treatment," is on a moral level with the rest of the policy, of causing "convenient arrangements to exist in regimental bazaars" for British troops to violate the Seventh Commandment (vide tenth paragraph of Circular Memorandum in question).

That it is the design of the Government of India, as well as of the Commander-in-Chief, to retain the system of licensed sin, in fact—if compelled to abolish it in name through the action of the British public and Parliament, I have good reason to believe, from a conversation which I had at Calcutta on Feb. 25 with a member of the Viceroy's Council. To the Viceroy himself I was refused admission, on the ground, as Sir D. Mackenzie Wallace, his private secretary, wrote, that there were "grave doubts as to whether you could add anything to the information already possessed by him." The Commander-in-Chief is merely the mouthpiece of the Government, just as the Quarter-Master-General in India is the mouthpiece of the Commander-in-Chief.

God's standard of righteousness is not the standard of conventional respectability. Government is not an automaton. Someone is responsible when the blood of India's daughters cries unto God from the ground. "Not everyone that saith unto Me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven...Then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from Me, ye that WORK INIQUITY."

Yours in the cause of the perishing,
Bombay, March 30. Alfred S. Dyer.

SCOTLAND AND INDIA.

A SECOND series of public meetings has been held in Scotland with regard to the connivance at immorality by the Government in India and the Colonies. The towns selected for this series were Inverness, Perth, Greenock, and Hawick. Mrs. Richardson, of York, one of the veterans in the work, very kindly took the field, and spoke at all the meetings. She was assisted by local ministers and laymen, and by Revs. J. G. Cunningham and J. M. Sloan (Edinburgh), Mr. Jas. Balfour, W.S. (Edinburgh), Rev. G. S. Muir (Slateford), and John Dymock (Kemnay).

Considering the amount of ignorance that prevails, and the prejudice existing in many quarters, the meetings must be regarded as very successful and encouraging. The audiences were good—in some cases large, and always there was manifested the liveliest feeling, while the wickedness and horrors of the system of State-regulated vice were being displayed, and the dilatory and evasive policy of the India Office exposed. The platforms were filled by influential men of many denominations and professions. Resolutions were unanimously and cordially passed. It was agreed to send memorials to the Government, and petitions to Parliament, and local committees were appointed to look after the whole subject, and promote suitable action. Important communications, expressing strong sympathy with the movement, were read from Mrs. Josephine Butler, and various members of Parliament.

Mrs. Richardson held large, interested, and hearty meetings of ladies at Edinburgh, Inverness, Glasgow, Greenock, and Paisley, at all of which memorials and petitions were agreed to be sent up to Government and Parliament, and committees were formed for the carrying on of the work.

ITALIAN MILITARY CHURCH.—The fifteenth anniversary of the formation of this church in Rome was recently celebrated by a special service. Rev. H. Piggott preached, and the soldiers afterwards joined in the celebration of the Lord's Supper. A collection was made for the sick in the hospital, and Bibles were presented by the pastor, Sig. C. L. Capellini, to the new members. Telegrams and letters of congratulation were read from many at a distance.

FROM D. L. MOODY'S HOME.

WHILE Mr. Moody is doing valiant service in his Master's vineyard through the West during the winter months, his co-labourers and efficient lieutenants are jealously watching over the important educational institution which the evangelist founded at Mt. Hermon and Northfield a few years ago. The schools now have together fully 600 students, whose education and Christian development is progressing satisfactorily under the direction of an efficient and broad-minded corps of instructors, who join heartily and unselfishly with Mr. Moody and his work. To carry out this great work involves the expenditure of large sums of money, and the boundless faith of the evangelist has been an important factor in overcoming all difficulties and meeting promptly every emergency. Friends the world over are on the alert to lend a willing hand with a generous purse to assist in carrying on the work whenever occasion required. Only a short time ago, when it was learned that the school treasury was running low, Christian women of Pittsburg sent on a draft for 10,000 dols., while a New York friend added 5,000 dols.

While Mr. Moody has been away a few of his friends have combined in a new departure, which will be much appreciated by the thousands of people who annually pilgrimage to this delightful spot to attend the summer Bible school, the convocation, or visit the scholars. There has been a marked lack of hotel facilities, the only hotel in the town, a well-managed country hostelry, being in the village two miles from the schools; so strangers and friends have been packed away during the summer gatherings, while the girls are home on their vacations, in the school buildings. A few friends of the evangelist therefore originated the idea of having a hotel of their own, where friends and strangers could be cared for and entertained during a long or short stay. This idea is being practically carried out and the hotel is rapidly approaching completion and is to be ready for occupancy early in the summer. It will cost complete, with the furnishings, about 60,000 dols., and will be one of the finest structures of its class in this part of the country. The design of the owners is to give to tourists a summer home especially helpful morally and physically, with ample facilities for recreation and enjoyment in this most charming of rural towns.

While the hotel is to be built in a certain sense in the interest of Mr. Moody and his work, he is in no way connected with it, either in its construction or management. It is owned by a corporation organised at Boston some months ago. The site selected is on the new street running parallel with Main, and commanding a landscape which is unsurpassed by any in the village, so noted for beautiful scenery. Before you is the luxuriant valley, with its rim of southern hills in the far distance; on the east are the wild forest of the Northfield hills; Mt. Hermon, with its massive buildings, across the placid Connecticut, and backed by a mountain scenery, is in full view, while the mountains of New Hampshire and Vermont at the north are a continual delight to the eye.—Record of Christian Work.

Change of Address.—Mr. James Townley, late of Wood Green, wishes friends to know that his present address is 12, Osbaldeston-road, Stoke Newington, London, N.

Rebecca Jarrett.—Dear Sir,—I observe in a paragraph which you have kindly put in your paper about Rebecca Jarrett, that you speak of her having been in want, as well as in other ways tried. This word would convey a wrong impression, for the friends for whom she has worked would never allow her to be in want of any necessary, although, of course, she has not received any salary. I do not know whether any expression I have used in writing to you may have caused this little mistake; if so, I am sorry. I only meant to express that she is poor, and quite without resources, and on this ground I was thankful to see an appeal made by you for help for her to start a little rescue home of her own.—Yours faithfully, Josephine E. Butler.
9, The Close, Winchester.

NOW READY.

By the REV. J. A. WYLIE, LL.D.,

Author of "The History of Protestantism;" "The Papacy: its History, Dogmas, Genius, and Prospects," &c., &c.

WHICH SOVEREIGN: QUEEN VICTORIA, or THE POPE?

ABRIDGED EDITION of 100,000 Copies. Price Threepence, or 2s. 8d. per Dozen.

Special Terms for Large Quantities, for Distribution, on Application.

This telling Treatise by the veteran Protestant writer, Dr. Wylie, could not have appeared more opportunely than in the present year (1888)—when we are about to commemorate the TER-CENTENARY, or the three-hundredth Anniversary, of the defeat of the attempted Invasion of our country by the Spanish Armada; and the BI-CENTENARY, or two-hundredth Anniversary, of the Accession in 1688 of the Protestant dynasty to the throne of the United Kingdom.

"Than Dr. Wylie there is not in the three kingdoms a more tried or learned apologist for the Protestant faith. Since the publication of his work, 'The Papacy,' he is ranked facile princeps as an expositor of the Popish question and controversy.

"The abridged edition is a handy little volume of 110 pages, neatly got up, and full of an admirably, clear and complete digest of the claims, pretensions, and subtile workings of Popery. It is meant for, and is well-suited for wide-spread circulation."
Hawick Advertiser.

"It is an undeniable fact that the stern opposition to Rome which animated our Protestant forefathers has given place to an easy indifference at the alarming progress of the Catholic Church. The greatest danger undoubtedly exists in the Church of England herself, and if she is to remain a Protestant Church she must very soon set about reforming herself on the principles of the Reformation. We commend this little work to all interest in the subject." — Stroud News and Gloucestershire Advertiser.

"This is an abridged edition, at a cheap price, of a very important work, which ought to, and does appeal to all sound Protestants to hold by the faith handed down to them by their fathers, and to combat against the pretensions and corruptions of the Papacy. The subject is treated in an able, thorough, and independent manner, with a spirit of investigation and a love of truth which is inestimable."—Jarrow Express.

"The question here discussed is old, but ever new, and it is argued with all the author's well-known ability. There can be no manner of doubt, as the author remarks truly, that the wisdom of the 'Revolution Settlement' is attested by the instant leap taken upwards by our country. Long may such a state of matters continue, and long may men like Dr. Wylie stand on the watch-towers and 'tell of danger nigh,' so that we may be prepared for all emergencies. The getting up of the book is admirable, and reflects high credit on the enterprising firm by whom it is published."
Leeds Times.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

ALSO BY REV. J. A. WYLIE, LL.D.

THE SPANISH ARMADA: 1588.

Being an Account of the Events preceding, and a concise Narrative of the Defeat of the Spanish Armada.

Reprinted from the Author's "History of Protestantism," by permission of Messrs. Cassell & Co.

32 pages, Demy 8vo. Price 1d.

This will be found a most interesting, striking, and accurate narrative of the attempted invasion of England in 1588.

THE REVOLUTION of 1688.

A Retrospect
From John Wycliffe to William of Orange.

Being an Historical Account of the events preceding the Revolution — events so strikingly paralleled by the state of England at the present time.

32 pages Demy 8vo. Price 1d.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

A BOOK FOR YOUNG MEN.

JAMES SCOTT: A Labourer for God.

By REV. ANDREW A. BONAR, D.D.,

Author of "Memoir of Rev. R. M. McCheyne," "A Commentary on Leviticus," &c., &c.

With PORTRAIT and two other ILLUSTRATIONS.

In Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.

CONTENTS.

A CENTURY OF REVIVAL WORK IN GLASGOW.
HOW A SPECIAL INSTRUMENT WAS PREPARED.
THE LABOURER IN THE MIDST OF HIS WORK.
THE WORK GOING ON.
THE LABOURER CALLED ASIDE.
THE LABOURER IN THE SUNSET OF HIS SHORT DAY.
APPENDIX.

"From Messrs. Morgan & Scott we have a touching tribute to one who filled up a short life with bright and blessed service. The volume is entitled, 'JAMES SCOTT, a Labourer for God,' and is from the loving pen of Dr. Andrew Bonar. Mr. Scott was converted through the instrumentality of a devoted 'elder,' Mr. John Muir, of Glasgow, who visited him as a 'seat-holder,' and unfolded to him the way of life. A rich encouragement this to the 'elders of the church' to use their office well! Who shall tell how many James Scotts are just ripe for such influence as theirs?"
British Messenger.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS;
EDINBURGH AND GLASGOW: J. MENZIES & CO.; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

NEW SHIRTS FOR OLD ONES.
Old Shirts Refitted with Irish Linen Fronts and Cuffs.
Good quality, 2/6 each. Specially fine Linen, 3/- each.
Shirts made to Pattern or Order.
GEORGE O'BRIEN & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS, BELFAST.

NEAVE'S
FOR INFANTS,
INVALIDS,
AND THE AGED.
FOOD.

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS.

COMPILED AND SUNG BY

IRA D. SANKEY.

Nos. 1 and 2 Combined, containing 441 Pieces.

MUSIC AND WORDS.

OLD NOTATION.

Large 8vo. Size 8¾×5⅝.

1 F.	Tinted Covers ...	2	6
2 F.	Limp Cloth	3	6
3 F.	Cloth Boards	4	6
4 F.	Cloth Boards, gilt edges	5	0
5 F.	Morocco, gilt edges ...	8	6
6 F.	Morocco, flexible, kid-lined, gilt edges ...	12	6
7 F.	Seal yapped, kid-lined, silk sewn	21	0

This is the original Musical Edition, which has been so much used, both for singing and playing from.

OLD NOTATION: CHEAP EDITION.

Small 8vo. Size 7⅜×4¾.

1 H.	Tinted Covers ...	1	6
2 H.	Limp Cloth	2	0
3 H.	Cloth Boards... ...	2	6
4 H.	Morocco, gilt edges ...	5	6
5 H.	Morocco, flexible, kid-lined, gilt edges ...	8	6

This "Small Octavo" Musical Edition is very convenient for singing from. It has the advantage of being both cheap and portable.

TONIC SOL-FA.

Large 8vo. Size 8⅜×5⅝.

1 G.	Tinted Covers ...	2	6
2 G.	Limp Cloth	3	6
3 G.	Cloth Boards	4	6
4 G.	Cloth Boards, gilt edges	5	0
5 G.	Morocco, gilt edges ...	8	6

This is the original Sol-fa Edition, which has been largely used both for singing and playing from.

TONIC SOL-FA: CHEAP EDITION.

Small 8vo. Size 7⅜×4¾.

1 R.	Tinted Covers ...	1	6
2 R.	Limp Cloth	2	0
3 R.	Cloth Boards	2	6

This small Sol-fa Edition has recently been issued, and will be found very convenient for singing from. It is portable and cheap.

LARGE QUARTO (Old Notation).

Size 11×8½. Thickness 1½ inch.

Handsomely Bound in Cloth Extra, bevelled boards, gilt edges	16	6
Morocco, gilt edges	30	0

This is a very handsome Edition. Both Words and Music are printed in large type, and all the pages have rules round them. The Volume is specially intended for use at the Organ, Harmonium, or Piano. Being attractively got up, this Edition forms a very acceptable present.

SMALL QUARTO (Old Notation).

A NEW AND CHEAP EDITION.

Size 9½×7¼. Thickness ¾ inch.

Cloth Back, paper sides ...	5	0
Cloth Boards	6	0

This is a new and cheap Edition in QUARTO size. It is very convenient for playing from, and has been much approved.

SCHOOL EDITION. In Old Notation, or Tonic Sol-fa.

Size 6×3⅞.

Tinted Covers...	0	4
Printed Cloth	0	6
Cloth Limp	0	9
Cloth Boards	1	0

This Edition contains all the Words, also the Complete Air of each piece. It is specially adapted for use in Schools.

WORDS ONLY.

CHEAPEST EDITION (A).

Size 4⅜×3¼.

1 A.	Sewed	0	1
1½ A.	Paste-down Covers ...	0	1½
2 A.	Printed Cloth ...	0	2
3 A.	Cloth Boards	0	4

In this Edition the complete Book of 441 Hymns is to be had for ONE PENNY. The type, though small, is very clear and legible. In cases in which large quantities are required—as, for example, Sunday Schools or Missions—this is the most suitable Edition.

NONPAREIL EDITION (B).

Size 5⅜×4¼.

1 B.	Tinted Covers ...	0	3
2 B.	Printed Cloth ...	0	4

The type in this Edition is a size larger than that in Edition A.; and consequently this book is in many instances preferred.

POCKET EDITION (C).

Size 4⅝×3.

1 C.	Limp Cloth	0	6
2 C.	Cloth Boards	1	0
3 C.	Morocco, gilt edges ...	2	6
4 C.	Morocco, flexible, kid-lined...	4	6

This Edition, as its name implies, is very handy and portable: it affords a clear type in a small-sized Book.

SMALL 8vo. EDITION (D).

Size 6⅜×4.

1 D.	Tinted Covers ...	1	0
2 D.	Cloth Limp	1	6
3 D.	Cloth Boards... ...	2	0
4 D.	Morocco, gilt edges ...	4	6

The Four Books above-named have rules round every page.

SPECIAL CHEAP EDITION (Reduced Size).

Size 5⅜×3⅝.

7 D.	Blocked Cloth ...	0	9

This Book is printed in the same Type as the four D. Editions mentioned above; but, being printed without rules to the pages, the book is of course of smaller size.

EXTRA LARGE TYPE (E).

Size 6⅝×5.

1 E.	Tinted Covers ...	1	6
2 E.	Limp Cloth	2	0
3 E.	Cloth Boards	2	6
4 E.	Morocco, gilt edges ...	5	6
5 E.	Morocco, flexible, kid-lined...	8	6

These five sorts have rules round every page.

SPECIAL CHEAP EDITION (Reduced Size).

Size 6×4¼.

7 E.	Tinted Covers ...	1	0
8 E.	Blocked Cloth ...	1	6
9 E.	Morocco, gilt edges ...	4	6
10 E.	Morocco, flexible, kid-lined...	6	6

All these ten sorts are in good large print, and are very suitable for the aged and for any whose sight is not good.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller or Musicseller in the Kingdom.

The Church Choralist

IS A WELL-PRINTED SERIES OF

ANTHEMS AND SERVICES

Of which one hundred numbers are now ready, price from 1½d. to 4d., according to the length of the piece. Published also in Tonic Sol-fa.

J. CURWEN & SONS, 8 and 9, Warwick Lane, E.C.

TEETH.—Messrs. PAGET

(SURGEON-DENTISTS),

445, STRAND

(Opposite Charing Cross Station).

MESSRS. PAGET, the Old-established Surgeon-Dentists (English and American), supply their celebrated ARTIFICIAL TEETH, without pain, in one visit. Fixed either with or without plates or palates, by atmospheric pressure. Mastication, articulation, life-like appearance guaranteed.

A Tooth, 5s. Sets, 50s. Stoppings, 2s. 6d. Pamphlet (illustrated) sent gratis and post free.

Dr. Paget attends personally daily from 10 till 5. Consultations Free.

445, STRAND (opposite Charing Cross Station), LONDON.
Established over 50 years.

FIVE GOLD MEDALS AWARDED.

Goddard's Plate Powder

NON-MERCURIAL.

FOR NEARLY HALF A CENTURY this Powder has sustained an unrivalled reputation throughout the United Kingdom and Colonies as the BEST and SAFEST Article for Cleaning Silver and Electro Plate. Sold in Boxes 1s., 2s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. each, by Grocers, Chemists, Ironmongers, &c.

SAML. PEACH & SONS
NOTTINGHAM
LACE CURTAINS

Direct from the Looms at Manufacturer's Prices.

Extraordinary Value. Lot No. 121,

21/ POPULAR PARCEL 21/

Sent Carriage Paid for

Containing one pair of magnificent Drawing-room Curtains, 4 yds. long, and nearly 2 wide, taped edges. One pair handsome Dining-room Curtains, 3½ yds. long, ornamental design, taped edges. One pair Sitting-room Curtains, 3 yds. long, effective floral pattern. One pair pretty Bed-room Curtains. One large-sized Antimacassar. One Lace Cover for fancy table. Twelve yds. Trimming Lace. Two Lace D'Oyleys. The Curtains can be had in either White or Ecru.

A Black Spanish Silk Lace FICHU given away to every Purchaser of the above parcel.

"The quality and design of these Special Parcels are excellent, and are the best value ever offered."

MONEY RETURNED IF NOT APPROVED.

P.O.O.'s and Cheques made payable to SAMUEL PEACH & SON, CASTLE GATE, NOTTINGHAM. NEW PRICE LIST POST FREE.

A WONDERFUL PICTURE—MUNKACSY'S GREAT PAINTING.

"CHRIST Before PILATE."

A GRAND, MAGNIFICENT SUCCESS IN ART.

"CHRIST Before Pilate" is pronounced by all who have seen it to be one of the most notable pictures ever painted, being a masterpiece, wonderful as a work of art, and altogether beyond the power of language to describe. Dense crowds, numbering in the aggregate millions of people, have thronged to see it, at a charge of 1s. in in all the principal cities of Europe and America. It, in fact, created more sensation through the entire world than any other work of art, and was recently sold to Mr. J. Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, for TWENTY-FOUR THOUSAND POUNDS.

The Artist has chosen the moment when Pilate, confronted with the accusers of Christ, who have brought Him bound to the tribunal, is unable to convince Himself of the Prisoner's guilt. The scene is beautifully composed. Pilate is represented as seated on a raised daïs, clothed in white. On either side of the Roman Governor are the various Judges, Pharisees, and Scribes, and at his right is the High Priest—a superb type of the haughty, imperious class. He is denouncing the Saviour's pretentious claims, and proclaiming His guilt as usurper and false prophet with gestures of imposing yet violent enforcement. In the centre of the picture stands the Christ, facing with calm, unmoved expression both His accuser and His Roman Judge. Crowding about Him, pushing Him, brutally staring and sneering, are the jeering, mocking populace, that Jewish people who are crying aloud that His blood may be upon their heads. The most conspicuous figure among the multitude is a coarse, cruel-faced man of the people, who, with brawny, uplifted arms and wide-open mouth, is in the act of crying: "Crucify Him! Crucify Him!" In the foreground stands the warrior-like figure of a Roman soldier, pressing back the eager crowd with his long spear-headed lance. All these forty figures are crowding the outer halls of a vast building whose grand architectural construction forms a superb frame to this noble scene.

The skill and delicacy with which this picture has been executed is wonderful, the salient features of face and form, and the varied expressions of hate, fear, curiosity, compassion, and reverence, animating the countenances of those assembled are shown with a startling fidelity that beggars description. Munkacsy, while preserving a thoroughly reverential tone, treated Christ and those about Him in a style of unflinching realism such as the world has not been accustomed to in the painting of a religious subject.

This wonderful painting, executed by Munkacsy, valued at over Twenty Thousand Pounds, and for three years the talk of both Continents, has been faithfully reproduced on heavy plate paper (22 by 28 inches) by the marvellous photo-etching process, in which the subdued tones and beautiful life-like effects produced by the original painting are admirably preserved. As the original is instinct with life and inspiration in the highest sense, so is our reproduction, and is beautiful as a work of art aside from its being so celebrated a picture.

READ WHAT THE PULPIT AND PRESS SAY.

Rev. J. De Witt Talmage, D.D.—"It is wonderful as a work of art, and is worth a thousand sermons."

Rev. Henry J. Van Dyke, D.D.—"It is potent, intense, throbbing with life."

Rev. J. S. Chadwick, D.D.—"'Christ before Pilate' is beyond the power of language to describe."

Rev. C. F. Deems, D.D.—"The face of Christ is a stroke of genius."

Rev. W. R. Huntington, D.D.—"It is one of the finest works of modern art."

Dr. L. J. Graves.—"The picture came safe and perfect. My daughter, who is a judge of etchings, says it is the finest thing she has ever seen."

"No single picture has created such a sensation."—Leeds Mercury.

"We feel that we are in the presence of a matchless work."
Paris Journal.

"The figures stand out in marvellous relief, and you could almost fancy they were instinct with life and emotion."—New York Herald.

"The most forcible and imposing of modern pictures."—The World

"The sight of this masterpiece has edified more than any sermon ever did: it will accomplish more than a thousand preachers in impressing us with the greatness of the Saviour's mission."
London Journal.

"One of the masterpieces of modern art."
Nonconformist and Independent.

"All the figures are so distinctly seen that you feel you could recognise them again if you met them anywhere, and a strange sense of reality comes upon you as you look at them, so that you forget they are only painted, and that you are not gazing on living and breathing men. . . . The pose of Christ is admirable. It is repose blended with dignity, self-possession, rising into majesty. There is no agitation, no fear, no misgiving. . . . It is not often that the painter becomes a preacher, but it will be long before I forget the sermon that Munkacsy preached to me."
New York Independent.

Who Would Neglect to Secure a Copy of so Valuable a Work of Art and so Celebrated a Picture?

We will send this exquisite photo-etching (size 22 by 28 inches) of Munkacsy's Great Painting, "Christ before Pilate," securely packed and post paid, on receipt of postal order value 3/6. "CHRIST ON CALVARY." A superb companion picture to "Christ Before Pilate," painted by the same artist, price 3/6, or the two pictures sent together for only 6/-.

R. L. FOOT & SON, 44, CAMDEN ROAD, LONDON, N.W.

SCRIPTURE TEXTS for Walls of Mission Rooms, Hospitals, &c. A List of these Large Type Texts, printed in blue ink, size 31 inches by 20 (70 different Texts, 3d. each), will be sent on application to the Publishers, Messrs. MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings.

"THE HERALD OF MERCY," published monthly at One Halfpenny. Specimen copy sent, post free, on application to the publishers, Messrs. MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings.

4/9 EACH. EXTRAORDINARY OFFER 4/9 EACH

10,000 CARPETS, 4/9 each

"FROM THE LOOM"

Guaranteed Genuine Bargains.

THE BRITISH CARPET-WEAVING COMPANY will forward Direct from their Looms, to any address, on receipt of Postal Order for 4s. 9d. or 59 stamps, one of their GENUINE WOVEN, REVERSIBLE TRIUMPH CARPETS, bordered and woven in colours, to suit dining-room, drawing-room, bedroom, &c., and large enough to cover any ordinary-sized room, as an advertisement for the introduction of their goods.

These Carpets are made of a material almost equal to wool, and, being a speciality of our own, they can only be obtained Direct from our Looms, thus saving the purchasers any middle profits. Send for sample, and if not satisfied MONEY WILL BE RETURNED IN FULL.

A RUG sent to match for 1s. 6d. extra, or TWO CARPETS and TWO RUGS for 10s. 6d. This extraordinary offer may not be repeated.

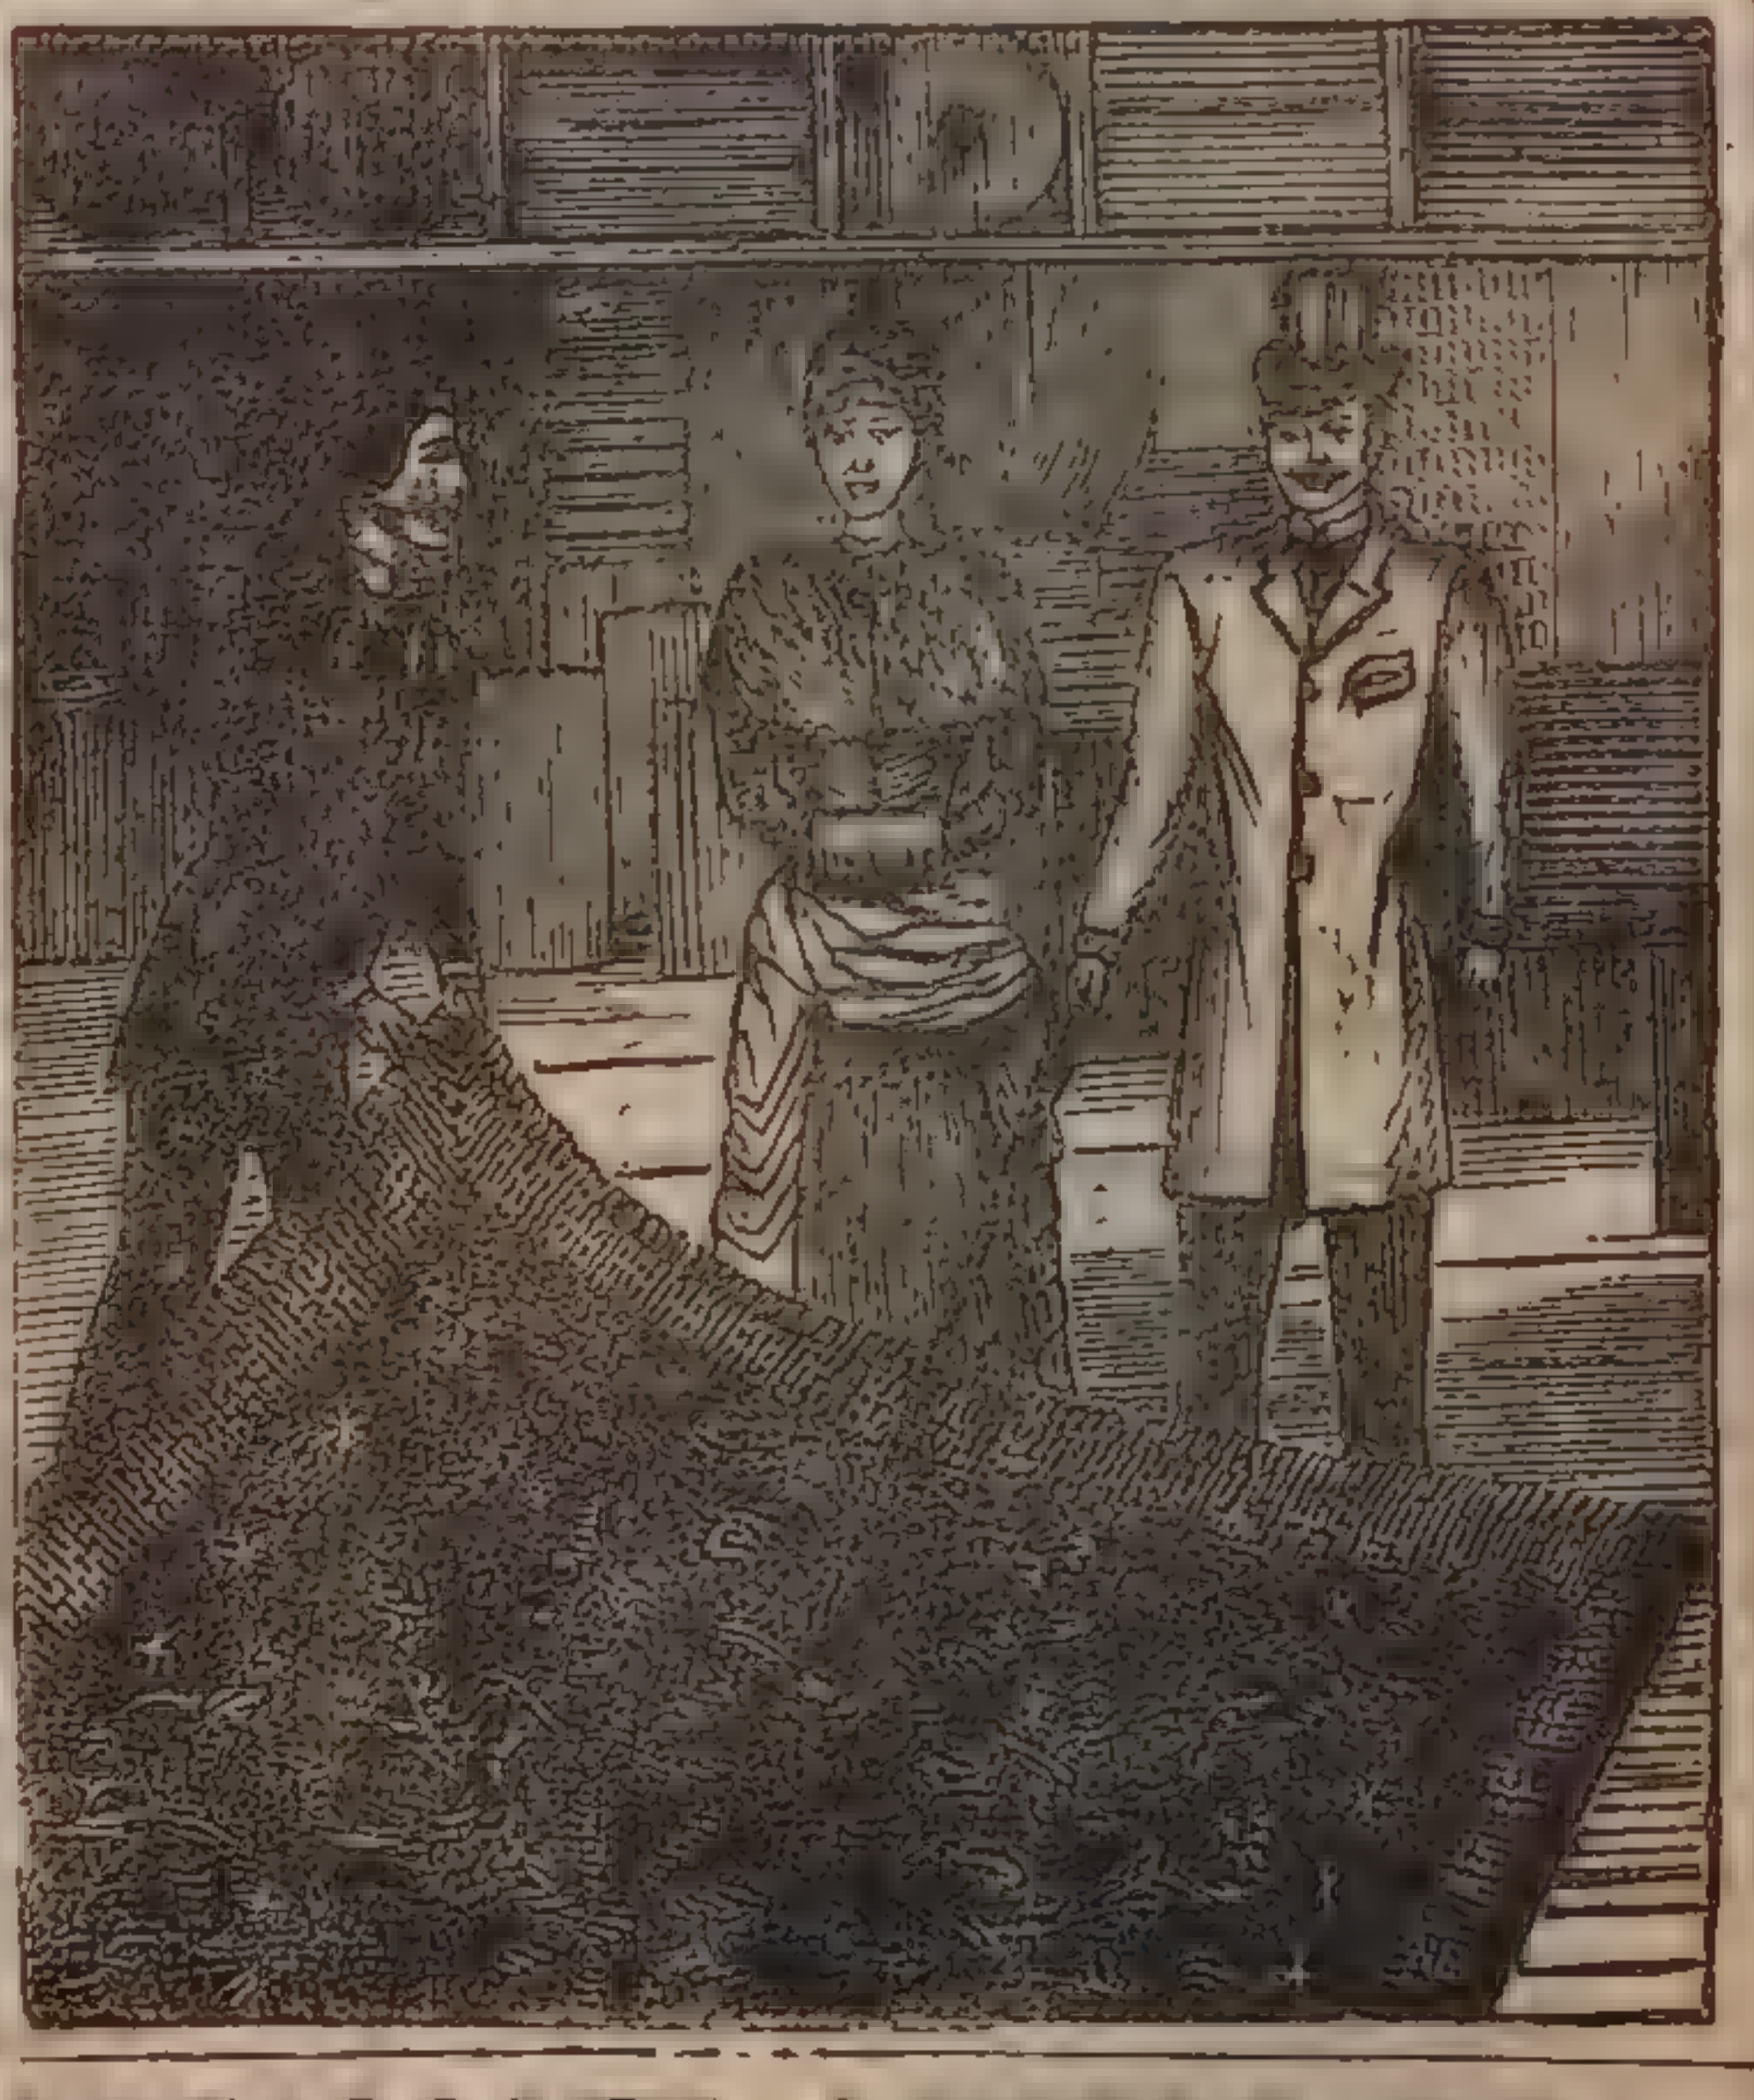
ALL ORDERS ARE EXECUTED SAME DAY AS RECEIVED.

The words "UNION BANK" should be written across all Postal Orders.

Thousands of Testimonials have been received showing what the Public think of these Carpets. Address—

"TO THE PURCHASER."



THE BRITISH CARPET-WEAVING COMPANY, 31, OLD STREET, ALDERSGATE, LONDON, E.C.

ENGLAND'S YOUNG WOMEN.

WORK AND CONFERENCE.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, last week, in Morley Halls, Regent-street, W., a large number of Christian ladies from all parts of England, and even from Scotland and Ireland, met in conference regarding the work of God amongst the young women of the British Isles. On the second day, the annual meeting of the London Y.W.C.A. was held at Exeter Hall. The entire proceedings were very helpful to Christian workers, and it is much to be hoped that great good will come of the many practical suggestions which were made by some of the earnest ladies present. The casual visitor could not fail to be struck with the anxious solicitude for the highest welfare of the young women evinced by all who took part in the Conference.

It mattered not whether the noble aims of the Association were being urged, or whether those methods of work which have proved specially efficient in some cases were being commended to others for adoption, a very high tone pervaded the discussions, and it could not but be felt that the meetings were spiritually profitable to many of the quiet workers assembled. Each day opened with a prayer-meeting, and at the close of each afternoon there was a devotional half hour, at which addresses were delivered by Revs. E. W. Moore and F. B. Meyer.

On Tuesday morning, the Marchioness of Ailsa in the chair, the requisites for successful work were set forth in addresses by Mrs. Gordon and Miss Hull, who spoke of spiritual fervour and intensity; and Mrs. Bannister, who spoke of consistency in daily life. Statements on work in the foreign mission field were made by Miss Cuttall, Miss Holland, and the Hon. Gertrude Kinnaird. In the afternoon, the subject was, "What shall we do for the Girls that Work?" Mrs. F. A. Bevan presided, and some very useful papers were read. Miss Skirrow, Miss L. Vansittart, and Miss Thompson described the work of the Factory Helpers Union, which has been attended by much good, and is full of promise for the future.

Employers usually do not hesitate now to grant permission to ladies to visit factories and laundries during the dinner hour, and the system of visitation which has been formed by the Union is capable of great development. Mrs. Walker and Miss Wingate also spoke of different classes of work, and Miss Beauchamp delivered an address on Bank Holidays, strongly advising Associations to remember that there are always some young women who are not invited to visit friends on those days, and for whose entertainment and comfort the Institutes should be kept open.

A BIRD'S-EYE VIEW OF THE Y.W.C.A.

Lady Forester presided over the Conference on Wednesday. The opening address was by Mrs. Stephen Menzies, who gave "a bird's-eye view" of the Y.W.C.A. It was eminently practical, setting forth with much clearness the origin, agencies, and aims of the Association. It was obvious that the main object of Mrs. Menzies was to enlist the help of any ladies who might be ready or waiting for a call to Christian activity.

The characteristics of the Association were first spoken of from the points of view of its spirituality, catholicity, comprehensiveness, and aggressiveness. The aim is nothing short of the salvation of the young women, without denominational zeal or partiality, and without regard to class or condition. During the past two or three years many classes have been reached who had previously been untouched by the efforts of the Association. For some time exertions were confined within somewhat narrow limits; but latterly, while the stakes of the movement have been strengthened, the cords had been greatly extended, and fresh suggestions for work are constantly being made and acted upon. Endeavours are made to band the young women in prayer unions; then there are Bible-classes. The prayer union members agree to call upon God every Saturday night on behalf of the work of the Association, so that all over the world, some time during that night, God is being besought to give his continued blessing. There are Conferences held in large centres once or twice a year; and among the many results must be included the fact that they are the means of disseminating a knowledge of the Association, for there are still many people who neither know its objects, nor properly estimate its methods. Some seem to be under the impression that it is an Association for Christian girls. The title does not describe the organisation as a Young Christian Women's Association, but rather, rightly, as a Young Women's Christian Association. It is an Association by Christian women, through Christian agencies, instrumentalities, and organisations, for young women of every class, and certainly not exclusively for those who profess love for Christ. Rather an endeavour is made to reach those who are still outside the Christian lifeboat, and are in peril of being lost.

Mrs. Menzies went on to say that the membership is twofold. There is a membership for those who are Christ's, and are allied with the prayer unions. That is the inner circle, the members of which agree to set apart a little time every Saturday evening for prayer. The outer, or general circle, includes young women of every class and grade, and efforts are made to bring them under the influence of the secretary and the praying members, in the hope that they will be led to Christ. The local secretary is, as it were, the mother of the branch. Then there is a referee for every county or district, and by her the several local secretaries are linked together. Again, the district or county referees are linked together by the general Council of the United Central Council, which meets twice a year in London. Besides that, there are local referees in towns where there are no associations. It is desired that the Association should have the name and address of some lady in every town who may be written to and informed that a member is about to take up residence near her.

Speaking in detail of the means and agencies employed by the Association, Mrs. Menzies said that while there are invariably Bible-classes in the larger towns, there are also Homes and Institutes. The Homes are places where young women in business can be safely and comfortably lodged at small cost; the Institutes are established in smaller places, and are used as Evening Homes, where young women may meet friends, write letters, and come under the influence of Christian workers. Again, there are Holiday Homes, affording accommodation for delicate girls during a short term of relaxation.

Having referred to the monthly letter, the home study, emigration, total abstinence and thrift departments, Mrs. Menzies spoke of the employment, sick aid, and convalescent agencies, and lastly of the important travellers' aid work. With a full command of facts and figures, she interested those who were intimate with the circumstances and development of the Association, as well as those who were comparative strangers to its history and objects.

Mrs. Wishard, of New York, gave an account of work among college girls in America, the story showing most encouragingly that great and good things may come of very small beginnings. The movement has excited renewed interest in mission work, and during the past two years over five hundred young women have expressed their intention to enter the foreign field.

In the afternoon the Countess of Harrowby occupied the chair, and addresses on "What shall we do for the girls who have leisure?" were delivered by Miss M. Gollock, Mrs. Theodore Howard, the Hon. Gertrude Kinnaird, and Miss Constance Maynard. Each and all emphasised the importance of the work among educated young women, and earnestly called upon Christian ladies, in faith and hope, to labour lovingly in their several spheres.

MEETING IN EXETER HALL.

Lord Kinnaird presided over the annual meeting of the London Association, held in Exeter Hall, on Wednesday evening. During the past year eighteen new branches were opened, and, with an increase of 1310 members, bringing up the total membership to 14,810, among whom a large amount of really spiritual work has been done, there was every reason why the proceedings should be pleasant, and in some measure partake of a congratulatory character. However, the meeting was pitched in a high key, the eternal welfare of the many young women who were in attendance being kept well to the front. It was, moreover, a successful meeting, and greatly enjoyed by the crowded audience.

The Chairman, in a few words, showed his great interest in the Association and its many agencies. Mr. W. T. Paton, honorary finance treasurer, made an encouraging statement, saying that since he had been connected with it, now many years, the Association had never made a retrograde step, but, by God's grace, it had continually advanced. He reported progress all along the line, and many developments in the direction of increased usefulness. Addresses were delivered by Revs. Marcus Rainsford, jun., and F. B. Meyer, the former speaking on the power of union, and the latter on the possibilities of a girl's life.

The full effects of these meetings cannot be fully recorded. Doubtless, they will in due course find inscription in the lives of those who were privileged to take part, and be crystalised in renewed efforts to bring the young women of our country under the influence of the Gospel. The good ladies who came to London with the special object of ascertaining in what, if any, respects they could improve on the methods they have hitherto employed, are now turning over in their minds the sum and substance of much friendly and very hallowed converse; and it is devoutly to be hoped that, being applied in the fear of God, by constraint of the love of Christ, and with the leadings of the Spirit of truth, the new means and measures will be productive of blessed and far-reaching results.

◆

THE TRAMPS' MISSION.

In a communication with respect to this effort, Lieut.-General Field, Heathdene, Blackheath, writes:—"The object of the Mission is to bring the Gospel to bear upon many thousands of destitute men and women who pass through the workhouses, and who hitherto have been sadly neglected. Boards of Guardians, Masters of Unions, and Chaplains have kindly responded to the appeals made for their co-operation by Miss Barnett, the founder of the Mission, and granted the necessary permission for the work to be carried on, and in many instances active help has been afforded. Sixty-one unions have been supplied with small libraries, and in forty-six the tramps now attend the regular religious services of the inmates. Large numbers of Scripture-cards, texts, tracts, &c., have been sent to the unions, and have been fixed to the walls of casual wards, so as to be seen by all.

"No paid agents are employed by the Mission, but gentlemen and several ladies visit the wards, speak to the tramps, and at twenty-nine unions Gospel addresses are regularly given, and greatly appreciated. The workhouse authorities speak of improved discipline and decorum among the tramps as results, and some of these poor people have been led to the Saviour, and found rest to their souls."

Miss Barnett, 2, Eldon-villas, Battledown, Cheltenham, will be glad to hear from friends who can help.

[?89]

FROM THE MISSION FIELD.

BRITISH SYRIAN SCHOOLS.

Mrs. Mentor Mott, writing recently from Beyrout, says:—"Yesterday I called upon S. J. (formerly a teacher in the Mission), who is married. Some of the windows of her house overlook part of the Moslem quarter. She was astonished to hear about a dozen children from six to ten years of age repeating texts of Scripture and singing hymns. This went on because one man, evidently the father of some of the little tribe, made them repeat certain texts and sing some hymns over and over again. S. said to her husband: 'Those children must go either to M. F.'s school, or to Engannon, for such teaching goes on only in our schools.' Her husband replied, 'No one can say what those schools have done in the country; sowing the seed in the hearts of these Moslem children is the greatest work that can be done!'

"To-day we are sending a blind Scripture-reader to Hasbeiya, where Miss B.'s work is greatly on the increase. Some time ago the Druze men begged her to give them meetings for Bible teaching. This she has done; about twenty-five are in attendance, and much interested. Lately she had a similar application from the Mohammedan men.

"Just now the Mission, which comprises twenty-nine schools, with over 3400 scholars, a staff of twenty-nine Bible-women and Scripure-readers, and which influences Druzes, Moslems, Jews, Greeks, Maronites, Roman Catholics, and other Christian sects, greatly needs help. Unless it is forthcoming, the closing of some schools is imminent."

Miss Poulton, 18, Homefield-road, Wimbledon, is honorary secretary.

PROTESTANTISM IN JAPAN.

According to the statistics for 1887, there are, at present, working in this Empire the representatives of twenty-four Missionary Societies. Seventeen belong to the United States, four to England, and one each to Canada, Scotland, and Switzerland. Japan has proved such an attractive and promising field of labour that the number of societies is greater than one would expect in view of the comparatively recent date at which the land was thrown open to Christian effort. Of course, the number of workers varies greatly. Three have but one man each; while one has forty-nine male and female workers, not including the wives of the missionaries. The sum total of foreign workers is 253.

Six missions have combined the results of their labours in the "United Church of Christ in Japan." This body includes all the Presbyterian and Reformed Churches, save the Cumberland Presbyterians. The Congregationalist Mission has decided to join this union, thus making it the most extensive of all the Protestant bodies in the Empire.

The total Protestant membership shows a gain of five thousand over the figures for 1886; a grand gain, and yet how painfully small when we consider the thirty-five millions still without the fold. These figures, however, by no means indicate the limit of Christian influence. Japan is being permeated with Christian truth, and we trust the time is not far distant when the Empire shall be thoroughly reached with the Gospel.

Christianity is not persecuted, and its most vigorous opponents, the Buddhist priests, use infidel arguments against it in their public lectures, trusting more to modern "free thought" and materialism than to the ancient Buddhist teachings for their weapons of offence against the new way that is putting their craft in danger.

The great need of the Church in Japan is a more intimate connection with the great Source of all strength, wisdom, and joy.

Hakodate, Japan. Gideon F. Draper.

VILLAGE WORK IN SOUTH ARCOT.

A native helper in the South Arcot Mission has written a detailed account of a recent tour conducted by Miss Reade among the villages in that district. He speaks of many evidences constantly met with of the ignorance and superstition of the people. There were abundant opportunities, however, of access to the people, and a great readiness to hear the word. Many interesting conversations were had with inquirers and objectors, and the Gospel seed was plentifully sown. The Gospel was preached in fairs and other public places, and the aid of the magic lantern was invoked in presenting the truth to the crowds. The tour appears to have been a very encouraging one on the whole, and revealed the fact that there are open doors for Christian effort in these remote parts of India.

Miss Reade is earnestly seeking a helper in her deeply interesting work—a lady with private means, and, if possible, one who is already acquainted with Indian life and languages. Miss Reade is building a new house, through the kindness of friends whose subscriptions can be received. Fuller particulars of the work may be obtained from Miss Hornbuckle, 3, Alexandra-villas, Brighton.

NEARING CHINA.

We extract the following from a letter written on board the ss. Deccan, nearing Hong Kong, by Miss Annie Sanderson, one of the party of missionaries who left England for China on January 26, in connection with the China Inland Mission:—

"We expect to be at Shanghai in about a week, and then there will be a general 'breaking up.' Ten or twenty times the number of our party could easily have been disposed of at the places where we called on our way. What is said about Mohammedanism in The Christian of January 26, has all passed through my mind when walking through towns and villages where followers of Mohammed abound. Then there are the Roman Catholics, and now the Chinese, of whom we see more at each port, and have many on board. They have a place adjoining our saloon partitioned off for them, and there most of their time is spent, some of it by many in smoking their favourite drug. . . .

"We had a very enjoyable time at Singapore; we did not go in for sight-seeing, but for getting some knowledge of what work for God is being done. We could not give at all the same account as Mr. Caine, M.P. He seems to have reported without seeing the variety of missionaries there engaged. We carried away very pleasant impressions as to their zeal and labours. . . . Do pray for Singapore, that God will send out more workers there, for they are very much needed. All the missionary work in the whole Malay Peninsula is practically what is done there—about a dozen 'live' labourers amongst 1,250,000 people. Singapore alone is estimated to have 172,000 inhabitants—of whom 100,000 are Chinese. Immense revenues are derived from licences for opium, spirits, and houses of iniquity. The condition of the people at places we have landed at makes one feel impressively that 'the harvest truly is great, and the labourers are few.'"

MR. H. G. HARRIS, B.A., of Y.M.C.A., Bolton, whose papers for the young have from time to time appeared in our columns, has written three leaflets for boys, entitled "What is your Life?" "Sowing and Reaping," and "The Winning Side." Price 2s. per 100.

BRITISH SEAMEN AT SPEZIA.—During the period that the English men-of-war the Colossus and the Edinburgh have been anchored in the Gulf of Spezia, British seamen have been found not only in goodly numbers at the English service at Casa Alberto, but have also formed part of the Bible-class weekly conducted by Rev. Edward Clarke, for the benefit of Italians. On Thursday, April 12, a special meeting of the class was held, when, in addition to excellent addresses by the Italian members of the class, some profitable words were spoken by godly British seamen, which were translated, to the great satisfaction of the Italians, into their own language by Mr. Clarke.

SPRING DELAYED, BUT SURE.

On finding the First Buttercups, April 13.

Though the promise tarry,
For the promise wait;
Undelayed, 'tis coming,
Sure, though seeming late.

Frost and bitter east wind
Long the Spring delay,
But they cannot hinder
Summer's longest day.

Rattling hail and snow-storm,
Ordered for the best,
Give to balmy Maytime
Brighter, warmer zest.

Clouds the night may lengthen,
But the day breaks through:
Gladness in the morning
Sings the promise true.

Though the road be dreary,
Though the way be long,
Every step brings nearer
Home and rest and song.

Though the promise tarry,
For the promise wait;
Undelayed, 'tis coming,
Sure, though seeming late.

Newman Hall.

MISSION TO LEPERS IN INDIA.

Mr. Wellesley C. Bailey, secretary to the Mission to Lepers in India, addressed a meeting at Mildmay a few days ago. His statement was full of painful interest.

There are in India 135,000 lepers—men, women, and children—victims of the most terrible disease known to humanity. The Society seeks to proclaim to them the blessed Gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ, and, as far as possible, to relieve their dreadful sufferings, and provide for their simple wants.

In some of the asylums headway is being made in educating the inmates and instructing them in the Christian faith. The distressing nature of the disease is, however, a hindrance to any attempt at learning. When eyes, hands, and mouth are all affected, it is hardly to be expected that such poor creatures should find any great amount of comfort in spelling over slowly and painfully the mysteries of the First and Second Reader. As a rule, they prefer to lie rolled up in their blankets in their little rooms, or to sit basking in the genial sun.

The Society endeavours to utilise as much as possible existing agencies, by assisting leper asylums already established, and providing missionaries with the means for carrying on Christian work in connection therewith. The Lord has greatly blessed the efforts of the Society in the conversion of souls, and it is contemplated largely to extend its operations, should the funds be provided. Mr. Bailey's address is 17, Glengyle-terrace, Edinburgh.

SPEZIA MISSION ORPHANAGE.—Shortly before the Empress of Germany left San Remo, she sent to Rev. Edward Clarke, of Spezia, informing him of the great pleasure it would give her if the Girls' Orphanaage under his direction were called after her own name. The Orphanage lately opened is affording much satisfaction to all friends of such institutions who have had the pleasure of inspecting it.

THEATRICAL MISSION INSTITUTE.—This place has been used during the past two months by 13,600 young persons of all nationalities. Very few excepting those in the theatrical profession can realise what a boon the Institute is. After the weary rehearsal, how glad the little ones are of the "Nest," as the children's room is called, and the elder members of the profession are thankful for the easy chairs, and the facilities for refreshment. The gymnasium is much appreciated, and the class-rooms and lectures of this Christian Mission are well attended. Two thousand pounds are required to complete the purchase of the Institute.

WORKERS IN COPENHAGEN.

The Court-yard Mission has in the past year been more active than ever. Several new workers have joined us, amongst whom is C. Ravens, who is giving all his time to the work. In the courts and yards 675 meetings have been held, and many tracts distributed. We commence by gathering the children from the streets and lanes, and singing a hymn or two with them. People from the streets are attracted by the singing, and come in to hear what is going on; others open the windows, and sometimes we have several hundreds gathered within a few minutes. A short address is given, and we finish with more singing. We occasionally meet with much opposition, but, as a rule, the scoffing and ridiculing grow less with each repeated visit, and we have seldom to leave a court on account of violence.

In Rosenborg Castel-garden we have held five meetings, which have been attended by a great many people. Some of the clergymen have spoken at these meetings. At the ramparts of Christianshoon fifteen meetings have been held. Rev. Lic. Fenger has, as usual, spoken to the audience with great power and in much love. On the commons ten meetings have been held, at which many have assembled, especially on Sunday evenings. In the courts of the caserns we have held 60 meetings for the soldiers, and on board the training-ships in the Royal dockyard 42 meetings. The public-houses are visited during the winter months, and the men are invited to our meetings in the Mission-rooms.

We have held 245 indoor meetings in different parts of the town, and the personal dealing has been specially blessed to the saving knowledge of many anxious inquirers. The hospitals have been visited regularly. On the emigrant ships have been distributed tracts, and personal testimony has been borne by many.

The Court-yard Mission has altogether held 1052 meetings, and 200,000 tracts have been distributed—not much in a town with 300,000 inhabitants, but we hope to do better by and by.

The Midnight Mission has in the past year held 400 night watches in the streets, and many men have been kept from entering the evil houses, which are permitted by Government law, and regulated by the police. In mission-rooms, next door to these houses, 410 meetings have been held, and 90,000 tracts have been distributed.

An address has been circulated in the country in order to have this fearful mistake of the Government put right, and has now been sent in to the Rigsdagen with 149,000 signatures, gathered in two months from men only. Another address, for the same purpose, from women, was also circulated, and has been sent in to the Government with 114,000 signatures.

We ask your readers to pray for us who are in the Master's service, that we may be kept faithful in tender-heartedness and lowliness of mind, and that Christ may have full access to our hearts. Vilhelm Wright.

17, Nyvej, Copenhagen.

BETHESDA TOWN MISSION, PORTSMOUTH.—With this agency is incorporated the Portsea Island Town Mission, which was founded in 1856. The objects include the visitation of the poor, the distribution of Scripture and Gospel tracts, mission services, free teas, and in other ways assisting the helpless and evangelising the neglected portions of the population. Commander B. H. Key, Downham, St. Edward's-road, Southsea, is superintendent of the Mission.

METROPOLITAN TABERNACLE BIBLE FLOWER MISSION.—During last year 17,528 bunches of flowers were distributed, and the distribution opened the way for many a kindly service, which might not otherwise have been rendered. Flowers will be gratefully received. Hampers should be sent in time to arrive in London for delivery by ten o'clock on Wednesday morning, addressed "The Secretary, Bible Flower Mission, Metropolitan Tabernacle, Newington Butts."

"A FEW NAMES" IN SARDINIA.

Dear Sir,—For more than twenty years past there has been a slow religious awakening in this island. Amongst the first who visited Cagliari and Sassari, bringing with them the Word of life, was the venerable and well-known Wm. Chapman. Several other earnest workers have at intervals followed, of whom some still are on the field, and their labour is acknowledged of the Lord by his sealing it with his blessing. Sards and Italians accepted the Gospel. Besides these converts there are not a few Swiss in Sardinia, who have been brought up in the Evangelical Church.

Two of our number were taken away from us by death this month, one from Sassari, the other from Ozieri; the one a young Swiss, the other a Sard. Both held their ground well unto the end, and both were buried by their evangelical friends, without the aid of priests. Funerals of this sort break down the false authority of the priests in the sight of the people more effectively and more widely than a great many sermons could do. I was called to officiate in the funeral of Mr. Grigiott, of Sassari. This was a remarkable opportunity given us, in which I was able to speak in the cemetery to about a thousand men. The service was very attentively listened to.

Ozieri, being a long distance from Sassari, no evangelist was present at the funeral of our brother there. A Sardinian paper gives an account of his death and interment. I quote a paragraph:—"On the 7th inst., Antonio Lai, a working man of Ozieri, was buried. The funeral procession was most numerous, and purely civic. It was quite a protest against the 'black sect,' which showed itself revengeful to the last degree, on account of a straightforward answer given by the departed to a rough and illiterate priest, who visited Lai to induce him to confess. He asked Lai whether he believed in God. The dying man said, 'Yes, I believe, and have always believed in God.' The Confessor quickly added, 'Very well, it means that you believe in the Church, which is his bride, and in us his servants.' The poor man with the little strength yet left in him, replied distinctly and firmly, 'No, you are no other than foxes, and the Church is your den.' The priest immediately informed the bishop, and Monsignore ordered that no priest should attend the funeral of such a heretic!" The article finishes by saying, "Oh, people of Ozieri, learn to hate these wicked men; you have too long loved and tolerated those who have never themselves learnt to love!"

Will Christian friends remember in their prayers before the throne of grace the "few names" that are in this island, who are amongst the Lord's redeemed.—Yours, Sassari, March 28. John E. Thomas.

HEBREW CHRISTIANS IN NEW YORK.—Rev. Jacob Freshman fearlessly and faithfully preaches Christ to the Hebrews. His endeavours are not confined to this city. He has lately returned from a preaching and lecturng tour which embraced Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, and Richmond, Va. In every city he had good audiences. Christians were roused on the subject, and a spirit of inquiry awakened among his Hebrew listeners. Easter Sunday found him preaching Christ as a victorious conqueror to his own congregation. Striking testimonies from Hebrew converts are given at every service.—New York Witness.

THE "JOHN B. GOUGH" SOLDIERS' HOME AND COFFEE HOUSE, SANDGATE.—For some time past Rev. Samuel Hutton has been endeavouring to raise the sum of £2630, in order to save this building from getting into the hands of persons who would probably put it to a use very different from that to which it has been dedicated. It is the only memorial of John B. Gough in this country, the stone having been laid by the well-known temperance orator on the fiftieth anniversary of his leaving Sandgate for America. The institution has been highly appreciated by soldiers and civilians alike, and Mr. Hutton has succeeded in collecting £1237. He is hoping to be able soon to raise the remainder; his address is 90, Cheriton-road, Folkestone.

THE LATE MRS. WEITBRECHT.

The latest issue of India's Women gives an "In Memoriam" of the late Mrs. Weitbrecht, whose labours, during over fifty years, on behalf of the women of India are well known. Born in 1808, at Great Marlow, Bucks., the daughter of Rev. George Edwardes, Congregational minister, she went out to India at the age of twenty-three, as companion to the wife of the Resident at Malacca. She at once began mission work, on which her mind had for some time been set, and in 1834 she was married to Rev. J. J. Weitbrecht, stationed at Burdwan, under the Church Missionary Society. After a few years' hard work, she had to come to Europe for change of air and scene. For the three years ending 1844, she stayed in England and Germany, and then it was that, in conjunction with Lady Kinnaird, plans were laid to promote female education in India. Returning to England in 1853, her husband having died the year before, Mrs. Weitbrecht continued to work in many ways for the important educational institution of which she had seen the inception.

In 1866 the headquarters were established in London, with a result that the work soon extended to other parts of India, as well as Bengal. In 1880 events occurred which led to the division of the Society into two branches; but God has so blessed and prospered both that, although in 1858 the income was only £600, in 1886-7 the two branches had a combined income of £34,000. Not only did Mrs. Weitbrecht labour earnestly in the days of her mission life, but after her return from India, more than thirty years ago, she, beyond doubt, accomplished more than any other person in the work of promoting the education and elevation of the women of India.

The Church of England Zenana Missionary Society is naturally desirous of raising some memorial to this good lady. Before anything had been decided upon in England, letters were on the way from Calcutta, insisting upon the absolute necessity of a new mission-house at Burdwan, as that now occupied by the missionaries is unsafe, and the landlord refuses to put it into habitable repair. A substantial house, such as is needed for the purposes of the Mission, will cost £1000, and the friends of the Society ask: What could be a more suitable memorial to our dear friend, Mrs. Weitbrecht, than such a house in the very place where she and her devoted husband laboured for so many years? The office of the Society is 9, Salisbury-square, Fleet-street, E.C.

SWEDEN.—Our friend, Mrs. de Ramsay, of Wilhelmsro, Jönköping, writes:—This winter our mission hall in the town has been constantly full, and the large soup kitchen, serving out penny dinners, of the greatest blessing materially. The young women's meetings have been very full this winter. They have had practical lessons in cutting out and dressmaking. The materials are sold at low prices, and they pay by small instalments for their own clothes, made under supervision by themselves. Singing goes on during the meeting, and it is closed by an address and Bible-reading. The young women are principally factory girls.

EVIL LITERATURE.—Mr. Samuel Smith, early in May, is going to draw the attention of Parliament to the spread of corrupt and corrupting literature in this country. That will be a useful way of drawing public attention to the subject. But it is of even greater importance that the interest of parents and teachers should be aroused on this matter. We must know, we ought to know, what our children and young people are reading. We can shame them by our manifest disapproval; but we can do better than that, we can help them to bright, pleasant, good reading that is wholesome and pure; and we can cultivate such a taste for the good that the corrupt, and corrupting, will be as offensive to them as they are to us. But we must all be active and earnest in this business, for the devil of defiling literature is constantly roaming about, seeking whom he may devour.—Sunday-School Chronicle.

SEAMEN'S REST, MARSEILLES.

Though "an open door and effectual" is granted to us amongst the sailors here, there are also "many adversaries." It is heartrending at times to witness the shameful way they are treated, and not to have it in our power to help them. Once in our comfortable Home, however, we know that they will have all that kindness can do for them, and we bless God that so many have found more than mere human love, as the appended extracts from some of the many letters received after they have left will show. Close upon 200 of many nationalities have lodged in the Rest since Nov. 1, and many others have availed themselves of the bright warm reading-room during the wet wintry days and specially in the evenings.

It is a joy to me to be once more amongst them, and to aid my earnest fellow-helpers after a prolonged absence, as usual, during the most severe of the winter months. Already I have had several meetings and personal conversations, and last Sunday, at the Swedish pastor's invitation, I preached in English in his church to an attentive congregation, principally sailors, all of whom understood me well.

Miss Kean has been graciously sustained in her arduous work, and both she and Mademoiselle Keller have been cheered by letters received from those who have been followed with words of warning, exhortation, and comfort to different parts of the world.

One (a Swede) writes: "I am glad to tell you that I am well and more in earnest to serve God than ever." In a second letter he says: "I am the only Christian on board, but God is with me. I have meetings here on board. I hope some will leave the world; pray for it."

An Englishman writes: "I am still looking upward for help and strength to tread in our Saviour's footsteps; but, as I told you, Satan does tempt me very hard at times, but I pray to God to strengthen me to overcome. What pain it gives me to have these thoughts, but I am still believing that God will give me the victory over sin."

Another Englishman, who was seriously impressed at a service I conducted on board his ship whilst at Nice, came on to Marseilles, and writes afterwards to Miss Kean: "I find it very hard since I took Christ for my Saviour. I do feel lonely, and often think; but I ask God to help me. I shall bless the day, to my death, that I saw you, as it was through you that I found Christ."

Another, a desperate drunkard, the first mentioned in my last yearly report, writes, after several months absence: "I am pleased to be able to tell you I have done nothing to be ashamed of since I left Marseilles (doubtless referring to the pledge he then took), and I hope, with God's blessing, to be able to continue a sober and better man. Yours is a noble work of saving us poor, weak, thoughtless sailors from sin and everlasting misery."

These will suffice to show what God is doing, and will, I trust, encourage friends and fellow-helpers at home to continue their prayerful and practical sympathy. This year, also, it will be necessary to replace worn-out furniture, kitchen utensils, &c., and we much need both a good harmonium and a piano for the reading-room.

Charles E. Faithfull.

40, Quai du Port, Marseilles.

MR. GEORGE MULLER has recently visited Wellington, New Zealand, and addressed large assemblies. At a meeting of the British and Foreign Bible Society, Mr. Müller gave a most stimulating address on the value of the Bible, which he said he had read through more than a hundred times. He gave a heart-stirring appeal to Christians to spread God's Word; to deny themselves and to spend their means in order to circulate widely "this Book of Books," assuring them that God would abundantly bless them in so doing, but that failing to do so, they would lose this blessing.

THE McALL MISSION, PARIS.

INAUGURATION OF A NEW MISSION HALL.

The progress of the work of this Mission in Paris and in the provinces has been often noticed with profound thankfulness to God in these pages. To-day we have to record a "new departure" in the work. Hitherto the halls used by the Mission have been merely shops or rooms, rented for a longer or shorter period. This was inevitable in the beginning of the work, and has been, in fact, one of its peculiar characteristics, that, not being tied to any particular spot, it could always change its meeting-rooms, if occasion demanded.

Now we have to chronicle the pleasing fact that the Mission has, in Paris, a hall of its own, built expressly for its use. It is situated in a part of Paris little known to the English or American visitor. Grenelle is a quarter of the south-west of Paris, on the left bank of the Seine, and is bounded on one side by the Champ de Mars, now being prepared for the exhibition of 1889. It is one of the poorest parts of the great city, and contains many thousands of the ouvrier class, large factories being located there, amongst others the famous cannon arsenal, Cail, rival of the Krupp arsenal of Germany. Mr. McAll opened the sixth station of the Mission here fifteen years ago, and since that time the work has progressed from very small beginnings. First it was under the care of M. Faucher, then under the late lamented Rev. G. Theophilus Dodds, whose last Sunday in Paris, before his tragic death, was spent in the old Salle, in the Rue Letellier.

After his removal, M. Louis Sautter took charge of the station, and, with the untiring assistance of Madame Pasteau, he has been much blessed in developing the work. And to-day he sees the very cherished desire of his heart accomplished, and a large, airy, and most admirably arranged building actually completed for the work of the Mission populaire in this needy quarter.

The building consists of a hall, with a school-room attached that can be thrown into the hall, a class-room, and two rooms to be hereafter used, it is hoped, as the doctor's and dispenser's rooms. The dispensary, and a porter's lodging, complete the building, which stands upon a large piece of land, where, later on, if it be found practicable, day-schools can be erected. Thus there is ample room for the permanent carrying forward of a large work. The meetings on Sundays and Thursday evenings are well-attended, and the Sunday and Thursday schools have now between 250 and 300 children in them. No money has been expended in useless decoration. All is simply and plainly done. The total cost of the construction and furnishing will be some £1200 (exclusive of the purchase of the land), and Mr. McAll will be very thankful to any friends who may feel inclined to contribute towards this new development of the work under his care.

The inauguration took place on the 12th inst. A large number of friends of all classes assembled, and the meeting was a very interesting one. Mr. McAll presided, and traced the history of the work in Grenelle. It was no little joy to him to see that evening such a commodious place, which they could call their own, opened for the preaching of the Gospel in that needy place. Addresses were given by pastors Schmidt, Paumier, Theodore Monod, and Jacot, and by M. Louis Sautter, and very hearty were the congratulations of the speakers in the addresses then made on the progress of the work. Fervent prayers were offered for the future of the work there and all our towns, and the hearts of all present, and, not least, that of the beloved founder of the Mission, were much cheered by the gathering of that evening.

28, Villa Molitor, Paris. W. Soltau.

REVIVAL on the BANFFSHIRE COAST.

Mr. Samuel McKenzie has concluded a most encouraging series of meetings at Buckie. The meetings were held in the Established, Free, and United Presbyterian Churches, and night after night the church in which the meeting was being held was thronged with an immense audience of earnest listeners to the Word of Life. So densely packed was the church, and so great was the number of the anxious, that during the first week Mr. McKenzie intimated at the close of the meeting that he would meet the anxious in the Fishermen's Hall, a fine building capable of accommodating 1500 people. On going thither it was found that the building was crowded to the door.

Buckie has not been stirred for fifteen or twenty years as it has been during these weeks; while it is impossible to tell the number of those who have been converted, it may be mentioned that at one of the after-meetings some three hundred stood up to testify that they believed they had passed from death to life. Old and young have been impressed, and a very large number of young fishermen have been led to take the Lord Jesus Christ as their Saviour and Master. An old fisherman who has a good opportunity of gauging the extent of the work said to the writer that he did not believe there were forty young men in the place who had not professed to get blessing.

Mr. McKenzie is comparatively a young evangelist, but he has already been greatly used of the Lord. His earnestness, tact, and sympathy qualify him in a remarkable degree for the work to which he is devoting his life. It should be added that the ministers in Buckie were indefatigable in their efforts to help on the good work. A. S.

Another correspondent writes:—Since the principal agent in the work left, large audiences have filled the Fishermen's Hall—1200 on Sunday evening, and to-night (April 16) there could not have been less than 800, although many fishermen had gone to sea this forenoon. One old man, about a fortnight ago, went to his minister and asked if there could be any hope for him. He found peace and happiness—'just saved in time,' for he was drowned at sea, and his funeral, largely attended, took place this afternoon. It was cheering to hear so many stalwart men pull the ropes in prayer, crying for Holy Ghost power, and ring the bells in praise, with such happy and grateful hearts. The testimonies were both numerous and hearty, and the meeting quite equalled the old revival times at their best. An address was given to urge the many converts to feed their souls on the Word, and to cherish an appetite for God's truth, so as to grow in grace and the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. If such a wave of blessing extends over our beloved land, it will be well for the churches, and for perishing souls.

Y.W.C.A., CHELSEA.—Tryon House, 8, Durham-place, Chelsea, provides a safe and comfortable home for respectable young women engaged in houses of business. Its interests are very near the hearts of some active Christian ladies and gentlemen, and the report for last year shows that the various agencies are in good working order. Mr. J. Herbert Tritton is the honorary financial secretary.

THE NAVVY MISSION SOCIETY.—During last year, in connection with this Society, no fewer than twenty-eight Scripture readers and an itinerating missionary were actively employed in various parts of England and Wales. Special missions, Bible-classes, and other means of bringing the Gospel before the navvy population, were blessed in many instances. The reading-rooms and night-schools are appreciated, and two day-schools have been established for navvy children. The tenth annual report contains detailed statements by the agents of the Society. The secretary is Rev. F. E. Rogers, Abbey-walk, Cambridge.

PASTORS' COLLEGE EVANGELICAL ASSOCIATION.

FIRST ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

It seems strange to speak of a first annual conference in connection with an institution so well known as the Pastors' College, and which has had for so many years such an excellent record. The new, it is to be hoped, is better than the old, but there is no denying their wonderful likeness. The dissolution of the old conference, rendered necessary by the action of a number of members who differed from Mr. Spurgeon either on doctrinal or formal grounds, or both, is rather a change of attire than of being. The dissolving of the old has not appreciably affected the character and constituents of the new organisation that has sprung up in its place. If enthusiasm be the test, who will say that there was less of it than in any former year? The like applied to numbers, which exceeded any previous conference. Besides, the effect on this occasion was not marred by any breakdown in health on the part of the much-beloved President. Mr. Spurgeon did indeed complain at times of feeling wearied, but the fervour of his spirit was such that any infirmity of the flesh was not perceived. There were the same fire, force, pathos, point, humour, as in bygone days, only, as it seemed, in greater measure; the conviction was general that Mr. Spurgeon outdid himself.

As customary, the Conference opened with a prayer-meeting on the Monday evening (April 16), held this year at the Tabernacle. Mr. Radstone, of Reading, did well in emphasising the need of revival, and in illustrating his theme by a reference to the Irish revival in 1859. To this point the President drew special attention in his own address, contending that the present controversy would not hinder but promote the end desired. It is a matter (said he) of historical fact that a great purging and clearage in the Church have preceded great revivals.

The attendance on Tuesday morning in the College Lecture Hall was in excess of previous years, the ladies' gallery being also crowded. The first hour was one of intense waiting upon God. At the close of the devotional service, Mr. Spurgeon said he would like to thank those brethren who in time of great difficulty had so faithfully adhered to him. He would not dwell on what he himself had gone through. Marks had been left, but marks of resentment there were none. Though nominally weaker as a Conference, they were practically stronger than before. Thereupon, on the motion of Pastor T. W. Medhurst (Portsmouth), seconded by Pastor A. G. Brown (East-end Tabernacle), Mr. C. H. Spurgeon was elected permanent President of the Association amid a scene of great enthusiasm. The honour of permanent Vice-President was in like manner accorded to Mr. James Spurgeon.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS.

The subject of Mr. Spurgeon's presidential address this year was, "The evils of the present time." In discoursing on this topic, Mr. Spurgeon seemed like a ship that had abundance of sea-room. Foremost among the evils specified was the absolute questioning of fundamental truth. Aforetime, while brethren discussed, Scripture was yet frankly and fully admitted to be decisive. Now, it is not a matter of what the Scripture says, but a question of inner consciousness, or something of that sort. Again, debate used to turn on redemption, as to whether it were particular or general. Now, the question is: Is there redemption at all? The like thing concerns substitution. The old battle ground never raged here. No one questioned substitution. But now this cardinal verity is stained with reproach. All this, Mr. Spurgeon contended, proves to us that it is not now a matter of cutting off the horns, but really a tearing out of the heart.

The next evil instanced was the want of decision among truly good men. The position of "sitting on the fence" is the popular one. Some are determined to get down on neither side of the fence; some are at a loss as to which side to get down; while a few learned men are trying to accomplish the feat of getting down on both sides of it. The attitude of such reminded him of the negro who carefully abstained from preaching against stealing chickens, because he found it so much damped brotherly fellowship.

Another great evil of the times is the craving for amusement. This aspect of things Mr. Spurgeon denounced in no measured terms, and, judging from the looks and responses of those present, his audience was in full accord with him. A "Punch and Judy" show in a place of worship is almost past belief, yet, said Mr. Spurgeon, there is a bill now extant of it. Amusements that are beneath the contempt of idiots are now being tolerated.

The next evil specified was the lack of intense piety among the churches. How many Church members there are who habitually neglect the prayer-meeting, and how many more who care nothing for the doctrine of the preacher, provided he is clever! Cleverness in their eyes condones every defect.

Then there is the stolidity of the people in respect of the Gospel. Sensational preaching yields this product. It is like dram-drinking; the strength must be increased, until nothing but vitriol will do. The habitual neglect of public worship, characteristic of German city life, is being reproduced in our own. The times have, indeed, changed, and it behoves us to be on our watch-tower.

In view of the evils of the times, what should be our one abiding object? Doubtless, to glorify God. In harmony with this supreme end, we should make it our business to keep on preaching the same Gospel. We cannot build the Church if we keep on plucking up the foundation. Mr. Spurgeon concluded his earnest and powerful address by an appeal to the ministers to seek to become better men—men of larger faith, clearer views, and more devotion; and, if the times were dark, to confederate together, looking for times of revival and refreshing from the presence of the Lord.

At the close of the President's address, a large silver tray was handed by the Vice-President to his brother, the gift of Mr. Wheeler, of Birmingham, in token of his hearty appreciation of the service Mr. Spurgeon had rendered to the cause of truth in connection with the present Down-grade controversy. After the President had replied, Mr. James Spurgeon proceeded to read the roll-call of the new Association, consisting in all of 576 names, and including some twenty associates, that is, Evangelical Baptist ministers not identified with the College, but subscribing to its doctrinal foundation. It is expected that before next annual meeting many new associates will be enrolled.

In the evening of the same day a meeting was held at the Orphanage (Mr. Spurgeon presiding), and was marked by spiritual character and power. Mr. Fullerton spoke, con amore, on "The Name of Jesus," and with an unction that charmed the believing ear. Pastor Levi Palmer, of Taunton, followed with a paper on "The invisible life of the Christian minister," that won every Christian heart. As he entered into the depths of what is comprehended by Fellowship with God, Alliance with God, Faith in God, it seemed as if earth receded and heaven were all around. After a brief interval Pastor F. H. White delivered his far-famed lecture on "John Bunyan and his Book," illustrated by dissolving views.

WEDNESDAY.

The morning session was mainly noteworthy in connection with Professor Gracey's elaborate and masterly disquisition on "The Principles of Church Growth, as deducible from the Acts of the Apostles." Several other papers were to have followed, but time only admitted of one from Pastor W. A. Davis on "Whole-hearted Consecration in our Work as Ministers." The appendix to the paper, specially addressed to the students, gave a piquancy to the treatment of the question which served as a foil to the sober and searching words that had gone before.

It goes without saying that in the evening of the same day the subscribers' meeting and annual tea and supper took place. At this gathering Mr. Edward Ford Duncanson presided, and, in a few well-chosen words, gave two reasons for his acceptance of Mr. Spurgeon's invitation: (1) respect for the man, (2) sympathy with his object. Mr. Spurgeon deserved well of the Christian public for his fearless stand, and his devoted life; and, furthermore, his object in equipping devout young men for the ministry was such an object as carried its own recommendation on its brow.

Mr. Spurgeon himself followed, and in a racy speech urged the claims of the College on his friends, old and new. Rev. R. H. Lovell, of Bromley, Kent, set forth the need of ministers whom a mistaken collegiate course had not spoiled, and who could in vigorous Saxon preach the Gospel of the grace of God. As specimens of what kind of workmen the Pastors' College turns out, various brethren told what the Lord had done through them. Mr. Saville, from Carlisle, in a most interesting speech, gave the account of the planting of the first Baptist Church in modern times in that city. Mr. J. J. Kendon, from Jericho, Jamaica, told how the President had "sent him to Jericho," and what a widespread garden of the Lord had been, by Divine grace, planted there. Mr. Fellowes, from the Channel Isles, and Mr. Horne, from Ayr, N.B., had also tangible results to tabulate. Altogether we have not heard, since we have known the College, such a cheery record of the Lord's doings in and through the younger members of that institution. After excellent speeches from Mr. T. A. Denny, Rev. J. Colmer Symes, and Hon. J. V. Farwell, of Chicago, the company adjourned to supper, and showed their practical sympathy with the work of the Pastors' College by subscribing to its funds £3700.

THURSDAY.

In the morning the Vice-President gave his annual address. His theme was two-fold. First, the things that cannot be moved. Second, the effect which the consideration of immovable things ought to exercise upon us. It was quite evident, as Mr. James Spurgeon expounded the first part of his theme, he had in view one prominent aspect of modern unbelief, namely, that aspect of it which would limit the extension of the meaning of eternal "age-long." Step by step he set forth the Scriptural usage and application of the term, showing how it is applied to God, Spirit, Son, Covenant, Purpose, Redemption, Righteousness, Salvation, Kingdom, Gospel, Judgment. The speaker's words were felt to be forcible and timely. Not less so was the address of Mr. Brown, of Dublin, on the subject of Down-Grade tendency, and how to cope with it, as illustrated in the times of Hezekiah. Mr. Brown has a strong Hibernian accent, but it may be said of him, as was said of Stephen, that there is no resisting the wisdom and power with which he speaks. An earnest paper on "Fear, an Element of our Ministry," was then read by Rev. J. Jackson, and the morning session closed.

In the evening a public meeting in the Metropolitan Tabernacle was held, Mr. Spurgeon presiding, the great building being well filled throughout. It was an interesting sight to see the orphan children in strong force at the back of and around the platform, taking up in such an effective way the psalmody of the service. Mr. Spurgeon spoke like one at home, and, though he began with a swimming head, the joy of the occasion lifted him at once out of all nervous fear. God had done so much for him during the week, and in all his past, he could not but rejoice in Him in view of all the battle in the future.

The keynote sounded by the president regulated the meeting throughout. The vice-president's tone was no less jubilant. A more free or unconstrained meeting it might be possible to imagine, but it would be hard to find. Under Mr. Cuff, of Shoreditch, the audience seemed almost to become uproarious, certainly exhilarated. But what could one expect when "Cheer, boys, cheer," was the topic? Mr. Fullerton's account of his past year's labours with Mr. Smith in the great harvest field was listened to with marked interest. The like is true of Mr. Ellis's eloquent address on "Our Purpose, Plan, and Power." Mr. Brown, from Dublin, next spoke impressively on "Power from on high: what it is, and how to get it." The meeting which had been enlivened by the hearty singing of "Hallelujah for the Cross" and other melodies, was brought to a close at 9 p.m. by the President, with a few words of benediction.

As in former years, the Conference was wound up on Friday by a sermon from Mr. Spurgeon, followed by the Communion Service of the Lord's Supper. The subject chosen was the four immediate effects of the death of Christ, as detailed by Matthew (xxvii. 51, 52). (1) The rent veil; (2) the earthquake; (3) the rended rocks; (4) the opened graves. The fragrance of that sermon must live long in the memories and hearts of those who heard it. Seldom, if ever, we believe, has Mr. Spurgeon preached better.

It ought to be said that Mrs. Spurgeon's gift to all the ministers of a copy of the new edition of "Gaussen on Inspiration" was much appreciated and heartily acknowledged, as also the kindness of the numerous hosts in furnishing the required hospitality.

In reviewing the proceedings, it is clear that Mr. Spurgeon's hold upon his college men is not sensibly slackened. If anything, the bond is more intense than ever. Whatever may be the cause he has espoused, he is strongly entrenched in the Baptist denomination and in the sympathies of the Christian public generally.

WORKING LADS OF LONDON.

It is a genuine pleasure to report the continued success of what was as recently as twelve years ago spoken of as "Mr. Henry Hill's scheme" on behalf of "the lads of London." The eleventh annual report of the Working Lads' Institute, Whitechapel, shows that the many agencies which are in operation for the physical, moral, and spiritual good of the youth of the East-end are at once highly appreciated, and producing important and encouraging results.

Saturday last saw the latest development of the work, for then the Princess Christian attended at the Institute, and declared the newly-erected Lecture Hall open for its truly noble uses, as a place for the congregation of youth for the definite purposes of mental and moral education. The Lord Mayor presided over the proceedings. Several letters had been received from friends unable to be present. Mr. Gladstone wrote: "It gives me sincere pleasure to learn that the favourable anticipations formed at the outset as to the Working Lads' Institute have been fulfilled, and I offer you hearty congratulations on its growing prosperity."

Among those who delivered short addresses on the occasion were Mr. Henry Hill, hon. sec., Sir H. Selwin Ibbetson, Mr. F. A. Bevan, Lord Kinnaird, and Rev. T. Richardson. The completed buildings afford accommodation for over a thousand members. The total cost has been £17,000, towards which the committee have, during seven years, raised £11,000. Towards the deficit a few sums have been promised, and some purses were handed to the Princess at the meeting. On the walls around the room were these and other unambiguous legends: "An organ wanted;" "A clock wanted;" "Eight porcelain baths wanted." Copies of the report and other information may be had of Mr. H. Hill, 38, Bow-lane, E.C.

PUTNEY.—Messrs. Fullerton and Smith and Rev. W. A. Meaton, of Acton, have lately held a special mission at Putney, with encouraging results. Believers have been greatly blessed, and a goodly number led to decide for Christ.

International S. S. Lesson.

Sunday Afternoon, May 6.

THE JUDGMENT.

Matt. xxv. 31—46. Golden Text: Matt. xxv. 46.

When the Son of Man shall come in his glory, &c.—Point out the contrast between the Speaker, despised and rejected, to be crucified three days hence, and the same Speaker coming "in his glory." All the holy angels.—Contrast the few, poor men who followed Him then, and the innumerable multitudes of glorious and mighty ones who will come with Him then. Upon the throne.—As both King and Judge. The King.—"Here, for the first and only time does the Lord give Himself this name."—Alford. The nearer He gets to the cross, the more He seems to think and speak of his Majesty and coming glory.

The kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world.—Joint heirs with Christ; his people will reign with Him. What a kingdom that will be, which God Himself has been preparing from eternity, to last through eternity! Ye cursed.—Note, He does not say, "cursed of my Father," as He had said "blessed of my Father" (ver. 34); for, while salvation is of God, the curse is our own. We earn it ourselves, being cursed by our own sin. Everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels.—The fire is prepared, not for us, but for the devil. The kingdom was prepared for us; but they who serve the devil must share his end.

LESSONS.

The Great Separation.—To-day the two classes mingle, and are not always to be distinguished. In that day, the King Himself will divide them (teachers should point out the fearful doom of those who will then be separated from every Christ-loving friend they have, while they are shut up to the ungodly alone!). Then, separated from all the good, they will at last be separated from the King Himself, and condemned to the society and the doom of the devil and his angels. Show the certainty of this; also that there will be no mistake. Show, too, how all other distinctions will be lost sight of then. There will just be the two companies, and these only. Surely, one great end of life should be to stand among the blessed in that day!

The rule of judgment: practical love to Jesus.—Those who truly love Him will show their love by kind deeds and self-denying acts; and they who love Him will love others for his sake. The blessed are not those who profess love, or sing of love, or feel it, but those who act love, who help others for Christ's sake. Not those who try to win eternal life by self-denial, but those who, having learnt Christ's love, love Him, and then show their love by kindness to others. Show the necessity of real and practical love to Christ and his people.

Suppose we could really see Jesus, and give Him our gifts with our own hands, how glad we should be to bring Him our best! This passage shows that we can serve Him to-day just as truly as if we saw Him. "Inasmuch as," &c. Dwell on the splendid privilege this offers to us.

How easy it is to be lost! We have only to lack love to Jesus, and so neglect his people; that is all!

ILLUSTRATIONS.

Separating sheep from goats.—"The flocks of sheep and goats fed together in the same field. The goats were of a finer breed than I had before seen, and the sheep had long, coarse, hairy wool; so that, in casting your eye over the field, you could hardly say at the first glance which were goats and which were sheep. The shepherd at evening brought the flock home, and separated them into two parts, putting the sheep by themselves, and the goats by themselves. The moral of the Saviour never came home to my mind with greater force than after witnessing this arrangement."—Clarke.

Many years ago a missionary's wife was reading to a group of Karens in Burmah this passage. They were Christians, but had never heard the words before. Up to the present, they had been, as heathen generally are, very heartless about their suffering neighbours. But as soon as they heard this chapter read, they say their fault, and all was changed. They had among them a poor widow, who, along with her child, was afflicted with leprosy. Hitherto they had utterly neglected her; but now they hastened to her hovel. Some cleaned her house, others brought rice and other food, and some fetched water, till the poor creature, till now so miserable and alone, was bewildered with delight. In much the same fashion they sought out and helped other sick neighbours. Best of all, they kept on; they persevered in this well-doing, none being allowed to lack what they themselves enjoyed.

THE AUXILIARY BOOK FUND.

Dear Sir,—Readers of the last report of Mrs. Spurgeon's Book Fund will remember an appeal for books from a lay preacher—an appeal which the Book Fund, established for ministers in actual charge, could not accede to.

Believing, as the writer of the letter urges, that lay preachers need such aid even more in some respects than those in the ministry, I have (with Mrs. Spurgeon's hearty approval) decided to start an Auxiliary Book Fund for Laymen, who, though preachers of the Gospel, are unable to purchase helpful books.

I need hardly say that the Fund like that which it is designed to supplement will quite ignore denominational differences, while seeking only to send out "words of faith and of good doctrine."

Mr. Spurgeon's "Lectures for my Students" will, I hope, be much used; but if any of your readers have such books as the "Biblical Museum," or any others likely to be helpful to laymen preaching in village chapels, or mission rooms, or workhouses, or common lodging-houses, they will be most gladly welcomed; only please Mr. Editor ask that the carriage of parcels should be prepaid.—Yours, in Christ's service, Sydney S. Bagster.

25, Newington-green, London, N.

MRS. GEORGE BREALEY writes:—Will you kindly make known through your columns that I am continuing in the old Home, and any letters for me should be addressed, Mrs. George Brealey, Clayhidon, Wellington, Somerset.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES in connection with the South-east Branch of the London Wesleyan Methodist Mission were held on Sunday week, and on Monday evening a large tea-meeting was followed by a public meeting. Crowds gathered in the Bricklayers' Hall, Southwark Bridge-road, to hear the Gospel on Sunday afternoon and evening, also at the Monday meeting many stirring addresses were given, and altogether the anniversary was of a highly profitable character.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES IN THEATRES AND HALLS.—A meeting was held on Saturday, by permission of the Earl and Countess of Meath, at 83, Lancaster-gate, in furtherance of the movement for holding religious services in theatres and halls in London, and for erecting City Mission halls in memory of the seventh Earl of Shaftesbury. Lord Robert Montagu presided. The work has been carried on for nearly thirty years; at the present time fourteen large buildings are occupied by the committee, who also give help to nearly two hundred halls worked by the London City Mission.

A VALEDICTORY MEETING was held at the Bible House, 146, Queen Victoria-street, on Monday, last week, to bid farewell to Rev. George Davidson, going to Australia, and Mr. and Mrs. John Haffenden, Messrs. Alfred Lea, George E. Irving, B. Purdy, A. W. H. Boram, and F. de P. Castells, going to Singapore, the five latter to labour as colporteurs in the Malay Peninsula. These brethren, and Mr. J. Cecil Berger, who had started a few days previously for an agency in the West Indies, were commended to the favour and protection of God in an earnest prayer offered by Rev. Joshua C. Harrison.

GREAT ASSEMBLY HALL, MILE END.—On Thursday, last week, from Mr. Charrington's hall, the first batch of emigrants this season left for Euston, en route for Canada. The past success of those sent out by Mr. Charrington is such that he has no hesitation in still advocating Canada as a country for the honest unemployed. The present party consist principally of families, and nearly all are going to friends formerly sent out by Mr. Charrington, and therefore will find work on landing. After a good hot supper they left the hall with Captain Andrew Hamilton, the hon. secretary of the Tower Hamlets division Emigration and Colonisation Fund. Mr. Kerwin accompanied the party to Liverpool, and saw them embark on the fine steamship Lake Huron, of the Beaver Line. Many of the emigrants contributed according to their means.

Notes on Daily Readings.

SATURDAY, APRIL 28.——MALACHI I.

Malachi is generally supposed to have been a contemporary of Nehemiah, so that his word bore the same relation to Nehemiah's work as did the words of Haggai and Zechariah to the work of Joshua and Zerubbabel. His date may therefore have been about B.C. 430—450. He is the last of the prophets.

2, 3.—I loved Jacob, and I hated Esau.—Hate, when contrasted with love, often means in Scripture no more than the absence of love, or even a less degree of love. See Gen. xxix. 31, 32; Deut. xxi. 15; Luke xiv. 26. In this case, however, it is impossible to evade the words in which Edom is described, ver. 4: "The people against whom the Lord hath indignation for ever." Edom typifies the professing, as contrasted with the true, Church (Heb. xii. 16).

5.—The Lord will be magnified from the border of Israel.—Not "from" (A.V.), nor yet "beyond" (R.V.), but "from over" (Keil). The Lord is magnified "from over the border of Israel," when the line of distinction between those who are his people and those who are not is recognised.

6.—A son honoureth his father.—Here begins God's controversy with the priests, which continues to the end of the next chapter.

7.—Polluted bread.—In the general sense of "food." "It does not refer to the shewbread, for that was not offered upon the altar; but to the sacrifical flesh, called in Lev. xxi. 6, 8, 17, 'the food of God.'"—Keil. Hence the altar is called "the table of the Lord"; but this has no parallel in New Testament times, where there is no recognition of any but the one altar (Heb. xiii. 10), whereas "the Lord's table" is to be found wherever Christians meet to commemorate his death.

10.—Who is there even among you?—Better in R.V., "Oh that there was one among you that would shut the doors, that ye might not kindle fire on mine altar in vain!" Better that the altar were not used than be so misused.

11.—My name shall be great among the Gentiles.—The time spoken of is future; for, when Malachi wrote, God's name was not great among the Gentiles. It seems prophetic of this dispensation, and the "incense" and "offering" are such as Rom. xv. 16 speaks of.

SUNDAY, APRIL 29.——MALACHI II.

2.—I will curse your blessings.—"The blessings pronounced by them upon the people in virtue of their office."—Keil.

3.—I will corrupt your seed.—Better (R.V.) "rebuke." "My reproof shall check the productiveness of the harvest."—S.C. This threatened pollution of their most solemn rites of religion spoken of in the latter part of the verse may have been in St. Paul's mind when he wrote Phil. iii. 8. His estimate of the value of his Pharisaic religiousness thus accorded with God's.

5.—My covenant was with him of life and peace.—Jewish abuse of the Levitical ritual by making it minister to self-righteousness did not make void God's original purpose in giving it, which was "life and peace," as typified in a sacrificial system which all pointed to Jesus.

6.—The law of truth was in his mouth.—This seems a parallel expression and thought to "the Scripture of truth" (Dan. x. 21). God's ideal of the priesthood was that of Scripture-readers.

10.—Have we not all one father?—The commencement of a new section, entitled by Keil, "Condemnation of marriages with heathen women and of divorces." See Ezra ix., Neh. xiii. 23—27. Commentators differ as to the "father" referred to. Most take it to be God. Some Abraham, some Israel. From i. 6, God would seem to be meant; but both the paternity and the creation spoken of have reference to the nation as such.

15.—And did not he make one?—A very difficult passage, interpreted variously. On the whole, the rendering given in the margin of R.V. seems most satisfactory, "And not one hath done so who had a residue of the Spirit. Or what? Is there one that seeketh a godly seed?" The two evils of putting away their Jewish wives and taking foreigners in their place seem thus to have gone together.

17.—Ye have wearied the Lord with your words.—This is the commencement of the final section, which goes to the end of the book. Compare their words here quoted with God's answer to them (iii. 18—iv. 3).

MONDAY, APRIL 30.——MALACHI III.

1.—Behold, I will send my messenger.—In answer to the taunt, "Where is the God of judgment?" the Lord announces his intention of coming suddenly to his Temple; but his coming is to be preceded by that of his messenger, here plainly John the Baptist (as in Isa. xl. 3).

3.—And He shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver.—The ministry of the Lord Jesus was throughout directed to the separation of the precious from the vile, the drawing forth and strengthening of faith, and purifying and refining weak and wavering faith.

4.—Then shall the offering...be pleasant unto the Lord, as in the days of old.—Comp. 1 Pet. i. 7, as to the testing of faith, and 1 Pet. ii. 5, 9, as to the acceptable offerings.

5.—I will be a swift witness against the sorcerers.—The witness against sin by our Lord and his Apostles is no less a feature of his first coming than the testing and purifying of faith and acceptance of spiritual worship.

6.—Therefore ye sons of Jacob are not consumed.—In allusion to the unchangeableness of Jehovah revealed in the mystic name, "I am that I am," at the burning bush, which, nevertheless, was "not consumed" (Exod. iii. 2, 14). "'Sons of Jacob' is used emphatically, denoting the true members of the people of God, who rightly bear the name of Israel. These do not perish, because their existence rests upon the promise of the unchangeable God."—Keil.

16.—Then they that feared the Lord spake often one to another.—The elect remnant of the true Israelites is here described as again discovered in Luke ii. 38.

17.—In that day when I make up my jewels.—The Hebrew seems rather to be, "They shall be to Me in the day that I make (or 'act')—a peculiar treasure." So R.V. The day of final separation is the day when Jehovah acts, or "does this" (iv. 3).

TUESDAY, MAY 1.——MALACHI IV.

"These last six verses of the prophecy are intimately connected with what has preceded them, and in the Hebrew text are included in chap iii. They declare the near approach of the day of retribution for those workers of wickedness of whose prosperity complaint had been made (iii. 11—14.)"—S.C.

1.—The proud, yea, and all that do wickedly.—Pride of heart leads the unconverted to reject God's humbling way of salvation (Rom. x. 3), while their wicked actions justify God in justly condemning them (Col. iii. 6).

2.—The Sun of righteousness...with healing in his wings.—"Wings," when used of the sun, mean "rays." The reference seems to be to the Second Advent, in contrast to which our Lord speaks of Himself, in reference to the First Advent, as "the bright and morning Star" (Rev. xxii. 16), which leads to the cry of the Spirit and the Bride, "Come," thus closing both New and Old Testaments alike with the happy expectation of his Second Coming. Grow up as calves of the stall.—Better "leap (gambol, R.V.) as calves of the stall."—S.C. The LXX. say "skip as calves let loose from bonds," one of the most striking figures which Nature can furnish of "exuberant joy."

4.—Remember ye the law of Moses.—5.—Behold I send you Elijah.—"As the Old Testament thus closes, so does the New open; for in Luke i. we find this remnant in the persons of Zechariah and Elizabeth (see also ii. 38), following this advice of Malachi, obedient to the law of Moses, with its statutes and judgments, and we see them also receiving Elijah, in the person of their child John (Matt. xi. 14; Luke i. 17)."—J. G. Bellett.

Y.M.C.A. Bible Lessons.

OUTLINES PREPARED BY HENRY THORNE.

Sunday Afternoon, May 6.

The Marriage Supper: Invited, but Excluded.—Luke xiv. 16—24.

The occasion of this parable was a remark made by one who sat with our Lord at the table of a Pharisee (ver. 1, 15). We are not informed as to the motive that prompted it, nor as to the object of the speaker. Dr. Marcus Dods regards it as having been intended to turn the conversation into a different channel to that which it had taken, and which was, perhaps, of too personal a character for some who were present. Pious generalities are often more acceptable than particular applications of truth. Our Lord was not to be turned aside from the course He had pursued, and therefore He replied to the remark of the guest in words which are characterised by great directness and point. The parable was addressed to the man who made the remark, and it is not unlikely that it was intended for his benefit, as well as for that of the rest of the company. We see in this parable—

(1) The Feast (ver. 16, 17).—In what is said of the feast, we may observe: (a) A note of time. A supper (an evening meal). "The provisions of the Gospel," says Mr. Spurgeon, "may well be compared to a supper, provided as they were in the evening of the world." The Gospel is a provision of the last days, and it is the last meal that God will provide for sinners (Heb. x. 18). (b) A suggestion as to the social position of the giver. The provision of such a feast denotes wealth and good standing. The dignity of the host must be assumed, to appreciate the indignity offered by the guests who were first invited. In the Gospel feast the Host is "the Lord of Hosts" (Isaiah xxv. 6; Heb. i. 1). (c) The extent of the provision, "great." In the Divine provision we see great mercy (Ps. cxix. 156), great goodness (Ps. xxxi. 19), great peace (Isa. liv. 13). Comp. "eat...drink abundantly" (Cant. v. 1). The feeding of the multitude illustrates the all-sufficiency of Divine provision (Matt. xiv. 20). (d) The preparation, "ready." All that is needed for the salvation of the sinner has been accomplished. The atonement has been made (John xix. 30), and God is "ready to forgive" (Ps. lxxxvi. 5).

(2) The Invited Guests.—The guests were bidden before they were informed that the supper was ready, and the fact that they were afterwards sent for seems to imply that they had promised to come. There are many who are full of promises, but, alas! there is lacking the fruit of fulfilment (Matt. xxi. 30). Bidden guests were specially favoured persons (1 Sam. ix. 13—22), and God put great honour upon Israel in sending the message of the Gospel first to them (Acts iii. 26; Rom. i. 16, ii. 9, 10). Concerning the excuses of these persons, note: (a). They were framed in the language of civility. They did not say, "We hate the one who invites us," or "We have no wish to come to the feast," but they framed excuses. Many show great apparent respect for God, but do not want to know the power of his saving truth. Judas kissed Jesus, and betrayed Him. (b) They were of a selfish character. The land, the oxen, and the wife were personal possessions. Undue regard for such possessions arises from selfishness (Luke ix. 23). We must beware, lest the world should have too great an influence over us (1 Cor. vii. 31—34). (c) They were unreasonable. Few men buy ground before they see it. The man who bought the ground in this case might have gone to see it on the following day. The yoke of oxen could scarcely be proved at night; and the man who had been married should not have accepted the invitation if he had thought his marriage would keep him away. (d) The point of the excuse is the same in each case. There is no desire to be present at the feast. For this there was no heart (Matt. vi. 21).

(3) The Real Guests.—These may be primarily the Gentiles (Acts xi. 1, 18. xiii. 46). Of these, note: (a) Some were brought in. Some require much help. Note the different classes. These were not likely to go alone. (b) Some were constrained to come in. For this work, we need to be constrained ourselves (2 Cor. v. 14).

(4) The Servant.—See here Jesus (Isa. xlii. 1) and all true disciples (Eph. vi. 6). Note that the servant of the parable was obedient ("as thou hast commanded," ver. 22), active (told to go out, and went out), in constant communication with his master (ver. 21) and anxious to get a full table ("yet there is room").

Forthcoming Meetings.

The Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, and Wales on due notice. Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, W.C.

The Irish Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

The Church Army will send evangelists (working-men) to any clergymen on due notice, for short or long missions. Hon. Sec., 128 & 130, Edgware-road, W.

The Metropolitan Tabernacle Evangelists' Association will send lay preachers and evangelists to any chapel or hall of any evangelical denomination in London. Hon. Sec., 121, Camberwell New-road, S.E.

The Country Towns Mission supplies qualified missionaries for work in the country. Apply to Secretary, 18, New Bridge-street, Ludgate-circus, E.C.

Y.M.C.A., New Metal Exchange, Whittington-avenue, E.C.—Daily prayer-meeting, St. Peter's Vestry, Cornhill, 1.15 to 2 p.m. (Sat. excepted). Workers' Bible-class, Mondays, 6.30 p.m.

Conference Hall and Y.M.C.A., Stratford, E.—Sundays in April, 3 and 7 p.m., Mr. C. Russell Hurditch. Bible-readings, Sundays, 3 p.m.; Tuesdays, 3.15 p.m.; Wednesdays, 8.15 p.m.

Y.M.C.A., Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.—Sunday, at 3.45, Mr. E. J. Kennedy, to men only; subject, "Hope"; at 7, Mr. F. Larkins. Gospel meetings, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday, at 8. Bible-readings, by Colonel Puget, Saturdays, at 8. Daily prayer-meeting, 1 till 2 p.m. (Sat. excepted).

Y.M.C.A., The Priory, 198, Upper-street, N.—Thursday, April 27, at 8.15, annual meeting of Northern District Post Office Boy Sorters and Telegraph Messengers. Speakers—Sir Arthur Blackwood, and Rev. W. H. Barlow. Sunday, evangelistic service, 8.30 p.m. Wednesday, 6 to 10 p.m., anxious inquirers and strangers.

Y.M.C.A., Burlington Hall, 23, Savile-row, W.—Special Services for young men, Thursday, April 26, 8.45 p.m., by Rev. F. B. Meyer. Sunday, April 29, 3.15 p.m., by Dr. Charles Hathaway.

Y.M.C.A., 17, Camden-road, N.W.—Annual May breakfast, Sunday, May 6, 8 a.m., chairman, Mr. George Williams. Address by Mr. Joseph Beason.

Conference Hall, Mildmay-park, N.—May 2, illustrated lecture, by Captain Wiggins; subject—"Arctic Explorations." Sunday, May 6, 3.30 and 7 p.m., Mr. P. S. Badenoch.

Wesleyan West Central Mission.—St. James's Hall: Fridays, at 12 noon, Rev. Mark Guy Pearse; 7.30 p.m., Rev. Hugh Price Hughes. Sundays, 11 a.m., Rev. Mark Guy Pearse; 3.30 and 7 p.m, Rev. Hugh Price Hughes. Wardour Hall: Mondays, 8 p.m., Rev. Mark Guy Pearse; daily prayer-meeting from 1.30 to 2 p.m. All seats always free.

Christian Workers' Reunion for Bible study and prayer, 186, Aldersgate-street, every Thursday, at 3.30.

Hyde Park Hall Mission.—Opening service, Hyde Park, Sunday, May 6, by Mr. Charles Cook.

Christian Lifeboat Crew.—Monthly meeting, Tuesday, May 1, 7 p.m., Welcome Home, 173, St. George's-street, Ratcliff-highway, E.

House of Rest, 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn, N.W.—Friday, April 27, 7 p.m., Rev. W. A. Meaton. Tea at 6. Friday, May 4, all-day meetings. 11 a.m., home and foreign missions; 3 p.m., Mr. George Holland, on "East-end Work"; 7 p.m., "Results of a Personal Knowledge of God."

Great Assembly Hall, Mile End-road, E.—Sunday, at 11 and 6.30, Mr. William Nobbs.

Regent's Park Chapel, N.W.—Rev. F. B. Meyer, address, Thursday mornings, 11.30, for Christian workers. Sunday, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Deepening of the Spiritual Life.—Meeting at Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road, W., every Friday, 3 30 p.m. Friday, April 27, Rev. J. Hudson Taylor. May 4, Rev. Charles A. Fox.

Conference Hall, Eccleston-street, S.W.—Afternoon Bible-readings and evening Gospel addresses, by Mr. W. Spencer Walton, May 3 to 14. Sunday, at 3.30 and 7; week-days, at 4 and 8.30 (Saturdays excepted).

Strangers' Rest, 163, St. George's-street, Ratcliff-highway, E.—Monthly workers' meeting, Friday, May 4. Tea at 6; meeting at 7. Address by Dr. Barnardo.

Paris City Mission.—Annual meeting, by invitation of Lady Ashburton, Kent House, Knightsbridge, S.W., Friday, May 4, 4 p.m. Speakers—Pasteur Auguste Fisch, and Mr. W. J. Lockie (deputation from Paris), Messrs. F. A. Bevan, George Williams, and J. M. Weylland. Friends cordially invited.

Compensation to Publicans.—Conference of those opposed to the licensing clauses of the Local Government Bill, in the Parlour, Exeter Hall, Friday, April 27, 3 p.m.

Shaftesbury Institute for Girls, 21, 22, and 23, Harrow-street, Lisson-grove.—Bible-readings every alternate Saturday, 4 p.m. May 5, Mr. Shuldham Henry.

Dublin Believers' Meetings, May 29, 30, 31, and June 1.

Bedford.—Convention for the Deepening of Spiritual Life, May 2, 3, and 4.

Southsea Conference, May 22, 23, and 24. To be preceded by ten days' special mission, commencing May 16, conducted by Rev. F. S. Webster.

Notices.

Communications Received with Thanks.—F.W.B A.B. W.S. W.G.I. F.F. E.M.C. P.L. A.P. F.L. A.L.T. J.C. J.W.W. J.T.R. L.P. R.R. F.W.H. H.D.B. J.B.L. J.M. V.D. N.A. E.E.H. D.R. H.A.P. M.F.B. J.M.P. G.F. S.L. M.S. J.E.F. E.L.H. J.K. W.A. F.H.N. A.S. W.S. S.S.B. W.W. M.P. G.W. M.A.M. W.L.H. L.O.E. H.T. A.E.W. H.H. L.F. J.G.H. J.L. N.P. J.B.B. A.C. C.P. E.H.D. W.H.B. G.H.W. M.D.S.F. W.C. E.P. J.D. M.J.L. M.H. T.N. A.E.G. J.B. A.D. G.C. M.A.L. F.N.C. J.C.M. A.J.M. C.A.S. H.M.I. F.B. T.J. W.A.W. B.F.K. R.C. J.P.H. G.C. R.D. C.H.S. J.E.M. R.P. C.C. G.C.N. N.K. E.C.N. H.V.K. J.S. S.A.B. J.E. G.H.W. R.D.F. T.D.D. B.L.B. C.C.G. C.L. W.J. J.W.W. G.H.G. M.A.P. W.D.P. A.W. T.S. H.C. L.D.D. E.M.A.

Applicants for Tracts.—J. C. Meyrick, 18, Channing terrace, Wandsworth-bridge-road, S.W.; Miss Morris, Chaselands, Lavender Hill, Enfield, N.; W. Benson, 129, Royal-road, Kennington Park, S.E.; E. Peters, High-street, Stevenage, Herts.; B. Bryant, 27, Windsor-place, Queen-street, Cardiff; A. Woodbridge, 7, Teesdale-street, Hackney-road, E.; W. A. Hughes, 69, Waterton-road, St. Peter's Park, W.; C. Patmore, 6, Deddington-terrace, Beaumont-road, Leyton, Essex; F. Bull, 11, Hill-street, Clapton-common, N.; Miss Gascoign, 23, Rack Fields, Kidderminster, Worcestershire; G. B. Taylor, 51, Sandringham-buildings, W.C. (English and Spanish); Mrs. Hardy, 12, Broughton-street, South Lambeth, S.W.; J. Budd, 33, Peckham-grove, Camberwell, S.E.; W. Bowman, Gainsboro', Lincolnshire; Mrs. M. A. Wilkinson, Lowlands-road, Harrow; Miss Wildmar, Children's Home, Bonner-road, Victoria Park, E.; D. Mort, 14, Wesley-street, Barnsley; J. R. Mallinson, 4 and 5, St. James's-square, Bristol; H. Newman, 58, Eagle-street, Holborn, W.C.; H. Free, 194, Green-street, Bethnal Green, E.

[As it is found that infidels and others send tracts to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most desirable that all books and papers received should be carefully read before being given away.]

Appeals.

Margate Y.M.C.A.—Owing to the great financial loss entailed on the town by reason of a bad season in 1887, the local branch of the Y.M.C.A. is compelled to ask for monetary help. Amount needed for present year, £100. Considerable blessing has attended the spiritual part of the work since the beginning of the year. Secretary, J. M. Pamment.

Kent Martyrs' Memorial.—A meeting of the Committee having in hand the restoration of the Kent Martyrs' Memorial Monument, was held at Dartford last week, when it was stated that only £20 more was required to enable the Committee to proceed in the work of renewal. Mr. T. Lawrence Mitchell, Gartly House, Dartford, will gladly receive contributions.

Mrs. Juliana Thompson, Lesher School, Senehoo, Shaingay, Sierra Leone, West Africa, writes that the children in her school are sadly in need of clothing. The largest need not take more than two yards of the commonest calico or prints. Packets of illustrated periodicals or tracts will also be acceptable. Parcels should be sent by "Parcels Post" direct, addressed as above.

Ragged Schools, Wagner-street, Hatcham, S.E.—Mr. Frederick Blayney, secretary, whose address is 17, Justin-street, Old Kent-road, S.E., writes that he will be glad to receive left-off clothing for the poor shoeless children attending these schools. Pecuniary help, for the purchase of boots, or to aid the weekly dinner fund, will be gratefully received by Dr. Williams, the treasurer, 87, New Cross-road, S.E.

The Village of Halvergate is about five miles from Yarmouth, and is the residence of many North Sea fishermen. The vicar of the parish (mainly peopled by labourers) has long wished to obtain a Reading-room for the use of the residents, and just now there is an exceptionally good opportunity for carrying this into effect, by the purchase of a public-house (which has long been a source of much annoyance and evil), and at the same time giving these poor fishermen a comfortable room in place of the bar of a low pot-house. The price asked for the premises is £150. Any help towards this object will be thankfully received by Mr. J. C. Whitty, 19, Broadwater Down, Tunbridge Wells.

MEN AND MEASURES.—Men of the most disreputable private character, says The Australian Christian World, are too often carried into power by the votes of honest and pure men, and their moral influence is a thousand times more disastrous to the country than their political views are beneficial. It is time Christian men awoke to the facts that the liquor traffic with all its abominations will never be prohibited by drunken legislators, that the morals of society are not likely to be conserved and protected by men whose private lives are unclean, and that men who have little or no regard for Divine law are not to be trusted with the power which makes or mars a nation. When the Christian Churches become thoroughly alive to their responsibility in this matter an improvement will set in.

Subscriptions received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott to Monday, April 23, 1888.

 Will donors oblige us by giving explicitly and fully the titles of the missions to which they wish their donations to be applied? Mistakes which sometimes arise will thus be obviated. Will they also bear in mind that our Donation List is made up for the Printer on Monday morning? Any amounts received afterwards will be acknowledged in the subsequent week's number.

 We would respectfully urge all our friends, when remitting to us, to make Cheques, Money Orders, or Postal Orders payable to Morgan & Scott, and to cross them "City Bank;" this will effectually prevent loss of same.

 Donations should be sent by Cheque or P.O. Orders, not by stamps.

	£	s.	d.
L.McL.—Please send full address.
Postal Orders from Portsmouth—Please send particulars.
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—Wm. C. 10s; Rajah, 1s; Mrs. N. 2s 6d; Z.Y.X. 5s; Belfast, £1; Friend, Limerick, £1 2s; L.A. 5s; F.R. £1; F.R. & M.R. 3s; New Canadian Farm—E.M.J. £5 ...	9	8	6
Widow of late Robert Craig—Sympathy, 2s; T.N.J. 10s ...	0	12	0
East London Training Institute (Rev. H. G. Guinness)—E.G. 10s; R.C. £10 ...	10	10	0
Salvation Army—F.E.B. 2s 6d; W.F., Frome, £5; T.N.J. 10s; R.C. £10; Wm. C. 10s; Rescue Work—F.R. £1; Slum Work—F.R. £1; Poor, &c., Limehouse—F.R. £1 ...	19	2	6
Tower Hamlets Mission (New Hall)—Miss M. 12s; F.M.H. 2s 6d ...	0	14	6
Dock Labourers' Mission (Mr. Coleman)—E.W.	0	10	0
Lepers in India—M.S. ...	2	2	0
Evelina Hospital for Sick Children—M.S. ...	1	1	0
Homes of Hope, Regent-square—Misses C. ...	1	0	0
Miss Whateley's Girls, Cairo—Misses C. ...	1	0	0
Barcelona Cottage Hospital, Mildmay—Misses C.	0	10	0
Ladies' Samaritan Society—Misses C. ...	0	10	0
Hospital for Paralysed & Epileptic—Misses C. ...	0	10	0
Bethel Santhal Mission—Misses C. ...	1	0	0
Bridge of Hope, Ratcliff—E.V. 9s; F.R. £1; H.M.A.S. 10s; Night Shelter—Misses C. £1; T.N.J. 10s ...	3	9	0
Luther Memorial Home—Misses C. ...	0	10	0
Lambeth Rag. Schools—Bath, 2s 6d; T.O. 3s 6d	0	6	0
Dublin City Mission—A.B.D. ...	0	1	0
China Inland Mission—The Springs Bible-class, 9s; Belfast, £2; R.C. £10 10s ...	12	19	0
Suppression Opium Traffic with China (Lecturing & Travelling Agent)—Mrs. C. £2 2s; Rev. Canon M. 5s; Mrs. S. 10s; Rev. H.M. 10s; Rev. T.H. 10s; Mrs. P.E. 10s; Rev. J.D. 10s; R.C. £5; M.E. £1 1s; J.S.H.H. 5s ...	11	3	0
Mrs. Ginever's Orphan Homes—A.A. 5s; Alpha, £1	1	5	0
Mr. Fegan's Boys' Home—Z.Y.X. ...	0	2	6
St. Giles' Christian Mission—Z.Y.X. ...	0	2	6
Mr. Archibald G. Brown's Work—J.M. ...	1	0	0
Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen—Belfast, £2; H.M.A.S. 5s ...	2	5	0
Bible & Colportage Society, Ireland—Belfast, £1; H.M.A.S. 10s ...	1	10	0
Dr. Stephenson's Home—R.C. ...	6	0	0
London City Mission—R.C. ...	10	0	0
Latimer Church, Bow (Food, &c., for Poor)—Sympathy ...	0	2	0
Bristol Orphan Houses—A.W.W. ...	5	0	0
Unemployed Dock Labourers (Mr. Chorley)—H.M.A.S. ...	0	5	0
London Medical Mission—H.M.A.S. ...	0	10	0
Waifs & Strays, 32, Charing-cross—H.M.A.S. ...	1	0	0
Miss Robinson's Work, Portsmouth—H.M.A.S. 5s; Alexandria—H.M.A.S. 5s ...	0	10	0
George-yard Ragged Schools—H.M.A.S. ...	0	10	0
Seamen's Christian Friend Society—H.M.A.S. ...	0	10	0
Railway Mission—H.M.A.S. ...	0	10	0
Midnight Meeting Movement—M.S. ...	3	3	0
	£111	3	6

[Advertisements.]

Gospel Preaching (per Mr. C. Russell Hurditch)—Anon., 5s.

London Samaritan Society (Free Meals)—Miss H.M.O., 9s; A., Clifton, 5s; Mrs. D. 2s 3d; Miss P. 1s 6d.

ESCORIAL, SPAIN.—We are greatly indebted to you for sending us The Christian, and read it with much interest. The matron of our country home for the orphans here has gathered round her in the evenings a little band of the village children, whom she teaches to read and write, to sing our sweet hymns, and to know something of the Gospel story. Their ignorance is appalling. On one occasion, when she asked, "Where is God?" one of them started up to look all through the room. The children pay for their books and copy-books, and it is touching to see how cheerfully they bring their centimos to pay for copy-books, or primers for those who are looked upon as "poor" even in this ragged community. We should be very grateful for help for benches and long tables for this village night-school, which we hope may yet develop into a regular day-school. The children come on Sundays for religious instruction, and it is a pleasure to speak to such eager listeners.

Escorial, Spain. Jeanie E. Fleinder.

A VERY PRESSING NEED.

IN a village in the West of Ireland a Scriptural School has been carried on with much success for many years. It has been maintained by the personal efforts of the family of the resident proprietor, whose means, under existing circumstances, do not admit of his rebuilding it. The School is attended by over Forty Children, who are daily instructed in the Word of God, but the School House is in a state of irreparable decay, the walls being held together by props. A new building is absolutely necessary if a Romish education, without the Bible, for the villagers is to be prevented.

"Clarisford, Killaloe, Co. Clare.

"I most cordially recommend the Appeal for the rebuilding of Ardrahan School House, the advantages and importance of which I am well aware of.

"WM. B. KILLALOE."

"I beg fully to concur in his Lordship's recommendation.

"HORACE W. TOWNSEND, Clerk, M.A., 11, Buckingham-street, Strand, London, W.C."

Contributions towards this proposed new School House will be gratefully received and acknowledged by—

MRS. SMYLY, 35, Upper Fitzwilliam-st., Dublin; or,
MRS. HATT NOBLE, Ardmore, Bray.

The estimated cost of the Building needed is £320, of which £183 6s. has now been subscribed. With so much in hand the work is being commenced, and help is earnestly asked towards the £136 14s. still required, so that no debt may be incurred.

Mrs. Smyly returns her thanks for £120 10s. already acknowledged, and for the following:—Mrs. Miller, 1s.; Jas. Winter, Esq., £1; Miss C. M. Smith, £1; X. Y. Z., £1; Col. MacGregor, £1; Mr. J. L. Townsend, 5s.; Mrs. Shawe-Taylor, 5s.; A Friend, 5s.; H. M. Smythe, Esq., £1; Mrs. Potterton, 10s.; H. Williams, Esq., 10s.; Miss Saffery, 5s.; Lady Constance Kennedy, £5; Mrs. and Miss Gibson, 10s.; Miss Gardiner, £1 2s.; Mrs. J. M. Kearney, £2 2s.; Miss Wood, £1; Miss H. M. Maunsell, £1; Anon, 5s.; A Friend, £5; Two Friends, £1 2s.; Miss Letchworth, 10s.; Per Mrs. Noble, £5; Miss H. Poole, 3s.; Miss Grierson, £1 2s. 6d.; Mrs. E. N. Knocker, 2s. 6d.; Mrs. Massy, 10s.; Rev. W. Druit, 2s. 6d.; E. M., 5s.; Miss E. S. Waller, 5s.; Mr. Scott, 10s.; Major-General H. H. Steward, £1; Miss Shawe, 2s. 6d.; Duncan Davidson, Esq., 10s.; H. H., 10s.; Mrs. Banks, 10s.; Miss Stileman, 5s.; A Stranger, £1; Lady Tankerville, £2; F. P., 2s. 6d.; Miss Nicholson, 5s.; John Wilkinson, Esq., 5s.; Mr. J. A. E. Pearce, 3s.; Miss S. Stewart, 10s.; S. and A. Saunders, £1 5s.; Miss Henderson, £1; Miss Edmonds, 10s.; Miss C. E. Pigott, £1; Miss C. M. Cahill, 5s.; Miss Cobbe, 1s.; Mrs. Taylor, 10s.; Miss Cooke, 5s.; M. H. G., 10s.; Rev. R. Gascoyne, £2; Miss M. Atkin, 10s.; Alfred W. Deering, 5s.; J. P. N., 5s.; Mrs. Elliott, £2; J. C. Bolton, Esq., 10s. 6d.; Miss M. D. Candy, 10s.; Anon, 1s.; Anon, 2s.; J. Richardson, Esq., Q.C., 10s.; Rev. T. C. Tatham, £1; A Reader of Christian, 3s.; Mrs. Tighe, 5s.; Geo. Lamb, Esq., 10s.; Anon, 1s. 6d.; Mrs. Needham, 2s. 6d.

LONDON CITY MISSION.

THE
FIFTY-THIRD ANNUAL MEETING
WILL BE HELD (D.V.) IN EXETER HALL,
On THURSDAY, MAY 3, 1888.

The Chair to be taken at 10.30 a.m.
by F. A. BEVAN, Esq.

SPEAKERS.—Earl Compton; Rev. Sir Emilius Laurie, Bart., Vicar of St. John's, Oxford Square; Rev. John Bond; Rev. G. F. Head, Vicar of Christ Church, Hampstead.

Tickets may be had at the Mission House, 3, Bridewell-place, E.C., or at Exeter Hall.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

MAY MEETING IN EXETER HALL,
On WEDNESDAY, May 2,
At 7 p.m.

THE GENERAL will report on the history of the Salvation Army of the past 12 months.

MRS. BOOTH will (D.V.) speak,
Also COMMISSIONER and MRS. BOOTH-TUCKER.

Reserved Seats, One Shilling.

EXETER HALL.—Visitors to the London May Meetings can obtain "The Christian," also any other publications of Messrs. Morgan & Scott, at the Bookstall in the Vestibule, Exeter Hall.

SCRIPTURE READERS' SOCIETY FOR IRELAND.

ESTABLISHED 1822.

President.
The Rt. Hon. Lord Plunket, Archbishop of Dublin.

FUNDS GREATLY NEEDED in order to extend the itinerant work of the Society, as well also, to supply Scripture Readers to places in urgent need of such aid. Reports and full particulars can be had on application to the Secretary, Capt. Jas. Kearney White. Offices: 27, Lower Pembroke-street, Dublin; and No. 9, Paternoster-row, London.

Note.—Friends will please notice the exact title "Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland," and not "Irish Scripture Readers' Society."

SOCIETY FOR RELIEF OF PERSECUTED JEWS

(SYRIAN COLONIZATION FUND).

President—THE EARL OF MEATH.

Letters from Jerusalem, April 4, say rain still delayed—the heat great—price of water at famine rate—bread nearly doubled. The Jews suffering intensely. "Never in all my long stay have I seen such a terrible time."

Prompt Help entreated for Relief by Work and Food.

Bankers—Messrs. Drummond & Co., 49, Charing-cross;
Barclay, Bevan & Co., 54, Lombard-street;
Bank of England; Royal Bank of Scotland;
Provincial Bank of Ireland.

Secretary—E. A. FINN, 41, Parliament-st., London.

The Anchorage.

Hebrews vi. 19.

To Shelter, and give Spiritual care to, Young Women lately Fallen into Sin, whether or not about to become Mothers, with a special annexe and suitable arrangements for such as are of gentle birth.

ANYONE desiring admission for such cases to apply (by letter only) to Mrs. H. Stuart-Wortley, Rosslyn House, Grove End-road, N.W., London, also for Servants trained in the Anchorage House. Donations may be sent to Mrs. Stuart-Wortley for the Anchorage Mission, or to Messrs. Morgan & Scott.

A PROPHETIC CONFERENCE,

At which various Ministers and Laymen well versed in Prophecy, will speak upon the Approaching Great Events of Prophecy, will be held in the

Lower Hall of Exeter Hall, Strand, London,

On MONDAY, April 30, at 11 a.m., 3 p.m., and 7 p.m. And in the Council Hall of Exeter Hall,

On May 1, at 11 a.m.; May 2, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., and May 3, at 11 a.m., 3 p.m., and 7 p.m. Questions and Remarks invited after the Addresses. Chair to be taken by Rev. M. BAXTER.

The Religious Tract Society.

EIGHTY-NINTH ANNIVERSARY.

THE PUBLIC MEETING will be held on FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 4, 1888, at EXETER HALL. The Chair will be taken at Half-past Six o'clock, by LORD BALFOUR OF BURLEIGH. Speakers: Rev. T. Eynon Davies, Rev. Canon Fleming, M.A., B.D., Rev. John Piper. A Choir of 600 Children, from the Elementary Schools, will sing from Six p.m. and during the Evening, under the direction of Mr. Joseph Proudman. Tickets for the Reserved Seats may be had on application to the Secretaries, 56, Paternoster-row, London.

THE MISSIONARY BREAKFAST will be held in the GREAT HALL, CANNON-STREET HOTEL, on TUESDAY, MAY 15, at 9 a.m., under the Presidency of Sir John H. Kennaway, Bart., M.P. Tickets, Half-a-Crown each, may be had of the Secretaries, 56, Paternoster-row, London, E.C.

Mission to Deep-Sea Fishermen.

BRIDGE HOUSE, BLACKFRIARS BRIDGE, E.C.

THE ANNUAL MEETING
WILL BE HELD AT
EXETER HALL, on WEDNESDAY, MAY 16.

At 2.30 There will be a Recital on the Great Organ by Mr. Churchill Sibley, interspersed by Solo Singing.

At 3 The Chair will be taken by Sir JAMES FERGUSSON, Bart., K.C.M.G., G.C.S.I., C.I.E., Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs. About 300 Smacksmen are expected on the Platform. Admission to the Afternoon Meeting will be by Tickets only. The prices being 10s. 6d., 2s. 6d., 1s., and 6d.

The EVENING MEETING will be

At 7 Under the Presidency of THOMAS GRAY, Esq., C.B., when there will be some new and beautifully-painted Dissolving Views—Illustrations of Life in the Trawling Fleets—accompanied by personal testimony of the Smacksmen, with Solo and Chorus Singing. Tickets, 1s. and 6d. each.

THE HOME MISSION WORK OF THE CHURCH.

Church Pastoral-Aid Society.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of this, the first Church of England Society to engage in Home Mission Work, will (d.v.) be held in EXETER HALL, Strand, London, on THURSDAY, MAY 3, 1888. The Chair will be taken at 2.30 p.m. precisely by J. D. ALLCROFT, Esq., President. The Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Rochester; the Rev. Prebendary Billing, M.A., Rector of Spitalfields; the Rev. T. Graham, M.A., Incumbent of St. Bride's, Liverpool; the Rev. D. D. Jones, B.D., Vicar of St. Paul's, Llanelly; and George Skey, Esq., are expected to address the Meeting.

THE ANNUAL SERMON will (d.v.) be preached at ST. DUNSTAN'S CHURCH, Fleet-street, by the Right Rev. LORD BISHOP OF SODOR AND MAN, on WEDNESDAY, MAY 2, 1888. Divine Service will commence at 7.30 p.m. Tickets may be had at the Society's Offices, Falcon-court, Fleet-street; Messrs. Seeley, Essex-street, Strand; Hatchards, 187, Piccadilly; Nisbet, 21, Berners-street, W.; and Partridge, 9, Paternoster-row, E.C.

GRAY'S YARD RAGGED CHURCH & SCHOOLS,

JAMES STREET, OXFORD STREET, LONDON, W.

President—F. A. BEVAN, ESQ., 54, Lombard Street, E.C.

Funds are Urgently Needed to meet the current Expenses of this Institution. From 500 to 700 Casuals and Tramps are here supplied with Bread and Coffee every Sunday, after Gospel Services. Nearly £3 per week required for Food alone.

Contributions will be thankfully received and acknowledged by George Hanbury, Esq., Treasurer, 21, Portman-square, W.; Philip Gough, Esq., Hon. Sub-Treasurer, 33, Cambridge-street, Hyde-park, W.; or by Messrs. Morgan & Scott.

A CRY FOR HELP FROM SOUTH LONDON.

LAMBETH RAGGED SCHOOLS, Newport-street, Lambeth Walk, are in a most destitute district. The Committee are compelled to leave unattempted most urgent work for want of Funds. A Thousand Halfpenny Dinners and Free Porridge Breakfasts supplied weekly during winter (by aid of Rev. A. Mearn's Fund for "Outcast London") to Hungry and very Needy Children. Many good Agencies in operation for Old and Young, and 1,500 benefited weekly. Ninety Voluntary Workers. All subscriptions go without deduction to help the Poor, and all cases carefully investigated.

"Bear ye one another's burdens." WHO WILL HELP?

Contributions thankfully received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott; or at 106, Leathwaite-road, Clapham-common, S.W., by EDWIN NICHOLLS, Hon. Sec.

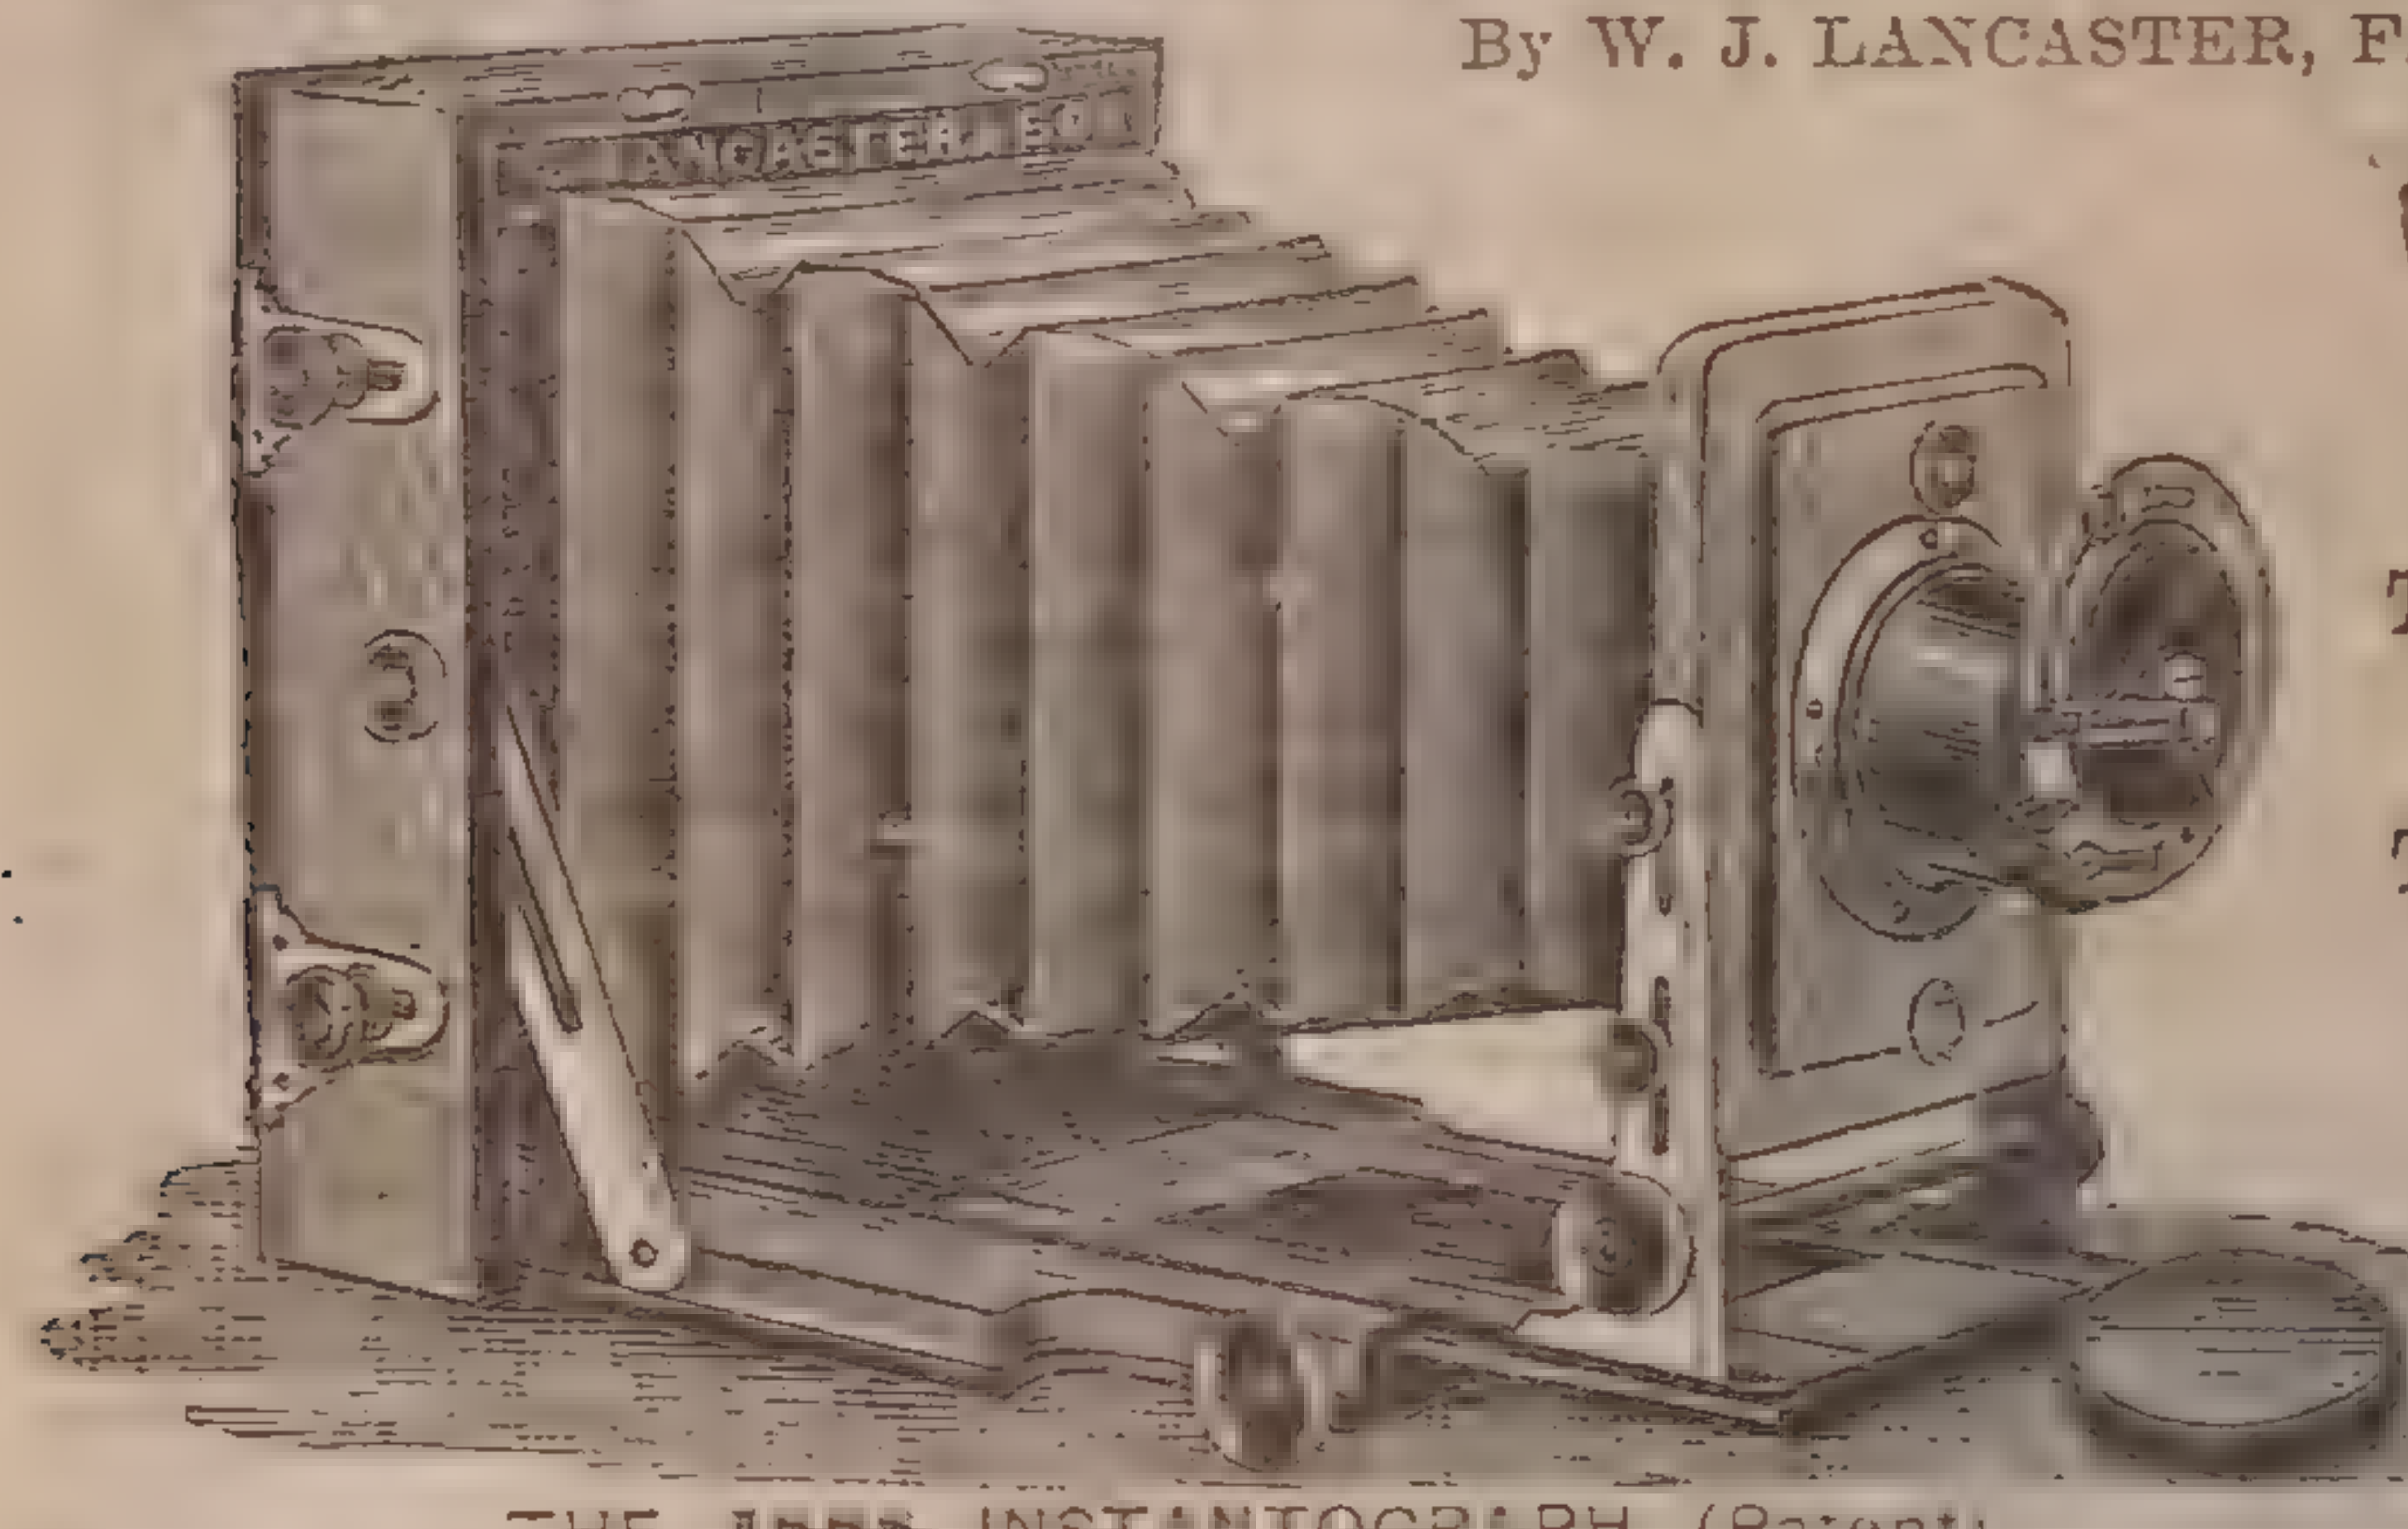
President: HON. LIONEL ASHLEY.

J. LANCASTER & SON, OPTICIANS, BIRMINGHAM.

THE LARGEST MAKERS IN THE WORLD. OVER 35,000 SOLD

"HOW TO BE A SUCCESSFUL AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHER,"

By W. J. LANCASTER, F.C.S., &c. 72 pp., 6 Stamps.



THE 1888 INSTANTOGRAPH (Patent).

CAMERA, LENS & STAND

THE 1888 LE MERVEILLEUX
(PATENT),
½ Pl., 21/-; ½ Pl., 42/-; 1-1 Pl., 63/-.

THE 1888 LE MERITOIRE
(PATENT),
¼ Pl., 31/6; ½ Pl., 63/-; 1-1 Pl., 90/-.

THE 1888 INSTANTOGRAPH
(PATENT),
¼ Pl., 42/-; ½ Pl., 84/-; 1-1 Pl., 126/-.

THE INTERNATIONAL
(PATENT),
¼ Pl., 50/-; ½ Pl., 100/-; 1-1 Pl., 150/-

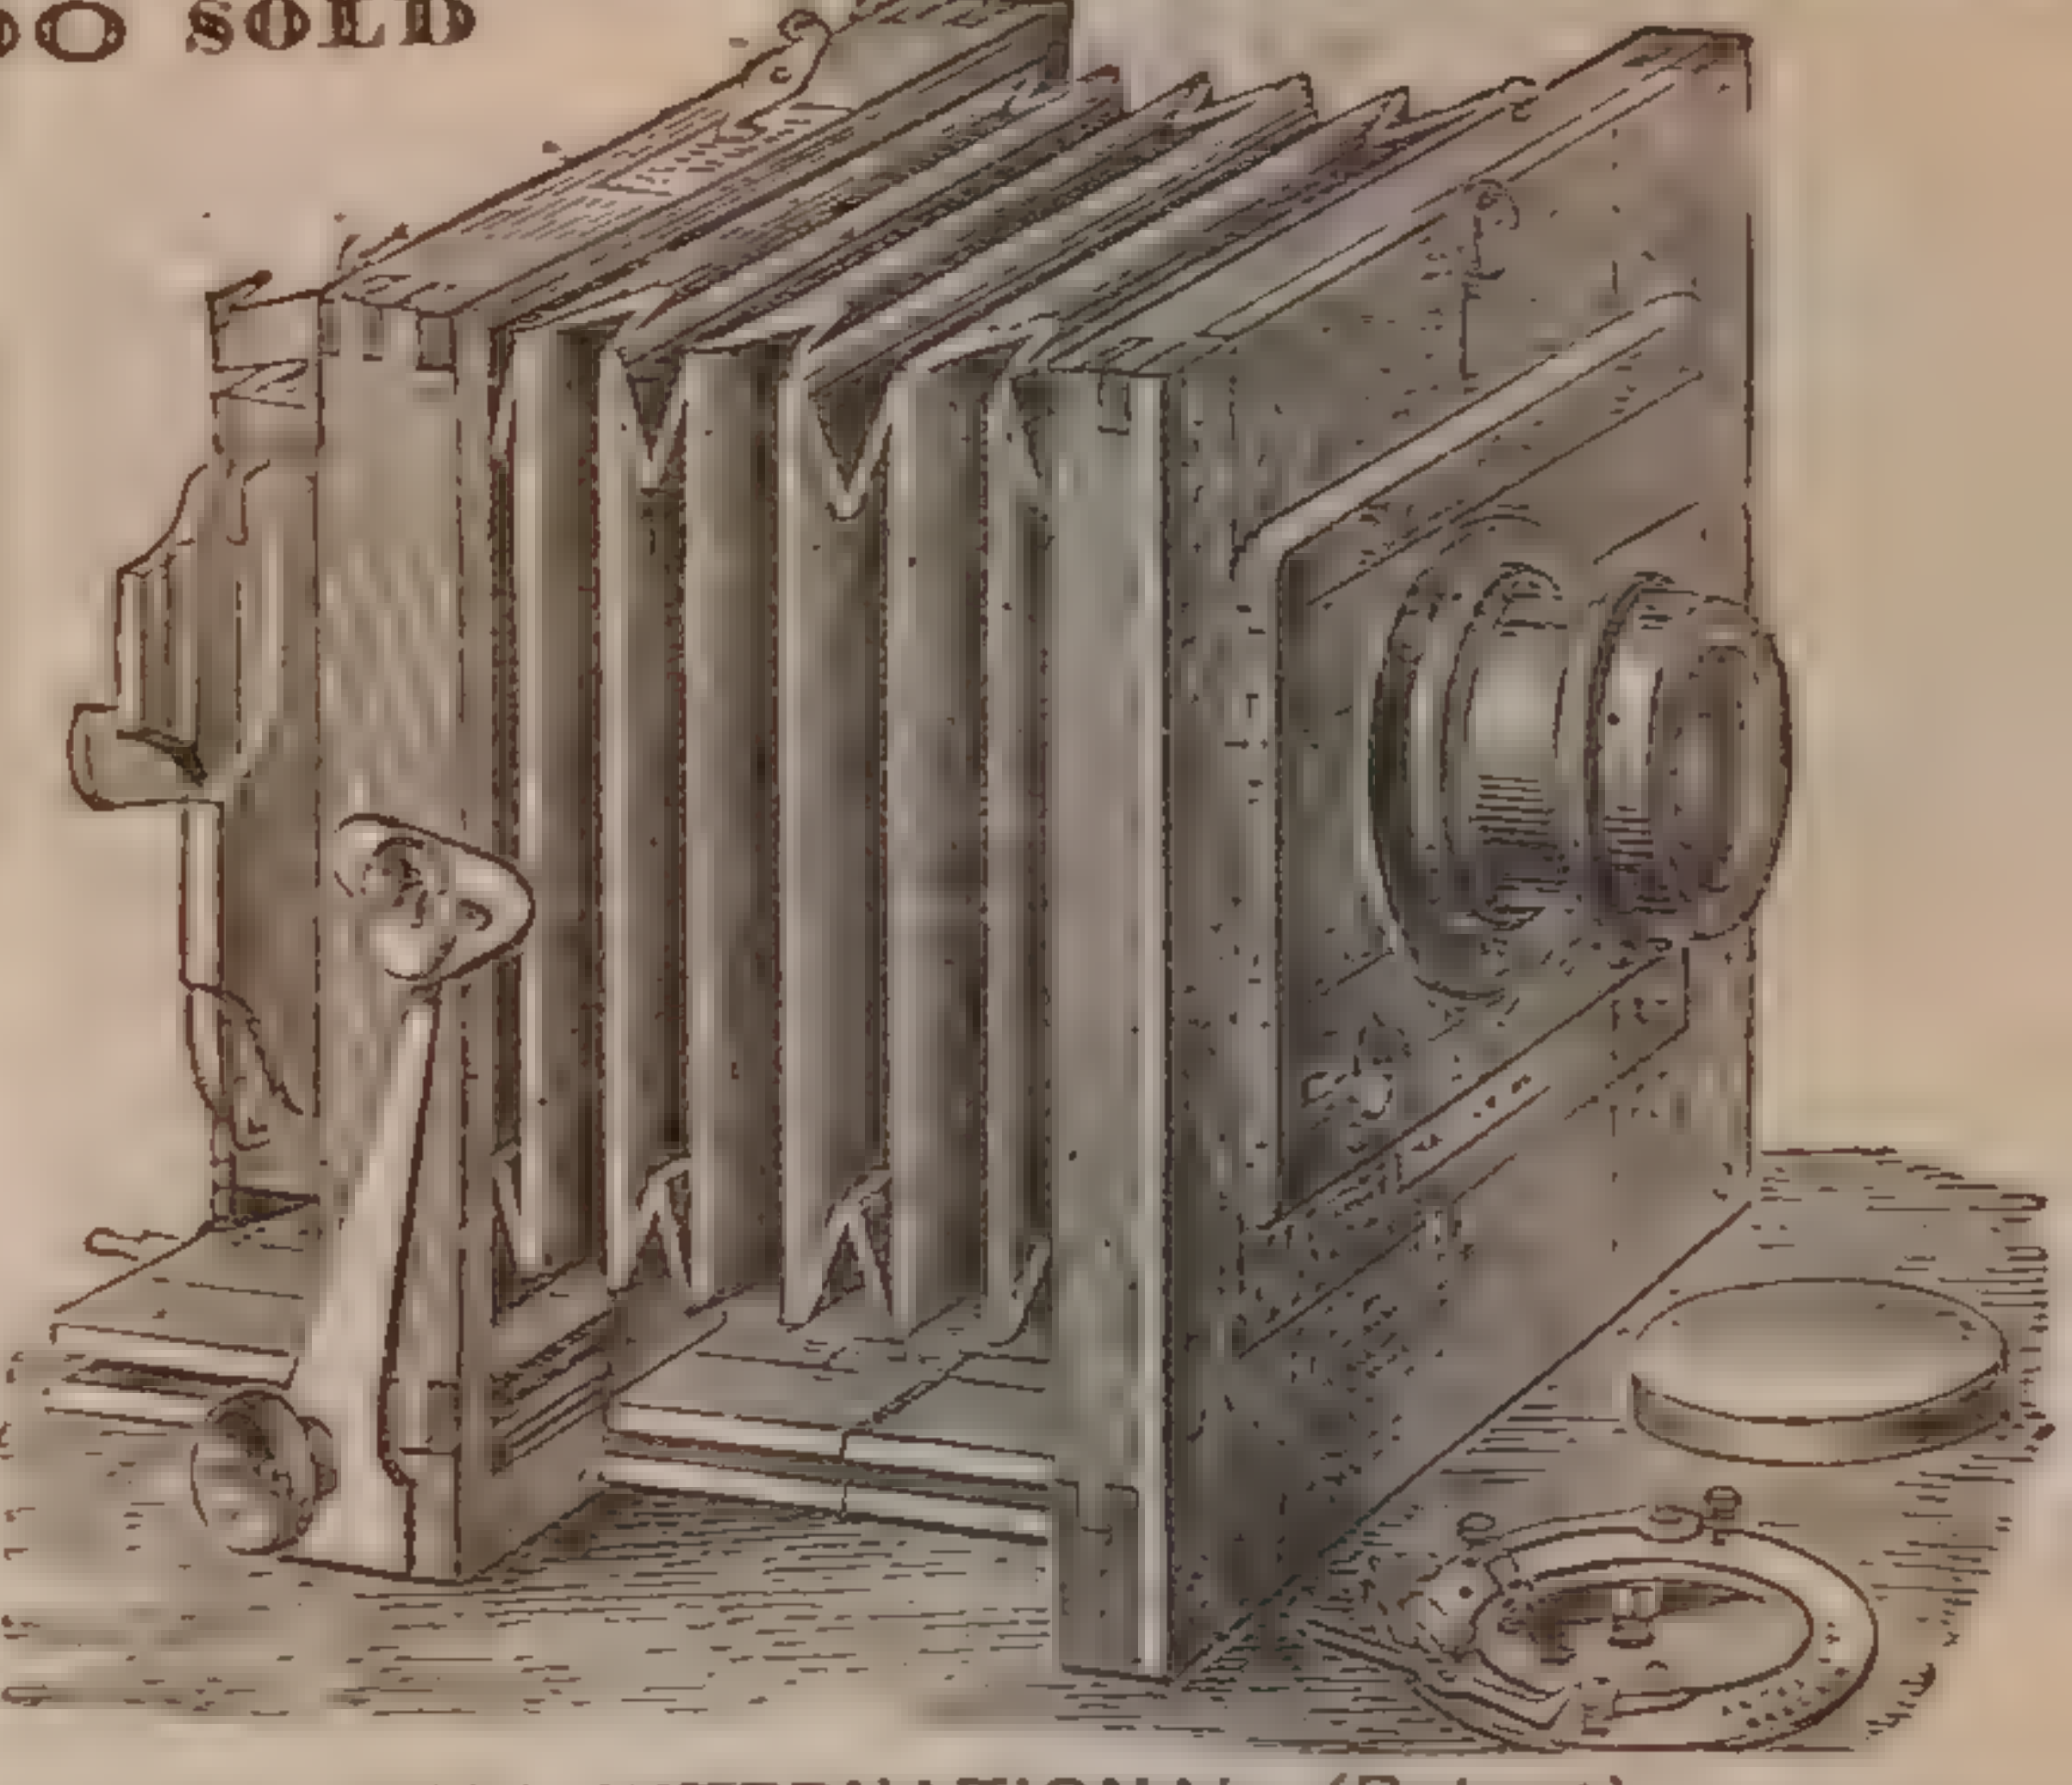
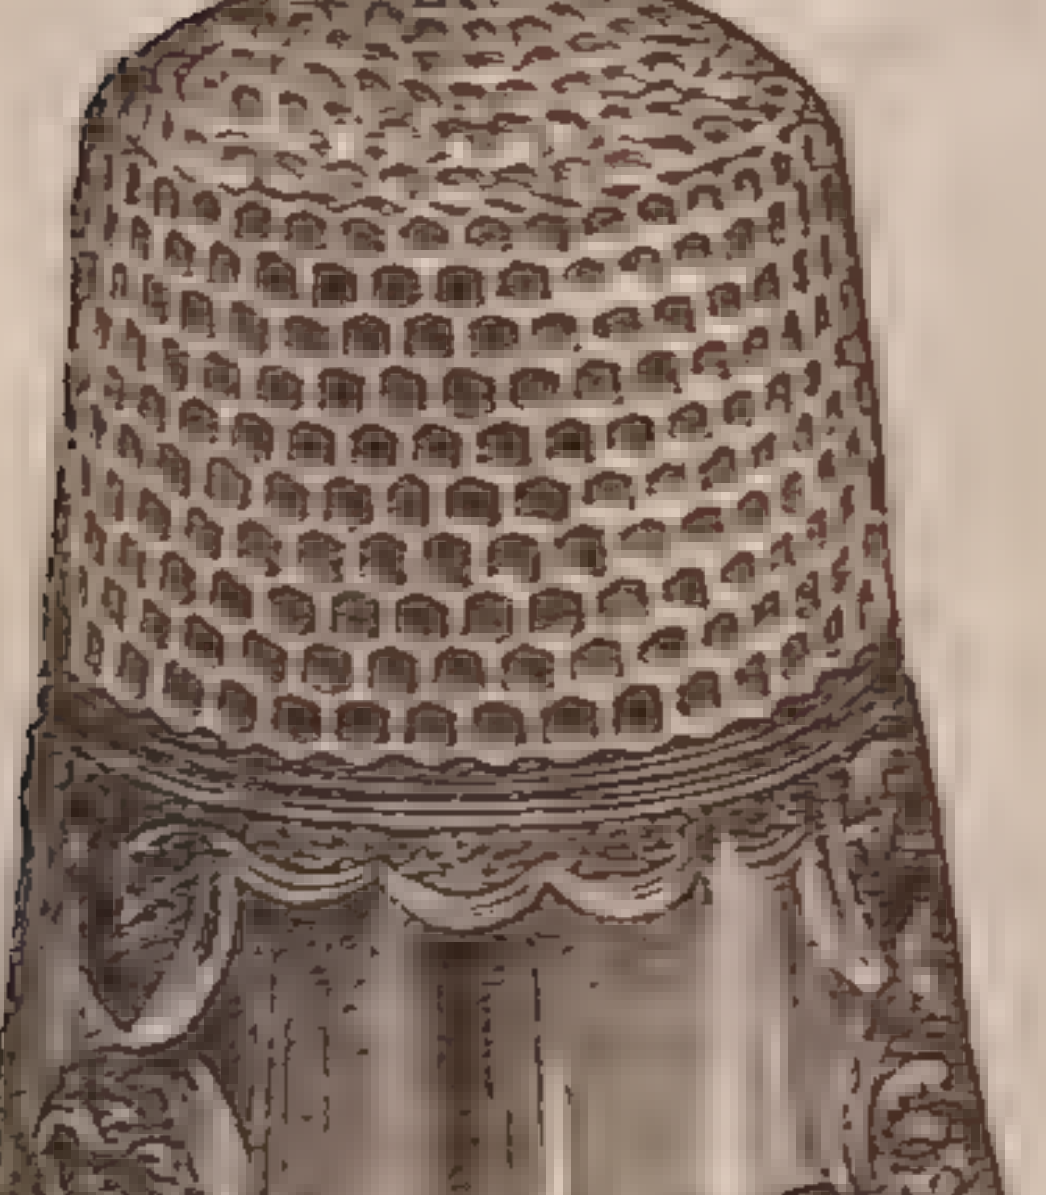
NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE.
FOUR STAMPS.



THE INTERNATIONAL (Patent).

THE "DORCAS" THIMBLE.



(Horner's Patent.)

STERLING SILVER.

The Queen, May 8th, says —"The 'Dorcas' Thimble is more durable than the generality of these indispensable work-table implements. It is made in three parts, the inner and the outer being Silver, and the intermediate Steel; forming a resisting power not [illegible] in silver only. What is more uncomfortable than sewing with a thimble that has seen service to such an extent that it has holes in its sides? With the 'Dorcas' Thimble this annoyance vanishes."

2s. 6d. FROM ALL JEWELLERS.

If you cannot obtain it near you, send a wax impression of the open end of old Thimble to show the size, to

C. HORNER, Thimble Manufacturer, HALIFAX.

IN WRITING MENTION THIS PAPER.

COMFORT FOR THE FEET.

Corns, hard or soft, Bunions, and Chilblains may be removed, and Enlarged Toe Joints reduced, by the use of the New French Corn Plaster. The Sole Importer and Proprietor is M. F. THOMPSON, Homœopathic Chemist, 17, GORDON STREET, GLASGOW, from whom the Plaster may be had in packets, by post, for Fourteen Stamps. Those who are troubled with the discomfort of Corns, &c., will be glad to have attention called to this remedy, as it removes pain very speedily.

"It is a simple Plaster, thin as silk, and comfortable to the Foot."
—LADY MAUDE ——.

☞BEWARE OF ALL IMITATIONS.

CAN YOU READ THIS?

"COCOON" KNITTING WOOL.

Numerous complaints having been made that inferior wool balled in the same style is sold as Genuine COCOON Wool, please note that none is genuine unless bearing the word COCOON, which is our registered Trade Mark, on the band.

Directions for knitting a number of useful articles free of charge, on receipt of Stamped and Addressed Envelope, mentioning name of this paper.

The fastest possible dyes are used for Cocoon Wool.

WOOD & BURTT,
SPINNERS,
HOLMFIRTH.

NOVELTIES IN NEEDLEWORK FOR BAZAARS, Sales of Work, SEASON'S GIFTS, Etc., Etc.

NEW SEASON'S CATALOGUE

Now Ready. Free by Post. Containing List, at mere nominal prices of HUNDREDS of lovely, inexpensive but exceedingly useful artistic novelties in many charming new articles, shapes, styles, and ideas, all of which meet with most ready sale at every place they have ever yet been brought before the notice of purchasers.

Goods are also sent on approbation for their cash value PREVIOUSLY deposited.

FULL PARTICULARS are given in Price List, with GENUINE Testimonials from Ladies and Bazaar Committees who have availed themselves of the exceptional advantages of this system, as any quantity of the goods can be returned, and balance of cash deposited is immediately returned by us.

"Excellent" Real Scotch Knitting & Fancy Wools.

FULL WEIGHT of every description, in any quantity at Wholesale Price.

WAKEFORD BROS., Artistic Needlework, Wool Knitting Yarn, and Fancy Emporium,
104 and 106, KING'S ROAD, SLOANE SQUARE, LONDON.

Possessing all the Properties of the Finest Arrowroot,

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR

IS A HOUSEHOLD REQUISITE OF CONSTANT UTILITY

For the NURSERY, the FAMILY TABLE, and the SICK ROOM

NOTE.—First produced and designated CORN FLOUR by BROWN AND POLSON in 1856; not till some time afterwards was any other Corn Flour anywhere heard of, and none has now an equal claim to the public confidence.

FIRESIDE SHOPPING!

NO BRANCHES, AGENTS OR WASTEFUL EXPENSES.

PARCELS CARRIAGE PAID.

ECROYD'S (LOMESHAYE MILLS) CHOICE DRESS FABRICS

SILK-WARP HENRIETTAS LOMESHAYE CASHMERES AND OTHER NOTED CLOTHS

SEND FOR A BOX OF PATTERNS

TABLE LINEN, BED LINEN, TOWELS, HANDKERCHIEFS, & ALL FURNISHING LINENS.

RICHARDSON'S (BELFAST) HOUSEHOLD LINENS.

CASH WITH ORDER

FOX'S WELLINGTON SERGES.

FOX'S NAVY BLUE SERGES
DRESS AND COSTUME SERGES
SERGE SUITINGS for BOYS & MEN. Warranted indigo dye, will stand Washing, Seawater and Sunshine.

FLANNELS WHITE SCARLET AND FANCY

FOX'S HOMESPUNS
CRICKETING & TENNIS SERGES.
ALL MADE OF PURE WOOL
WARRANTED SHRUNK.

SUPPLIED DIRECT BY ELLWOOD BROCKBANK,
THE WAREHOUSE. SETTLE. YORKSHIRE.

The Christian:

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

A Weekly Record of Christian Life, Christian Testimony, Christian Work and Missionary Enterprise.

No. 953.] LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS, E.C. FRIDAY, MAY 4, 1888. REGISTERED AT THE G.P.O. AS A NEWSPAPER. [ONE PENNY. POST FREE, 1½d.

LORD BALFOUR OF BURLEIGH.

THIS Scottish nobleman holds a high and deservedly honoured position in public life. He is one of the sixteen elected representative Scottish peers having seats in the House of Lords. As Chairman of the Royal Commission under the Educational Endowments Act for Scotland, and in other official duties, he has shown himself an able and energetic servant of the State. In ecclesiastical affairs he takes active interest, being a ruling elder of the Kirk of Scotland, an office the more noteworthy as few of the Scottish peers, compared with former times, are now supporters of the Presbyterian Established Church. Better than any titular or official distinction, he takes a warm and increasing interest in missionary and other directly Christian work. We are, therefore, not surprised to find him presiding to-day (Friday) at the annual meeting of the Religious Tract Society at Exeter Hall, as was done a few years ago by his kinsman, the Earl of Aberdeen.

Lord Balfour of Burleigh was born in 1849. His father, Robert Bruce of Kennet, Vice-Lieutenant and Convener of the county of Clackmannan, is remembered by many as an honourable and public-spirited country gentleman. Educated at Eton, and at Oriel College, Oxford, he took his M.A. degree in 1874. In 1868 he had been declared heir to the then dormant barony of Balfour of Burleigh, a peerage created in 1607 in the person of Sir Michael Balfour, P.C., who was ambassador to the Duke of Tuscany, and who held other official positions in the reign of James I. The title was given to him as representative of the Balfours of Burleigh, a very old Fife family. The title descends through the female line, for the daughter of the first baron married an Arnot, who assumed the name of Balfour. By a marriage at a later period, the title came to the Bruce family. There were some romantic incidents in the history of the barons in former days, but it is only necessary to mention here that the fifth Lord Balfour was attainted in 1716. By Act of Parliament in 1869, the year after the claim by descent was established, the barony was relieved of the effect of the attainder.

(From a Photograph by Mr. Moffat, Edinburgh.)

In 1876 Lord Balfour of Burleigh was elected a representative peer, and the same year witnessed his marriage with Lady Katherine E. Gordon, the youngest daughter of the good Lord Haddo, afterwards the fifth Earl of Aberdeen. These details will seem of no great importance to those who care little for earthly dignities, like one lady of high rank—a Fife woman, too—who wrote large on the blank front page of her Book of the Peerage, "Revelation xxi. 27." But it is interesting to know the antecedents and connections of public men; and as Lord Balfour of Burleigh is only in his fortieth year, we trust he may be more than heretofore prominent in good and useful work in the Church of Christ, as well as in public affairs.

In proof of Lord Balfour of Burleigh's ability as a writer, we need only cite an article on the Church of Scotland in the December number of The Contemporary Review. We must not discuss the question of Disestablishment, for it would bring us on controversial ground foreign to this journal. But there is the ring of true statesmanship in what his lordship says:—

> The real line of defence is, What is best for the benefit of the State, and what is best for the cause of religion? ...So far as the past is considered, the Church of Scotland can claim that for centuries she has contributed to the welfare of the country. She can point to the fact that through the most troubled periods of her separate national existence her fortunes were identified with those of civil and religious liberty; it is in no small measure to her that the sturdy independence of Scotsmen is due, which has become a byeword among the nations.

These words breathe the same spirit in which the great and good Dr. Livingstone spoke in the charming autobiographical sketch prefixed to his first book of Missionary Travels:—"My father reared us in connection with the Kirk of Scotland—an establishment which has been an incalculable blessing to that country." This Dr. Livingstone wrote long after his family had been connected with Nonconformity, and after the controversies which brought wider divisions into the Church of his forefathers. The tone and spirit of Lord Balfour's article in The Contemporary Review will be appreciated even by those who may not agree with the writer's opinions.

We ought, perhaps, to mention that the family of Balfour of Burleigh has no connection with that of another Balfour famous in Scottish history — Balfour of Burley, familiar to many from the pages of Sir Walter Scott's "Old Mortality," and from more trustworthy records of the times of the Covenanters. The similarity in the names might naturally lead to confusion, and this was amusingly apparent during the proceedings in the House of Lords on the revival of the old peerage. The Earl of Beaconsfield (then Mr. Disraeli) and Dr. Tait, the Archbishop of Canterbury, we have heard, were among those who asked if it was by Balfour of Burley's family that the title was claimed!

Dr. Clifford on the Primitive Faith.

A CRITIQUE BY A BAPTIST MINISTER.

Whatever view may be taken of Dr. Clifford's Presidential Address, no fault surely can be found with its subject. "The Great Forty Years; or, The Primitive Christian Faith: its real substance and best defence," is a theme which demands attention to the original springs of Christianity; shows us what Apostolic teaching and practice unfold; and enables us to test modern tendency and opinion in the balances of the sanctuary. Howbeit, by how much profession raises expectation, by so much does it render performance difficult. The more we are in accord with Dr. Clifford's object, and the greater the value we attach to his theme, the more exacting necessarily are we in respect of its treatment. Here indeed, if anywhere, the critical and the hypercritical are only separable by a hair; nevertheless we would not willingly offend in criticism even by a hairsbreadth.

In weighing the deliverances of most men, two things have to be reckoned with: (1) the personal equation, (2) the personal standpoint. In the case of some, the personal equation is a very minor matter, whereas in others it may assume large proportions. Dr. Clifford, more than most men we know, comes under the latter category. Whatever he touches is coloured and to no small extent characterised by the personal equation. It matters not what the theme be which he undertakes to discuss, he unconsciously seems to see in it what he wishes to see. Indeed, in listening to him from time to time, and in reading sundry of his papers, we are constantly reminded of the metaphysical dictum that "the greater part of knowledge is due to the informing power of the mind itself"; for, to the best of our judgment, his views of a subject are not so much determined by what he finds as by what he brings. If in this case the personal equation could be reduced to one-fourth the benefit accruing would be increased fourfold.

The objection to Dr. Clifford's standpoint is even more serious than to his personal equation. In religion Dr. Clifford is to a large extent humanitarian. Christianity as a social lever, a civilising power, a means of redressing civil disabilities and social wrongs, bulks so largely before his mind's eye that little else is seen. According to the inspired writers, "the whole world lieth in the wicked one"; but that is a conception of things to which Dr. Clifford seems almost insensible. According to him, "the battles of religion and of man are really battles about Christ and for Christ." How the battles of man can be said to champion the cause of Christ, in the face of his rejection by society of all grades, requires indeed a creative fancy to imagine.

But in this Dr. Clifford is but the exponent of an influential school that has sprung up in modern times, which estimates the practical in religion by its earthward significance. The motive power of this school is really "the enthusiasm of humanity," and what draws them to the standard of Christ is the notion that in his life and self-sacrificing death they have brought before them the grand model and secret of the power by which humanity at large is to be socially redeemed, cultured, civilised, and eventually perfected. The controlling idea with this school is Christianity as a leaven energetically entering into conflict with everything mundane and of the flesh, until polemically the enemy is no more, and there is no longer any social or political evil to fight against. The new humanitarian school, in a word, expends no end of toil and enthusiastic fervour in the vain hope that by an adequate pruning of the tree of nature they shall yet be able to educe from it spiritual fruit.

One would think that the stern logic of facts would succeed at last in opening the eyes of these devotees. But no! in the case of the leaders, at all events, the enthusiasm of humanity and the mistaken glamour of the Master's name keep them in total blindness. They are sure that their theory is right, that humanity is on the improve, that the battles of man are "battles about Christ, and for Christ," and believing this, facts are made to bend to the theory, though in themselves they be stubborn as granite and hard as steel. Anyone, for instance, whose eyes are open, must know that modern society is losing the very habit of going to a place of worship, and that no class of literature is so widely diffused and read as the sceptical and the latitudinarian. Then the condition of the churches of to-day resembles largely "salt that has lost its savour." An optimistic result, if not found in the statistical tables, can at least be evolved in theory, and waited for with expectant hope. Hence Dr. Clifford's sunny conclusion from the following beclouded premises:—

> Looked at along narrow lines, it may appear as though scepticism and unbelief were conquering men of education; mammon, men of business; and vacuity, the remainder; ay, and examining the churches, one might imagine that they had forgotten that they were not their own, but are bought with a price, and under unescapable obligations to save other people, whether they themselves are saved or not. But when the age is beheld in its depth and inwardness, in its yearnings and hopes, in its substantial faith and quiet service, it is clear that Jesus Christ is going everywhere, that his teachings are being sown in all soils, his power is present to heal in the synagogues of debate, his pavilion is at the very centre of the world's life, and his disciplined hosts are marching, as of old, from strength to strength and from victory to victory.

The humanitarian trend is strongly marked in Dr. Clifford's exposition of the confession of Peter, which is called by him "the primordial germ of the Christian creeds."

> "Fathom," he says, "its meanings. Thou art the Christ, the anointed of Jehovah; the key to all human struggle; the ideal of all aspiration; the authentic interpretation of the past; the supreme satisfaction of the coming ages......The highest man has the largest constituency, the widest representation; hence Peter gives utterance to the joy of humanity in the fulfilment of the hope of the world."

The plain teaching of this is the perfectibility of the nature of man considered per se. The direction of the race is to the good, and, therefore, the natural movement of humanity is towards Christ. A more erroneous view of the race could not be taken. To represent that Christ is "the key of all human struggle, the ideal of all aspiration," takes for granted the entire converse of the facts of the case. Christ was and still is the Stone which the builders rejected; He is the Divine quantity which is for ever in man's way. Instead of supplying the key of their struggles or the ideal of their aspirations, He is their abiding negative and condemnation; and those whom He saves are not saved in any respect upon the ground of nature, but by being born again and made new creatures in Himself. Humanitarianism weighed in the balances of the sanctuary is a subtle and specious fallacy. Peter's confession has never been, nor is it now, "the joy of humanity," "the fulfilment of the hope of the world." The joy of humanity is to kill the Heir; and the hope of the world is to be rid of Him, and to possess the inheritance without Him.

We search Dr. Clifford's address from the chair of the Baptist Union in vain for any trace of the true location of the Church as in the heavenlies with Christ. The heavenly citizenship of the believer upon the earth has no place in his exposition of the Great Forty Years. And yet that is the dominant conception of things alike in the teachings of Peter, John, and Paul. They do not try to improve the world as such; nor do they know how to flatter the race by a single humanitarian conceit. Not theirs to prune the tree of nature, but to root it up. They never dream of setting Christ forth as the consummation of humanity's tendency; the goal of man's own direction. Christ came to save the lost, and they preach Him in his sacrificial atonement, in order that such, believing, might live. In the eyes of the early advocates of the Gospel the world is a wreck, and the business of the Christian is to save the perishing from the abyss of eternal doom. The early Church certainly did not ignore the temporal, but their mind was not set on earth, but on the things above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God.

Dr. Clifford's indictment against Greek philosophy and Roman religion is that "they did not burn to save men and women disinherited by avarice, plunged into the abyss of cruelty by polytheism," &c.; and his eulogium on the Church of the first forty years is to this effect, that "it did not permit the poor to rot, meet tyrannous strength with truculence, bend on supple knee to wealth and state, or luxuriate in its own glad emotions. No, it made

> All men's good
> Each man's rule, and universal love
> Lie like a shaft of light across the land,
> And like a line of beams athwart the sea,
> Through all the circle of the golden years.

Such language seems to eulogise the Church of the first forty years. But the compliments they enshrine would only have evoked the pity of the original exponents of the Gospel. "Our citizenship," they would have said, "is on high. The disc of our vision is not filled by any scheme of civil polity or earthward relationship. Not man's relation to man is our chief thought, but his relation to the Christ of God. Humanitarianism does not in the least degree explain our distinctive mission, but community alone with the risen life of the Lord Jesus, even as the Holy Ghost by the mouth of Paul has said, 'Ye died, and your life is hid with Christ in God.'"

We can only advert, in conclusion, to the absence of any distinct forthsetting of Christ as a substitute in Dr. Clifford's address, and to the modified universalism that appears to pervade it. There is also obtruded the strange conceit that pain, as such, is purifying. The address, taken as a whole, is massive, elaborate, scientific in form, and polished in expression, but it is poor in spiritual contents, and quite inadequate as a declaration of the primitive faith.

"THE REAL OLD GOSPEL."

A western watering-place was once the resort of a number of well-instructed and gifted Christian men, who, forbearing to exercise their gifts on the world of the ungodly, began (if we may use Paul's figurative language to the Galatians) to "bite and devour one another." These isles of the sea, which God has so highly favoured with Divine truth and spiritual gifts, are much in the same condition. The gates of the world are open to the Gospel; but, instead of sending forth her men to the hundreds of millions who lie in darkness and the shadow of death, they are crowded at home thrashing well-fished waters.

Instead of proving that their swords are of good Jerusalem steel by going forth to battle and slaying the Lord's enemies, they stay at home and occupy themselves with mutual recriminations, disputing whether each other's weapons are steel or lead.

Actual individual contact with souls whom the Holy Ghost has convinced of sin quickly proves that "the real old Gospel" is that which the advocates of human culture and perfectibility blasphemously call "the religion of the shambles." The balm of Gilead is the precious blood of Christ.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN INSTITUTE, RICHMOND.—The first annual report indicates considerable spiritual activity in connection with the Shaftesbury Rooms, Richmond. "Jubilee House," 6, Townshend-villas, affording living accommodation for seven young men, is highly appreciated. Mr. Samuel Millar is the secretary of the Institute.

COMMEMORATION IN 1888.—A meeting of the influential Commemoration Council appointed to carry out the bi-centenary celebration of the anniversary of the Revolution, and the tercentenary of the defeat of the Armada, will be held at the National Club on May 9, when a report will be submitted of the arrangements made and proposed for the full commemoration throughout the country of these great events.

LIFEBOATS.—The proprietors of "Cherry Blossom" have very generously given to the Council of the International Maritime Exhibition, Alexandra Palace, some handsome money prizes for the best lifeboats, either steam, electrical, or rowing. The object is to provide the safest and also the most efficient boats, and prevent such disasters as recently happened to the Southport, St. Anne's, and Isle of Wight boats; also to bring forward boats the best adapted for contesting against adverse winds and tides. Application for particulars of competition, and also for space to exhibit, should be made without delay to the Manager, The Life Saving Appliance Exhibition, Alexandra Palace, N.

THE PRESENT POSITION.

We repeat with emphasis the expression of our thankfulness and satisfaction that the contention between Mr. Spurgeon and the Baptist Union is at an end; and we may now add, upon his own authority, that it will not be renewed. It is no disparagement to a man so large-hearted and so courageous, so faithful and so conscientious as Charles H. Spurgeon, to say that he is not fitted to lead a warfare of this kind. But if he were, the condition of his health would be sufficient to debar him from continuing it. He is wise in saying, "We cannot unite: let us not attempt it any more; let each one go his own way in quiet, each striving honestly for that which he believes to be the revealed truth of God."

But is the compromise a satisfactory result of the agitation? Not by any means. It was so hurriedly concluded that the appointed speakers, with their fighting speeches in their pockets, and probably in their minds, stood up at less than an hour's notice to use language widely different. This may account for, if it does not altogether excuse, the speech of Mr. Charles Williams, of Accrington, which Mr. James Spurgeon could not second, though he seconded the Resolution; indeed, the speech of Mr. Williams in moving it would have justified Mr. Spurgeon in declining to second it. However, he did second it with tact, dignity, and brotherly kindness.

But in our judgment the cause of truth has gained nothing, and the Baptist Union has gained harm and loss by formally recognising the theory of annihilation on the one hand, and the so-called larger hope on the other, as consistent with its fellowship. For it must be remembered that this is not merely a fellowship of Christians, but of evangelists, pastors, and teachers. They may acknowledge each other as fellow-believers, but can two walk together, or work together, except they be agreed?

The hurried compromise not only put the speakers in a difficulty, but the assembly also. There was no time to consider the significance of the resolution as expounded by the speech which accompanied its motion. We cannot be surprised that many on reflection repented of their vote.

What is now to be done? We venture to think, for the present, nothing. Let there be time for thought. There is opportunity for this before the autumnal session. Meanwhile, let there be much individual and united prayer, with confession of our own and our people's lack of faithfulness to God and his truth. Let Jesus be lifted up in his holy life, his atoning death, his mighty resurrection, his glorious ascension, his present High-Priesthood, his promised return in the glory of the Father. If Jesus thus be glorified in the preaching of the Gospel of the Kingdom, the Gospel of the grace of God, the everlasting Gospel, surely the Holy Spirit will work in power as at Pentecost; God will add unto the Church daily such as are being saved, and as then "of the rest durst no man join himself unto them," so will it be again. One day of God's reviving breath will prove whether "the real old Gospel" consists in the precious blood of Christ, or in the mists and mysticisms of Modern Thought.

MR. DENHAM SMITH.—During the last two weeks Mr. Denham Smith has suffered less, and has been freer from the more prominent symptoms of his disease, although his physicians consider that the signs of its presence are no less distinct.

COLLEGE TEACHING.

By Rev. Dr. HOWARD CROSBY.*

It is a lamentable fact that in too many of our seminaries, where preachers are prepared for their work, the Word of God is not taught, but in its stead the philosophic schemes of so-called "fathers" and great divines are given as the basis of doctrinal belief. It is true that the schemes are brought to the Scripture for support, and texts are quoted in their defence. It is true also that some of these schemes are consonant with Scripture more or less. But, with these admissions, the mistake still exists, that the Word of God plays a secondary part in the instruction. It is not taught; that is, it is not made the authoritative text-book. It is even sometimes introduced as a subject for criticism, and men like Reuss and Robertson Smith are brought in as the critical guides, or, at least, helpers. As if a school of the prophets was intended to examine the credentials of God's Word, and not to take it humbly and gratefully for personal use and for use before the people.

Some theological schools might, without exaggeration, be called "schools for turning believers into doubters." The excuse that men who are going to be preachers should know all that is said against the credibility, genuineness, and authenticity of the Scriptures is a flimsy one. If that were the object, these objections would be considered only by way of parenthesis, and the overwhelming evidence of the Scriptures would be the main current of thought; but this is not the way it is done. On the contrary, the objections are magnified, and their authors are commended to the students for their perusal, and the hint is often thrown out that conservative views of the inspiration of God's Word are antiquated, obsolete, and marks of ignorance. We have thus, in the very places where, most of all, we should expect to see the profoundest reverence for God's Word, and its faithful study for the understanding of the Divine will, the machinery for undermining the doctrine of Scripture inspiration and authority, on which all Christian truth rests, and that, too, in the young minds which are being prepared to become Christ's preachers to a sinful and dying world. It is a most painful thought, and it becomes the Church of Jesus Christ to arise to a sense of the evil, and to correct it before the whole Church is poisoned by this insidious influence.

---

*From an address on "Preach the Word," one of a series of papers published by Messrs. Hodder & Stoughton, in a volume entitled The Inspired Word. 6s. Twelve months ago, a Conference on "The Plenary Inspiration of the Scriptures" was held at Philadelphia. Papers were read by a number of American scholars, dealing with the subject from various standpoints. Eighteen of these papers are reproduced in this volume, edited by Rev. A. T Pierson, D.D. The book is quite a body of information respecting the Scriptures, with special reference to their inspiration, authority, and structure, and we very cordially commend it to the attention of our readers.

THE STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—Referring to a remark in a recent letter by Rev. J. A. B. Cook, of Singapore, as to missionary work in the Straits Settlements, a correspondent writes to say that in 1860 Mr. John Chapman reached Penang and carried on a most successful work among the Malays and Chinese. The mission had previously been under the charge, successively, of Mr. Ransom and Dr. Pruen. During the first five years of Mr. and Mrs. Chapman's stay, about a hundred were baptized at Penang, besides others at Singapore. Subsequent workers in the same field were Mr. Alexander Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald, and Mr. P. J. Hocquard.

ABRAHAM: GOD'S FRIEND.

By Rev. F. B. MEYER, B.A., Regent s Park Chapel.

IX.—MELCHIZEDEC.—HEBREWS vii.

CHRIST is here! The passage is fragrant with the ointment of his name. Our hands drop with myrrh, and our fingers with sweet-smelling myrrh, as we lay them upon the handles of this lock. Let us get aside from the busy rush of life, and think long, deep thoughts of Him, who is the Alpha and Omega of Scripture, and of saintly hearts. And let us draw from the unsearchable depths of his nature, by the bucket of this mysterious record touching Melchizedec, the King of Salem.

There is a sense in which Christ was made after the order of Melchizedec; but there is a deeper sense in which Melchizedec was made after the order of the Son of God. The writer to the Hebrews tells us that Melchizedec was "made like unto the Son of God" (Heb. vii. 3). Christ is the original archetype of all; and from all eternity has had those qualities which have made Him so much to us. It would seem as if they could not stay to be manifested in the fulness of the ages; they chafed for expression. From of old his delights were with the sons of men. And so this mysterious royal priest was constituted, reigning in his peaceful city, amid the storm and wreckage of his times, that there might be given amongst men some premonition, some anticipation of that glorious life which was already being lived in Heaven on man's behalf, and which, in due course, would be manifested on our world, and at that very spot where Melchizedec lived his Christ-like life. Oh! that we, too, might be priests after the order of Melchizedec, in this respect, if in no other, that we are made as like as possible to the Son of God!

Melchizedec was a Priest.—The spiral column of smoke climbing up into the clear air, in the fragrant morn, and at the dewy eve, told that there was one heart at least which was true in its allegiance to the Most High God: and which bore up before Him the sins and sorrows of the clans that clustered near. He seems to have had that quick sympathy with the needs of his times which is the true mark of the priestly heart (Heb. iv. 15). And he had acquired thereby so great an influence over his neighbours that they spontaneously acknowledged the claims of his special and unique position. Man must have a priest. His nature shrinks from contact with the All Holy. What is there in common between vileness and purity, darkness and light, ignorance and the knowledge which needs no telling? And in all ages, men have selected from among their fellows one who should represent them to God, and God to them. It is a natural instinct. And it has been met in our glorious Lord, who, while He stands for us in the presence of God, face to face with uncreated Light, ever making intercession, at the same time is touched with the feeling of our infirmities, succours us in our temptations, and has compassion on our ignorance. Why need we travel farther afield? Why imitate Micah in setting up for ourselves a priest whom human hands have made? Why permit any other to bear this sacred name, or to intrude on this holy office? None but Christ will satisfy or meet the requirements of God, or become us "with our unutterable needs" (Heb. vii. 26).

This Priesthood came of God, and was ratified by an oath.—The priests of the house of Levi exercised their office after "the law of a carnal commandment" (Heb. vii. 12). They assumed it, not because of any inherent fitness, or because specially summoned to the work by the voice of heaven, but because they had sprung from the special sacerdotal tribe. The Priesthood of Christ, on the other hand, is God's best gift to men—to thee, my reader, and to me; more necessary than spring flowers, or light, or air. Without it our souls would wander ever in a Sahara desert. "Christ glorified not Himself to be made a High Priest" (Heb. v. 5), but He was called of God to be an High Priest after the order of Melchizedec (ver. 10). And such was the solemnity of his appointment, that it was ratified by "the word of the oath." "The Lord sware, and will not repent, Thou art a Priest for ever after the order of Melchizedec" (Heb. vii. 21—28). Here is strong consolation indeed. No unfaithfulness or ingratitude can change this priesthood. The eternal God will never run back from that word and oath. "Eternity" is written upon his brow; "for evermore" rings out, as He moves, from the chime of his golden bells; "an unchangeable Priesthood" is the law of his glorious being. Hallelujah! The heart may well sing, when, amid the fluctuation of earth's change, it touches at length the primeval rock of God's eternal purpose. "He is consecrated Priest for evermore."

This Priesthood was also catholic.—Abraham was not yet circumcised. He was not a Jew, but a Gentile still. It was as the father of many nations that he stood and worshipped and received the benediction from those saintly hands. Not thus was it with the priesthood of Aaron's line. To share its benefit a man must needs become a Jew, submitting to the initial rite of Judaism. None but Jewish names shone in that breastplate. Only Jewish wants or sins were borne upon those consecrated lips. But Christ is the Priest of man. He draws all men unto Himself. The one sufficient claim upon Him is to bear the nature which He has taken into irreversible union with his own, to be a sinner and a penitent pressed by conscious need. Then hast thou a right to Him, which cannot be disallowed. He is thy Priest, thine own, as if none other had claim on Him but thou. Tell him all thy story, hiding nothing, extenuating and excusing nothing. All kindreds, and peoples, and nations, and tongues converge in Him, and are welcome, and all their myriad needs are satisfactorily met.

This Priesthood was superior to all human orders of Priests.—If ever there was a priesthood, which held undisputed supremacy among the priesthoods of the world, it was that of Aaron's line. It might not be as ancient as that which ministered at the shrines of Nineveh, or so learned as that which was exercised in the silent cloisters of Memphis and Thebes, but it had about it this unapproachable dignity, in that it had emanated, as a whole, from the Word of God. Yet even it must yield obeisance to his. And it did. For Levi was yet in the loins of Abraham when Melchisedec met him, and he paid tithes in Abraham, and knelt in token of submission, in the person of the patriarch, beneath the blessing of this greater than Himself (Heb. vii. 4—10). Why then need we concern ourselves with the stars, when the sun has arisen upon us? What have we to do with any other than with this mighty Mediator, this Daysman, who towers aloft above all rivals; Himself sacrifice and Priest, who has offered a solitary sacrifice, and fulfils a unique ministry!

This Priesthood partook of the mystery of Eternity.—We need not suppose that this mystic being had literally no father, or mother, beginning of days, or end of life. The point on which the inspired writer fixes, is, that no information is afforded us on any of these points. There is an intention in the golden silence, as well as in the golden speech of Scripture. And these details were doubtless shrouded in obscurity, that there might be a still clearer approximation of the type to the glory of the Antitype, who abides continually. He is the Ancient of Days; the King of the Ages; the I AM. The Sun of his Being, like his Priesthood, knows nought of dawn, or decline from meridian zenith, or descent in the western sky. "He is made after the power of an endless life." "He ever liveth to make intercession." If, in the vision of Patmos, the hair of his head was white as snow, it was not the white of decay, but of incandescent fire. "He continueth ever, and hath an unchangeable priesthood." "He is the same yesterday, to-day, and for ever." He does for us now what He did for the world's grey fathers, and what He will do for the last sinner, who shall claim his aid.

This Priesthood was Royal. "Melchisedec, King of Salem, priest." Here again there is no analogy in the Levitical priesthood. The royal and priestly offices were carefully kept apart. Uzziah was struck with the white brand of leprosy when he tried to unite them. But how marvellously they blended in the earthly life of Jesus. As Priest, He pitied, and helped, and fed men; as King, He ruled the waves. As Priest, He uttered his sublime intercessory prayer; as King, He spoke the "I will" of royal prerogative. As Priest, He touched the ear of Malchus; as the disowned King, to whom Cæsar even was preferred, He was hounded to the death. As Priest, He pleaded for his murderers, and spake of Paradise to the dying thief; whilst his Kingship was attested by the proclamation affixed to his cross. As Priest, He breathed peace on his disciples; as King, He ascended to sit down upon his throne.

He was first King of Righteousness, and after that also King of Salem, which is King of Peace (Heb. vii. 2). Mark the order. Not first Peace at any price, or at the cost of Righteousness; but Righteousness first. The righteousness of his personal character. The righteous meeting, on our behalf, of the just demands of a Divine and holy law. And then founded on, and arising from, this solid and indestructible basis, there sprang the Temple of Peace, in which the souls of men may shelter from the shocks of time. "The work of righteousness shall be peace; and the effect of righteousness, quietness and assurance for ever. And my people shall dwell in a peaceable habitation, and in sure dwellings, and in quiet resting-places."

Ah, souls, what is your attitude towards Him? There be plenty who are willing enough to have Him as Priest, who refuse to accept Him as King. But it will not do. He must be King, or He will not be Priest. And He must be King in this order, first making thee right, then giving thee his peace that passeth all understanding. Waste not precious time in paltering, or arguing with Him; accept the situation as it is, and let thy heart be the Salem, the city of Peace, where He, the Priest-King, shall reign for ever. And none is so fit to rule as He who stooped to die. "In the midst of the throne stood a lamb as it had been slain." Exactly! The throne is the befitting place for the Man who loved us to the death.

This Priesthood receives tithes of all. "The patriarch Abraham gave a tenth of the spoils." (Heb. vii. 4.) This ancient custom shames us Christians. The patriarch gave more to the representative of Christ than many of us give to Christ Himself. Come, if you have never done so before, resolve to give your Lord a tithe of your time, your income, your all. "Bring all the tithes into His storehouse." Nay, thou glorious One, we will not rest content with this; take all, for all is thine. "Thine is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the Kingdom, O Lord, and Thou art exalted as King above all. Now, therefore, we thank Thee and praise thy glorious name."

AT ROME AND AT HOME.

In the current issue of Regions Beyond, Mr. H. Grattan Guinness writes:—

It was a great pleasure to us during our recent journey through France and Italy to meet with several of our former students who are now labouring as missionaries in Paris, in the Riviera, and in Rome. Our brother Saillens preaches the Gospel every night of the week to crowded audiences in different halls in Paris connected with the valuable McAll Mission. We attended several of his meetings, and had the opportunity of addressing his ordinary congregations, and were impressed by their sober and intelligent interest. Night after night they hang upon the Gospel message, and not a few give evidence of its saving power. We held a short series of meetings in Rome, both for the English there and for Italians. The exhibition of the Pope's Jubilee Presents was a sad sight. It is held in the Vatican, and is so extensive that it takes hours to walk through it and examine the enormous mass of papal treasures, even cursorily. We were forcibly reminded by what we saw of the Babylonian goods enumerated in Rev. xviii. All were there, displayed to perfection.

We are thankful to be once more in England, and at our old work in the Institute. We find between ninety and a hundred students in our three colleges, and all diligently and happily occupied with their studies and Gospel labours. The weekly expenditure for their support is necessarily very considerable. We ask our friends to remember them, and to remember this. Let us persevere in well-doing! In keeping up the work, our friends may recollect that they are enabling the Institute to send out a missionary every week, on an average, to some part of the world.

CENTRAL SOUDAN.—The last letters and journals received from Mr. Graham Brooke are from Equator Station on the Upper Congo, where he stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Banks and Mr. Murphy. He writes from the Equator Station, Dec. 5, 1887:—"The difference is very striking up here between the natives of this country and those down river. Those are degraded, squalid, and puny; these are warlike, proud-looking, and prompt in action." "Dec. 8.—Time slipping by, and nothing heard from the chief. He cannot get the men, I suppose. The great Arab settlement of Ali Kobo is the most southern known, and that is what they at present hope to reach, and then begin itinerating work. Of course, there are the two dangers of passing through savages and being ill-received by the Arabs. We ought to hear from them once more from Equatorville before plunging into the interior."—Regions Beyond.

Leaves from my Note-Book.

By Rev. W. HASLAM, M.A.

Author of "From Death into Life."

V.—"NOT TO-NIGHT."

A stranger came to me one evening, and said, "Do you remember that young lady who sang, 'Why not to-night? Thou would'st be saved, Why not to-night?'"

"Where?" I asked, "and when?"

"Why, away in Norfolk, in the year '64: Miss Geraldine Hooper."

"Oh, yes," I replied, "I remember that lady and her singing very well."

"Do you remember," continued the stranger, "how you came up to me, and said, 'Why not to-night?' and I said 'No, not to-night,' and walked out?"

I could not say that I recollected that event, though it might have occurred.

"It was the night," said the man, "when you told the story of the devil having a meeting. He wanted someone to go up and hinder a good man's preaching. One demon said he would go, and say, 'There is no God;' another said he would go, and declare that the Bible is not inspired. Neither of these would do. At last a very confident devil said, 'I will go; I will say, You must be converted, or you will be lost.' 'No, no, that will not do,' was the answer; 'you will awaken the people if you say that.' 'O dear, no,' he replied, 'I often say so to that congregation; I tell them more than that—I tell them that they must be pardoned before they die, or they will be lost; but I never forget,' said the demon, 'to add another word; I say, Don't you be frightened, you are not going to die to-night.'

"That story touched me," said the stranger, "and when the young lady sang 'Thou would'st be saved, Why not to-night?' I thought that I must give up. Indeed, I had as good as made up my mind to do it, when I saw you coming across to me. I can't tell why I said to you, 'No, not to-night,' or why I went away.

"Soon after that, I set sail for America. What nights and days of misery I spent for saying 'No, not to-night.' I felt that the devil had got tight hold of me, and did not mean to let me go. Every time I tried to pray, my mind wandered away, till at last I gave it up. Sometimes I was miserable, and at others altogether careless. I often intended to give myself to God; but when, I did not know.

"A few days after my return to England, I heard that you were coming to preach near by where I was staying. Of course, I went to hear you. You said in your sermon, 'One of the most effectual devices of the devil for keeping souls away from God, is procrastination. God says, Now is the accepted time; the devil says, By and by. God says, Why not to-night? the devil says, No, not to-night.'

"That is for me, I thought; but how did he know that I was here? That is my chain, and it gets stronger and stronger when I try to break it. When you urged the people to stay behind, I did so, and some others with me. I had a hard fight for it, I can tell you, but I cried to the Lord Jesus to save me, and save me now, and my soul was set at liberty, praise the Lord. I shook hands with you, but I do not think you recognised me. Several years have passed since that, and now I am come to you again."

"Well," I said, "I am very glad to see you; what can I do for you?"

"Ah," he replied, "you do not know what a power of the devil that procrastination is with me."

"Do you feel it still?" I inquired.

"Yes, indeed I do, and sometimes I doubt whether I was ever converted."

"I think I can enlighten you upon that point," I said. "You must remember that conversion does not set people free from bad habits. When you are converted, you receive forgiveness for your past sins, and a change of heart; but habit is a master which requires to be dealt with by itself, under another treatment."

"Well," he said, "all I know is, that I want something, for I am a perfect slave to this devil, bad habit, or whatever you call it! I never determine to pray, but it gets put off and off—never desire to read, or do anything for my soul's good, but it is put off. I can't help it; things happen, people come, all kinds of hindrances rise up."

"I will tell you what to do," I said. "Come to Christ, with your habit of procrastination, just as you would if you had an unconquerable temper, or a bad habit of drinking, or any other sinful propensity. Procrastination," I continued, "is a kind of disease, and, even though it be a chronic disease, Christ can deliver you from it; you will find that his grace is sufficient to set you free, and to keep you so, while you continue to trust in Him, The Lord said, 'Whether is it easier to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Rise up, and walk?' (Mark ii. 9). The living Saviour has all power in heaven, and on earth, to save you from your bad habit."

The poor man appeared to be very doubtful of such an easy way of deliverance, after all his past experience, and asked many questions.

The answers to these questions only brought him back to the same point, that Christ can deliver, and only Christ.

He said at last, "Well, I'll try your plan."

I inquired, "When will you begin? Why not here?"

"Oh, I cannot stay now," was his answer. "I must go and see L——."

"Is your errand of more consequence than your soul's deliverance?" I asked.

"No, I cannot say it is, but I promised to go."

I saw that there was no pressing need for his going at that particular hour; two hours later would do equally well. Still he protested that he ought to go, and promised faithfully that he would see about this deliverance in the evening.

I said to him, "If the enemy succeeds in getting you away now, he will do so more easily in the evening. I cannot let you go."

"But indeed I must," he said, as if the cause had become more urgent than before.

I said, "Well, if you must, let us pray before you go."

After praying myself, I bid him do so, if only in a few words. He was very reluctant to commence, and it was plain to see that it cost him a great struggle; but he prevailed, and began to pray. He soon came into sore conflict, and begged me to pray with him. Again and again he besought the Lord to save and deliver him from his bad habit, which had brought him into so much trouble. Before he rose from his knees, his soul was set free, as a captive out of prison. The conflict he had was longer, and more severe, than I can describe, but his deliverance was clear.

This man became a messenger to other prisoners of Satan, who were being held in the same bondage. He met with many who were held slaves by this habit of procrastination, who were continually putting off the time of their surrender to God, whether for salvation or any other blessing. "Why not to-night?" and "Why not now?" was the ready question he put to all such persons. He himself had learned from long and sad experience the folly and danger of saying, Not to-night.

The promised convenient season never comes. Now is the accepted time, and now is the day of salvation.

SIR GEORGE'S HOME.—This institution, in George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, was founded by the late Sir George E. Hodgkinson, for the purpose of affording respectable lodging and a comfortable home, at the smallest possible price, to the working girls of the artizan class. The Home is carried on without any intention of profit, and information on matters of detail may be obtained from the manageress, Miss A. M. Burbidge.

AMERICAN NOTES.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

Although the humane Henry Bergh is dead, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will live. The mantle of the philanthropist has fallen upon his nephew, and the animals will still have a Bergh friend. Branches of this admirable Society are being formed throughout the States and Territories. Not only are our companion brutes shielded from cruelty, but the present generation is educated to treat them with kindness.

. . . .

The Audoban Society also deserves special mention. The outrageous demands of fashion, calling for the slaughter of myriads of birds, is meeting with just rebuke. Christian women are renouncing the folly of decking themselves with the feathers of murdered innocents. It is a relief to look upon a kindly woman who can drape herself in becoming attire without staining her soul with the blood of the feathered tribe. Why do not all Christian women, the world over, protest against this cruel and unnecessary slaughter?

. . . .

There is little occasion that I should recommend my dear friend and brother, Dr. A. J. Gordon, of Boston, to the churches and Christians of Great Britain. I wish simply to announce his intention of sailing on May 26 for England. He is one of the chosen delegates to the great Missionary Conference in London, and he hopes to spend a few months among you, taking needed rest. It is conceded by all the godly that Dr. Gordon is the foremost evangelical preacher among us. For twenty years in Unitarian Boston he has defended the faith, and urged with great ability and spiritual power the doctrines of grace and of glory. He is in demand everywhere throughout the land where evangelical and evangelistic enterprise seeks prominence. He has already consented to be at Mildmay Conference, and I trust that, while a weary man must not be urged into protracted services, other important conferences will secure his presence and help. Our beloved friend is of a retiring disposition, a humble man, mellowed, consistent, and of such blameless reputation and gentle mien that he is profoundly respected by all classes of his fellow-citizens. I am sure I may bespeak for him a most brotherly and cordial welcome.

. . . .

I alluded some time since in my "Notes" to the "School for Christian Workers," at Springfield, Mass. This needed institution demands more than passing notice. It has solved a perplexing question in reference to the future value of the Y.M.C.A. work throughout the world. Already it is beyond the line of experiment, and is fast becoming recognised as a most needful and qualified auxiliary.

. . . .

Rev. D. Allen Reed, the founder and director of the School, is most earnestly striving after the spiritual development of the students, nearly fifty of whom are now qualifying themselves for secretaryships, Sunday-school superintendents, gymnasium instructors, and pastors' assistants. The school is not, therefore, exclusively a Y.M.C.A. supply. The demand has increased of late for skilled men to enter various fields of usefulness, especially for pioneer work in the Western States. The School does not profess to send out finished theologians, nor does it conflict with the seminaries. Its aim is to educate instructors in different branches of Christian work rather than preachers.

. . . .

There is assuredly one man who has a hold upon the Southern negroes, and who is wisely following up his advantage. I refer to Mr. James Wharton, who divides each year between Bible-carriage work in England during the summer months and negro evangelisation in the Southern States during the winter. For the past twelve years this good brother has persistently given himself to these labours, and great is his reward. The coloured schools and colleges are open to him, and he has been preaching and instructing everywhere. The coloured pastors welcome him, while the white people refrain from any opposition. Throughout this winter Mr. Wharton has laboured in Talladega College, Marion, Ala., Mobile, Birmingham, Selma, Washington, and elsewhere. Numbers of negroes have been converted through his clear expository preaching; besides, immense good has been done by our brother in showing the coloured students the way of the Lord more perfectly. Mr. Wharton will soon resume his carriage work in England, and we bid him God-speed.

A HIVE OF CHRISTIAN WORKERS.

Rev. J. Stalker had good reason to describe the Glasgow United Evangelistic Association as a busy bee-hive of workers, in his address at the fourteenth annual meeting, in the Christian Institute, on Monday week, Mr. J. Campbell White presiding. The general report of the Association was read by Mr. J. R. Miller; the financial statement, read by Mr. J. H. N. Graham, showed a deficit of upwards of £300.

Mr. A. Sloan stated that the noonday prayer-meeting had, during the past year, been better attended than ever. Mr. W. A. Campbell presented a most satisfactory report of the fellowship meeting under his charge. The average attendance at the meetings has been fully 700. Of the work in the Tent Hall, Mr. J. S. Napier read a deeply interesting account. In that hall from 4000 to 6000 have had the Gospel preached to them every Sunday, and rescue and preventive work have been successfully carried on. In his report of Bethany Hall, Mr. W. Ralston told of a publican who declared that he had often prayed for the State to "smash up the trade," so that he might get out of it.

Mr. A. MacKeith reported of the work among the children, and incidentally mentioned that the policemen of Glasgow were excellent fellow-workers with them. The children's Sabbath dinners have been continued without intermission, and much good work has been accomplished by the day refuges.

The reports having been read, an address was delivered by Rev. J. Stalker, who said that he had always honoured the Association, because it was an attempt to bring the influence of the West to bear on the East-end. In Glasgow the wealthy classes were too much separated from the labouring classes, and even from a knowledge of the condition of those classes. It was the supreme duty of the wealthy to recognise their responsibility towards the poor, among whom their money had been made. The salvation of the country depended upon the solution of the problem as to how the resources of the one extreme of society might be utilised for the other extreme. If they would civilise the people they must begin by Christianising them; it is impossible to make them happy without making them good. The condition of the wretched and suffering classes is awakening the attention of others than Christian workers, and although they might wish such men all success, they still held that their method of dealing with misery and sin is the right one. As to the relation of the work of the Association to the Church, Mr. Stalker declared that he found many of the best ministers of the city asking concerning the tens of thousands of children they had under their influence, What becomes of these children when they grow up? Many are being converted in the Bethany and Tent Halls, but what becomes of those people? It is said that but few of them come into the Church. Surely the true home of such people is inside the Church. It would be well if they turned their attention to this matter, and considered what could be done to secure more fully the results of evangelistic labours.

THE FULNESS OF CHRIST.

In a time of deep dejection
Jesus passèd by,
Saw my heart was dull and empty,
Gently asked me, "Why?"
Then I told Him all the story
Of my bitter woe,
How my hopes and joys had perished
Many years ago.
And the tears were softly dropping
As I told Him all,
Yet He did not chide my weeping,
Though He saw them fall.
But, when I had told the story,
Lovingly He came,
Filled, Himself, the vacant chambers,
Blessèd be his name!
Now, no more my heart is vacant,
Nevermore can be;
Filled with Jesus, "Jesus only,"
For eternity!

Bridlington Quay. F. A. Burkill.

UNITY, EVANGELISM, MONEY.

Dear Sir,—Last autumn I left College at the conclusion of my Arts course, to commence evangelistic labours. After a week's successful mission in a small country village, I was invited to labour for a few months at a Congregational chapel in another village. The chapel is the only one in the village.

Before commencing my brief pastorate at this village Bethel, where Congregationalists, Baptists, Wesleyans, Salvationists, and Unitarians (!) worshipped, while struggling to agree, I took to myself a wife, and thus in "unity" we commenced our labours, seeking to unite such oppositions. We found our course rather difficult. The small salary promised not being raised without begging from the unconverted, and those who bitterly opposed our Gospel preaching, my wife and I determined by God's grace to look alone to Him for support. Since that resolution was made and kept our labours have been abundantly blessed. Believers have been drawn together, and many have testified to blessing received. A strict Baptist has written to his Mother Church to say that he intended to join us at the Lord's Table with the Lord's children. The Salvationists no longer find it necessary to walk miles to Army meetings because of the coldness and deadness here. A prominent Church of England lady is doing all she can to forward our work among the Ritualists (my wife and I have both come out from Ritualism). What is the result of all this unity? Why, instead of "droppings" we are having "showers of blessing." In the neighbourhood much blessing has resulted from a recent visit of Rev. R. Balgarnie.

Another prosperous village chapel, not far away, is sadly in need of a pastor; but young ministers will not accept the charge, because of the small salary—£80 a year. At the mission mentioned above there were about fifteen conversions, and the work has gone on prosperously since. Twenty-two have been added to the chapel membership, and the funds increased very considerably. At the village where £80 a year is offered a mission was held early in this year; about fifteen were won for Christ. The missioner (a student) was invited to come and settle, but said he could not live on £80 a year. The work has stood still since. If he had gone there, it is certain the work would have progressed, more souls would have been won, and the funds of course increased. Is it not sad to hear a student for the Gospel ministry always ask first, "What do they pay?" A. E. S.

MR. MOODY'S CONVENTION.—Rev. J. Hudson Taylor and Mr. Reginald Radcliffe purpose visiting the States and Canada this year. They expect to attend Mr. Moody's Northfield Conventions.

For the Young.

STREET SCENES IN CHINA.

STROLLING through the streets of a great Chinese city is a novel experience for anyone who has been accustomed to the broad, well-lighted avenues of Western cities. The following letter from an American lady, to the New York Voice, gives graphic pictures of outdoor life in Canton :—

Canton, China, February 9, 1888.

This afternoon we have been out to walk, and I should be glad to picture some of the street scenes in this queer old city. We picked our way through the narrow streets, which are only four or five feet wide, jostled by the hurrying throng. The streets barely allow the two incessant streams to pass each other. On a rainy day it is difficult for two umbrellas to pass each other.

Of course no waggons or carriages are possible, and people who do not wish to walk hire sedan chairs, of which there are a great many. Only one person can ride in each chair. Two men, or coolies, carry the chair by means of long poles fastened to the sides. When two chairs come from opposite directions, the coolies call out to let each other know they are coming, and one must press up against the side of a house or into the open front of a store to let the other pass. Much crowding is necessary in order to get a chair and its long poles around the corners of the narrow streets.

In most of the streets the front of nearly every house is a shop or market. The provisions are spread along in front, the same as at home—not on the side-walk, because there is none. There is just a stone pavement from side to side, but the whole front of the store is open, and the counters on which the meat is spread and the baskets of vegetables are displayed are right along the side of the street. It doesn't seem as though we were walking through streets, but through some huge bazaar or market. Some streets are entirely covered overhead, so that we cannot see the sky, and there is very little of it to be seen in any of them.

It is said that there is a greater variety of food for sale in Canton than in any city in the world, and as a rule it is very cheap, notwithstanding there are so many mouths to fill. It can be bought in large or small quantities. I sometimes see a child with a very tiny piece of meat or a little slice of fat pork hanging in a loop of string in the hand, which he has been to buy. Peanuts are arranged in little piles for a cash each, that is, a tenth part of a halfpenny. Many little tables are along the sides of the streets with quite a tempting array of eatables. Oranges peeled can be bought at about five for a halfpenny. Three bananas cost less than a halfpenny, and are very good. Long rows of sugar-cane cut in lengths of about a foot are spread out on the tables; here and there is a large kettle full of it boiling, as they like to eat it hot. In the market you see many cages with nice little cats for sale, and rows of cups full of fresh red blood, just as you often see glasses of lemonade displayed on stands in New York.

Here is a barber's shop full of men and boys having their heads shaved, just as open to the passers-by as if the whole side of the house were taken away. Now we come to a counter covered with steaming bowls of tea, around which men are standing and having a social time. On another is a large platter heaped up with what looks like boiled macaroni. Some customers are sitting on stools with bowls of the food before them. Now we come to a man sitting by the side of his house on the doorstep, washing his feet in a small tub of hot water. This is a frequent sight. Here on another table a man is stringing long strings of cash. We buy them when we want small change; 1080 make a dollar. Beggars are plentiful, and hold out their baskets to us. They are usually clothed in sackcloth, having a large piece thrown over their shoulders. This they hold together with one hand in front, while the other hand extends the basket. All sorts of industries are going on in the open shops, but we cannot stop to observe them unless we step in, for if we stop some one else will stop, and a crowd will soon block up the narrow way. Many are carrying along large tinsel ornaments and brilliant decorations, to ornament the idols and shrines for the New Year's celebration.

The other evening, while studying in my room, I heard a great noise outside, and was told that they were after a thief. The next day he, or some other thief, was caught and carried through the streets. Some one in the procession beats a gong at intervals, and at every stroke the culprit receives a blow on his bare back with a whip with several lashes. The high wall about us prevented me from seeing him, but those who have witnessed such scenes say that the blood runs down the back of the sufferer as he is thus beaten. Thieves here find that the way of transgressors is hard.

Every day the streets of the city are just as full of the same hurrying, busy throng; there is no let-up to the constant toil. No Sabbath comes to call the people away from their stores and workshops, and to cause a comparative quiet in the busy streets. It is often very difficult to push our way through the crowd of eager traffickers which fill the streets inside the wall. We live outside of the wall, which now seems to run through the middle of the city, so much of a city is built up outside of it. The part enclosed within the wall is three or four miles across. The same streets pass right through; and are continued on the outside. They are closed with gates at night. There are many gates in the streets, which are closed about nine o'clock in the evening. If anyone wishes to pass through after that time he must call one of the watchmen to open it.

When I pass through the city on Sunday and see them all just as hard at work, I cannot help thinking of the man with the muck-rake, told about in "Pilgrim's Progress," who was raking up the sticks and straws, looking down all the time and not knowing of the golden crown which was held out to him from above. It is true that in our own land also, many are working only to gather together the things below and never looking up for what is better, but the difference is that there they have heard of the better portion offered them, but here no one has ever called out to the people to lift their eyes and behold the crown of life which is offered them. Even in this city, where are a number of missionaries, how few of the million of people can they come in contact with, and the crowded towns and villages in all the country round about have none even to try to teach them.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.

Mr. E. Arrowsmith, on Continent for two months; Lausanne, May 26 to June 3. Mr. T. Lewes Sayer, Romford, April 29 to May 4. Mr. Josiah Spiers, Wakefield, April 24 to May 5; Park Chapel, Camden Town, May 7—19; Assembly Rooms, Malvern, June 3—15; Skating Rink, Croydon, July 2—13. Mr. E. T. M. Dennes, Chingford, April 30 to May 4. Mr. Hutchinson, Raleigh Memorial Schools, Stoke Newington, April 30 to May 4. Mr. Martin J. Hall, Stockwell Orphanage, May 14—18. Mr. W. R. Moore and Mr. A. Carless, West Croydon, May 13—16.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—The following are the portions for the ensuing week:—Sunday, May 6, Ruth iv. 1—17; Monday, May 7, Psalm lxviii. 1—10; Tuesday, May 8, Psalm lxviii. 11—23; Wednesday, May 9, Psalm lxviii. 24—35; Thursday, May 10, Acts i. 1—14; Friday, May 11, Acts i. 15—26; Saturday, May 12, Acts ii. 1—13.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS. — A branch of the Y.M.C.A. has been formed in this favourite watering place. The town has long been in want of a branch. Quite recently the matter was prayerfully taken up by a few Christians, with the result that well situated and most suitable premises, very comfortably furnished, have been secured. There is already a membership of about 70. The Hon. P. Carteret Hill is president, and Arthur C. Pessier hon. sec.

CHINESE SCHOOL CHILDREN.

As a companion picture to the interesting description of street life in China, we give the following extracts from a letter received by Miss Macpherson, of the Home of Industry, from Miss Jennie Webb, of the China Inland Mission, dated Yang-chau, Feb. 25 :—

I promised to let you hear about the children receiving the presents, you so kindly sent for them. All came to hand nicely, and not one broken. We had a plentiful supply for all whom we wished to get them. We were able to give to a few of our little friends, belonging to the church members, a toy each. I do not know which toy caused most amusement; the "fire escapes" were splendid. Also the clocks, ticking and striking. The jam-pots caused us fun, for we sent over from our schoolhouse one pot wrapped in paper, just at tea time, to the sisters at the College. So you see they were all made much of by us. Our own Home children each received two things. After telling the children who had sent them, and a few words about the Home and your children, the children wished me to thank you for remembering them out here. The houses afforded the little ones a great deal of pleasure.

The Misses Murray had a magic lantern sent from home, which reached in time to be used at New Year, as you do at the dear old Refuge. First of all it was used in the chapel for the church members; some had never seen the like before. Then Mr. McCarthy kindly came over another evening, and our children were pleased. It all reminded me of old times at the "Home."

Yesterday, Prov. iii. 5, 6, 7, was my lesson with our elder Christian girls. We were then seeing, that to acknowledge God in everything means sure guidance, and constant peace from God; this also is the way to glorify our Lord's great and holy name. Yesterday was a great day among the natives, all worshipping their gods and offering incense; besides a day when every woman seems at liberty to go where she will to look about and enjoy herself. At other times of the year they can only go as their husbands and mothers-in-law choose to let them. Consequently at our three houses we had all we could do to talk to them. Our Christian women were all the time telling out this glorious Gospel, the love of Christ. We have a large visitors' room, and that was full. They stayed on till sunset. We sang over to them, "Jesus loves me;" that little hymn is just as precious in Chinese; not a few get hold of the chorus, and remember it. May God bless these dear women, every one, and bring them again to hear about Himself!

This afternoon (Feb. 27) we again had visitors. Among them were three, if not more, who have been a few times, and are gladly drinking in all they can of the good news. One woman has bought a Gospel; she is reading a little every day. Our dear Huang, Nai, Nai, is an example of earnestness; she is always willing and ready to sit down, at any hour of the day, and tell her sisters about Jesus, whom she loves. To-morrow I am going out to some of our neighbours' houses, to see them and tell them again of Jesus.

We have moved with our school to a large native house a month since. Here we have more convenience for working among the women who come, having a large room kept on purpose for them. Our other house is now used for the sisters, for we are a large party in Yang-chau. Praise God for answering prayer and sending so many. Each of them is busy at the language. Will it not be splendid when soon all will be telling out the Gospel to the poor women and children? It is a joy to meet so many in Yang-chau, and the three last parties of ladies have come here.

HAPPY SUNDAY AFTERNOONS.

[FROM A CORRESPONDENT.]

THE problem of what to do with our working classes on Sunday afternoons was satisfactorily dealt with at a certain meeting at which I chanced to be on Tuesday evening last week. The Poplar and Bromley Tabernacle, where the meeting was held, is a large building, and as we entered it, just before eight o'clock, from five to six hundred people were gathered together. On a table under the raised platform there was a large pile of some 250 volumes, such as Dr. Landels' "Great Cloud of Witnesses," Dr. Saphir's "Christ and the Church," &c., &c. These were about to be distributed, and meantime were cosily embedded among pots of pretty flowers. I take up one of the books, and find affixed therein the following label: "Poplar and Bromley Tabernacle Sunday Afternoon Society, 1887-8. A memento. Received by —— in recognition of regular attendance at the winter afternoon lectures delivered by Rev. W. Knight Chaplin, during the six months ending April 1888." Thus the books were called, not prizes, but mementos or forget-me-nots, the term being considered more suitable for the grown-up recipients who, on this occasion, represented about one hundred families.

The meeting having commenced by the usual introductory singing and prayer, the Pastor, in reviewing the last six or seven months, explained that when it was proposed to start this Sunday afternoon meeting, some strong opposition was encountered, many prophesying that the people would not come out; that they were tired, and wanted a rest, and would have their "Sunday afternoon nap." By adopting suitable means, however, the people have been drawn out, and the meetings have been largely attended, and the whole thing has been a great success. The subjects announced bore popular titles, treated on matters of every-day life, and were expounded in plain Saxon language. At every meeting there was hearty singing and fervent prayer, and the reading of God's Word had been listened to with marked interest. In this way they had, during the past season, gone through a large part of the Gospel by Matthew. The whole of the meetings have been conducted on cheerful and popular lines, the Pastor believing that the people can be good Christians, and yet very happy men and women. Sunday afternoon, between three and four, had therefore been one of the brightest hours at the Poplar and Bromley Tabernacle, and it was no wonder the people crowded to this the first anniversary of the Sunday Afternoon Society. Mr. Chaplin subsequently explained that the movement originated in a large Bible-class for men conducted by Miss Geraldine Guinness, who is now in China as a missionary. He thought that some news from her would be interesting to many, and therefore introduced to the meeting Miss Lucy Guinness, who read some extracts from her sister's letters, giving accounts of her journey to China, and her impressions of the inhabitants on her arrival. Meetings had been held by the party with which she sailed on board the Kaisar-i-Hind, and much blessing had resulted in the restraint of worldliness amongst the passengers, and in the conversion of some of their number.

The event of the evening was the distribution of the prizes by Miss Margaret Reed, daughter of the late Henry Reed, of Tasmania. Quoting a recent remark of Mr. Haslam that "the Lord Jesus Christ has not saved us just for us to be saved and get to heaven, but that we may go out to save others," she exhorted the people to become the saviours of those around them, and prayed that the recipients of the various volumes might be drawn nearer to Christ by their perusal. The whole meeting proved most conclusively that the people can be really reached on Sunday afternoons if they are only approached in a kind, brotherly, energetic, and popular kind of way.

SOLDIERS' INSTITUTE, GIBRALTAR.

A MISSION has been held among the troops by Miss M. S. S. Herdman for three weeks, and we have experienced much of God's presence. Many have been convinced of sin. Among others who have professed conversion are two atheists, well known among their comrades as such. The meetings were held chiefly at the new Soldiers' Institute, and were crowded with soldiers night after night. Some addresses were also given at the Soldier's Home. In addition to the above meetings, Miss Herdman conducted a two weeks' mission at Malta, which is more priest-ridden than Rome; under British rule, more freedom is given to priestcraft than in Rome itself. Here also God graciously blessed his word in the conversion both of soldiers and blue-jackets. G. H.

◆

BIBLE COLPORTAGE IN IRELAND.

AFTER another year of patient, persevering labour in scattering the good seed of the Word, the Bible and Colportage Society of Ireland recently held its annual review of the work, in Londonderry. Its object is the circulation of the Scriptures in the English and Irish languages, with other good reading. The constitution of the Society is thoroughly undenominational, and this gives its agents ready access to the people. These colporteurs are described as good men, keeping free of all political complications, and commending the religion of Jesus Christ by their lives. There are now 172 book agencies in different parts of Ireland.

In advocating the work of the Society, Rev. R. Jeffrey, Portadown, spoke of the advantages of the colportage system, particularly in the South and West of Ireland. He remarked that if Ireland is not being won for Christ there are very strenuous efforts being made to win it for Satan, for it is very customary now on fair days in some country towns, that second-hand book-stalls are to be seen supplied from and promoted by infidel societies, and this in view, almost, of some of their own depôts. Rev. George Thompson, of Newtowncunningham, said he believed this agency was largely used by God for the good of the country, and he could only hope and pray that it may be still more largely blessed to the regeneration of Ireland.

Other friends spoke in support of the work.

A GOOD EXAMPLE.—The Mail and Express, New York daily paper, prints at the head of its editorial columns a passage selected from the Bible each day. Being questioned as to the reason of this course, the proprietor replied: "I print the text because I think it desirable that men who are necessarily absorbed in business should be reminded of the words of their heavenly Father. Some people poke fun at me for it, but I don't mind it. It is God they ridicule, not me. As long as I am associated with The Mail and Express, I shall publish a text from the Bible every day, and print it in the same place, so that my readers may know where to look for it."

CANCER HOSPITAL, BROMPTON, S.W.—This excellent institution, situated in Fulham-road, was founded specially for the treatment of the poor afflicted with this terrible disease, who are admitted free, from all parts of the United Kingdom, without requiring letters of recommendation. During the year 1887 there were 703 new cases admitted as in-patients, and 1012 as out-patients, and the number of attendances in the out-patient department shows a large increase over previous years. The nature of the disease requires a most generous diet, as well as treatment of the most expensive kind; and to meet the growing demand upon their resources, the Committee urgently appeal for increased funds, to enable them to satisfactorily cope with their liabilities. The ordinary expenditure of the hospital is some £3000 a year more than the reliable income. The secretary is Mr. W. H. Hughes.

THE LIVERPOOL BIBLE CARRIAGE.

DURING the past seven years, hundreds of places have been visited in connection with the Liverpool Bible Carriage. Up to December 31 last, no fewer than [illegible] Bibles and Testaments were circulated, also considerably over a million Gospel books, leaflets, and Scripture cards.

Latterly, a Bible van has been worked, as well as the carriage. At present the stock of books is extremely small, but it is hoped that funds will soon be forthcoming with which to purchase copies of the Scriptures. Just now the work is being somewhat hindered through want of a larger stock.

For some months past it has seemed desirable to adopt a more populous district than Worcester as the centre of operations, and at last the way has been opened for settling down at Leeds. In future, communications should be addressed to Northcote Willy, 66, Cambridge-avenue, Chapeltown-road, Leeds.

◆

NOTES FROM THE NORTH.

GLASGOW HOME MISSION UNION.

IN his annual report of this Union, Mr. P. B. Bryce stated that in no former year had he received so many reports from associated congregations. During the year over 1000 have been induced to attend the several mission meetings, fully 600 have been led to attend church, while 319 have been added to church membership. These figures refer exclusively to those who were previously non-churchgoers. Rev. R. Hood bore testimony to the value of the Mission as an adjunct of church work.

RELIGIOUS TRACT AND BOOK SOCIETY.

At the annual meeting of this Society, held in the Christian Institute, Glasgow, the secretary, Mr. A. Ferguson, said the corporteurs number thirteen, and their sales for the past year amount to £1,603. Dr. Fergus Ferguson warmly commended the Society's work, and said that while the word colporteur meant "a man who carries his goods round his neck," it was true of the agents of that Society that they carried their goods round their hearts. Rev. T. Somerville described the colporteurs as constituting the university of the fireside. Personally great influence had been wielded over him by a colporteur in his native village. Sir Michael Connal emphasised the value of colportage work in country districts.

TRACT SOCIETY OF CHINA.

There was a good attendance at the annual meeting in Glasgow, of the Book and Tract Society of China. Rev. W. Campbell, of Formosa, in an interesting address, related how the publications of the Society had materially assisted him in his missionary work. The books of the Society find an entrance where it would be impossible for a missionary to gain admission. The printed messenger efficiently supplements the labours of the few living teachers. The system of free distribution of Bibles and books has long ceased in China, and the people are eager to buy them. Mr. J. J. Keswick, of Shanghai, pointed out the value of the Society's labours, inasmuch as the sources of knowledge among the Chinese are impure.

CARRUBBERS' CLOSE MISSION.

On Monday week a crowded audience assembled at the annual meeting of the Carrubbers' Close Mission Gospel Temperance Society, held in Edinburgh; Mr. T. R. Marshall presided. The report presented by Mr. G. A. Barclay stated that over 1000 new members had been pledged during the year, and that from January to December their meetings had crowded the large hall. Rev. J. J. Mackay, of Glasgow, stated that three out of every four ministers in the Free Church are total abstainers. He had resolutely set his face against receiving liquor-sellers into the Church, and was determined, rather than do so, to resign his church, and enter upon an independent charge, with full liberty to proclaim the whole mind of God on the question. All the speakers severely criticised the licensing clauses of the Local Government Bill.

HITCHIN COLPORTEUR MISSION.—J. Rennie, agent of the Edinburgh Tract Society, has, during the past sixteen years of his work in this district, sold and distributed fifty tons of literature, [illegible] volumes, [illegible] periodicals and small books, and 2,500,000 tracts—in all about £10,[illegible] worth.

The Christian.

MAY 4, 1888.

CONTENTS.

Lord Balfour of Burleigh 1
The Primitive Faith 2
"The Real Old Gospel" 3
The Present Position 3
College Teaching 3
Abraham: God's Friend 4
"Not To-Night" 5
American Notes 6
A Hive of Christian Workers 6
Unity, Evangelism, Money 6
Chinese School Children 7
Street Scenes in China 7
Happy Sunday Afternoons 8
Notes from the North 8
May Meetings 13
Evangelistic Notes 15
Notes and Comments 16
The Down-Grade Compromise 10
The Salvation Army 20
Progress in Bassim 20
Conference on Revivals 20
John and his Pigeons 25
A Glance at Singapore 25
Mildmay Conference 26

PRELIMINARY NOTICE.

GOVERNMENT VERSUS
GOD IN INDIA.

A GREAT PUBLIC MEETING

To demand from Lord Cross, the Indian Secretary, the Instantaneous and Unconditional Repeal of the awful system described in Mr. Alfred S. Dyer's Letters published in "THE CHRISTIAN," will be held in

EXETER HALL, LONDON
On FRIDAY EVENING, May 18,

Under the auspices of the Gospel Purity Association.

Chair to be taken by F. W. Crossley, Esq., J.P., of Manchester, who will be supported by Missionaries, Clergy, and Ministers of all denominations. Amongst others, the following have promised to speak;—Mrs. Josephine E. Butler, Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, M.A., Mr. R. C. Morgan, and Mr. James B. Wookey. Several of the Indian Bishops (who have lately strongly memorialized Government on this subject) will also be invited to take part.

All willing to help in making this Meeting one that Lord Cross will not dare to ignore, should communicate at once with Mr. Joyce, the Secretary of the Gospel Purity Association's Department for the Abolition of the State Regulation of Vice. Copies of Mr. Dyer's Letters for distribution, and Notices of the Meeting, can be obtained from him Gratis.

MAURICE GREGORY

(Acting as Hon. Gen. Sec. during Mr. A. S. Dyer's absence in India).

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS.

The ARCHBISHOP of YORK says of the

OXFORD BIBLE FOR TEACHERS:

"The notion of including in one volume all the helps that a clergyman or teacher would be likely to want for the study of the Bible has never been realised before with the same success."

THE OXFORD BIBLE FOR TEACHERS

IT contains supplementary HELPS TO THE STUDY OF THE BIBLE, which have been carefully Revised and Enlarged from time to time by Dr. STUBBS, Bishop of Chester; Dr. EDWIN PALMER, Archdeacon of Oxford; Dr. ANGUS, and other eminent scholars. The scientific information was prepared under the supervision of Professors ROLLESTON, WESTWOOD, LAWSON, and EARLE.

IS NOW ISSUED in Twelve Sizes, with the Text arranged in each so as to correspond page for page with all the others. Seven Sizes are printed on best Rag-made Printing Paper, and vary in price from 3s. to 45s. Five Sizes are printed on thin opaque INDIA PAPER, and are EXTREMELY LIGHT AND THIN. They vary in weight from 12½ to 22 oz., and in price from 7s. to 40s.

The Rev. C. H. SPURGEON says of the

OXFORD BIBLE FOR TEACHERS.

"If you want to buy a New Bible and want the VERY BEST, write for a list of the OXFORD BIBLES FOR TEACHERS."

THE SALE ALREADY EXCEEDS

NINE HUNDRED THOUSAND.

LONDON: HENRY FROWDE, OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS
WAREHOUSE, AMEN CORNER, E.C.

LONDON ASSOCIATION [illegible] MORAVIAN MISSIONS.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

Will be held on FRIDAY, MAY 4, 1888 in EXETER HALL (Council Room). The Chair will be taken at 3.30 p.m. by the Right Hon. LORD EBURY. Speakers: The Rev. JOHN BENNETT, D.D.; Lieut.-Col. PASKE, R.E.; H. C. NISBETT, Esq., and others.

THE ANNUAL SERMON

Will be preached (D.V.) on THURSDAY (Ascension Day), MAY 10, 1888, at 11.30 (noon), in PORTMAN CHAPEL, PORTMAN SQUARE, W., by the Rev. H. W. WEBB-PEPLOE, M.A. (Vicar of St. Paul's, Onslow-square).

Office: 29, Ely-place, London.

By ANNA SHIPTON.

Cloth gilt (suitable for presentation) 2s. 6d.
CHEAP EDITION, tinted covers, 1s.; cloth, 1s. 6d.

WAITING HOURS

WITH

"The Hungry, and Weary, and Thirsty in the Wilderness."

CONTENTS.

WAITING FOR THE SET TIME.
WAITING FOR GUIDANCE.
WAITING AND WATCHING.
WAITING FOR SERVICE.
WAITING AFTER FAILURE.
WAITING FOR DELIVERANCE.

NEW AND REVISED EDITION.
Cloth, gilt edges (suitable for presentation), 2s. 6d.
CHEAP EDITION, tinted covers, 1s.; cloth, 1s. 6d.

GOD'S MESSENGERS;

or, The Lost Blessing.

CONTENTS.

THE LAND OF PROMISE.
THE FIRST-RIPE GRAPES.
"JESUS ONLY."
IMPERFECT OBEDIENCE.
HIDDEN RICHES OF SECRET PLACES.
THE NET AND THE SNARE.
LIMITING THE LORD.
THE TREASURES OF DARKNESS.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, Paternoster-bldgs.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

JUST PUBLISHED.

WHITHER ARE WE DRIFTING? OR,

The Progress of England Rome-wards.

By the Right Hon. LORD ROBERT MONTAGU,

Author of "Recent Events—and a Clue to Their Solution;" "Reasons for Leaving the Romish Church;" &c., &c.

CONTENTS.

The Present Attitude of the English Church.
A Personal Retrospect.
The Daemones.
Tombs or Shrines.
Reverence of Relics.
Worship of Images.
Pagan Rites and Worship.
Lighted Candles.
Holy Water.
On Fastings.
The Early Christians and Paganism.
The Adulteration of Christianity.
The "Pontifex Maximus."
Closing Words.

Price 2d. 12 copies sent post free for 2s.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

By D. L. MOODY.

HEAVEN.

ITS HOMES, ITS INHABITANTS, ITS RICHES, ITS REWARDS.

Presentation Edition: Cloth bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

[illegible]

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.

THE FAITHFUL SAYING

A SERIES OF GOSPEL ADDRESSES.

Presentation Edition: Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"These Addresses are admirable examples of the readiest way to reach the hearts of men with the truths of Christ."

General Baptist Magazine.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; cloth limp, 1s. 6d.

THE WAY TO GOD.

A [illegible] WAY OF [illegible].

Presentation Edition: [illegible] 2s. 6d.

Cheap Editions: Tinted covers, 1s.; cloth limp, 1s. 6d.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, Paternoster-bldgs.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS' &c., Whitechapel, E.

Received with many thanks from "A Friend," Clothing; Transfer per Langworthy Fund, per "Psalm xxxvii.", 15s.

The Infant Day Nursery. Free Ragged Day Schools. Rations of Food to Hungry Children. Boys' Industrial Classes. Children's Services. Band of Hope. Sunday Schools. Industrial Classes for Lads. Special work amongst Rough Boys. Meetings, Classes, Tea-room, Reading-room, &c., for Elder Girls and Young Women. Lodging House Services. Temperance Meetings. Bible Classes. Home for Motherless Girls. Country Homes for Drooping Men, Women, Children, Mothers and their Babes. Other Missionary Agencies in operation.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 66, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to GEORGE HOLLAND, The Ragged Schools, George Yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS AND MISSION,

High Street, Whitechapel, E.

D.V., The THIRTY-FOURTH ANNUAL MEETING will be held in the LARGE ROOM, GEORGE YARD, on Tuesday Evening, May 8, at Eight o'clock.

The Right Hon. THE EARL OF HARROWBY will preside. Doors open at 7.30.

George Holland will gladly forward Tickets to friends requiring them.

THE BENEVOLENT OR

STRANGERS' FRIEND SOCIETY.

Treasurer, Ald. Sir R. N. Fowler, Bart., M.P.
J. H. Anderson, Esq., Chairman.
Clarence Smith, Esq., J.P., Hon. Secretary.

For 102 years this Institution has visited and relieved the destitute sick, by an entirely unpaid agency, consisting of over 240 Christian men and women.

Funds are urgently needed.

The Committee will be thankful for the Society being remembered in the testamentary arrangements of the benevolent.

Office of the Society, 52, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

APPEAL FOR THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, Portslade-by-Sea, Sussex.—The Iron Church in which the congregation worship has been used in four places for forty years, and is rapidly decaying. Messrs. Smith, Portslade, have given a site for a permanent building in the midst of 5 000 people, chiefly poor, and in great need of an evangelical ministry. Friends have raised £150 towards the £1,200 required. The church was formed four years ago by the present minister, and has 143 members. An earnest appeal is made to aid this infant church in its present effort. Subscriptions will be thankfully received by the Minister, Rev. JOHN THORNBERRY, Portslade-by-Sea, Sussex; Messrs. Hall, Bevan, West & Hall, The Union Bank, North-street, Brighton; or by Morgan & Scott.

PARIS CITY MISSION. — CHANTILLY.—An offer is made of £5 per annum, if others will raise £45 annually, to enable the Paris City Mission to employ a second English Missionary to visit amongst the jockeys, stable lads, and grooms at Chantilly (the French Newmarket). A suitable agent is ready to commence the good work under the superintendence of the Rev. W. GIBSON, who will supply the other £50 per annum required for the evangelist's support.—J. M. WEYLLAND, Esq., 31, Carlton-hill, St. John's-wood, N.W. (hon. sec. for England), will thankfully acknowledge subscriptions, supply reports, and any information.

"McALL MISSION" in France.—A Special Meeting will be held in Bloomsbury Chapel, on Monday, May 7, at 8 p.m., for the designation of Dr. H. J. BENHAM, to work in connection with the Mission. Addresses by the Rev. James Baillie (pastor of the church), Dr. H. J. Benham, and the Rev. Robert McAll (Representative of the Mission in England). Collection for Mission Funds.

ZENANA MEDICAL COLLEGE, 58, St. George's-road, S.W. The Committee plead for funds on behalf of a distressed Protestant Irish Lady, who earnestly desires to devote herself to Zenana Missionary Work.—Readers of CHRISTIAN, £2.

Hon. Sec., Dr. GRIFFITH.

£30 IS OFFERED by a Friend towards a building debt of £180 on the Mission Hall in Saltley, provided the remainder be obtained by June 21. This debt is a great burden and hindrance. We earnestly plead for help that this offer may be accepted and the debt extinguished.—J. LONGLEY, M.A., Saltley Vicarage, Birmingham; J. PARTRIDGE, Treasurer, Highfield-road, Saltley.

THE COMMITTEE of the Ladies' Samaritan Society, National Hospital for the Paralysed and Epileptic, Queen-square, Bloomsbury, earnestly plead for help in aid of the poorer patients and their families. Contributions in money and clothing will be gratefully acknowledged. Trousers and coats are much needed.

CONVALESCENT HOMES, at Bournemouth and Sandgate.—For particulars apply to Mr. JOHN JAMES JONES, Director of the London Samaritan Society, 98, High-street, Homerton, London, E.

WOMEN'S MEDICAL MISSION, Midwifery Branch, 143, Clapham-road. Monthly Nurse, disengaged April 15 next. Appointments in town at a day's notice.

SECRETARY, M. M. Branch, as above.

DIVINE HEALING and Power for Service.—Meetings conducted by the Rev. JOHN ALLEN or his workers. Bishopsgate (32, Spital-square), Tuesdays, 7.30 p.m. Camberwell Gate (The Hall, Horsley-street). Tuesdays, 7 p.m. Hackney (Trinity Church, Triangle, Mare-street), Sundays, 3 p.m.; Mondays, 7 p.m.; on Fridays, Baptism of the Spirit, 7 p.m.

Postal address, Balclutha Lodge, Southgate, N.

Educational.

MORAVIAN LADIES' SCHOOL, Bedford.—Accommodation for thirty boarders and eighteen day scholars. Pupils prepared for Cambridge Local and R.A.M. examinations.—For terms and all particulars, apply to Miss SEIFFERTH Principal.

EDUCATION.—High-class School for Young Ladies.—Principal, Mrs. HALE, A.C.P. and F.S.Sc. London, 1, Carlton-mansions, Clapham-rise, London.—Visiting masters, certificated governesses, and careful personal supervision with home comforts. Pupils prepared for any examination. Instruction made pleasant, and no overworking countenanced. French, German, Latin, drawing, class-singing, and drilling are included in the school fees, which are moderate. Highly recommended by parents of pupils, and Rev. C. H. Spurgeon. Prospectus and testimonials on application to Principal.

"Balham, May 29, 1880.

"I am very reluctant to recommend schools, because I am not always able to judge of the interior arrangements; but in this case I have the utmost pleasure in standing as reference. I can highly commend Mrs. Hale, and have the greatest confidence in her capacity, management, and character, having known her for several years."

C. H. SPURGEON.

MALVERN, FONTHILL HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL FOR GIRLS. Careful training and home comforts. Resident English and foreign governesses. Visiting professors. Vacancy for a student on half terms.—Principals, the Misses GEATER.

EXETER.—Rougemont School, 5, Bradninch-place, Principal, Miss WREFORD.—Pupils prepared for Oxford, Cambridge, and Trinity College Examinations. Careful Christian training. Home comforts. Terms moderate.

OCKBROOK MORAVIAN LADIES' SCHOOL, established eighty years. Pupils successfully prepared for the public examinations. Particularly healthy situation. Term will commence May 4.—Apply for particulars to

Miss OSBORNE, Ockbrook, Derby.

FINISHING SCHOOL for Gentlemen's Daughters. Refined, Christian home-life. Careful moral training. High-class instruction. French and German habitually spoken. — Miss ESSER, Rockfield, Lansdowne-road, East Croydon, Surrey.

A LADY WISHES to recommend an old-established School for the daughters of Gentlemen, situated in one of the healthiest suburbs in the south-west of London. Large modern house, with good garden and tennis court. The Principals, who belong to the Evangelical Church of England, take great interest in the religious and moral training of their pupils, giving them also a sound education, combined with home comforts. Resident foreign governess, visiting masters.—For prospectus, apply to

Mrs. SPENCER, 14, Beauchamp-place, Brompton.

HIGH-CLASS CHRISTIAN SCHOOL for the Daughters of Gentlemen.—Miss PENN receives a limited number of pupils. Efficient resident governesses and visiting masters. Individual Christian influence. Home comforts. Large house and garden. Entire charge taken of pupils from abroad. Languages and music specialities. Young Ladies are also received to pursue certain studies only, or to take lessons in dressmaking, cooking, &c.

St. John's de Ocklynge, Eastbourne.

HIGH CLASS CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.—School situated in one of the healthiest suburbs of S.W. London. A small number of young ladies, resident pupils only. Refined and Christian influence. Careful mental and moral culture. University Professors attend. Special advantages for modern languages and accomplishments. Preparation for Local examinations when desired. Entire charge of pupils from abroad.—PRINCIPAL, care of Marshall Brothers, 10, Paternoster-row, E.C.

DUSSELDORF ON THE RHINE.—In a highly educated German family, a few Ladies will find comfortable home, pleasant society, best opportunity to study Conserv. music, painting, and German. Terms £5 a month. Highest English references.

Mrs. HAAG, Marschallstrasse 4.

SEASIDE EDUCATION. — High-class Home School for a few Girls. Thorough teaching; Christian training. Highly recommended by parents of pupils. One vacancy on reduced terms.

The Misses ROBINSON, 5, Sussex-place, Southsea.

SOUTH COAST.—A Christian Home with Superior Education is offered for Girls by a Lady resuming scholastic work. Terms on application. References to former patrons and parents of pupils.—E., care of Miss Lance, 70, Tranquil Vale, Blackheath.

EDUCATIONAL HOME for Girls, combining a first-class education, including languages and accomplishments, with systematic training in light domestic work and cooking. Evangelical ministry. Pupils prepared for the College of Preceptors' examinations. Inclusive fee 12 guineas a term, payable in advance.

W. S. C., 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street, E.C.

HEALTH AND EDUCATION among the Surrey hills. Christian home life, with carefully superintended studies.—Misses SHRIMPTON & GERDS, Chertsey House, Redhill.

GERMAN PASTOR receives one or two sons of Gentlemen. Personal care. Christian influence. Happy home. Healthy situation. Terms moderate. Highest references in London.

PASTOR FÜRER, Cassel, Prussia, Germany.

HOME SCHOOL for Girls. Limited number of Boarders. Good education, based on Bible teaching, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness." Pupils prepared for the various Exams. Kindergarten for Juniors. Terms inclusive. Recommended by R. C. Morgan and parents of pupils.—Mrs. SILVESTER, Clarence House, Pellatt-grove, Wood Green.

BRIGHTON.—A few vacancies in a High-class School for Girls. Healthy and pleasant situation. Home comforts. Every educational advantage. Professors in attendance. Terms moderate.

Misses NORTON, Farndon House, Stanford-road.

MOIRA HOUSE LADIES' SCHOOL,

THE MEADS, EASTBOURNE.

Principals: Miss CONNAH, Mr. and Miss INGHAM, late of Moira College, Bournemouth. References to well-known gentlemen and to parents of pupils. Prospectuses on application.

EDUCATION for Young Ladies.—Glen Lyon, 78, West-hill, Sydenham. Resident foreign governesses. Professors regularly attend. Pupils prepared for the Public Examinations. —Terms and references on application to Miss SYKES.

INDIAN AND OTHER CHILDREN.—A Lady wishes to undertake charge of children to be brought up and educated with her two little girls, 8 and 9. Would also willingly receive younger children. Detached house, with large garden. Very healthy. Near Winchester. Particulars from Mrs. B., The Elms, Winchester.

HOME SCHOOL, Derbyshire.—A Lady of experience receives twelve pupils. Religious teaching the first object. Refined habits and careful training. Advanced music. Foreign governess. House healthful; surrounded by charming scenery. Reference kindly permitted to Rev. C. Guest, Burton-on-Trent, and others.

B., The Ferns, Duffield, Derby.

BRIGHTON.—2, Sussex-square.—Miss GOULTY'S Educational Home for Young Ladies. Terms vary according to the individual requirements, and the accomplishments needed. The Rev. J. B. Figgis, of Brighton, is kindly willing to bear his testimony to the School. Pupils can prepare for the Cambridge Examinations.

CLAREMONT HOUSE, 14, Asylum-road, Peckham, S.E. Mlle. VASSILY receives a limited number of Young Ladies to board and educate, under personal supervision. Pupils from abroad can remain during the vacations. Church of England.

A LADY WISHES to recommend a School for Girls, at Upper Norwood. Experienced certificated teachers. High School system. Happy home for boarders.—For particulars, apply to West View, Beulah-hill, Upper Norwood, S.E.

EDUCATION. — Choice of 100 Schools and Families (gratis) in England, France, Germany, &c. Parents seeking really good schools, governesses, High School teachers, or companions, should apply for prospectuses and reliable information to Mrs. EDWIN HOOPER, Governess Institute and Home, Compton-terrace, London, N. Established several years.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL, near Brighton.—Special attention to delicate backward boys. Home comforts. Christian training. Visiting masters. Preparation for Public Schools. Twenty guineas. Indian children received.—LADY PRINCIPAL, Hamilton Lodge, Hurstpierpoint, Sussex.

HIGHBURY HOUSE SCHOOL, St. Leonards-on-Sea.—Boys received from 6 to 18 years of age. Three separate Departments. Juniors under the care of Ladies, Seniors under a staff of seven Resident Masters, thoroughly qualified to prepare for commerce, public schools, or universities. Delicate boys specially cared for. Summer term commences May 5. Cricket, athletic sports, gymnastics, sea bathing, and swimming.—For prospectus, apply to Mrs. DUFF, the Lady Principal.

EDUCATION IN HIGHGATE.—Rev. G. D. BARTLET, M.A., receives ten boarded pupils (from ten years) at his residence, South-grove, Highgate. Superior home, individual attention, thorough grounding, and careful Christian training. Highgate is strongly recommended by the medical profession. Reference permitted to Revs. J. M. Gibbon, Highgate, and Robert Balgarnie, 51, Crouch-hill, Crouch-end. Terms from 20 guineas per term.

MANY CHRISTIAN PARENTS, who at the present time are seeking a School at which to place their Sons, are invited to write to the undermentioned, who is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMAN'S BOARDING SCHOOL, where the constant aim of the Principal is to train those committed to his care in the fear of the Lord; and by the power of Gospel teaching maintain a Christian tone among the boys, combining this with a thorough and first-class Education.

The Premises are advantageously situated upon HIGH GROUND, NEAR and WITH VIEWS OF THE SEA, on the South Coast, a short run from London, and afford especial facilities for outdoor recreation.

Prospectus and Papers of Examinations passed and honours gained will be forwarded on application, together with a BOOK OF some of the TESTIMONIALS presented by parents of present and past scholars.

Dr. THORN, Paddington, London.

NEW COLLEGE,

Cliftonville, Margate.

Head Master: REV. G. HUGH JONES, F.A.S.

Latin, Greek, French, German, and thorough English. Preparation for Exams., public schools and commerce. Resident foreign master. Decided Christian training. Splendid premises, close to sea. Moderate fees.

BRIGHTON.— EDUCATION.— Mr. ALFRED CLARK, B.A. (Lond.), receives about twenty Sons of Gentlemen, from seven to fourteen years of age. Terms from 45 guineas. Pupils are thoroughly grounded in English subjects, Latin, Greek, French, German, and mathematics, and have been successful at Cambridge Local and other Examinations. Personal care, Christian influence, and a healthy, happy home.—85, Buckingham-road, Brighton.—Referees: Mrs. W. Poole Balfern, Brighton; Rev. F. Cruse, Christ Church Vicarage, Worthing; Rev. J. B. Figgis, Brighton; Mr. and Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness, Harley House, Bow-road, London; Rev. W. Haslam, 66, Marina, St. Leonard's. Term commences May 4.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL for Little Boys, conducted by a Lady of great experience, and with high recommendations. Very comfortable home for the children of parents going abroad.

PRINCIPAL, Heath, Ilkley, Yorkshire.

STANLEY HOUSE, Cliftonville, Margate.—The Principal (A. E. COZENS, M.C.P.), assisted by a graduate of London University, seeks by careful, individual attention, to secure the well-being of each Pupil. Drilling, dumb-bells, class-singing, Conv. French, German, &c., are included in the school course. Preparation for Exams. Terms moderate and inclusive.

CLIFTON, BRISTOL.—Pupils received in residence. Home comforts. Careful personal Christian training and instruction. Locality noted for its great natural attractions and exceptional healthfulness. Open Brethren.

Mr. HOWELL, Aberdeen-road.

EAST CLIFF SCHOOL, Wootton-gardens, Bournemouth. Head Master, Mr. J. H. Tuckwell (Intermediate London University).—The course of instruction is adapted to prepare pupils for commercial or professional life. Comfortable Christian home. Terms moderate. References kindly permitted to the Rev. J. ANGUS, D.D., The College, Regent's park, London.

